Treasurer's Office investigation concludes

Special Prosecutor: "Insufficient evidence" to prove improper conduct

The REPORTER

Hancock County Prosecutor Brent Eaton released his findings Wednesday regarding the Indiana State Police's investigation into the Hamilton County Treasurer's Office.

"After a thorough investigation, we found insufficient evidence to prove that Hamilton County Chief Deputy Treasurer Kim Good's parents were improperly permitted to make late property tax payments without paying late fees as required by law for those transactions," said Eaton. "We did find that if any waiver of any late fee was granted over the years to anyone that it would not be a crime under Indiana Law."

The report goes on to state that recordkeeping in the Hamilton County Treasurer's Office is insufficient to determine if late fees were waived for property tax payments that were received after the due date. Eaton did conclude that as a result of the incomplete recordkeeping, it is possible that a payment could be received after the deadline and still be processed as an on-time payment.

"Simply put, even if there were a violation of the law, there is no provision in Indiana criminal law that makes this specific conduct a crime. Therefore, no criminal action can be taken to rectify the matter or hold anyone criminally accountable under the law," said Eaton. "I reviewed every resource I could to determine if this action was criminal, and given the evidence, the answer is no."

Eaton was appointed as Special Prosecutor in April by Hamilton County Circuit Court Judge Paul Felix at the request of Hamilton County Prosecutor D. Lee Buckingham II. Eaton was tasked with reviewing the Indiana State Police's investigation into the Treasurer's Office to determine if there was criminal activity taking place in the management of the Hamilton County Treasurer's Office.

Indiana Code 6-1.1-37-10 states that if property taxes are not completely paid on or before the due date, a penalty shall be added to the unpaid portion in the year of the initial delinquency. Under the law, Indiana Code 6-1.1-37-15 allows the Treasurer to waive, negotiate or settle penalties if a formal policy is presented to and approved by the Hamilton County Council. According to Eaton, there is no evidence that such policy for waiver exists, which means any waiver for Good's parents or anyone else were unlawful.

According to the report, the scope of this investigation was limited to the processing of payments by the Treasurer's Office, the records of those payments, any direct criminal act committed by any employee of the Treasurer's office against any other employee of the Treasurer's office during or because of employment with the Treasurer's office, and truthfulness and honesty with investigators. It did not consider any other avenue of investigation of the office or personnel beyond those listed as it would have exceeded what was believed to be the jurisdictional scope allowed by the Judge's order assigning a Special Prosecutor.

The report also concluded that there is no evidence that any

Stoesz: Lack of crime doesn't mean lack of wrongdoing

The REPORTER

The criminal investigation that focused on the Hamilton County Treasurer's Office began after former county employee Susan Byer filed a lawsuit stating she was unjustly fired after making allegations of late property tax payment penalties not being charged to family members of Treasurer's Office employees.

Byer is represented by Westfield-based attorney Tim Stoesz.

Stoesz issued the following statement on Wednesday after

Special Prosecutor Brent Eaton released the findings in his investigation:

"Special Prosecutor Brent Eaton did a very good job. The report vindicates Susan's allegation that the property tax payments of Kim Good's parents were processed late, and not designated as late, allowing the late penalty to be waived. Just because a crime wasn't committed doesn't mean wrongdoing did not happen. We look forward to reading the Indiana State Police Investigation Report."

employee of the Hamilton County Treasurer's Office was intimidated, harassed, or otherwise the victim of a criminal act. There is insufficient evidence to make a finding of criminal acts committed by employees of the Treasurer's Office during or because of their employment with the Treasurer's Office. The failure to maintain the records of when payments were actually received is not a crime that can be prosecuted under the law as it exists in Indiana.

Fourteen non-profit social service organizations will share nearly $4.4 million in county funds approved Monday by Hamilton County Commissioners. The annual allocations, payable after Jan. 1, are granted to agencies that perform services for the public.

