Noblesville named a 'Tree City USA' for 29th consecutive year

The REPORTER

The City of Noblesville was named a 2019 Tree City USA by the Arbor Day Foundation in honor of its commitment to effective urban forest management. This is the 29th consecutive year Noblesville has earned this national distinction.

"Being a Tree City USA member for almost three deacades shows the importance that the city and its citizens have for our environment and its sustainability year after year," said Noblesville Mayor John Ditslear. "I also want to thank the Noblesville Tree Board for its overall care of city street trees and the educational outlet and projects it provides our residents."

The Tree City USA program started in 1979. The only cities in Indiana that have participated longer than Noblesville are Indianapolis and Angola; each is celebrating 30 years in 2019. Noblesville received Tree City USA recognition by meeting the program's four requirements: A tree board or department, a tree-care ordinance, an annual community forestry budget of at least $2 per capita and an Arbor Day observance and proclamation.

As the city celebrated its Tree City status, the Noblesville Tree Board planted a Red Oak Tree at Federal Hill Commons in honor of Long live Grandma!

I just read an article about how grandparents who babysit live longer. I would say that longevity is in my future.

Having babysat for six grandmunchkins over the past 21 years, I'd say I have earned some kind of reward.

For the past few days I have been in Tampa babysitting for Leah (6) and Aiden (8) while Emily and Drew celebrate their 10th wedding anniversary in London.

Emily sent me a color-coded itinerary a few days before I got here. I knew they were busy, but oh my goodness!

Aiden is an early riser. Leah, well, she rises with a little help and then gentle proddings to stay on task and on time.

Emily had all of their lunches fixed and their clothes laid out, so mornings were easy peasy. Yes, she is definitely organized. (She did not get that from her mother.)

They get on the bus at 9:00. I was at the pool by 11:00.

After school got out at 3:50, things got interesting. Leah has gymnastics three days a week from 4:00 to 6:00. Aiden has football two days a week. Both are about 30 minutes from their home.

As you can see, we can't get there on time.

On days they have

JANET HART LEONARD
From the Heart

gymnastics and football they are "walkers" after school. They actually walk across the street from their elementary school to the middle school parking lot where I picked them up. If you actually get in the carpool line you need to get to the school about 30 minutes early so they are "walkers" and it's faster.

I had to remind them every morning whether they rode the bus or would be "walkers".

On Saturday, Leah had an 8:00 gymnastics meet about an hour away. I had to get her up at 6:00 and get her leo (leopard) on her, put a bun in her hair (which I had never done) and spray and glitter her hair.

Grabbed coffee at Dunkin Donuts!

We got there with time to spare and the bun stayed in place!

Aiden had a football game on Friday night. He's the quarterback and he's a really good one! (Yes, I'm a bit biased.) I saw that game. He had another game Saturday morning that I did not get to see. Thankful for another mom who helped out.

It's deadline time as I am submitting this week's column. I am having so much fun making memories.

I think it's time for this grandma to take a nap. This longevity thing is exhausting.

Mary Reynolds named 2019 Sheridan Historical Society Volunteer of the Year

The Sheridan Historical Society recently held its annual dinner program, which included honoring the Volunteer of the Year. The winner of the award for 2019 was Mary Reynolds. Mary has been a member for many years and works primarily to keep the Society's collection of obituaries up to date and in catalog order. She is shown here accepting her award from Society president Ron Stone, who said, "Congratulations, Mary, for an award well deserved and we thank you for all the hours you have dedicated to the Sheridan Historical Society over the years. We truly appreciate your volunteer effort."

Mayor Brainard has held the line on taxes, proposed conservative budgets and fought for job growth, economic development and a quality of life second to none.

Strong Fiscal Leadership

Jim Brainard has a proven track record of holding down taxes. Today most Carmel residents are paying less in property taxes than they were twenty years ago. Carmel has the lowest tax rate of any Indiana city its size or larger.

As Mayor, Jim Brainard has fought tirelessly to promote job creation, economic development and redevelopment of our downtown which continues to diversify our tax base, keeping our tax burden on homeowners low.

