Director Kate Hinman told The Reporter, "This play is wonderful. I'm a little biased, but it is a script that I immediately ordered when I heard about it."

The Guys is a long one-act play. It will last just under one hour and is based on the real story of a fire chief in New York who lost men on 9/11.

"It takes place in an apartment one week after 9/11," Hinman said. "A character named Nick is starting to write eulogies for eight of his men. Having a hard time, he gets in touch with a writer-turned-editor named Joan who helps him write these eulogies. It's very powerful. Not only because of the content and topic, but it is brilliantly written. It is told through monologues that Joan has, then she steps into dialogues with Nick."

I have a new appreciation for nursery rhymes. I've changed them a bit in the past three weeks.

United Animal Health CEO visits Sheridan Rotary

The REPORTER

Sheridan Rotary members were pleased to welcome Dr. Doug Webel to a recent meeting. Dr. Webel received his Ph.D in Comparative Nutrition from the University of Illinois in 1997, just prior to coming to Sheridan to work for what was then JBS United Feeds.

Dr. Webel grew up on a small farm in Illinois where his family operated a successful hog operation, so animal nutrition was a natural fit for his academic career. He has only ever worked for United Animal Health, beginning in the nutrition research lab 20 years ago and culminating with his current position as company CEO.

Dr. Webel spoke to the local Rotarians about the growth of United Animal Health and plans for future growth. With nearly 100 employees locally and several hundred more outside of Indiana and even a few in foreign countries, United is poised to be successful for many years to come.

The company is currently working to diversify its nutritional products, even to the point of looking seriously at aquacultural nutrition products. He noted that as strange as it sounds, there is a growing fish farm industry right here in the Midwest, and United aims to be a part of that industry.

Sheridan Rotary has formal meetings with guest speakers on the first and third Tuesdays of each month. The public is always welcome to attend the programs which start at 6:45 p.m. Meetings are held in the Community Room of the Sheridan Public Library. For more information, contact Steve Martin at the library.

Upcoming guest speakers include Jesse Linville on Sept. 18, who will talk about the vocational education program at the Elwood Community School Corporation. On Oct. 2, Catherine Heller of the Northern Hamilton County Chamber of Commerce will speak to the Rotarians. Again, these programs are open to the public and begin at 6:45 p.m.

PLAYHOUSE

Hinman has been in theater most of her life. She started performing at the age of 5 and told The Reporter her first paying job was as a lighting technician in her high school. She enjoyed that so much she now prefers to work the lights for her own shows, even when directing.

Hinman said this was an interesting and challenging play to cast.

"I had eight or nine women come to auditions, but I only had three men show up," Hinman said. "I knew two of the men, but the gentleman who got it, Joe Aiello, just kind of showed up out of the woodwork. I'd heard his name, but I didn't know Joe. The woman I ultimately cast, Julie Wallyn, I had worked with in other shows together."

Hinman said she had to schedule callbacks to make her final decision.

"When we had the callback, I also wanted to know what drew people to this show," Hinman said. "I got some interesting answers. Some people had very personal connections to 9/11."

Joe Aiello plays the fire department captain, Nick, in The Guys. Aiello has been acting for over 35 years. Speaking of the men who gave their lives during 9/11, Aiello said, "They were just regular folks who were called to do something heroic. It is important to remember those who were lost, but it is also important to think of the people who served every day."

Aiello's character, Nick, is a captain who has lost men and has been called on to give their eulogies.

"He's at a loss," Aiello said. "He is grieving himself, but he doesn't have the time or the chance to grieve because now he has to come forward and talk about these other guys. He has to put his own grief and anger and frustration on hold."

Julie Wallyn, who plays Joan, began acting when she was in grade school but then took a 39-year break, getting back to community theater five years ago.

When asked why she wanted to be in this play, Wallyn said, "One of the things that attracted me to the story is that it's based on fact. Everything in this play was run by the actual fire captain that my character interviewed."

She was also drawn to the way this story celebrates the humanity of the firemen involved.

"It's such a wonderful story told in such a wonderful way and I love how it humanized some really ordinary people who did some super-heroic things when they sacrificed their lives," Wallyn said. "When people watch this, they are going to find out which fireman had a great recipe for apple salad and which fireman loved to restore old cars."

Both actors and the director wanted to stress that this is not a play about tragic events, but rather about healing.

"I don't want people to be afraid to come," Wallyn said. "I'm afraid people think it's too heavy or too painful. I don't want them to stay away because it's not like that. It's a journey. Don't stay away because you think it's going to be too sad."

