Members of the Hamilton Southeastern Education Association (HSEA) have ratified a new two-year contract with the HSE School Corporation. The new pact calls for a 2 percent salary increase for local educators in calendar year 2020, and just over 1.27 percent in 2021.

The new contract moves toward equalizing the incremental steps teachers earn based on the number of years teaching, per guidance from the state.

For example, the beginning HSE

The Indiana-Alaska Fairbanks connection

A sign along 126th Street east of Keystone Parkway identifies an intersecting street as Fairbanks Drive. In Alaska on Airport Way approaching the state's second largest city, a sign reads Welcome to Fairbanks. There is a historic connection here

I was reminded last week of the Hoosier for whom both the Carmel street and the Alaska city are named. You see, Charles Warren Fairbanks was vice president of the United States. His family owned a farm near Carmel where the Cool Creek subdivision is now

I was in Alaska last week with an old college friend, and told him of the Fairbanks connection. Weather was still reasonably warm in Fairbanks which is home to the impressive University of Alaska main campus.

At the campus the story of Fairbanks' founding is told. It seems that a steamboat captain, Elbridge Barnette, decided to set up a trading post for miners on the banks of the Chena River, which soon prospered. At the suggestion of a friend from Indiana, Barnette named the settlement Fairbanks in 1901.

Meanwhile, back in Indiana, Charles Fairbanks was not yet vice president. He was a U.S. Senator. But, in 1904 Theodore Roosevelt chose Fairbanks to be his running mate. He moved to Washington, but his daughter and her husband took up residence on the Carmel area farm. Members of the family are still in the area.

When a large portion of the farm was sold in the 1960s, the developer named one of the subdivision streets Fairbanks Drive.

A summer of science

Despite being a high school senior, this summer Cecilia Leber (12) turned into a college student, completing her own biochemistry research at Purdue University. While living on Purdue's campus for six weeks, she participated in lectures, spent long hours in the lab, and created a research report 19 pages in length, all while forming close bonds with high school students from around the world.

"We did research on enzymes," Leber said. "Our ultimate goal was to design a fungal inhibitor for a specific enzyme in a fungal pathogen."

Enzymes, catalysts that speed up reactions, allow fungi to destroy crops around the world. By creating an inhibitor, the reaction would be blocked, preventing a lost harvest.

"Fungal pathogens are responsible for a very large amount of crop loss and economic loss as a result," Leber said. "Maize is really important for the economies of South American and African countries."

However, this program did come with an extensive application process. Just like a college application, Leber had to submit transcripts, test scores, letters of recommendation and short answer essays.

"Pro-tip: a couple of [the questions] were straight from the MIT application," Leber said.

Leber ended up being one of the 10 percent of applicants who participated in the program. Throughout her research at Purdue, she learned in both a classroom and laboratory setting. While never having a typical day, she developed a scheduled routine. Before heading to lecture or lab at 8 a.m., Leber would head down to the local Starbucks to get her typical order: a venti caffè latte with six pumps of caramel syrup.

COLUMNIST
SYDNEY CLIFFORD

"Some days we would be in lecture, lab, lecture, lab, lunch and then more lab," Leber said. "But on some days we would be in the lab all day."

Once the day finished, Leber would head back to her dorm to change for dinner. However, this was not just a typical outing.

"When we got back to the dorms, we'd have this tradition where we have to dress nice for dinner," Leber said. "So we'd change and wear nice clothes and then eat dinner at Earhart Hall."

Dinner was not the end of the night. While they had already spent the entire day in either lectures or in the lab, the participants of the Summer Science Program still had a lot of work to complete.

"Some people would walk back to the Active Learning Center and go to the computer lab to work on our homework assignments," Leber said. "Then we'd walk back at around 11 p.m. and come back to the Honors College Dorms. Depending on how much work we'd have, I'd either shower and go to sleep or spend time in the computer lab."

Along with a project-filled week, Leber was able to have weekend excursions. Some were for the purpose of the program, such as Eli Lilly, Argonne National Lab and Cortella AgriScience. But others were to help the researchers have a bit of a brain break.

"We would also have fun field trips like Turkey Run and going to a water park in Indianapolis," Leber said.

While there was an immense amount of work put into the program daily, Leber was still able to find ways to make new friends. The program included students from not only across the country, but also from around the world.

"There were people from all around the country and all around the globe," Leber said. "My lab partner, he's actually from India. There was a girl from Turkey, one from Canada. And then also people from around the country. A lot of people from California, someone from North Dakota. There was someone from Carmel there, and there were a couple of people from the NYC area, Boston and Vegas."

