Braving the heat at 4-H Fair Preserving green space is key as Carmel grows

WISH-TV | wishtv.com

Humans and animals have braved the heat wave this week while enjoying a Hamilton County tradition.

Afternoon temperatures exceeded 90 degrees on Opening Day of the Hamilton County 4-H Fair but appeared to have little impact on turnout or livestock.

Volunteers and handlers worked tirelessly to keep cattle, pigs, goats, llamas and other animals at the fairgrounds comfortable in the oppressive heat. Dairy and beef cows in the cattle barn enjoyed personal fans, Gatorade-spiked water and cold baths.

Visitors, however, were drenched in sweat by Thursday afternoon.

"I feel like I'm on lava right now," said 12-year-old fairgoer Timothy. "I don't really like it. I wish winter could come one more time."

He and other visitors attempted to stay cool by ducking into animal enclosures and air conditioned tents.

"You'll feel the dramatic difference in temperature in here," fair volunteer Jason Reynolds said, stepping into the cattle barn. "It's about 15 degrees cooler in here than outside. You can see the cows are very happy."

Reynolds also said that livestock handlers will be mixing sports drinks with water, providing the mixture to the animals. The weather is "much harder on people" than fair animals, he added.

(Above) Hamilton County 4-H Fair volunteer Jason Reynolds said fairgoers can cool off inside the O.V. Winks and Annex buildings. The Hamilton County Sheriff's Department and Emergency Management also have tents available. (Below) Temperatures reached the middle 90's on opening day of the Hamilton County 4-H Fair. Dairy and beef cattle were provided with their own personal fan to stay cool throughout the weekend with temperatures remaining above the 90 degree mark.

The O.V. Winks and Annex buildings at the fairgrounds are air conditioned, Reynolds said, in addition to the main building and the sheriff's tent.

Fair staff urged visitors to stay hydrated in the heat. Noblesville paramedics responded to at least one heat-related call Thursday at the fairgrounds, a fire department spokesperson said. "None of the fair animals exhibited signs of heat-related injury or distress," said Reynolds.

As Carmel continues to grow, it's important to remember the importance of green space in our zoning and planning. Whether it's a pocket park, a row of trees or just an area of grass, we need to make sure we are preserving these lush spaces as new development takes place.

According to a REALTORS study, it's proven that a vast majority of communities' green infrastructure assets – such as wetlands, water, trails, trees and more – contribute positively to population, income and employment levels.

Extending the Monon Greenway from Indianapolis to Carmel was one of the best things that the City of Carmel did and it took bold leadership with an eye to the future. It's now Carmel's version of "beachside property" with new corporate headquarters and restaurants opening along the trail. Property values have increased and the investment has certainly paid for itself.

In fact, my wife and I took a walk along the Monon for our first date together. It's a special gathering place.

Currently there's a construction project underway to expand the Monon since it can get crowded and

CICOA honors Conner Prairie for working to help people with dementia

The REPORTER

When CICOA Aging & In-Home Solutions was looking for partners to help expand Dementia Friends Indiana, it turned to Conner Prairie in Fishers. The living history museum embraced the idea immediately. Since 2018, Conner Prairie has made significant improvements to the museum to make it a friendlier place for those with dementia.

CICOA presented Conner Prairie with a Partner Award for its work to make visiting a better experience for people with Alzheimer's and other dementias.

Among the steps Conner Prairie has taken to make its grounds more dementia friendly include:

- Creating the Memory Café for people with dementia and their caregivers. Each month the museum offers a free, 90-minute program that covers a variety of topics. The next Memory Café will held from 11 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. today.
- All staff and volunteers are taking Dementia Friends training so they can recognize the signs and better understand how to interact with those with dementia.
- Museum maps and signage now highlight designated areas with resting benches and quiet spots.
- Conner Prairie hosted an early opening with free admission last fall, so guests with dementia and their caregivers could enjoy a quieter experience while exploring the museum.

Since CICOA launched the Dementia Friends Indiana initiative, more than 2,700 people have taken the Dementia Friends training either at a local course or online at dementiafriendsindiana.org.

CICOA leads the Dementia Friends Indiana movement, which is a coalition of organizations and individuals seeking to advance education and awareness of dementia, reduce the stigma associated with the disease and create community environments that are welcoming and conducive for those living with dementia.

