Not an emergency

JANET HART LEONARD

From the Heart

"If this is an emergency, please hang up and call 911."

Have you called a doctor lately? I don't know if the above command is a regulation but every doctor I have

And then the medical maze begins.

"If you are a physician or physician's office calling, press 1. If you are a patient, press 2."

Next up, after pressing 2 ...

"Using the keypad, spell the first three letters of your physician's last name."

"If you would like to set or change an appointment, press 1. If you would like to refill a prescription, press 2. If you would like to speak to a nurse, press 3. If you have a billing question or wish to make a payment, press 4."

I've never gotten past 4 before pressing a number.

If I press 2, I know I need to listen up and pay close attention to the instructions after 4 p.m. you will need to check with your pharmacist the next day. If you wish to receive a call back it will not be until the next day. If your prescription is a controlled substance you will have to wait 48 hours in which to pick it up."

If it is a weekend ... well, it ain't happening. (Okay, that is my mind talking.)

By the time I get off the phone I'm just hoping that I answered all the needed questions correctly.

It's even trickier as I handle all of my mother's prescriptions and doctor appointments. I have to remember her information as well as mine. I must confess that I have given her birthdate as my birthdate, giving the pharmacy people a good laugh.

In the past few weeks between Mom and me, we have seen two optometrists, one urologist, two family practice doctors, one neurologist, two orthopedists, one podiatrist, two nurse practitioners and several physical therapists. Champions, buddies teach in Noblesville

By STU CLAMPITT ReadTheReporter.com

Three teachers at Noblesville West Middle School (NWMS) have been nominated as Champions of the Year in the Best Buddies program for their work fostering a positive and inclusive environment for students with special needs. Abby McKean, Anne Maslanka and Zella Hendrickson are campaigning for Champion of the Year.

Best Buddies is the world's largest organization dedicated to ending the social, physical and economic isolation of the 200 million people with intellectual and developmental disabilities (IDD). The program is designed to create one-to-one friendships and opportunities for integrated employment and leadership development that are changing the world.

Hendrickson, who has been involved with Best Buddies for three years, spoke to The Reporter about her involvement in the program.

"One of my co-sponsors, Abby McKean, who teaches sixth grade at NWMS and coaches Special Olympics Volleyball, approached me and our other Co-Sponsor, Anne Maslanka, to see if we had any interest in starting a Best Buddies Chapter at NWMS," Hendrickson said. "Anne and I are both Special Education teachers at NWMS and most of our students are Best Buddies members. So of course, we said, 'Yes!' Noblesville East Middle School & Noblesville High School both have Best Buddies chapters as well."

Hendrickson said there are several students with IDD involved in Band and Choir where 'buddies' assist them in class and preparation for performances.

"These opportunities are just examples of how we see programs such as Best Buddies work and how everyone accepts each other regardless of their disability," Hendrickson said.

When asked the value she sees in the program, Hendrickson told The Reporter, "It's all about acceptance and inclusion! Everyone involved feels accepted and included. You see this happen not only in our meetings but throughout out NWMS. For example, one of our Best Buddies members, eighth-grade student Noah Morris, is the manager for the eighth-grade NWMS football team. How cool is that?"

While there are many aspects to the program, Hendrickson shared her personal favorite.

Five political quick hits from Hamilton County

By FRED SWIFT ReadTheReporter.com

A date of Oct. 22 has been set for a caucus of the Noblesville Republican precinct organization to choose a successor to Mary Sue Rowland, who recently resigned from the City Council. Mrs. Rowland, longtime council member and former mayor, resigned on Sept. 17 leaving an unexpired term of 15 months to be filled. Any legal resident of the city is eligible to run for the at-large position. Several citizens are expected to show interest.

The Hamilton County League of Women Voters will hold a public forum for local state legislative candidates on Oct. 2 at the Noblesville City Hall. Republican and Democratic candidates for state senate and house will appear to present their positions on current issues and answer questions at 7 p.m. in the city council meeting room.