Aiello also pointed out the play is not focused on the events 9/11.

"It's about people – that's what it's about," Aiello said. "How they are trying to overcome this tragedy. It's more of a celebration."

Wallyn added, "It's about the strength of human beings."

life like a fart in the wind. Here. There. Yonder.

I have the need to keep busy and fix things and care for people.

Now I am told to rest my brain and try not to think. Easier said than done.

I've been put in time out. My life is more like that of a constipated pause.

I've been told to reduce my stress. Try doing that when you are in the middle of a kitchen renovation and transitioning your mother into assisted living.

Add in the lovely(?) conversations with the (now former) pharmaceutical company and (now former) medical providers for my mother and then take my blood pressure. If only I could simply rewind some decisions without all of the paperwork.

If you guessed that my stress level has reached an all-time high, well, you hit the nail right on the head. (pun intended)

Try not to worry about my mother. Try not to worry about being off work. Try not to worry that my new oven isn't working. If I don't succeed then I need to try, try and try again.

And then my brain hurts.

I'm sitting here in my pajamas and it's almost noon on Saturday. My "to do" list is in my poor little hurting head. It may be awhile before I cross most of them off.

So I will just finish this week's column and leave you with another version of a nursery rhyme.

Janet wasn't nimble. Janet wasn't quick. It was water she tripped over and not a candlestick!

Celebrate the foundation of America . . .

DAR promotes Constitution Week

The REPORTER

There are two documents of paramount importance to American history: The Declaration of Independence, which forged our national identity, and the United States Constitution, which set forth the framework for the federal government that is still in use today.

While Independence Day is a beloved national holiday, fewer people know about Constitution Week, an annual commemoration of the document that upholds and protects the freedoms central to the American way of life. This year, the annual celebration begins Monday, Sept. 17.

The Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR) initiated the observance in 1955, when the organization petitioned the U.S. Congress to dedicate Sept. 17-23 of each year to the commemoration of Constitution Week. Congress adopted the resolution, and on Aug. 2, 1956, President Dwight D. Eisenhower signed it into Public Law No. 915.

The celebration's goals are threefold: To encourage the study of the historical events that led to the framing of the Constitution in September 1787; to inform people that the Constitution is the basis of America's great heritage and the foundation of our way of life;

Sept. 17 through 23 commemorates the signing of the Constitution of the United States of America. You might have even heard the phrase, "That's unconstitutional," or "That's my constitutional right!" Many times Americans believe that sayings and phrases are in our Constitution, but they really aren't. Let us celebrate Constitution Week Sept. 17-23 by resolving to be better-informed and responsible citizens. Read the Constitution!

This message is provided by the Horseshoe Prairie Chapter, National Society Daughters of the American Revolution. Chapter members have provided a Constitution Week display at the Noblesville City Hall and encourage citizens to drop by during business hours, Monday through Friday, to see the exhibit. For more information about the National Society Daughters of the American Revolution visit dar.org.

and to emphasize U.S. citizens' responsibility to protect, defend and preserve the Constitution.

DAR has been the foremost advocate for the awareness, promotion and celebration of Constitution Week. This annual observance provides innumerable opportunities for educational initiatives and community outreach, two mission areas of crucial importance to the National Society's work. By fostering knowledge of and appreciation for the Constitution and the inalienable rights it affords to all Americans, DAR helps to keep alive the memory of the men and women who secured our nation's independence, whose bravery and sacrifice made possible the liberties enjoyed by the American people today.