The money supplements budgets of private groups whose work might otherwise have to be undertaken by local government. The County Council appropriated the funds to agencies that request assistance. Good Samaritan, which provides food and clothing to the needy, will receive $50,000. The Hope Family Care Center will get $15,000. Chaunce's Place, $30,000; Meals on Wheels, $10,000; Prevail, $180,000; Prime Life Enrichment, $240,000; The Shepherd Center, $40,000; Trinity Free Clinic, $74,000; and The Youth Mentoring Initiative, $10,000.

Organizations with county contractual agreements include Cherish Center getting $30,000 and Hamilton County Humane Society, granted $122,000.

Three economic development projects move forward in Fishers

By LARRY LANNAN
LarryInFishers.com

The Fishers City Council took action Tuesday night to approve next steps for three economic development projects.

The council approved Economic Revitalization areas, moving forward with the Hub & Spoke, as well as the Sitel projects. The council also approved the first amendment to the economic development agreement with Nickel Plate Station.

Hub & Spoke is under construction on 106th Street near Interstate 69 and the planned Nickel Plate Trail. It will be a center for the construction industry, with training programs for those aspiring to work in the construction trades.

Advocating for Victims of Crime and Abuse

www.prevailinc.com

I was born and raised right here in Noblesville. I grew up in a home without domestic violence or assault – it wasn't something I saw, or even heard about. But when I was introduced to Prevail of Central Indiana, I was shocked by the number of individuals who are affected by domestic violence. In 2018 alone, Prevail helped more than 4,000 clients in Hamilton County. (Nearly 80 percent of clients are women and children.) Domestic violence and abuse are hard topics to discuss, so you don't often hear about them. But at Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville, we're breaking the taboo and raising awareness for Prevail, an organization that helps families in Hamilton County.

To help Hamilton County families affected by domestic violence and sexual abuse, you can donate the following items:

- Art supplies (for children to journal and express their emotions)
- Bottled water (8 oz. bottles, preferably)
- Individually packaged snacks
- Gas cards (many women have no access to funds after fleeing their abuser)

Carmel woman says an AED saved her life

By ANGELI KAKADE
WISH-TV | wishtv.com

An event that takes place today takes the tradition of running on Thanksgiving to heart.

It's called Bolt for the Heart. The annual 5K race raises money to buy defibrillators to put in police cars and other emergency vehicles in central Indiana.

It's a race Jeanne Johnson of Carmel said she has run for years, but it wasn't until this year when she says she experienced firsthand the power of an Automated External Defibrillator (AED).

Johnson knew heart disease ran in her family.

"I would make an effort to eat healthy and I came to Orangetheory three or four days a week," Johnson said.

But in April of this year, while at her regular 12 p.m. Orangetheory Fitness class, Johnson went into sudden cardiac arrest. She had just finished a 12-minute segment on the treadmill. It's a workout she had done several times before.

"I went on the rower and was talking to some friends and that was the last thing I remember, she said.

Johnson's heart flatlined.

"Fortunately, Orangetheory had an AED on the wall right next to me and three nurses who were also in the class stepped in," Johnson said.

An AED is a portable device used to help people who go into sudden cardiac arrest.

"Think of it like a battery, it jumpstarts the heart back into rhythm," said Pierre Twer, the president for Bolt for the Heart.

The mobility of an AED is important because Twer said a cardiac arrest is like having to hold your breath. A few minutes is a matter of life and death. For Johnson, it gave her time to get to the hospital where she later underwent bypass surgery. She credits her strength before the cardiac arrest and the AED after it for coming out on the other side.

"Once you have your chest cracked open and you can't use your arms to get out of bed or get out of a chair, you're grateful you've had so many bicycle movements and sits-ups and strength training that we do here at Orangetheory. If they hadn't had an AED, I wouldn't be here to tell you about it," Johnson said.

Johnson was cleared for normal activity by her doctor just a few months, but her first order of business?

"Just running the race with my family on Thanksgiving," she said.

Twer said funds raised from this year's race will benefit the Indiana Sheriff's Association and getting AEDs into rural areas.

Letter to the Editor

Morris not pleased with presentation of lawsuit 'win'

Dear Editor:

I saw that Carmel "won" a lawsuit about the RFRA fix. I decided to see what Carmel taxpayers actually won, since I am sure most of us were really concerned either way.