County and municipal officials have been disappointed to learn that Local Income Tax distributions for next year will increase only about 2 percent from this year. The state collected a tax of 1 percent on individual incomes. The tax along with property taxes make up the lifeblood of local governments. In recent years, collections have increased by as much as 10 percent thanks to the number of new residents and higher incomes. Next year the county and its municipal governments will share about $156.5 million. The reason for the smaller than expected increase is unclear, but officials, feeling there might be something wrong in the calculations, are working to determine the reason for such a relatively small increase.

In this fall's election, voters in Atlanta will determine whether or not to reduce the number of members on its town council. Currently the town is able to have a five-member council. If a voter referendum passes, the number will be reduced to three. Apparently the lack of those willing to run for the council is the reason for the proposal to reduce membership.

Carmel kicked off its high school homecoming activities Thursday evening with a tribute to widely-known former Carmel High School principal, the late Dale Graham. He was with the school system 36 years, serving as principal the last 25 years before retiring in 1989. The auditorium where the tribute was held is named for Graham. The Carmel Clay Historical Society sponsored the event.

information that I might need.

I keep a calendar at her home and one at my home to keep things straight. I did take her to a doctor's appointment two hours early a couple of weeks ago. (I blamed the concussion.)

Chuck has his fair share of doctors, but I'm not even going to try and keep track of all of his appointments.

I tell you what, this getting older is a lot more challenging than I ever imagined.

I'm just hoping to never have to call 911, although my mom says that the firemen and paramedics are really nice. She was never afraid to push her life alert button. Yes, she was able to answer the person on the other end with the famous statement, "I've fallen and I can't get up."

"My all-time favorite Best Buddies meeting is when one of our members with Intellectual and Developmental Disabilities (IDD) celebrates their birthday," Hendrickson said. "All the other members make birthday cards, sing and parents bring in birthday treats to share. It's so much fun! A birthday celebration may seem odd to be my favorite meeting but, most of our members with IDD don't experience a birthday party in which a lot of friends attend. The joy and excitement in their eyes, as well as the other members eyes, is amazing. It's just an awesome experience to apart of and straight from the heart!"

One of the goals set for those who are nominated as Champion of the Year is to raise funds to help support Best Buddies

Mike and Jen Morris, parents of Noah Morris, told The Reporter, "Noblesville West Middle School has been nominated as one of the few chapters in Indiana as Champion of the Year. Champion of the Year is a fundraiser to help Best Buddies. The Campaign opens doors for people with intellectual and developmental disabilities. The goal for West is to be known for more than just what happened in May. We are asking for donations to help West Middle School win."

Noah is playing a large role in helping his school win this honor.

"We nominated Noah Morris to be our campaign manager," Hendrickson said. "The kick-off party was on Sept. 13 and runs until Nov. 10. The Champion of the Year winner will be announced at the Annual Best Buddies Gala to be held at the Indiana Roof Ballroom. All donations collected go towards Best Buddies Indiana. We are very excited and working hard towards winning."

The NWMS fundraising goal is $30,000. They have contacted over 50 businesses and corporations in and around Noblesville asking for donations or auction items. Marco's Pizza, 11 S. Harbour

The Hamilton County Federated Republican Women (HCFRW) met at Grand Park's Grandstands Sports Club on Thursday evening for a program called, "Influential Republican Women." Republican women spoke about what to expect when running for office, the challenges and rewards of holding office in Hamilton County and what to do to prepare to run for public office. One highlight of the evening was the dinner, in which set-up, served and cleaned up by several male Republican candidates, office holders and HCFRW supporters. NOBLESVILLE SCHOOLS

REFERENDUM 2018

Strong Schools, Strong Community

Strong schools make for a strong community. The ability to attract new businesses to Noblesville, prepare our future workforce, and achieve a high quality of living as a community are all directly Since 2009, Noblesville Schools has lost $46.5 million in funding.

related to the strength of our school system.

