Local drones help with POTUS security

Hamilton County EMA flies overwatch support for Secret Service

By STU CLAMPITT
ReadTheReporter.com

On Nov. 5, the President of the United States came to Indiana for a pre-election rally at the Allen County War Memorial Coliseum in Fort Wayne. Anyone looking to the skies that day may have seen Hamilton County unmanned aerial vehicles (UAVs) helping Fort Wayne Police, State Police and Secret Service in a unique interagency security detail. The Reporter had the opportunity to speak with both EMA Coordinator and Hamilton County UAV Coordinator Steve Haston as well as EMA Executive Director Shane Booker about that opportunity and about county's drone program in general. Both men were pilots at the event. The opportunity arose when Fort Wayne Police Department UAV Director reached out to Hamilton County EMA about flying support for the President's visit. "Fort Wayne Police had come down to work with us when we were doing training in search and rescue," Booker said. "They contacted us about this event because they do not have the same kind of aircraft we do. They asked if we would come up and fly. When the advance team from Secret Service met with Fort Wayne Police, their air support unit lieutenant met with the advance team explained the availability of drones able to stream live video."

approvals were handled, Booker, Haston and the rest of their team headed to Fort Wayne for an opportunity that was at least unique to Indiana, and possibly to the nation. The Hamilton County team kept drones in the air almost continuously for nearly 12 hours. "Secret Service was on board with this because they thought having that aerial view was a huge advantage over other events they have handled in the past," Booker said. According to both Haston and Booker, this may have been the first time Secret Service has worked with a local drone program on a security detail. "I don't know of any live video."

Hamilton Southeastern redistricting now up to school board

By LARRY LANNAN

Hamilton Southeastern (HSE) Schools Superintendent Allen Bourff told school board members Wednesday night that his "preferred" grades K-8 redistricting plan is the recommendation he is making to the board and he will not change that recommended map. It is now up to the HSE School Board to decide what to do about drawing new district lines for HSE Schools because the board has the final say. There were 25 people that addressed the board, with all but one critical of the "preferred" redistricting plan. Some parents pointed to the emphasis the school corporation has put on mental health, arguing their child will have mental health issues as a result of the change in schools. Many parents asserted that the distance between home and the new school, compared to the school their child is now attending, will increase. Of the 25 addressing the school board on redistricting, one complimented school officials for coming up with this map. The major question is where the board goes from here after listening to all these comments. Since Dr. Bourff has said this is his final recommendation, it is now up to the board to come up with any changes, if there are changes. There was a proposal made to hold a board work session at 6:30 a.m. on Thursday, Dec. 6, but Board President Matt Burke says there is no guarantee that meeting will be held. It appears this is the only opportunity board members

Asa Dunnington book signing tomorrow in Noblesville

Meet local author Asa Dunnington as he signs copies of "Selectively Lawless: The True Story of Emmett Long, An American Original," from 1 to 3 p.m. on Saturday, Dec. 1 at Barnes & Noble Stony Creek Marketplace, 17090 Mercantile Blvd., Noblesville.

Asa shares the remarkable story of his larger-than-life uncle who ran with outlaws such as Pretty Boy Floyd and Baby Face Nelson and took Caesar's Palace for half a million dollars at the age of 62. Long was also known as a moonshiner, gambler and even a killer. But unlike many of his contemporaries, his journey didn't end in a blaze of guns and fury. Instead, his path took an unexpected turn, and he lived to a ripe age as a changed man.

Don't miss this special opportunity to grab a signed copy just in time for the holidays.

HSE SCHOOL BOARD

will have to change the re-districting "preferred" plan before a final decision is made at the Dec. 12 regular school board session.

Burke says it is important that the community know before the Dec. 12 meeting about any changes the board may be contemplating.

The bottom line is this: There will be a vote on re-districting on Dec. 12, and it will take at least four school board votes to enact any grades K-8 re-districting plan.

place else that has collaborated in such an effort over such a high-profile event or for that length of time," Haston told The Reporter.

While The Reporter was not able to confirm this directly with the Secret Service, other agencies involved agree that this could have been a national first.

"It was at least a unique opportunity within Indiana. We do not know of anyone else who has done this kind of work and from what Fort Wayne told us, the Secret Service had not had the opportunity to see anything like what we had done for them," Booker said.

A State Police helicopter was at the airport when Air Force One landed and followed the motorcade in. At the coliseum, Hamilton County drones flew below 250 feet while helicopter support had the higher vantage point.

