Mayor Jensen points to future of Noblesville's economy, infrastructure in inaugural address

Plans unveiled include two new downtown redevelopment projects

Submitted

Noblesville Mayor Chris Jensen delivered his inaugural "State of the City" address Thursday to a record-setting crowd at the Noblesville Chamber of Commerce luncheon at Embassy Suites' Conference Center. Jensen focused on "Noblesville's Next Chapter" and unveiled new economic development projects taking place in the city:

Jensen

- The City of Noblesville and Xanderco, LLC have agreed to partner on a new downtown redevelopment project. The Lofts at Tenth, a $7.7 million project, will add 31,700 square feet of mixed-use redevelopment along 10th Street between Clinton and Wayne streets. This project will increase the downtown livability and provide immediate density and energy along with 8,000 square feet of commercial and retail space. Unique below-street-level commercial and restaurant space keeps with the historic feel of the architecture.

- In an effort to connect downtown and west side, the Village at Federal Hill is a livable, walkable connection between downtown. The project consists of 163 living units, 36,000 square feet of commercial retail space and 437 proposed parking spaces with a combination of surface, on-street and structured garage spaces.

"The Village at Federal Hill is an investment in quality of life and sense of place to attract a diverse workforce," said Jensen. "It creates a vibrant, walkable mixed-use community that will attract both daytime and evening density to the downtown area and accommodates the city's need for additional parking on the west side of the White River while also serving new residential and commercial users."

- India-based Panacea plans to build a new 60,000 square-foot facility along the Interstate 69 corridor at 141st Street and Olivo Road in Noblesville. The company's North American headquarters plans to employ 65 full-time employees in the new headquarters by 2023. Panacea manufactures modern radiotherapy machines to diagnose and treat cancer. The groundbreaking is set to begin in summer 2020.

"The city, state and chamber's strong partnership continues to drive economic growth and cultivate an environment where companies feel welcomed and supported. Our administration's vision is to be proactive not reactive and attract businesses that make sense," said Jensen. "We as a community need to be proactive in going out and selling Noblesville and everything it has to offer."

Jensen also discussed the city's infrastructure and future road improvements – most notably the necessity to move forward on the expansion of Pleasant Street from State Road 37 to Hague Road.

"This project is priority No. 1 in terms of infrastructure going forward and I look forward to having a shovel in the ground and moving dirt within the next few years," he said. "We have talked about improving Pleasant Street since 1987. Now is time we act on all those years of discussion."

The city of Noblesville and the Indiana Department of Transportation have an infrastructure partnership for the construction of five new roundabout intersections to improve traffic flow throughout the community by enhancing east-west connectivity. The two-phase construction is scheduled to begin in 2021 with State Road 32 and 38 and the intersection of State Road 32

Noblesville Mayor Chris Jensen announced the future development of two projects: The Lofts at Tenth (top), which will add 31,700 square feet of mixed-use development, and The Village at Federal Hill (bottom), which will be located along the north side of State Road 32 between BlueSky Technology and Federal Hill Commons Park. See more photos from the event, courtesy of the Reporter's own Denise Moe, at ReadTheReporter.com.

and River Road. The other three will begin in 2023.

"These projects are a wise investment for our community and public safety. The improvements will make it easier for local residents and visitors to get where they need to be, when they need to be there," Jensen said.

This fall, the City of Noblesville made improvements at Seminary Park to reinvigorate its use and make it more user-friendly for the community and citizens in that area. Improvements included a new, larger gazebo and gazebo plaza; installation of Edison lighting; landscaping; new benches and tables; a metal archway into the park; and more shade trees, among other amenities.

Jensen introduced the Hobbs Station project, which will reintegrate the former train yard site back into Forest Park as a viable and attractive piece of the park. With 135 excursions planned in 2020 the increased potential for visitors to Forest Park for the train is over 25,000 people. This will allow Nickel Plate Express to operate out of Forest Park and make Noblesville the home of the train, again.

Other highlights of Jensen's State of the City speech include:

- NobleAct – Jensen announced the implementation of a paramedicine program, NobleAct, which will officially launch in March. The program utilizes current community, healthcare and public safety resources to proactively identify and assist the public with non-emergency needs, health issues, and strives to maintain a healthy community. NobleAct is a multipronged approach based on the Community Health Assessment, public safety data analysis, trending issues, stakeholder needs and citizen feedback.

