Crews were able to enter the structure and pull an unconscious female out of the burning home. She was transported to Riverview Hospital in serious condition. She was later transferred to Eskenazi Hospital. Three cats were also pulled from the home; one survived.

Circle of friends is the best therapy

Want a great tip for how to not only survive, but also thrive in the sandwich generation? Get together often with close friends. No, not just once or twice a year – I'm talking once a month or more.

One of my greatest blessings in the world is a group of friends we call Our Gang. My husband John and I have known this mix of awesome people for over 20 years now. One couple has been friends of mine since college.

This group used to get together sporadically for dinner and board games starting in the mid to late 90s. Then one brilliant friend, Cindy, suggested in late 2005 that we all get together regularly on the third Saturday of the month. And Our Gang was officially born. We even have our own T-shirts!

We've modified this schedule since one couple moved away from Central Indiana years ago. We now take an annual trip over a long weekend in the summer to an in-between location such as Tennessee or Missouri.

We have an absolute blast each month with our get-togethers. I look forward to them and try to never miss them, knowing that my sides and face will probably hurt from all the laughter we share. We are, of course, an absolutely hilarious group – just ask us, we'll tell you.

The laughter alone is great therapy for my sometimes weary soul as I navigate the highs and lows of being in the sandwich generation. But we're don't just always have fun in Our Gang. We also share our struggles, especially with our elderly parents.

COLUMNIST

One friend's father is battling ALS right now. He often goes down to Florida to help his father and step-mother. Another took care of her mother when she got cancer years ago. Sadly, her mother passed away.

We've stood beside our friends who have lost a parent in one way or another over these past few decades. Unfortunately, all of us have lost at least one parent while others have lost both their mother and their father.

Sometimes we find the best way to deal with these ups and downs is by sharing our memories, stories and more laughter. It's not uncommon for someone to ask, "How's your mom?" or "How's your dad doing?" each month. More often than not one of us will share something and see other Our Gang members nodding their heads in understanding.

Funnier stories of our parents giving us hot flashes thanks to thermostats set at 80 degrees or their complete lack of technology know-how (Saturday Night Live's Amazon Echo Silver, anyone?) often give us much-needed comic relief. It's good to know we're not alone on this journey full of unexpected twists and turns.

As we wrap up this Thanksgiving week, I want to give a shout out to one of the things I'm most grateful for – Our Gang. I hope with all my heart, dear readers, that you have a similar group of friends to share your life with. They truly make everything better.

Fishers Police Department earns sixth CALEA accreditation, meritorious award

By LARRY LANNAN
LarryInFishers.com

on Accreditation for Law Enforcement Agencies (CALEA). The department also says it has received the Meritorious Award for being an accredited agency for more than 15 continuous years.

Meritorious agencies receive an enhanced Certificate of Meritorious Accreditation, displaying a blue "Meritorious" ribbon and an inscription proclaiming their 15 or more years of accredited status.

Being accredited by CALEA consists of a four-year process measuring adherence to strict international guidelines of policing and organizational practices. At the end of the fourth year, CALEA assessors visit the agency to review day-to-day operations of policies and procedures. After confirming compliance, observations of agency activities, and interviews, the Commission voted unanimously to award the Fishers its sixth award.

CALEA was created in 1979 as a credentialing authority through the joint efforts of the following law enforcement's major executive associations: International Association of Chiefs of Police (IACP), National Organization of Black Law Enforcement Executives (NOBLE), National Sheriffs' Association (NSA), and Police Executive Research Forum (PERF).

Choosing happiness for the holidays

"I have decided to be happy because it is better for my health."

— Voltaire

Many of us — and I include myself in the "us" — wait for circumstances to provide our happiness. The option of happiness as a decision doesn't make a lot of sense; or does it? How is it that often we see people in the most adverse conditions maintain a level of joy which seems impossible? Note that I use the word "joy" to replace "happy." I submit that even in Voltaire's statement that "joyful" could better replace "happy." Those who are truly joyful find that within themselves and those focused more on happiness look around them for that source — a set of circumstances often impossible to reach.

Depression is a word which we hear very often in our society. There are many commercials and advertisements of medications which promise relief, and some are very helpful despite what can be very serious side effects. Depression can be situation-related, such as grief over loss of a family member, as well as related to seasonal disorders and clinical depression, the latter which can require substantial medical intervention.

