New Logan Street Bridge to open Jan. 6

By FRED SWIFT
ReadTheReporter.com

For motorists using Noblesville's Logan Street Bridge, it may have seemed that the reconstruction of the structure would never be done. But, after nearly a year, there is light at the end of the bridge. Official dedication and ribbon-cutting has been set for Jan. 6. The multimillion-dollar project involves widening the span over White River to accommodate sidewalk on both sides and a new deck. Total cost is slightly over $4.2 million, according to County Highway Director Brad Davis. This includes an "overview" on the southside, lighting and other aesthetics. The city of Noblesville is paying for these extra improvements which amounts to upwards of a third of the total cost. Since it is a major bridge, county government is responsible under state law and therefore the project's lead agency even though the bridge is within Noblesville city limits. The project is designed to give safer access across the river especially for pedestrians going to and from the new Federal Hill Commons on State Road 19 between Logan and Conner streets. Davis said the delay in completion was mostly due to the rainy spring weather which caused a high river level. Originally completion had been scheduled for summer or fall of this year.

Broken into kindness

It was the late 80s and a little boy named Jonathan Stevens lived next door to my mom and dad. My dad would often wear cardigans. One day when Jonathan was about four, he walked over and knocked on the door of my parents' house. When he got back home, his mom, Kathy, asked him what he was doing over at the neighbors. Jonathan answered, "Mr. Rogers gave me candy." From that day on he always called my dad Mr. Rogers. My dad not only wore a cardigan but he looked a lot like Mr. Rogers. And ... my dad was a kind man. Chuck and I spent Friday afternoon at the movies. We saw A Beautiful Day in the Neighborhood. I won't give out any secrets about the movie, but I will say it reminded me a lot of my dad and his kindness. The movie talks about broken people dealing with their anger. When a child is broken it affects them for the rest of their life. Often a child carries his

Marley named HCLA's Interim Exec. Director

The REPORTER

The Hamilton County Leadership Academy (HCLA) Board has named Andrea Marley to serve as Interim Executive Director and Corby Thompson to serve as Chief Experience Officer for the Class of 2020. Marley takes over from John Robbins, who is leaving the Executive Director role after two years. Marley has been HCLA's Program Coordinator since 2018. "Andrea knows HCLA inside and out. We are excited for Andrea to take the lead. Her HCLA knowledge, relationships and passion will continue moving our organization forward," said HCLA Board President Rachael Coverdale. In her previous role, Marley managed the 10-month program that engages a cohort of nearly 40 distinguished professionals and leaders in Hamilton County. Outside of work, Marley is an active community volunteer: She is the Secretary of the Carmel Education Foundation's Board of Directors and is a Japanese translator for Hamilton Southeastern Schools.

Thompson, a 1995 HCLA graduate, Distinguished Alumni Award winner and two-time HCLA dean, will be serving side-by-side with current dean Sam Mishelow to ensure that the current cohort has an outstanding leadership experience.

Thompson owns Boomerang LLC, a Fishers real estate development firm. Mishelow, a 2005 HCLA graduate, is Chief Strategy Officer for Fishers-based Meyer Najem Construction.

The Board is currently planning and will soon implement the search for a permanent Executive Director.

About HCLA

The Hamilton County Leadership Academy helps leaders connect to their communities, so they can make a difference. Everything the organization does is tied to one of their three pillars: Learn, connect and lead. The core program and related curriculum helps participants gain a deeper knowledge and understanding of Hamilton County. Its 29-year history in the community and more than 700 alumni provide meaningful connections throughout the county. A commitment to leading in the community challenges participants and alumni to seek out issues, causes and projects that will help to make Hamilton County an amazing place to live, work and play.

little background on the addition, the project, tour, and opportunity to meet the staff.

“The Little Husky Learning Center wing is a state-of-the-art flexible learning space that is developmental and versatile for our pre-school learners,” said Griffey. “This is an innovative, must come and see for yourself learning environment.”

Project Vision Director Dori Hochstedler is excited to share more about this project.

“It’s a dynamic and engaging space that will be enjoyed by our youngest students and staff alike, the latest completed through our Project Vision Program,” said Hochstedler. “It also includes a sensory/gross motor room for our early childhood and life skills programs.”

“We are very excited to share the new preschool with our community,” added Cox, who directs the preschool program that has grown in size and scope since it first opened its doors in 2010.