When the participants weren't working hard, they were playing harder. From jigsaw puzzles to a ping pong tournament that she got out in during the first round, Leber connected with her peers, even if it meant betrayal during a modified version of the game "Mafia."

"We really got into 'Werewolf,' which is this modified version of 'Mafia,'" Leber said. "It would get really intense. We'd just be screaming at each other."

These games helped Leber to connect with the other members of the program. These connections eventually helped during their research. They helped to build bonds that would allow for open communication and collaboration during the research process.

"One of the things they really emphasized in the program is collaboration and asking each other for help, instead of the TAs," Leber said. "It's a lot about learning how to learn from each other, and asking for help."

Even though the summer of 2019 has been gone for a month already, Leber felt like this program has prepared her in ways she had never thought before. For example, she discovered that her classes currently were nothing compared to the ones she took at Purdue.

"It makes high school seem so much easier," Leber said. "One of the things I want to do is continuing on investigating this specific research with AP Research."

Beyond the general ease of current classes, Leber felt like she was able to grow through not getting the results she wanted. Some days, she would spend an immense amount of time transferring numerous amounts of liquid into well plates. To her dismay, she found herself redoing her data collection.

"You really learn about failure because [of the] lab work," Leber said.

In the end, Leber does not know what is going to happen with her research. Despite the uncertainty of the future of her work, she remains satisfied with her time at the Summer Science Program.

"The data we collected in labs was put in a data repository that's associated with Purdue University, but our final papers can't be published publicly yet," Leber said. "I'm not sure if they'll ever be, [but] it's the experience that counts."

Set lifelong goals for your health, you'll see the results

"You are never too old to set another goal or to dream a new dream."

– C. S. Lewis

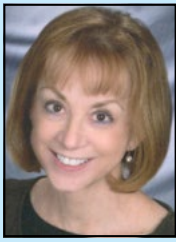

How many of you function best with a schedule? A list? New Year's resolutions? Goals of any kind? I imagine few people have no plans at all as they move through this life. And frankly I have often envied people who are always relaxed and take each day as it comes – and I know several (who shall remain nameless!).

Goal-setting can be a useful process to help people alter their lifestyle to allow them to age more successfully and reduce risk factors associated with dementia.<sup>1</sup>

Although I have always been what you may call a "planner" or "organizer" (there is something to be said for those "first-born" attributes) recently I have been thinking more about how these attributes can affect our health. Reflecting on the quote above by C. S. Lewis and the statement by the NCBI, it is obvious to me that goal-setting or planning is integral to aging successfully.

The link between planning and goal-setting and improved state of health would seem to be strong. After all, without a daily plan of some kind we just let the world move us about at will, which can lead to depression or a feeling of uselessness. In particular as we age our plans or goals of course change over time. In my 20s, my main goal was to obtain a professional position which would enable me to make the salary I desired and to raise my children in a way that I hoped would enable them to become sane and productive adults. Fortunately, I was able to obtain those goals. Moving through my 40s, 50s and UP my goals continued to change and evolve. Over the years many of my goals were not met and many plans did not come to fruition – but the important part is that we never stop planning and dreaming. A life without dreams is not the healthy life to which we aspire.

SHARON McMAHON

Granted that if you are my age (class of '68, so whatever!) your dreams will usually not compare to those of a 25-year-old – and who would want that anyway! How about a dream to read all those books you have wondered about over the years, making time for children in need of a mentor or tutor, learning to play guitar, adopting a rescue pet who really needs you, or writing a book!

Having lost several friends my age and younger this past year, one reflects on what life is all about and the best and most productive way to navigate through it. I recently heard of the passing of a journalist I have admired for 30 years, Cokie Roberts, who from all I know and have heard led a life of setting goals and meeting those goals as a world-renowned journalist. She inspired me and led me to host a weekly local cable TV show for over 20 years, then to publish a book and write a newspaper column. "Small potatoes" comparatively, of course, but goals and plans that were positive for my mental and physical health I believe. Teaching and coaching fitness have helped me to stay physically active in my "retirement" and I continue to look for opportunities for growth.

Don't ever believe that you are too "old" to continue to plan and set goals – even though you may not reach every goal, the planning of it and interest in it will help you maintain your mental acuity and interest in life, two important aspects of healthy aging.

