Holcomb declares major disaster for all 92 counties

WISH-TV | wishtv.com

Indiana Governor Eric Holcomb has ordered Hoosiers to hunker down for an additional two weeks. The announcement was made last Friday afternoon during Gov. Holcomb's daily press conference.

Holcomb had previously ordered Hoosiers statewide to stay at home for a two-week period, which was scheduled to end on April 7. He also extended the public health emergency through May 3.

"President Trump has just approved my request to declare a major disaster declaration for all of our 92 counties here in the state of Indiana," Holcomb said.

As of Friday morning, more than 100 Hoosiers have died from complications of COVID-19. The state reported its highest death count in 24 hours on Friday as well.

Hamilton County has 265 reported positive cases and four deaths.

"Today we unfortunately reached a milestone and surpassed 100 deaths from COVID-19 in our state," said

Schools closed for remainder of academic year

The REPORTER

Last Wednesday, Governor Eric Holcomb and Indiana Superintendent of Public Instruction Jennifer McCormick announced all K-12 schools will remain closed and provide remote learning for the remainder of the school year.

During the briefing, McCormick said high school seniors on track to graduate when facilities closed March 19 will be provided with the flexibility they need to earn an Indiana diploma. The Indiana public schools leader said high school seniors enrolled in the second semester will get credit toward graduation. Local districts would determine if middle schoolers and other high schoolers will earn credits.

School districts will be required by April 17 to submit "a continuous learning plan." McCormick later added that these learning plans will

Westfield mayor: Don't call police with social distancing concerns

By JENNY DREASLER

WISH-TV | wishtv.com

Westfield Mayor Andy Cook is stepping up and putting his foot down, saying the Westfield Police Department will not enforce social distancing guidelines.

Cook says police have "more important things to do."

The reason behind his move comes after residents complained to police.

"They were calling the cops and wanting them to do something about it and they have a lot more important things to do," said Cook.

State officials have asked people to call police with concerns about improper social distancing or the violation of "essential businesses" orders from Gov. Eric Holcomb.

Cook says his office has gotten some bizarre requests over the past week. Many complaints came in on Facebook, but some people in Westfield even called police dispatch

Carmel nursing home residents now getting tested for COVID-19

The REPORTER

Carmel Mayor Jim Brainard announced last Friday that the City of Carmel will begin coordinating COVID-19 testing at local assisted living facilities and nursing homes through Aria Diagnostics, a local lab, which has the ability to test large numbers of people quickly.

The tests are the same tests authorized by the CDC and can be repeated on a periodic basis. Last week, the City of Carmel began testing, in conjunction with Aria, all first responders and now all city employees.

"After consulting with medical practitioners and area hospital administrators about how to best use expanded testing capacity, it was recommended that we test nursing homes and assisted living facility staff. If a resident has already been identified as having the virus, then all the residents in that facility should be tested," Brainard said. "We are fortunate to have a local entrepreneur who has quickly converted his business to perform large numbers of these much-needed tests.

Step up, help with this year's election

McCormick said that the state will help school districts with remote learning plans and address "at risk" students.

address issues that districts are facing, and the state can then find ways to help districts in remote learning, addressing students "at risk," and other matters.

McCormick said districts will have to be creative and review options on what graduation ceremonies look like for high school seniors.

Hamilton Heights Superintendent Dr. Derrick Arrowood, in a letter to his staff, said, "I know this news is not a surprise given the gravity of the current situation. There is strong evidence to support the effectiveness of school closures as a means to mitigate the spread of COVID-19 and the reality is that these closures may be longer than expected, or imagined."

Following Governor Holcomb's announcement, Westfield Washington Schools issued a statement saying, "This news brings great sadness to our teachers and students who were planning to finish the school year together. This is not how we envisioned the end of our school year, however these unprecedented times demand our flexibility, understanding, and patience. This is certainly a learning moment for all of us."

In response to Governor Holcomb's order, Noblesville Schools issued a statement that said, "While we knew this was a real possibility, and important for the health and safety of our community, it's still sad and difficult for many of us to hear. Students may find this news upsetting so we encourage parents to provide emotional support, including utilizing our counseling resources, if needed."

The Governor's order also forces the cancellation of all spring high school athletics.

TESTING

"Our residents in nursing homes and assisted living homes are the most vulnerable citizens to COVID-19 and that is why we want to move quickly to help coordinate testing of their staff and residents. If this is done quickly it will save lives. Our goal is to stop the spread of the virus so that we can avoid overwhelming our health care workers and hospitals and give the scientific community time to develop treatments and eventually a vaccine."

