Commissioners OK changes to county animal ordinance

The REPORTER
The Hamilton County Commissioners unanimously approved several amendments to the county's animal ordinance at its Monday meeting.

The amendments include new temperature guidelines to protect animals from extreme weather conditions. They also more clearly define "adequate" food, water, shelter, space, ventilation and veterinary care as it pertains to domesticated pets. New definitions and penalties have also been added for backyard breeders, puppy mills, and animal abuse and neglect.

"For me this was a pretty easy 'yes,'" said Commissioner Mark Heirbrandt. "Our chambers were packed with more than 100 people this afternoon, nearly all of them in favor of the amendments. The overwhelming support of our citizens tells me these changes were long overdue."

County Sheriff deputies show their commitment to protect

The REPORTER

Several Hamilton County Sheriff Department deputies were recently presented with Life Saving Awards for actions that significantly impacted residents.

Lieutenant Ryan Horine, Deputy Kevin Crask and Deputy Brad Osswald responded to a crash involving serious injury on July 11. The paramedic at the scene stated the patient was in critical condition and needed multiple efforts in order to remain alive. The deputies pitched in to assist medics in order to assure the patient received appropriate care before being taken by air ambulance to the hospital. The first aid actions and teamwork displayed were noted as major factors in saving the patient's life.

Deputy Ryan McClain was presented the Life Saving Award for his actions at a recent concert at the Ruoff Home Mortgage Concert Center. During the event, a patron sustained a serious laceration on the arm. Recognizing the need for immediate treatment, McClain applied a tourniquet to the wound to stabilize the patient for medics to treat and transport. The subject's family later reported he is expected to make a full recovery. All deputies carry at least one tourniquet with them as part of their duty gear just for situations like this.

Noblesville Schools aims to slash energy costs, support environment with new solar initiative

The REPORTER

Noblesville Schools announced Tuesday that it is seeking a solar solution to significantly cut energy costs and support the environment. The district will issue a public Request for Proposal (RFP) to evaluate and select the best vendor to provide this service, which is expected to generate hundreds of thousands of dollars in savings a year.

With 2 million square feet under roof, 550 acres and more than 10,000 students to serve, energy is one of the district's largest costs after teachers and support staff. Almost $1.5 million dollars a year are spent on energy expenses for lighting, heating and air, technology tools and more.

Associate Superintendent Dr. David Mundy, who oversees facility operations, is leading the solar effort for Noblesville Schools. Mundy was the first in the state to introduce a solar program for an entire school district while serving previously as superintendent for Sheridan Community Schools.

"Capturing solar energy provides several advantages including fiscal ones, like being able to direct more funding to teachers and classrooms, and being able to better project our energy costs over the next decades, as well as educational opportunities for students to observe and study energy use," shared Mundy. "Being able to save money, reduce environmental impacts and create learning opportunities, all while utilizing our vacant land more efficient-

Elementary and the Hague Road Transportation Center, where solar panels are expected to be placed.

"We'll have a better idea of the specific savings we can expect after we select a solar company to lead the project," added Mundy. "We're also making the move to LED lights across the district and using an energy conservation manager to educate, monitor and reduce staff energy use. I'm excited that between all these efforts we will be making a significant environmental and cost savings impact."

On Monday, officials representing Hamilton County, Fishers and Noblesville broke ground on the State Road 37 expansion project.

The four-year project to help allevi-

146th Street is expected to cost nearly $140 million.

Hamilton County Commissioner Mark Heirbrandt said, when completed, the project will not only help motorists get to their destination more quickly, but also support businesses along the corridor.

"It is going to be difficult during construction, but when it is done it will be a transformation project that will change the east side of Hamilton County," said Heirbrandt.

Fortville man killed Sunday night during single-motorcycle accident

The REPORTER

The Hamilton County Sheriff's Office Crash Team is investigating a single-vehicle crash that left one person dead.