Star-studded gala nets $300K to support Carmel’s Center for the Performing Arts

The REPORTER

Performances by Dionne Warwick and Michael Feinstein and a heartfelt speech by songwriter Paul Williams were among the highlights last Saturday at the Center for the Performing Arts’ Songbook Celebration presented by Krieg DeVault.

The eighth annual gala at the Palladium began with the First Merchants Bank Cocktail Reception and continued with an elegant dinner, a live auction, performances and the Great American Songbook Foundation’s induction of Williams and legendary composer-bandleader Duke Ellington into the Songbook Hall of Fame. The black-tie evening netted more than $300,000 to support the nonprofit Center’s artistic and educational programming.

“Once again, the outpouring of generosity from our Central Indiana and national supporters has far surpassed our expectations,” Center President/CEO Jeffrey C. McDermott said. “The Center is so fortunate to be part of an extended community that believes in our mission.”

Williams, whose credits include “Evergreen,” “We’ve Only Just Begun,” “Rainbow Connection” and many other hits, surprised the capacity crowd with an unexpected contribution to the night’s philanthropy. Offering to write a personalized song for the highest bidder, he awarded the prize to two attendees who bid $35,000 each, generating a quick $70,000 for the Foundation’s historical preservation initiatives.

Currently serving as president of the ASCAP performance-rights organization, Williams also delivered a touching tribute to his songwriter brother Mentor Williams, who died in 2016. Paul Williams led the attendees in a brief sing-along of Mentor’s R&B classic “Drift Away,” which has been recorded by many artists.

“Mentor Williams,” he said, looking skyward, “you just got inducted into the Great American Songbook Hall of Fame.”

Dancer-choreographer Mercedes Ellington, herself a Broadway notable, accepted the Hall of Fame award on behalf of her late grandfather Edward Kennedy “Duke” Ellington. She recalled accompanying him and his orchestra on a historic 1971 State Department tour of the Soviet Union, stoking international trade by arriving with a stash of Pepsi and returning with a cache of Stolichnaya vodka.

The tribute to Ellington included a performance of his standard “It Don’t Mean a Thing (If It Ain’t Got That Swing)” by 16-year-old Sadie Fridley of Syracuse, N.Y., who earned the title of 2019 Songbook Youth Ambassador in July at the Foundation’s annual Songbook Academy® summer intensive.

Saturday’s program also included tributes to recent Hall of Fame inductees Tony Bennett and Doris Day. The Songbook Foundation presented the award to Bennett when he performed at the Palladium in May. Feinstein visited Day at her California home in April for her 97th birthday celebration, shortly before her death in May.

Another surprise at the event was the introduction of the recently crowned Miss America’s Outstanding Teen, Payton May of Vancouver, Wash., who attended as a guest of Songbook Foundation supporters Paul and Sue Lowden. McDermott served as a judge at the Miss America-affiliated national scholarship pageant, which took place in July in Orlando, Fla.

Indiana woman's photo wins in national state park contest

The REPORTER

Emily Monticue's picture of her son at Turkey Run State Park took first place in the Activities category in the America's State Parks 2019 Photo Contest.

The competition was put on by the National Association of State Park Directors (NASPD) and Aspira.

In a release about the contest from NASPD, Monticue said she and her son love spending time outdoors, and she found the perfect time to snap the shot in Rocky Hollow.

"It was probably around 8 a.m. and there was no one else hiking on this particular stretch of the canyon," Monticue said. "My son was walking ahead of me and I looked up and remember thinking this would make a great picture! The haziness of the morning, the water, almost perfect lighting and the green on the rock walls made for a perfect shot."

Monticue won a $500 REI gift card, a Luxe camping pillow from Klymit and a one-year subscription to Backpacker Magazine.

More than 9,000 images were submitted for the contest in five categories. The contest is designed to showcase the diversity and beauty inherent in America's state parks.

TODAY'S BIBLE READING

Therefore said his parents, He is of age; ask him. Then again called they the man that was blind, and said unto him, Give God the praise: we know that this man is a sinner. He answered and said, Whether he be a sinner or no, I know not: one thing I know, that, whereas I was blind, now I see. Then said they to him again, What did he to thee? how opened he thine eyes? He answered them, I have told you already, and ye did not hear: wherefore would ye hear it again? will ye also be his disciples? Then they reviled him, and said, Thou art his disciple; but we are Moses' disciples. We know that God spake unto Moses: as for this fellow, we know not from whence he is. The man answered and said unto them, Why herein is a marvellous thing, that ye know not from whence he is, and yet he hath opened mine eyes.