It looks like, and only through Jan. 8 of this year, that we won the right to pay Krieg DeVault law firm $251,596.17 so far for this big victory. I also note that one Libby Goodknight of that law firm has cleaned up in this pointless exercise to the tune of $196,125. And, of course, Jim Brainard won $5,000 in campaign donations from Krieg DeVault this spring to keep making Carmel the greatest city ever.

The fix is in, and it's on "We the Taxpayers." As Thomas DiLorenzo quipped, "The purpose of government is for those who run it to plunder those who do not."

Whether RFRA is right or wrong, Ms. Goodknight has done a fine job monetizing the non-controversy. Too bad Carmel won the lawsuit to plunder Home Place and force me to pay her so much.

Sincerely,
Eric S. Morris

SHAMROCK SELF STORAGE
presents

Holidays With Heroes

This holiday season, the Carmel Police Department, in partnership with Shamrock Self Storage and Meijer stores, will host our inaugural "Holidays with Heroes" community program.

Holidays can sometimes be stressful and for those families with financial challenges, the stress of not being able to provide gifts for their children can be overwhelming.

A Carmel Police officer will go shopping at Meijer with a child-in-need from our community. Our goal is to provide each child with a gift card to buy coats, clothes and toys. The kids and officers will begin their day with a hot breakfast before they go shopping. At the end of the day, each child will go home with wrapped gifts and a holiday stocking.

To be successful, we need your help!

Your donation will help us provide gift cards, breakfast items, wrapping paper, stocking stuffers and refreshments for a truly memorable day for each child.

Our event will be held Saturday, December 7, 2019! Checks can be written to the Carmel Police Department, with "Holidays with Heroes" in the memo. Please contact Ann Gallagher, Community Resource Specialist at 317-571-2720 or email at agallagher@carmel.in.gov with any questions.

Celebrate, get jolly on Small Business Saturday with Allisonville Garden & Home

The REPORTER
Allisonville Garden and Home, a small business staple in the Fishers community for more than 40 years, is encouraging the community to “shop small” at the establishment from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturday, Nov. 30 by holding a festive event called Jolly Holly Day.
Bring the entire family (pets too) and visit St. Nick, pick out your tree and enjoy cookies and hot cocoa while you browse the home store for gifts or winter wonderland full of greenery and holiday home décor. The event is free to attend with donations accepted throughout the day for Best Buddies Indiana.
This is the 10th annual Small Business Saturday dedicated to supporting the diverse range of local businesses that create jobs, boost the economy, and enhance neighborhoods around the country, by encouraging people to “shop small” with local merchants during the holidays.
Allisonville Garden and Home is located at 11405 Allisonville Road, Fishers.

Hoosiers should be cautious this season while holiday shopping

The REPORTER
Indiana Attorney General Curtis Hill is warning Hoosiers to be alert and aware while holiday shopping. Scams and theft around the holidays, including on Black Friday (Nov. 29) and Cyber Monday (Dec. 2), are more prevalent than ever.
“During the holidays, we all look forward to celebrating such blessings as love, joy and peace,” Hill said. “Unfortunately, though, there are always schemers among us trying to find ways to take advantage of others and rob them of their hard-earned resources. Hoosiers must be cautious this shopping season when making purchases big or small.”
Hill offered the following tips:
• When you go shopping at brick-and-mortar stores, conceal your purchases in the trunk of your vehicle rather than leaving them in plain sight through the windows.
• Secure your home deliveries. Beware of “porch pirates.” If you have packages arriving at your home and are not going to be there to receive them, make sure you have a place where they can be hidden from view on your porch. Or see if you can have the packages delivered to a secure location where you can pick them up when you are able. Consider teaming up with trusted neighbors to keep watch on one another’s properties. Security systems with cameras are always an option.
• If a deal seems too good to be true, then it probably is. Be skeptical of deals and ask questions as needed. Be sure to read the fine print to make sure you are purchasing exactly what you want.
• Closely check the emails that you receive for holiday deals to make sure that they are from the companies they claim to represent and are not from scammers or imposters. Proactively go to companies’ official websites yourself rather than just clicking on a link emailed to you.
• To protect your personal information, don’t make online purchases while using public Wi-Fi.