LHLC is a private preschool within Hamilton Heights School Corporation, providing curriculum for children ages 3, 4 and 5 in multi-age classrooms. The Center’s Before and After School program is managed by Erika Collins.

The wing is also home to the early childhood and life skills classrooms. The early childhood program is a special education program that provides education for children ages 3 to 5. The life skills classroom, a special education program, is a part of the Hamilton Boone Madison (HBM) cooperative providing education for students in grades EC-4.

anger into adulthood. Some children are broken into kindness. Like Mr. Rogers. Like my dad.

You see, my dad was raised during the Depression. Everyone was poor in the hills of Kentucky, but Dad’s family was the poorest of the poor.

My dad was a very smart man, but by the time he should have been going to high school, he was faced with bullies making fun of his clothes. Having clothes that were tattered and not taken care of by his stepmother, he could not face the ugly words of his schoolmates. So, he left high school and did not return.

Years later, his math abilities and management skills led him to becoming a supervisor at Firestone.

I’ve never heard anyone say anything negative about my dad. His kindness was often mentioned by his coworkers.

Dad never spoke about the way he was treated as a child. He made a decision to always treat others with kindness. Recently, my mom shared with me all the cruel things that were said and done to my dad. It broke my heart.

My dad always made sure his younger sisters and their families received gifts for Christmas. They always thought the gifts were from Santa. He knew what it was like to have no tree or gifts at Christmas.

Dad always saw the good in people. He had a heart that would truly listen to their stories. He loved to ask questions. He gave people time to think and respond.

Dad understood broken people. He was one of them.

Mr. Rogers made a difference, one broken person at a time ... so did my dad. They both knew how to love broken people.

Dad and Mr. Rogers listened with their heart. They knew that there was healing in the silence.

Perhaps Jonathan knew exactly what he was saying when he called my dad Mr. Rogers. For Jonathan, he just knew that it was a beautiful day in his neighborhood when my dad was his neighbor. Even a four-year-old can recognize kindness.

I pray that we all become a little more like Fred Rogers and Jim Hart.

I was born and raised right here in Noblesville. I grew up in a home without domestic violence or assault – it wasn’t something I saw, or even heard about. But when I was introduced to Prevail of Central Indiana, I was shocked by the number of individuals who are affected by domestic violence. In 2018 alone, Prevail helped more than 4,000 clients in Hamilton County. (Nearly 80 percent of clients are women and children.) Domestic violence and abuse are hard topics to discuss, so you don’t often hear about them. But at Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville, we’re breaking the taboo and raising awareness for Prevail, an organization that helps families in Hamilton County.

To help Hamilton County families affected by domestic violence and sexual abuse, you can donate the following items:

- Bottled water (8 oz. bottles, preferably)
- Individually packaged snacks

Progress looms at Sheridan Historical Society Museum

Submitted

Dort and Pokey Pickett recently sold the loom pictured at right to the Sheridan Historical Society Museum. As previous owners, they have been spending some time of late at the museum showing some of the staff how to operate the loom with the idea that this will make an attractive visual effect for visitors to observe.

Visitors who have never seen a loom up close before will be fascinated by the complexity of the machine and intrigued by the fabric produced. Obviously, this small loom is a far cry from the modern automated factory looms in commercial use today, but the principle remains the same: String of one sort or another is turned into fabric.

The new museum itself is undergoing a transformation from the old motorcycle shop that it used to be. The Hobbs Era Basketball exhibit is essentially completed, and thanks to a lot of the women members, several other display areas are fairly complete at this time. The museum will have a mini-theater with chairs and tables for what is anticipated will be monthly programs of various sorts.

The Historical Society members are currently finalizing plans for the display of the old high school composite senior class pictures. The big hurdle for the pictures display is where to put them all. Wall space is limited, but there are pictures ranging from the early 1900s all the way up to the late 1990s – nearly 90 years’ worth.

Work on the exterior façade is ready to begin whenever the contractor can work it into his schedule. The front of the museum with its huge display windows will have an old fashion movie theater motif to celebrate its history as the Hippodrome Theater. When completed, the Society thinks it will be a standout feature on Sheridan’s Main

HSE High School takes third at annual robotics competition

The REPORTER

Hamilton Southeastern High School won third place at the Lipscomb/Nissan Music City BEST (Boosting Engineering, Science and Technology) Robotics Competition held Nov. 2 at Lipscomb University’s Allen Arena, and the team will advance to the South’s BEST Robotics Competition at Auburn in December.

