Will Durbin Elementary building expand or relocate in the future?

By LARRY LANNAN
LarryInFishers.com

The recent redistricting plan approved by the Hamilton Southeastern (HSE) school board, and the opening in August of the new Southeastern Elementary School, will reduce the need to use portable classrooms around the district. However, Superintendent Allen Bourff told the school board Wednesday night that even with that, up to four elementary buildings in the HSE district will be above capacity and there will continue to be some portables in use during the next school year.

One solution to the overcrowding in some buildings would be the expansion of Durbin Elementary in Wayne Township. All of Wayne Township is part of the HSE district.

The lack of utilities in that rural area of Durbin and the cost of extending utility service to the school has held back any plans to renovate Durbin with an eye on adding as many as 200 students. Bourff did say that expansion at Durbin would result in no elementary portable classrooms in the district. Bourff says there have been some recent discussions on options for Durbin.

"We've been in contact with some developers looking at other opportunities for the future of Durbin Elementary," Bourff told the board.

There are many options on what to do with Durbin. One option is to renovate and expand the capacity at the current location. But Bourff says the school corporation owns land to the south of the current location and moving there is another option.

But the discussions with private developers and the City of Noblesville have opened up the possibility of other options for a Durbin location. Bourff said he could not reveal what other locations are under discussion, but all would need to include utility access.

Bourff emphasized to the board he has nothing to announce at this time, but discussions continue on the future of Durbin Elementary.

Shots fired in Carmel road rage Taking a stand against hate

The REPORTER

A road rage incident Friday morning near 106th Street and Michigan Road resulted in shots fired.

According to Carmel Police Lt. Joe Bickel, two individuals were involved in a fight in the Village Pantry parking lot in what police believe to be part of a road rage incident. Bickel stated at some point during the fight one of the individuals fired shots at the other subject's vehicle.

Bickel stated the incident is still under investigation and the identities of those involved have not yet been released.

For the past several years, there has been an increase in the number of bias-motivated crimes reported throughout the country. Because of these growing numbers, a state-wide hate crimes statute is in high demand from businesses and religious groups. In an effort to protect all Hoosiers from criminals who may target them for who they are, I authored House Bill 1020 to increase penalties for these crimes.

State Representative

or perceived traits like race, religion, disability, gender identity and sexual orientation. Discrimination targeting these characteristics happens every day. The Indiana Civil Rights Commission received 2,874 cases of discrimination in 2017. Nearly half of the cases were for discrimination based on a disability, one-third were related to race, and the remaining cases dealt with other characteristics such as religion, sex, family status or national origin.

Motivation and intent are already considered in criminal trials. A bias crimes bill would add another tool for judges to use when sentencing. This proposal for a new law would not criminalize any speech, no matter how shocking. It is only when the hatred that fuels that speech turns into criminal action, such as assault, that a bias crime law would be applied as an aggravating circumstance and lengthen a criminal sentence.

Hate crimes target specific groups based on real

Police departments across Indiana reported nearly 80 hate crime incidents to the FBI in 2016. However, data suggests there were likely more since not every county is required to report this information. Based on data gathered from victims, the Department of Justice's Bureau of Justice Statistics suggests there were likely 35 times as many hate crimes than the reports generated by police.

Summer full of fun memories awaits at Noblesville Parks' Noble Kids Camp

The REPORTER

The Noblesville Parks and Recreation staff is looking to build on the success of the annual Noble Kids Camp and will continue to offer all-day summer camps and preschool camps in June and July as options for Noblesville parents and children.

"Camp is one of the best ways to spend your summer, making new friends, seeing old ones, playing games and creating memories. We are excited to have another great lineup of themes planned for this summer and can't wait to spend time with your child," said Amber Mink, recreation program coordinator.

Similar to previous years, the two camp host sites - Dr. James A. Dillon Park, 6001 Edenshall Lane; and Forest Park, 701 Cicero Road - will offer the same themes and similar programming making it more convenient for parents and transportation. Summer camps are available for ages 6 to 12.