About CICOA
 CICOA Aging & In-Home Solutions is a nonprofit organization and the designated Aging and Disability Resource Center serving Central Indiana. CICOA provides a wide range of services for older adults, people with disabilities and family caregivers, including care management, home health care, home-delivered meals, transportation, home accessibility modifications, respite care and caregiver assistance. Janus Client of the Year talks about working at the Capabilities Café

Dennis moves swiftly from table to table as he folds napkins and places silverware and plates in preparation for a Janus Community Luncheon, a complimentary monthly luncheon open to the public.

Preparation for the Janus luncheons begins the week before as the team plans and prepares recipes. The day of the luncheon, the team arrives at Janus early in the morning ready to do their part to make the event a success. Tables are set up, flowers are arranged and most importantly, the food is prepared, plated and served to the community guests.

Capabilities Café Team Leader Chris Hawkins describes Dennis as a "good leader, a hard worker and an exceptional person." Kelsey, a co-worker, says Dennis has a "good heart" and "tries to help everyone just like a big brother would."

Dennis shared his own thoughts as he continued to set the tables: "I enjoy working at the luncheons. It's a blessing to serve others and being a part of giving back to the community."

In addition to working at Community Luncheons, Dennis has been a participant in the Work Experience program for over five years developing job skills in a structured, supervised setting. Dennis focuses on his work and always completes his job assignments, often taking on extra responsibilities like loading the vending machines. He often jokes "I like making the money" with a huge smile on his face. It is obvious that he takes great pride in earning a paycheck for the work he does.

Dennis was recognized as Janus Client of the Year in 2017 and continues to work towards exploring new opportunities for personal growth and towards his goal of one day being employed in the community.

Community Luncheons are held at Janus from 11:30 a.m. to 12:45 p.m. To attend a Community Luncheon, which includes a tour of Janus and an overview of programs and services, please contact Patty Steffen at psteffen@janus-inc.org.

Shakespeare's Macbeth comes to Federal Hill Commons next week

The REPORTER

This year marks the 27th anniversary of Noblesville Shakespeare in the Park providing free performances, and the third year to perform in the amphitheater at Federal Hill Commons. The show this summer is one of Shakespeare's most notable: "Macbeth." Performances are set for 8:30 p.m. on July 25, 26, 27 and Aug. 1, 2 and 3.

Witches, murders, and battles abound (and that's just in the first 10 minutes). William Shakespeare's "Macbeth" comes to life for six free performances in the amphitheater at Federal Hill Commons.

Bring lawn chairs or a blanket, food, perhaps some wine, and enjoy a beautiful evening of theater under the stars. Restrooms and a children's playground are located next to the theater.

congested. This makes sense since this project can help increase our commercial tax base, which keeps residential property taxes low.

In Indianapolis, there was a study conducted after the Cultural Trail was built. Businesses along Mass Ave. and in Fountain Square reported large increases in customers and it was reported that 40 to 50 full-time jobs were added along with 47 part-time positions. More than a quarter of those businesses decided to open an extra day and 23 percent say they now close later. Overall, it's estimated that there has been $864.5 million in estimated economic impact due to the 8 miles of trail. Property values have increased by $1 billion.

I applaud the City of Carmel for widening the Monon, but one thing I want to throw out there: Please remember the green space. We need trees and grass and lush scenery. If it's just concrete, we'd all go crazy.

Paths and green space aren't just important in commercial areas. It's vital in our neighborhoods. When new homes are under construction, we need to make sure that appropriate buffers and green space are included. We need sidewalks and paths in our residential areas. And we need to maintain our parks space. I'm pleased that the Clay Township government is providing money to help update our parks, including Flowing Well Park located in my part of town. I'm also excited that federal money allows for a new multi-use path along 126th Street east of Keystone. We need to continue to see these commitments to parks and green space throughout Carmel.

In the past 20 years, we've seen Carmel expand its parks area from about 400 acres to nearly 1,000. I love that progress and want to see that commitment continue.

