Security threat at Ruoff Home Mortgage Music Center in Noblesville ...

Rascal Flatts rushed off stage, fans evacuated

By JEFF JELLISON
Publisher

Law enforcement officials and representatives from Ruoff Home Mortgage Music Center aren't saying what caused the Rascal Flatts concert to end with the band being rushed off stage and the venue being evacuated.

The Reporter has learned there were multiple phone calls directly to Ruoff Music Center, deemed to be credible, indicating an explosive device may have been on site. Sources told The Reporter no one was injured as a direct result of the bomb threat. It is currently unknown if anyone was injured during the evacuation.

A statement issued by the Hamilton County Sheriff's Department reads, "As this is an open and active investigation, the Sheriff's Office has no further details, including the type of safety issue, available for release at this time."

Ruoff Music Center is located within the City of Noblesville; however, Noblesville Police Chief Kevin Jowitt said, "The Hamilton County Sheriff is responsible for policing and security at events." Jowitt declined further comment on the incident, saying only, "We are referring people to the Hamilton County Sheriff's office."

Concert promoter Live Nation issued the following statement, "Last night [Thursday] a safety concern presented itself during the Rascal Flatts' concert in Indianapolis. Venue staff and local officials followed standard protocols to ensure the safety of guests, the artist and staff. Law enforcement agencies are investigating the matter."

On Friday, the band stated, "Due to a security concern at the show last night [Thursday], standard procedures were quickly executed and everyone was able to safely leave the building. The safety of our fans, band and crew is always the top priority for us, so we are so thankful for everyone who jumped into action and for your understanding. We will be back soon!"

Fans in attendance at the 24,000-seat venue turned to social media with questions about why the Rascal Flatts' concert was cut short and fans forced to leave.

Jordan Bentley tweeted, "Don't blame @rascalflatts for how their concert ended.

They can't help that a few stupid people threatened the safety of everyone in the venue. I'd rather walk out disappointed that I didn't hear a couple songs than carried out on a stretcher or in a body bag. Great job RF!"

Caitlyn Conlon tweeted, "Something bad happened at Rascal Flatts tonight. Security guards had us scared. Told us things were not ok."

Ruoff did reopen Friday evening with the Jeff Beck, Paul Rogers and Ann Wilson performing.

Mayor Scott Fadness talks about his 2019 budget proposals with the Fishers City Council Finance Committee.

Fadness proposes 3 percent pay hike for city employees, also projects property tax increase

By LARRY LANNAN
LarryInFishers.com

As Fishers Mayor Scott Fadness reviewed his 2019 budget proposal before the City Council Finance Committee Wednesday night, he projects a 5.5 cent increase in the city's property tax rate. He told the council panel that this would fund debt on two fronts – paying for the Nickel Plate Trail construction and financing renovation projects for the city's fire stations in need of the work.

The mayor said a lot of the property tax rate increase is tied to the fire stations.

"We've built-in a pretty aggressive financial scenario for the fire stations, where we're basically building-in a $2.5 million annual payment to pay for the fire stations, so that we can get ahead of this and deal with it," Fadness told the council committee members.

The mayor is also proposing that a 3 percent pay increase be included in the budget for next year. The 3 percent raise would also apply to elected city officials.

Fadness is also recommending five new police officers to the force, with two of those five to be assigned as resource officers in Hamilton Southeastern Schools. He also wants council members to add three new firefighter positions.

The projections for the city tax rate show a slight decrease in years 2020 and 2021.

City Controller Lisa Bradford told the committee she ran some numbers on how much the rate increase would cost homeowners in 2019. She looked at a home with an assessed value of $208,000, and projects a tax increase of approximately $57 a year. Homes with a higher assessed valuation may hit the property tax cap, and that can get a bit more complicated.

Both Bradford and Fadness told the council panel that the largest driver of local property tax increases is not tied to the tax rate, but is created by an increase in the home's assessed valuation.