This column's purpose is not to explore the causes and treatments for depression, and this writer does not have the knowledge and expertise to do so. However the holiday season can bring about stress and anxiety so here are some tips which might help:

- Watch/listen to fewer news reports. Today's information cycle is 24/7 and it is never good regardless of your political or ideological views. On that same note, refrain from political discussion with family and friends during holiday gatherings.

- Make a practical list of any holiday gifts you are expected to provide, and stick to it! Easier said than done, I know from personal experience!

- Make sure you continue to exercise regularly despite a busier schedule. Exercise releases endorphins important in controlling stress. Additionally, as we are all excited about the yummy candies and cookies available, remember that sugar can also elevate the heart rate and affect anxiety levels.

Back to Voltaire's quote — joy and happiness have a direct benefit to our heart health, our digestive system, muscle pain, quality of sleep and energy level. During this holiday season and always, I wish you joy, peace, and contentment, a word we seldom hear in today's society.

Theodore Roosevelt said, "Comparison is the thief of joy." So don't allow yourself to be caught up in comparing your holiday season — and your life — with anyone else. Eat well, exercise, spend time with family and friends (away from the "news") and perhaps look around you to see how you might reach out to those in need through volunteer activities and outreach.

And to change the topic entirely, thank you to all who have attended the two book signings I have done at the PetSmart store this past year. My book, "Sweetie's Scars: A Journey of Hurt, Hope, and Healing" has been well received locally and in sales on Amazon.

Proceeds are donated to the Humane Society for Hamilton County. I appreciate your support of Sweetie's legacy to end animal abuse.

Wishing you Thanksgiving blessings,

Letter to the Editor

Shaffer: “Self-absorbed” Carmel administration can’t ignore city’s debt

Dear Editor:

A measure of the self-absorbed shortsightedness of Carmel's ruling elite came last week when the director of the Carmel Redevelopment Commission railed against citizens who point out the city's $1.4 billion debt and the account of the debt, itself.

“It’s absolutely ridiculous,” Henry Mestetsky is quoted as saying. “It’s completely misleading the way (Department of Local Government Finance) counts developer bonds as Carmel debt and it goes into the $1.4 billion signs you see in people’s front yards.”

In his defense, Mestetsky merely echoes statements made by Carmel's mayor when confronted with debt data.

Both men illustrate self-absorbed importance. How the DLGF reports numbers the city reports is not their business. Every city, county, township, school district and library in the state report numbers the same way. It's called a standard – something the self-absorbed abhor.

Their statements are shortsighted since, at bottom, they further erode any confidence the public might have in government at all, let alone one that has run up a $1.4 billion debt.

Perhaps we should salve their snowflake feelings by only reporting Carmel's outrageous principal and interest – $478.8 million.

That won't erase the $1.4 billion total outstanding debt obligation to which Mestetsky and the mayor are adding millions more even as you read this.

Bruce Wayne Pickett
August 12, 1952 – November 27, 2019

Bruce Wayne Pickett, 67, Sheridan, following a long and courageous battle with cancer, peacefully passed away Wednesday morning, November 27, 2019 at his sister and brother-in-law's home in Tipton, surrounded by his loving family. Born August 12, 1952 in Lebanon, he was the son of Clifford "Pokey" and Dortha "Dort" (Myers) Pickett.

Bruce was a 1970 graduate of Sheridan High School and proudly served his country in the United States Navy as a machinist aboard the USS Hector.

After his time in the Navy was complete, Bruce hired on as a machinist with Westfield Manufacturing and stayed with the company for roughly six years. In 1985, Bruce took a more active role in the family business, Pickett Oil Company and Pickett's Point gas station. For 20 years, Bruce, along with his brother David, co-owned both businesses. For the better part of those years, you could usually find him behind the wheel of one of the fuel delivery trucks or talking to customers at the Point. After the sale of the company he worked for DeVol Welding, and later as a freelance fabricator mechanic.