- Logan Street Bridge – The City of Noblesville and Hamilton County recently widened the bridge over the White River to accommodate sidewalks on the north and south sides and constructed a new bridge deck. The joint project added a 150-foot river overlook along the south side of the bridge. Construction also included new lighting to the railings of the bridge, which will provide a scenic and secure connection between the Hamilton County Courthouse and Riverwalk trail on the east side of the bridge and the city's Federal Hills Commons park on the west side.

- Parking Pilot Proj- ect – The new parking pilot program is underway and now provides free parking available all day less than 500 feet from every downtown business. Many of these changes were suggested by downtown merchants, who played a key role in developing a balanced approach in the parking pilot after communicating their need for more parking availability.

- Alley Activation – The Noblesville Common Council allocated $80,000 and the Noblesville Economic Development has contributed $50,000 to support alley activation efforts. This project will add vibrancy and vitality to Downtown Noblesville, while developing iconic, one-of-a-kind experiences that can help define the community as a must-see destination and an incredible place to live.

Westfield reports fourth year of reduced crime rate

The REPORTER

On Thursday, the City of Westfield announced its crime rate decreased for the fourth consecutive year. This is key highlight in the Westfield Police Department 2019 Annual Report.

"Keeping our community safe is a priority," said Westfield Mayor Andy Cook. "I am confident in the men and women who make up the Westfield Police Department. Day in and day out, they show their dedication to protecting and serving this community. The fact that our crime rate decreased yet again is further proof of this commitment to excellence."

"As our department grows, we have shown that we can manage transition," said Westfield Police Chief Joel Rush. "Our team, whether they have been a member of the department for years or are new to the city, meets and exceeds the demands of being the fastest growing city in Indiana."

In 2019, Uniform Crime Reports (UCR) decreased, for the fourth year in a row, from 562 to 501.

UCR is a national statistical account of data on crime in a specific area conducted by the Federal Bureau of Investigations (FBI). Westfield also saw a decrease in homicides, burglaries, simple batteries and thefts.

The Westfield Police Department also reported on the continued success of the Police Substations and Directed Patrols program in partnership with Westfield Washington Schools. The goal of the program is to provide enhanced security and consistent police presence at all schools in the district by encouraging officers to visit a school substation in their assigned patrol district to complete office-related tasks.

Riverview Health says patients' names disclosed due to vendor mailing error

The REPORTER

Riverview Health is taking the appropriate steps to notify approximately 2,610 patients about a mailing error that may have exposed patient names. No Social Security numbers, financial information or bank account numbers were exposed.

Riverview Health engaged its printing-mailing vendor, Priority Press, to send out patient notification letters. On Jan. 14, Riverview Health discovered that the patient notification letters were sent to the correct patient addresses, but with a different patient's name. As a result, a letter intended for one patient may have been sent to another individual. These letters were sent on approximately Jan. 6.

These letters did not include any Social Security numbers, financial information, including credit or debit card numbers or bank account numbers. The letters were intended only to notify Riverview Health patients about a potential change to two primary care providers. These letters also did not include any medical information other than the fact that you may be a patient of one of Riverview Health's primary care providers.

Riverview Health is taking this matter very seriously and is identifying internal and external processes to prevent future occurrences. This includes reviewing methods in which Riverview Health and its vendors mail notifications to patients. Riverview Health believes that due to the very limited information contained in the patient notification letters, the risk of compromise or harm to patients is very low.

As required by federal law, Riverview Health is also notifying the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services Office for Civil Rights. Riverview Health patients impacted by this disclosure are also expected to receive letters in the mail notifying them of this incident within the next few days.

I was born and raised right here in Noblesville. I grew up in a home without domestic violence or assault – it wasn't something I saw, or even heard about. But when I was introduced to Prevail of Central Indiana, I was shocked by the number of individuals who are affected by domestic violence. In 2018 alone, Prevail helped more than 4,000 clients in Hamilton County. (Nearly 80 percent of clients are women and children.) Domestic violence and abuse are hard topics to discuss, so you don't often hear about them. But at Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville, we're breaking the taboo and raising awareness for Prevail, an organization that helps families in Hamilton County.