"For the county we had two DJI Matrice 210s that we primarily fly," Booker said. "We were fortunate to get those through a grant."

The view from 250 feet offers a great deal of information when using a zoom camera mounted to a UAV.

"Fort Wayne Police had three teams providing coverage of the area," Booker said. "Steve was on the west side of the coliseum and I was on the south side. We were providing an overview of what was going on around the coliseum so the command post and Fort Wayne's emergency operations center had visibility about what was going on."

Hamilton County's job was to fly overwatch for the area to ensure there were no foreseeable hazards, problems from protests, or other issues that could interfere with the President's arrival or pose dangers to the public.

"There were 30,000 people attending and we wanted to make certain we had all areas covered and the public - especially with so many people standing outside - was safe," Haston said. "After the event we were there to ensure the crowd was getting out safely, that there were no traffic flow obstructions, that pedestrian foot traffic was flowing safely and securely."

According to Haston it was a great opportunity to understand the flight dynamics of working with a multi-jurisdictional deployment.

"This tool does provide a completely different perspective," Haston said. "From the ground you get a three-dimensional view of what is happening on a single horizontal plane. From the air we can almost get a feeling of a four-dimensional perspective. We are such a great distance off that the angle of the view almost gives you a four-dimensional perspective. The overhead view ties it all together for such a wide area that we can see and predict, for example, in two minutes there will be a traffic jam at a particular intersection."

Both men called it a fantastic opportunity for Hamilton County EMA to be able to work on such a high-profile visit.

"We learned a considerable amount, some of which is shared in this article, and other information we are not at liberty to share," Haston said. "Bringing all that together and looking at the huge potential for this tool we are now using strengthens how important this will be moving forward in the years to come."

What they learned will not only benefit Hamilton County, but will be of use to several agencies in and around the county.

"In March we started a county-wide interagency drone working group," Booker told The Reporter. "We've had people regularly from Noblesville, Carmel, Fishers and Westfield. We also have representatives from the Sheriff's Department. We've had people from the County Surveyor's Office and the Auditor's Office attend as well as people from Beck's Hybrids. IMPD also wants to come be a part of the drone working group. I don't know of anyone else in the state who is doing that. We talk about best practices, what we've done and what we learned."

The drone group is not "owned" by Hamilton County EMA.

"We are just a partner in that," Haston said. "Noblesville, Carmel, Westfield, Fishers - both in the fire and police side - all have a really big presence this. They are working diligently with us to make Hamilton County be not only the most prepared and secure, but also resilient with this tool that we call drones."

The interagency cooperation regularly extends beyond Hamilton County.

"We had an opportunity to work with Marion County SWAT and K-9 teams during a four-and-a-half-hour training program about aerial support for search and rescue," Haston said. "We have been called out to help critical infrastructure partners in determining flooded areas and damage as well as how many people are at risk in flooded areas. The National Weather Service asked us to look at an area of damage because they did not know if it was straight-line winds or a tornado. We sent the data to them, so they could make a determination."

Within the immediate area, county drones have been quietly helping other agencies all year.

"After the fatal crash on U.S. 31 earlier this month, EMA drone fly in support of both crash investigator and the Hamilton County Coroner's Office," Booker said. "There was also a recent event in which EMA fly support in Tipton looking for a wanted suspect at night using the Forward Looking Infra-Red (FLIR) camera on the Matrice 210s. Aerial FLIR is a useful tool in search and rescue training and operations, as well as in a recent event in which EMA flew support for Cicero and State Police."

The county drone program has been discussing using the FLIR cameras for solar panel inspections and looking at roof insulation and heat wash on county buildings. Soil and Water has talked about getting drone support when they have drainage issues.

"We have also saved Hamilton County Public Communications at least a few thousand dollars by flying two of the antennas," Booker said. "Normally it would take at least one person at least half a day to do a tower inspection, and we have eight towers in the county. Now we can fly those with both the FLIR and the zoom cameras and do that inspection in less than an hour."

That not only saves time and money for the county, but it also removes the safety concerns from having someone climb a tower to do a visual inspection.

Drone are here to stay and Hamilton County EMA is leading the state - and possibly the nation - in finding safe an innovative ways to use this tool for public safety.

Prevail, Inc. offers many convenient ways to give

Dear Editor:

We get it, it's the end of the year and your mailbox (both virtual and physical) is about to be loaded with heartfelt end of the year asks. Each organization is out there doing some good for the world and it's hard to support everyone. There's no doubt each one put a lot of time into the mailer and each one is in need of your support.