All-day camps run 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Pricing is the same as last year with one week of summer camp costing Noblesville residents $125 ($155 for non-residents). Another option for parents is before and/or after care available starting at 7 a.m. and running until 6 p.m. Before care is $10 and after care is $15 for the week.

"The themes and options of Noble Kids Camp provide an abundant mixture of enjoyment, physical activity, education and social interaction in the safe environments of our parks and under the watchful eye of our highly trained counselors," Noblesville Parks Director Brandon Bennett said.

Dillon Park will offer one additional camp the week of July 29. Only Forest Park campers will have the option to swim at the Forest Park Aquatic Center once a week. Campers will have to take a swim test to be permitted to be in the lap pool. Campers will have lifeguards and will swim with a few counselors. All other campers will remain at the splash pad.

The 2019 Noble Kids Camp schedule includes:

- Ultimate Sports, June 3-7 - This week the camp will step up your game with Ultimate Sports. Dodgeball, volleyball, gaga, capture the flag and many other activities.
- Mad Scientists, June 10-14 - BOOM! BANG! POP! This week will be full of fun science experiments and activities that will leave your scientist creating their own questions to investigate.
- Spy Kids, June 17-21 - Get ready for a spy adventure by creating your own spy kit, going on scavenger hunts and solving mysteries.

June 24-28 - Beat the summer heat with wacky water fun. Come ready to get wet and enjoy water games, relays, water balloons and team competitions.

• Contests and Competitions, July 15-19 - Each day this week will include a contest or competition. Bring your competitive spirit as campers compete individually and as teams, too.

My bill would require consistent reporting of these crimes throughout Indiana.

Not only is passing a hate crimes law the right thing to do, it is the smart thing to do. Having specific protected groups would help attract economic development from other states and countries. Indiana Forward is a coalition of more than 700 businesses, academic institutions, religious groups and other organizations advocating for the passage of a clear, specific and inclusive hate crimes law. They support including race, ethnicity, religion, national origin, sex, disability, gender identity and sexual orientation as protected characteristics in our state. By having a law that clearly protects specific characteristics of individuals, businesses will know Indiana is a welcoming state.

As only one of five states without hate crime legislation, I believe it is time for a change. More specifically, Indiana needs a bias crime law with unambiguous protected classes in order to defend Hoosiers who are more likely to be victims of hateful attacks. I have heard from many constituents on this topic as I have refined this bill, and I encourage you to share your thoughts and opinions with me on this matter by emailing me at h32@iga.in.gov or calling at (317) 232-9863.

I was born and raised right here in Noblesville. I grew up in a home without domestic violence or assault - it wasn't something I saw, or even heard about.

But when I was introduced to Prevail of Central Indiana, I was shocked by the number of individuals who are affected by domestic violence. In 2018 alone, Prevail helped more than 4,000 clients in Hamilton County. (Nearly 80 percent of clients are women and children.)

Prevail is strictly confidential, and since their core values include integrity and respect, they provide their services at no charge. Domestic violence and abuse are hard topics to discuss, so you don't often hear about them. But at Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville, we're breaking the taboo and raising awareness for Prevail, an organization that helps families in Hamilton County.

- Mike Bragg, GM of Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville

To help Hamilton County families affected by domestic violence and sexual abuse, you can donate the following items:

- Art supplies (for children to journal and express their emotions)
- Bottled water (8 oz. bottles, preferably)
- Individually packaged snacks
- Gas cards (many women have no access to funds after fleeing their abuser)

You can drop off items at Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville, located at 14701 Tom Wood Way. You can also donate directly to Prevail of Central Indiana by visiting Prevailinc.org.

Car captured driving on Monon Trail in Carmel

By BRENNA DONNELLY
WISH-TV | wishtv.com

A cell phone camera captured three pictures of an SUV driving on the Monon Greenway Trail in Carmel.

The photos were taken by Alisha Hiatt from the Monon Community Center. She told the Reporter's news gather partner WISH-TV she saw the car enter the trail on 111th Street, drive north to 116th Street, then turn around and drive back to 111th Street.

