The Del-Mi Scouting District met with Noblesville Mayor John Ditslear on Tuesday. Scouts learned about local government and how to be good citizens.

Mayor Ditslear hosts Noblesville Scouts to discuss local government, community

The REPORTER

Tuesday evenings inside the Noblesville City Hall Council Chambers are typically host to public actions and hearings, but the off week between council meetings was home to a different form of local government – education. The Del-Mi Scouting District held an event on April 2 for local Noblesville scouts, leaders and families to "Meet the Mayor."

Noblesville Mayor John

Ditslear provided his insight on what it is like to be the mayor, his journey to becoming the mayor, and gave scouts an opportunity to ask him their own questions. A former Boy Scout, Ditslear showed off his old uniform and shared stories of campouts when he was a teen – including relocating a mother skunk and her babies that were too close to troop tents.

"Scouting not only prepares our youth with tools and values essential to becoming leaders and active citizens, it provides unique experiences and empowerment," said Ditslear. "I remember my days of Scouting fondly and hope that today's members enjoy their time in the program as well."

The casual event helped Scouts understand local government and how they can do more in the community as citizens.

This event also helped earn some of the requirements for the Citizenship in the Community Merit Badge.

Boy Scouts of America is excited to have the opportunity for our Scouts to meet Mayor Ditslear. What an honor for our Noblesville Scouts to be recognized for their contributions to the community, ask questions about what it's like to be mayor, and about being a good citizen in the community. But the best part is for them to hear from the mayor about his personal Scouting experiences," Del-Mi District Executive Elizabeth Tollefson said.

In addition to assisting with popcorn sales and recognizing Scouts at public meetings, the annual Noblesville Mayor's Breakfast for Scouting in February has raised a total of $738,500 during Ditslear's four terms.

Late Night on Main returning to Carmel

The REPORTER

Late night street parties in the Carmel Arts & Design District will return on three occasions in 2019. The City will shut down one block of Main Street to make way for musical entertainment, dancing in the street and enjoying the eats and treats from local vendors.

Mark your calendars for Late Night on Main events on Friday, May 24 with Toy Factory, Saturday, Sept. 7 with Fun Factor and Saturday, Oct. 5 with LemonWheel.

"These well-loved events bring a boost to our night life entertainment in the Arts & Design District and bring the community together to share in a night of dancing, dining and shopping," said Mayor Jim Brainard.

With the goal of bringing more attention to different sections of Main Street, the Late Night on Main events will again be moved east and west on Main Street throughout the year. For May's event, East Main Street from Range Line Road to 1st Street NE will be utilized; the stage will be near Woody's Library Restaurant and Visit Hamilton County.

September's and October's event locations are yet to be determined and will be based on the construction and relocation of a Duke Energy transmission line along 1st Avenue NW/Veterans Way.

Noblesville Parks offering counselors in training program during summer

The REPORTER

Noblesville Parks and Recreation is offering a summer Counselors in Training program for 12- to 17-year-olds to learn and lead children at Noble Kids Camp, the full-day, week-long summer camp. This is the third year for the parks department to offer the teen mentorship program.

In addition to providing a place to grow friendship amongst other teens looking to become leaders, the mentorship program will provide a unique adventure opportunity as well as engage the teens in a service project each week.

"The Counselors in Training program is a great opportunity for students who are maybe too old for summer camp, but still want to stay active over break," said Recreation Program Coordinator Amber Mink. "They will learn skills throughout the program that will continue to benefit them after summer camp is over – such as interviewing and organiz-tional skills and scheduling."

All interested teens will interview for the mentorship, be required to go through staff training from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. June 5 to 7, and be given specific tasks for the week. To set up an interview, contact Kaitlyn Smith at (317) 776-6350 or ksmith@noblesville.in.us. Interviews must be set up by Monday, May 13 and a maximum of 15 people will be selected for the program.

Noblesville Schools receives fourth consecutive music education honor

The REPORTER

Noblesville Schools announced Monday it has been named a 2019 Best Community for Music Education winner by the National Association of Music Merchants (NAMM) Foundation. This is the fourth consecutive year Noblesville Schools has earned the honor.