Hill

- Never make a hurried decision. Scam artists want to pressure you into a making a quick decision to buy from them. Slow down and check out the story for yourself first.
- Make purchases using a credit card if you can. Always review your monthly statements for charges you don’t recognize. You can reverse charges or dispute a charge with your credit card company if necessary. It is more difficult to dispute charges on your debit card or obtain your cash back.
- If you are purchasing gift cards, make sure you know the expiration date, as well as the terms that apply to the card.

As always, if you believe you have been subjected to a scam, please file a complaint with the Indiana Attorney General’s Consumer Protection Division. A consumer complaint can be filed at in.gov/attorneygeneral or you can contact the Office of the Attorney General at 1-800-382-5516.

TODAY'S BIBLE READING

All things that the Father hath are mine: therefore said I, that he shall take of mine, and shall shew it unto you. A little while, and ye shall not see me: and again, a little while, and ye shall see me, because I go to the Father. Then said some of his disciples among themselves, What is this that he saith unto us, A little while, and ye shall not see me: and again, a little while, and ye shall see me: and, Because I go to the Father? They said therefore, What is this that he saith, A little while? we cannot tell what he saith. Now Jesus knew that they were desirous to ask him, and said unto them, Do ye enquire among yourselves of that I said, A little while, and ye shall not see me: and again, a little while, and ye shall see me? Verily, verily, I say unto you, That ye shall weep and lament, but the world shall rejoice: and ye shall be sorrowful, but your sorrow shall be turned into joy. A woman when she is in travail hath sorrow, because her hour is come: but as soon as she is delivered of the child, she remembereth no more the anguish, for joy that a man is born into the world. And ye now therefore have sorrow: but I will see you again, and your heart shall rejoice, and your joy no man taketh from you. And in that day ye shall ask me nothing. Verily, verily, I say unto you, Whatsoever ye shall ask the Father in my name, he will give it you.

Hochstedler makes buzzer-beating putback, Gus scores 41...

Huskies win emotional opener in OT

By RICHIE HALL

ARCADIA - If there's a theme that can be applied to this year's Hamilton Heights boys basketball team – on and off the court – let it be this: "We will be here for you."

The Huskies opened their season Wednesday by hosting Lebanon in an emotional game in front of a packed crowd. Heights went back-and-forth with the Tigers for the entire 32 minutes, then an extra four minutes of overtime before Hudson Hochstedler's putback at the buzzer secured a 71-69 victory for the Huskies.

Everyone knew it would be an emotional game. Heights was playing its first game without Tony Etchison in the stands, after he lost his life in a farming accident last month. Etchison's son Gus, now a junior, is one of the stars on the Huskies' team.

"I knew it was going to be very hard for him, just to get that first one out of the way," said Heights coach Chad Ballenger. "I think the second one will be hard, too. It's just been tough for him. But he's been grinding, and he's got great support and our community's been good. We're going to keep plugging away and be there for him."

Gus' teammates were there for him, including at the end of the game. Etchison had already scored 41 points, and with the score tied at 69-69, was driving in with seconds left to hopefully put in the game winner.

Etchison drove in and put up a jumper that went off the left side of the rim. But Hochstedler came rushing in to grab the rebound, and put the ball back up. It swished through the net as the clock ran out to 0.0.

"I'm not that emotional of a player, but that's the most excited I've been in a while," said Hochstedler. "For the team, good start. For the Etchisons, we're all behind them. It's nice to have that win. It means more than just a game."

"It was tough because there's two guys on me about the whole game," said

Etchison. "I thought it was going in, but I'm glad Hudson got that rebound and put it in and get us that 'W.'"

It was a hard-fought win, and not just because of the emotions involved with the game. The Huskies got off to a great start in the first quarter, but the Tigers came back with an equally great second period.

Heights led 21-11 late in the first, before a Lebanon basket finished the quarter at 21-13. In a bit of foreshadowing, the first basket of the game was a Huskies' putback, this one from Brent Pennington.

Etchison played like a man possessed for the entire game, and wasted no time in the first quarter. He threw in three 3-pointers and went 4-of-4 from the free throw line, giving him 13 points in that period.