First of all, if Prevail's is one that you take the time to read, THANK YOU and if it is one you choose to support, THANK YOU A MILLION TIMES! A gift from YOU saves lives and moves all of us towards a more positive change in our community; but not all gifts are financial. It is a gift to be able to share our story with you. The time you give to us while volunteering or touring and by using your voice to share our FREE resources with those neighbors who may need them is a priceless gift. We appreciate everything our community does to help spread Prevail's mission to the ears, eyes and hearts of others.

If you do choose to support Prevail financially, there are many convenient ways to do so. Monthly or recurring gifts are a huge help to Prevail and make giving simple for you! YOU have the control in the amount, frequency, and method that your gift is provided to our agency. Three of the most common ways to set up a recurring gift are through your company, through the United Way, and of course through Prevail directly.

Through your company

Some companies offer an automatic payroll deduction and a few will also MATCH your contribution to your favorite not-for-profit. Your HR office should be able to tell you if they offer a way to give directly from your paycheck and if they match your gift.

Through United Way

Another way to give, if your company does not offer a direct paycheck withholding is through the United Way. Simply complete the designation form and designate "Prevail, Inc." This may be a separate form from the one used to make your pledge. Ask your company's United Way representative for information on how to designate your contribution to a particular charity. Minimums may apply.

Directly through Prevail

The last (and still very simple way) to give is directly to Prevail. We are able to set up monthly, annual, or any type of recurring/one time gift to the agency through your preferred credit card for any amount over $10 per month. You may set up your gift own your own through our website (prevailinc.org) or by contacting our office directly at (317) 773-6942 or email Natasha Robinson at natasha@prevailinc.com. We are happy to help in any way we can!

Thanks to all of you, 2018 has been an outstanding year for Prevail both in the amount of client's we have served and the lives we have touched outside of the Prevail office. We are looking forward to 2019, and the possibility of reaching community members before they experience a crime or abuse. With your help, we will be able to do just that! Together we can build a safer and healthier community.

Warm wishes this holiday season to everyone in my community,

Thief of skateboarding bulldog Gus sent to work-release program

WISH-TV | wishtv.com

A Carmel man was sentenced to a year in a work-release program after he pleaded guilty to the theft of a popular skateboarding English bulldog named Gus.

Carmel Police said on April 16 that Reid Albrecht, 22, Carmel, was already serving a six-month sentence on drug charges when he was arrested on two theft charges. Albrecht had one of the theft charges dismissed as part of the plea deal. The sentencing was Wednesday in Hamilton Superior Court 4.

Gus disappeared from his owners' front yard in the Foster Estates neighborhood on Oct. 4, 2017, and has never been found.

The bulldog's owner, Christine Kiger, said the plea deal calls for Albrecht to meet with her and a Carmel police detective to give details on what happened to Gus.

"We just want to know whole story from start to finish," Kiger said by phone Thursday.

In regard to Albrecht's sentence, Kiger said, "There's no amount of time adequate for taking a family pet."

Albrecht was told to enter Hamilton County Community Corrections shortly after his court hearing, records show.

"We're glad to be moving on and glad he is going to be out of our neighborhood for a while, and that we can get closure through his final cleanup statement to the Carmel detective."

In October 2017, several witnesses told police they remembered seeing Albrecht with a bulldog matching Gus' description. Police say Albrecht told people he adopted the bulldog, but neither the Indianapolis nor the Hamilton County Humane Society had a record of him adopting an animal.

Lawmaker pushes for all of Indiana to be on Central time

By DAVID WILLIAMS
WISH-TV | wistv.com

When it comes to time zones, Indiana is a state divided.

Several counties in the state's southwest and northwest corners are in the Central time zone.

One lawmaker wants the entire Hoosier state in the Central time zone.

Almost every Hoosier has an opinion about whether the state should be on Eastern or Central time, or just stay divided.

"I personally would prefer Central time," Daventry Burroughs said. "It's just something I've always been used to."

Shante Herron said she feels differently. "I think Eastern time is cool."

Even some people in the same family don't agree. Harron's sister Denise Smith said, "I think Central. It would be better. It would be more focused."

"We're in the Midwest, not the mid-East or the East," state Sen. Eric Bassler, a Republican from Washington, Ind., said. "From a rational perspective, we should be in the Central time zone."

Earlier this year, a different state lawmaker, Republican Greg Walker from Columbus, tried to get Indiana completely within the Central time zone, but that measure failed.

Bassler has thought about it for years. Now, he's working on a bill that would ask Gov. Eric Holcomb to request that the federal government put all of Indiana within the Central time zone.