The team also won first place in the Competition Awards and Best Marketing Presentation. Nearly 400 middle and high school students from Middle Tennessee participated in the national robotics competition that allows students to apply the math, science and technology they learn in the classroom to the design and construction of their robot through teamwork and real-life problem solving.

Nearly 400 middle and high school students participated in the national robotics competition, sponsored by the Raymond B. Jones College of Engineering, that allows students to apply the math, science and technology they learn in the classroom to the design and construction of their robot through teamwork and real-life problem solving.

This year, 14 schools participated in the BEST competition. Over the past six weeks, students designed and built robots to carry out a specific task. The 2019 BEST theme was “Off the Grid.” Students imagined a world where the national power grid has been destroyed, debris litters the ground and robots are needed to clean up the litter and repair the equipment.

The students, a new generation of “power linemen,” acted as pilots of the robots, directing them to load “payloads and equipment” to be installed on “the grid.” The BEST pilot/robot teams work together to rebuild the local power grid by reinstalling power lines, picking up debris and installing power transformers in residential neighborhoods and at the substations.

The massive game field was spread out over the majority of the arena floor. Cheerleaders, mascots, pep bands, and up to 2,000 friends and family members cheered on the competitors. The public was also invited to watch the competition. Many schools set up colorful, interactive display booths exploring timely engineering themes.

“Walking into a BEST Robotics competition, you first see the game field featured on a stage with four teams competing at once with their teammates and all the parents and mentors cheering them on like any other sports event,” says Mary Metelko, Lipscomb’s Music City BEST hub director. “All this excitement and energy to celebrate and enjoy their engineering achievements! As an engineer myself, it is fantastic to see young engineers in the making.”

About the BEST Program

BEST robotics is a non-profit, volunteer-based organization whose mission is to inspire students to pursue careers in engineering, science and technology through participation in a sports-like, science and engineering-based robotics competition. It began in 1993 with 14 schools and 221 students, and today it has over 850 middle and high schools with over 18,000 students participating.

In addition to the robot contest, teams compete for the best engineering project notebook, marketing presentation, team exhibit and interviews, as well as spirit and sportsmanship. Only three teams will move on to the regional competition in December at Auburn University.

137 Westfield seniors honored for excellence

Westfield High School recently held its annual Evening of Excellence at the high school auditorium. This was the 22nd year for the event, which honored 137 seniors for having a grade point average of 3.8 or higher by the end of their junior year.

Welcome to Miller Time!

In honor of the 150th anniversary of Noblesville Schools, I'd like to welcome you to Miller Time! It was the unofficial anthem of every Noblesville Miller sporting event.

For decades, the student body used that simple phrase to incite fear and loathing in their opponent's hearts as they walked into Miller territory. We wanted to be the most intimidating gym floor or game field other schools would face in the state. While I'm not completely certain that it worked, as a band student, and then director of bands, it sure was fun to help create such an exciting atmosphere. I can still hear the voice of Mr. Dellinger and then Mr. Tremain giving the verbal cue "Here Come the Millers" cueing the pep band to break out in song.

As I have gotten a little more "seasoned" I believe that Miller Time became not only a sports mantra but a mental state of mind. I think about all of the tough moments that I have gone through in my life and I always subconsciously think "It's Miller

Time." Maybe I was in high school marching band and had a big contest ... "It's Miller Time." Maybe I had a stressful test in Econ class ... "It's Miller Time." Maybe I just didn't want to get out of bed and head into school ... "It's Miller Time."

Even now as I reflect on these past few weeks and the passing of Courtney, Tony, Krissi and many other classmates that have gone on before us, I see friends wrap their arms around those families and say, we are here with you, we are Millers, we are together ... "It's Miller Time." Even when we faced the events of May 25, 2018, our entire community seemed to collectively say to the nation ... "It's Miller Time."

From a sporting events mantra to a way of life, "It's Miller Time" has always been there and I hope will live on for generations to come. As someone whose mother (Nadine Newsom Tarrance), father (Dennis White), grandmothers (Jacqueline Howard Newsom and Eunice Avery Collins) and many other family members graduated from NHS before me, I am so honored to have my story be a part of the 150th anniversary of Noblesville Schools.