She posted the photos to Facebook and it picked up hundreds of comments from Carmel residents. Several said they can't blame the driver for picking the only road in town without potholes. Others wondered if the car was an official city vehicle doing maintenance.

News 8 reached out to Carmel Police Lieutenant Joseph Bickel, who said vehicles on the Monon Trail for official business will be marked. He said the silver SUV appears to be in violation of the city ordinance regarding unauthorized vehicles on the Monon Greenway.

Violations could result in a citation or warning, according to Lt. Bickel.

Formstack, a software firm, has announced it will be moving tech jobs to Fishers.

The firm will occupy the third floor of the Four Day Ray Building in the downtown Fishers Nickel Plate District.

"The City of Fishers shares the same spirit of entrepreneurship and innovation we hold dear at Formstack," said Formstack CEO Chris Byers in a news release. "Our move to Fishers is a reinvestment and recommitment to the growing tech ecosystem in central Indiana."

Formstack was founded by Ade Olonoh in February 2006 to provide users with online data capture services. Since 2006, Formstack has grown. Led by Byers since 2010, Formstack has launched dozens of new products and has been recognized as one of the fastest-growing private companies in the U.S. by Inc. Magazine. Formstack is a perennial Best Places to Work in Indiana honoree and an Indianapolis Business Journal Fast 25 company.

"Our efforts to bring top-tier companies like Formstack to Fishers have been key to becoming one of the best places to live in America," said Mayor Scott Fadness. "We recognize the impact Formstack has on the SaaS community, and we're proud that they've decided to relocate to Fishers." (SaaS is a software distribution model in which a third-party provider hosts applications and makes them available to customers over the Internet.)

Formstack acquired Toronto-based QuickTapSurvey in 2018 and Fast Forms in 2017.

Noblesville mayoral candidate announces Ask Mike Anything

The REPORTER

On Feb. 11, the Noblesville Chamber of Commerce and League of Women Voters held the first of three Candidate Conversation events, which give the citizens of Noblesville a chance to hear from the candidates running for mayor in the May 7 Republican primary. "I was energized and extremely encouraged to see so many citizens in attendance," said Mike Corbett, candidate for mayor. "I've been hearing from so many people for years now that they desire a new kind of leadership and I think the interest shown in this first candidate forum shows that people are serious about being involved and connected with their next mayor."

Corbett has made transparency and reconnecting City Hall with the people it serves the main principle guiding his campaign. "Mike and I talk regularly about how his administration will create a culture of inclusion and transparency when he becomes mayor," said Campaign Manager Michael Saner. "It's hard not to talk about ... everything he does centers around what's best for the people living and working in Noblesville, and I think when your only goal is to do what's best for the people you're going to want them to know exactly what you're up to, there's nothing to hide." With the goal of meeting people where they are, a digital campaign was launched called "Ask Mike Anything" that seeks to extend the opportunity that citizens had to submit questions directly to a candidate. Any Noblesville resident who has a question they'd like to ask Mike can go to mikecorbettformayor.com/ama to submit a question. Everyone who submits a question will get a personal reply from Mike. Submitted questions and answers will be added to the Ask Mike Anything webpage as well as shared through social media so that others in the community can benefit from the information as well. "To me, transparency means being open and honest. This is just one way of living that out," said Corbett. The sponsors of the Candidate Conversation event have promised to provide candidates with all of the questions that were submitted by the public. Mike Corbett will be publicizing answers to those questions on his website, mikecorbettformayor.com, and through social media. For more information, please visit mikecorbettformayor.com. "Celebrating Black History Through You" on February 25

I was in college before I heard of Black Wall Street. Black Wall Street was a neighborhood on Greenwood Avenue in Tulsa, Oklahoma in the early 1900s where African Americans had created a self-sufficient infrastructure with a prosperous business community. The area was over 36 square blocks with 600 black owned businesses. It had its own grocery store, barbershop, doctors, real estate offices, schools and newspaper. The community supported its own churches and had 21 restaurants. Six of the black business owners owned their own planes at a time when the entire state of Oklahoma only had two airports. It was a fascinating and highly successful community for more than two decades.

