Noblesville man awarded for helping seniors repair homes

The REPORTER

After people retire, they often spend their time golfing, traveling or working on a hobby. Not Lamar Ziegler.

The 70-year-old from Noblesville often can be found repairing a roof or installing a grab bar, fixing loose deck boards or repairing a leaking faucet. When Lamar retired from civil engineering in 2015, he became a full-time volunteer working more than six days a week helping low-income and elderly homeowners in Hamilton County.

Lamar doesn't volunteer for praise or awards; however, the work he's doing and the difference he's making in the lives of seniors has not gone unnoticed. CICOA Aging & In-Home Solutions named Lamar its 2019 Senior Volunteer of the Year.

Each year the nonprofit selects one volunteer from central Indiana who is 65 or older and is giving back in the community. Nancy Schell, director of operations at the Shepherd's Center in Hamilton County, nominated Ziegler.

"Lamar is compassionate, dependable and responsive," Schell said. "His skills bring our seniors much relief, and everybody loves him."

Called to lend a helping hand

In addition to volunteering at The Shepherd Center of Hamilton County, he also volunteers for all kinds of organizations throughout Hamilton County, including Habitat for Humanity, HAND and SERVE Noblesville, where he's a board member. He's vice president of Christmas in Action of Hamilton County and has led a home repair mission to Henderson Settlement in Kentucky. He's also led mission trips to Liberia, West Africa and worked on teams to help with

The joys of summer haircuts

He had been postponing it for months but it felt like we had been arguing about it for years. I'm talking about The Haircut for my youngest son, Jacob.

I'm capitalizing this because ever since Jacob's hair went from straight to wild and wavy at age 14, getting him to cut off even an inch has been a challenge. But since he works in a restaurant, long hair isn't an option unless he wears a hairnet. Teenage boys DO NOT do hairnets.

Recently, though, Jacob's patience with his longer, out-of-control locks was waning. He wanted to make a drastic change to something more manageable, but was nervous.

New clubhouse to open next week at Brookshire Golf Course in Carmel

The City of Carmel will celebrate the opening of a new clubhouse at Brookshire Golf Course on Wednesday, July 24. The approximately $10 million project includes a much larger clubhouse with expanded facilities for golf carts, the pro shop and gathering spots that will be made available for the community to rent for private events such as weddings and parties. The project also includes a new poolhouse in a separate facility across the parking lot from the new golf clubhouse.

Stations development passes Fishers City Council on a 5-3 vote

By LARRY LANNAN

Thompson Thrift began with The Yard development near IKEA and has expanded plans east with The Stations. The Fishers City Council approved the project agreement with Thompson Thrift for The Stations development, but three council members voted no.

The vote was 5-3. Councilman Todd Zimmerman was not at the Monday meeting. David George, Brad DeReamer and Cecilia Coble voted no on the agreement.

George voiced concern about the drainage and trees, saying those items are driving the need for Tax Increment Financing (TIF) dollars. There are ways to modify the plans, George said.

A representative of Thompson Thrift replied that the parking is very tight in that development and the plans reflect the underlying economic need for the plans as presented to the council.

The project calls for construction of a mixed-use building with office and retail, a commercial building, a hotel and approximately 50 town homes on the site. The project agreement approved by the council Monday means Thompson Thrift will be investing about $90 million in the entire development, including The Yard, the District and The Stations.

Alison Krupski named new Noblesville City Engineer

The REPORTER

The City of Noblesville has hired Alison Krupski as the new engineering department director. Krupski has served as Hamilton County's Bridge Program Engineer for the past four years where she was responsible for budgeting, planning and overseeing the maintenance and construction of more than 325 bridges in the county.

"Ali's experience and a proven track record of success in engineering will be invaluable in meeting departmental goals and objectives," said Mayor John Ditslear. "I am confident that Ali will be an excellent fit for this position and a strong asset to the team."

Krupski is a lifelong resident of Noblesville. She grew up on the west side of Noblesville and graduated from Noblesville High School in 2002. After graduating from Purdue University in West Lafayette with a bachelor of science in civil engineering, she moved back to Noblesville where she lives with her husband, Pete.

"Anyone who knows me knows how much I love the City of Noblesville. I feel thankful and blessed that I get to be part of the planning and future of this great city," she said. "I look forward to taking on the challenges we have in infrastructure alongside the great engineering staff already in place in Noblesville. Noblesville's future is bright, and I am excited to serve this city that I have always called home."

