Noblesville students calling for better gun safety laws

WISH-TV | wishtv.com

Students from Noblesville Schools visited the Indiana Statehouse on Tuesday to plead to lawmakers for gun safety laws; however, they may not have received the answers they wanted to hear.

The Reporter's news gathering partner WISH-TV reported a group of Noblesville High School students looked up lawmakers' schedules and tracked down Sen. Victoria Spartz, a Republican from Noblesville, in a Statehouse hallway.

"Would you vote in favor of a bill for safe storage laws?" Noblesville High School senior Emily Cole asked. Spartz said she'd have to look over the structure of a bill before deciding.

State Senator Victoria Spartz (R-Noblesville), left, discussed House Bill 1040 with Noblesville High School senior Emily Cole on Tuesday afternoon.

Students were disappointed in her response, especially when asked by Noblesville High School freshman Nolan Weaver if she thought a bill "to make sure that kids can't get guns" was a good idea. Spartz responded, "I don't want to comment on the gun bills because we have so many bills."

Spartz also told the students, "We cannot prevent every crime, but we can do some things."

Westfield alum uses faith to share message of recovery

By KATIE WISELY

WISH-TV | wishtv.com

A Westfield graduate is using faith to help share his story after he was hit by an SUV while walking in Charleston, S.C., almost two years ago.

Ben Littrell, 25, is speaking at schools across the city to encourage those of all ages to never give up. "I can do all things through Christ who strengthens me," Littrell said.

Ben believes his passion for faith has helped him recover.

"I feel like it separates me from the average person just walking on the street," he said.

February will mark two years since the Westfield graduate was ran over by a car in Charleston. Littrell was in a coma for months with a severe brain trauma.

"I don't think I was headed down a good path," he said. "I was just focused monetarily and that money is great in this life, but what good is it in the after-life?"

Noblesville residents asked to report problem potholes

The REPORTER

While the Noblesville Street Department monitors roads daily, it also is asking for the public's help in reporting potholes. Any motorists that have seen the effects of winter weather are encouraged to report them so that the potholes can be repaired as soon as possible.

"The drastic change in temperatures we've seen in the past week wreaks havoc on roads," Noblesville Street Commissioner Patty Johnson said. "To combat this, the street department is out filling potholes every day as the weather allows, which means when it's not snowing or raining. We attempt to respond within 48 hours to any complaint."

For potholes on city streets, residents may report them through any of the following methods:

- Visit cityofnoblesville.org. On the homepage is a "Report a Pothole" link that will take you directly to the online form.
- Send an email with the specific location of the pothole to NSD@noblesville.in.us.

• Call the street department at (317) 776-6348.

The city utilizes an asphalt reclaimer, which allows the street department to make hot mix patch repairs to roads while asphalt plants are closed for the winter. The hot patch mixes milling with asphalt emulsion binding agents to stabilize deteriorated roadways.

"Cold patch is a quick, temporary fix that is generally used during the winter. We are able to use hot mix as a more permanent fix and it is the best way to address potholes," Johnson said.

For State Roads 19, 32, 37 and 38, residents must report potholes to the Indiana Department of Transportation at (317) 462-7751 or indot4u.com. The Noblesville Street Department is not allowed to maintain roads that fall under INDOT's jurisdiction – this includes plowing snow and repairing potholes.

The REPORTER

The Carmel Redevelopment Commission (CRC) has announced plans to partner with Old Town Companies on a $3 million project to redevelop a parcel along north Range Line Road into the future home of Miller Auto Care and acquire the land where Miller currently operates. The long-anticipated move by Miller is the result of the city's long-range plan to bring new redevelopment and private investment into the Midtown area – a multi-story, mixed use project that will generate more commercial tax revenue for generations to come.

Miller Auto Care plans to move its business to 969 N. Range Line Road where it can remain in the central corridor of the city, close to its longtime customers. This will also provide better access in the future to Keystone Parkway through the ramp connection project planned by Hamilton County just north of this parcel. "The improvements we continue to make along Range Line Road between 136th Street and Clay Terrace have allowed us to create a beautiful new location for this business that has been family owned and operated in Carmel for more than 50 years," said Mayor Jim Brainard. "This will allow Miller Auto Care to improve their services to customer with a new and possibly expanded service center."