Bruce was what some might call a world class tinkerer. He always seemed to be fiddling around with somebody's car, or one of the company trucks, or some piece of equipment. Whether it needed worked on or not was of no concern, it would be messed with, regardless. Add to that a fondness for auctions, and it was no wonder Bruce was able to amass an ever-growing collection of tools. Be it creativity or sheer stubbornness, there was always a need for more tools, because you never know when you are going to need that one ... or that one ... or that one hanging up over there. He also had quite the collection of what his family referred to as "ugly" cow statues and figurines.

Bruce was generous with both his talents and his time. It seems that the talent he was the most generous with was his razor-sharp wit. He loved putting a smile on people's faces and he was always able to do it without missing a beat.

Bruce is survived by his parents; his son, Mikel Pickett (Jessica), Chicago; two sisters, Michelle Jones (Stan), Tipton, and Mel Bales (Lee Bayer), Westfield; one brother, Dave Pickett (Meg), Sheridan; six nieces and nephews, Shannon (Ian) Gilbert, Brandie Stapleton, Todd (Karissa) Jones, Kyle (Stef) Jones, Carey (Mark) Mayernick and Erin (Matt) Wise; and 22 great-nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by his paternal grandparents, Howard and Pearl Pickett; and by his maternal grandparents, Cloyd and Elsie Myers.

Services will be held at 2 p.m. on Saturday, November 30, 2019 at Kercheval Funeral Home, 306 E. 10th St., Sheridan, with visitation from 10 a.m. until the time of service. Burial with Military Honors will follow at Crown View Cemetery in Sheridan. Pastor Carol Fritz will be officiating.

Bruce always said that he would come back and haunt anyone who wore a suit to his funeral. It is with that thought in mind that Bruce's family requests everyone come in their jeans and flannels out of respect for Bruce's wishes, and for fear that he might actually have figured out how to do it.

TODAY'S BIBLE READING

Hitherto have ye asked nothing in my name: ask, and ye shall receive, that your joy may be full. These things have I spoken unto you in proverbs: but the time cometh, when I shall no more speak unto you in proverbs, but I shall shew you plainly of the Father: At that day ye shall ask in my name: and I say not unto you, that I will pray the Father for you: For the Father himself loveth you, because ye have loved me, and have believed that I came out from God. I came forth from the Father; and am come into the world: again, I leave the world, and go to the Father.

March 15, 1945 – November 23, 2019

Richard "Rick" Coy, 74, Noblesville, passed away on Saturday, November 23, 2019 at his home in Noblesville after a fight with cancer. Rick and his twin brother, Ron, were born on March 15, 1945 in Indianapolis.

After high school, Rick served in the United States Air Force. He later opened and owned his own business, Packaging Equipment and Films, in Noblesville for 34 years. Rick was an avid race fan, and was fortunate to have been involved with a race team for a number of years. Through both, he became blessed with many friends. He also enjoyed golfing and a cold Miller Lite.

He is survived by his wife of 49 years, Elizabeth Coy; brother, Ron Coy; and cousins, Sherry McIntyre and Cappy McLean.

Rick was preceded in death by his son, Sean Coy, and cousin, Joann Bauerle.

Royals pull away from 'Hounds in fourth

By RICHIE HALL

FISHERS - Don't be fooled by the final score in Hamilton Southeastern's Friday afternoon win over Carmel.

The Royals had to fight to get the victory against the Greyhounds, which was played in front of a nice-sized crowd at the Southeastern gym. It was a back-and-forth game for three quarters, but the Class 4A No. 7 Royals pulled away in the fourth period to win 52-36.

"We knew it was going to be a scrap-py game," said Southeastern coach Chris Huppenthal. "You're not going to run away and hide from Carmel. It's going to be hard to. Coach (Erin) Trimpe does a really good job. They're a young basket-ball team. They got a lot of youth over there and we're starting four seniors."

The Greyhounds scored first in the game, with Bridget Dunn making a lay-in. The Royals answered by scoring the next 10 points, which included 3-pointers from Lauren Morris, Bailee Poore and Sydney Parrish.

That got HSE ahead 10-2 and estab-lished a pattern that held for most of the game. The Royals would make a run to build a comfortable lead, but Carmel would come right back and get within shouting distance.

"They got some really good players," said Huppenthal. "Dunn was a real big presence inside in the first half.