The national recognition highlights school districts for their outstanding a part of the core school curriculum.

Noblesville Schools is one of only 12 districts in Indiana to receive the designation this year and one of even fewer to have received the honor for four consecutive years.

Districts were selected based on music funding, staffing of highly qualified music teachers, commitment to standards and access to music instruction.

Activate Indy launches in Central Indiana

The REPORTER

Thrivent Financial, in conjunction with Truth at Work, has launched Activate Indy, a volunteerism and leadership development program centered around not-for-profits in Central Indiana. The group is led by Truth at Work board members Ray Hilbert and Mark Hall.

"I am honored to be a part of this community volunteerism explosion," said Hall. "Our corporate service projects include the Feeding Families initiative where we get to see firsthand how important volunteerism is to several Activate Indy charities. It is rewarding to be a part of serving so many of our neighbors."

Activate Indy is designed to develop leadership and target the growth of volunteerism within the services that each provide to the community. The folks at Truth at Work and Thrivent have underwritten "Activate Indy" in part as an effort to help each NFP expand volunteerism, recruit-

I was born and raised right here in Noblesville. I grew up in a home without domestic violence or assault – it wasn't something I saw, or even heard about. But when I was introduced to Prevail of Central Indiana, I was shocked by the number of individuals who are affected by domestic violence. In 2018 alone, Prevail helped more than 4,000 clients in Hamilton County. (Nearly 80 percent of clients are women and children.) Prevail is strictly confidential, and since their core values include integrity and respect, they provide their services at no charge. Domestic violence and abuse are hard topics to discuss, so you don't often hear about them. But at Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville, we're breaking the taboo and raising awareness for Prevail, an organization that helps families in Hamilton County. – Mike Bragg, GM of Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville

To help Hamilton County families affected by domestic violence and sexual abuse, you can donate the following items:

- Art supplies (for children to journal and express their emotions)
- Bottled water (8 oz. bottles, preferably)
- Individually packaged snacks
- Gas cards (many women have no access to funds after fleeing their abuser)

You can drop off items at Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville, located at 14701 Tom Wood Way. You can also donate directly to Prevail of Central Indiana by visiting Prevailinc.org.

Registration open for Carmel Clay Parks & Rec summer programs

The REPORTER

Registration for Carmel Clay Parks & Recreation (CCPR) summer programs is underway. Throughout the summer season, which runs May through August, the organization is offering 882 programs, including 50 new programs.

The summer Program Guide received an organizational update. This change was based on community feedback and will make programs of interest for all ages easier to find. Within the guide, programs are now organized by the following topics: Nature, adaptive, science and technology, creative arts, enrichment, sports, aquatics, senior and wellness. Each topic of programs is then organized by age group.

CCPR's nature programming is designed to connect the community with the organization's expansive natural resources. This summer CCPR is offering 19 nature programs, including five new programs, including Pollinator Palooza, Zoology and Biology Adventures, and Stars and Space.

Summer is a great time of year to get in the water. CCPR has swim lessons and aquatic programming including these debut programs: Summer Swimtacular Stroke Clinics, Summer

Swimtacular Swim Meet and United Water Polo.

The community can explore these new programs in the categories of science and technology, creative arts and sports: Brawler Bots, Apprentice Robotics Challenge, Country Line Dance, Musical Adventures, Live on TV!, Let's Go Lacrosse and Ninja Runners.

Physical copies are available at the Monon Community Center and the electronic version can be found online at carmelclay-parks.com/programs.

Register for programs online at carmelclay-parks.com or in person at the Monon Community Center.

Carmel businesses, organizations to help residents shred, recycle

The REPORTER

Last year, more than 15.4 million Americans were victims of identity theft. To help fight fraud, a handful of community groups are joining together for a document shredding, electronics recycling, bulk item and drug disposal event from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturday, April 27 in the parking lot of Creekside Middle School, located on the southeast corner of West 126th Street and Shelborne Road.