The 2016 referendum was about maintaining the status quo and was a reduction in the tax rate. The 2018 referendum is about enhanced mental health, increased safety and retaining top-quality staff. It's about keeping our schools and our community strong.

Due to the teacher shortage and recent pay increases by neighbor districts, our teachers are leaving for positions that can pay $5,000-$15,000 more.

The 2018 referendum will replace the 2016 referendum and will provide funding through 2026.

53% of the additional funding would be spent on mental health & safety, while 47% would be spent on staff pay.

The current referendum rate is 18.9 cents and the new proposed rate is 37 cents.

> This referendum would raise an additional $6.25 million/year for Noblesville Schools.

For more info visit noblesvilleschools.org

How Much Will This Referendum Cost Taxpayers?

A median Noblesville home valued at $206,000 currently pays $192/year for the 2016 referendum. The new 2018 rate would cost this home $376/year. That's an additional $184/year—an additional $15/month— for enhanced student mental health, school safety and teacher pay.

Candidate calls for new perspectives, diversity

Dear Editor:

I believe Donald Trump was elected president in 2016 because the country was looking for a change from status quo politics. Now, as the 2018 midterm elections approach, we're on the verge of experiencing something different in our local elections as well, that continues (or extends) the search for something that's not just different – but also truly exceptional.

In a series of special and primary elections that have occurred across the country, there have been an unprecedented number of diverse candidates running for office. More women than ever before are on the ballot. African Americans, Latinos, Muslim Americans and members of the LGBTQ community as well as democratic socialists are well-represented among those who have filed for office. These candidates have already emerged as serious contenders in a record number of high-profile races.

In states like Michigan, New York, Massachusetts, Virginia, Georgia and Florida – to name just a few – we've already witnessed historic primary wins at the hands of unlikely victors. This pivot represents a paradigm shift in our politics where new perspectives, approaches and ways of tackling old problems are not only considered but welcomed.

We need to consider such a shift here in Hamilton County, too. Since 2010, Hamilton County has been the fastest growing county in Indiana. This uptick in its population is simply a sign of our changing times. Many new families from all over the world, including mine, have chosen to call Hamilton County home. They represent a variety of cultures and ethnicities and truly reflect the fabric of our nation. It's now time that our County Council is more reflective of those who may hold a diverse array of opinions. For too long the Council has been a monolith, controlled by one voice and one party. It is time for a change.

Having different perspectives represented on the Council could allow and create competitive advantages by increasing innovation, acceptance and problem solving capacity. Corporate America has long since viewed diversity as a competitive advantage; executives increasingly realize that diversity of experience, opinion, background, gender, age, religious and gender preference help conceive new ideas and resolve complex issues.

We are and have elected diverse candidates to compete (some are already victorious) for U.S. State House seats, governorships and Congressional seats in Michigan, New York, Massachusetts, Virginia, Georgia and Florida.

Why not Hamilton County?

William L. Howard II Carmel Candidate for Hamilton County Council District 4

Lifetime Republican crosses party lines for Home Place

Dear Editor:

In the North Carolina of my youth, you could get your driver license on your 16th birthday and register to vote (and choose your party) on your 18th. I was one of the few more excited about officially becoming a Republican than the next (late great) Dale Earnhardt. I have never voted for a Democrat in my life.

This election that will change as I am voting for Erin Vahrenkamp, Michael Sweeten and Kevin Patterson for Clay Township Board and David Russ for Clay Township Trustee.

In Home Place, our township taxes, largely due to the Fire Fund line item, have increased from a rate of 0.22 to 0.80 since we moved here. (I often criticize Mayor Brainard, but he has done well in providing fire services to us, as the budget for the fire department itself has only roughly grown at the rate of population increase and inflation.) The incumbents believe Home Place should be the only part of the township taxed for large portions of new fire station construction, even beyond Home Place. I have been trying to work with the incumbents to determine the appropriateness of this. I could be wrong; however, it is hard to tell when they, despite nice salaries for part-time work, won't dig in themselves.