Previously, Miller allowed the city to build Elm Street and the roundabout at Range Line Road and Elm/4th Street SE on its property. Construction of Elm Street was a vital part of the Monon Expansion project and for Midtown projects such as the future Merchants Bank headquarters and the Railyard at Midtown Apartment complex, both of which are under construction.

Cole responded to Spartz by saying we should take steps. Spartz replied, "We are taking some steps." Cole then fired back at Spartz saying, "Some steps aren't enough. We need to be taking every step."

The students are advocating for a bill aimed at stronger gun storage laws after prosecutors said the Noblesville West Middle School shooter pulled guns from his family's gun safe.

Spartz offered to visit Noblesville Schools to talk more about the issues.

Noblesville Schools excused the kids for their Statehouse visit. Weaver was an eighth-grader at the middle school when the shooting happened there.

"I don't want anyone else to have to go through what I had to go through on that day," he said.

The students say they also left a message trying to reach State Rep. Chuck Goodrich, a Republican from Noblesville.

They also spoke with State Rep. Ed Delaney, a Republican from Indianapolis who encouraged them to keep up their passion.

Littrell was finally able to come back home. His days consist of therapy at the Neurorehabilitation and Robotics Center at IU Health. The crash left him without feeling on his right side. Now, he's learning how to walk, talk and regain his balance.

"They didn't know if he was going to live," Ben's father Paul Littrell said. "He quit using the cane and just tried to walk without an assistance, but it was a tough walk."

But that's not it. He spends the other 50 percent of his week speaking at schools throughout the Indianapolis area motivating students to see the good in every situation.

"There's so many people when bad stuff happens they think everything is over," Littrell said. "I just think it was a redirection."

Littrell's goal is to follow his heart and influence those through his story of redirection. Without his faith close to his heart, he says he wouldn't be able to tell his story.

I was born and raised right here in Noblesville. I grew up in a home without domestic violence or assault - it wasn't something I saw, or even heard about.

But when I was introduced to Prevail of Central Indiana, I was shocked by the number of individuals who are affected by domestic violence. In 2018 alone, Prevail helped more than 4,000 clients in Hamilton County. (Nearly 80 percent of clients are women and children.)

Prevail is strictly confidential, and since their core values include integrity and respect, they provide their services at no charge. Domestic violence and abuse are hard topics to discuss, so you don't often hear about them. But at Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville, we're breaking the taboo and raising awareness for Prevail, an organization that helps families in Hamilton County.

To help Hamilton County families affected by domestic violence and sexual abuse, you can donate the following items:

- Art supplies (for children to journal and express their emotions)
- Bottled water (8 oz. bottles, preferably)
- Individually packaged snacks
- Gas cards (many women have no access to funds after fleeing their abuser)

You can drop off items at Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville, located at 14701 Tom Wood Way. You can also donate directly to Prevail of Central Indiana by visiting Prevailinc.org.

Storm system could bring flooding to Hamilton County

The REPORTER

A series of weather systems is expected to bring rain to Hamilton County through Thursday night. A total of 1 to 3 inches of rain will be possible with higher amounts in localized areas.

This will likely result in river and stream flooding, as well as flooding of some fields and roads.

The National Weather Service in Indianapolis has issued the following information:

- Flood Watch for portions of Central Indiana (which includes Hamilton County), East Central Indiana, South Central Indiana, Southeast Indiana, Southwest Indiana, and West Central Indiana.
- 1 to 3 inches of rain are expected through Friday morning.
- River flooding will be likely. Standing water in fields and along some area roads will be possible. This may result in driving difficulties or even possible road closures.

AG Curtis Hill asks U.S. Supreme Court to rule on Indiana fetal ultrasound law

The REPORTER

Indiana Attorney General Curtis Hill this week asked the U.S. Supreme Court to overturn a lower court's ruling on the constitutionality of an Indiana law requiring fetal ultrasounds at least 18 hours prior to abortions.

In July of 2018, a panel from the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit enjoined the law - accepting Planned Parenthood's contention that it placed an undue burden on women seeking abortions. In this week's filing, however, Hill notes that the law essentially combines two Indiana statutes that have been on the books for years.

In 1995, the Indiana General Assembly passed the informed-consent statute, which specified that a woman must receive, in person, information relevant to abortion and childbirth at least 18 hours before an abortion.

The U.S. Supreme Court upheld a similar statute in Planned Parenthood of Southeastern Pennsylvania v. Casey.

