Three doctors agree: Increasing state tobacco tax saves Hoosier lives

The burden of tobacco continues to each year for 11,000 premature deaths, $2.8 billion in lost productivity, and $3.3 billion dollars in healthcare costs. Indiana's state Medicaid program bears nearly $540 million of that cost, which means Hoosier families face an unnecessary combined annual state and federal tax burden of $1,125 per household.

We urge lawmakers to support a minimum $2 increase in the cigarette tax. An October 2018 report from the Richard M. Fairbanks Foundation estimates such an increase would result in the prevention of 58,000 youth from becoming adult smokers and give 70,000 Indiana residents the additional motivation to quit tobacco for good. A $2 per pack increase would also generate an increase of $358 million in tax revenue in the first year alone. We support the use of this additional revenue source to be spent for underfunded healthcare needs in Indiana including tobacco control, opioid addiction and the state's Healthy Indiana Plan 2.0.

When we ask our patients who have successfully quit tobacco what motivated them to quit, the most often reason we hear is "Cigarettes got too expensive." Research we have conducted at the Indiana University Melvin and Bren Simon Cancer Center is the first to show a link between rising tobacco prices and decreasing lung cancer deaths in Indiana.

Despite these findings, Indiana conweigh heavily on Indiana, accounting tinues to have one of the lowest state cigarette taxes in the nation at 99.5 cents per pack compared to the national average of $1.71. Consequently, Indiana has one of the top 10 highest percentages of adults who smoke and lung cancer death rates in the nation. This past summer, Kentucky voted to increase their state excise tax to $1.10 per pack, making Indiana's cigarette tax the lowest out of any of our neighboring Midwest states.

> It is time for Indiana to become a leader in the fight against the tobacco epidemic. Raising the state tobacco tax will support Governor Holcomb's focus on a higher quality of life in Indiana through a healthier and more productive population. We can no longer afford to pay the cost of Hoosier lives lost too soon.

NOBLESVILLE - It's always a great defensive battle throughout when Fishers and Noblesville get together on the hardwood. It wasn't any different on Friday night at The Mill when the two opened up conference play.

The first half seemed like déja vu in a sense that the score was eerily familiar to last year's at Fishers. Last year's game, Fishers led at halftime 15-4, but Noblesville managed to a comeback to win 27-22.

This game would turn out much different, as the visiting Tigers found their way in the second half, widening the gap every chance they got, running away with a 54-36 win to begin Hoosier Crossroads Conference play.

A defensive stalemate during the first, it was tied 3-3 after one quarter.

Fishers went on an 11-6 run to end the first half to lead 14-9 through two periods. It became a game of runs for the Tigers in the second half.

Noblesville cut the deficit back to two on a Zack Johnson three from the left wing, but Fishers struck right back with and 11-0 spurt, thanks in big part to a pair of treys from Alex Szilagyi and three buckets and a free throw from freshman Jeffrey Simmons, forcing the Millers to burn a timeout with 4:53 left in the third, down 25-13.

"The third quarter, we struggled," said Noblesville head coach Brian McCauley on the effect Fishers' 21-10 third quarter had on his Millers.

"What we want to do offensively is play inside-out. We have to attack inside-out. That puts pressure on the defense. It gives us opportunities to get to the free throw line, that often opens up inside-out shooting and we played from outside-in, and that's one reason why we were 1-for-8 from the field (in the first quarter), so we've got to get better in that area," said McCauley on the Millers' rough start shooting the ball, which led to playing from behind most of the night.

"I think one of the phrases we use is 'stay on the rock," said Fishers head coach Matt Moore on his team's approach.

"You never know when the rock's going on split. You keep swinging, you keep swinging, you keep swinging and eventually if you stay consistent enough, you're going to be able to break through and I think that's what we were able to do tonight," Moore continued on what he's got instilled in his team

The Tigers added another 10-6 push to end the third at 35-19, really showing what they could do in transition.

Southeastern holds off scrappy Orioles

By RICHIE HALL

FISHERS - Hamilton Southeastern had quite a bit to play for on Friday night.

The Royals were playing their first home game of the season, hosting Avon in the first Hoosier Crossroads Conference game of the year for both teams. It was a hard-fought game, and Southeastern came out with the win, 59-53.

The Royals had to contend with an Orioles team that was quick and scrappy on defense. It wasn't until the second quarter that HSE started to get some separation from Avon, eventually taking a 25-18 halftime

The Orioles, in fact, had the Royals down 10-6 in the first quarter. But Southeastern ended the period on a 7-0 run, giving it a 13-10 lead. Aaron Etherington, a 6-7 senior, started the run with a pair of free throws.