I set up a meeting a few weeks ago with Doug Callahan, the current Republican Trustee, and had requested certain documents over the phone and via email. I thought this meeting was for me to pick up those docs. Instead, I, only armed with my three-year-old daughter, was met not just by Doug but the Township's high-priced attorney, Brian Bosma, who part of the year serves as Speaker of the House. The result of this expensive meeting: I was handed the form I needed to fill out for my document request.

Why not do the "Grassroots Government" thing (our township motto) and tell me you have a new form well before the meeting?

How hunters can help monitor for deer disease

The REPORTER

Hunters can help monitor the deer populations in northwest and northeast Indiana for chronic wasting disease (CWD) by voluntarily submitting harvested deer to the DNR for testing during the 2018-2019 deer hunting season.

The DNR Division of Fish & Wildlife has established a CWD core surveillance area in Newton County and Lake County south of State Road 2. In those areas, the DNR hopes to sample as many hunter-harvested deer as possible from Sept. 29 to Dec. 23, 2018.

CWD-enhanced surveillance areas have also been identified in Jasper County, Lake County (north of SR 2), LaPorte, Porter, Pulaski and Starke counties in northwest Indiana, as well as in Steuben County in northeast Indiana.

Surveillance involves collecting and testing lymph nodes from the neck of deer harvested by hunters and voluntarily submitted for evaluation.

CWD is a serious neurologic disease affecting white-tailed deer, mule deer, elk and moose. The fatal disease is transmitted directly through bodily fluids like feces, saliva, blood, or urine or indirectly through environmental contamination of soil, plants, food, or water. CWD is found in free-ranging white-tailed deer in several Midwestern states close to Indiana, including Michigan, Illinois and Wisconsin. CWD has not been detected in Indiana.

In northwest Indiana, the DNR will collect samples throughout the season with the help of area processors, taxidermists and businesses. During weekends beginning Sept. 29, biologists will be stationed at Phil's Truck Stop (3347 State Road 10, Lake Village, IN 46349) and Jay's Deer Processing (2651 Clifford Road, Valparaiso, IN 46385) to collect samples for CWD testing.

During the week, hunters may submit samples for CWD testing to area Fish & Wildlife Areas by appointment during normal business hours. Additionally, partnering processors and taxidermists will be working with DNR to ensure CWD samples are collected for customers wishing to participate in surveillance.

In northeast Indiana, DNR biologists will be collecting voluntary samples for CWD testing from deer harvested within Steuben County at Pigeon River FWA (8310 E. 300 N., Box 71, Mongo, IN 46771), by appointment, during normal business hours. Additional locations and hours of operation will be available beginning opening weekend of firearms season.

For more information, to view an interactive map of sampling locations, or to help, visit the DNR CWD webpage at wildlife.IN-.gov/9650.htm.

DNR assists with hurricane, fire recoveries

The REPORTER

Representatives from the Indiana DNR divisions of Law Enforcement and Forestry recently deployed out of state to assist with the effects of Hurricane Florence and wildfires, respectively.

A team of 16 Indiana conservation officers, in cooperation with the Indiana Department of Homeland Security, responded to an Emergency Management Assistance Compact (EMAC) request from North Carolina to assist with swift-water rescue and flood evacuations in the wake of Florence. The team of Indiana conservation officers that had been trained in river rescue and dive rescue and recovery was assembled within hours of the request. The team deployed to North Carolina on Sept. 11.

"Instructions were to come prepared to be completely self-sufficient, as there were no guarantees regarding food, water or even shelter once they arrived," said Major Jason Lee of DNR Law Enforcement.