Prior to her service in the public sector, Krupski worked for American Structurepoint in its bridge group where she designed bridges across the state. She is a licensed Professional Engineer in the State of Indiana and a graduate of the Hamilton County Leadership Academy.

Outside of work, Krupski devotes her time to volunteering and working with youth. She has been a leader with Young Life for the past 14 years. She and Pete volunteer and are members of Lord of Life Lutheran Church in Westfield. They enjoy traveling together, but Krupski said you can find them on most weekends walking around the square in downtown Noblesville.

Krupski will begin her new position on Monday, Aug. 12.

Riverview Health receives American College of Cardiology 2019 Award for Cardiac Care

The REPORTER

Riverview Health has received the American College of Cardiology's NCDR Chest Pain—MI Registry Platinum Performance Achievement Award for 2019. Riverview Health has earned this recognition six years in a row and is one of only 225 hospitals nationwide this year to receive this prestigious award.

"Receiving this award for the past six years is a true testament of our hardworking Heart & Vascular team members," said Angie Bolinger, director of Cardiovascular, Infusion & Outpatient Clinical Services at Riverview Health. "By successfully implementing a higher standard of care for heart attack patients, we're able to improve their outcomes, which is the greatest reward for us."

To achieve this award, a certain level of treatment guidelines had to be implemented for eight consecutive quarters. Riverview Health was able to perform at the top level of standards for specific performance measures. The implementation of these guidelines requires successful coordination of the Heart & Vascular team and emergency personnel, and it's a critical step in saving the lives and improving outcomes of heart attack patients.

About Riverview Health

Riverview Health is comprised of a full-service, 156-bed hospital in Noblesville and a hospital in Westfield with 16 beds. Also included are 23 primary, immediate and specialty-care facilities in Hamilton County. Riverview Health provides comprehensive inpatient and outpatient services in more than 35 healthcare specialties and has been frequently recognized for its clinical and service excellence. HELPING rebuilding efforts in South Carolina after Hurricane Andrew and Joplin, Mo., after tornadoes. He’s been to Oklahoma City three times, working on inner city housing for recovering addicts.

When he’s not doing home repairs, you might find him volunteering at Conner Prairie or selling corn at the Indiana State Fair for the Lions Club of Washington Township in Indianapolis.

He learned the importance of volunteering growing up on a farm in Huntington County surrounded by extended family. If anyone needed help, someone always pitched in, he said.

Lamar began volunteering 40 years ago with Emmanuel United Methodist Church in Noblesville, when he started making simple home repairs for church members in need. That grew to missionary trips across the U.S. and around the world. To date, he’s built homes in Brazil, Ecuador, Liberia, Mexico, Bolivia and the Dominican Republic.

“Other people’s needs are always more important and greater than mine,” he said. “Their smiles are priceless.”

Using his unique skills

That’s what keeps him going as many as seven days a week. He often works with a couple of other volunteers or leads an entire crew. The only thing he won’t tackle are roofs on two-story houses and anything involving natural gas.

“My unique niche is I have access to lots of materials for free, so I do all the project coordination, make sure tools are there, batteries are charged, there are enough screws and driver bits to fasten what we fasten and do the clean up after,” he said. “I’m the only guy I know in Hamilton County who’s doing that.”

Because of that, he’s always looking for more volunteers to pitch in.

“CICOA is honored to recognize Lamar for all that he’s doing to help seniors throughout Hamilton County,” said CICOA’s interim CEO Mary Durell. “Lamar is a tireless volunteer who gives so much of himself to make someone else’s life and living conditions better.”

About CICOA

CICOA Aging & In-Home Solutions is a non-profit organization and the designated Area Agency on Aging serving Central Indiana. CICOA provides a wide range of services for older adults, people with disabilities and family caregivers, including care management, home health care, home-delivered and neighborhood meals, transportation, home accessibility modifications, respite care and caregiver assistance.

HAIRCUTS

I had showed him a picture of my young friend Andrew’s haircut and last week he decided to go for it. We figured if he didn’t like it, there was time for it to grow out a bit before school started. I was thrilled as I watched the ever-growing pile of hair fall to the floor and loved the final result.

Jacob, however, did not.

While our stylist did cut his hair pretty much like the picture, Jacob wanted it longer on top. He left to go to a friend’s house that evening in a huff and ready to wear a baseball cap for the next four weeks.