Deputies were dispatched to the area of Southeastern Parkway and Connecticut Avenue in the far southeastern part of the county shortly before 9:20 p.m. on Sunday on the report of a motorcycle crash just south of the intersection.

According to an initial crash report, deputies believe Charles H. Theobald IV, 45, Fortville, was southbound on Southeastern Parkway on a 2010 Harley-Davidson XL 1200 and failed to follow a curve in the road. The motorcycle left the pavement down an embankment where it struck a tree, causing Theobald to be ejected from the bike. Medics applied first aid treatment, but he was pronounced dead at the scene.

Toxicology test results are pending. Theobald was not wearing a helmet at the time of the crash. There were no witnesses to the incident. Anyone with information pertaining to the crash should contact the Crash Team at (317) 773-1872.

ANIMAL ORDINANCE

Hamilton County last updated its animal ordinance in 2006. Last winter some voiced concerned about the safety and well-being of animals left outside during a bitter cold snap. The commissioners assembled a committee from the Humane Society for Hamilton County and Hamilton County Animal Control Office to reeval-ate the ordinance, introduce new guidelines, and more clearly define ambiguous language.

"We believe this is a precedent-setting ordinance," said Rebecca Stevens, president and CEO of the Humane Society for Hamilton County. "We've done our due diligence to develop an ordinance we feel could serve as a best practice for other communities. In fact, we'd like to see this same ordinance adopted by all the cities and towns in Hamilton County."

The ordinance will be enforceable in unincorporated areas of the county when it goes into effect Nov. 15, 2019. The ordinance, along with an FAQ section, can be found at hamilton-county.in.gov.

PREVAIL
Advocating for Victims of Crime and Abuse
www.prevailinc.com

I was born and raised right here in Noblesville. I grew up in a home without domestic violence or assault – it wasn't something I saw, or even heard about. But when I was introduced to Prevail of Central Indiana, I was shocked by the number of individuals who are affected by domestic violence. In 2018 alone, Prevail helped more than 4,000 clients in Hamilton County. (Nearly 80 percent of clients are women and children.) Prevail is strictly confidential, and since their core values include integrity and respect, they provide their services at no charge. Domestic violence and abuse are hard topics to discuss, so you don't often hear about them. But at Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville, we're breaking the taboo and raising awareness for Prevail, an organization that helps families in Hamilton County. – Mike Bragg, GM of Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville

To help Hamilton County families affected by domestic violence and sexual abuse, you can donate the following items:

- Art supplies (for children to journal and express their emotions)
- Bottled water (8 oz. bottles, preferably)
- Individually packaged snacks
- Gas cards (many women have no access to funds after fleeing their abuser)

You can drop off items at Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville, located at 14701 Tom Wood Way. You can also donate directly to Prevail of Central Indiana by visiting Prevailinc.org.

Letter to the Editor

Sheridan reader questions degree of influence between commissioners, councilmembers

Dear Editor,
Just what is the role of the Hamilton County Council?

According to the Hamilton County website for the County Council under the heading "PURPOSE" it states: "The Council is the financial power of the county serving as a check on the Board of County Commissioners," meaning the Council controls and approves funds for projects the Board of County Commissioners recommends. In other words, the County Council controls the county money.

There are seven members of the County Council; four elected within four districts and three elected At Large. One would expect the County Council members to be independent and not influenced by the Board of Commissioners.

I do wonder if the County Council is really independent and not influenced by the County Commissioners, particularly when the Commissioners donate large sums of money from their political campaign accounts – not their personal funds – to the political election accounts of the Council members.

A review of campaign disclosure statements revealed that during the 2018 Hamilton County General Election, County Commissioner Mark Heirbrandt donated, from his campaign account, $4,000 to the election efforts of Council Member Steve Schwartz, $2,100 to the election efforts of Council Member Ken Alexander and $1,000 to Council Member Amy Massilamany (who ran unopposed). All three were elected.

During the same 2018 General Election, County Commissioner Christine Altman donated, from her campaign account, $5,000 to the election efforts for Council Member Ken Alexander and $5,000 to the election efforts for Council Member Steve Schwartz.