Without the focus on Black History during the month of February, these stories simply haven't been told. The impact of people of color on our country has been largely absent from our traditional history books. Reader: "I, too, was Brainard gullible"

Dear Editor: I realized the error of my ways during the 2012 Carmel bailout. That was the first time I had observed Mayor Brainard saying things he knew not to be right at the time he stated them. You can call that what you will; I know what I call it when someone intentionally makes an inaccurate statement for their own benefit. Remember the 2012 bailout? That was when Brainard and the Carmel Redevelopment Commission made Carmel financially unsustainable. Councilor Jeff Worrell knew because he was a member of the CRC from 2006 until after the 2018. Even Jeff acknowledged the debt they had created was unsustainable. So, it is true that a note was posted on my site Concerned Neighbors of Carmel IN by me. Apparently, one person, that may have their own motives, made baseless accusations it was "stolen" from the Mayor's trash. Quote below: D.G.M.: "Going through a person's trash from their private home and stealing their US mail is a CRIME." Numerous comments followed, most of which questioned the accuser's credibility. Finally, the person addressed me directly and asked: D.G.M.: "Rick Smith how did you get this?"

Rick Smith: "Well, it was all on the down low. After hearing Adam Declared Allegiance to the Mayor, I staked out the Mayor's trash. It took two weeks of searching but I knew sooner or later I would find it..." This would be considered obvious sarcasm by the most casual observer. Indeed 10 of 14 emoticons were of laughter, so ~70 percent took it as a joke and D.G.M. was the only person that seemed to be unable to detect it was sarcasm. Apparently, it went right over this person's tightly-curved head. Imagine believing that someone would have been ignorant enough to try to go through the Mayor's trash, on his property, in plain view during the weather we have had over the last few weeks. There was no way I expected anyone to be that gullible. I am informed that now a large number of people on Carmel social media's Facebook page have swallowed this nonsense hook, line and sinker. So, ladies and gentlemen, a single uninformed person exposes the leaky basket of remaining gullibles that believe virtually anything they are told to think or believe by the Mayor or his cheerleaders. As far as any candidate being connected to my campaign, that too is fallacious. If you go to my page, you will see I announce both Republican and Democrat candidates for office. I started my site in August of 2017 well before any of the candidates except the incumbents were known. I support any candidate that is not Jim Brainard or one of his puppet Councilors. Friends, don't let your friends be gullible! Rick Smith Noblesville Concerned Neighbors of Carmel IN

AG Curtis Hill: Be suspicious of advertising mailers claiming you have won a prize

The REPORTER

Indiana Attorney General Curtis Hill is warning Hoosiers to be skeptical of advertising mailers claiming they have won prizes – especially when “winners” must pick up prizes at car dealerships or other sales-oriented venues.

“Typically, the announcement that ‘you’re a winner’ is merely a ploy to entice you to go listen to someone’s sales pitch,” Hill said. “We want Hoosiers to be alert to all varieties of misleading advertising so they can avoid wasting their time or, even worse, getting talked into making ill-advised purchases.”

In the last 12 months, the Office of the Attorney General has filed lawsuits against five promotional firms in connection with deceptive auto-advertising mailers promising prize winnings. Thus far, lawsuits have resulted in judgments against two such firms; the other three are pending.

Most recently – on Feb. 10 – a Marion County court approved a consent agreement between the state and Traffic Jam Events LLC, which resolved claims by the Attorney General that the promoter violated Indiana law.

The complaint alleged the following with regard to Traffic Jam Events:

- The company sent mailers to more than 443,000 Indiana residents. As part of promotions orchestrated on behalf of auto dealers, Traffic Jam Events sent out game pieces such as scratch-offs. The mailings indicated that recipients with winning game pieces had won significant prizes – such as $5,000 cash, an iPad or a $500 gift card.