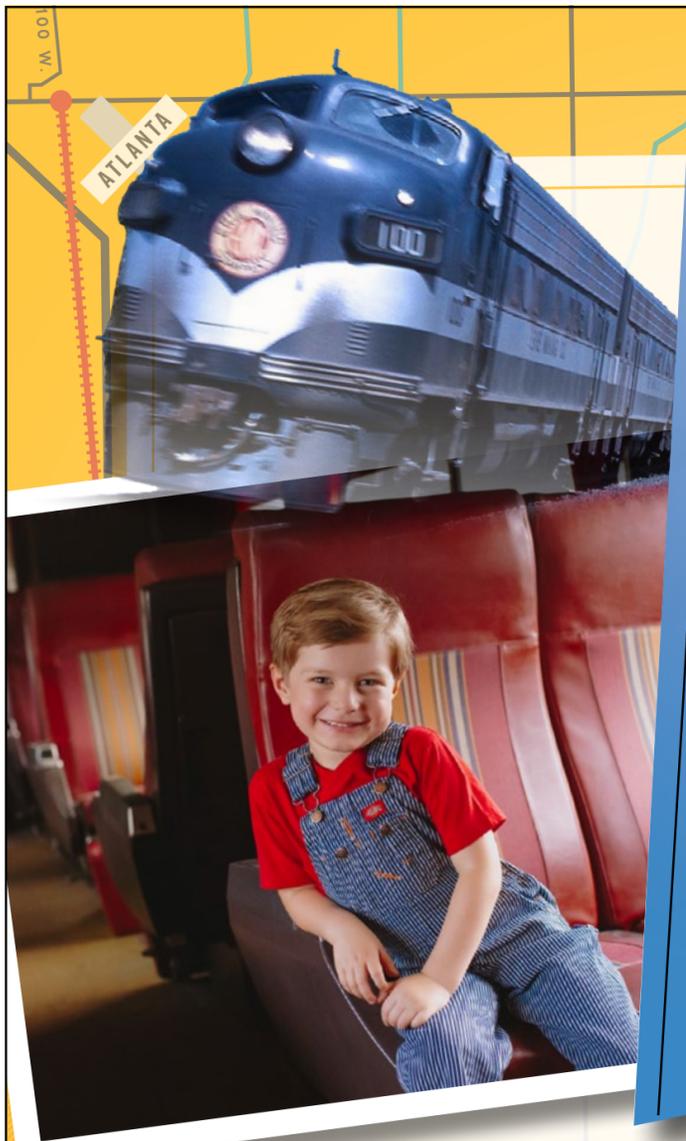

"The framers created a Constitution that translated into law the ideals upon which our nation was built," said DAR President General Ann Dillon. "Their vision was so forward thinking that their words still guide us today. No American history education can be complete without a thorough understanding of the impact the Constitution has had on the lives of American citizens past and present."

About DAR

One of the largest patriotic women's organizations in the world, DAR has more than 185,000 members in approximately 3,000 chapters across the country and even in numerous foreign countries. DAR strives to promote historic preservation, education and patriotism via commemorative events, scholarships and educational initiatives, citizenship programs, service to veterans, meaningful community service and more. For additional information about DAR and its programs, visit dar.org.

The Misfit Exhibit

Sometime in January of 2014, I was playing Destiny, a game on my Xbox One. The next two weeks changed my life forever.

PHOENIX NEFF
Sheridan High School Student

As I was playing, in the middle of the grind, I hit the plateau at a certain level that I could not pass without entering a special mission called a raid. In Destiny, a raid always consists of six players. I was playing on my own.

I was on Destiny's 'Looking for group site' looking for a raid team to get put in to make my journey easier, when I came across the gamertag puff5000. I saw the marker saying he was aiming to complete 'The Vault of Glass Attheon' (Attheon is the last boss in the raid). When I joined the party, there were six people including me.

My future friend puff5000, with a thick British accent, asked, "Is everybody ready!?" and so we got started.

While in game, another person named SHOOT-2KILL39 (from Tennessee) said close to nothing.

In the Vault of Glass we almost killed the last boss, Attheon; however, I accidentally died by jumping off a cliff and everybody blamed the loss on me. After the incident, I acquired the name "NO-COORDINATION." Every time I made the team fail they would scream this name at me, but thankfully, it doesn't happen anymore.

While trying over and over we failed too many times and could not complete it. Annoyed, the other three people in our group stopped playing with us, so only three remained: puff5000, SHOOT2KILL39 and me.

After the unfinished raid, SHOOT asked if we wanted to play Crucible (a player vs. player game), and puff and I agreed. We instantly became best friends, and after that mess, we kept in contact almost every day over that whole year.

Over time we became a small raid group, only gathering others to help us when needed, such as when more difficult raids came out in later downloadable content. puff5000 is the type of guy who doesn't take no for an answer but always helps you when you're down. SHOOT, on the other hand, is the type of guy who usually keeps to himself but is also extremely loud when he wants to be.

In 2015, I was introduced to many of puff's friends, but none of SHOOT's. One of these friends, pandinan (also from London), is still one of my best friends to this day. I can still remember that when I was introduced to pandinan, one of the first things he told me is that I sounded like a spastic. pandinan and I never really conversed with each other until about half a year later until a small indie game called Rocket League came out. pandinan was especially amazing at it, so we dueling very often with each other. No matter how much effort I put in, I could not beat him, which fueled me to keep on playing with him, trying to improve.

