Heights starts SafeVisitor system

The REPORTER

Hamilton Heights School Corporation has implemented a new visitor management system as part of its ongoing effort to maintain a safe, respectful and welcoming environment in which all students can learn. The SafeVisitor screening system will enhance building entrance security to better ensure every visitor is permitted and authorized to be in school buildings.

All visitors to any Hamilton Heights school building will be asked to present an ID, such as a driver's license or state issued photo ID, or a passport.

Individuals visiting any building for lunch, classroom parties, as a school volunteer, and/or field trip chaperone will require a Level I National Screen that includes SSN and address verification, and checks against the following: National Criminal Database, National Sex Offender Registry, County Criminal Search, and Indiana Participating.

This background check also includes the Arrest Alert program, which will notify HHSC of all arrests for active visitors. The cost for this background check is $14.95 and is valid for two years from approval date. The background check and approval process can take between three to six business days. The link to begin this background check can be found at hhschuskies.org under the "For Parents" tab.

Noblesville Fire receives Lifeline EMS Gold Award

The REPORTER

The Noblesville Fire Department Emergency Medical Services recently received the American Heart Association's Mission: Lifeline® Gold Award implementing life-saving practices for patients who experience severe heart attacks.

The Noblesville Fire Department was honored for its efforts to improve the Macky systems of care for patients with acute coronary syndrome, including both ST elevation myocardial infarction (STEMI) and non-ST-elevation acute coronary syndrome (NSTE-ACS) heart attacks. Every year, more than 250,000 people experience STEMI heart attacks, which are the most deadly type of heart attack caused by a blockage of blood flow to the heart. This type of heart attack requires timely treatment, and EMS providers play a vital role as they perform 12-lead ECGs, which measure the electrical activity of the heart and can help determine if a heart attack has occurred.

Westfield Lantern Awards next month

The REPORTER

Since 1982 when it was called Community Night, the Westfield Chamber of Commerce has held a community awards dinner and presentation to honor Westfield's exceptional residents and businesses. In 2007, the event became known as The Lantern Awards and is held each September. The chamber's awards follow a lantern theme with the individual awards being named for the parts of a lantern to honor Westfield's history and ties to the Underground Railroad.

Also recognized are individuals from Westfield Washington Schools, the City of Westfield, Westfield Public Works and Westfield police and fire departments.

Nominations are accepted from the public and members of the chamber's board of directors evaluate and select the chamber's recipients. The remaining recipients are chosen by their respective organization.

OneZone Chamber of Commerce president says stop tolerating intolerance

If there's a gift we've been given from the recent abhorrent vandalism at the Shaary Tefilla Temple, it's the lessthan-subtle reminder that prejudice and hatred isn't gone. Not from the world, not from our country and not from our communities.

As Governor Holcomb has shown, it's provided some impetus for us to address the fact that Indiana remains one of only five states in the country without a hate crimes bill. While we'd argue it's pretty disappointing we need any more reasons to get off that short list, it's focused our attention, and provided us with an opportunity to get something done. We support the governor's view.

There are those who will counter that no one can legislate fairness, nor eliminate bigotry with a law. True. Others will argue that we need a lot fewer laws, not more. Arguably, also true.

But even if the recent incident doesn't upset your own personal principles or strike you as in conflict with the sense of fairness our country has strived for centuries to portray, inclusion is a business issue. Those businesses we hope to attract to Indiana, as well as those we hope to retain, want to hire the best and brightest employees they can find. Even the perception that Indiana chooses to dismiss the significance of an inclusive culture can be detrimental to our economic development efforts.

Indiana already suffers from a lack of strong population growth. We're growing at almost half the average of other states. There is no reason our culture should be labeled as something it's not, simply because we want to avoid legislation that makes it clear we don't choose nor support inclusion and

Simply put, Indiana won't make anybody's short list if we dismiss this need nor presume it doesn't matter. It does. Indiana should pass hate crimes legislation. We need to stop tolerating intolerance.

Make sure your college student has right insurance

The REPORTER

The week of Aug. 20 is the start of classes for most college students in Indiana. While your focus may be on your child's move and making sure their living space is a safe and comfortable, don't forget to review your insurance coverage with them so they are prepared in the event they need it. The Indiana Department of Insurance offers these tips to help you review and update your insurance policies to cover your college student.

Health Coverage Options
Staying on Parent's Plan. Your dependent child can be covered on your health insurance plan up to age 26. Check with your employer for specific date of discontinuation.

