HSE school board honors state champs

The Hamilton Southeastern (HSE) school board is getting accustomed to hosting state champions. In just the past few months, the board has honored the Fishers High School baseball team, HSE High School boys lacrosse squad, and Wednesday night the HSE High School girls track team joined the club of local state champs. Coach Julie Alano described the rainy night of the state finals, which took hours to complete. But in the end, the HSE High School girls triumphed with a state crown. (Above) School Superintendent Allen Bourff joined members of the team with the state championship trophy.

History, development can both win in this plan

One of Hamilton County's oldest homes will be preserved while surrounding acreage is developed with 237 new homes in a somewhat unusual cooperative effort involving the developer and local historians.

The County Line

Many times in our rapidly developing county, landmark structures are lost in the tide of new construction. But, in the case of Hull-Brennan house near Keystone Parkway and Smoky Row Road, history and development will both win if current plans succeed.

The house involved started as a pioneer log cabin in 1834. The William Wilkinson family members later added a large two-story brick house to the cabin in 1853.

The property was owned and occupied by members of the Hull and Brennan families for more than 100 years. William Hull died there about three years ago, and Brennan heirs placed the property for sale.

The historic William Wilkinson home, built in 1853, is planned to be repurposed as a "community gathering place."

103 single family homes and 134 condominium units, and will save the historic house probably for use as a "community gathering space."

The re-zone request goes to the Carmel Plan Commission at their September meeting. Members of the Carmel Clay Historical Society, who brought the house to the attention of local officials, have indicated approval of the development plans. The historical society called upon Indiana Landmarks Inc. for assistance in documenting the historic value of the project house.

The new development will be named The Overlook, and three acres of the site will be devoted to the pioneer homestead, which was once part of a 630-acre tract received by William Wilkinson in an 1822 land grant from the federal government.

HSE redistricting plan process unveiled

By LARRY LANNAN

Dr. William Carnes should be a familiar name to people around the Hamilton Southeastern (HSE) school district: He served as interim superintendent after Dr. Brian Smith left to lead the Indiana School Boards Association. He continued to serve in that post until Allen Bourff reported to work as the new permanent HSE Schools superintendent.

Carnes

Dr. Carnes has taken up a new interim role – assistant superintendent – as HSE Schools begins the search to replace Mike Beresford, now serving as the superintendent of schools for the Carmel Clay District.

As part of his interim responsibilities, Dr. Carnes will oversee the latest redistricting plan. With the new Southeastern Elementary set to open in August 2019, redistricting will be required.

Carnes provided a timeline to the school board at Wednesday night's meeting. The process starts with what he describes as "cluster groups" meeting Sept. 10 and 11. The process ends with school board approval of the new boundaries on Dec. 12.

Here are the steps in this timeline, as presented before board members by Dr. Carnes:

- Sept. 10 and 11: Cluster boundary committees will meet at each of the four intermediate schools. Five to eight representatives from each elementary

Carmel Clay Library awarded "Frankenstein" speaker grants

The REPORTER

More than 20 organizations from across the state have received funding to help bring "Frankenstein" scholars to their cities to offer talks about Mary Shelley's "Frankenstein" in celebration of the novel's 200th anniversary. The grants are part of Indiana Humanities' One State / One Story: Frankenstein initiative, which includes a speakers bureau of intriguing talks about Mary Shelley's timeless tale.

"Frankenstein" speakers bureau grants were awarded to 19 organizations; each of those organizations will hold lectures about a variety of topics related to "Frankenstein." Speakers will include Cassandra Bausman, Rebecca Baumann, Emily Beckman, Richard Gunderman, Adam Henze, Greg Kishbaugh, Adrienne Provenzano and Matthew Weedman. Selected organizations include:

Three Indianapolis organizations were also selected to receive a Community Read grant of $1,000, thanks to funding from The Indianapolis Foundation, a CICF affiliate. These organizations will join 62 others across the state (awarded earlier this year) to hold their own discussions, speaker programs and other festivities for participants. In addition to the $1,000, recipients will receive a "starter kit" of promotional materials as well as planning and communications resources to help them host successful events. Selected organizations include:

- Ben Davis University High School
- Irvington Preparatory Academy
- St. Richard's Episcopal School

"Frankenstein" eerily anticipated many of debates we are now having about science and technology, including artificial intelligence and genetic engineering," said Keira Amstutz, president and CEO of Indiana Humanities. "We're excited to connect Hoosier communities to scholars from around Indiana to think and talk about these and ideas, as well as learn more about the origins and impact of Shelley's influential book."