I was born and raised right here in Noblesville. I grew up in a home without domestic violence or assault - it wasn't something I saw, or even heard about. But when I was introduced to Prevail of Central Indiana, I was shocked by the number of individuals who are affected by domestic violence. In 2018 alone, Prevail helped more than 4,000 clients in Hamilton County. (Nearly 80 percent of clients are women and children.) Prevail is strictly confidential, and since their core values include integrity and respect, they provide their services at no charge. Domestic violence and abuse are hard topics to discuss, so you don't often hear about them. But at Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville, we're breaking the taboo and raising awareness for Prevail, an organization that helps families in Hamilton County. - Mike Bragg, GM of Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville

To help Hamilton County families affected by domestic violence and sexual abuse, you can donate the following items:

- Art supplies (for children to journal and express their emotions)
- Bottled water (8 oz. bottles, preferably)
- Individually packaged snacks
- Gas cards (many women have no access to funds after fleeing their abuser)

You can drop off items at Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville, located at 14701 Tom Wood Way. You can also donate directly to Prevail of Central Indiana by visiting Prevailinc.org.

Two more local events canceled due to heat

Carmel cancels Art of Wine

The REPORTER

Carmel city officials have decided to cancel the Art of Wine event scheduled for this evening in the Carmel Arts & Design District in light of excessive heat warnings forecast for Central Indiana.

After consulting with public safety officials and talking to several of the participating vendors who had also voiced concern about the event, the decision was made to cancel the event in the interest of public safety.

The City of Carmel will process refunds for patrons who purchased VIP tickets.

Carmel's protocol for hazardous weather conditions as it relates to events extends beyond severe thunderstorms, ice storms and extreme cold weather. In the summer months, the Carmel Fire Department uses the Wet Bulb Globe Temp scale to determine extreme heat conditions – a scale that takes in temperature and relative humidity to determine a threshold at which point an event would be canceled. The City surpassed that threshold Friday, and the forecast for tomorrow is well above that danger level as well.

“The safety of our patrons and event staff is our top priority, and given the extreme heat conditions, we needed to follow our Emergency Weather Action Plan and cancel the event,” said Nancy Heck, Director of Community Relations and Economic Development.

Rep. Cook receives summer study committee assignment

The REPORTER

State Rep. Tony Cook (R-Cicero) was recently appointed to a serve on the Interim Study Committee on Education. Cook said over the next few months, members will examine career counseling in local elementary and high schools.

“Career counselors are essential resources who help guide Hoosier children on the path to success,” Cook said. “We want to make sure schools have the tools they need to get students ready to enter the workforce.”

The committee is also tasked with studying local referenda and how it impacts teacher pay and other government entities.

Cook was also appointed to the Indiana Protection Services and Advocacy Commission. Members will look into matters ensuring adequate legal and advocacy services for the protection, promotion and empowerment of the rights and interests of people with disabilities.

Interim study committee hearings, which typically occur at the Statehouse in

Duke Energy offers tips for keeping your bill low

The REPORTER

Trying to stay cool during this heat wave? That probably means you're using more energy at home – which can lead to a higher energy bill. Air conditioners use a lot of electricity, but there are a few things you can do to help avoid surprises on your monthly bill.

Three tips for understanding your bill

The first step to keeping your bill in check is understanding what's on it. Here's what to look for:

1. Billing cycle length: Check the number of days in your billing cycle. Most bills cover 30 days, but sometimes it varies. Bills that cover more days can be higher.

2. Average kWh: Look at average kilowatt-hour (kWh) use per day. At first glance your bill may look higher, but if your average use is similar to the same time last year, or similar to another month with extreme temps, it's a normal bill.

3. Online usage tools: If you have a smart meter, check for a daily usage analysis tool online. Smart meters collect info by the hour, so you can check for spikes in energy use to see what appliances and behaviors are increasing your bill.

10 ways to avoid billing surprises

Now for the good stuff.

Here are some things you can do to keep tabs on your energy use and lower your bill.

1. Get usage alerts. The best way to avoid billing surprises is to track your use. Duke Energy customers with a smart meter can sign up for Usage Alerts. Similar to data alerts you get from your cellphone company, you can set a budget amount for your monthly energy bill and receive notices when you are approaching your limit.

2. Upgrade your bulbs. Replace standard bulbs with light-emitting diodes (LEDs). LEDs are more efficient than regular bulbs and emit less heat, while giving off the same amount of light.

3. Check your HVAC. Have your heating and cooling system checked to maintain performance. Duke Energy offers qualified customers rebates to help offset the cost of replacing older units with energy efficient ones. Use finditduke.com to find a certified contractor.