• Each mailing, however, contained identical game pieces with winning numbers. Thus, each mailing communicated to all recipients that they had won significant prizes when they had not. Recipients who went to dealerships to claim winnings were then awarded their “prizes” – typically nominal items such as $5 gift cards. Then they were subjected to sales pitches for vehicles.

The Attorney General claimed the mailings violated the Deceptive Consumer Sales Act in multiple ways – including false representations that recipients won specific prizes and false representations that the game pieces in the mailings determined whether recipients won prizes. Further, the complaint alleged the prize mailings also violated the Promotional Gifts and Contests Act by failing to include on the prize mailings the name and address of the promoter (Traffic Jam Events); failure to correctly state the odds of winning and the retail value of the prizes potentially awarded; and failure to include a disclaimer that recipients would be subjected to a sales pitch when claiming their prizes.

The consent agreement entered between the parties and approved by the court requires Traffic Jam Events to pay the State of Indiana a civil penalty in the amount of $57,500.

Traffic Jam Events is also required to include various specific disclosures in its mailings. It is also prohibited from sending any mailings that claim recipients have won prizes when they have not; from representing game pieces as determinant as to whether recipients have won prizes; from classifying recipients as “winners” unless they have actually won a substantial prize; and from any other future violations of Indiana law.

In addition, Traffic Jam Events is required to provide the Attorney General with copies of all mailings it sends to Indiana recipients over the next three years so the Attorney General can monitor Traffic Jam Events’ compliance with the judgment.

The other four promotional firms involved with auto dealers and sued by the state within the last 12 months are:

- Dealer Direct Services Inc.
- DBR Integrity Promotions, Inc.
- Prophecy Marketing
- Xcel Media Group

If you believe you have been the victim of any type of scam or attempted scam, the Office of the Attorney General can help. To file a complaint, go to indianaconsumer.com or call 1-800-382-5516.

Hagerman Group VP receives TAP’s Lifetime Achievement Award

The REPORTER

Terry Greene, executive vice president of The Hagerman Group, received the 2019 Lifetime Achievement Award from the Trade Association Professionals (TAP) at the event, “What’s on TAP,” held at the Indiana Landmarks Center on Jan. 31.

TAP is an organization that focuses on keeping professionals informed on issues in the architecture, engineering and construction industry. The award is based on criteria including history in the industry, association contributions, achievements, impact on the company and industry, and letters of support.

“The TAP Lifetime Achievement Award was created as a way to give back and recognize an individual in the A/E/C industry who has made a significant impact throughout their career to their company, their time and devotion contributing to the success of various industry associations, and to highlight their notable achievements,” said Pam McNealy, member of the TAP board of directors and director of business development at AECOM Hunt. “On behalf of the TAP board, we congratulate Terry Greene as he is so deserving of this honor and is a true role model for giving back, mentoring others, and always raising the bar.”

Past Lifetime Achievement Award Recipients include Don Altemeyer (2012), the late Darrell Gossett (2013), Mark Shambaugh (2014), Rick Ford (2015), Karen Courtney (2016), Jim Schellinger

(2017), and Dan Rawlins (2018).

“I’m honored to be part of an elite group of past recipients of the Lifetime Achievement Award,” Greene said.

Greene – a registered professional engineer – received his Bachelor of Science and Master of Science in civil engineering from the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign and entered the construction industry 44 years ago. He joined Hagerman in 1998 when the firm acquired then-Geupel DeMars. After serving as president of both Geupel DeMars Hagerman and Hagerman, Inc., Greene became responsible for business development, marketing and corporate development at The Hagerman Group.

“If anyone is deserving of this prestigious honor, it would be Terry Greene,” said Jeff Hagerman, chairman of The Hagerman Group. “He has committed his life to improve the lives of others, both professionally and personally. Our corporate vision is ‘Building a Better Future,’ and that phrase embodies all that Terry promotes and endures. He has been building a better future for almost five decades for our company, our industry, our state, our peers and his family. We are extremely thankful to have him as part of our family.”

“Countless people have taken the time to reach out and congratulate me, which is just as meaningful to me as the award,” Greene said.