I say to you all, "Welcome to Miller Time." Stacey White is the Noblesville West Middle School band director and a 1991 graduate of Noblesville High School.

Ashley Sieb inspires NCL Crossroads Chapter members to “move mountains”

The REPORTER

Members from the National Charity League Crossroads Chapter gathered at the Bridgewater Club on Nov. 17 for the chapter’s annual Mother-Daughter Tea. Ashley Sieb, digital marketer/writer/public speaker/triathlete/mom, addressed the more than 200-strong chapter. Her presentation, “Beautifully Broken: How to Move Mountains in Your Life,” inspired the women of all ages to embrace what’s broken in their lives and view it as an opportunity to climb mountains and build confidence.

“The lesson of embracing our brokenness should start young, so we see obstacles as opportunities – ones that can shape us in really exciting ways,” says Sieb. “So I jumped at the chance to speak to this group of mothers and daughters, and what a beautiful group they were – ready to scale their mountains and make themselves and their community better.”

NCL Crossroads is comprised of mothers and daughters from the Westfield, Carmel and Zionsville school districts. During the year, members volunteer and serve at local philanthropies. The annual tea is an opportunity to come together and celebrate the organization, as well as be inspired by other strong women making a difference in their community.

“This event is a great NCL tradition,” says Kim Harvey, NCL Crossroads Chapter President. “Having someone like Ashley Sieb join us was such an inspiration. Her story is moving and really reminded us that our brokenness doesn’t have to negatively define us. In fact, it can be the catalyst for positive change in our lives. Ashley was really relatable and honest, and I think our daughters valued what they heard from her.”

About Ashley Sieb
Ashley Sieb has spent the past decade of her career working in the world of marketing. She is a digital marketer, writer, public speaker and educator. Outside of work, Ashley is a mother to Cooper and wife to her college sweetheart, Justin. She loves racing triathlons, and advocating and mentoring other women. She is currently working on her first book about vulnerability, resiliency and overcoming fears.

TODAY'S BIBLE READING

These things have I spoken unto you, that ye should not be offended. They shall put you out of the synagogues: yea, the time cometh, that whosoever killeth you will think that he doeth God service. And these things will they do unto you, because they have not known the Father; nor me. But these things have I told you, that when the time shall come, ye may remember that I told you of them. And these things I said not unto you at the beginning, because I was with you. But now I go my way to him that sent me; and none of you asketh me, Whither goest thou? But because I have said these things unto you, sorrow hath filled your heart.

John 16:1-6 (KJV)

How many Carnegie libraries were originally built in Indianapolis?

The REPORTER

1806 – The Indiana Territorial Legislature chartered Vincennes University, the first college in Indiana. Founded in 1801 by William Henry Harrison, it is one of only two universities established by a United States President. The other is Thomas Jefferson's University of Virginia.

1863 – The United States Department of War authorized Indiana Governor Oliver P. Morton to raise a Civil War Infantry Regiment comprised of African American soldiers. The recruits formed the 28th Indiana Infantry and trained for three months in Indianapolis before leaving for Washington, D.C., to help in the defense of that city.

1901 – Clement Studebaker died in South Bend, where he and his brother Henry had opened a blacksmith shop 50 years earlier. They later built Conestoga wagons and carriages, which became known for their high quality. The company produced cars and trucks into the 1960s.

1938 – Oscar Robertson was born in Charlotte, Tenn. His family moved to Indianapolis where he played basketball for Crispus Attucks High School, helping win two state titles. After attending the University of Cincinnati, he became an NBA All-Star with the Cincinnati Royals and the Milwaukee Bucks. Known to fans as "The Big O," he is regarded as one of the greatest basketball players of all time.

1939 – Some Hoosiers celebrated two Thanksgivings. The holiday, usually the last Thursday of November, fell very late that year since November had five Thursdays. It had been moved up a week, to the fourth Thursday, by President Franklin D. Roosevelt in order to allow more shopping days before Christmas. However, some Indiana cities, like Washington and New Albany, elected to follow tradition and go with the last Thursday of the month. The mayor of Delphi gave city employees the day off on both Thursdays.