A good doctor is vital for the sandwich generation

I was beyond thrilled recently to discover and work with a new physician to help guide us along my mother's health-care path. We love this lady so much that my husband and I have switched to her!

For the sake of confidentiality, we'll call this physician "Dr. H."

We found Dr. H. through my mother's "angel," Michelle, who deserves an entire column or two. Michelle is a nurse who works in local assisted living facilities helping older folks and their families. She assists with various needs like doctor appointments and odds and ends that can be difficult to take care of when you're working full-time.

I'll be blunt – we haven't been thrilled with the doctor at the facility. Also, for the sake of confidentiality, we'll call this person "Dr. X." While Dr. X has been charming and funny working with Mom, he's done ... well ... I'll just say "diddly squat" for her (to put things as nicely as possible).

When my mom was having bladder issues, Dr. X just simply told her "don't worry about it." Really?

Who wouldn't worry when their bladder isn't working right? I was not pleased to say the least.

Thankfully we had already seen Dr. H a few times, so Michelle was able to take her for a visit. We are now on the path to some good answers for Mom's dilemma.

Dr. H truly listens to us and takes her time to understand Mom during each and every appointment. She weighs the best options for her treatment and discusses their pros and cons in simple language, helping Mom feel confident about her choices.

And, she delivers the not-so-fun news and directions to Mom that wouldn't go over well coming from me. Frankly, sometimes things are better received when a doctor tells your elderly parent to do something vs. when you do it!

We're visiting Dr. H now every three months, which gives my siblings and me tremendous peace of mind. We're not experts on the struggles and ailments of the elderly. At times it's hard to know what's normal and what we need to be concerned about. By seeing this delightful physician on a quarterly basis, our confidence has grown.

If you're taking care of an elderly parent and haven't found a good physician for him or her, I encourage you to do all you can to find someone you both trust and feel good about seeing regularly. It's one of the most loving, caring things you can do for your mom or dad and it helps lift a weight from your own shoulders as well.

And, PSST! Dr. H is accepting new patients. If you're local and would like more info, please email me at grantsavenue@gmail.com.

A proactive approach to mental health in schools

The health of our students reaches far beyond their physical wellness. We know some children struggle with mental health issues such as depression, anxiety, behavioral or emotional disorders.

According to the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, 15 percent of Indiana students between ages 12 and 17 years old reported having at least one major depressive episode during the 2015-2016 school year, compared to the national average of 13 percent. If these issues are not addressed, they could have a significant impacts on a child's education, health and safety. Mental health is the core of a student's well-being, and we must ensure local schools are equipped with the proper resources on behalf of their students.

This legislative session, I sponsored Senate Bill 246 that would require schools to contract with mental health providers in order to apply for grants from the Indiana Secured School Safety Fund. Money from this fund can be used to help pay for school-based mental health services among other programs relating to school safety. Under this bill, students would have improved access to mental and behavioral health services.

This proposed legislation builds on a law I sponsored last year creating a process for teachers and administrators to communicate with a student's parent or guardian about aberrant or abnormal behavior. With the guardian's consent, the school and family can work together and develop a plan to help the child receive needed services. Parents are involved in the decision-making process from the beginning through the end. If at any point they feel the services offered to their child are not appropriate or no longer needed, they can choose to not move forward.

This models a natural referral process schools already use to communicate problems to parents. From having difficulty paying attention in the classroom, to contemplating suicide or violence, our students face tough mental health challenges and more must be done to help.

After spending several years in the classroom, I have seen the impact mental health has on students and their academic performance. Making this professional help more readily available in our education system is a natural fit because most children spend a majority of their day at school. This proposed legislation furthers Indiana's commitment to ensuring schools have the resources they need to set students up for success.

Carmel reader calls on President Trump to stand up for persecuted Nigerian Christians

Dear Editor:

It probably comes as no surprise that Christians face oppression and persecution in many places around the world. North Korea, China and Iran have long been dangerous places for Christians to practice their faith. In the last decade or more, radical and extremist groups have also increased the level of violence against Christians.