Greene’s industry involvement includes significant service to the Indiana Construction Roundtable. He helped launch the organization’s industry outreach committee and its first annual conference, an event he co-chaired in its third year, when the conference had a record number of sponsorships and attendees.

“Throughout our organization’s existence, Terry has been a strong advocate for our organization and the industry at large,” said Indiana Construction Roundtable President Chris Price. “His thoughtfulness, strategic thinking, passion and follow through have been instrumental to our organizational growth. The impact and legacy of Terry’s hard work and leadership will remain for many years to come.”

When TAP presented Greene with the award, he talked about the importance of building relationships and giving back. “Since the award was a surprise, unbeknownst to me, the letters of support highlighted the same things,” Greene said. “It felt good to know that the things that are important to me are noticed by others, too.”

“As one of my mentors, Terry took the time to listen to my concerns and objectively give me guidance and feedback when it was needed,” said Molly Burns, who worked with Terry for 12 years and is now business development manager at F.A. Wilhelm Construction. “Constructive feedback is important to growth; Terry always found a way to give me feedback that I needed and help me grow professionally.”

“Terry is great at making personal connections and developing relationships with clients,” said Lisa Gomperts, FAIA, LEED AP, project manager and principal at Schmidt Associates. “He instills a sense of confidence and approaches projects strategically to help owners make informed decisions. In addition, Terry develops strong working relationships with design professionals and contractors, creating partnerships that lead to successful projects.”

“When I think of Terry Greene, I think of words like: Connector, helper, knowledgeable and most importantly, a friend to all,” said Debra Kunce, FAIA, managing principal at CORE Planning Strategies. “Of course, Terry Greene knows construction, but that’s only the foundational layer of Terry. It’s all of his other qualities that make Terry the best candidate for Lifetime Achievement.”

Greyhounds top Warren, win outright MIC title

By RICHIE HALL

CARMEL - This year's senior class at Carmel has won many games, four straight sectional titles and made it all the way to the Class 4A state championship game last season.

But there was thing the Greyhounds' Class of 2019 hadn't done yet: Win a Metropolitan Conference championship.

Carmel finally took care of that little detail Friday night in front of a packed Eric Clark Activity Center. The 4A No. 2 Greyhounds got off to a fast start and led No. 1 Warren Central the entire game, eventually winning 69-52. That gave Carmel the MIC championship, its first since the 2014-15 season. The 'Hounds finished conference play a perfect 7-0.

"It feels awesome," said senior Luke Heady. "To be the undisputed MIC champions is something special and really hard to do, considering the MIC is probably one of the toughest conferences in the country. It really just feels good to get the win at home in front of our crowd."

The Greyhounds led 13-1 midway through the first quarter. Heady hit two 3-pointers during the run, with Andrew Owens adding five points. The Warriors made their own 8-0 run to get with 13-9, but Karsten Windlan's layin put Carmel ahead 15-9 after one.

Jesse Bingham opened the second quarter with a basket, bringing Warren within 15-11. The 'Hounds answered that with nine straight points. Windlan took over the game, scoring the first seven points of that run, then Ben Frische added a pair of free throws. That made Carmel's lead 24-11 with 3:38 left in the half.

"My whole life, I just really wanted to come out and play in a packed crowd like this and have a good Indiana high school basketball game," said Windlan. "So that was really fun. I'm a really emotional, high-energy guy. I just feed off the crowd."

Windlan ended the second quarter like he did the first, with another layin to make the score 31-18. John Michael Mulloy got his first three points of the game late in the period, but he also had eight rebounds.

The Warriors scored two very quick baskets to open the third quarter, necessitating a Carmel timeout just 17 seconds into the half. Shawn Beeler then nailed a 3-pointer, cutting the Greyhounds' lead to 31-25.

But Warren Central's momentum stopped when its bench was called for two technical fouls, sending coach Criss Beyers to the locker room and Carmel to the free throw line, where Heady made three of four foul shots. Seconds later, Heady drained his third 3-pointer of the game, pushing the 'Hounds back up 37-25.