About another half a year went by, and we lost connection with each other. The main reason was that everybody started to switch to PC, but he stayed on Xbox. We then all proceeded to get an app called Discord (a voice chat service akin to Skype). I made a group called The Misfit Exhibit, our new hangout which we still use today.

A couple months later, pandinan introduced me to one of his friends, Lappy (from Georgia). I asked Lappy how our first meeting went, and, like the others, he said after a few seconds of talking to me he knew I was "a genuine spastic." Later on, Lappy frequently started showing up in my Discord server, and now we talk almost every day.

Four years later, I'm still talking to puff5000, SHOOT2KILL39, pandinan and Lappy. Nowadays, our chat mostly consists of toxic conversation toward one another, but in the end we're all still best friends.

After the four years of friendship, my life would have been a lot more boring without them. The experience from meeting these epic-sauce gamers has been quite the extraordinary time. At the root of all of this was the internet, and without it would be one heck of a dull life.

This roundabout has been open on a limited basis for traffic but a final closure will take place beginning on or after Sept. 10 for about five days, weather permitting, to allow for final surfacing, and lane markings. Pay attention to signage and please drive slow whenever you are in a construction zone.

Main Street and Gray Road

The City opened the roundabout on the first day of school and it has remained open on a limited basis. Now, in order to complete asphalt work and lane markings in the roadway, the roundabout will be closed again for completion and to provide safe space for contractors. This roundabout is expected to close on or after Sept. 17 for about 10 days, weather permitting.

Noblesville National Night Out Sept. 12

The REPORTER

The Noblesville Police Department has rescheduled its National Night Out event for 5 to 7 p.m. on Wednesday, Sept. 12 at Federal Hill Commons, 175 Logan St. The original date in August was postponed due to inclement weather.

"This is our second year for our National Night Out and we had a great turnout last year," said Sgt. Matt McGovern, event organizer. "Children are often interested about police work and this is a great way for kids to see who we are and interact with the vehicles we use. It's also a great opportunity for adults to ask questions and find out what services we provide."

Guests at this year's event can learn about crime scene evidence collection and crime prevention information, experience the "drunk goggles," watch a K9 demonstration, take and fill out a Child ID kit, and see the department's boat, bicycle, motorcycle and SWAT vehicles. New to this year's event are several activities for children including inflatables, a Dunk-A-Cop dunk tank and a Race-A-Cop tricycle race. Free hot dogs, popcorn and water will be available while supplies last.

National Night Out is an annual community-building campaign that promotes police-community partnerships and neighborhood camaraderie to make our neighborhoods safer, more caring places to live. National Night Out is sponsored nationally by the National Association of Town Watch and co-sponsored locally by the Noblesville Police Department.

"This event provides a great opportunity to bring police and residents together under positive circumstances," said Noblesville Police Chief Kevin Jowitt. "The safety of our community depends on both law enforcement and the neighbors they serve. National Night Out enhances that cooperation."

Celebrate public lands with free entry to DNR properties

The REPORTER

Admission to Indiana's State Park properties and State Forest recreation areas where entrance fees are otherwise charged will be free on Sept. 22 in recognition of National Public Lands Day (except at Spring Mill State Park which will instead have free entry on Sept. 23).

National Public Lands Day is the nation's largest single-day volunteer effort for public lands.

Volunteer opportunities at Indiana State Park properties on Sept. 22 include trail work at Clifty Falls State Park, seed collecting at Prophetstown State Park, invasive plant removals at Charlestown, Chain O'Lakes and Fort Harrison state parks, and clean-ups at Mounds and Summit Lake state park, and at Salamonie Lake and Mississinewa Lake. Many other properties will offer similar volunteer opportunities.

But National Public Lands Day isn't all work and no play. The day is a reminder that public lands are places for outdoor recreation, conservation and making memories with families and friends. Properties will offer hikes, pioneer activities, crafts and live bird shows, too.

For complete list of programs, visit calendar.dnr.IN.gov and look on Sept. 22.

For more information on National Public Lands Day, visit PublicLands-Day.org.