Fadness is pleased with what is projected in the revenue side of the 2019 budget, with assessed valuations of property in the city rising. The assessed value is expected to rise 5.3 percent in 2019, compared to a 3.7 percent increase in 2018.

Is anyone interested in the school board?

With only two weeks left in the filing period for candidates to be placed on the November ballot for school board, there are still a total of only 12 candidates for 18 seats on Hamilton County's six school boards. Why so few for such important positions?

FRED SWIFT
The County Line

There is more money spent on public education than in any other portion of local government. School elections are non-partisan, so candidates need not align with a political party.

Is it apathy, the low pay, or satisfaction with current operations of the schools that keeps more folks from wanting to run for school board? It's got to be one of the three.

With some of the recent issues, especially in Noblesville and Carmel, it is really hard to understand.

There are more well-qualified folks in this county than in most areas of the state, yet few seem to want to take the time to serve. It's really a rather poor reflection on our general public.

As of noon Thursday, Noblesville had yet to see a single candidate for the two seats at stake on the school board this year. Of course there is still time, and perhaps there will be more interest as the August 24 deadline approaches. Let's hope so.

In other schools districts, a contest shapes up in Carmel Clay District 3 where Eric Morris is challenging Michael Kerschner. Layla Spanenberg is so far unopposed in District 1, and in District 2, Pam Knowles has filed.

At Hamilton Heights there is but one candidate for each district seat at stake. Arnett Cooper is running at-large, Julie Davis is running in the Jackson Township district, and Doug Ozolins is unopposed in White River Township.

At Sheridan, the only candidate is Steven Dollahan in the Adams Township district.

In Westfield there are only two candidates: Thomas Lunsford in District 2 and Dan Thomas in District 4.

Southeastern has one contest. In District 2 Janet Pritchett and Frank Whelan have filed. In District 3 Michelle Fulhart is unopposed while in District 4 Bradley Banks is the lone candidate.

The REPORTER

The Indiana Department of Transportation has announced lane closures on State Road 32 on or around Aug. 20, weather permitting, for Morphe Construction to improve and modernize traffic signals at certain intersections.

Crews will close one lane in each direction at a time to complete the work.

The lane restrictions will be in place through November. Work will take place on SR 32 between Spring Mill and Moon-town roads at the following intersections:

106th Street, Eller Road construction should finish by year's end

By LARRY LANNAN
LarryInFishers.com

As many road projects reach completion around Fishers, including the Brooks School Road closure in the Geist area, many local residents are asking when the work will be complete in the areas of 106th Street and Eller Road. City officials say that construction is expected to be finished by the end of the year, with the currently closed areas around 106th and Eller Road reopened. The construction is taking a long time because utility connections are at the heart of this project. INDOT finished its work on the Brooks School Road Bridge recently, reopening that stretch of the road. The roundabout at 131st Street and Cumberland Road was open to traffic well before the start of school.

TODAY'S BIBLE READING

And some fell among thorns, and the thorns grew up, and choked it, and it yielded no fruit. And other fell on good ground, and did yield fruit that sprang up and increased; and brought forth, some thirty, and some sixty, and some an hundred. And he said unto them, He that hath ears to hear, let him hear. And when he was alone, they that were about him with the twelve asked of him the parable. And he said unto them, Unto you it is given to know the mystery of the kingdom of God: but unto them that are without, all these things are done in parables: That seeing they may see, and not perceive; and hearing they may hear, and not understand; lest at any time they should be converted, and their sins should be forgiven them.

How accurate is your weather forecast?

StatePoint

The weather is not just an idle topic for chit chat. It matters. Particularly when you have a vested business interest in the outcome, or you simply want to make plans for the next few hours or days.

These days, there are innumerable sources for weather forecasts widely available. Unfortunately, these sources don't always say the same thing. So, how do you know which weather forecasting service or app is offering dependable information you can trust?

