When I'm 64

Released in 1967 by The Beatles on their album Sgt. Pepper's Lonely Hearts Club Band: "When I'm 64."

I was 12. I was in the sixth grade at North Elementary.

Mr. Victor Harber was my teacher. Mr. Robert Morris was the principal. Mr. Loren Williams was the superintendent of schools.

Life was pretty simple. Roller skating on Saturday afternoon. The Diana Theater or ABC Drive-In on Saturday night. Nazarene Church on Sunday morning, Sunday night and Wednesday night for prayer meeting.

Most of my world was located from Field Drive to Conner Street and Forest Park to the homes of my northeast side friends. I was to come home when the street lights came on. If Why? Because on September 3, I will turn 64.

I just do not feel like I thought 64 would feel. Well, maybe after yoga class or working a 12-hour day at the car lot, I get reminded that parts of me are a bit creaky and achy. I often have to drag my shadow home.

My get up and go ain't what it used to be. A 15-minute power nap is powerful. A 60-minute nap with a blanket is wonderful.

HSE school board OKs two calendars

By LARRY LANNAN
LarryInFishers.com

In a unanimous vote, members of the Hamilton Southeastern school board gave the go-ahead on two upcoming school year calendars, as proposed by administrators.

The 2020-21 and 2021-22 school calendars proposed by administrators were released to the public early Wednesday morning, the same day of the vote. Board members held a brief discussion Wednesday evening and voted to approve the calendars released earlier in the day.

Draft calendars were submitted for board consideration at the previous regular board meeting. There were some tweaks made to the drafts from two weeks ago, including flex days and Monday early student release days.

Prior to the vote, Hamilton Southeastern Education Association President Janet Chandler told the board that the school calendar issue is one of the most controversial the board faces, and all will not be happy, no matter how the calendar is done.

In earlier comments, board members expressed concern that in the two school years under consideration, the school start dates are early – Aug. 5, 2020 and Aug. 4, 2021. This is largely due to where Christmas Day falls on the calendar. Using the same basic system of finishing the first semester before Christmas break, Board President Michelle Fullhart said that the start date would fall to Aug. 9 in the 2022-23 school year.

You can access the 2020-21 school calendar at this link. The 2021-22 school year calendar can be found at this link.

Carmel's Monon Boulevard project receives Community Placemaking Award

The REPORTER

Accelerate Indiana Municipalities (Aim) has honored the City of Carmel with a 2019 Community Placemaking Award for its Monon Boulevard project. The city received the award on Aug. 28 at the Aim Annual Awards Luncheon, presented by Baker Tilly, at this year's Aim Ideas Summit in French Lick, Ind. Carmel won in the more than 50,000 population category.

Carmel's Monon Boulevard project is designed to activate the city's Midtown area through a Complete Street initiative. Midtown has served as an important connection between the city's Arts and Design District and Carmel City Center, but not a destination in and of itself. The $23 million project aims to breathe new life into the corridor through a multi-modal transportation feature. The project includes pedestrian, bike and recreational uses and community gathering spaces, along with a one-way lane for vehicles and extended sidewalk space to promote patios and green spaces in Midtown businesses.

Already, the project has acted as a draw for economic development, including new housing, businesses and restaurants.

The REPORTER

U.S. Senator Todd Young (R-Ind.) released the following statement in advance of Labor Day:

“This Labor Day we recognize the achievements of hardworking Hoosiers who have made Indiana a national leader in manufacturing and agriculture, and who every day invest their time, talents, and energy to serve the needs of others. For generations, our proud Hoosier workers have sustained our families and communities while helping to keep America a beacon of freedom, enterprise and opportunity.”

But when I was introduced to Prevail of Central Indiana, I was shocked by the number of individuals who are affected by domestic violence. In 2018 alone, Prevail helped more than 4,000 clients in Hamilton County. (Nearly 80 percent of clients are women and children.) Prevail is strictly confidential, and since their core values include integrity and respect, they provide their services at no charge. Domestic violence and abuse are hard topics to discuss, so you don't often hear about them. But at Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville, we're breaking the taboo and raising awareness for Prevail, an organization that helps families in Hamilton County. – Mike Bragg, GM of Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville*

Learn about the Blackberry Expedition at Cicero Library's Tuesdays with Friends

The REPORTER

No, there's not a caravan of electronic devices parading through Cicero. However, long before any smartphone, there was a Blackberry Expedition that very well may have passed through the area in the late 1700s.