"That's who he is," said Ballenger. "My wife and I, we were talking about it. She was like, you know he's just going to come out and light it up and be there, because that's who he is. When the lights are on, he shines. I had a lot of conversations with Tony over the years, and he would talk about AAU and be like, when pressure was on, and the better teams, he always rose up. He always could rise up and be there, and that's Gus."

"I just wanted to win this game more than any game I think I've ever played in my life and I just wanted to make him proud," said Gus.

Lebanon came back in the second quarter to lead 34-31 at halftime. Michael Reese finished the period with three 3-pointers to get his team in front. The Tigers rode that momentum to a 40-33 lead with 5:55 left in the third quarter, after Luke Ferrell converted a traditional three-point play.

But the Huskies blasted back on an 11-0 run that was remarkably quick. Is-siac Hickok made a putback that led to an and-1, then Etchison stole the ball and scored. He then added five more points, and Hochstedler's free throw put Heights ahead 44-40.

Larry Berg inducted into Hamilton County Basketball Hall of Fame

The Hamilton County Basketball Hall of Fame inducted Larry Berg in a ceremony Wednesday at Hamilton Heights, prior to the varsity boys basketball game between the Huskies and Lebanon.

Berg (center) graduated from Jackson Central High School in 1956. He led Hamilton County in scoring in 1956 with an average of 20 points per game. He also led the county in assists and was second in rebounding. Berg was listed as one of the top 100 players in Indiana.

Berg continued his basketball his career at Butler University. He was a starter on the freshman team; at the time freshmen could not play on varsity. Unfortunately, a knee injury early in his sophomore year ended his college career.

After serving his country for two years in the Army, Berg obtained an accounting certificate from Indiana Business College. He spent his entire career at Indiana Farm Bureau in the accounting and auditing department. Larry and Joyce, his wife of 58 years, have two children, daughter Judy and son Jeff. Larry and Joyce reisde in The Villages, Fla.

Golden Eagles fall to Park Tudor HUSKIES

Guerin Catholic dropped its season-opening game on Wednesday, falling to Park Tudor 62-55 at the Eagles' Nest.

The Golden Eagles led 13-11 after the first quarter, but the Panthers came back to lead 28-27 at halftime. Park Tudor then had a 20-point third period and held on to get the win.

Bernie McGuinness led Guerin Catholic with 24 points, including two 3-pointers, one each in the third and fourth periods. Joseph Bobilya and Cameron Weitzel both had seven points, including a 3 from Weitzel.

The Golden Eagles host Manual on Saturday.

After that, neither team led by more than six points for the remainder of the game. The Huskies reached that lead when Etchison hit a 3 to get his team up 58-52. Lebanon's Reese then took over, scoring eight straight points to put the Tigers up 60-58.

Two free throws each from Hickok and Etchison pushed Heights ahead 62-60, but Kobe Ottinger tied it at 62-all with a layin. That would be the score at the end of regulation.

Etchison scored the majority of the points for the Huskies in the overtime, including an and-1 that took the Heights from down two points to up one, 67-66. He added two more free throws to give the Huskies a 3-point lead, but Reese tied it up with a 3-pointer with 1:34 left, giving him 27 points for the game. There would be no more points until Hochstedler's basket.

"You want to talk about a class individual, and talk about the epitome of high school sports," said Ballenger. "He wants to go to MIT or Purdue. He's going to be an engineer. He's planned out what he wants to do and he just works his butt off. He's a great kid. Academically, athletically, just a great individual kid."

Etchison's 41 points marked the third time he has reached the 40-point mark in his career. He finished the game with six 3-pointers, six steals and five rebounds. Camron Knott added 10 points and seven rebounds, including a pair of 3s.

The Huskies next play Friday, Dec. 6, when they host New Castle.

Pacers pull away for win over Jazz

By WHEAT HOTCHKISS
Courtesy nba.com/pacers

The Indiana Pacers have much to be thankful for this year. They've weathered an early season tempest of injuries and emerged on the other side.