One State / One Story: Frankenstein is an initiative designed by Indiana Humanities, in partnership with the Indiana State Library and Indiana Center for the Book, to encourage Hoosiers to read the classic novel as it turns 200 in 2018. More than 400 programs, including a sci-fi and horror writing festival for teens, community reads and read-a-thons, exhibits and more- will bring "Frankenstein" to life all over the state. Ivy Tech Community College significantly increases completions

The REPORTER

Ivy Tech Community College awarded 25,803 certificates, technical certificates and associate degrees to more than 18,000 students in academic year 2017-2018. This increase in completion of credentials is more than 4,500 over the previous academic year and represents a 22 percent overachievement of the 2018 strategic plan goal.

Credentials awarded in high-demand industries saw the largest percentages of year over year growth, which include: information technology at 75 percent; business, logistics and supply chain at 45 percent; advanced manufacturing at 42 percent; and healthcare at 18 percent.

A sizeable portion of the credentials were technical certificates, which have increased by 56 percent since 2016. The increase reflects an alignment with workforce needs through employer-driven programs and intentional focus on students earning stackable credentials. Stackable credentials are short-term certificates and technical certificates which create a pathway to an associate degree.

"There has never been a more important time to support our completion goal as Indiana employers are seeking qualified, credentialed employees to fill high-wage jobs," said Sue Ellspermann, Ivy Tech Community College President. "We appreciate our partnership with employers as we develop together the short-term certificates, technical certificates and associate degrees needed in the workplace. Earning short-term credentials, which stack within an associate degree program, provides students with an immediate pathway to begin a career while continuing their associate or bachelor's degree, in fields where employers are eager for talent."

The credential increase can also be attributed to students earning their credential and transferring to a four-year institution to pursue a bachelor's degree. As Indiana's community college, Ivy Tech has transfer agreements with all Indiana public universities and offers seamless transfer programs ranging from teacher education to STEM programs.

Specifically, the College's "Transfer as a Junior" program saw a 187 percent increase in earned associate degrees academic year over year. "Transfer as a Junior" is a program option where students earn the associate degree then transfer to a four-year partner with junior status, upon meeting the receiving institution's admissions requirements.

Ivy Tech confers more associate degrees than any other community college in the nation. In academic year 2017-2018, the College awarded 9,067 associate degrees, which remained constant with the previous academic year.

"Ivy Tech Community College remains committed to both students who will enter the workforce after graduating and those who are working toward their bachelor's degree," Ellspermann said. "Persistence and completion data confirm that students who earn an associate degree prior to transferring to a four-year institution are more successful in completing a bachelor's degree and at a much lower cost. As Indiana's Community College, we are proud of the access Hoosiers have to our 19 campuses and 25 sites across the state."

In January 2018, Ivy Tech launched its five-year strategic plan: "Our Communities. Your College," where it set a vision of students earning 50,000 high-quality certifications, certificates and degrees per year aligned with the needs of the workforce. This vision also reflects Ivy Tech's contribution towards Indiana's goal of increasing post-secondary attainment to 60 percent by 2025. The strategic plan comprises seven goals that focus on student success, recruitment and enrollment, completion, workforce alignment, employees, financial outcomes and communities. The number of credentials awarded in 2017-2018 is a metric in the "completion" goal.

To learn more about the strategic plan and metrics, visit strategicplan.ivytech.edu.

AG Curtis Hill warns of credit card scam

The REPORTER

Attorney General Curtis Hill is warning Hoosiers to beware of scams in which companies send consumers unsolicited credit cards, often touting high credit limits. Consumers should never activate cards they have not requested nor provide personal information to entities sending such cards.

Hill

This warning comes after an Indianapolis man recently filed a consumer complaint with the Office of the Attorney General reporting that employees of his business received unsolicited credit cards from an entity calling itself Connector Capital, purportedly based in Los Angeles. The information on the credit cards included the name of the business for which the recipients worked. The entity that sent the card has an "F" rating with the Better Business Bureau.