The City is not paying for these tests for the private facilities, but there should be reimbursement under various federal laws for testing that is done.

New program from Westfield Fire will allow for treatment of some COVID-19 patients in their homes

The REPORTER

The Westfield Fire Department last Thursday launched its new Field Resource Paramedicine program. Field Resource Paramedics (FRPs) will respond 24/7 to high-level cardiac, trauma and mass casualty incidents, as well as low-acuity fire and medical incidents. The specially trained FRPs will use SUVs equipped with advanced life support equipment.

"This program is critical now more than ever," said Mayor Andy Cook. "Our team has been working for months to design this program, hire and train our FRPs. I am proud and the community should be proud of the innovation and commitment of care of the Westfield Fire Department."

"With the COVID-19 pandemic, putting these specially-trained paramedics in the field couldn't come at a better time," said Westfield Fire Chief Marcus Reed. "The expanded role of these experienced clinicians will be the connection between the patients and physicians. Our goal is and has always been to send the right resource with the right staffing to the right incident."

Photo provided

Westfield Fire EMS Division Chief Patrick Hutchison explained that this new program will allow patients with mild COVID-19 symptoms to be treated at home, thus easing some pressure on local hospitals.

The FRP program is an extension of the mobile integrated health program that began last year. The program is meant to prevent and manage chronic illnesses.

"In most cases, 911 dispatchers after talking to callers, send an FRP for select incidents," said program leader Westfield Fire EMS Division Chief Patrick Hutchison. "In the case of patients with mild symptoms suggestive of COVID-19, the crew will dispense medications to relieve symptoms and leave instructions for self-care. The team will follow-up by phone or house calls during the quarantine period. This allows the patient to be monitored at home. This helps support the state's stay-at-home order and relieves some pressure on local hospitals."

Westfield FRPs are also specially trained to respond to behavioral health emergencies. This new service will provide alternative transportation options and link patients with appropriate care. The addition of the mental health service is organized clinically and administratively within the Westfield Fire Department and will support goals of the Wellbeing Coalition of Westfield. FRPs will also serve as the internal EMS resource, providing technical expertise in operational situations and on-station educational programming developed by the Westfield EMS Division.

County residents encouraged to increase COVID-19 awareness with Smart911 app

The REPORTER

As Hamilton County responds to the spread of COVID-19, public health and safety officials strongly encourage the community to sign up for the Smart911 national safety profile registry. The free service allows individuals and families to provide critical medical information to 9-1-1 and first responders.

Hamilton County is launching the "Take Control, Let Us Know" campaign to empower the community to provide valuable and accurate health data that increases the awareness of 9-1-1 and first responders to an individual's risk level for COVID-19. "Participants can self-identify if they are under quarantine, and whether it is self-imposed or directed by a health professional," said Hamilton County Communications Executive Director Jeff Schemmer.

"The Smart911 App also allows quarantined individuals to receive check-in messages on their health status. Individuals who sign up will receive tailored alerts based on their specific needs and geographic location." to complain people were hoarding toilet paper at the grocery store.

He says others demanded Westfield police get involved when they believed social distancing requirements weren't being met and they wanted to see something done.

The mayor posted this statement to social media:

"The importance of our public safety teams is important now more than ever. As we navigate this new and temporary 'normal,' I want to be clear, Westfield

Police officers enforce laws, not social distancing guidelines or grocery store purchasing limits. It is my expectation that, in this crisis, we all work together to minimize the threat of exposure and follow the rules. We CANNOT have our police officers or firefighters exposed to the coronavirus. We need them saving lives and enforcing laws. If you have an issue at a particular store or situation, I would suggest you kindly speak to the store management or those involved and take your business elsewhere. There are extraordinary times. I ask for your patience and support."

Cook says the police force is busy focusing on other issues. He says domestic violence has gone up unfortunately during the "stay at home" order and police need to focus on matters such as that.

"I have got to protect them (police officers)," said Cook. "I can't have them unnecessarily mingling with the public, so to speak, and I don't mean that in a bad term. But look, they are our first responders."

He had some advice for people if they get frustrated.

"I think, with kindness, people can take care of those things, and you do it kindly but you also do it with your dollar. Hey, if that store isn't doing it right, then go some place else," said Cook.

