

Hamilton County residents forming new co-op to go solar, get a discount

The REPORTER

Neighbors across Hamilton County are invited to join the Hamilton County solar co-op to go solar and save money together. A series of solar information sessions about solar energy and the co-op process begins on Thursday, August 22 at 7 p.m. at the Hamilton East Public Library in Fishers. The full list of meetings throughout Hamilton County can be found below. The sessions are free and open to the public.

The solar co-op is offered through Solar United Neighbors of Indiana (SUN) in partnership with local nonprofits Carmel Green Initiative and Westfield Green Together and with support from the City of Carmel, the City of Fishers, City of Noblesville, City of Westfield, Hamilton County Board of Commissioners and Solarize Indiana.

“Investing in solar power is an investment in our future and we’re happy to support solar education in Hamilton County,” said Fishers Mayor Scott Fadness. “Installing solar can help home and business owners save money on electric bills while also supporting good-paying local jobs, improving air and water quality to keep communities healthy and creating a more resilient electric grid. I hope more Fishers residents learn more about this type of alternative energy option.”

The Hamilton County co-op builds on the success of Carmel Green Initiative’s Solarize campaigns that helped more than two dozen homes in the Hamilton County area install a total of more than 1,000 solar panels in 2017 and 2018. “Our goal is to help as many Hamilton County homes and Hoosier Heritage Port Authority President David George explains the bids received to remove Nick Plate rail line tracks.

Rail removal will bring $289K in salvage value

By FRED SWIFT
ReadTheReporter.com

The Hoosier Heritage Port Authority, operators of the Nickel Plate rail line, has recommended acceptance of a bid which would pay owners $289,750 and remove the rails and ties on the Nickel Plate between Noblesville and downtown Indianapolis.

The bid from A&K Railroad Materials, Inc., gives Noblesville, Fishers and Hamilton County – as owners of the railroad right-of-way – a net profit due to the salvage value of the steel rails, according to port authority attorney, Anne Poindexter. But, she noted, the deal is contingent on the cities and county agreeing to the bid’s terms.

The port authority members met Monday to consider five bids which were received for the project. The action is a first step toward converting the rail bed into a greenway trail similar to the Monon trail which runs through Carmel, Westfield and Sheridan.

Before work can begin on trail construction, an agreement must be signed involving Indianapolis, Fishers and Noblesville, the three municipalities through which the trail will run. A number of issues will need to be decided including traffic control at major intersections such as 146th Street and how to deal with highway repair if needed where the rail bed elevation may be altered.

The ultimate cost of building the new trail has not been determined. No timetable for construction has been established.

North of Noblesville, the present use of the railroad for excursion train traffic will be unchanged. Trains, operated by the Nickel Plate Heritage Railroad, are now running from Noblesville to Atlanta.

Employee raises of 3 percent top list of new spending . . . County Council set to discuss 2020 budget starting next week

The REPORTER

Hamilton County Councilors, the financial stewards of Hamilton County government, will hold two days of budget hearings at the Judicial Center starting at 8 a.m. on Tuesday, Aug. 6. The council will work to set a budget of just under $100 million for the 2020 fiscal year.

“It’s a big budget. It’s a big operation,” Council President Brad Beaver said. “Our biggest expenses are salaries and benefits for the 800-plus county employees as well as highway improvement projects.”

Beaver

The proposed budget will include 3 percent pay raises for county employees. The council will also be presented with budget requests from every department in the county.

“Our expenditures will meet our revenues in the coming year,” Beaver says. “The council hasn’t raised property taxes in 20 years and we don’t intend to do so this year. We try to do the best job we can for the taxes we already take in.”

Once approved, the budget will be sent to the State of Indiana for approval before going into effect Jan. 1, 2020.

Keep kids safe as school starts this week

The REPORTER

Schools across Hamilton County are resuming this week or in the near future, so please be aware that students are out and about. School speed zones are in effect and are monitored, so watch for the signs and follow the limits.

School parents, be aware of signs around schools and think about the example you set for your children by following the law.