The event is sponsored by a team of organizations including AARP, Carmel Utilities, Carmel Police Department, Crime Stoppers of Central Indiana, Technology Recyclers, Shred-it and WISH-TV. AARP Indiana will hand out information about their free Fraud Watch Network and Zionsville and Boone County Sheriff's Department will assist.

Shredding

Identity theft is one of the fastest growing crimes today and most identity information is still obtained through hard copy paper sources. Shredding significantly reduces your risk when disposing of confidential information. It is recommended that you shred any documents that include a signature, account number, Social Security number, medical or legal information.

The professional shredding is sponsored by Shred-it to benefit Crime Stoppers of Central Indiana. A donation is requested of $5 per banker-box size container or equivalent.

Recycling

The following items will be accepted: All computers, servers, peripherals, wiring, cable, battery backups, monitors, TVs ($10 charge per monitor or TV); all electronics, phones, stereos, headsets, DVD players, any small appliance; IT equipment including hubs, switches, servers, routers, racks etc.; office equipment including fax machines, copiers, phone systems, industrial electronics, test equipment, medical equipment and large appliances including refrigerators and freezers.

The recycling drop-off event will be managed by Technology Recyclers.

Prescription drugs

Properly removing unused and expired medicines from the home helps protect the environment and the community by keeping them out of the water supply and reducing accidental poisoning and prescription drug abuse. Uniformed officers will accept pharmaceuticals for proper disposal.

Bulk items

As part of Carmel's trash program with Republic Services, drop-off of bulky items will be available free of charge to trash customers (for Carmel Utilities trash customers only; an ID or utility bill required).

Examples of items to drop off include lawn equipment, carpet, furniture, grills (no propane tanks), water heaters, swing sets, mattresses, etc. Space is limited and on a first come, first served basis.

No electronic waste will be accepted in bulk item disposal; those items are accepted in electronics recycling.

Items not accepted

No paints, light bulbs, tires, landscape waste, toxic or household hazardous waste.

Elevating a solution to Noblesville's parking problem

Is there a parking problem in downtown Noblesville? I guess it depends on who you ask, what time of day it is and whether it's on the weekend or during the week.

ROCKY SHANEHAZ
Guest Columnist

For some, parking is just a "perceived" problem, but a perceived problem is a problem, nonetheless. It keeps people from visiting our historic downtown and enjoying the amenities.

To solve the parking problem, the city administration has adopted many ordinances and strategies to add more parking spaces downtown over the years, and now provides a color-coded directional map to help visitors navigate their way to a paid public spot.

City and county leaders have also discussed building parking garages or remote parking lots for county employees, and other businesses in the area have talked about buying up smaller or stressed-out properties and turning them into parking lots. This would be the most detrimental thing we could do to the vibrancy of our downtown.

To build a parking garage, the average capital investment per space is $27,000 to $32,000, according to the city's study on parking garages. That's what many municipalities are paying for parking garages. It costs more to park a car than to buy most new ones!

I prefer the more visionary approach of building upward and solving the parking problem once and for all. We need the most cost-effective and efficient plan that gives access to everyone all the time, and not just on weekends. We need to build a parking elevator with modern technology that holds more cars by stacking them into tighter spaces, and the exterior could be designed to match the historic architecture of the downtown.

Parking elevators and other automated parking solutions assemble parked cars much like your child's Legos, by stacking the cars on top of each other in a smaller, more contained area. The driver pulls his vehicle into a typical parking bay then gets out and allows the automation to take over, with sensors, metal arms and sliding platforms moving the vehicle into its designated slot. To retrieve your car, you just push a button at the parking elevator kiosk, the automated system returns it, and you drive away.

Parking elevator technology costs less to build than a typical parking garage and takes up less space. To put it in perspective, consider the city's plans for The Levinson, a $24.3 million building that will stretch the entire block of Maple Avenue from 8th to 9th streets. This project will reach two stories underground and five above ground and includes a total of 337 parking spaces, of which a minimum of 237 spaces will be made available for paid public parking. The city says the garage portion of The Levinson will cost $13.2 million, which breaks down to $38,575.67 per parking space.