At first I was floored. He looked more mature and you could see his handsome face better (yep, I’m biased.) Why was he so upset?

But then I remembered my own experience five years ago when I got a haircut that everyone said they liked but left me miserable. Sure, it looked okay, but it wasn’t what I wanted, and

I literally marked the calendar to commemorate an eighth of an inch of growth every week until it grew to something decent.

I also recalled an even worse experience 35 years ago when I got a haircut that was COMPLETELY not what I wanted AND looked bad! I was a teenager with braces, acne, glasses, and a back brace for scoliosis. When you looked up the word “awkward” in the dictionary back then, my picture was featured. After all this time, I feel confident enough to share it with you all. You’re welcome.

I had showed the stylist a picture of what I wanted, not realizing she was looking at the wrong photo on the page. Since I wore glasses back then and not contacts, I couldn’t see what she was doing until it was too late. I was mortified. My mom said, “I walked in with a girl and came out with a boy.” Despite her memory not being the best today, Mom remembers THAT story like it was yesterday. Great.

When Jacob came home that evening, I told him I completely understood where he was coming from.

“I know it looks good, Son, but I also realize it’s not what you wanted.” He felt better, especially when I showed him my disastrous haircut from when I was close to his age.

He’s feeling okay now and so do I, especially since there’s a little “1/8” marked on every Tuesday in our main calendar for the next couple of months.

I was born and raised right here in Noblesville. I grew up in a home without domestic violence or assault – it wasn’t something I saw, or even heard about. But when I was introduced to Prevail of Central Indiana, I was shocked by the number of individuals who are affected by domestic violence. In 2018 alone, Prevail helped more than 4,000 clients in Hamilton County. (Nearly 80 percent of clients are women and children.) Prevail is strictly confidential, and since their core values include integrity and respect, they provide their services at no charge. Domestic violence and abuse are hard topics to discuss, so you don’t often hear about them. But at Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville, we’re breaking the taboo and raising awareness for Prevail, an organization that helps families in Hamilton County. – Mike Bragg, GM of Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville

To help Hamilton County families affected by domestic violence and sexual abuse, you can donate the following items:

- Art supplies (for children to journal and express their emotions)
- Bottled water (8 oz. bottles, preferably)
- Individually packaged snacks
- Gas cards (many women have no access to funds after fleeing their abuser)

You can drop off items at Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville, located at 14701 Tom Wood Way. You can also donate directly to Prevail of Central Indiana by visiting Prevailinc.org.

Sunlight can be too much of a good thing

"In a thousand years, archaeologists will dig up tanning beds and think we fried people as punishment."

— Olivia Wilde, Actress

While my article quotes are usually from philosophers, sages and the like, I found this one to be both on target and rather humorous even though this is a very serious topic. I would be shocked to learn of anyone who had not heard from many sources of the link between sun damage and skin cancer. I also find it at least surprising to learn that many people seem to either not believe the statistics or shrug their shoulders in pursuit of the "glowing tan" — and unfortunately most of those people are female.

If you are of a "certain age" as I am, you may just be at the beginning of the experience of seeing the results of sun damage. Make no mistake that regardless of your heritage or skin type we are all susceptible to sun damage that may lead to skin cancer and melanoma. In my case, although I am 1/16 Native American (before you call me Pocahontas I do have proof) my Celtic DNA has persevered, and my pale, freckled skin has never cooperated fully with tanning.

As a child I did get a bit of a slight tan but that was after many hours outside and mostly at Forest Park Pool. Great memories; but during the teenage years we used lots of baby oil and iodine while "tanning" — some of you relate to that and others (younger!) reading that may say "WHAT?" Yes it's true, sigh, we did it. Thankfully I was never a fan of the tanning beds, another source of skin damage and skin cancer. Combine sun and smoking and talk about double trouble! I won't even go down that road — not enough space in this article!

In recent years, having come to my senses about many things, I have made sure to see my dermatologist annually. Last year she noticed something that she felt required further inspection and was thus removed for a biopsy — a very small item that had gone unnoticed by me. She explained that it might be a melanoma, so of course I was on pins and needles for about a week until I learned it was benign and, thankfully, gone. However, that incident has reinforced my determination to be more watchful and to indeed see my dermatologist every year at least.

Remember, and this is quite important, be vigilant about wearing sunscreen, checking your skin, and see your doctor because thankfully most skin cancer issues can be resolved early if you follow the recommendations. There is a plethora of "bottle tans" now available on the market so that may be option for you to explore while in search of a "healthy" tan!