In the second quarter, senior Noah Smith added five points, including a 3-pointer. Sophomore Vinny Buccilla hit a late 3, and Mabor Majak, a 7-2 junior, added four points.

"One thing that we like about the team is we got some size, we got some versatility," said HSE coach Brian Satterfield. "We've got some depth. Different things that we can put out there and do. Now we're just trying to get the chemistry amongst them and trying to get the pieces to fall together."

The Royals quickly extended their lead to 30-18 early in the third quarter after Etherington hit a 3 and junior Kole Hornbuckle scored on a floater. Avon scored seven straight points to cut Southeastern's lead to 30-25, but that would be as close as the Orioles would get in the period. Landon Morris' hook shot and a layin by Cam Smith got the lead back up to nine, and Buccilla nailed another late 3-pointer to put the Royals ahead 41-32 at the end of three quarters.

"We had different guys step up at different times," said Satterfield. "Aaron, when we made that run, I know he hit that shot there to start the second quarter to get us going a little bit, get that lead in the first half. Noah's always out there, competing and doing what he needs to. I thought Vinny hit a big shot there at the end of the third quarter."

quarter, after Le'Angelo Saravia hit a 3pointer to trim HSE's lead to 45-40. But Southeastern got the baskets it needed, after Smith hit a jumper and Etherington scored off a steal by Hornbuckle.

then would later block a shot. The Royals got back under their basket, where Majak made an easy layin. At the beginning of that sequence, Southeastern led 51-43 with 2:34 left; those plays made it 55-44 with a little over a minute to go (Avon hit a free throw during that time).

"That's the one thing that's special about Avon got within five during the fourth this group, we got different guys that can do a lot of things," said Satterfield. "And especially when all five guys are clicking, we can be really good.

"Tonight we just didn't quite have that with all five guys, but you're going to have Majak also had some nice plays towards ups and downs," said Satterfield. Even so,

When everything went right for Fishers, that was when Noblesville was just unable to find answers to what the Tigers brought to the table in the second half.

Fishers kept their foot on the gas at the right times and they did exactly what it took to start conference play off on the right foot.

The Tigers spread the ball around really well in the fourth period, getting six from Josiah Matthews, five from Willie Jackson and a few others chipping in the rest of the 19. Zack Johnson also scored six in the fourth, to highlight the Miller points, but it would be far short as Fishers pushed past Noblesville with ease in the second half en route to a 54-36

"This was a 'sectional week' for us," said Moore, referring to the type of schedule for both teams. "Noblesville didn't play until tonight (nine days off) and Mount Vernon doesn't play until tomorrow night, so for us, we're just trying to put ourselves in the position to make sure that we're ready to play the next game," said Moore on preparing his Tigers this week for playing back-to-back on Friday and Saturday this week.

Noblesville (1-1, 0-1 HCC) gets its first loss on the young season. The Millers will take some time to dissect this one and prepare for their own back-to-back next weekend, hosting Carmel (2-0) on Friday, Dec. 7 and Anderson (1-1) on Saturday, Dec. 8.

The Millers were led by 11 points from Johnson, while Jordan Schmidt finished with a gritty 10.

The victory improved Carmel's season record to a perfect 2-0 and supplied the Greyhounds with a 1-0 mark to open their Metropolitan Interscholastic Conference schedule.

Mulloy finished with eight points in limited minutes. The 6-foot-10 forward was whistled for two fouls with less than three minutes remaining in the first quarter and was charged with four fouls in the game.

Instead of unraveling, the Greyhounds pushed forward while Mulloy went scoreless in the first half. Owens and Windlan were the glue as the visiting Bears jumped in front 7-5 in the first quarter and tied it 17-all late in the second.

A Windlan 3-pointer at the top of the key swung the margin in Carmel's favor 8-7 to end the first quarter. Another put his team up 13-11, and a 3-point dagger from Owens with 1:18 left in the first half gave the Greyhounds a 20-17 advantage at halftime.

Owens struck again from deep to cap a 5-0 run to open the second half, which inflated Carmel's lead 25-17.

"I feel like we really do have a good team effort. First game, we had even scoring, and just like tonight, Mulloy was in foul trouble and struggled," Windlan said. "But I feel like Andrew Owens really picked it up, and I feel like I picked it up and Luke at the end we just really want to win as a

"I thought Robert (Fry) did a good job on him early, contested a lot of his shots and forced him into some tough ones," Osborn said. "He got into a rhythm a little bit later, but I thought Robert for the most part did a great job on him."