Perhaps there are no quid pro quo or legal issues, but with that kind of money involved there is definitely a public perception regarding just how "un-influenced" the County Council Members are.

It certainly does defy logic for the "spenders" of the county funds to be able to help elect the "keepers" of the county funds. As a farmer would say, "That is sort of like having the fox guard the hen house."

Letter to the Editor

Shaffer wonders whether Carmel is prepared for economic downturn

Dear Editor,
Recent coverage of Carmel's $1.4 billion outstanding debt has included unsupported claims by candidates and sycophants defending it. With no evidence, they claim there are funds to cover basic Carmel civic costs when the inevitable economic slowdown occurs.

The mayor cites reserves in the general and rainy-day funds but gives no factual numbers. The city's filings with the state Department of Local Government Finance (IDLGF) record only a few million dollars in each account.

Three different sets of books are in play. One is the legally required IDLGF numbers. Another is the mayor's private draft of a fiscal plan unapproved by anyone else, apparently. And the third are the super-secret records of the Carmel Redevelopment Authority and Redevelopment Commission where the really big money goes down.

Having enough to tide over basic city services is one thing. Inevitable, forced, skyrocketing tax increases is another.

It's not skyrocket science, boys and girls.

He had a strong belief that good deeds and acts of charity should be done quietly. He gave humbly to many organizations throughout the years, including many veterans' charities, considering it his patriotic duty as a former serviceman.

David loved his family very much. Having no children of his own, his nieces and nephews were his pride and joy. He loved following their sports activities and never missed an opportunity to brag of their accomplishments. Thanks for reading!TODAY'S BIBLE READING

And many of the people believed on him, and said, When Christ cometh, will he do more miracles than these which this man hath done? The Pharisees heard that the people murmured such things concerning him; and the Pharisees and the chief priests sent officers to take him. Then said Jesus unto them, Yet a little while am I with you, and then I go unto him that sent me. Ye shall seek me, and shall not find me: and where I am, thither ye cannot come. Then said the Jews among themselves, Whither will he go, that we shall not find him? will he go unto the dispersed among the Gentiles, and teach the Gentiles? What manner of saying is this that he said, Ye shall seek me, and shall not find me: and where I am, thither ye cannot come?

Wooldridge: "One of the best ever"
Almodovar: "She was exactly what you wanted to be"

Noblesville remembers Krissi Davis

By RICHIE HALL

The spirit of Krissi Davis could be felt in The Mill Tuesday night.

The Noblesville volleyball team paid tribute to the woman who brought the Millers to new athletic heights during the 1980's, and doing so while being an exceptional teammate, person and representative of Noblesville. Davis passed away on Saturday, but anyone attending the volleyball match knew she was in the building.

The volleyball players and coaches wore gray t-shirts that said on the back "KMD" and the number "42," the number Davis wore when she played basketball for Noblesville. The players also wore tributes on their shoes and hair ribbons.

The tribute was deeply personal to Millers coach Jill Almodovar, who was teammates with Davis on both the volleyball and basketball teams during the 1986-87 school year. Almodovar, then Jill Lyon, was a freshman and Davis was a senior.

"It's every young kids' dream to be on a team and look up to somebody like Krissi," Almodovar told the Reporter Tuesday morning. "Krissi was the poster child of Noblesville."

Davis and her Miller basketball teammates became the queens of Noblesville in 1987, as they completed an undefeated season. The Millers went 27-0 and finished things up on Feb. 28, 1987 with a state championship, beating Anderson Highland 47-38 in the final game. Davis scored 12 points and pulled four rebounds.

Noblesville athletic director Leah Wooldridge played for the Highland team, and remembers the battles with the Millers not only in the state championship game, but in the regular season, as both teams were members of the Olympic Conference then. The two of them also played together in AAU basketball.