1968 – The Indianapolis Library on South Alabama Street closed its doors for the last time. Opened in 1914 as the Madison Branch, it was one of five libraries built in the city by Andrew Carnegie. The building was demolished to make way for Interstate 70. The Carnegie Library on West Morris Street was torn down in 1994. Of the three Carnegie buildings left in Indianapolis, the ones on East Washington Street and in Spades Park are still open as libraries. The old Hawthorne Branch, on North Mount Street, is now a community center.

Wrestling

The Hamilton Heights wrestling team finished as runner-up at its own Husky Super 6 on Saturday. Heights had four wrestlers finish the tournament undefeated with 5-0 records.

Huskies are runners-up at Super 6

The Hamilton Heights wrestling team opened its season Saturday by hosting its annual Husky Super 6 tournament. Heights provided part of the excitement of the event, which features six teams competing against each other in five dual meets. There was a three-way tie for best record at the tournament: The Huskies finished the event 4-1, as did Noblesville (competing for the first time this season) and North Central.

The tie meant that criteria had to be used to decide the winner, and the Panthers won based most team points scored at the meet, with 261. Heights was the runner-up with 244, and the Millers were third.

“We wrestled great,” said Huskies coach Gary Myers. He pointed out that Heights accomplished two things at the event that it hadn’t done in over a decade: Post a 4-1 record and place second.

The Huskies beat Tipton 57-18, Pendleton Heights 47-30, North Central 37-36 (on tiebreak criteria) and Cascade 69-12. Heights’ only loss was to Noblesville, by a thin 36-34 margin.

Four Huskies wrestlers finished the day as undefeated champions with 5-0 records: Isaiah Rodriguez at 106 pounds, Cooper Mansfield at 145 pounds, Luke Stohler at 195 pounds and Alex Naylor at 220 pounds.

“Overall, I’m very proud of this group and we’re going to do great this year,” said Myers. “We’re upperclassmen all up and down. So we’re very proud.”

In addition to its close win over Heights, the Millers defeated Cascade 63-14, Tipton 60-15 and Pendleton Heights 45-27. North Central beat Noblesville 53-24.

DeWayne Simpson was an undefeated champion for the Millers at 160 pounds, while 132-pounder Tim Alexander finished as runner-up.

“I was very proud of our effort,” said Noblesville coach Michael Weimer. “As young as our team is, the kids really fought hard today and they rallied around each other.”

Ryan Cast was fifth. At 106 pounds, Mat Benson finished fifth and Ethan Berens placed sixth. Later, at 152 pounds, Zach Wagner took fifth and Cam Roberts was sixth.

Xavier Dokes was seventh at 182 pounds, joining Broom in the top eight. At 132 pounds, Gaige Lloyd finished third and Nick Burris placed seventh.

Other top eight finishers for Southeastern were: Jake Lemieux (third, 138), Devin Dudley (fourth, 220), Luke Murphy (seventh, 170) and Jacob Schneider (eighth, 195).

Westfield placed third at the Capital City Classic, which took place Saturday at Beech Grove.

The Shamrocks scored 189.5 points. Perry Meridian won the event with 259.5 points, while Franklin Central took second with 202.5 points.

Carson Eldred won at 120 pounds, giving the ‘Rocks an individual champion. Four other Westfield wrestlers placed second: Braxton Vest at 106, Dylan Driver at 113, Milo Merkel at 132 and Alec McLaren at 145. Brady Drlik (126) and Austin McClure (160) both took third, while Gabe Arvin (195) and Dakota Arvin (220) were both fourth-place finishers.

Sheridan won the Cloverdale Invitational on Saturday, finishing with a 5-0 record.

Six Blackhawks wrestlers were individual champions: Austin Bond (120 pounds), Noah Ehrie (132), Evan Tilton (138), Mace Bond (145), Axel Aleman (152) and Peyton Cross (182).

Holiday's 3 sends Pacers past Magic

By WHEAT HOTCHKISS
Courtesy nba.com/pacers

The second time was the charm for Aaron Holiday on Saturday night.

With the Pacers tied at 106 with the Orlando Magic and after a timeout with 31.1 seconds remaining, Holiday went right around a screen and pulled up for the go-ahead jumper. He missed, but Pacers center Myles Turner was there to corral the rebound.