What many do not know is that violence against Christians continues to escalate at an alarming rate in Africa's largest nation, Nigeria. Nigeria was recently delegated 12th on Open Doors World Watch List of most dangerous countries to be a Christian.

This violence has come largely at the hands of Fulani militants and Boko Haram terrorists. Just in the last few months, more than 300 Christians were murdered in Nigeria, an additional 200 were abducted, and approximately 3,700 Nigerians were displaced.

Every day, Christians in Nigeria live in fear because of their faith in God. The Nigerian government has done little to nothing to protect these innocent people, nor have Nigeria's strongest allies.

Americans must stand together in support for Nigerian Christians as they endure what many are describing as genocide. President Trump has benefitted greatly from the Christian vote in America and it is time for his administration to fulfill its promises to this community. President Trump and his administration can help now by formally recognizing the crisis in Nigeria, designating it a country of concern, and sending a special envoy to the nation.

Until our nation is able to stand alongside our Nigerian brothers and sisters in Christ with actions – not just words – thousands of innocent people will continue to be slaughtered for their religious beliefs.

The Trailblazers, ranked No. 5 in Class 2A, steadily took control of their Senior Night game with 3A Bishop Chard and won 59-50 in front of a near-capacity crowd at the U Center. With the victory, University notched its 20th win of the season, the third year in a row that the 'Blazers reached that mark.

University trailed 15-12 early in the second before a 7-0 run pushed the 'Blazers ahead 19-15. Camden Brown and Martin were good on layins, then Greenamoyer nailed his second 3 of the game. The Trojans scored consecutive baskets to tie it up at 19-19, but Greenamoyer responded by making another 3. That put University up 22-19 and the Trailblazers never trailed again.

Greenamoyer hit one more 3 before the half, and a layin by Jacob Sager gave University a 30-26 halftime lead. The Trojans got to within 32-31 early in the third, but another 7-0 run put the Trailblazers up 39-31. Brown started the run with an and-1, the Sam Mervis and Martin made layins.

"I think that's been the recipe for us all season," said Lafferman. "We really score by committee. Max has big nights, Joe has big nights. I thought we had really good minutes from Camden Brown in the fourth quarter and obviously defensively, I thought Korey and Jacob Sager were great and Sam Mervis did what he always does and controlled the game.”

University took a 43-38 lead into the fourth quarter and held that advantage for the entire period, leading from anywhere between four to 11 points. Martin's free throw with 4:16 on the clock gave the Trailblazers their first 10-point lead of the game, at 51-41.

Chatard made one last push, as Noah Carter hit a 3, then Edreece Redmond got a quick steal and basket, cutting University's lead in half, to 51-46. The 'Blazers were able to regroup, with Brown hitting two free throws. Then in a big play, Korey Ash-Simpson collected an offensive rebound, which turned into a basket from Greenamoyer to get University up 55-46. The Trailblazers ran out the game from there.

Greenamoyer finished the game with 20 points, including his four 3-pointers, and also pulled five rebounds. Martin totaled 15 points, five rebounds and four assists, while Camden Brown added 14 points, seven rebounds and three blocked shots. Sager had five rebounds, while Ash-Simpson had four rebounds.

"I think that's been the recipe for us all season," said Lafferman. "We really score by committee. Max has big nights, Joe has big nights. I thought we had really good minutes from Camden Brown in the fourth quarter and obviously defensively, I thought Corey and Jacob Sager were great and Sam Mervis did what he always does and controlled the game."

University is 20-4 for the season. The Trailblazers will head to Heritage Christian to compete in Sectional 42, playing Seccina at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the tournament's opening game.

Pacers take care of business against Blazers

By WHEAT HOTCHKISS
Courtesy nba.com/pacers

The Pacers know that if they want to climb up the Eastern Conference standings and make a charge for a top-four seed and homecourt advantage in the first round of the playoffs, they have to take care of business at home.

That's exactly what they did this week, following up Tuesday's 39-point drubbing of Charlotte with a 106-100 win over the Portland Trail Blazers on Thursday night at Bankers Life Fieldhouse.

Domantas Sabonis overcame first-half foul trouble to post his 45th double-double of the season with 20 points and 11 rebounds, Malcolm Brogdon added 17 points, five rebounds, and eight assists, and Victor Oladipo scored 12 of his 15 points in the second half as Indiana (35-

24) handled a Portland (26-34) squad without All-Star guard Damian Lillard.