4. Change your filters. Change air filters regularly. A dirty air filter makes an HVAC system work harder and use more energy.

5. Adjust your thermostat. Set your thermostat as high as comfortable. The smaller the difference between the inside and outside temperatures, the lower your energy bill will be.

6. Shut the blinds. Close blinds and curtains on sunny days.

7. Put the whole-house fan to work. If you have a whole-house fan, use it to pull cool air into your home at night or in the early morning through open windows. Turn the fan off and shut the windows during the day.

8. Use exhaust fans. Bathroom and kitchen fans remove heat and humidity from showering and cooking. (And take short showers instead of baths to save even more year-round.)

9. Cool off with ceiling fans. A ceiling fan can cool you off enough that you'll feel comfortable raising the thermostat a few degrees.

10. Save washing for the evening. Run your dishwasher, washing machine and dryer at night when it's cooler. Also, run full loads and consider air drying dishes and clothes to save even more.

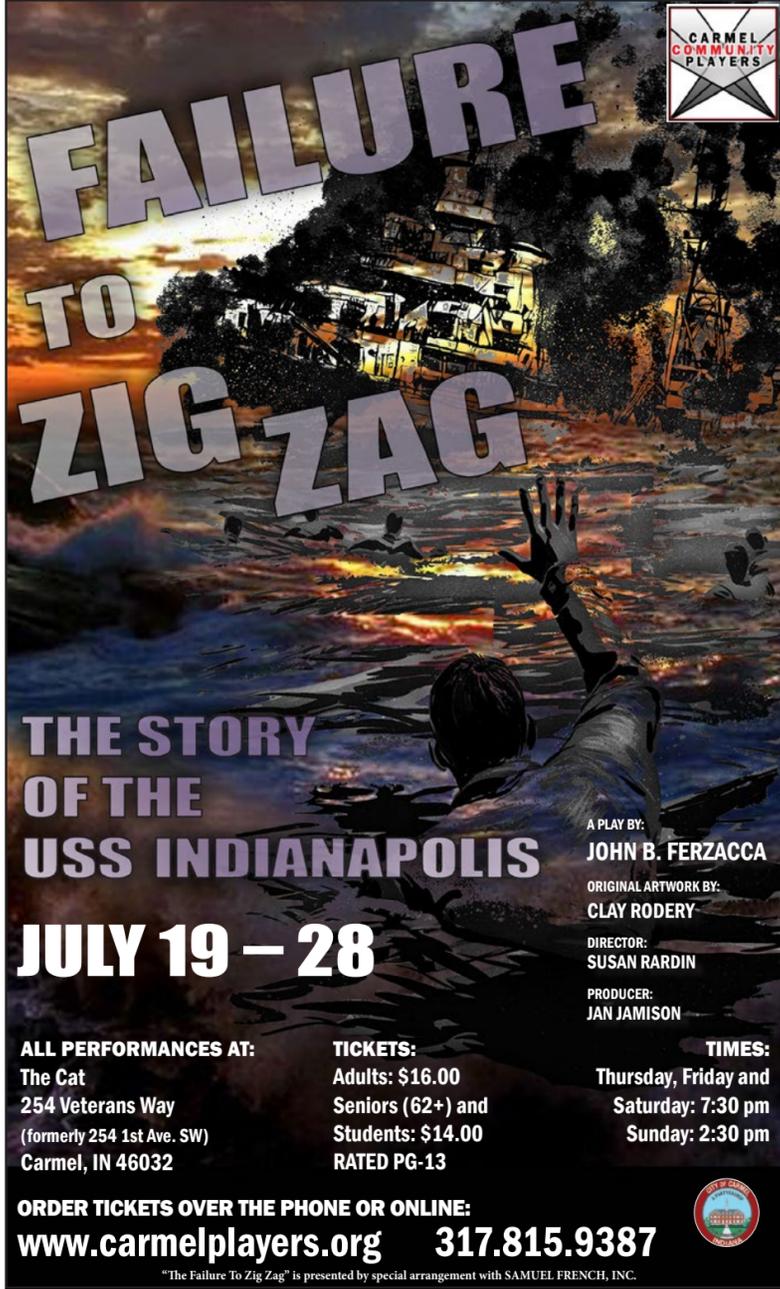

Assistance programs

To help manage your energy use, Duke Energy offers assistance programs and services, including:

- Budget Billing gives customers better control over their energy spending by establishing predictable monthly payments.