The Pacers (11-6) picked up their fourth straight win and their 11th victory in their last 14 contests on Wednesday night, withstanding a big night from former Pacer Bojan Bogdanovic and pulling away in the fourth quarter for a 121-102 win over the Utah Jazz (11-7).

Three players topped 20 points on Wednesday for the Blue & Gold, just the latest example of Indiana's balanced offensive attack. Domantas Sabonis led the way with 23 points on 9-of-15 shooting and 12 rebounds. T.J. Warren also scored 23 points on 10-for-16 shooting, while Malcolm Brogdon added 22 points, four rebounds, and eight assists.

Jeremy Lamb just missed out on joining the 20-point club, finishing with 18 points, eight rebounds, and six assists.

"I think we were so unselfish," Brogdon said after the win. "I think it's hard to play a team that has multiple scorers that are also willing to pass and make the right play. That's how we played tonight."

Bogdanovic received a nice ovation pregame in his return to Bankers Life Fieldhouse. The Croatian sharpshooter then exacted a little revenge on his old team, coming off a screen on Utah's opening possession and drilling a 3-pointer, and tallied seven points in the opening frame.

Three Pacers combined for Indiana's first 19 points — Lamb scoring seven with Sabonis and Brogdon combining for six apiece — to help the Blue & Gold take a narrow 21-20 advantage into the second quarter.

The hosts opened up the first substantial lead of the night for either team thanks to a 9-0 run in the second quarter. After Aaron Holiday started the sequence with a layup, T.J. McConnell had his hand in the next three buckets. McConnell pulled up for a mid-range jumper in transition, then intercepted a Bogdanovic pass and passed ahead to Warren for a breakaway dunk. After a Utah timeout and another turnover, McConnell then dished to Warren for a three that made it 36-27 with 6:38 remaining in the half.

The Jazz clawed back to within one after Joe Ingles' 3-pointer with 2:12 remaining, but the Pacers closed the half with another run. Sabonis knocked down a jumper and then Warren scored in transition and then converted a three-point play on consecutive possessions. Justin Holiday and Domantas Sabonis added two free throws apiece to cap an 11-0 run before Bogdanovic's layup in the final seconds made it a 53-43 game at the break.

Both offenses erupted after halftime. Utah climbed within six following a 17-9 run that featured three 3-pointers, only for Indiana to answer with a 13-5 surge of its own.

Bogdanovic caught fire from there, as the Jazz immediately responded with a 13-2 run that featured eight points from the former Pacer — including a pair of threes — to get the visitors within three. Bogdanovic tallied 17 points in the third quarter alone, going 3-for-4 from 3-point range.

McConnell and Holiday stopped the bleeding for Indiana, combining for six straight points to close the quarter and give the Pacers an 89-80 lead heading into the fourth.

The Blue & Gold held Utah at bay for much of the fourth quarter, actually extending the lead to 105-92 after Warren's layup with 5:45 remaining.

The exclamation point came shortly thereafter, as Myles Turner drilled a three and then after a stop Brogdon missed a 3-pointer, but corraled his own rebound and dished to Warren for another layup that stretched the lead to 17. The margin would only grow from there before both coaches emptied their benches in the final minutes.

"We just tried to stay with it," Lamb said. "We tried to remind everybody that they're going to make runs. They're a great team, they've got a lot of talent, a lot of great players. So when they make their run, we've got to come back and make our run."

McConnell was the fifth and final Pacer to score in double figures, finishing with 12 points, four assists, and three steals.

Turner only had eight points and four boards, but had a strong night defensively, blocking three shots and making his presence known on the interior.

Bogdanovic led Utah with 30 points, going 4-for-7 from 3-point range and 10-for-11 from the free throw line. Donovan Mitchell added 26 points, while Rudy Gobert finished with 14 points and 13 boards.

"I like the way we're playing," Pacers head coach Nate McMillan said. "We've continued to establish ourselves. Both groups (starters and reserves) were really solid, offensively and defensively against a really good opponent for 48 minutes. Bojan and Mitchell are a handful and I thought we made them work to score."

The Pacers will look to sweep a four-game homestand when they host the Atlanta Hawks on Friday night before beginning a five-game road trip on Saturday in Philadelphia.