A parking elevator, on the other hand, only costs on average $6,000 to $8,000 per parking spot. We could go eight stories high in the same footprint as The Levinson but fit 64 cars per floor or a total of 512 cars packed into the same space. I think that would be a much better deal to build a parking garage in downtown Noblesville.

As a Noblesville real estate developer who believes strongly in historic preservation, I want to bring a common-sense approach to spending city taxpayer dollars. We can use modern technology to improve city services in the most cost-effective and efficient way without sacrificing what makes Noblesville so unique.

TODAY'S BIBLE READING

And I say unto you my friends, Be not afraid of them that kill the body, and after that have no more that they can do. But I will forewarn you whom ye shall fear: Fear him, which after he hath killed hath power to cast into hell; yea, I say unto you, Fear him. Are not five sparrows sold for two farthings, and not one of them is forgotten before God? But even the very hairs of your head are all numbered. Fear not therefore: ye are of more value than many sparrows.

Letter to the Editor

Corbett: Responsible development is not anti-development

Dear Editor:

I have been outspoken against our career politicians' habit of doling out tax abatements and other incentives to well-established and profitable companies that seek to build on desirable land. This practice forfeits your tax dollars for small amounts of growth that these companies could arguably achieve on their own without corporate welfare.

I spoke out because as a citizen of this city I see how my friends and neighbors are struggling a little more with the passing of each new "fee," school board imposed referendum, utility increase and so on. As a citizen I travel down the rough roads and through the neighborhoods that need care and attention. I walk the sidewalks that are uneven, shop in the stores next to buildings that sit empty. As a citizen I've done what I can to get as much information as possible to learn about what's going on and time and time again I'm faced with the reality that it's exceedingly difficult to know what my elected representatives are up to in this town.

So I spoke out. I told you, the people, about what I was seeing. I told you about what many others in the business community were telling me. I want you to know what's going on in our city. Something happens when you speak against power though; power mobilizes to twist things. Power tries to reframe the conversation into something it's not, both to convince you that there's not really a problem and to frame the people speaking out as uninformed or anti-progress.

I'd like to make two things clear. First, I am a business owner. I have been for more than 10 years now and before that I worked in management for corporations large and small. I know how business works and I don't fault the leaders of any company for utilizing every tool available to increase profits and grow their companies. Secondly I'm not anti-development, I'm not even anti-incentives. Cities have tools available to attract new business and grow existing ones and we should use those tools.

What I am against is using those economic development tools unwisely. I am against handing out millions of your tax dollars to companies that donate to the career politicians that control our city while more deserving companies that would be better for our city and would do more to help ease your tax burden go and settle somewhere else because they can't get the help they actually need.

Noblesville will continue to grow. Fields will be developed, people will continue to arrive, and roads will get busier. The only question is who will manage the growth and how. I've made my living in corporate America. I have an MBA and own my own company. I understand the benefits that businesses bring to a city.

Under my administration we will finally fill out the corporate campus that has underperformed for years. We will attract companies to ease the tax burden on our citizens. Under my administration we will execute growth wisely and with a clear plan and vision for the future. We will not favor a select few. The best developers and the best projects that do the most good for Noblesville, not the political establishment, will get the approvals. They will get the assistance they need to build and thrive.

As for you, the citizens, you will know what's going on. If you want information, it won't be as difficult for you to get as it has been for me.

We will grow this city and we will attract great new businesses and amenities. But we will not do it at the expense of the taxpayer and we will not turn away deserving businesses that desire to build and grow here.

Golden Eagles finish sweep of Bishop Chatard

Guerin Catholic earned a Circle City Conference sweep on Wednesday, beating Bishop Chatard 4-0 at the Golden Eagles' field.

The win gives Guerin an early 2-0 lead in conference play and also keeps the Golden Eagles perfect on the season at 3-0.