Federal Marketplace Plan. If you choose not to cover your under-26-yearold on your plan, he/she has the option to apply for a private health insurance plan through the Federal Market-place. Depending on your child's income, he/she may qualify for premium tax credits which lower costs on monthly premiums and out-of-pocket costs, or for Medicaid coverage. If your child doesn't have health coverage, there may be a fee for not being insured.

School Sponsored Health Plan. Many colleges and universities offer their own student health plans. Some of these plans have limitations as to what/where services they will cover. Check to see if the college your child is attending offers a plan for students. Pay attention to these tips:

• Make sure your student has a copy of relevant insurance cards.

 Make sure your student knows about obtaining referrals and approvals (if necessary) before seeking treatment.

• Make sure your student knows the impact on costs if he/she uses out-of-network healthcare providers.

• Check your plan provisions or speak with your insurer to find out what level of benefits is provided by your policy.

Homeowner's and Renter's Insurance

Living On Campus. If your student is younger than 24, enrolled in classes and living in on-campus student housing, your homeowners policy will likely extend to the belongings they take with them. Note that most homeowners insurance policies place limitations upon the amount of personal property coverage available for property located at residences other than the primary residence.

Living Off Campus. You should talk to your insurance agent about whether your homeowner's policy coverage will extend to the rental property. You should not rely on the landlord's insurance to cover your college student's possessions. The landlord's insurance most likely covers structural damage to the building and may even protect against damage caused by tenants. Coverage does not extend to your college student's personal property, nor does it protect him/her from being liable for damage they might cause to the building inadvertently (e.g., a kitchen fire or plumbing mishap).

Another important component of renters insurance is liability coverage, including personal liability and medical payments to others. Personal liability can provide much needed coverage if, for example, a claim is made or a suit is brought against your insured college student for damages because of bodily injury or property damage caused by a fire or accident in your college student's off-campus rental.

Renter's insurance also may provide necessary medical payments to others in the event a person on your insured college student's rental property becomes injured or an injury is caused by an animal owned by or in the care of your college student.

Pay attention to these tips:

• Consider adding a "rider" to provide extra coverage if your college student has unusually expensive items (e.g. electronics, musical instruments).

• Talk to your insurance agent to help determine if an additional rider is needed or renters policy is needed to best protect your college-bound student.

• It's also a good idea to have a detailed inventory of your student's possessions including purchase prices, model numbers and serial numbers. It will help you and your student should you have to file an insurance claim following a loss.

• Check out the NAIC myHOME Scr.APP.book application – it makes it easy for you to document your student's valuables, update their inventories and store the information for easy access after a disaster.

Auto Insurance

Taking a car to school. Check with your agent about the existing auto insurance policy – a significant move away from home can have an impact on your rates. Ask about the rates for the college's city and state before deciding whether to keep your student's car on the family's auto policy. Auto insurance coverage primarily follows the vehicle, rather than the driver. Therefore, it is important for students to understand that if they allow friends to borrow or drive their car, the coverage provided would come from the vehicle owner's insurance policy. Policies may also contain restrictions in coverage when an unlisted or unlicensed driver is operating the vehicle.

Leaving the car at home. If your student does not take a vehicle to school, you may want to check with your carrier to see if they offer a discount or revised rate. This may only apply if the student isn't driving the car while away at school and he/she is more than 100 miles away from the insured

Pay attention to these tips:

- Discuss expectations concerning use of the insured vehicle with your student before he/she leaves for college claims submitted under the policy may result in increased auto insurance rates.
- Notify the insurance company each semester if the student maintains good grades—maintaining a certain grade point average might make your child eligible for a good student discount.

Large-scale efforts helping pre-K teachers receive needed resources

StatePoint

Studies have shown that high-quality pre-K education better prepares children to achieve in school and makes them more likely to strive for higher vocational aspirations. It also has a positive impact on society. For every dollar spent on high-quality early education, society gains as much as $13 in long-term savings, according to a 2016 study by Nobel Laureate, James Heckman.

"Too many teachers struggle to access essential between the PNC Foundaclassroom resources," says Sally McCrady, chair and president of PNC Foundation. "Luckily, it's easier than ever to get involved in supporting local efforts to help pre-K teachers and their classrooms and students."

Large-scale efforts are being made to help more teachers, classrooms and children get the resources they need, such as science kits, books, art supplies and field trips. One example of this is a $5 million alliance

tion and DonorsChoose. org, a crowd-funding platform whereby teachers request the materials and experiences they need most for their classrooms, and donors can give to the vetted projects that inspire

Any person interested in helping pre-K teachers can access DonorsChoose. org and donate to a project.

'Though teachers often spend their own money on classroom supplies, they still need many more resources to provide a well-rounded, high-quality learning experience," says Yasmina S. Vinci, executive director, National Head Start Association (NHSA), a not-for-profit advocacy organization dedicated to supporting the Head Start community.