After sweeping a two-game home-stand, Indiana will set out on a five-game road trip on Friday, making their two wins at the friendly confines of The Fieldhouse this week all the more important.

Indiana surged ahead midway through the first quarter of Thursday's contest with a 6-0 run and remained in front for the rest of the frame. T.J. Warren scored seven points in the first quarter and Domantas Sabonis added six as Indiana took a 30-24 lead into the second.

The Blazers scored the first five points in the second quarter to climb back within one. Then at 10:36, Sabonis was whistled for an offensive foul — his third foul of the night — when backing down Caleb Swanigan on the low block. Pacers coach

Nate McMillan challenged the call to try to get the foul rescinded, but the infraction stood after the replay review.

Portland moved in front on Swanigan's layup with 9:44 remaining in the first half. The two teams went back and forth for most of the rest of the half, though the Pacers scuttled offensively without their All-Star forward, managing just 13 points in the second quarter.

CJ McCollum scored eight straight points for the Blazers, then dished to Hassan Whiteside with 12.4 seconds left to give the visitors a six-point lead at the break.

After scoring just three points in the first half, Oladipo was noticeably more aggressive after halftime. The two-time All-Star attacked the paint early and often in the third quarter, drawing a foul and hitting both free throws at 10:05, converting a three-point play at 9:27, then converting a transition layup at 8:24.

Oladipo wasn't done there, either. He drilled a 3-pointer off a dish from Brogdon with 7:38 remaining in the frame to cap up a 9-0 run by the Pacers and tie the game at 60.

"For Victor to come out and do that was big," Justin Holiday said after the win. "Because we kind of got lulled to sleep at the end of that first half. It was big for us and obviously we rode that wave and continued on."

The Blazers scored the next five points to move back in front and led 70-64 before the Pacers strung together a 9-2 run — bookended by a pair of dunks from Myles Turner — to take their first lead of the half with 2:02 remaining in the third quarter.

McCollum's 3-pointer on the ensuing possession put the visitors back in front, but Aaron Holiday hit two free throws to tie the game and then his big brother Justin swished a triple from the left wing with 40.9 seconds left in the frame to put the Pacers back in front. Malcolm Brogdon's layup just before the buzzer gave the Blue & Gold an 80-75 lead heading into the fourth.

Sabonis took over in the final frame. The 6-11 Lithuanian went to work on the block, scoring eight of Indiana's first 12 points in the quarter, helping the Pacers extend their lead to double digits. Warren's layup with 6:56 remaining made it 94-82 and forced Portland coach Terry Stotts to call a timeout.

The Pacers looked to have the game in hand, but the Blazers made a late run. Portland trimmed the margin to seven on Trevor Ariza's 3-pointer with 1:20 to play, cut it to five on Whiteside's dunk with 53.9 seconds left, and got within three on McCollum's runner with 29.3 seconds remaining.

After a timeout, the Pacers ran a pick-and-roll with Brogdon and Sabonis. Sabonis caught the ball in the paint, but the defense quickly collapsed on him, so he kicked back out to Turner at the top of the arc. The fifth-year center stepped up and swished the game-sealing trey with 9.1 seconds left, quickly turning around with a right-handed fist pump as the ball dropped through the net.

"Domas requires a lot of attention, especially when he's down on the post," Turner said. "I tell him all the time, 'Once you turn your head, someone's going to come and help and most of the time, if it's not me, somebody's open.' He made a great pass, a great read, and I knocked down a big shot."

Warren finished with 15 points and five boards for Indiana, while Turner added 14 points, 10 rebounds, and two blocks. Justin Holiday chipped in 11 points off the bench, going a perfect 3-for-3 from 3-point range.

McCollum led all scorers with 28 points and eight assists, though he went just 3-for-12 from 3-point range. Gary Trent Jr. added 20 points, Whiteside tallied 18 points, 16 rebounds, and four blocks, while Carmelo Anthony had 12 points and seven boards.

Indiana tips off its five-game road trip on Saturday night in Cleveland, when they take on Kevin Love and the Cavs at 8 p.m.