The Warriors stayed close in the third quarter thanks to their long-range shooting, hitting five 3s during the period. Back-to-back triples from Bingham and Jakobie Robinson got Warren within 39-34.

Carmel needed some baskets, and it got them from the seniors. Mulloy scored, then Windlan grabbed a rebound and took it coast to coast for an easy layin, putting the Greyhounds up 43-34. The Warriors cut the lead to six three more times in the period, but Carmel finished the third up 51-41, after another Windlan basket and two Mulloy foul shots.

Greyhounds freshman Peter Suder opened the fourth quarter with two more free throws, putting Carmel ahead 53-41. Bingham made one more 3 for the Warriors, but baskets by Suder and Owens got the Greyhounds a 57-44 lead, and their advantage would stay above 10 points for the remainder of the game. Carmel finished things out from the line, making 12 of 14 free throws in the final 5:08.

Greyhounds coach Ryan Osborn gave credit to his team's veteran leadership after the game.

"It can be a long, grueling season," said Osborn. "And I felt like there was a stretch in January where we lost some joy. We just didn't have a whole lot of passion. And I think we're starting to get that back. And you can see the guys get excited for each other. That's half the battle. If they're cheering for each other, stuff goes well, they're excited for each other, I think that as a coach, that tells you that you've still got some growing to do and there could be good things ahead. That's probably what I'm most proud of."

Four Greyhounds reached double figures. Windlan led the way with 19 points and five rebounds, while Heady scored 18, including three 3-pointers. Mulloy reached double-double status by collecting 13 rebounds to go with 11 points; he also dished out four assists. Suder scored 10 and was 6-of-6 from the free throw line.

Carmel is now 18-1 and will host Warsaw at 7:30 p.m. tonight.

Huskies' Elaina Page to play soccer for Franklin College

Elaina Page, Hamilton Heights' senior, has signed a letter of intent to play soccer for the Franklin College Grizzlies in Franklin, Indiana this fall. Franklin College is a member of the Heartland Collegiate Athletic Conference (HCAC). She is the daughter of Matt Page and Kerry Sawyer.

Page, who has been playing soccer since she was five, quickly took to the sport which developed into a year-round passion. Page ultimately chose Franklin College because of the campus environment, quality of education and faculty, and opportunity to play soccer at the collegiate level. "The family atmosphere shown to me by the coaches and players along with the soccer program's proven success made Franklin the right pick for me," said Elaina Page, who broke Hamilton Heights girls soccer single-season scoring record as a senior with an impressive 31 goals.

"I am excited about attending Franklin College and what the future holds," continued Page, who plans to study Business Administration and minor in Marketing. This four-year varsity letterman and senior team captain was named to the All-State (honorable mention) Team and 1st Team All District her senior year. Other recognitions included 1st Team All County, 1st Team All-Conference, and Offensive MVP her junior and senior years.

She credits her family, especially her dad, as being a major influence in her development as a strong student athlete. "My Hoosier FC club coach, Sean Yau, and high school coach, Travis Kauffman, helped shape me into the confident and focused player and person I am today."

In addition to being a hard-working member of her club and high school teams, Page is a member of Hamilton Heights Business Professionals of America (BPA) Club and volunteers at the Humane Society of Hamilton County.

"I am very excited and proud for Elaina to be able to continue to play at the collegiate level," said Travis Kauffman, Girls Soccer Head Coach. "She has certainly earned the opportunity to do so just as she has in each role and accolade that's been hers in the past four years at Hamilton Heights High School. Every year she has improved as a player and has also made her teammates better in the process. Elaina has been an unselfish player, always looking to see the team and her teammates do well, succeed, and receive recognition. It's been a joy to have her as a part of the Hamilton Heights soccer program and we wish her all the best."

"Elaina has been a very dedicated and committed soccer athlete at Hamilton Heights the past four years," added Kurt Ogden, Hamilton Heights Athletic Director. "She has also been a tremendous leader on and off the field. We are proud of what she has accomplished at Hamilton Heights and even more proud that she gets the opportunity to continue her soccer career at Franklin College."