Major initiatives of this alliance include:

· Teacher Gift Cards: Every teacher who submitted a pre-K project request in the PNC footprint since April 4, 2017 received a $100 electronic gift card to be used on DonorsChoose. org. More than 3,700 public pre-K and Head Start teachers received the cards to support new projects.

· Spotlight: One outstanding early education teacher in most PNC markets has been honored as a Teacher Hero for his or her efforts and involvement in the alliance. All honorees received a $2,000 gift card to fund a project in their classrooms and a second $2,000 gift card to help seed other pre-K projects listed on DonorsChoose.org.

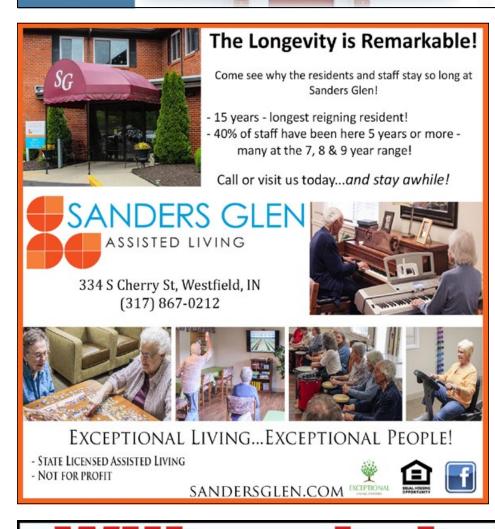

• PNC Volunteer Gift Cards: All PNC employees who volunteered for the early education initiative Grow Up Great in 2017 will receive a $50 electronic gift card to support pre-K project requests on DonorsChoose.org.

These resources are already having real-world impacts. Last year's campaign enabled nearly 244,000 preschool children across 21 states and the District of Columbia to receive new classroom materials and educational opportunities. More than 7,500 pre-K classroom projects benefited from the grant, which was made in support of PNC Grow Up Great, its $350 million early childhood education initiative. Teachers and donors can visit PNCGrowUpGreat. com/donorschoose more information.

"Because of these efforts, we can introduce our children to more activities and opportunities to learn more skills," says Chicago pre-K teacher, Denise Lopez-Gill. "The supplies that I have received have transformed our classroom environment."

Hamilton County is always in the conversation when it comes to the best cross country teams in the state, and this season will be no exception.

IndianaRunner.com, the respected website that reports on high school running, ranked six girls teams and six boys teams in its pre-season top 50.

Catholic is ranked No. 24, Westfield is No. 23, Noblesville is No. 11 and Fishers is No.

Carmel is ranked third, while Hamilton Southeastern is rated second. The website notes that the Royals have three runners back that placed in the top 20 in the Shelbyville semi-state, and those same three landed in the top 35 at the state meet: Senior Lulu Black (16th), sophomore Halle Hill (23rd) and senior Lilly Cummins (35th). Black and Hill were All-State runners.

Southeastern placed fifth at the state meet last year, and has added momentum this year with its girls track and field state championship. Black placed eighth in the 3200 run, while juniors Ellie Pedersen and Sam Alphin were part of HSE's state qualifying 4x800 relay.

Phoebe Bates returning for her junior season. Bates placed second individually at state last year, behind Greencastle's Emma Wilson. At the state track meet, the two stars traded state championships: Bates beat Wilson to win the 1600 run, then Wilson ran away with the 3200. Carmel does have several runners returning to back up Bates: Seniors Lindsey Roper and Izza Khurram and juniors Sydney Haines and Lily McAndrews.

The 'Hounds and the Royals will see each other plenty during the regular season, including at the Hamilton County meet on Aug. 28. But they won't meet during the post-season, as Southeastern and districtmate Fishers are being moved out of the Noblesville sectional.

The Royals and the Tigers are headed to the Pendleton Heights sectional. This isn't a new alignment; in fact, Southeastern ran in the Arabians' sectional for several years, and Fishers was in that sectional in 2006, the year the school re-opened. So the Royals and the Tigers are being moved back to their old stomping grounds after running in the local sectional (Carmel, then Noblesville) from 2007 to 2017.

The move also means a new route through the post-season. Those teams that First the girls: Going up the list, Guerin get out of the Pendleton sectional move on to the regional at Delta, then the semi-state at New Haven. Qualifiers from the Noblesville sectional stay at Noblesville for the regional, then go to Shelbyville for the semi-state. It would be at New Haven where HSE and Fishers could meet IndianaRunner's No. 1-ranked girls team, Fort Wayne Carroll. The Chargers blew through each level of the tournament before finishing second at state to Zionsville. The Eagles are No. 4 in IndianaRunner's rankings, with West Lafayette rated fifth.