Annie Stewart said, "I would really like that." Stewart told us she also prefers that Indiana be on part of the Central time zone.

Since the 1960s, Indiana's dividing Eastern time zone line has gradually moved West.

Bassler argued the state is more closely aligned with Chicago than Washington, D.C., or New York City. "To think we have to somehow be tied to New York because of the stock market, or to Washington, D.C., because of the politics or the federal government just doesn't make sense."

So how does an area move from one time zone to another? The U.S. Department of Transportation says under federal law, the U.S. Transportation secretary may issue regulations making changes.

Another way: Congress can get involved with a statute, but the Department of Transportation website said the latter has not happened in more than 60 years.

Music connects the generations

As I watched my son Jacob play piano during last week's Noblesville High School Jazz Band concert, I couldn't help but think about how music has always connected the generations of our family. In fact, I believe it creates connections for many people.

to get around and enjoy life like she used to. I remember feeling sad years ago when Jacob started having recitals and performances because she was 2 1/2 hours away and couldn't attend. I knew she'd enjoy them.

Now that she lives in Noblesville, we're able to take her to most of his jazz band and choir performances. Just like last week, I always feel good having Mom sit by my side enjoying the show. Her toes start tapping and she does this little thumb wiggle that always cracks me up! Seeing her happy makes me happy. As I wrote a couple of weeks ago, Mom will be performing in her own show as part of a choir at her facility on Saturday, Dec. 15. We're looking forward to seeing her.

And I can't help but feel warmth in my heart knowing that this tradition of music creating connections between generations, as it has for decades, will come full circle.

The Bonds will be issued by the City pursuant to Indiana Code 36-7-11.9 and -12, as supplemented and amended, and an ordinance proposed for adoption by the Common Council of the City (the "Council"). The public purpose for which the Bonds are being issued is to finance economic development facilities which will create or retain opportunities for gainful employment and business opportunities. The Bonds will not be a general obligation of the City, the State of Indiana, or any political subdivision thereof, but will be special, limited obligations of the City, as the principal, premium, if any, and interest on the Bonds will be payable solely from the repayment of the loan to the Corporation. The Corporation will repay such loan primarily through lease rentals received by the Corporation pursuant to a lease between the Corporation, as lessor, and the Redevelopment Commission and Developer, as lessees (the "Lease"). The Redevelopment Commission's lease payments under the Lease will be payable from (a) tax increment revenues generated in the Redevelopment Area and (b) local income tax revenues of the City. Copies of the form of Lease and other agreements of the City concerning the financing of the economic development facilities and payments to the City with respect to the financing will be on file and available for public inspection during regular business hours daily, except Saturdays, Sundays and legal holidays, at the offices of the Commission, Noblesville City Hall Council Chambers, 16 S 10th Street, Noblesville, Indiana 46060.

At the hearing, the Commission will provide a reasonable opportunity for interested individuals to express their views on the proposed issuance of the Bonds and the Project, including the Public Facilities Project, and will determine whether said financing will have an adverse competitive impact on any similar facilities already constructed or operating in or near the City.

The public is invited to attend and comment on any of the matters herein noted. Written comments may also be submitted to the Secretary of the Commission, until 4:30 p.m. on December 9, 2018 by delivering such comments to the Secretary of the Commission, Noblesville City Hall Council Chambers, 16 S 10th Street, Noblesville, Indiana 46060.

If the Commission shall find for itself and on behalf of the City, that the proposed financing will be of benefit to the health and welfare of the City and complies with the purposes and provisions of Indiana Code 36-7-11.9 and -12, the City will adopt a resolution approving the proposed financing and the form of financing documents, including the Bonds in the maximum aggregate principal amount set forth in the first paragraph of this notice and shall transmit the resolution to the Council for consideration together with the form of the proposed ordinance to be recommended to the Council.

TODAY'S BIBLE READING

And the high priest stood up in the midst, and asked Jesus, saying, Answerest thou nothing? what is it which these witness against thee? But he held his peace, and answered nothing. Again the high priest asked him, and said unto him, Art thou the Christ, the Son of the Blessed? And Jesus said, I am: and ye shall see the Son of man sitting on the right hand of power, and coming in the clouds of heaven. Then the high priest rent his clothes, and saith, What need we any further witnesses? Ye have heard the blasphemy: what think ye? And they all condemned him to be guilty of death. And some began to spit on him, and to cover his face, and to buffet him, and to say unto him, Prophecy: and the servants did strike him with the palms of their hands.