TODAY'S BIBLE READING

And the people saw them departing, and many knew him, and ran afoot thither out of all cities, and outwent them, and came together unto him. And Jesus, when he came out, saw much people, and was moved with compassion toward them, because they were as sheep not having a shepherd: and he began to teach them many things. And when the day was now far spent, his disciples came unto him, and said, This is a desert place, and now the time is far passed: Send them away, that they may go into the country round about, and into the villages, and buy themselves bread: for they have nothing to eat. He answered and said unto them, Give ye them to eat. And they say unto him, Shall we go and buy two hundred pennyworth of bread, and give them to eat? He saith unto them, How many loaves have ye? go and see. And when they knew, they say, Five, and two fishes. And he commanded them to make all sit down by companies upon the green grass. And they sat down in ranks, by hundreds, and by fifties. And when he had taken the five loaves and the two fishes, he looked up to heaven, and blessed, and brake the loaves, and gave them to his disciples to set before them; and the two fishes divided he among them all. And they did all eat, and were filled.

Millers take third at Invite; Royals, 'Rocks win at Showcase

The Noblesville volleyball team hosted its own Invitational on Saturday, finishing in third place.

The Millers won both of their pool play matches, sweeping Wes-Del 25-15, 25-18 and Plainfield 25-17, 25-18. Noblesville then lost a semi-final match to Franklin Central 25-21, 25-22, and beat Terre Haute North in the third-place match 25-18, 25-18.

That gave the Millers a 3-1 record for the day, and improved their season record to 5-8.

"I think the tournament went well," said Noblesville coach Steve Hawthorne. "Every year, it's gotten a little bit stronger. The field has been stronger, pushes us to get better. On the day as a whole, we're still trying to learn who we are and figure out who we are and we're not quite halfway through the season yet, but we see improvements every day."

The Millers never trailed in their third-place match with Terre Haute North. The Patriots were within 8-7 in the first set when Noblesville ran off six unanswered points, helped out with kills from Erika Knieper and Rose Crist, an ace from Izabella Hines and a kill and block from freshman Ella Peter. The Millers cruised through the remainder of the set.

In the second set, Noblesville led 18-5, then held off a last rally by Terre Haute North. Peter made a successful tip on match point.

"She definitely had a really nice match," said Hawthorne. "She's definitely going to be a strong player for us down the road. The more she gets rhythm on the court, the better she gets. The more she connects with her setter, the better she gets."

"I don't really see a whole lot of negative to that last match," said Hawthorne. "We were clicking on all cylinders. Passing was going really well, setting was good, our serving was really consistent, put a lot of pressure on them. A lot of positive."

For the tournament, Lexie Almodovar hit 37 kills, while Crist put down 27 kills. Knieper collected 20 digs. Hines and Ava Nichols both served five aces, with Nichols also dishing out 98 assists.

Cross country

HSE's Black, HH's Mitchell get runner-up finishes

It was rainy on Saturday, which in cross country usually means by default, it will also be a muddy run.

Still, several meets took place around the state anyway. Three Hamilton County boys teams and two girls teams participated in the Wildcat Classic, which Marion hosted at Indiana Wesleyan University.

In the boys race, Hamilton Southeastern was edged out by Valparaiso, 70-71, for the team championship. Noblesville placed third with 86 points while Westfield, splitting its squad between this meet and the Brown County Eagle Invite (see below), placed eighth.

Grant Wilson led the way for the Royals by taking third, while Eric Crothers finished ninth. Travis Hickner was the Millers' top finisher, placing fourth. Jacob Beene led Westfield, taking 33rd.

In the girls race, HSE finished third and Westfield fourth. The Royals' Lulu Black had the best finish for any county runner, taking second place. Sarah Coates placed 11th for the Shamrocks.

Rain Postpones Brickyard Track Activity Saturday at IMS

INDIANAPOLIS - The Indianapolis Motor Speedway regrets to announce that persistent rain has forced the postponement of all NASCAR track activity Saturday, Sept. 8 at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

The Big Machine Vodka 400 at the Brickyard Powered by Florida Georgia Line for the Monster Energy NASCAR Cup Series will start at 1 p.m. (ET) Sunday, one hour earlier than previously scheduled. The Lilly Diabetes 250 for the NASCAR Xfinity Series is scheduled for 10 a.m. Monday. The starting lineup for both races was set by the NASCAR Rule Book since qualifying for both races was rained out Saturday.

All tickets for the Lilly Diabetes 250 originally scheduled for today will be honored at the gate Monday.

"We're sorry for any inconvenience that this inclement weather is creating for our fans," IMS President J. Douglas Boles said. "We appreciate their loyalty and hope we have a great day of on-track action for the Monster Energy NASCAR Cup Series on Sunday and the NASCAR Xfinity Series on Monday. We are hopeful the forecast improves tomorrow and Monday so we can see the exciting racing that everyone has looked forward to all year."