According to AccuWeather founder, president and chairman Dr. Joel Myers, choosing the most accurate source of weather forecasts and warnings will go a long way to help keep people and their families safe and help to protect businesses' property and assets as well as minimize liability.

"The greater the accuracy of weather forecasts and warnings, the better the decisions people and businesses can make in the face of hazardous weather events, the more lives are saved, the more property is protected, and the more losses are reduced," said Myers.

The good news is that weather forecasts are becoming more accurate, thanks to improved data-gathering technology, computers powerful enough to analyze it faster than ever before and better algorithms. Personal technology has also made it possible for individuals to get more localized weather reports, with smartphone apps able to provide weather predictions based on a user's exact GPS location.

Despite improved capabilities and technologies, many weather providers continue to regularly cough up inaccurate or misleading forecasts to consumers and businesses relying on them. Why? Sometimes it's due to a flawed algorithm. Other times, it's a lack of high-quality data, the systemic pessimism or optimism of a particular provider for fear of getting it wrong, or a unilateral system for analysis that relies on computer modeling alone to generate a forecast. While artificial intelligence and supercomputers can perform certain aspects of forecasting, human meteorologists play a vital role in helping average people make sense of it all, say experts.

All weather apps are not equal. In the case of AccuWeather, a leading provider of weather forecasts and warnings globally, leveraging "consensus forecasting," has proven beneficial, whereby humans and computer models make accurate predictions, and then human meteorologists interpret and communicate the impact. Indeed, a recent report conducted by independent industry tracker ForecastWatch, analyzing the accuracy of six top global weather forecast providers, reconfirmed that AccuWeather was the clear winner in forecast accuracy and had the highest margin of statistical forecast accuracy in each of three areas it verified: High temperature, precipitation and wind speed.

Available for free on all Android and iOS devices, the award-winning AccuWeather app, can be a good resource before you leave home for the day, connecting to desktop computers and TVs, as well as when you're on-the-go and using a smartphone or other mobile device, offering push notifications and 24/7 access to weather data and other weather-related tips and resources. It also provides MinuteCast precipitation forecasts, updated minute by minute, up to two hours ahead.

When it comes to weather forecasts, the powerful combination of accuracy and detail — both in location and time — as well as a strong emphasis on how predicted weather conditions will impact users, provides an added layer of insurance for better planning and better living.

How to help military, overseas citizens vote in midterm elections

StatePoint

For Service members and their families stationed away and U.S. citizens living abroad, family and friends are vital connections to life back home. During the 2018 midterm elections, you can be an important source of voting information, especially for 18-24-year-olds voting absentee for the first time.

An easy way to help loved ones in the military or abroad to vote absentee is by referring them to the Federal Voting Assistance Program (FVAP), which provides tools and resources to ensure that American citizens who want to vote can do so from anywhere in the world.

Voters can visit FVAP.gov to find state-by-state official registration and ballot request deadlines, as well as information on completing a Federal Post Card Application (FPCA), which is the registration and ballot request form, or the Federal Write-In Absentee Ballot (FWAB), the backup ballot. Both forms are available at FVAP.gov and can be filled out with the online assistant or by hand.

For additional information, visit FVAP.gov, email Vote@FVAP.gov or call 1-800-438-VOTE (8683).

The sooner voters register and request their ballots, the greater the likelihood they can successfully vote. That's because ballots must be sent back before individual state deadlines, which vary by state.

NOBLESVILLE, CARMEL, WESTFIELD, SHERIDAN, HAMILTON HEIGHTS, FISHERS, UNIVERSITY, GUERIN CATHOLIC, HAMILTON SOUTHEASTERN

Start of the regular season is next week...

Football scrimmages take place around the county

Football fans around Indiana finally got to see their favorite high school teams in action on Friday, as scrimmages took place.