Girls basketball

Golden Eagles return to action, fall to Yorktown

The Guerin Catholic girls basketball team was back in action Thursday night after 12 days.

The Golden Eagles had a tough Yorktown team waiting for them at the Eagles Nest. The Tigers pulled ahead in the second half and eventually won 65-38.

Yorktown led 13-7 after the first quarter, but Guerin held tough in the second period, staying within 23-18 at halftime. But a flurry of 3-pointers from the Tigers in the third quarter gave Yorktown a 46-28 lead after the period finished.

"We really went hard that first half, and they just hit a couple 3s that added to us losing our wind a little bit," said GC coach Jeff Buckner. "And then they started pounding it inside to 33 (Tobi Bell). They're a good team. They have some shooters, they have some people that can play in the post. When we took one thing away, they were able to get something else."

A bright spot for the Golden Eagles was the play of their freshmen. Kathryn Loso was one of Guerin Catholic's scoring co-leaders with 11 points, while Katie Koger scored seven points.

Senior Paige Bennett also scored 11 points, including a pair of 3-pointers.

Guerin Catholic is now 2-5 and will host Covenant Christian at 1:30 p.m. Saturday in a Circle City Conference game.

"The good part is we only got one day and we're right back on the court, so we can't really dwell on this too much," said Buckner. "We just have to get ready to play on Saturday."

The Trojans took control of the game early, leading 20-12 after the first quarter and 37-20 at halftime. The Tigers played Chatard even in the second half, but the 17-point deficit was too much to overcome.

Tamia Perryman led Fishers with 15 points and four rebounds. Katie Howard made two 3-pointers, while Katie Burton had nine points and four steals.

The Tigers are 6-3 and are off until next Friday, Dec. 7, when they host Noblesville in a Hoosier Crossroads Conference game.

Swimming

Southeastern sweeps Franklin Central

The Hamilton Southeastern swim team scored a sweep at Franklin Central on Thursday.

The Royals girls won 116-70. It was the first time HSE had ever swam at the Flashes' pool, as FC is new to the Hoosier Crossroads Conference this year. Southeastern coach Andy Pedersen said that "the school is beautiful with a very nice natatorium. The Flashes swam tough and gave our team plenty of trouble with great competition."

Abby Harter won the butterfly race and also anchored a relay win. Mo Pedersen was the 200 freestyle winner, while Kayleigh Witt came from behind to win the 500 free. Olivia Harter won the backstroke and battled Ellie Pedersen in the 500 free. Senior Halli Siwik won the diving event in a season-high score.

"Our Team Captains for this meet may provide the best example of how our team needs to behave in order to reach the goals they have set - Bri Saple and DaBin Jung are absolutely destroying the workouts we place in front of them and we are starting to see that show up in the meets," said Pedersen. "It does not really matter where we put them in the lineup, they are going to approach those races with a mindset of toughness and determination. We are really proud of both of them."

The Royals boys team won 119-66. A couple of Southeastern swimmers competed in off events, and won: Connor Harrison was first in the 200 free, cruising home with what Pedersen said was "an amazing last 50." Keegan Streett placed first in the individual medley, another off-event swim.

DJ Rogers placed first in the 50 free, while Nathan Barr won diving. Marcus Eden won the 500 free and Andrew Truxall paced the breaststroke.

"It was truly a team effort but we cannot end this post without noting the progression of sophomore Logan Hess - he has been working hard for sure but this is an experienced and older team with very few spots open to the youngsters," said Pedersen. "That is not the way Logan approaches things - he works hard, views any event as an opportunity to improve, and competes with grit and an incredibly positive mindset. Logan is a huge part of the future of this team."

Southeastern will host Brownsburg in an early Saturday morning meet. Swimming begins at 9 a.m., after an open house for HSE alumna Lindsay Rogers, who is being inducted into the Indiana Swimming and Diving Hall of Fame. The open house starts at 8 a.m.

Huskies split with Tipton

The Hamilton Heights swim team split a dual meet with Tipton on Thursday.

The Huskies girls won 99-81. Coach Sue Beale said the team "had some great swims despite swimming meters for the first time in two years."

Ryleigh Poe was a double winner in the 200 freestyle and the butterfly, Tara Holder took the individual medley and 400 free, while Rachel Sanquetti placed first in the 100 free and backstroke. Emily Lester won the breaststroke. The four swimmers also teamed up to win the medley and 400 free relays.