"Krissi was one of the most fierce competitors I ever played with and against," said Wooldridge. "She was hard nosed and had an impeccable work ethic. Off the floor she was one of the nicest human beings I have ever met. She was a jokester and enjoyed life to the fullest. It was my honor and privilege to know, play against, and with Krissi. She will go down as one of the best to ever play the game; we lost a great one."

Davis finished her career as a Miller with 1,269 points, placing her fifth on the all-time scoring list. She was also Noblesville's first girl Indiana All-Star, and went on to be inducted in both the Noblesville High School Athletic Hall of Fame, and the Indiana Basketball Hall of Fame. (Davis is actually in the Indiana Basketball Hall of Fame twice, as the 1987 state championship team is also an inductee.)

Before the state championship basketball game, Davis was part of another historic occasion for the Millers. She led Noblesville to its first-ever sectional championship in volleyball on Oct. 25, 1986. The Millers beat defending champion Carmel 15-10, 16-14, with Davis hitting 14 kills and making four blocks. She was a four-year letter winner in volleyball.

"She was smart, loyal to the program, did everything correctly," said Almodovar. "She was exactly what you wanted to be. The bigger thing for me, personally, was that Krissi and me had a very large bond. She took me under her wing. Krissi was somebody that probably has taught me how to be a winner. How to be a good friend and how to love. She embodies those things and she taught me those things."

Almodovar said that the bond between her and Davis "has never gone away."

"Krissi's that kind of friend that it doesn't matter when you see her, everything's the same when you see her," said Almodovar. Time doesn't matter. And every teammate that I've spoken to about this, we're all brokenhearted. Every coach that's coached her."

Davis went on to play college basketball at Notre Dame, where she scored 1,194 career points (placing seventh on the all-time list) and was a four-year letter winner and two-year MVP. She also received the Byron V. Kanaley Award, the most prestigious honor that can be presented to an Irish senior athlete.

A Sunday tweet from the Notre Dame women's basketball team featured a quote from Irish coach Muffet McGraw, who noted that Davis was part of her first class. McGraw became the Notre Dame coach in 1987, Davis' freshman year.

"On the court, Krissi was a very competitive and intense player, but off the court, she was a lot of fun to be around," said McGraw. "She had a great sense of humor and you could always count on her to diffuse a pressure situation with a witty or sarcastic comment. She was a good friend to everyone who knew her and she will be missed by the entire Notre Dame family."

The Noblesville girls basketball Twitter account posted that the team was saddened by the loss of Davis. "She was one of the greatest athletes to ever put on a Miller uniform," the tweet said. "As great as she was an athlete, she was an even better person."

After graduating from Notre Dame, Davis returned home to Noblesville, where she was a 25-year employee and part owner of Davis-Haslam Inc. She also helped the next generation of Miller athletes.

"Krissi coached with me for two years," said Almodovar. "The relationship that we had as players just bled right into what we were doing as coaches. Krissi's a competitor, and Krissi's a go-getter and Krissi embodied everything we want – I still do things that she would do. I still stop myself from doing things because of her."

Almodovar said that when you're in Krissi Davis' tribe, "you're in it forever." And that's how long Krissi Davis will be remembered in Noblesville: Forever.

Millers battle Mavs, Sheridan wins two

The Noblesville volleyball team honored Krissi Davis in the best way possible Tuesday night: The Millers played what coach Jill Almodovar said was the best volleyball of the season.

“It was a rough night for me personally, but I was really, really proud of my kids because that’s probably the best volleyball we’ve played all year as of to date,” said Almodovar, who was close with Davis, a former volleyball and basketball teammate. “They’re ranked third in the state and so I was super proud of the way my girls came out. I told them, ‘If we would’ve played like that against a lot of the other teams, we might have had a different outcome.’ They came today and it was different.”

Lexie Almodovar had another all-around solid game, with 17 digs, 16 kills, 10 assists, two aces and one block. Riley Branch dished out 18 assists to go with five digs and one ace. Olivia Gulley had eight digs, Rose Crist hit five kills and Ella Peter made one block.