Then, in 2011, the state legislature passed another law requiring an ultrasound be performed before an abortion. It required medical staff to show the ultrasounds to women seeking abortions unless they expressed in writing that they did not wish to see them. In 2016, lawmakers added the provision at issue in this week's filing - which stipulates that the required ultrasound take place at the informed-consent appointment at least 18 hours before the abortion procedure.

Hill

"The state has a compelling interest to protect fetal life and dignity," Hill said. "It also has an obligation to ensure that women do not feel rushed or pressured into getting an abortion. I hope the Supreme Court will establish the clear constitutionality of this vitally important legislation."

The future home of Miller Auto Care will be at 969 N. Range Line Road.

In partnership with Old Town, the city's next phase will be the redevelopment of the property where Miller Auto Care currently sits. Based on financial estimates by the Carmel Redevelopment Commission, the annual property tax revenue from this Midtown parcel is expected to increase from $8,737 (in 2018) to about $120,000 annually once a new mixed-use project is completed.

"In the big picture, this move will help us finalize the last piece of the puzzle for this part of our Midtown transformation," said CRC Director Henry Mestetsky.

Keith Stockberger, owner of Miller Auto Care, said he was happy to be part of a project that will allow him to serve his customers for many years to come.

"We are excited to be a part of the new improvements," said Stockberger. "Our relocation to 969 N. Range Line Road with the future connection to Keystone Parkway at the new location will make it easier for our clients to access our service center."

Hamilton County Councilor Fred Glynn to run for Carmel mayor

The REPORTER

Fresh off his re-election to the Hamilton County Council, second-term Councilor Fred Glynn announced Tuesday that he would seek the Republican nomination for Mayor of Carmel.

Among his priorities, Glynn cites the need for development balanced with fiscal discipline. "It is a false narrative that we have to choose between good government and fiscal responsibility," Glynn said. "My time on County Council proves you can do both."

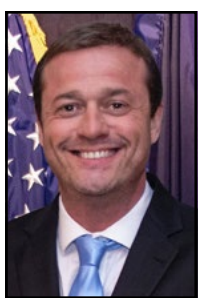

In seeking the nomination, Glynn will challenge a 24-year incumbent whose tenure at the helm of the city, according to Glynn, has been met with mixed reaction.

"After 24 years, it's time for fresh leadership and vision," Glynn said. "I believe that I can provide the leadership necessary to make Carmel's next chapter its greatest chapter yet."

Glynn has said that he will be rolling out details of his platform over the next several months, but that voters can expect a focus on community. "What makes Carmel great is its people," Glynn said. "My platform will focus on people, small businesses and strengthening our diverse neighborhoods."

Glynn has also promised to take on the issue of Carmel's rising debt, which he said cannot be ignored.

Glynn

"I don't think it is any secret that our city is in serious debt," Glynn said. "The mayor and his council members have racked up more than $1.4 billion in debt obligations."

He also cited a 2017 estimate which had Carmel's debt-per-resident ratio at $15,077 compared to $5,975 for Noblesville, $4,249 for Fishers, $3,085 for Westfield and $704 for county government. Glynn said he will not shy from this pivotal issue.

"Our city is paying excessive amounts of money, mostly for giveaways to preferred developers. Our recent debt downgrade should be a warning sign to all residents," Glynn said. "I will fix our debt problem and do so without impacting the energy and vibrancy that makes Carmel great. We are Carmel, we can conquer this problem with a bold new vision for the future."

Glynn lives in Carmel with his wife Beth, his daughter, and their dog Bailey. As a family they attend church services on Sundays, watch movies and attend sporting events together. They are volunteers at Race for the Cure and Gleaner's Food Bank. In addition to his position on the Hamilton County Council, Fred works as a Mortgage Loan officer helping families achieve their dreams of homeownership.

Tony Green files for election to Carmel City Council

The REPORTER

Carmel City Councilmember Tony Green filed for election Friday to the city's Southwest District, where he has served since 2017.

Since winning a caucus in January 2017 to fill a vacancy for the district, Green has established himself as a strong and independent voice on the Carmel City Council.

"I am proud of the City of Carmel and what the mayor and council have accomplished over the years," he said. "However, I see my role on the council as one of providing checks and balances. I'm here to ask the hard questions, then work constructively with the council and mayor to maintain the standards and quality of living that make Carmel a great place to live and raise a family."