Hamilton County Historian David Heighway will discuss the journey from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. on Sept. 10 at the next Tuesdays with Friends event at the Cicero branch of Hamilton North Public Library, 209 W. Brinton St., Cicero.

This Blackberry expedition took place during a 1791 militia campaign ordered by President Washington and led by General Charles Scott, who was accompanied by William Clark (of Lewis and Clark fame). But why read a bit about it when you can get the facts and background from the master storyteller himself?

'Turquoise Table' movement lands in Hamilton County

National project focuses on creating community, offers places to socialize

The REPORTER

Don't be surprised if you see strangers gathering around a blue table to socialize and play games together. That's because the Turquoise Table movement, a national project to create community among residents and visitors, is here in Hamilton County with the help of local art leaders.

The Turquoise Table movement began with a woman named Kristin Schell in Austin, Texas, and has reached as far as Uganda, according to the movement's website. The movement focuses on clustering a series of tables to become a meeting place – like the old village well used to be – where people can come together to hang out and “do life together.”

In Hamilton County, the idea came about through Hamilton County Tourism's Creative Economics group, comprised of community art representatives from Carmel, Cicero, Fishers, Noblesville and Westfield. Several of them recently attended Americans for the Arts Conference in Minneapolis and discovered the idea.

The tables offer games like Jenga, chess and checkers and will be positioned around Hamilton County's five participating communities but will also be moved around in order to engage many different groups of people.

“The project is the first cross-community collaborative arts initiative in Hamilton County and is a reminder as to how important community and neighborhood conversations are,” said Brenda Myers, CEO/President of Hamilton County Tourism, which sponsored the movement.

The project is part of Ross Hilleary and Kelli Jenkins enjoy a game of Jenga at a Turquoise Table.

HCT's Creative Economics initiative and is led by the organization's Destination Development Manager, Sarah Buckner.

Myers said when working with the county's three Indiana Arts Commission's Cultural Arts Districts (Carmel, Noblesville and Fishers) and others engaged in the arts to make Hamilton County a great place to both live and visit, it became apparent that more cross-community work would help support a broader arts conversation.

“HCT is committing additional funding to support arts development in the county and hopes to increase support annually for years to come using destination development funds from the county's lodging tax,” Myers said.

The tables, which meet ADA standards, are located at Quaker Park in Westfield, Pocket Park in Cicero, Federal Hill Commons in Noblesville, Sophia Square in Carmel and the Nickel Plate District in Fishers. Eventually, they will be moved to include other areas of the county.

For more information on the project, contact Sarah Buckner sbuckner@hamiltoncountytourism.com.

AG Hill leads coalition seeking support for autism services

The REPORTER

Indiana Attorney General Curtis Hill announced last Wednesday that he and Mississippi Attorney General Jim Hood are leading a bipartisan coalition of 47 attorneys general calling upon Congress to authorize the Autism CARES Act of 2019. This legislation provides federal support for research into autism spectrum disorders (“ASD”) and services to those affected by these conditions.

“The United States is a caring and compassionate nation,” Hill said. “As Americans, we must stand together to help alleviate the challenges imposed by ASD upon families across the country.”

A previous version of this legislation is set to expire on Sept. 30. The Autism CARES Act of 2019 currently exists as H.R. 1058 in the U.S. House of Representatives and S. 427 in the U.S. Senate. Congress began addressing autism in 2000 with the first enactment of the bill. The Autism CARES Act of 2019 will continue Congress' ongoing mission to ensure that those living with ASD receive the necessary support and research. “We are committed to providing a wide array of programs and services to support children and adults with autism, and their families,” Hood said. “The Act responds to this national concern with a cohesive interagency effort, including programs for America's rural and underdeveloped communities.”

Where is the statue of the "Popcorn King"?

The REPORTER

This week in Indiana's history ...

1783 – The Treaty of Paris was signed with Great Britain. The pact officially ended the American Revolutionary War and gave most of the land east of the Mississippi to the United States. The new area, called The Northwest Territory, included most of Indiana, Ohio, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin and part of Minnesota.

1893 – The Grand Army of the Republic, made up of Civil War veterans, held its annual "encampment" in Indianapolis. Over 75,000 attended the gathering, which included the construction of a replica of the Union gunboat Kearsarge on the east lawn of the Indiana Statehouse. The GAR met in the city eight times between 1881 and 1949.