I was born and raised right here in Noblesville. I grew up in a home without domestic violence or assault – it wasn’t something I saw, or even heard about. But when I was introduced to Prevail of Central Indiana, I was shocked by the number of individuals who are affected by domestic violence. In 2018 alone, Prevail helped more than 4,000 clients in Hamilton County. (Nearly 80 percent of clients are women and children.) Prevail is strictly confidential, and since their core values include integrity and respect, they provide their services at no charge. Domestic violence and abuse are hard topics to discuss, so you don’t often hear about them. But at Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville, we’re breaking the taboo and raising awareness for Prevail, an organization that helps families in Hamilton County. – Mike Bragg, GM of Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville

To help Hamilton County families affected by domestic violence and sexual abuse, you can donate the following items:

- Art supplies (for children to journal and express their emotions)
- Bottled water (8 oz. bottles, preferably)
- Individually packaged snacks
- Gas cards (many women have no access to funds after fleeing their abuser)

You can drop off items at Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville, located at 14701 Tom Wood Way. You can also donate directly to Prevail of Central Indiana by visiting Prevailinc.org.

Carmel comes together to remember the Holocaust

By STU CLAMPITT
ReadTheReporter.com

For the last two decades, the City of Carmel has held a Holocaust Remembrance Ceremony to reflect on the 6 million people who were killed and to honor those who survived. This year the ceremony will take place at noon on Friday, May 3 at The Tarkington Theater, 3 Center Green, Carmel.

The Reporter spoke to Carmel Mayor Jim Brainard and Rabbi Benjamin Sendrow of Congregation Shaarey Tefilla about the history and importance of this annual event.

"When I became Mayor, I realized that we had Holocaust survivors living in Carmel," Brainard told The Reporter. "We still do today, and we have many children and grandchildren of survivors living here. We need to recognize the horrible experience they went through."

Brainard said he believes it is important to conduct these ceremonies throughout the country.

"In an enlightened, civilized society it is important that we recognize that throughout the country whether it is the Midwest, or California, or New York or Texas or Florida," Brainard said. "We need to pay attention to what went wrong in the 1930s in Germany – a society not that unlike our own. We need to talk about not just tolerance, what happens when we don't have tolerance. We also need to talk about what happens when we don't accept other people and their different backgrounds."

Brainard has worked to ensure that this community event is not just about remembrance, but about recording history to help ensure future generations never forget what can happen when prejudice supplants freedom.

"We record the survivors' accounts and the liberators' accounts," Brainard said. "We have had several veterans from the U.S. Army who walked in on these camps and found these horrendous conditions – people that were starving, abused and tortured. We record their stories and put copies in the Carmel Library, we keep them in City Hall, and we send a copy to the Holocaust Museum in Washington, D.C."

Rabbi Benjamin Sendrow has been involved in the Carmel ceremony since 2010. "We are the only synagogue in Carmel," Rabbi Sendrow told The Reporter. "My predecessor was the first Rabbah that worked with the Mayor, and when I came to Carmel the Mayor asked me if I would be willing to step into that role. Of course, I was honored to do so. I have been doing it every year ever since."

Rabbi Sendrow called this one of the most moving and touching experiences of the year every year. He wanted to stress that this was not something the Jewish community asked the Mayor to do them, but rather something Brainard initiated for the benefit of everyone in the city.

"We get a wonderful turnout," Rabbi Sendrow said. "We used to meet in the council chamber. That is not a small room, but we outgrew it and now we are in one of the theaters of the palladium complex. The attendance is fabulous. It's not only Jewish people, but there are people from the entire community. And I'll have people come up to me and say, 'Are you the Rabbi who I saw at the Carmel Holocaust service?' They will say how important they think it is or how moving the ceremony is. It's just an honor. I take no credit for it, but it is an honor to be part of it."

Rabbi Sendrow told The Reporter the he sees this ceremony as an important part of staying vigilant in defense of democracy.

"We like to say, 'Never again,' but the fact is this sort of thing still goes on," Rabbi Sendrow said. "We cannot afford to drop our guard as a society. The Mayor has a line that he will sometimes say in his speech and it just gives me chills every time he says it. 'During the Holocaust, democracy failed.' Not that I think it can happen here, but democracy can fail. Any system can fail."

The only synagogue in Carmel has open since 2007 and currently serves approximately 175 households. Rabbi Sendrow said he is very pleased with the support of the community both in the best and worst of times.

"Unfortunately, we were vandalized in late July with swastikas and iron crosses," Rabbi Sendrow said. "We held a solidarity event. When you open the movable wall between our sanctuary and our social hall, we can easily get 500 to 600 people in there. I think 1,000 squeezed in. There were more outside and eventually the police had to start turning people away because not only was our parking lot full, but the streets all around the synagogue were full. It was absolutely gratifying it turned what was intended to be an intimidating act that was supposed to inspire hate instead inspired this amazing outpouring of support and love. It is just heartwarming to be part of such a wonderful community."