Tony's priorities for the next four years on the Carmel Council include:

1. Protecting against overdevelopment: To ensure future development is consistent and does not change the character of the existing areas and surrounding neighborhoods in West Carmel and Home Place.

2. Improving public safety: Specifically to increase the number of Carmel police officers and their presence in the neighborhoods throughout Carmel.

3. Maintaining infrastructure: To ensure that there is adequate funding and resources to maintain Carmel infrastructure. 4. Scrutinizing fiscal spending: To advocate for prudent spending and for excess revenue to be prioritized toward building up the supplemental reserves and the rainy day fund.

Tony currently serves as Chief Legal and Compliance Officer for the Indiana Public Retirement System.

Prior to serving in his current capacity, Tony practiced law as an attorney for Barnes and Thornburg, LLP.

Tony has had an extensive 30-year military career after graduating from the United States Air Force Academy. He served as a pilot for over 14 years serving on seven different deployments, the last of which included 33 combat missions into Afghanistan after 9/11. For the past 15 years he has served as a Judge Advocate and currently holds the rank of Colonel as the State Judge Advocate for the Indiana Air Guard.

Green and his wife, Peggy, a school teacher at Riley Hospital for Children, have three children who attend or have attended Carmel schools and Our Lady of Mount Carmel. The family has been heavily involved in sports with the Carmel Dad's Club (CDC), Carmel FC soccer program and CYO. Green coached each of his children's CDC basketball teams and also served as a CDC Basketball Commissioner for several years. He and his family are parishioners of Our Lady of Mount Carmel.

Jocelyn Vare to run for Fishers City Council

The REPORTER

Jocelyn Vare on Tuesday announced her entry into the Fishers City Council race as an At Large candidate. With a strong focus on increasing civic engagement and ensuring fair-minded government, Vare says she will bring her extensive experience, a fresh perspective and much-needed transparency to the council. As a member of the Fishers City Council, Vare says she will represent the interests of all Fishers residents.

A 20-year resident of Fishers, Vare has been a Fishers small business owner since 2001 and a community volunteer since 2008. In both her work life and volunteer efforts, Vare combines creativity with sound business strategy to encourage economic growth and enhance the community.

Running as a Democrat with a track record of collaboration, Vare says she views herself as the community's candidate. Among her early priorities, she supports a smart growth strategy for Fishers, which includes more fiscal responsibility and more support for women-owned and small businesses. Vare says she believes that funding and resource investment should reach beyond the downtown Nickel Plate District and into every corner of the city, especially under-utilized commercial areas and aging neighborhoods.

In order to become a vibrant and significant city, Vare says Fishers needs to grow its hourly workforce, maximize the impact of local arts and culture and listen to the creative, entrepreneurial spirit of its diverse residents. Jocelyn believes Fishers can become a place that all residents are proud of, business owners are committed to and visitors come to spend their money and enjoy.

Vare also believes that good government should be based on trust.

"The best ideas often come from residents themselves, not always politicians," said Vare. "Our public officials have a responsibility to listen and learn before making decisions that shape the future or replace the heritage of our community. Fishers residents should be able to trust in the city leaders who represent them, and our city leaders should trust the citizens to participate in a meaningful way."

Vare is the owner of Propeller Marketing, LLC, an advertising agency that promotes tourism and economic development in Indiana communities. Propeller is a certified Indiana Women-Business Enterprise and is located in the historic Eller House in Fishers, near 116th Street and Allisonville Road.

Vare

Vare has grown Propeller Marketing from a one-person shop to a thriving company with gross billings over $1 million. Her leadership has helped to maximize clients' tax-generated funding to achieve a strong return on investment. Smart planning, fiscal responsibility and results reporting are Jocelyn's management priorities for the budgets her team is entrusted with, and her own company's finances as well.

Vare's community service in Fishers has been focused on growing the local creative economy and enhancing arts, culture and quality of life for all Fishers residents. She has collaborated with city leaders and employees, local businesses, arts creators and residents. She currently serves as a member of Fishers' new Arts & Culture Commission, co-chair of Spark!Fishers vendor committee, board secretary of Nickel Plate Arts and president of Fishers Music Works, the community's performing arts non-profit organization.

Vare has previously served as Fishers Arts Council president, Historic Ambassador House board member, Fishers 2040 Plan task force member, steering committee member for Fishers' successful State-wide Cultural District application and coordinator of the annual Nickel Plate District Arts Crawl event.