1936 – President Franklin D. Roosevelt was in Indianapolis to open the State Fair. Before going to the fair, he took a two-hour open-car tour, stopping at various work sites in the city. At Riley Hospital for Children, his car pulled up close alongside a window so he could talk to children face-to-face. He was welcomed to the State Fair by Governor Paul V. McNutt and Mayor John W. Kern.

1964 – It was 1 a.m. and supposed to be a secret, but somehow fans and photographers found out that the Beatles were arriving in their chartered Lockheed Electra at Weir Cook Airport. It was another secret that they were staying at the Speedway Motel, but that one got out, too. The "Fab Four" were good-natured about it as they prepared for two State Fair shows later in the day.

1988 – A formal dress party was held at the Indiana Statehouse to celebrate the $11 million restoration of the building. Entertainment for the crowd of 2,000 was provided by singer Marie Osmond. The project, which took five years, brought the structure back to its original glory, while updating its technology and accessibility. Governor Robert D. Orr told the assembly, "This is a renewal as well as a celebration. It is sentimental with an eye toward the future."

2012 – A life-sized statue of Orville Redenbacher was unveiled in Valparaiso, where he developed the popcorn that made him famous. The statue has the "Popcorn King" sitting on a park bench wearing the bowtie, suspenders, and horn-rimmed glasses which were his trademarks. Through his commercials and guest appearances on television, he was a familiar figure to people around the world.

Coomer remembers playing for the Millers

By RICHIE HALL

When Terry Coomer entered Noblesville High School back in 1969, the Millers baseball team had never won a sectional championship.

By the time Coomer graduated, Noblesville had won four sectional titles and Coomer was on his way into the Major League Baseball draft. The Millers were on the baseball map, thanks to Coomer and his teammates.

Coomer will be honored for his achievements this winter as one of the 2020 inductees to the Noblesville High School Athletic Hall of Fame. Coomer shared his achievements with the Reporter and spoke about many of the memorable games and experiences he had playing for the Millers.

Just by stepping on to the field for Noblesville as a freshman, Coomer made history. He was the first baseball in NHS history to play varsity as a ninth-grader. Coomer proved right away that he belonged, as he hit .400 for the season. During the sectional, he tied a record by getting three hits in one game.

"Dunker took a lot of heat for that," said Coomer. "But after I got three hits, everybody shut up."

An accomplishment like that would be enough to get noticed in the high school baseball world. But that attention was amplified when Don Dunker, Noblesville's baseball coach at that time, invited Coomer to attend a Kansas City Royals tryout camp at NHS while he was still a 15-year-old freshman.

"Most of these guys in this camp were 18, 19, 20 years old," said Coomer. He was understandably scared at the notion of pitching against such experienced players, but he got through the fear — and struck out six straight hitters, three of whom were college All-Americans. "How old did you say he was?" yelled a player from the outfield.

Terry Coomer provided many memorable moments for the Noblesville baseball team, including this one when he pitched a perfect game in the sectional championship over Tipton. Coomer played varsity all four years for the Millers, helping them win the sectional each year, and was drafted by the San Francisco Giants after high school.

"A couple of those guys I struck out were 22 years old," said Coomer. "So that was what started it."

Coomer was named the outstanding player of the camp. Don Jellison, then the sports editor of the Noblesville Ledger, wrote about Coomer's accomplishments at the camp. Jellison was already well aware of Coomer's talents, as he picked him to be on his 13-15 year old American Legion team. Jellison and Dunker became mentors and good friends to Coomer.

"I was really surprised," said Coomer. "I got a letter from the Ledger, saying you've been picked for this team. I didn't have really any interaction with him pri-

HSE boys pick up HCC victory over Flashes

Sheridan's Nolan Buckner takes control of the ball during the Blackhawks' Saturday boys soccer game with Blackford.

The Hamilton Southeastern boys soccer team got a Saturday morning Hoosier Crossroads Conference win at Franklin Central, by the score of 3-1.

The Class 3A No. 4 Royals scored two goals in the first half. Sam Kay converted a penalty kick for the first goal, then Kuljit Mann put a header into the net off an assist by Aniket Sunderesh. The Flashes scored a couple minutes into the second half, but got no closer. Isa Sayeed put in Southeastern's third goal, from a free kick by Tyler Pulliam.

University won a Pioneer Conference game over Muncie Burris 2-0 on Saturday.