The City of Carmel's 2019 Holocaust Remembrance Ceremony to commemorate the Holocaust is scheduled for noon on Friday, May 3. The ceremony will last approximately an hour and a half and will be followed by a light lunch. The event is free and open to the public at The Tarkington Theater, 3 Center Green, Carmel.

Rabbi Sendrow asked that we tell our readers how appreciative the Jewish Community is for "the sensitivity of our Mayor to have initiated this event and to make sure that it happens every year. It happens in a first-class way every time," Rabbi Sendrow said.

Bringing people together in unexpected ways

By STU CLAMPITT
ReadTheReporter.com

Carmel's Holocaust Remembrance Ceremony has had a variety of speakers whose lives were affected by these terrible events of World War II. Some have been survivors and their families. Others have been the American veterans who helped liberate the German concentration camps.

According to Carmel Mayor Jim Brainard, within the first several years of the ceremony, one of the speakers was a U.S. Army veteran from New Harmony, Ind.

While serving in WWII at the age of 19, he helped liberate one of the smaller camps holding approximately 80 starving prisoners.

"They didn't have their rations for the evening with them yet," Brainard said. "They were waiting for the supply trucks to catch up with them."

The soldiers had limited resources, but they pooled their food and passed it out to the prisoners. Some were so weak from starvation that they were unable to digest anything other than broth or a bit of processed cheese.

As this former soldier told his story, he told the audience the name of the camp. Brainard said there was a young man sitting in the second row whom he did not recognize, but who seemed to have a reaction to the soldier's story.

"I went up to him afterwards and introduced myself," Brainard said. "He was from New York and had just started his residency at IU medical school. He told me his dad had been in one of the camps. Then he said, 'I think that this story was about the camp my dad was in.' I asked, 'Do you think you could find out?'"

The young man said his father was alive and healthy, living in New York, and that he'd call home that night.

At the ceremony the following year the veteran, the young doctor and his father were all present. The veteran had some photographs from the camps, taken when his unit was helping care for the prisoners in the weeks following their liberation.

In those photos and in stories from different sides of the same tragic time, was proof that these two men had met during a time war and were given a chance to come together in a time of peace in Carmel.

"The veteran from Indiana showed the doctor from New York all our state," Brainard said. "They got to be friends and to spend a week traveling across Indiana together."

What governor was convicted of mail fraud?

The REPORTER

This coming week in Indiana's history . . .

1865 – The Abraham Lincoln Funeral Train arrived in Indiana, stopping in Richmond and passing through Centerville, Cambridge City, Dublin, Lewisville and Greenfield before arriving in Indianapolis. The President lay in state in the rotunda of the old Capitol, where over 50,000 people passed by the bier.

1895 – Tenants were moving into the first upscale apartment building in Indianapolis. Built by General Lew Wallace, the structure was named "Blachere" after the Byzantine palace in Constantinople, the setting for Wallace's novel The Prince of India. Rent, considered steep at the time, topped out at $53 a month. The building still stands at the corner of Meridian and Vermont streets.

1908 – Albert Von Tilzer, from Indianapolis, published "Take Me Out to the Ballgame." Legend has it that when he and lyricist Jack Norworth wrote the song, neither had ever been to a baseball game. Von Tilzer penned scores of tunes for Tin Pan Alley, including "I'll Be With You in Apple Blossom Time" and "The Moon Has His Eye on You."

1924 – Indiana Governor Warren McCray resigned from office after being convicted of mail fraud. He was replaced by Lieutenant Governor Forrest Branch. McCray spent three years at the federal prison in Atlanta. President Herbert Hoover granted him a full pardon in 1930.

1969 – The Indianapolis News reported that over

1,800 state employees were earning more than $10,000 a year. The large salaries went to an average of one out of 13 persons employed. At the top of the list was the mental health commissioner, earning $35,000. Next was the Beaty Hospital Superintendent at $31,400. The governor was third with an annual pay of $31,000, which included a $4,000 expense allowance.

1996 – The Indiana High School Athletic Association voted to move to multi-class sports. The decision disappointed coaches, players and fans who had formed a group called "Friends of Hoosier Hysteria" in an effort to save the traditional single-class basketball tourney.

Being an inspiration will help the world

Editor's Note: The Sheridan Student Column is brought to readers by Sheridan High School's 10th grade English class, taught by Abby Williams.