School start dates

• Noblesville: Thursday, Aug. 1	• Sheridan: Tuesday, Aug. 6
• Westfield: Tuesday, Aug. 6	• HSE: Wednesday, Aug. 7
• Heights: Tuesday, Aug. 6	• Carmel: Tuesday, Aug. 13

Other private and/or religiously affiliated schools will open in the next few weeks as well.

Under Indiana law (IC 9-21-5-6(f)), cities and towns set school speed zones, so each location may be different in terms of hours, speeds or signage. Questions and concerns about speed limits should be addressed with the county or city highway department where the zone is located.

Buses are running as well, and a common question is, “Do I have to stop for the bus?” State law requires motorists to stop when a school bus is picking up or dropping off children. Watch for school buses with the stop arm extended and red lights flashing – which means STOP, not proceed with caution.

This law applies to all roadways except those that are divided by a physical barrier or an unimproved median. On a divided roadway, only vehicles

"We're excited for this new partnership with SUN, and grateful to the new solar owners who are paying it forward, volunteering to help others go solar and for all the support we've received in Hamilton County to promote solar."

SUN expands access to solar by educating Hoosiers about the benefits of distributed solar energy, helping them organize group solar installations and strengthening Indiana solar policies and its community of solar supporters.

"I am excited to work with Hamilton County residents," said Zach Schalk, SUN of Indiana Program Director. "The solar co-op process makes it easy to go solar. If you've ever thought about installing solar before, this is the perfect opportunity to do so." By going solar as a co-op, participants can save off the cost of going solar while also benefiting from the support of fellow

Northern Chamber to tour Duke Energy Power Station

The REPORTER

Members of the Northern Hamilton County Chamber of Commerce will host the Thursday, Aug. 8 meeting at the Duke Energy Power Station. The luncheon and tour will take place from 11:15 a.m. to 1 p.m. at 21225 Riverwood Avenue, Noblesville.

The program and tour will center on the history and operation of the plant. Built in 1950, Noblesville Station, located along the bank of the White River, was originally a coal-fired plant with two steam turbines that generated approximately 90 megawatts of electricity. In 2003, the coal-burning portion of the station was decommissioned, and three new combustion turbines were installed that run on natural gas. To increase efficiency, the turbines were joined to a heat recovery steam generator, which captures and converts combustion turbine exhaust heat to energy. The modernized facility now generates approximately 300 megawatts of electricity.

Take advantage of this monthly networking opportunity. Cost for members is $15 and $18 for non-members. Register to attend by this Friday, Aug. 2. Seating is limited to 25. Attendees will go through security check at the gate then drive to the parking lot east of the large brick building. Attendees will then walk a short distance to the maintenance/conference building west of the cooling tower.

Sleep with your door closed

The REPORTER

Fishers firefighters on Monday launched the “Sleep with your door closed” campaign at Launch Fishers, 12175 Visionary Way.

The door display will remain at Launch Fishers until the end of the week as it begins its journey to businesses, schools, churches and events.

This standalone display shows the effectiveness of keeping doors closed in your home and business to slow or stop the travel of smoke and fire in the event of a fire. Click here to view a video from Underwriters Laboratory showing the differences between an open and a closed door.

In today’s world of construction and furnishings, you have about three minutes to exit a home after the smoke alarm goes off. A closed door can give you more time to escape. It is important to do for everyone, and especially children, the elderly and the confined. It’s a simple step that can save your life.

- Here are other fire safety tips:
- Sleep with your door closed.
 - Know two ways out.
 - Check smoke alarm batteries monthly and replace alarms every 10 years.
 - Teach kids how to open windows.
 - Have a meeting place outside away from the building.
 - Inspect your home for safety.

Photos provided

Fire and resulting smoke can be slowed by a closed door, as seen here on each side of this sample door. One side (left) is badly burnt, but the other side (right) was left largely intact. This could allow someone inside a building extra time to get out.

Noblesville reader: “If you hate this country, get out”

Dear Editor:

It is sad and disappointing that Bishop Trimble chose to conflate the words of American hero Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. as a means to politically criticize the President. (Editor’s note: Click here to read Bishop Trimble’s letter.)

