Carmel Young Republicans reaching out to the homeless

Carmel High School Young Republicans are collecting blankets for the homeless in Indianapolis. Blankets may be used, but they should be clean and have no holes. Emergency 9-1-1 operators will continue to answer calls for help from throughout Hamilton County following agreements signed Monday between County Commissioners and officials of seven communities in the northern part of the county.

Emergency services in Cicero, Arcadia, Atlanta, Sheridan, and White River, Jackson and Wayne townships have been dispatched through the county 9-1-1 center

Thank you to the Carmel Street Department

Every year, people freak out about the first snow of the season.

TV meteorologists point at a green screen and scare the populace with warnings of a Snowmageddon. Residents recall the Blizzard of '78 and rush to the local grocery store to clear the shelves of bread and milk.

Side note: Some of these people never eat bread or drink milk but stock up when there's an inch of snow as if they were Doomsday-preppers and someone accidentally spilled Diet Coke on the nuclear-launch button.

A snowstorm gets people worried. But not me.

That's because I live in Carmel. Friends in Indianapolis: I don't mean to brag but the road crews in Hamilton County are the best at clearing snow and repairing streets. How do I know? My parents live just south of 96th Street. When I go to visit them I have to be careful not to damage my car. There's a foot of snow in the winter. Once it thaws, there are potholes so deep you could reach in and pull out Chinese food.

Carmel puts salt on the roads at the appropriate times and gets the roads cleared in a timely manner.

My family and I own an Italian restaurant on Main Street. There have been very few times we have closed due to snow in the eight years we've been opened. Because Carmel does such a great job clearing the streets, there are a surprising number of people who make the journey out and about. We can stay open more often, make more money and therefore pay more taxes.

Not only does Carmel clear the roads but they do a great job with sidewalks, paths and parking lots. A day after the most recent snow storm, the Monon Greenway was clearer than some streets in Indianapolis. That's good news for us dog owners who still have to walk our dogs even if it's snowy outside. I personally own a Shiba Inu, which is a Japanese breed that looks like a smaller husky. He has a thick coat of fur and loves colder temperatures so it's nice to be able to walk him without slipping and breaking my neck.

Because road crews clear the streets properly, there's less of a chance of ice melting into cracks, expanding once they freeze again, and creating potholes in the roads. When cracks do form, our Hamilton County communities address them quickly so serious damage isn't done to the base of the roads.

Thank you for keeping us all safe!

Noblesville band marches up to next level

The REPORTER

Noblesville Schools announced Thursday that the Noblesville High School (NHS) marching band will join the prestigious Indiana State School Music Association (ISSMA) marching band field show circuit starting with the 2019 fall band season.

Noblesville concert and jazz bands have participated in ISSMA contests for many years, but the NHS marching band has traditionally participated in the Indiana State Fair track circuit, competing against smaller schools across the state.

The ISSMA circuit will position Noblesville with comparable surrounding school districts and will provide the band the larger physical space needed for its 150 members to compete. The move to ISSMA also aligns competition schedules with the Noblesville Schools calendar, reducing missed class time for band competitions.

"The State Fair has been a great tradition over the years and I'm proud of what we've been able to accomplish there," said Eric Thornbury, director of bands for Noblesville High School. "The initial objectives I set for the band program have all been achieved and our students are more than ready for this new challenge. We are ready to step up and compete with our neighboring schools."

Noblesville Schools is known for its strong performing arts programming, with more students throughout the district active in performing arts than athletics. In addition to being named a national Best Community for Music Education, Noblesville also boasts state accolades for color guard, jazz band, percussion, marching band, choirs and music educators.

"This opportunity will be a step forward for our students and community," added Noblesville High School Principal Jeff Bryant. "As educators, it's our job to support and challenge students to reach higher and achieve more. I'm excited to see where this new adventure will lead."

NHS won the State Fair band championship the last two years in a row with a record-breaking score and is the 11th largest high school in the state.

The cost of the service has been increasing as the county grows, and county officials said it is only fair that all entities pay their share. Until now Noblesville, Carmel, Fishers and Westfield along with the county government have been paying costs of operation.