Vare will host a series of "Ask Me Anything" events on Facebook as well as a series of community listening events in the coming weeks. A schedule for these events will be posted on Facebook in the coming days. For more information about Jocelyn, her campaign or to volunteer, please visit JocelynVareForFishers.com and follow her on Facebook and Twitter.

Noblesville mayoral candidate Chris Jensen announces second pillar of Next Chapter agenda

The REPORTER

Noblesville mayoral candidate Chris Jensen has announced the workforce and economic development policy pillar of his Noblesville's Next Chapter Agenda.

"Building Noblesville's next chapter of economic development depends on building a strong workforce," Jensen said. "Entrepreneurs, cutting-edge companies and good paying jobs come to Noblesville for one reason – because our city has the people, families and community they need to be successful."

"The best way to invest in our community is to invest in our people," said Angie Sutton, Jensen for Noblesville Economic Development Co-Chair and small business owner. "This plan gives our community the tools it needs to make sure every student and current worker have the opportunity to get the training and skills they need to succeed."

The Noblesville's Next Chapter Agenda policy platform is made up of four key pillars that drive Jensen's campaign: Transforming public safety, Protecting and enhancing Historic Downtown, Strong and sustainable workforce development, and Smart infrastructure investment.

"We have an international workforce but we're especially proud to call Noblesville home," said Todd Irwin, Jensen for Noblesville Economic Development policy advisor and CEO of BlueSky Technology Partners, a global e-commerce consultancy headquartered in Noblesville. "I'm honored to work with Chris on his mission to keep building a city that has all the ingredients to attract high-tech businesses, talent and jobs."

The Jensen for Noblesville Workforce and Economic Development plan outlines an agenda for securing Noblesville's economic future.

• Noblesville's economic identity: Noblesville can't grow unless the city knows where it is today. The city should identify its economic strengths and weaknesses and work to build a diverse business portfolio across industries within the city.

• Smart business growth: Knowing where the city is will point to where growth should occur. Anticipating market and employer needs and enhancing the tools used to provide those needs to workers and businesses will give Noblesville a competitive advantage in proactively attracting high quality jobs.

• Pathways to work: The city should strengthen connections between businesses and job-seekers. Noblesville should work with the high school, at the pre-collegiate and technical tracks, community colleges and business organizations to create a clear path from degree to job – including creating a jobs inventory database.

• Focusing economic development: Reorganizing the city's economic development programs to center on workforce development offers the best way forward for Noblesville. This gives the city its best return on investment, while still allowing the city to lead and provide vision on community-wide development initiatives.

Robert Raymond Rodewald

November 15, 1927 – January 31, 2019

Robert Raymond Rodewald, 91, Noblesville, passed away on Thursday, January 31, 2019 at Riverview Health in Noblesville.

Robert wrote:

"If you are reading this in the paper, I'm gone. But let's start at the beginning. I was created by two happy socialists, Helmuth and Hjordis Rodewald, arriving on November 15, 1927 in Milwaukee, Wis. Shortly thereafter, the Great Depression reared its ugly head, causing massive problems for about every adult, but no big deal for this roust about preteen.

Living in socialist Milwaukee in the 1930s was like living in Disneyland. Out and about, starting at three years old, I had beautiful parks, massive swimming pools (with diving boards), a super zoo and dazzling Lake Michigan, all within walking distance of my home. In the winter, the city would build skating rinks at possibly every third schoolyard, with warming huts. What's not to like? Having my dad's street car pass on the weekends made it even better.

In 1939, the Big War started in Europe, ending the Depression, but creating all kind of jobs for this eager teenager: Caddy at 12 years of age, pinsetter at 13, busboy at 14, fry-cook at 15, iceman at 16 (does anyone remember the cards in the front window telling the iceman how large a piece of ice was needed), steelworker at 17 (I had to join the Steelworker's union for this one), and taxicab driver for the rest of my school life.

At this point, I met Charlotte, the first of my three beautiful wives. She accepted my proposal with one caveat: 'You will return to the University of Wisconsin and complete your Engineering degree.' Three years later, we married and quickly had our three kids: Sue, Bob and Jim.

The U. of W. degree provided a path to Ralph Stahl of Stahl Engineering, and 55 years of selling Lindberg Heat Treat Furnaces: The best job that the Good Lord ever created.

With the loss of Charlotte, my life took a big dip, but was brought back to normal with my second wife, Pauline, who added two more kids to my growing flock: Mike and Trish.