Lastly, I did learn something very surprising from my dermatologist. Most skin cancer issues among adults result from sun exposure at a young age; childhood through early teen years. Well, for me and others there is little I can do about that, but I encourage you to make sure that all children in your care or over whom you may have influence are regularly wearing sunscreen and limiting time in the sun. I know — easier said than done but it is vital to their health and well-being as well as their future.

We all love summer and if you are like me and you enjoy feeling the breezes and seeing the sunshine out your windows, the long days of summer, and sometimes feeling some warm rays on your skin, then enjoy our brief summertime here in Indiana but care for your largest organ, your skin. Good food, good sleep, less stress and sunscreen make for a healthier you — enjoy!

When the ruler of the feast had tasted the water that was made wine, and knew not whence it was: (but the servants which drew the water knew;) the governor of the feast called the bridegroom, And saith unto him, Every man at the beginning doth set forth good wine; and when men have well drunk, then that which is worse: but thou hast kept the good wine until now. State seeks public's input on construction projects

The State Transportation Improvement Program (STIP) is Indiana's four year transportation planning and construction document listing projects (and phases) expected to be federally funded within a four-year period. State-funded and regionally significant projects are also included as the STIP includes investment in various modes including highways, transit, pedestrian trails/paths and bicycle facilities.

The current STIP was approved by the Federal Highway Administration (FHWA) and the Federal Transit Administration (FTA) earlier this summer and covers fiscal years 2020 thru 2024.

While the STIP lists federally funded projects within a four-year period, it also includes a listing of projects under an additional fifth year, however projects listed under this additional

Amendments and Administrative Modifications

Periodically, changes are made to a project's scope, cost and/or year of proposed construction. When these changes occur, they are evaluated to determine if the change requires an amendment or an administrative modification to the STIP.

Major changes to the STIP require an amendment. Examples of a major change include:

- Adding a new project that was not included in the current STIP
- Adding a new phase of a project not currently included in the STIP (preliminary engineering, right-of-way acquisition, construction)

- A significant increase or decrease in project cost
- A change in project scope

Minor changes to the STIP require an administrative modification. Examples of a minor change include:

- A designation number change (this identifies what year the project was accepted into the production schedule)
- A change in project schedule whereas the timing of activities is modified to occur within an adjusted timeframe (within the four-year funding period)

Amendments to the STIP require FHWA and FTA approval; administrative modifications do not.

Why is this important?

The STIP must be fiscally constrained. Only projects for which construction and operating funds can reasonably be expected to be available are included. If a project is not included in a STIP, it is not eligible to receive federal funding. As modifications and amendments occur, fiscal constraint must be maintained.

Public input

INDOT welcomes public input regarding draft amendments to the FY 2020 thru 2024 STIP. The draft amendments are posted to a public comment web page at in.gov/indot/3132.htm for a minimum period of seven days (this may be extended in some cases). The public is encouraged to review draft amendments and offer comment.

Generally, draft amendments are posted monthly and typically during the third week of each month. Draft amendments may be reviewed by visiting in.gov/indot/3132.htm.

Once an amendment is approved, the STIP is updated accordingly.

Girls State Junior Championship Pfefferkorn, Kuc finish in top five

The Indiana Golf Foundation's Girls State Junior Championship finished up Thursday at The Hawthorns Golf and Country Club in Fishers.

Two Hamilton County golfers came away with top five finishes. Carmel's Angelica Pfefferkorn, an incoming senior at Guerin Catholic, placed fourth with a three-day total of 227. Pfefferkorn made a birdie on the fourth hole.

"I was really proud of myself," said Pfefferkorn. "I was trying to hit some good shots and I definitely did that out there."

Pfefferkorn held the lead for several holes early in the tournament. While she finished fourth, she did hold her own against the competition, finishing only five shots back from the winner, Evansville's Faith Johnson. Pfefferkorn the experience was positive and that she can build off of it.

"After the first day, it was my goal to play better and put myself up there and give myself a chance," said Pfefferkorn.

Katie Kuc, a junior-to-be at Carmel, tied for fifth place with a 228. Kuc carded a 74 in her third round, including two birdies. She called it "a good round and I'm happy with how I finished, so I look forward to the next tournament."

Both girls finished among the top of the list in the "most par breakers" category. Pfefferkorn tied for first with most birdies for the tournament with eight, while Kuc's seven total birdies tied her for fourth.