The first quarter ended with South-eastern up 12-7. Parrish opened the sec-ond with a jumper, and baskets from Makayla Hinshaw and Parrish put the Royals ahead 18-9. Kate Clarke scored on a layup in between.

"The girl can score, she's a great scor-er," said Huppenthal. "Their other kids, they're good players."

Emily Roper's basket and a 3-point-er from Clarke cut HSE's lead to 18-14, but Jackie Maulucci's basket stopped that run. Dunn scored consecutive layins to get Carmel within 20-18.

"We've really been pushing her to do that," said Trimpe. "Her inside pres-ence is great. We've been getting on her about being physical inside and finishing through contact. So she's getting good rebounds, putting herself in a good position. She's a leader on the floor for us, and we're just going to keep pushing her to be better."

Hamilton Southeastern's Sydney Parrish (33) puts up a shot during the Royals' game with Carmel on Friday. Southeastern won 52-36, with Parrish scoring 31 points. Parrish is being defended by Bridget Dunn (5), who scored 15 points for the Greyhounds.

Parrish hit a jumper to end the half with the Royals ahead 22-18. As the third quarter began, Riley Pennington had some good minutes for the 'Hounds, scoring the first basket of the period, then a layin that got Carmel within one point, at 25-24.

But Southeastern answered with a 9-0 run. Parrish scored six of those points, with Ryan Viele also making a 3-pointer. Morris had hit a 3 earlier in the period.

While his seniors have been stepping up like they always do, Huppenthal was pleased with how his younger players are coming along.

"Mikayla Hinshaw just keeps get-ting better and better," said Huppenthal. "Lauren Morris is getting better with each game, gaining confidence shooting the ball. Ryan Viele comes off, hits a 3 for us in the second half. We got kids that continue to just grow into their roles and they're getting better."

Carmel made one last push late in the third quarter, getting the lead down to 36-32 after Dunn hit a layin. A putback from Parrish pushed Southeastern's advantage back up to 38-32 at the end of the period.

The Royals' defense then took over in the fourth, allowing the Greyhounds only four points. After Roper hit two free throws early in the period, the Royals finished the game on a 14-2 run. Morris and Parrish both made 3s; Morris totaled three 3-pointers for the game.

"I thought defensively, we played great," said Huppenthal.

Parrish scored 31 points, with Morris totaling nine points. Maulucci and Parrish each collected four rebounds and Maulucci dished out four assists.

Dunn was Carmel's top scorer with 15 points, and also led the rebounds with nine. Clarke collected seven rebounds and handed out four assists, with Hannah Lach also providing four assists.

"They just took us out of rhythm," said Trimpe. "They were physical. They're never out of position, they play hard, so that's a tough team to play against and we have some adjustments to make from it."

Southeastern is 7-1 and hosts Nobles-ville Wednesday in a Hoosier Crossroads Conference game. Carmel is 3-3 and travels to Lawrence North on Tuesday for a Metropolitan Conference game.

Balance helps Pacers overcome Hawks in OT

By WHEAT HOTCHKISS
Courtesy nba.com.pacers

The Indiana Pacers overcame a sluggish start and a one-man onslaught from Trae Young on Friday night.

Young scored 49 points and nearly single-handedly snapped Atlanta's eight-game losing streak. But in the end, the Pacers won once again with balance.

All five starters scored between 16 and 20 points for Indiana (12-6), as the Blue & Gold won their fifth straight game and swept a four-game homestand with a 105-104 overtime win over the Hawks (4-15).

Young was outstanding all night, but especially in the fourth quarter, when he scored 18 points and hit a contested layup with 11.5 seconds remaining to force overtime.

The Pacers drew first blood in the extra session, as Jeremy Lamb hit a step-back jumper on the first possession of overtime and then Myles Turner drilled a 3-pointer after a Young turnover to extend Indiana's lead to five.

Young got loose for his seventh three of the night at the 2:48 mark, then dished to Alex Len for the tying layup with 1:26 to play.

But the Pacers had an answer, as Domantas Sabonis dished to T.J. Warren in the left corner for the go-ahead 3-pointer with 1:13 remaining.

The Pacers got a pair of stops, as Young missed a 3-pointer and then DeAndre' Bembry missed a layup in transition. Malcolm Brogdon knocked down two foul shots with 10.9 seconds remaining to seal a hard-fought win for the home team.