- Online savings calculators help customers understand how their homes use energy – and how they can potentially reduce their consumption and better manage their summer bills.

- Eligible homeowners can get a free home energy assessment, which includes an Energy Efficiency Starter Kit containing LEDs, an energy-efficient showerhead and switch and outlet energy seals.

AG Hill takes actions to protect consumers from deceptive mailings

The REPORTER

In a story line that has become familiar over recent months, Indiana Attorney General Curtis Hill recently resolved two additional cases in which promotional firms sent allegedly deceptive mailings to Hoosiers indicating recipients were winners of significant prizes.

Xcel Media Group Inc.

Xcel Media Group Inc. contracted with several Indiana motor vehicle dealers to conduct direct mail advertising for sales events.

The company allegedly sent mailings to 254,640 Indiana residents indicating that recipients were winners of significant prizes such as $25,000 cash, an Apple watch, a large Walmart gift card or a 55-inch HDTV. The mailings did not contain proper disclosures as required by Indiana law.

The mailings instructed recipients to attend a specific sales event at a sponsoring dealership to claim their prizes. Once at the sales event, the recipients of the mailings were informed by the dealers they had not won the prize represented on the mailings but instead were "winners" of a nominal item such as a $5 Walmart gift card.

The state alleged that Xcel Media Group Inc.'s misrepresentations and actions were unfair, abusive and deceptive — and constitute violations of Indiana's Deceptive Consumer Sales Act and Promotional Gifts and Contests Act. Under a consent agreement, the company is now enjoined from sending any mailings to any Indiana addresses that offer prizes to recipients. Xcel Media also will pay a civil penalty in the amount of $130,000 to the State of Indiana.

Dealer Direct Service LLC

Dealer Direct Service LLC and its owner, David Billman, also contracted with Indiana motor vehicle dealers to conduct direct mail advertising for sales events. The company allegedly sent mailings to 190,000 Indiana residents to advertise the various sales events.

The mailings indicated that recipients were winners of a significant cash prize, specifically $5,000. The mailings did not contain proper disclosures as required by Indiana law.

The mailings instructed the recipients to attend a specific sales event at a sponsoring dealership to claim their prize. Once at the sales events, the recipients of the mailings were informed they had not won $5,000 as represented on the mailings but instead were "winners" of a nominal item, such as a scratch-off lottery ticket or "vacation" voucher of little or no value.

The state alleged Dealer Direct Service LLC and David Billman's misrepresentations and actions were unfair, abusive and deceptive — and constitute violations of Indiana's Deceptive Consumer Sales Act and Promotional Gifts and Contests Act.

Under a default judgment, Dealer Direct Services and David Billman are enjoined from sending to any Indiana address any mailing representing that the recipient won, or may win, a prize. The judgment also requires Dealer Direct Services and David Billman to pay a civil penalty to the State of Indiana in the amount of $380,000.

"The more we have looked into this particular type of deceptive activity, the more common we have found these mailings to be," Hill said. "To protect Hoosier consumers, we will continue working on this issue and continue taking steps to ensure that offenders clean up their acts."

Indiana's employment data better than national numbers

The REPORTER

Indiana's unemployment rate drops to 3.5 percent for June and remains lower than the national rate of 3.7 percent. The monthly unemployment rate is a U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS) indicator that reflects the number of unemployed people seeking employment within the prior four weeks as a percentage of the labor force.

Indiana's labor force had a net decrease of 10,126 over the previous month. This was a result of a decrease of 3,123 unemployed residents and a decrease of 7,003 employed residents. Indiana's total labor force, which includes both Hoosiers employed and those seeking employment, stands at 3.39 million, and the state's 64.8 percent labor force participation rate remains above the national rate of 62.9 percent.

Employment by sector

Private sector employment has grown by 37,000 over the year and 6,800 over the previous month. The monthly increase is primarily due to gains in the Private Educational and Health Services (5,000) and the Professional and Business Services (1,100) sectors. Gains were partially offset by losses in the Manufacturing (-700) and the Construction (-500) sectors. Total private employment reached a preliminary record highpoint of 2,750,700, which is 18,600 above the December 2018 peak. The June 2019 peak, like all data within this report, is subject to monthly revisions and annual benchmarking.