ALLEN AYERS
Sheridan High School Student

Being an inspiration is a big part of my life, and I love inspiring people to do something that they have dreamed of doing for their entire life. Inspiring people is simple: Tell them to go farther than they thought they could go!

You go through things in life and it brings you down, but you always have people who love you and want you to follow your dreams. People today mostly talk about how they can't do something, but I tell you what, you can do anything you put your mind to. You are who you choose to be, so don't let anyone tell you that you can't do it – because you can.

There will be people out there who will pick on you and tell you that you can't follow your dreams, but that will be present throughout your entire life. Here's some advice: MOVE ON! If you stay mad and can't let go, then life is going to be tough. Here's the thing: You are important and needed. You are needed so you can help the community be a better community. My point is to love one another and inspire others.

Maya Angelou said, "Try to be a rainbow in someone else's cloud." What this quote means is to try to inspire people to have a good day if they are feeling down and then tell them to pay it forward. This world would be a much better place if there were more people willing to inspire others.

Such an example is bullying. Bullying is a big problem nowadays. According to dosomething.org, approximately 160,000 teens skip school every day because of bullying.

Just because people may have different skin color, race, religion, or looks does not mean that they don't have feelings. I've been bullied before and it sucks but I've made it through, and if I've made it through, so can you. I've learned to love myself, and you should too.

You may be asking, "How do you do that?" Spend time around the people who love and inspire you, and refrain from hanging around "friends" who put you down.

My grandmother used to say "We all bleed red," which means we are all human, regardless of ethnicity, religion, background, past mistakes, etc. You have no idea what somebody is going through when you bully them. Let me tell you something – you are important and you are awesome. My point here is that you are a unique individual and you are special, and you shouldn't ever let anyone cause you to think otherwise.

The golden rule is "Treat others the way you want to be treated." Sometimes in life people you love will do something so bad that it is hard for you to forgive them, but forgiveness is an essential part of life. Most of all, we need to learn to love and help each other.

Rotary Peace Scholar Alexandra Hudson (front row, third from right) spoke to Sheridan Rotarians about civility in our democracy.

Rotary Peace Scholar visits Sheridan Rotary

The REPORTER

Sheridan Rotary members recently welcomed Alexandra O. Hudson to a club meeting.

Ms. Hudson is a Rotary Peace Scholar who received her Master's degree in Social Policy from the London School of Economics. She has worked as a Special Assistant in the office of the Secretary of Education Betsy DeVos at the U.S. Department of Education, worked at the Wisconsin Institute for Law and Liberty and worked in the policy department of Canadian Prime Minister Stephen Harper's Office.

At present, Ms. Hudson lives in Indianapolis and is writing a book based on the thesis that civility is a keystone to a successful and vibrant democracy. She explained to the assembled Rotarians the importance of remaining civil even under dire circumstances and how that relates to our success as a nation. She noted that there have been times in our nation's history when civil discourse has been overridden by outrage, indignation and bombastic rhetoric. Generally speaking these have characterized as regressive times in our history.

Ms. Hudson's talk provided lots of thought provoking insight into current times in our nation. The assembled Rotarians were appreciative of her perception as to how democracy should work for the benefit of all. Many of us are eagerly awaiting her publication of her book about the subject of civility in democracy.

Sheridan Rotary meets formally at 6:15 p.m. on the first and third Tuesdays of each month for dinner and a guest speaker. Meetings take place at the Sheridan Public Library's Community Room. The library is located at 103 W. First St. in beautiful uptown Sheridan. If you would like to attend a meeting, please contact Rotarian Steve Martin at the library.

The next dinner meeting of the Sheridan Rotary Club will feature Sheridan Town Council president David Kinhead. Mr. Kinhead will give a summary of anticipated economic development projects planned for Sheridan this year. This will include the State Road 47 upgrade, city street improvements and proposed housing developments. His talk, beginning at 6:45 p.m. on Tuesday, May 7, will be open to the public to attend.

Securing Carmel's future: My first 100 days

I am more optimistic than ever about the future of Carmel, but to reach our full potential, we have some very important decisions to make.

Looking ahead just 10 years, we see a city that will be bigger, likely more crowded, and undoubtedly more diverse – but what about the quality of life? How will Carmel be to work and to raise a family? Will it continue to be a great place to visit? Live? Retire? Will the work we are doing be sustainable? What obligations will we leave to our children?

FRED GLYNN
Guest Columnist

As you decide who will lead our city during this crucial time, I want to share my ambitious vision to make Carmel a city that works for everyone.