Quentin Berry and Ethan Patel each got one goal for the 1A No. 1 Trailblazers. Noah Arnett and Jacob Masoncup anchored the UHS defense, which allowed the Owls only two shots on goal.

Sheridan won its first game of the season on Saturday, beating Blackford 3-2.

Kyle Eden scored the winning goal for the Blackhawks, who are 1-1-1 for the season.

Guerin Catholic took care of 2A No. 9 Brebeuf Jesuit 5-0 in a Saturday Circle

City Conference game.

Daniel Cloran, Tommy Hartman and Ethan Thornburg all scored goals for the 2A No. 3 Golden Eagles. Aidan Perhaps recorded the shutout.

GIRLS GAMES

The Carmel girls team hosted its own invitational on Saturday.

The 3A No. 2 Greyhounds played 2A No. 1 Cathedral, winning 2-1. The Irish scored on a penalty kick just 16 seconds into the game. Carmel came back four minutes later when Cassidy Eckstein scored off a Susie Soderstrom assist. Naomi Mann got the winning goal in the 17th minute, assisted by Morgan Parker and Soderstrom.

Fishers also played a morning game, beating Bishop Dwenger 1-0. Taryn McFarland scored the Tigers' goal.

Carmel and Fishers played each other in the evening, with the game finishing in a 0-0 tie.

Hamilton Heights came back to finish its game with Yorktown in a 2-2 tie on Saturday.

The Huskies trailed 2-0 at halftime. In the second half, Emily Stirn found Cassidy Felger in a crowd at the top of the goal box; Felger slipped past defenders and put the ball in the net. Jenna Peterson scored the second goal, also getting past a defender and slipping the ball past the keeper.

"We have found ourselves playing from behind in three straight games but this team is mentally tough," said Heights coach Travis Kauffman. "They won't quit on each other and they won't quit believing they can score and come back. I'm proud of our defense for shutting down Yorktown's skilled and athletic attack. It's a resilient group."

Heights is 1-1-2 and hosts Northwestern on Tuesday.

The Huskies won the junior varsity game 3-0. Markaela Pugh scored two goals and Katelyn Champion scored one.

Guerin Catholic improved to 2-0 in Circle City Conference play with a 2-1 win over Brebeuf Jesuit on Saturday.

Hailey Abel got the Golden Eagles on the board just before halftime. The Braves tied the game with 28:51 left, but Emersen Jennings scored the game winner with 13:10 remaining.

or to that letter. He must have saw something.”

Coomer went on to have a great high school baseball career. He made history as a sophomore by pitching a perfect game – the first in Noblesville history – in the 1971 sectional championship game. The Millers played Tipton, but no Blue Devil got on base, as Coomer struck out 19 of 21 hitters and issued no walks.

The starting catcher in that game was Tom Knotts, who went on to play at the University of Illinois and would return to Noblesville, becoming a longtime and successful wrestling coach for the Millers. During the first half of the game, Knotts was hit in the head at the plate and had to leave the game.

Freshman Alan Dunlap came in, and was understandably petrified. At one point, Coomer went 3-0 on a hitter. Dunlap called time and ran out to the mound.

“What do you want to throw,” asked Dunlap.

“We’re going to just throw a fastball here,” said Coomer. He wound up striking out the hitter.

“That pretty much was the defining moment,” said Coomer. “I believe that was about the fourth or fifth inning. That was the closest I came to walking anybody. The same hitter actually hit the ball twice.” Those were the only two balls put in play, but they were picked up for outs.

“The game was surreal to me,” said Coomer. “It was in the groove. You’re in the zone. Pure focus. And that was what started Allen on his baseball career. He called a good game and he caught a good game. Don wrote about him the next day in the Ledger. That was really a tough thing for him to do coming in for Knotts, who was a senior. And we won the game 6-0. The Tipton coach walked out and shook my hand and said, that was a great game. He said ‘We’ll see you again.’”

Noblesville did see Tipton again in the 1972 sectional, where Coomer threw a no-hitter against the Blue Devils. Coomer compiled a 6-1 record during that season.

That record swelled to 19-1 after summer baseball, where Coomer pitched Noblesville to the Advanced Babe Ruth State Championship.

As he moved into his senior year, Coomer was being scouted heavily by the professional teams. In the first game of the 1973 season, the Millers opened their season against Cardinal Ritter with Gene Thompson, the San Francisco Giants head scout, in attendance. Coomer tallied 16 strikeouts and allowed only hit during the game, which Noblesville won 4-0. That prompted the Giants to draft him.