Stahl Engineering provided enough income to start three small businesses, travel the world and buy an RV to see all the states.

Another dip occurred with the loss of Pauline. The Internet came to my rescue and gave me Carmela, my present delightful wife and super companion. Carmela also gave me my last child, Karen, her husband, Jeff Mallaber, and their special family.

Along the way, there were little things that made my day: Flying an airplane, skiing a mountain, snorkeling and spearing two lobsters with one shot, bidding and making a grand slam, sailing my little boat and playing drums in the 60-piece Shrine band (what a blast!).

Finally, after watching, listening and enjoying my eight grandchildren, and surely my four great-grandchildren (and counting), I'm convinced I'm immortal."

In lieu of flowers, memorial contributions may be made to Humane Society for Hamilton County, 1721 Pleasant St., Suite B, Noblesville, IN 46060.

TODAY'S BIBLE READING

And if ye lend to them of whom ye hope to receive, what thank have ye? for sinners also lend to sinners, to receive as much again. But love ye your enemies, and do good, and lend, hoping for nothing again; and your reward shall be great, and ye shall be the children of the Highest: for he is kind unto the unthankful and to the evil. Be ye therefore merciful, as your Father also is merciful. Judge not, and ye shall not be judged: condemn not, and ye shall not be condemned: forgive, and ye shall be forgiven: Give, and it shall be given unto you; good measure, pressed down, and shaken together, and running over; shall men give into your bosom. For with the same measure that ye mete withal it shall be measured to you again. And he spake a parable unto them, Can the blind lead the blind? shall they not both fall into the ditch? The disciple is not above his master: but every one that is perfect shall be as his master.

Betty L. Woods

July 25, 1938 – February 4, 2019

Betty L. Woods, 80, Noblesville, passed away on what would have been her husband Al's 94th birthday, Monday, February 4, 2019, at Five Star Residences of Noblesville. She was born on July 25, 1938 to Frank and Georgia Ward Parris in Greene County, Ind.

For 17 years, Betty worked in Accounts Payable for Roche Diagnostics. Before that, she worked many years at Aero Drapery. She still had many of those friends from work when she died. Betty's days started and ended with strong, black coffee; she was fiercely independent and had a very sharp sense of humor. She had already started making new friends and trying new things in her new residence. After a difficult move, several of the staff at Five Star had shared how much they grew to love Betty's special brand of humor and independence in the short time that she lived there, and that she had become a favorite resident.

Betty enjoyed going to amateur theatre, volunteering in the theatre, putting in the yard, planting flowers, listening to Tom Jones music and enthusiastically attending her grandchildren's sporting and musical activities. Betty fought to live as long as she could, and even in her illness loved Tom Jones music, country music, shopping but never purchasing, and dogs. She always missed her husband, Al, as much on her last day as the day he died.

Betty is survived by her sons, Michael (Sondra) Pearson and Allen (Jennie) Woods; step-daughter, Penny Mullins; siblings, Diana Ward, Sharon Ward, Shirley Cox, Janie Ward and Frank Ward Jr.; and two grandchildren, Alden Woods and Bailie Woods.

In addition to her parents, Betty was preceded in death by her husband, Albert C. Woods; her sister, Delores Bagues; and her infant sister, Norma Jean Ward.

Services will be held at 1 p.m. on Thursday, February 7, 2019 at Randall & Roberts Funeral Home, 1150 Logan St., Noblesville, with visitation from 11 a.m. to the time of service. Betty's sister, Shirley Cox, will officiate. Burial will be at Oaklawn Memorial Gardens in Indianapolis.

The family requests that in lieu of flowers, memorial contributions may be made to the American Cancer Society, 5635 W. 96th St., Suite 100, Indianapolis, IN 46278; or to the American Lung Association of Indiana, 115 W. Washington St., Suite 1180-South, Indianapolis, IN 46204.

Third quarter spurt sends Huskies past Blackhawks

By RICHIE HALL
ARCADIA - After a close first half, Hamilton Heights went on a quick run of the third quarter to take control of its county rivalry game with Sheridan on Tuesday at the Huskies' gym.

Heights would go on to win 61-44. It was a nice beginning to what will be a busy week for the Huskies, as this was the first of three games they will host over the next few days.

"We're treating it like a sectional week," said Heights coach Chad Ballenger. "We played Tuesday night and we're going to play Friday night and play Saturday night, just like that same routine we play in sectional."