The team was originally staged in Raleigh, but as the hurricane hit, the team began a series of moves that eventually brought the officers to just outside Wilmington, the city where Florence made landfall.

Work involved rescuing people and their pets from flooded homes and vehicles at all hours. The team specifically worked in Pitt, Onslow and Pender counties, in Belvoir, Jacksonville and Rocky Point.

The Indiana conservation officers worked with a variety of state and federal agencies during their nineday deployment. Included was the U.S. Customs and Border Patrol, which provided helicopter evacuation services to the residents and their pets as Indiana conservation officers rescued them from high water.

"I am extremely proud of the job our officers did," Lee said. "Deployments to other states are strictly voluntary, and officers know up front that they will be away from home and family for an undetermined amount of time.

"The work periods are long and typically in extreme conditions."

Lee said the conservation officers were wet for nearly nine days, either from the rain and flooding or from the 90-degree heat.

"The bottom line is that our officers saved lives through their sacrifices, and I cannot thank them or their families enough for what they accomplished," Lee said.

Indiana conservation officers answered one latenight call for help with a boat-based rescue. A woman called 911, saying water was rising in her home. Indiana conservation officers found her in a wheelchair, chest-deep in rising water, holding her small dog.

"The woman was hypothermic and would have likely not made it much longer," Lee said. "It turned out that it was her 93rd birthday, and being carried to safety by our officers was one of the most meaningful presents they had ever given."

Regarding wildfires, the DNR Division of Forestry sent 27 individuals and provided personnel on one 20-person interagency crew to assist with wildfires in 10 different states: Oklahoma, Florida, Arizona, New Mexico, Oregon, California, Colorado, Idaho, Montana and Washington. Positions filled by Forestry personnel range from overhead management to on-the-ground firefighters.

DNR Forestry has been mobilizing resources to all-hazard incidents such as wildfires since 1976.

TODAY'S BIBLE READING

And he said unto them, Verily I say unto you, That there be some of them that stand here, which shall not taste of death, till they have seen the kingdom of God come with power. And after six days Jesus taketh with him Peter, and James, and John, and leadeth them up into an high mountain apart by themselves: and he was transfigured before them. And his raiment became shining, exceeding white as snow; so as no fuller on earth can white them. And there appeared unto them Elias with Moses: and they were talking with Jesus. And Peter answered and said to Jesus, Master, it is good for us to be here: and let us make three tabernacles; one for thee, and one for Moses, and one for Elias. For he wist not what to say; for they were sore afraid. Mark 9:1-6 (KJV)

Girls golf state finals

Westfield's Bruch finishes as state champion

By RICHIE HALL

Westfield's Jocelyn Bruch was one of the first golfers to finish her second round Saturday at the IHSAA state golf finals at Prairie View Golf Club.

Bruch also happened to be the first golfer on the leaderboard, with a score that was one under par. She would have to wait a while until the other golfers came in to see if that lead would hold.

It did. Bruch became the Shamrock's first-ever individual state golf champion on Saturday, finishing with a two-day score of 143. Bruch wound up winning the event by six shots. She held a four-shot lead after the first round, so she didn't change anything when it came to the second round.

"I just had the same mentality, playing one shot at a time," said Bruch. "I just trusted my game."

Bruch followed up her four-under par first round score of 68 with a three-over 75 in the second round. While she admitted to having "a hiccup" at the beginning of the back nine, she fought through it and was able to finish strong. Bruch made three birdies in her Saturday round.

"I birdied my last hole, so I was proud of how I finished," said Bruch. "But there was a rough part, so I just had to battle through that."

Since individual golfers usually tee off before those that are playing with their full team, Bruch had a long wait after she completed her round. Since she's been here before - she was part of Westfield's two runner-up teams in 2016 and 2017 - Bruch knew that anything could happen, so she prepared herself for the possibility of a playoff.

"I was just warming up again, just to not focus on the scores," said Bruch. "By chipping and putting, I wasn't focusing on the scores."