Turner quickly dished to Justin Holiday in the left corner. The elder Holiday passed back to his younger brother at the top of the key. Aaron drove right again, but this time dished back to Justin. Justin took one dribble as Aaron backpedalled back behind the 3-point line, then dumped the ball off to his little brother.

This time, Aaron didn't miss, swishing the go-ahead 3-pointer with 8.7 seconds to play.

After an Orlando timeout, Justin Holiday then stole the ball from Evan Fournier and drilled two free throws to seal a 111-106 win for Indiana (9-6) on Saturday night at Bankers Life Fieldhouse.

"I just tried to re-space to help him out, see if I could get an open shot," the younger Holiday said about the game-winning sequence. "He found me and I hit it."

"Aaron's never been afraid of anything," his older brother added.

After combining for 44 points in Monday's win in Brooklyn, the Holiday brothers once again came up big for the Pacers in their first game after a four-day break. Aaron finished with 13 points, four rebounds, and four assists, while Justin added 12 points, three boards, six assists, and two steals off the bench in the victory.

Domantas Sabonis led Indiana with 25 points on 9-of-15 shooting, nine rebounds, and four assists as Indiana opened a four-game homestand with a victory over Orlando (6-9).

The Pacers' shots were falling early on Saturday. Indiana connected on six of its first seven shots and finished the first quarter shooting 52.6 percent from the field. But the Blue & Gold also committed seven turnovers in the opening frame and that was the difference as they trailed Orlando after one, 25-24.

Indiana's bench started the second quarter off strong, opening the frame with a 16-5 run to put the hosts in front. T.J. McConnell — back on the court after missing the past two games with a groin injury — hit a floater and dished out three assists in that stretch, which also featured a pair of buckets from rookie center Goga Bitadze and 3-pointers from Doug McDermott and TJ Leaf.

The Pacers' starters put together an impressive run of their own when they returned to the court, reeling off an 11-2 spurt to extend the lead to 15 points. Orlando managed to trim five points off that deficit before halftime, making it a 55-45 game at the break.

Orlando caught fire from beyond the arc in the third quarter. The Magic hit seven of their first 10 3-point attempts in the third quarter, tying the game at 74 on Terrence Ross' 3-pointer with 4:12 remaining in the frame.

The Magic eventually moved in front when Mo Bamba connected on their eighth trey of the quarter. The Pacers twice tied the game, but Fournier's fadeaway jumper in the closing seconds of the period gave the visitors an 85-83 advantage heading into the fourth.

The Pacers got into the 3-point act themselves in the fourth quarter. McDermott buried a three from the left corner on the opening possession of the frame to give Indiana a brief lead. McConnell put the hosts back in front shortly thereafter, getting the shooter's roll on an attempt from the left wing to break an 88-88 tie, though a replay review later determined his foot was on the line, making it a long two-pointer. Justin Holiday then drilled a triple of his own two possessions later to extend the lead.

The Blue & Gold nursed a narrow lead for the next several minutes thanks to a steady diet of Sabonis buckets in the post.

With the score at 104-101, both teams went cold for over two minutes before Khem Birch's putback broke the drought and made it a one-point game with 2:10 to play.

Aaron Holiday answered on the other end, dicing through the Orlando defense for a layup.

Orlando trimmed one point off the deficit on a Jonathan Isaac free throw, then tied the game at 106 when Markelle Fultz jumped a T.J. Warren pass and raced to the other end for a dunk with 31.1 seconds left, setting the stage for Aaron Holiday's heroics.

"He's showing more and more confidence out there and taking his shot," Pacers coach Nate McMillan said. "I didn't think that he forced anything tonight. He had some good looks that he missed in the first half, but those five points he scored late in the game was big for us."

Six Pacers finished in double figures on Saturday. Jeremy Lamb had 14 points in his first game back after missing seven games with a sprained ankle. McDermott connected on 3-of-5 3-pointers on his way to 13 points, while Turner added 10 points, five rebounds, and three blocks.

"We put a lot of effort into that game," McDermott said. "After four days of practice, we were ready to play. It's good to come out with a W."

Fournier led Orlando with 26 points in the loss, while Isaac added 25 points and nine rebounds, going 10-for-16 from the field and 4-for-6 from 3-point range.

The Pacers continue their homestand on Monday, when they host the Memphis Grizzlies at 7 p.m.