"Obviously the conference games are important, because they're conference games and they have a little added emphasis, especially with the conference tourney at the end of the year, because you're playing for seeding," said GC coach Rich Andriole. "But mostly really, at this time of the year, as important as conference is and as much as we want to emphasize that, we really are just trying to be as consistent as we can every single day that we come out here, whether it's a conference opponent or some other opponent, we're trying to execute consistently and play at a consistent level."

Guerin Catholic scored its first two runs in the first inning. With two outs, Nate Bingman drew a walk, then Luke Godfrey hit a single, advancing Bingman to second. Max Engelking was walked to load the bases, and Braden Reel cashed in with a center field base hit, getting Bingman and Godfrey home.

The Golden Eagles got their other two runs in the fifth inning. Keenan Taylor got on base with a line drive single, then stole second. Godfrey drew a walk, and Engelking stepped up to hit a right field double, sending Taylor and Godfrey in to score.

Meanwhile, Engelking was having a great day on the pitcher's mound. He got the win, throwing five innings and striking out 10 while only allowing two hits. Bennett Ely pitched the game's final two innings. After allowing two hits to start the seventh, Ely finished the game with three straight strikeouts; he totaled four overall.

Andriole called the efforts of Godfrey, the Golden Eagles' catcher, "awesome."

"He's blocked balls, he's made plays with his arm," said Andriole. "And I think that sometimes he's taken for granted, because not every team has a guy like that."

Guerin Catholic is 3-0 and will next play

Millers win HCC opener

Noblesville won its Hoosier Crossroads Conference opener on Wednesday with an 11-4 victory at Avon.

The Millers started the game with three runs in the top of the first inning. Cooper Miles drew a walk, then advanced to third on a DJ Owens base hit. Matt

Peek came up next, and sent everybody home with an inside-the-park home run.

The Orioles scored two runs in the bottom of the first, but Noblesville got those runs back in the second inning. Brady Walden was walked, then Cole Barnes got on base with a single. Miles drew another walk to load the bases, and Owens sent a base hit into right field, scoring Walden and Barnes.

Avon added another run in the bottom of the second, but the Millers answered again: A third-inning double from Cade Nelis scored Jacob Weiler. Noblesville then poured in five runs in the sixth inning. Walden drew a walk, with Jackson Hancock coming in to pinch run for him. Back-to-back singles by Barnes and Miles eventually sent Hancock in to score.

Owens was walked to load the bases, then three more consecutive walks scored Barnes, Miles and Owens respectively. Gruver singled in the final run of the game, scoring Zach Gruver.

Barnes, Owens and Peek all had two hits, with Owens stealing two bases. Camden Nagel pitched a complete game, tossing nine strikeouts.

The Millers are 2-4 and host Avon at 6 p.m. today to complete the HCC series. It will also be the first game of the season for Noblesville at Don Dunker Field.

Noblesville to host USADB's 75th annual tournament next weekend

The United States of America Deaf Basketball (USADB) will be hosting its 75th annual tournament in Noblesville next weekend, April 11-13.

The weekend events will include: Over 40 competitive basketball games throughout three days; a room that will consist of memorabilia with over of 75 years of program books, pictures and others; inducting new Hall of Fame members; recognizing former Hall of Famers and leaders at the special Saturday night program ceremony where the USADB will share many memories through old videos and pictures.

Games will take place from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Thursday, April 11 and Friday, April 12 at Finch Creek Field House, 16289 Boden Road, and from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday, April 13 at Noblesville High School, 18111

Cumberland Road. The Saturday games will include the women's championship game at noon and the men's championship game at 2:30 p.m. The 75th anniversary program is scheduled for 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. on Saturday, April 13 at the Noblesville Parks and Recreation Annex at Ivy Tech Community College, 300 N. 17th St. Doors open at 5 p.m.

In 1945, the American Athletic Association of the Deaf (AAAD) was founded in Akron, Ohio by several people led by late Art Kruger and Tom Elliott. Their goal was to start an annual basketball tournament for Deaf basketball players. The organization has consistently and without fail provided an annual tournament for 75 consecutive years across the country in major Deaf communities in spite of several wars, depressions, extreme weathers or any natural disasters.