Data are sourced from June Current Employment Statistics, Local Area Unemployment Statistics - U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics. June employment data for Indiana counties, cities and MSAs will be available at noon on Monday, July 22, pending U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics validation.

TODAY'S BIBLE READING

After this he went down to Capernaum, he, and his mother, and his brethren, and his disciples: and they continued there not many days. And the Jews' passover was at hand, and Jesus went up to Jerusalem, And found in the temple those that sold oxen and sheep and doves, and the changers of money sitting: And when he had made a scourge of small cords, he drove them all out of the temple, and the sheep, and the oxen; and poured out the changers' money, and overthrew the tables; And said unto them that sold doves, Take these things hence; make not my Father's house an house of merchandise. And his disciples remembered that it was written, The zeal of thine house hath eaten me up. Then answered the Jews and said unto him, What sign shewest thou unto us, seeing that thou doest these things? Jesus answered and said unto them, Destroy this temple, and in three days I will raise it up. Then said the Jews, Forty and six years was this temple in building, and wilt thou rear it up in three days? But he spake of the temple of his body. When therefore he was risen from the dead, his disciples remembered that he had said this unto them; and they believed the scripture, and the word which Jesus had said.

Boys soccer tournament for Peyton Manning Children's Hospital Westfield hosting Shamrock Charity Challenge

A summer tradition is taking place this weekend at the Westfield High School soccer field.

The Shamrock Charity Challenge is in its 11th year, and features eight boys soccer teams playing in friendly competition, all while raising money for an outstanding cause. The Challenge benefits the Peyton Manning Children's Hospital, and has raised over $100,000 for the facility since 2009.

Former Westfield boys soccer coach Myron Vaughn created the event, and comes up every year to serve as its director. Vaughn said that being able to continue the event "is really special."

"We've gotten to see some good soccer so far, so we're looking forward to the rest of the weekend," said Vaughn.

The games had to be adjusted due to the excessive heat. Teams were playing 20 minutes periods, then would go inside to Westfield's MPIF room for 10 minutes in order to cool off and get refreshed. Vaughn said the goal is to "maximize field time and rest time ratios," and everything has been working out well.

"Referees that have been here have done a great job, kept up the play with the heat and everything," said Vaughn.

In addition to the soccer, the athletes get a chance to see their contributions to the hospital in person. On Thursday, a group of players went down to PMCH, another tradition, one which Vaughn said is done each year the day before the Challenge begins. Players get to meet some of the patients and tour the facilities; Vaughn said it gives them "a little bit more of a tangible effect to what they're doing and raising money for. And as always, it had the right effect and the players were able to see and understand a little bit more of

Kenzie Matthews leads her llama, Layna, up pyramid steps during the Llama PR Obstacle Class, one of the many events taking place at the Llama Barn on Friday. There is activity in the barn during each day of the Hamilton County 4-H Fair.

It wouldn't be the Hamilton County 4-H Fair without the llamas.

The Llama Barn has activity inside every day of the fair. One of those events on Friday was the Llama PR Obstacle Class, where handlers guided their llamas through a course that featured tests of agility, obedience and patience.

Other llama events included Senior Showmanship and the Pack Obstacle class on Thursday. Friday was the busiest day of all, with the Intermediate Showmanship preceding the PR Obstacle Class, then the Costume Contest, Leaping Llama and public Walk-A-Llama events taking place in the late afternoon and evening.

Today's llama activities are the Beginner Llama Showmanship at 9:30 a.m., with the Field Obstacle at 1:30 p.m. On Sunday, the Walk-A-Llama Games and Activities begin at 1 p.m., with the public invited to participate. The Parents' Llama Show is set for 2:30 p.m. Finally on Monday, the Youth Judging Class begins at 10 a.m.

"And we're air-conditioned and cool in here," said Marilyn Nenni, llama club leader.

Another attraction in the Llama Barn is four baby llamas. "They're really cute, they're just about a month old," said Nenni.

So if you're looking for something unique and a way to get out of the heat during the Fair, take a trip to the Llama Barn.

"Come out and see the llamas," said Nenni. "We'd be glad to have you and pet them and get your llama kisses."

Come out to the Hamilton County 4-H Fair July 18-22!