In addition, Heritage Woods will have a large community room, a private dining room, sun rooms, walking paths in beautifully landscaped courtyards, a library, computer lounge, on-site general store and other amenities.

Certified nursing assistants, working under the direction of a licensed nurse, will be on-duty 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

Part of the community – White Oaks at Noblesville – will be dedicated to memory care, catering to older adults with Alzheimer's disease or related dementia. This specialized program will provide opportunities for residents to maintain a sense of purpose and belonging throughout the seasons of dementia.

"We focus on abilities rather than limitations because we understand that as we age our hearts, hopes and desires do not," said Gardant Management Company CEO Rod Burkett.

Residents in the memory care community will be able to take advantage of a hobby hut, which features several activity areas and living room lounges, a separate salon, covered patio areas to relax in, cozy fireplaces in living areas and a large café near an enclosed walking path.

Heritage Woods will serve adults 62 and older and will further expand Gardant's mission of providing residents with the love, compassion and dignity they deserve in addition to the help with medications and personal assistance they need, Burkett added.

I was born and raised right here in Noblesville. I grew up in a home without domestic violence or assault - it wasn't something I saw, or even heard about.

But when I was introduced to Prevail of Central Indiana, I was shocked by the number of individuals who are affected by domestic violence. In 2018 alone, Prevail helped more than 4,000 clients in Hamilton County. (Nearly 80 percent of clients are women and children.)

Prevail is strictly confidential, and since their core values include integrity and respect, they provide their services at no charge. Domestic violence and abuse are hard topics to discuss, so you don't often hear about them. But at Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville, we're breaking the taboo and raising awareness for Prevail, an organization that helps families in Hamilton County.

To help Hamilton County families affected by domestic violence and sexual abuse, you can donate the following items:

- Art supplies (for children to journal and express their emotions)
- Bottled water (8 oz. bottles, preferably)
- Individually packaged snacks
- Gas cards (many women have no access to funds after fleeing their abuser)

You can drop off items at Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville, located at 14701 Tom Wood Way. You can also donate directly to Prevail of Central Indiana by visiting Prevailinc.org.

Reader agrees that candidates outline provide specific plans

Dear Editor:

Regarding Fred Swift's column published on Jan. 23, "Candidates should share specific plans with voters," I completely agree with Mr. Swift's call for candidates running for the Noblesville city government primary to be specific regarding their approaches to the many large and costly challenges that lie ahead.

We are no longer a small community where candidates need only smile, give generalized feel good comments and know the right people to win. As taxpayers and voters, we should want to elect common sense visionaries with a plan to prioritize all the expensive wants and needs of our growing community. As voters we should have no illusions regarding costs and who will pay. The state may pay for parts of some projects, but costs will mostly be our responsibility.

So we'd better understand our votes.

Regarding costs to taxpayers, the letter published in this paper from candidate Mike Corbett regarding the city's use of tax abatements certainly caught my attention. Like Mr. Corbett, I thought tax abatements were intended for distressed property and blighted areas. Then, how are abatement renewals justified especially given the recent large tax increase for the school referendum?

It would seem to me taxpayers deserve more transparency as well as candidates' positions on the use of abatements.

Innovations in trucking: How Indiana truckers, motorists alike are impacted

By DONNA FITZGERALD
Guest Columnist

Every day, we share the road with a semi truck that may weigh up to 20 times more than our standard passenger vehicles, and if you have ever passed the scene of an accident involving a semi and car, you've witnessed the extensive damage that can occur.

Thousands of vehicle accidents occur throughout Indiana every year, and according to recent data from the Indiana Department of Transportation and Indiana University Public Policy Institute, accidents with a large commercial vehicle has increased 5.7 percent between 2013 and 2017.

In 2017, there were 14,877 collisions with large commercial vehicles (CVs), including semis, which resulted in 125 fatalities, 1,860 injuries and 12,892 reports of property damage. Large trucks have a fatality rate of 10.1 deaths per 1,000 vehicles, which is three times greater than the average for all other vehicles.

In efforts to reduce roadways incidents and fatalities, passenger and large CVs are equipped with safety technology that is designed to prevent accidents. Considering some of the common contributing factors in accidents, let's take a closer look as to how safety technology impacts all Indiana motorists.