Over the years, the United States of America Deaf

Basketball (USADB), which has since been renamed from AAAD, has continued to grow and expand. In 1945, only five men's teams competed for the Deaf national basketball championship. Fast forward to the USADB's most recent tournament last spring in Round Rock, Texas, a total of 36 teams participated and competed in the Men Division I, Women Division and Men Division II national championships.

The USADB would like to extend an invitation to the Greater Indianapolis community to join this historic event. The organization also welcomes any persons or business interested in sponsorships. For more information, contact Joey Baer, National Program Director at national@usadb.us.

For more information, visit the USADB's website at www.usadb.us

Pacers stop road losing streak with win at Detroit

By WHEAT HOTCHKISS

Courtesy nba.com/pacers

As the calendar turned to April, Pacers head coach Nate McMillan told his team to hit the reset button.

So far, so good.

The Pacers closed March by losing seven of their last eight games and had dropped 10 straight contests away from Bankers Life Fieldhouse.

But over the first three days of April, Indiana (47-32) has swept a home-and-home series with the Pistons (39-39), including a 108-89 victory on Wednesday night in Detroit, their first road win since Feb. 23.

"We've been in the games," Pacers forward Thaddeus Young told FOX Sports Indiana's Jeremiah Johnson after snapping the road skid. "We've been scratching and clawing. The biggest thing is just staying the course and that's exactly what we did."

"We stayed the course, believed in our structure system, believed in our culture, believed in our unity. And our brotherhood got us through."

The win also kept the Pacers tied for fourth place in the Eastern Conference with Boston, with a crucial clash with the Celtics looming on Friday night in Indianapolis.

Both teams got off to sluggish starts on Wednesday. The score was tied at 7-7 with 4:15 remaining in the first quarter.

The Pacers then finally broke through, scoring on four of their next five possessions and moved in front with an 8-0 run. The Pistons closed the frame with an 8-3 spurt of their own to take an 18-15 lead into the second quarter.

The Blue & Gold got a big boost from their bench to start the second, as reserve forward TJ Leaf and Doug McDermott scored five points apiece during a 12-2 run to open the quarter.

Indiana remained in front for the rest of the half, taking a 44-36 advantage into the break.

Myles Turner and Young combined for 12 of the Pacers' first 15 points in the third quarter, helping the visitors extend their lead to as many as 13 points.

After going scoreless in the first half, Pistons point guard Reggie Jackson came alive in the third to keep the hosts in the game. Jackson scored 13 points in the frame, helping Detroit get back within six.

But the Pacers responded once again, closing the third with a 9-0 run — bookended by a layup and 3-pointer from McDermott — to take a commanding 78-62 lead into the fourth.

Detroit guard Wayne Ellington caught fire in the fourth quarter, drilling three 3-pointers and scoring 14 points over the first 5:04 of the frame to trim the Pistons' deficit to eight.

The hosts went to a small lineup with four guards and center Andre Drummond, but the Pacers locked them down defensively, holding the Pistons scoreless over a four-minute stretch and pushing the lead back to 15 and effectively sealing the victory.

"We talked about trying to be road tough tonight," McMillan said after the victory.

"We wanted to come out and play well, and I thought the guys did from start to finish. Offensively, we didn't shoot the ball particularly well, but defense was able to help hold the lead."

Young led the Pacers with 21 points in the win on 9-of-15 shooting (2-of-5 from 3-point range) to go along with eight rebounds, four assists, and two steals.

Turner and Bojan Bogdanovic added 17 points each, Domantas Sabonis had 15 points and 13 rebounds, and McDermott tallied 14 points while going 6-for-7 from the field and 2-for-3 from beyond the 3-point arc.

Drummond led all scorers with 28 points and also collected 19 rebounds, three blocks, and three steals. Ellington added 24 points, while Jackson had 16 points, five rebounds, and four assists.

The Pacers now return home to host the Celtics at 8 p.m. on Friday. They will also welcome Brooklyn to The Fieldhouse on Sunday before closing out the regular season next Wednesday in Atlanta.