Young finished with 49 points, adding one more 3-pointer at the buzzer for good measure. The second-year guard out of Oklahoma went 16-for-28 from the field, 8-for-15 from 3-point range, and 9-for-9 from the free throw line in the win.

"He's a different type of player, a special kid," Turner said. "He's talented, you have to tip your cap to him. He's going to be a great player in this league."

Lamb led Indiana with 20 points on 9-of-15 shooting, while Sabonis added 17 points and 12 rebounds.

The two teams went back and forth in the first quarter. Brogdon tallied eight points and four rebounds in the frame, but the visitors took a narrow 23-22 advantage into the second.

The Hawks opened up the first substantial lead of the night with a 14-1 run over a four-minute stretch in the second quarter. Young, who entered Friday's contest sixth in the NBA in scoring and third in assists, scored seven points and dished out two assists over that span.

Warren's breakaway dunk briefly stopped the bleeding, but the Hawks subsequently reeled off seven unanswered points, with Young's 3-pointer with 4:10 remaining in the half extending Atlanta's lead to 50-32.

The Blue & Gold managed to chip a few points off the deficit before halftime, but still entered the break in a bit of a post-Thanksgiving malaise, trailing by double digits at 54-43.

Lamb gave the home crowd a much-needed spark at the start of the second half. Lamb scored eight points as Indiana opened the third quarter with a 14-3 run.

"Stay with it, run off that turkey, and just keep going," Lamb quipped when asked the message to the team at halftime. "We had to pick up the pressure, we had to pick up the ball movement, and we just had to stay together."

The Pacers tied the game on four separate occasions in the third quarter, but didn't take the lead until Warren knocked down a step-back jumper with 1:50 left in the frame.

That bucket got the capacity crowd at The Fieldhouse to its feet and the Pacers gave them plenty of reasons to keep standing for the rest of the quarter. Warren scored again off a backdoor cut at 1:09 and then Turner buried a three from the top of the key off a kick-out from T.J. McConnell with 38.7 seconds left to give the home team a 72-65 lead entering the fourth quarter.

The Hawks clawed back at the start of the fourth quarter, with Young leading the way. The second-year guard scored eight points and drilled two 3-pointers as Atlanta opened the final frame with a 12-4 surge to move back in front.

After an Indiana timeout, Doug McDermott drilled a 3-pointer to put the home team back on top. Indiana then changed up its defense, double-teaming Young when he crossed halfcourt. The stunt worked, as the Pacers got two straight stops and converted on the other end with another McDermott triple and then a Justin Holiday layup.

Young came right back, scoring the last seven points of a 10-2 Hawks run to retake the lead.

Indiana quickly moved back in front, taking a 90-87 lead on Lamb's jumper with 4:11 remaining. But Young drew a foul and hit both free throws on the other end and then after a turnover by Lamb, drove through the Pacer defense and hit a tough layup over three defenders to give Atlanta a 91-90 lead with three minutes to play.

Lamb atoned for his mistake, hitting a jumper to put Indiana back in front with 2:04 remaining. Len hit one of two free throws to tie the game at 1:24, but he missed the second and Sabonis was fouled on the rebound. With the Pacers in the bonus, the 6-11 Lithuanian knocked down both free throws to give Indiana a 94-92 lead.

The Hawks had two chances to tie or take the lead, but DeAndre Hunter missed an open 3-pointer and then DeAndre' Bembry missed a contested layup in transition off a steal.

But after a Malcolm Brogdon turnover, Atlanta put the ball in Young's hands once again and he delivered, knifing through the defense for another layup to tie the game with 11.5 seconds remaining.

Brogdon had a shot to win the game at the buzzer, taking Hunter one-on-one, but missed a one-handed jumper from the right elbow, sending the game to overtime.

From there, Indiana was able to regroup and come out on top.

"You're going to have nights where you're not playing well, but you've got to find a way to win the game. That's the way it was for us all night long," Pacers head coach Nate McMillan said after the win. "We just kept grinding and finally got the lead late. They found a way to get this game."

Turner finished with 17 points, six rebounds, and four blocks in the victory. Brogdon added 16 points, six rebounds, and seven assists, while Warren also finished with 16 points.