We must strengthen our fiscal health, while continuing to provide services, amenities and a robust public safety apparatus. We have to turn the focus back to the neighborhoods and small businesses upon which the city was built.

Immediately upon my swearing in, I will embark upon an aggressive agenda to set Carmel on the track to a brighter, more sustainable future. Here is a glimpse at what you can expect in my first 100 days in office:

- Host first ever small business advisory committee summit to advise the Mayor's Office on the needs of the city's small business owners.

- Implement a 180-day freeze on new downtown development to allow for a long-range traffic and population density study.

- Send a priority-based, truly balanced budget to City Council.

- Sign an executive order to provide funding to hire additional police officers.

- Send a debt-reduction plan to the City Council that implements a plan to reduce the city's long-term debt by 20 percent by the end of my first term.

- Sign an executive order immediately halting future city government giveaways and subsidies to private development projects.

- Send the City Council a resolution to freeze the pay of all city-wide elected officials for the next four years.

- Sign an executive order that strengthens sexual harassment policies for city workers and officials that includes harsher punishment for violators.

- Have neighborhood liaisons in every neighborhood in Carmel and meet quarterly. We will once again put the focus on our communities instead of focusing all resources and effort on a few square blocks downtown.

A successful mayor must be prepared to make tough choices. I do my homework, making sure decisions I make are well-informed. I will seek guidance not just from special interests and the politically powerful but from experts, neighborhood leaders and the people of Carmel.

Prioritizing people first, I have opposed increasing taxes because I know there are less burdensome ways to fund our priorities.

Doing the right thing can make powerful people angry sometimes, but I am not easily intimidated. I will take this thoughtful approach and independence into city hall with me.

Carmel is a great place now, but with vision and hard work there is so much more we can achieve – in a way that preserves this great city for our children. It won't always be easy, but it will be worth it.

I'm ready to get to work.

TODAY'S BIBLE READING

Then said he unto him, A certain man made a great supper, and bade many: And sent his servant at supper time to say to them that were bidden, Come; for all things are now ready. And they all with one consent began to make excuse. The first said unto him, I have bought a piece of ground, and I must needs go and see it: I pray thee have me excused. And another said, I have bought five yoke of oxen, and I go to prove them: I pray thee have me excused. And another said, I have married a wife, and therefore I cannot come. So that servant came, and shewed his lord these things. Then the master of the house being angry said to his servant, Go out quickly into the streets and lanes of the city, and bring in hither the poor, and the maimed, and the halt, and the blind. And the servant said, Lord, it is done as thou hast commanded, and yet there is room. And the lord said unto the servant, Go out into the highways and hedges, and compel them to come in, that my house may be filled. For I say unto you, That none of those men which were bidden shall taste of my supper.

Royals run away with Game 3, win Mudsock series

Hamilton Southeastern split its double-header with Fishers Saturday at Ken Seitz Field, but it was enough to give the Royals the Mudsock baseball trophy.

After winning the first game of the series Friday night, Southeastern dropped Game 2 to the Tigers 2-1. The Royals rebounded to win Game 3 8-3, thus taking the series 2-1. The first two games of the series counted as Hoosier Crossroads Conference games, so both teams went 1-1 in conference play.

"I'm really glad we got the series, but I really felt like we let one get away," said HSE coach Jeremy Sassanella. "All credit to Fishers, they did a great job and we didn't hit much. But, we'll take the two of the three. We're Mudsock champs. That's a quality thing, but certainly would have liked to have gotten the second one and gotten the second conference win."

The Tigers scored the first run of Saturday's first game, with Daniel Owens batting in JJ Woolwine in the top of the first inning. Southeastern tied things up in the bottom of the second, when Jake Huston smacked a double to score Greyson Droste. But Fishers got the winning run in the third inning, with Kiel Brenzewski's center field line drive bringing in Woolwine.

Tristan Baker pitched a complete game victory for Fishers, striking out five and allowing only four hits and no walks. Baker retired 14 of the final 16 batters he faced. Tyler Schweitzer also went the distance for HSE, striking out eight.

Southeastern got up early in the second game, with Matthew Buckingham brining in Anthony Eggers on a right field line drive in the first inning. Cole DeWael cracked a two-RBI single in the second inning, scoring Huston and Jordan Millikan.

The Tigers got on the board in the top of the fourth, with Dominic Oliverio heading home after Owens drew a bases-loaded walk. But the Royals responded with four runs in the bottom of the inning. DeWael singled in Huston and Millikan, Eggers scored on a sacrifice fly by Droste, and DeWael got home after Buckingham reached on error.