Common contributing factors in Indiana vehicle accidents

Nearly all vehicle accidents are preventable and human error is often to blame for the reason for the accident. While weather and road conditions often play a significant role in Indiana accidents, many of the accidents between a CV and passenger vehicle involve driver error.

CV drivers, whether local to Indiana or passing through the state, are often under pressure and work on a tight deadline. Working long hours and experiencing stress can lead to speeding, fatigue and distraction, which can all result in an accident. Driving on routes that are unfamiliar or experiencing mechanical issues can also play a role in collisions with passenger vehicles.

CV drivers and the companies they work for are often to blame for many accidents involving a smaller vehicle, but passenger vehicle drivers may make decisions that put themselves at great risk for a collision.

Many of the accident factors apply to other drivers, such as distracted driving or speeding, but many drivers are unaware of how to share the road with larger vehicles like semis. Driving in a CVs blindspot or following too closely can increase the chance of an otherwise preventable accident.

Click here for more information on contributing factors.

A look at today's safety technology

Much of the safety technology used in today's commercial vehicles, like semis, are designed to not only prevent an accident but also hold CV drivers more accountable for their actions behind to the wheel.

Since many drivers spend most of their day alone, the details of an accident are often inaccurate. Some drivers are worried about losing their job and others may simply leave out key information.

Technology like SmartDrive cameras helps to keep drivers accountable, keep them safer and even aid as a teaching tool in helping drivers becoming better. Many of today's new vehicles are equipped with advanced collision mitigation systems, and more CVs are also getting the potentially life-saving technology installed as well.

Other technology that may not seem like standard safety technology, but can help reduce the rate of accidents, includes dynamic routing, trailer tracking, temperature tracking and improved record keeping. All of this technology is designed to make drivers more efficient, improve their drive time and potentially catch mechanical issues before they cause an accident on the road.

Improving the technology in commercial vehicles can greatly impact all motorists on Indiana roads by reducing the stress and other factors that often contribute to deadly accidents.

Some of the snowfall records that were set with this storm still stand today, including the most snow ever recorded in one month, 30.66 inches, and the highest snow depth, 20 inches.

The storm total snowfall topped out at 15.5 inches and heavy snow fell for 31 hours, sometimes at a rate of an inch per hour.

Winds gusted near 50 mph, creating zero visibility for 25 hours. The Blizzard of 1978 is one storm many of us will never forget.

Forty-one years ago one of the most famous blizzards in Indiana history moved through the state.

The winter storm lasted for three days, stranding many Hoosiers. The National Guard was called in with tanks to help remove stranded semis along Interstate 65.

Snow drifts were 20 to 25 feet high, causing one Amtrak train to stall in Putnam County.

TODAY'S BIBLE READING

And the scribes and the Pharisees began to reason, saying, Who is this which speaketh blasphemies? Who can forgive sins, but God alone? But when Jesus perceived their thoughts, he answering said unto them, What reason ye in your hearts? Whether is easier, to say, Thy sins be forgiven thee; or to say, Rise up and walk? But that ye may know that the Son of man hath power upon earth to forgive sins, (he said unto the sick of the palsy,) I say unto thee, Arise, and take up thy couch, and go into thine house. And immediately he rose up before them, and took up that whereon he lay, and departed to his own house, glorifying God. And they were all amazed, and they glorified God, and were filled with fear, saying, We have seen strange things to day.

House supports Schaibley's bill protecting student athletes

The REPORTER

The Indiana House of Representatives on Thursday supported State Rep. Donna Schaibley's (R-Carmel) legislation that would provide additional safeguards to prevent coaches with a history of misconduct from working with students.

Schaibley worked with the Indiana Department of Education (DOE) the Indiana High School Athletic Association (IHSAA) on this proposal after learning that former educators who have had their teaching licenses revoked or suspended might be able to relocate to another school and find a job as a coach.

Under House Bill 1209, the Department of Education would notify the IHSAA of any teacher license revocation or suspension. School corporations would also report to the IHSAA any unlicensed, nonteaching or volunteer coach who is convicted of a criminal offense or commits misconduct with a student.