In Coomer’s final sectional game as a senior, the Millers played Carmel for the championship. The Greyhounds were responsible for Coomer’s only loss of his junior year.

“Tubby McDonald was the coach at Carmel, and his goal was to beat us,” said Coomer.

Jellison wrote an article in the Ledger imploring people to come out and support the team, noting that Coomer would likely be drafted the next day.

“Terry Coomer is a product of Noblesville Baseball and has come up through our program, Little League, Babe Ruth, American Legion and Noblesville High School,” Jellison wrote. “He is an outstanding player. We want to support him tomorrow.”

The Noblesville community showed up, with 2,000 people attending the game. Coomer rose to the occasion, even though he was nervous and coming back from a broken hand that kept him out of the lineup for eight weeks.

Coomer’s first pitch was 95 mph, which was measured by a radar gun. One person who saw that number was Coomer’s girlfriend Kim – now his wife of many years – and she happily yelled the number out loud.

“I knocked a kid down three times,” said Coomer. “I was overthrowing.”

First baseman Mark Hood walked over to Coomer and asked “How’s it going?”

Coomer said, “if I was going to get beat, I was going to throw as hard as I could.”

“Take a little bit off,” said Hood. “If they do hit you, that’s why we’re out here.”

The Millers won the game 4-1, clinching their fourth consecutive sectional title. After his chat with Hood, Coomer struck out 14 hitters and didn’t give up any earned runs.

As for McDonald? At the end of the game, Coomer ran over and tossed the ball to him. “Game ball,” he said.

Noblesville went on to play in the regional at Anderson, and won its morning game over Kokomo Haworth 2-1. Coomer gave up only three hits in that game.

After the sectional final, it was made official: Coomer was drafted by the Giants, as the 78th player in that year’s MLB draft.

“I worked at Sears while I was in high school, worked on Saturdays if I wasn’t playing ball,” said Coomer. “The manager was John Randall, and John was a great guy. The day of the draft, I was supposed to work. I came to work that morning of the draft, and John said, you go home. I want you to call me when you get the call. The next day, he took me out to lunch. Just told me that he was really proud of me.”

Coomer signed a letter of intent to play baseball at Ball State University, but ultimately decided to join the Giants system. He went through spring training in Arizona, and remembers traveling all around the western part of the United States, from Casa Grande to Great Falls, Montana.

“It was low-level minor league baseball,” said Coomer, thinking back to the 14-hour bus trips. “Buses breaking down and no sleep.” He also quickly became aware of the talent level of pro baseball.

“This is a huge adjustment, these are some of the best baseball players in the world,” said Coomer. “You may be the best baseball player in your community, or your college, but the other guys are the same thing. All of a sudden, the level of player that you’re pitching against is your level. So you’re facing a lot bigger talent.”

Coomer enjoyed his brief time playing in the minor leagues. But soon, his priorities changed – “I came to know the Lord as my Savior,” he said. “I decided I was not going to play anymore, and a year later I was at Bible college.”

Coomer said he knew “the Lord had something different for me,” so at the age of 20, he went to Tennessee Temple Bible College in Chattanooga.

“I’m very happy with the decision I made,” said Coomer. He worked for a time in the newspaper industry, then went back to school and received a Doctor of Theology degree from Southern Indiana Baptist College and Seminary. Coomer has pastored at five churches in Ohio, Indiana and Arkansas, and currently serves as the pastor of Hope Baptist Church in North Little Rock. Coomer and his wife will mark 10 years at North Little Rock in February, and recently purchased and paid for a building for the church.

“We also have a worldwide ministry out of the church called Hope Biblical Counseling Center,” said Coomer. “I’ve greatly enjoyed it and I’ve written 15 books and booklets that are used in the counseling center and around the world to help others.”

Coomer said, “All the different things you do in life play a part in what you’re culminating in.” He said his work in the newspaper industry was invaluable, as getting to write for the newspaper helped him to articulate the things he wanted to say to help people. What Coomer learned is being used in his ministry, which has taken him and his wife to many different countries, including Israel, Singapore, Canada and Ireland.

“I’ve been in the ministry for 42 years,” said Coomer. “For me it’s an opportunity of a lifetime. I’ve enjoyed it and been able to help a lot of people.”