The Blackhawks came out hot in the first quarter, jumping out to an 11-2 lead. Drake Delph scored four points, while Caleb Duke and Jesse Kolb both made a 3-pointer.

The Huskies went on an 8-0 run to get back within 11-10, with Cory Vonfeldt and Issiac Hickok both hitting 3s and Gus Etchison making a basket. Kyle Eden made a traditional three-point play for Sheridan with around a minute left, but AJ Field answered that with a 3-point basket, keeping Heights within 14-13 after one.

The 'Hawks led 17-13 a minute into the second quarter, before the Huskies went on a 10-0 run to lead 23-17. Hudson Hochstedler scored five points in that run. The Blackhawks managed to cut it to 26-24 by the halftime buzzer; Nick Burnell helped out with two late baskets.

"Sheridan was locked in, they did a very good job," said Ballenger, who admitted that his team came out flat. But it was all Heights after that.

The Huskies went on a 15-0 run to start the third quarter, scoring all those points in a two and a half minute span. Etchison got the first six points, all of them off of steals by various members of the team. Hickok drained a 3, then Etchison added five more points.

"We got out in the lanes, we denied," said Ballenger. Heights had six steals during the first few minutes of that third quarter.

"And that's how we want to play," said Ballenger. "Our guys just weren't real focused to begin with. We're still working. We haven't been very good defensively on some nights."

The Blackhawks went on their own 8-0 run midway through the third to get within 43-34. Burnell scored six of those points, including two putbacks. Brent Pennington ended the run with a 3-pointer, and the Huskies used a 7-0 run that bridged the third and fourth periods to get back on top 53-36.

Both teams had 6-0 runs in the fourth quarter, with Heights making its run to finish the game. Etchison scored four points in that final run; he would lead all scorers with 27 points. Field scored nine and led the rebounds with six. The Huskies totaled 13 team steals; Pennington and Hochstedler both had four takeaways.

Delph and Burnell both scored 11 points for Sheridan, with Duke adding 10.

"We were in the exact same position two years ago," said Blackhawks coach Chris Schrank. "Played a really good first half, came back out in the second half. I know Coach Ballenger was in there giving them a little something to get them going. So we knew they were going to come out and be aggressive. We went away from the scouting report. We didn't do the things we talked about to take advantage of that aggressiveness and the result was that real quick run."

The Huskies are 11-6 and host Westfield on Friday. Sheridan is 8-7 and will play a Hoosier Heartland Conference game at Carroll on Friday.

University defends sectional championship

The University girls successfully defended their Sectional 58 championship with a 60-39 win over the Indiana School For the Deaf Monday night.

Jhordan McGuire had 17 points, Maddi Sears 15 and Lindsey Syrek 12 points and 12 rebounds as the Trailblazers improved to 22-2 on the season. University advances to Saturday's regional at Southwestern (Shelbyville) where they will meet Jac-Cen-Del, winners of Sectional 60 in five overtimes Monday night.

University got off to a sluggish start, with the Orioles scoring the first four points of the game. Jhordan McGuire's basket with 6:08 left in the first quarter started an 18-0 Trailblazer run. A Syrek basket and two more McGuire buckets gave University a 8-4 lead.

The Trailblazers then scored 10 points in 34 seconds to break the game open. Syrek scored on a rebound before Jenna Blakley fed Sears for a three pointer. Lucy Snyder stole the ball and found Sears for a lay-in before Lily Snyder stole the inbound and fed McGuire for a lay-in and a free throw and an 18-4 lead.

Another McGuire basket and another Sears three pointer put University on top 23-11 after the first.

The University lead quickly grew to 21 early in to the second quarter. Blakley again assisted on a Sears three pointer. Haley Tomlinson scored her first basket of the night, Sears scored again on a put back and Lily Snyder made two foul shots at University led 32-11 less than two minutes in to the second quarter.

University controlled the rest of the game, leading 38-19 at halftime and 54-28 after three quarters.

Lily Snyder and Tomlinson each had seven points while Blakley had two to round out University's scoring.

The 22 wins represent a program high, surpassing the 21 wins by the 2008-09 squad. University will be attempting to win their third regional and first in ten years. The Blazers won in 2008 and 2009.

The noon matchup with Jac-Cen-Del will be a rematch of last year's regional semi-final won by the Eagles 66-57.