> Fishers is sixth, and has five runners back from its state team. Senior Deborah Shera placed 29th to lead the way; other returning seniors are Teresa Kraft and Miya Wai, and juniors Abigail Carter and Emma Noblesville just missed the state meet As for the Greyhounds, they have last year by four points, placing seventh at the semi-state. While the Millers graduated Abi Little to Indiana University, all six of their semi-state runners are back. That includes seniors Aubrey Swart and Aubrie Deal, juniors Sophie Reichard and Taylor Gregory, and sophomores Bella Sharples-Gordon and Sophie Stahl. Junior Anna Hazelrigg will be another key runner for Noblesville.

"It's a fair ranking," said Millers coach Dennis Scheele. "We're better than we were last year."

Scheele said his team ran a time trial on Wednesday to compare to last year, and said that all of his runners have improved.

We had some girls really improve," said Scheele. "We got some depth. I'm really excited about the year."

Westfield also graduated a top runner in

Phil Shelby to be inducted in NHS Athletic Hall of Fame

Noblesville High School has announced that longtime wrestling coach Phil Shelby will be inducted into the Noblesville High School Athletic Hall of Fame's Class of 2019.

Coach Shelby started the wrestling program at Noblesville High School in 1962 and was the coach until 1984. He won nine sectionals while establishing a 202-73-3 record in dual meets. Many of Coach Shelby's wrestlers advanced to the state meet as individuals. He was also a longtime assistant for Jim Belden in a very successful NHS football program. Shelby is a member of the Indiana Wrestling Hall of Fame.

The induction ceremony for the Class of 2019 will take place on Jan. 19 at the boys varsity basketball game with Logansport.

Schemanske and Schroeder both ran in the regional and semi-state as individuals, with sophomores Bea Perez and Raegan Bohbrink making it to the regional. Junior Nicole Powers also returns.

BOYS OUTLOOK

ranks Carmel second on its pre-season list, with Fishers third.

The Greyhounds are the defending state champions, and while they graduated several seniors, there is always the expectation that Carmel will reload.

Among the returners with state experience are senior Calvin Bates and juniors Ben Miller and Will Murphy. Another junior, Ben Johnson, ran at the semi-state. The 'Hounds are pre-season second to Cathedral, a team they would first meet in the regional level, with the Irish running in the Brebeuf Jesuit sectional.

Hocker, who was second at state last year to Southeastern's Gabe Fendel, who triumphed in his senior year. Fendel is now at the season. Most everyone returns for GC, University of Colorado.

The Tigers are third on the pre-season list and now first among New Haven semistate teams. Fishers will be very experienced this year: While the Tigers graduated All-State runner Sam Kuhn, they have five seniors in the mix, including Ethan Meyer, who took 26th at state and just missed All-State honors.

Expect Meyer to be an All-State contender this season. Fellow seniors Alex Meyer, Thomas Brelage, and Quintin Goldman also ran at state last year, as did Will Clark, now a sophomore. Senior Dylan Arive will also be a key contributor.

Westfield is pre-season rated 19th, and will also be senior dominated. The Shamrocks just missed going to state last year,

Gabby Dilick, but returns four sophomores placing seventh at semi-state. Westfield's Central Douthit, Sam Novak, Max Gutwein, Gavin Clinkenbeard and Luke Tragesser. Sopho-

Hamilton Southeastern is listed 23rd on Guerin Catholic finished sixth in the IndianaRunner's roster. While Fendel is a tough runner to replace, the Royals have a nice amount of experience. Senior Grant Wilson placed 19th at the Noblesville regional and joined Fendel in advancing to semi-state individually. Other seniors back are Brady Jarosinski, Eric Carothers and James Rathburn.

Noblesville is ranked 25th pre-season. The Millers finished eighth at the regional In the boys division, IndianaRunner with a majority of freshmen, and they are now all sophomores with added experience: William Gregory, Andrew Anderson, Cole Kimmel and Travis Hickner. Seniors Blake Hipkiss and Nicholas Dombroski return, while senior Justin Amburgy had a solid track and field season.

> "By mid-season I think we'll be hitting on all cylinders," said Noblesville coach Kent Graham. "Our goal is to be strong by the end of the season and work our way through the early meets."

Guerin Catholic is 42nd on IndianaRunner's pre-season list. The Golden Eagles do have one of the best runners in the state, Cathedral's top returner is senior Cole senior Quinn Gallagher, who placed 16th at state and earned All-State honors.