Four local teams stayed in Hamilton County for their scrimmages, with the other four going on the road. Noblesville faced off against North Central at the re-named Beaver Field, giving Miller fans a chance to see the team under the supervision of new coach Justin Roden.

Guerin Catholic hosted Danville at the Eagles Nest, where Tom Dille is set to begin his fifth season as coach of the Golden Eagles.

Also at home were Hamilton Heights, where first-year coach Jon Kirschner led the Huskies in a scrimmage against Anderson. Carmel played an intra-squad scrimmage at Carmel Stadium, where John Hebert will begin his fourth year as the Greyhounds' coach. Turn to Page 8 to see pictures of those teams.

As for other county teams, Westfield scrimmaged at defending Class 6A state champion Ben Davis. Jake Gilbert began his eighth year as coach of the Shamrocks, while former Noblesville coach Jason Simmons is the new head coach of the Giants.

Hamilton Southeastern traveled to perennial powerhouse Bishop Chatard. This marked the debut for new Royals head coach Adam Morris. Fishers also headed south, to Lawrence North. Rick Wimmer began his 13th season as the Tigers coach; he has been there since the program started in 2006.

Last but certainly not least, Sheridan traveled west to Crawfordsville for its scrimmage. Larry "Bud" Wright is back again for the Blackhawks, and this will be his 53rd season as head coach. Wright has 409 victories at Sheridan, and 410 overall.

Next week marks the opening week of high school football in Indiana. Be sure to read the Reporter next week for previews of all the teams.

Friday night football scrimmages

Reporter photos by Richie Hall

Carmel played an intra-squad scrimmage at Carmel Stadium on Friday. The Greyhounds were divided into the White team (pictured here) and the Blue team.

Phoenix uses third period to race past Indiana, 94-74

Diana Taurasi and Stephanie Talbot each scored 14 points to pace five double-figure scorers Friday night while leading the Phoenix Mercury to a 94-74 victory over the Indiana Fever. In front of a pinked-out Breast Health Awareness Night audience of 8,860, Indiana, 5-25, lost its second straight game while absorbing its 25th loss of the season. Phoenix, 17-14, snapped a two-game losing skid of its own and finished a three-game sweep of Indiana.

With Indiana center Natalie Achonwa in foul trouble after picking up her fourth personal in the opening moments of the third quarter, Phoenix made full use of its size advantage and throttled Indiana by scoring the second-most points ever scored against the Fever in a single quarter, 36. A three-point play by Taurasi gave the Mercury an 18-point lead at the 7:31 mark, and after a bucket from Cappie Pondexter, Phoenix reeled off the next 11 points, capped by a putback by Brittney Griner for a 27-point bulge, 62-35.

Phoenix shot 51 percent for the game and got 10 3-point field goals – three from Leilani Mitchell and two apiece from Talbot, Taurasi, Briann January and Yvonne Turner. DeWanna Bonner added 13 points for the Mercury, Griner pitched in 12 and Turner had 10.

Rookie guard Kelsey Mitchell led Indiana with a game-high 20 points off the bench. Fellow reserve Tiffany Mitchell matched a season scoring high with 17 points and registered a career-high nine rebounds. Cappie Pondexter added 10 for the Fever in a losing effort.

Taurasi's 3-pointer broke open an 8-8 deadlock and triggered 12 straight points by the Mercury in a two-minute stretch late in the first quarter. The Mercury never trailed again.

The Mercury held on for a 43-29 half-time lead that featured four 3-pointers by Phoenix and three by Fever rookies Victoria Vivians (now 59 this season) and Kelsey

Mitchell (now 64).

On Vivians' second 3 with 3:57 before intermission, Indiana's two first-round draft picks established a new WNBA record for 3-pointers by a rookie duo (now 123), topping a 19-year mark held by Minnesota's Tonya Edwards (66) and Katie Smith (52) as rookies in 1999.

Indiana concludes a quick West Coast road trip while traveling to Las Vegas on Saturday.