According to Schaibley, the association would then decide whether to revoke or suspend the coaching accreditation of those individuals and create a database to collect this information. Before adding a new coach, all schools would contact the IHSAA to check this database.

"We have thousands of great coaches throughout the state working with student athletes every day," Schaibley said. "School corporations already require a background check when hiring coaches, but these checks only provide a look at someone's official recorded criminal history. Acts of misconduct with children that do not rise to a criminal offense do not show up on background check. Because of this people who should not be working with our young people may be able to slip through the cracks. This is just one additional measure to keep out the few bad actors that present a risk."

Schaibley's proposal now moves to the Senate for further consideration. For more information, visit iga.in.gov.

State Rep. Donna Schaibley (R-Carmel) represents House District 24, which includes portions of Boone and Hamilton counties.

Royals win all-county game over Millers

By RICHIE HALL
FISHERS - An all-county and Hoosier Crossroads Conference game went the Royals' way Friday night, as Hamilton Southeastern beat Noblesville 68-43 at the HSE gym.

The Royals never trailed and steadily built their lead over the contest, and that resulted in a second straight win at home. It's the first time since December that Southeastern has won back-to-back games, which coach Brian Satterfield credited to finally having everyone back after a string of injuries and illness.

"We've finally got everybody healthy and we're starting to try to put the pieces together," said Satterfield.

Junior Mabor Majak scored the first four points of the game, which Noblesville's Xavier Hines answered with a 3-pointer. Majak then made a putback, and the Millers' Jordan Schmidt hit a short jumper to keep Noblesville within 6-5.

But the Royals got a sudden burst from their long range game, when Noah Smith and Vinny Buccilla each hit 3s. That put Southeastern up 12-5, and it would lead by around that margin for most of the first half.

The Royals led 15-9 going into the second quarter. The Millers got within 20-16 after Eagan Keever-Hill hit a 3 and Zack Johnson made a layin. Southeastern ended the half on a 9-3 run, with Bradley Beemon's 3-pointer answering Hines' 3, then Landon Morris' layin gave the Royals a 29-19 lead at the break.

"One thing that was special about tonight is how we shared the basketball and we took care of it," said Satterfield. "I know the first half we only had one turnover."

Satterfield was also pleased with his team's rebounding, especially on the offensive end. In the first half, the Royals had eight offensive rebounds.

"Even on some occasions when we did have some misses, we got some offensive rebounds and had some opportunities there," said Satterfield.

Noblesville coach Brian McCauley agreed that the offensive rebounding was crucial to the game.

"For the game they had 14 offensive rebounds, and you're just not going to win many games where you give up 14 offensive rebounds," said McCauley.

Still, the Millers stayed close through most of the third quarter. Keever-Hill made another 3, and a five-point burst (a Hines jumper and Alex Hunt 3) kept the Millers within 37-29. Southeastern quickly pushed the lead up 41-29 when Aaron Etherington made a dunk and Chris Grubbs hit a layin.

The Royals led 45-35 late in the third, then went off on a 15-0 run that stretched well into the fourth quarter. Etherington started it with a 3-pointer, then made another 3 towards the end of the run. Kole Hornbuckle helped out with a three-point play to score the first points of the fourth quarter. The run put Southeastern up 60-35, and the Royals kept the lead around that margin for the remainder of the game.

Four players reached double figures for Southeastern: Majak led with 16 points, Etherington added 13 (including three 3-pointers), and Smith and Morris both contributed 11. Grubbs pulled 12 rebounds and handed out seven assists, while Smith dished out eight assists and collected five rebounds.

Johnson scored 14 points for the Millers, while Keever-Hill and Hines both had eight points, including two 3s each. Keever-Hill handed out eight assists, and Schmidt, Hines and Hunt all grabbed three rebounds.

"Overall, disappointing loss, but it gives us a lot of things we know we can work on," said McCauley.

The Royals are 3-2 in the HCC and 11-5 overall. Their next game is also a home conference game: Southeastern welcomes Franklin Central on Thursday.

Noblesville is 1-4 in the HCC and 8-7 overall. The Millers return home to The Mill tonight to take on Class 4A No. 10 Logansport.