Hamilton Heights' Deshawn King (7) breaks through the line and gets the ball close to the goal line during the Huskies' Homecoming game with Twin Lakes on Friday. Heights won 27-20; King scored a fourth-quarter touchdown and led the Huskies in rushing and receiving.

Hamilton Heights held off Twin Lakes for a Homecoming win on Friday night. The Huskies beat the Indians 27-20. The game was back-and-forth in the first half: Twin Lakes got on the board first with 4:27 left in the first quarter, but Heights answered quickly, with Brent Pennington catching a 21-yard touchdown pass from Guy Griffey just 14 seconds later.

In the second quarter, the Indians scored on a long run to lead 13-6. The Huskies got the touchdown back when Homecoming king Camron Knott caught a 30-yard pass from Isaac Wilson. That made the score 13-12 at halftime.

The third quarter would make the difference. Heights scored with 4:55 left in the period after Pennington caught his second TD pass of the game from Griffey.

Deshawn King then converted a two-point run, and that sent the Huskies into the fourth quarter ahead 20-13.

King scored Heights' only rushing touchdown of the game midway through the fourth, and Michael Lecher's kick extended the Huskies' lead to 27-13. The Indians answered back immediately with a kickoff return, but Heights was able to hold on for the win.

King had an outstanding game, leading the Huskies in both rushing (124 yards on 13 carries) and receptions (five for 45 yards). Griffey finished the game 11-of-20 for 130 yards, while Wilson was 5-of-8 for 49 yards.

Heights is now 2-4 and returns to Hoosier Conference East Division play next week when it travels to Tipton.

Noblesville gets first win of the season

Noblesville broke through for its first win of the season on Friday, holding off host Franklin Central 20-13 in a Hoosier Crossroads Conference game that saw the Millers hold firm in the final two minutes.

Noblesville held a 14-7 lead for the majority of the game, until the Flashes scored a touchdown with 1:21 left in the fourth quarter. But the Millers blocked the extra point attempt, keeping them ahead 14-13.

Jayden Barrett recovered an onside kick for Noblesville. Eventually, Franklin Central forced the Millers to punt, but Greyson Addison pinned the Flashes back at their five-yard line. The game finished with Noblesville's Mason Bohland intercepting a final FC pass at the 25-yard line, and he ran the ball into the end zone with the clock at zero.

"Our kids needed that," said Millers coach Justin Roden. "Sometimes you win because you want to win a championship or you want to win because it's a paycheck game. But for us, we just needed to win because we needed to build some confidence. We have good kids. We have a lot of younger players. We're not going to be favored in the next three weeks, not going to be favored the rest of the season, so we just want to keep hanging around people like we did tonight and find a way to win."

Barrett

Franklin Central scored the first touchdown of the game, and threatened to score again in the first half, but Noblesville made a stand to prevent that. Roden believed that to be a turning point of the game.

"Everything that could've went wrong at the beginning went wrong," said Roden. "We had a fumble, we turned the ball over. We could've been down 14-0 and it could've been 'Woe is me, here we go.' We make a big play, defensively get a stop. The defensive hold there when it was 7-0 was really big, I think just for the whole dynamic of the game."

The Millers got on the board when they used a fake punt to get to the two-yard line. That allowed Jayden Barrett to easily run the ball into the end zone on the next play. Later, Aidan Richardson got Noblesville's first pick six of the game, and that would get the Millers ahead 14-7 with 6:22 left in the second quarter. That would be the score until the game's final minutes.

"We've been practicing a couple different fakes on punt for a while, and I've been waiting to run that for the right opportunity," said Roden. "There's lots of plays in games that kind of change momentum, but I think that fake there really energized the fans, energized the kids."

Stats from the game were not available due to technical difficulties. They will run in the Reporter at a later date.

Noblesville is now 1-3 in HCC play and 1-5 overall. The Millers travel to Hamilton Southeastern next Friday.

'Hawks roll past Taylor, are 5-0 in HHC

Sheridan rolled to its fifth straight Hoosier Heartland Conference win on Friday, beating Taylor 47-0 in an away game.

The Blackhawks had several players step up to score touchdowns. Silas DeVaney threw for two TDs, one to Cayden Hunter in the first quarter and another to Keenan Warren early in the second period.

"It was a good win for us," said Sheridan coach Bud Wright.

The 'Hawks were dealt with adversity early in the game when Cameron Hovey, their star running back, was injured.

"He's probably out for six weeks," said Wright.