The remarks I’ve heard from members of the "Squad," a group of radical leftists, have been mostly mean-spirited, often hateful and even anti-Semitic toward other Americans, the President, and the country in general. I’ve yet to hear one realistically constructive idea from "The Squad" or their sycophants, and that, sir, was not the way of Dr. King.

Everyone who pays attention knows the President is a counter-puncher. If you knew American history you would realize he’s not the only president to have that characteristic.

I don’t believe his words taken in full context were racist. It is not unique to America that citizens feel strongly about their country, flag and national anthem. This is why identity politics is so dangerous. Surely the Bishop doesn’t want to see us evolve into a fifth-column where citizens aren’t loyal to this country!

So, to emphasize the point, if you hate this country, get out. It has absolutely nothing to do with the melanin in a person’s skin! There are people from around the world literally dying to come here and participate in the American dream. Regardless of ethnicity most Americans, I believe, would rather have them here than the haters.

How much more encouraging and less divisive it would have been for Bishop Trimble to note the significant progress since the 1960 Civil Rights Law was enacted, which was largely thanks to northern Republican legislators.

Can we continue to improve? Of course. We are human. I suggest the Bishop should be a bit more concerned with the nihilistic, postmodern, neo-Marxist rhetoric "The Squad" and their followers praise and glorify. It doesn’t require an epiphany to imagine the difficulty of achieving a resurgence of Judeo-Christian values that includes more government in our lives.

Carmel reader calls for private donations to fund school safety

Dear Editor:

To religious, fiscally conservative Republicans of Carmel who support another schools referendum:

Fred Swift asked some good questions last week. Here are a few more.

I would like a logical, moral and fiscally conservative justification for yet another tax increase here in what the chair of the local Republican Party, City Councilor Laura Campbell, proudly touts as "the 5th most Conservative Friendly County in America." Maybe she could write it, or the former Vice Chair of the party, Terry Anker, could "nudge" me in that direction if he supports it.

Though Henry Mestetsky, at Around Carmel and the Carmel Redevelopment Commission, quickly reminds us that "school corporations are distinct taxing units governed by elected school boards and referendum/funding issues have nothing to do with your city government (mayor/city council)." However, as he surely knows, each time the city approves a tax abatement or TIF zone, the 50 percent of local property taxes that go to support the schools are no longer available "for the children."

From a moral perspective, why should I pay higher taxes for the schools when one of these leaders could lead a volunteer program, maybe run through the Hamilton County Community Foundation or Carmel Dads' Club, to generate this amount requested for school "safety"?

Maybe some people could forego a Disney or Vail vacation, or even give less to something altruistic that I ostensibly support like funding for Haitians, Carmel Green Initiative, or your own church (irony alert, tax deductible; 50 percent of state taxes go to schools), and give it to help CCS "be the best at getting better."

We could have the Pedcor Endowed Safety Cop at the artist formerly known as Orchard Park Elementary. Or the Jim Brainard Mental Health Advocate at Clay Middle (he got $3 million and the house in his divorce settlement and supported the last referendum so can afford it).

What do you say morally righteous Republicans? We certainly don’t want people to think we think like Karl Marx (or AOC) that “The education of all children, from the moment that they can get along without a mother’s care, [should] be in state institutions.” In case you missed it in school, that is part of the Tenth Plank of Communism.

Hopefully by not supporting this referendum I don’t hear "love it or leave it," though. After all, you wouldn’t have me to tax if I did.

Sincerely,
Eric Morris
Carmel

TODAY'S BIBLE READING

When therefore the Lord knew how the Pharisees had heard that Jesus made and baptized more disciples than John, (Though Jesus himself baptized not, but his disciples,) He left Judaea, and departed again into Galilee. And he must needs go through Samaria. Then cometh he to a city of Samaria, which is called Sychar, near to the parcel of ground that Jacob gave to his son Joseph. Now Jacob's well was there. Jesus therefore, being wearied with his journey, sat thus on the well: and it was about the sixth hour. There cometh a woman of Samaria to draw water: Jesus saith unto her, Give me to drink. (For his disciples were gone away unto the city to buy meat.)