But the playoff never came, and Bruch stood alone at the top. It was the finish of an outstanding season for her, one that saw Bruch also win a regional championship at Slide. As a result of her finish, Bruch also Westfield's Jocelyn Bruch stood alone as the individual state champion at Saturday's IHSAA girls golf state finals. Bruch finished with a two-day score of 143 (one under par) to become the Shamrocks' first-ever individual golf state champion.

"It felt pretty solid," said Bruch. "It's just County girl to win a golf state champion-Smock Golf Course, and the Hoosier Cross- made the All-State team, which was nice to see the hard work paying off, like at ship. Ella Woods, another senior, also made four birdies. Freshman Ava Hedrick drained two birdies, while Kuc and junior Elizabeth Hedrick each made one.

"It was great," said Carmel coach Kelly Kluesner. "We're super proud of the team. It was one of their goals to finish in the top three at state, so they accomplished that. To be led by both Katie and Nina, it was a great Both Hecht and Kuc were named to the The Greyhounds earned their eighth All-State team at the conclusion of the meet.

"The overall experience was really good," said Hecht. "It was nice to end my senior year off strong."

"I thought it was great," said Kuc. "My goal was always to be in the top 10 and get to state. I had a great time this year. Our team placed third, which is really great for us and I can't wait for next year."

Evansville North won the team title, its fourth state championship in five years, with a score of 605. The Huskies had a secondday score of 297, which sets a new 18-hole record in girls state finals play. Zionsville, last year's champion, was the team runnerup with a 612.

Guerin Catholic was at state for the first time, and the Golden Eagles made the most of it with their score of 651, good for a solid fifth-place finish. Junior Angelica Pfefferkorn's two-day score of 156 led the way for Guerin, and she made two birdies in her second round. Senior Mckayla Tallman and freshmen Christina Pfefferkorn and Audrey Kunce both had one second-round birdie.

'I'm so proud of our Guerin Catholic girls," said GC coach Mark Mathews. In addition to the above players, Mathews also mentioned senior Anna Greene, junior Jenna Rust and freshman Sophie McGinnis as part of this year's historic Golden Eagles team.

"They had an awesome year with many wins including a third straight conference championship," said Mathews. Guerin Catholic also set a school record in placing third Morrow. "I was happy I got to experience this one last time and have the same thing I through every year. It was just nice."

Morrow will continue her golf career in college, playing at Indiana State University.

"I decided to go because it was close to home," said Morrow. "It's not too big, not too small." Morrow also said the ISU coach was very welcoming towards her - "He's just really passionate about what he does," said Morrow - and believes that Morrow would be a good fit for the team.

Southeastern coach Steve Guenin was also happy with how the day went, saying that the younger players got some good experience at the meet.

"It was gorgeous out here, great day for golf," said Guenin. The coach said that there was "lots of improvement" and that the girls also learned how to handle being at the meet.

"Julia Eaton had a great day today," said Guenin. "She really turned things around. She struggled yesterday, but really had a nice day today."

University freshman Becky Williams finished with a two-day score of 172. That included two birdies in her second round.

"It was really awesome," said Williams. "It was a lot of fun."

Williams said that she felt pressure, but that feeling went away about "halfway through the first day." After that, she felt more comfortable. And of course, she gained valuable experience for her high

Noblesville wins Unified Flag Football sectional

Photo provided

The Noblesville United Flag Football team was one of eight teams to win a sectional championship during the IHSAA's inaugural Unified Flag Football tournament, which took place on Saturday. The host Millers won the Sectional 4 title by beating Blackford 59-8, Marion 66-28 and Mississinewa 46-20. Mississinewa defeated Fishers in the semi-finals 29-26. The Millers will host Regional 2 next Saturday, Oct. 6, where they will play Fort Wayne Carroll for the trophy in that round. Carmel hosted Sectional 6 on Saturday, falling to Ben Davis 78-38.