That meant other Sheridan players had to step up, and they did. Evan Bourdon scored three rushing touchdowns, two in the second period and one in the third. Gavin Renner and Cale Cummings also picked up running scores in the second half. Dylan Cork stepped in as kicker and converted four extra-point kicks.

Wright was pleased that his team stepped up, noting it's what good ball clubs do. Bourdon finished the game with 130 yards in 22 carries, while Renners gained 113 yards in nine rushes. DeVaney completed 4 of 8 passes for 71 yards.

Sheridan remains unbeaten in HHC play at 5-0. Eastern is still in second place at 4-0. Next week, the Blackhawks take a break from conference action, playing at Seeger.

Sheridan's Gavin Renners (left, 42) scores off the hip of Charlie Cronin (50) during the Blackhawks' game at Taylor on Friday. Sheridan won 47-0, staying undefeated in the Hoosier Heartland Conference.

Hamilton Southeastern kept its winning momentum going on the road Friday, as the Royals cruised past Zionsville 35-14 in a Hoosier Crossroads Conference game at the Eagles' field.

Southeastern got on the board in the first quarter, when Ben Boysen caught an 18-yard touchdown pass from Andrew Hobson. The senior quarterback was just getting warmed up, as he threw for two more touchdowns in the second quarter. DeAndre Rhodes caught a nine-yard throw early in the period, then Tony Myers took a 10-yard pass into the end zone midway through the quarter.

The Royals ended the first half with a flourish, as junior running back Jace Alexander took a seven-yard carry into the end zone. Southeastern led 28-0 at half-time.

Alexander got one more touchdown, as he scrambled 17 yards to score late in the fourth period. Alex Geroulis made all five extra-point kicks.

Blaine Wertz was the Royals' leading rusher, with 117 yards in 21 carries. Alexander totaled 91 yards in 14 trips. Hobson had a highly efficient night, completing 11 of 17 passes for 146 yards and the three touchdowns.

The win was the second in a row for Southeastern, which improved to 2-2 in HCC play and 3-3 overall. The Royals are back home next Friday, hosting Noblesville at TCU Field.

Panthers stun No. 2 Greyhounds

Carmel was dealt a Homecoming stunner on Friday night, as two late fourth-quarter touchdowns by visiting North Central sent the Class 6A No. 2 Greyhounds to a 27-21 Metropolitan Conference defeat at Carmel Stadium.

Carmel was the first team on the board, as Jacob Weaver took a fumble recovery 51 yards into the end zone midway through the second period. Spencer Hanna's kick made the score 7-0, and that would hold through halftime.

The Panthers tied the game just 16 seconds into the third quarter with a 95-yard kickoff return. Two field goals by Scott Hoeg (one in each of the second-half periods) put NC ahead 13-7. But the 'Hounds scored two quick touchdowns, first on a 60-yard pass to Colton Parker from Christian Williams, followed by an 11-yard run from John Rogers. Hanna made both kicks, and Carmel was ahead 21-13.

But North Central quarterback Harry Abell threw two long touchdown passes in the final four minutes, and that clinched the game. The second score came with 51 seconds left, and the Panthers also made a two-point conversion to get to the final margin.

Williams completed 6 of 15 passes for 99 yards, with Parker getting four receptions for 108 yards. Zach Osborne was 4-of-9 passing for 35 yards. Rogers led the rushing with 57 yards in 11 carries.

This was Carmel's first loss in the MIC, making the Greyhounds 3-1 and placing them in a three-way tie for second in the conference. Warren Central, a 28-14 winner over Pike on Friday, is on top of the MIC at 4-1.

Carmel is 4-2 overall and plays at Ben Davis next Friday.

Tigers start strong before No. 1 Avon rallies

Fishers put a scare into Indiana's top-ranked high school football team Friday night.

The Tigers, playing in front of their Homecoming crowd, went up 14-0 on Avon after one quarter of play. But the Class 6A No. 1 Orioles asserted themselves in the next three quarters, holding Fishers scoreless and scoring five touchdowns to hand the 6A No. 9 Tigers a 35-14 Hoosier Crossroads Conference defeat.

Fishers scores both of its touchdowns in the middle portion of the first period. Dylan Scally took an 18-yard run into the end zone, then Marcus Roux connected on a 15-yard TD pass to Reece Boland. Jack Phillips converted both extra-point Brownsburg jumped up 10-0 after the first quarter and led 17-0 at halftime. The Bulldogs were up 31-0 early in the fourth before Westfield got on the board, which it did when Micah Hauser made a six-yard run into the end zone.