Heights' boys team lost 109-71. Jared Holder won the 50 free and backstroke, and teamed with Eli VanHaaren, Luke Stohler and Josh Glover to take the 400 free relay.

The Huskies had several strong second-place finishes, by Glover in the 50 free and breaststroke and Van Haaren in the 100 free. The team of Glover, Josh Snay, Joe Ringer and Grant Forrer took second in the 200 free relay, and VanHaaren, Holder, Forrer and Luke Stohler were second in the medley relay.

Pacers rally in third quarter, but Lakers retake control in fourth Pacers fans who stayed up late enough to watch Thursday's game at the Lakers went on quite the roller coaster ride.

Unfortunately, the ending was an all-too-familiar disappointment, as LeBron James scored 21 points in the second half, including 12 of the last 15 for the Lakers (12-9) in a 104-96 win over Indiana (13-9).

The stakes were lower than the five postseason series James' teams in Miami and Cleveland won over the Pacers, but he prevailed once again in his first game against the Blue & Gold in a Lakers uniform, ruining Indiana's bid for a 4-0 Western Conference road trip in the process.

James finished the night with 38 points on 15-of-27 shooting to go along with nine rebounds and seven assists.

"Late in the game, he went and got aggressive, looking to attack and make something happen," Pacers head coach Nate McMillan said.

Indiana fell behind by 24 points early in the first half, but rallied to retake the lead midway through the third quarter. The Lakers responded with a prolonged run of their own to retake control, taking an eight-point lead into the fourth quarter.

With James on the bench for the first 4:32 of the final frame, Indiana managed to cut that lead in half. The rally continued even after he returned, as Domantas Sabonis' one-handed jumper trimmed the deficit to 89-88 with 4:56 remaining.

James responded by drilling a three on the ensuing possession, then converted an old-fashioned three-point play on his next trip down the court. Kentavious Caldwell-Pope added a 3-pointer two possessions later, pushing the lead back to double digits with 3:22 to play.

The Lakers then held the Pacers at bay down the stretch to preserve the victory.

Sabonis led Indiana with 20 points and 15 rebounds in the loss, while Bojan Bogdanovic added 14 points.

"You have to burn a lot of energy (playing from behind)," Sabonis said. "It's tough to come back in 48 minutes. It's unnecessary, but we will figure it out."

The game got off to a disastrous start for the Blue & Gold, who missed their first 11 attempts and fell into a 13-0 hole.

Thaddeus Young finally got a layup to put the Pacers on the board, but things would get worse before they got better.

The Lakers protected the rim at one end and got to the basket seemingly at will on the other for the better part of the first quarter. Indiana started the game 2-for-20, with Los Angeles blocking seven of those attempts. The Lakers, meanwhile, started 11-for-15 and led 23-5 with 4:37 remaining.

James tallied 14 points and four assists in the first quarter alone, nearly outscoring the Pacers by himself, as the hosts took a commanding 38-15 into the second quarter.

"I don't have words for that," McMillan said about his team's start. "You just can't dig a hole for yourself and not come in here ready to play."

Sabonis finally gave the Pacers some life in the second quarter. The 6-11 center scored 12 points during a 22-7 run by Indiana that trimmed the deficit to 52-40 with five minutes left in the first half.

The charge continued from there. Indiana reeled off 10 unanswered points to close the half, making it just a six-point game, 56-50, heading into the break.

The Pacers continued to rally after half-time, tying the game at 66 on Bogdanovic's 3-pointer with 5:34 remaining in the third quarter and then taking their first lead of the night on Tyreke Evans' triple 49 seconds later.

After a timeout, however, James scored on L.A.'s next two possessions to put the hosts back in front. That was the start of a 17-6 run by the Lakers to close the quarter (with nine points coming from James), giving them an 83-75 lead heading into the fourth.

"No excuses," Pacers point guard Darren Collison said after the loss. "We had this game. We were up and we did some good things and we didn't do some good things."

Five Pacers players finished in double figures on the night. Sabonis and Bogdanovic were joined by Young (11 points, five rebounds, and five steals), Cory Joseph (10 points, six rebounds, and six assists), and Doug McDermott (10 points).

Brandon Ingram scored 14 points for the Lakers, Josh Hart added 13 off the bench on 6-of-7 shooting, and Kyle Kuzma tallied 11 points and nine rebounds.

All-Star guard Victor Oladipo missed his sixth straight game with a sore right knee, but is hopeful he can practice on Friday afternoon in Sacramento and potentially play against the Kings on Saturday night in the final game of a four-game trip.