"Hoosiers need to know that, under the federal Truth in Lending Act, it is illegal to send unsolicited credit cards to consumers," Hill said. "If you receive a credit card you have not requested, first cut it up and then file a consumer complaint with our office."

In some cases, unsolicited cards arriving in the mail are not credit cards in the first place. Would-be identity thieves may simply be trying to coerce consumers into providing personal information when they call or go online to attempt to activate the cards. In other cases, the high-limit credit cards may have a ruinous effect on consumers' credit ratings if they activate and/or use them.

Anyone concerned about identity theft may want to consider a credit freeze, also known as a security freeze. Any Indiana resident may request a credit freeze free of charge. Click here to learn more at the Attorney General's website.

If you have been the victim of a scam or attempted scam – or have other consumer issues – you may file a complaint with the Office of the Attorney General by logging onto indianaconsumer.com or by calling 1-800-382-5516.

TODAY'S BIBLE READING

And he said unto them, Know ye not this parable? and how then will ye know all parables? The sower soweth the word. And these are they by the way side, where the word is sown; but when they have heard, Satan cometh immediately, and taketh away the word that was sown in their hearts. And these are they likewise which are sown on stony ground; who, when they have heard the word, immediately receive it with gladness; And have no root in themselves, and so endure but for a time: afterward, when affliction or persecution ariseth for the word's sake, immediately they are offended.

Mark 4:13-17 (KJV)

Fishers boys and girls win, Carmel boys tie with No. 1 Eagles

The high school soccer season got under way in Hamilton County on Saturday with two wins and a tie.

Both the wins came from Fishers teams. The Tiger girls, ranked No. 19 in the Class 3A pre-season coaches poll, scored a dramatic win at McCutcheon by the score of 4-3. Taryan McFarland scored the game-winning goal with 12 seconds left, her second goal of the game. Castro and Turner both had one goal.

Back at Fishers, the Tiger boys won their opener 2-0 over new Hoosier Crossroads Conference opponent Franklin Central. Jacob Lawrence and Rodrigo Dominguez both scored one goal, with Yuto Nakamae making an assist. Goalkeeper Brendan Weiger earned the shutout.

Meanwhile, Carmel opened its season by hosting Zionsville at Murray Stadium. The 3A No. 10 Greyhounds played the 3A No. 1 Eagles to a 0-0 tie. Brody Sullivan got the shutout for Carmel.

"All in all, I'm happy with the effort," said Carmel coach Shane Schmidt. "It's really hard, especially when you come back and play against a quality side like Zionsville in your first game. Everybody goes off and plays with their respective club teams.

"You bring everybody back together and you have kind of a week of tryouts and then a week of everything that goes on, a little bit of training and try to get stuff organized. The one thing that everybody can put forth is the individual effort and I was really proud of all of our individual efforts in what happened today."

NHS girls soccer hosts Cathedral on Monday

The Noblesville girls soccer team will open its season on Monday by hosting Cathedral.

The Millers are ranked No. 3 in the pre-season Class 3A poll, behind No. 1 Carmel and No. 2 Penn (the defending state champion). Noblesville is coming off a successful season last year, winning the Hoosier Crossroads Conference title, then defending sectional and regional championships before falling to Penn in the semi-state.

"Playing one of the toughest schedules in the state, we want to improve each game and be the best team we can be come sectional time," said Millers coach Mike Brady.

"We have a number of players who will start for us that didn't last year, so we're still learning each other's tendencies, and when we understand them better, so will our chance to be successful night in and night out," said Brady. "Eleven players on the field, functioning as one single unit: Millers, Millers, Millers - no one more important than the other."

Seniors on this year's Noblesville team are Ashleigh Mathias, Lauren Chatterton, Ashleigh Gutknecht, Ellie Jensen, Ashlyn Morefield, Jewell Hensley, Cecilia Goad, Mackenzie Pedigo, Ashlyn Tucker, Jada Hensley, Autumn Strong and Keely Hoopinger.

Noblesville will also play Wednesday at 3A No. 4 Brebeuf Jesuit, then travel to West Lafayette on Saturday.