Pacers beat Lakers, tie 3-point record

By GREG RAPPAPORT

Courtesy nba.com/pacers

Just one minute into the fourth quarter at Bankers Life Fieldhouse, rookie Aaron Holiday dribbled the ball facing his defender. Without hesitation, Holiday pulled up and hit his third three of the night, pushing Indiana's advantage over the visiting Lakers to over 30 points.

The Pacers — who had one of their best shooting nights in history, tying a franchise-record with 19 3-pointers — cruised to victory from there, beating LeBron James and the Lakers 136-94 on Tuesday night.

"I think the road trip was good for us to kind of get away from home and bond a little bit," said Myles Turner after the game. "We dropped the first two but came together the last couple ones and we just gotta keep it rolling now."

Indiana's 3-point shooting was simply sublime all night and it was apparent from the early going as a number of players caught fire and stayed that way.

The barrage of 3-pointers came from all over the Pacers (35-19) roster on Tuesday. Sharpshooter Bojan Bogdanovic led the team in scoring with 24 points, hitting 4-of-10 shots from deep. Myles Turner wasn't far behind, adding 22 points and four blocks in a dominant performance that helped lead to Indiana's third straight win.

Off of the bench, guards Aaron Holiday, Cory Joseph, and Edmond Sumner combined to go 9-of-12 from downtown.

"Our young guys played really well tonight," said Darren Collison. "They handle adversity pretty good. I know they seem like they've been overthinking, but tonight they just kind of played their games out there. They had fun and they gave us a boost."

One of the only Pacers who didn't even attempt a 3-point shot on the night was Thaddeus Young, who nearly notched a triple-double in just 24 minutes, finishing with 12 points, 11 rebounds, and eight assists.

James, who only recently returned from a groin injury suffered on December 25th, was the leading scorer for the Lakers (27-27), notching 18 points and nine assists.

In his much-anticipated return to Bankers Life Fieldhouse, former Pacer Lance Stephenson struggled to find a rhythm, going 3-of-7 from the field and finishing with 13 points and two assists.

Things were going well for the Pacers essentially from the tip, as Bogdanovic started the night dialed in, making four straight buckets to propel Indiana to a 10-2 lead.

When early foul trouble sent Bog-danovic to the bench, Myles Turner took control of the offense, scoring 11 straight points for Indiana to push ahead 26-21.

Just as it seemed like the Lakers might take the lead, Indiana's bench unit kicked into gear, closing the opening quarter with a 5-0 sprint highlighted by Sumner's first career 3-pointer as time expired to put the Pacers up 33-26.

With the second quarter underway, Indiana's offense continued to roll, embarking on what became a 14-2 run that featured seven points from Holiday. The run lifted the Pacers' lead to 42-28, and forced an early timeout from Lakers head coach Luke Walton.

Out of the stoppage, Lakers forward JaVale McGee sent home back-to-back jams, making it a 10-point game, but it once again ignited a landslide of Pacers offense, outscoring the Lakers 25-6 as the frenzy lifted Bankers Life Fieldhouse to its feet.

During one sequence, the Pacers got three 3-pointers on three consecutive trips down the floor, one from Bogdanovic and two from Turner, helping lift Indiana to its sizable 69-46 advantage at the break. The 69-point first half was the Pacers' most points scored in a first half this season.

As the third quarter began, the Lakers got a few quick buckets from forward Kyle Kuzma, making it a 70-50 Pacers lead. But Indiana's offense again had the answer, going on a 13-3 dash to jump ahead by as much as 30 when Tyreke Evans connected on a three from the wing.

The Lakers weren't without fight, getting their deficit back to 18 points as McGee and James provided an offensive punch.

But to close the quarter, it was the Pacers who delivered the punch once again, as a pair of threes from Joseph and Holiday, followed by a baseline jumper from Doman-tas Sabonis helped deliver Indiana a walloping 101-73 lead entering the fourth quarter at the Fieldhouse.

In the final quarter, the deluge of Pacers points continued, as Indiana outscored the Lakers 35-21 in the final period, picking up their third straight win with ease on the second night of a back-to-back.

"It was going to be a circus with the Lakers and LeBron coming into town, a lot of media attention," said Pacers head coach Nate McMillan after the win. "For us, it was about playing better than the last time we saw these guys and playing better than we did last night. I thought our guys did that. The energy from start to finish was there, the execution was there."