Chundi brings home the gold for Carmel

Wrestler pins down academic Olympiad victory in Hungary

By RICHIE HALL
ReadTheReporter.com

Wrestling is a sport that can be as mentally demanding as it is physically.

The discipline required can also be used to help an athlete in other situations that require mental toughness. If one can succeed in wrestling, he can probably do so in an international academic competition.

Just ask Suhas Chundi, who owns an IHSA state wrestling medal and a gold medal from the International Biology Olympiad. The incoming senior at Carmel High School competed at the IBO, which took place July 14-21 in Szeged, Hungary.

Chundi talked about his experience in Carmel's wrestling room, a place where his practice and dedication helped him earn a fourth-place medal at last year's state wrestling meet at 106 pounds. It was easy for him to see the comparisons between wrestling and biology competitions.

"When you think about the mindset, they're really just the same, where you go to practice, you do what you're supposed to do and then you're done with practice and you keep your body ready," said Chundi. "Wrestling is like a 24-hour sport, and so is studying, kind of."

The process of getting all the way to the IBO is similar to the state wrestling meet. It started in February with an open exam, in which Chundi said around 10,000 students participated.

"The top 10 percent of that get invited to the semi-final, and then the top 20 kids get invited to a training camp, and at

Carmel's Suhas Chundi has found success as a wrestler and at the International Biology Olympiad. The incoming senior finished fourth in the state last winter at the IHSA meet, and earned a gold medal at the Olympiad, which took place earlier this month in Szeged, Hungary.

the end of the camp, there's two days of tests and that determines who goes to the International Biology Olympiad," said Chundi.

The top four students qualify to be on "Team USA" for the Olympiad. Chundi said he felt like an underdog "at almost every step except for the first one."

"The thing about this is, it's a pretty big deal if you make it to camp or especially if you make it to IBO, and then you get a gold," said Chundi. "Each time I was like 'This is crazy, I'm really here.' And then it just kept getting better."

At the Olympiad, competitors must complete two three-hour written examinations, then go through four 90-minute "practicals," or laboratories. The topics for this year were neurobiology, molecular biology, biochemistry and animal anatomy and physiology. Chundi said it was similar to entry-level college course topics.

"The international, I felt like I could do a little better," said Chundi. "But I got a gold medal, which they give to the top 10 percent and I'm really grateful for that. My exact rank was 25th place."

Chundi holds a 4.7 grade-point average and scored a 1590 on his SAT.

"He's more than just a smart guy," said Carmel head wrestling coach Ed Pendoski. "Just about in everything. Physical, mental, technical. You've got to have those three things to win a wrestling match."

Those same attributes apply to doing well in an academic competition.

"You have to have a genetic ability to be able to do that," said Chundi. "You have to have work habits, and then you have to have the support group that can put around opportunities for you to be able to study at the way that he studies. You put those three things together with his gifts of what he has IQ-wise is pretty special."

Chundi said that the competition took up two days of the seven-day stay in Szeged, a town of about 160,000 located in far southern Hungary. It's a college town, the home of the University of Szeged, recognized as one of the top universities in Europe.

Chundi and his peers got to tour the city, and Budapest, the capital of Hungary. He called it a really interesting experience to see a different country.

"You make a lot of friends," said Chundi. "A lot of Facebook followers now."

The medal he got at the Olympiad was the second of the year for Chundi, after his fourth-place medal at the state wrestling meet. When he was wrestling at Bankers Life Fieldhouse for state, Chundi said he blocked the "big deal-ness" out of his brain "and tried to treat every match like any other match."

"The same coaches were in my corner," said Chundi. "I was working mostly the same moves and it was just the same opponent, in my mind, in front of me. So it didn't really hit me until I was on the podium."

Chundi will be back for his senior year and has already started the process of applying for colleges.

"Pretty big decision," said Chundi. "I've started my application, but it's very open-ended right now."