The mayor says since he pulled out the message, the calls to police have decreased, but he still encourages everybody to use common sense and just be patient.

unemployment rates in the city of Fishers, but obviously, we now have industries that are devastated currently," Mayor Scott Fadness said. "Whether it's the restaurant or hospitality industry, a lot of those service workers are currently out of jobs and we want to make sure we can tie them to other employment that's available."

Fishers plans to do that through an online spreadsheet they're calling a "virtual job fair." Places in need of workers can specify what type of business they are, how to contact them, and what exactly they're looking for. This way, everything job seekers need is all in one place.

"We know that there are a lot of people being displaced during this difficult time from their employment, but at the same time, there are industries that are in dire need of employees to meet the needs," Fadness said. "So we wanted to connect those two and we have a great relationship with our local business community, so we reached out to them and said 'Who of you are looking to hire?' and 'Hopefully we can tie you to some people who are in need of jobs.'"

Out of the 17 places on the virtual job fair today, the majority of them are designated as food service, retail and grocery – the places you'd expect to still be open. But Mayor Fadness says there's no limit to what jobs can go on there, especially as restrictions lift or tighten.

"During these difficult times, we've got to be innovative, we've got to be creative," Fadness said. "We've got to adapt. We've got to move people around, move businesses around, and really try to meet the needs of a very changing, very fluid dynamic, so that's what we're doing right now."

If you're a business in need of workers, or an employee looking for work, you can access the virtual job fair at fishers.in.us/1142/Virtual-Job-Fair.

In accordance with recommendations made by the Governor’s office and the CDC, Cicero has put the following procedures in place effective immediately. On April 6, the town planned to re-evaluate risk exposure to determine extending these procedures.

- The Town of Cicero is restricting public access to all town buildings. Each department will remain open and will be able to address questions and concerns.

- Payments to the Town of Cicero for utilities or transaction made through the Clerk-Treasurer’s office should be made using the drop payment box located at the Town Municipal Building, located at 331 E. Jackson St. Questions can be sent to the Clerk-Treasurer’s office at (317) 984-4900.

- No public meetings were scheduled before April 6. Please feel free to contact any council person with any questions regarding town business or concerns.

- All town parks and shelters will remain open to be used by the public at its discretion.

- The building permit application can be submitted online at ciceroin.org or you can email Cicero/Jackson Township Plan Commission Director C.J. Taylor at ctaylor@townof-cicero.in.gov, or you may call the Plan Commission office directly.

- All Town-provided utilities such as trash, recycling, water and sewer, as well as maintenance of streets and sidewalks, will continue to be provided.

- The Town of Cicero Police Department and the Town of Cicero Fire Department will continue to operate as usual and will continue to provide for the safety needs of the Cicero community.

- If you or your organization scheduled a meeting or an event at any town buildings, those will need to be canceled and rescheduled when the Town Council approves opening these back up to the public.

COUNTY OF HAMILTON) CAUSE NO.: 29D01-2003-AD-531 IN THE MATTER OF THE ADOPTION OF) MALACHI ANTHONY MOSS, MINOR)
NOTICE TO UNNAMED FATHER
The unnamed putative father of the child born to Andria Bennett, or the person who claims to be the father of Malachi Anthony Moss born to Andria Bennett on December 3, 2009 in Davenport, Florida, is notified that a Petition for Adoption of the child was filed in the Office of the Clerk of the Hamilton County Superior Court, 1 Hamilton County Square, Noblesville, Indiana 46060.
If the unnamed putative father seeks to contest the adoption of the child, the unnamed putative father must file a motion to contest the Adoption in accordance with I.C. 31-19-10-1 in the above-named Court within thirty (30) days after the date of service of this Notice. This Notice may be served by publication.
If the unnamed putative father does not file a motion to contest the Adoption within thirty (30) days after service of this Notice the above-named Court will hear and determine the Petition for Adoption. The unnamed putative father's Consent is irrevocably implied and the unnamed putative father loses the right to contest the adoption or the validity of the unnamed putative father's implied consent to the adoption. The unnamed putative father loses the right to establish paternity of the child under I.C. 31-14.
Nothing Andria Bennett or anyone else says to the unnamed putative father of the child relieves the unnamed putative father of his obligations under this notice.
Under Indiana law, a putative father is a person who is named as or claims that he may be the father of a child born out of wedlock but who has not yet been legally proven to be the child's father.
This Notice complies with I.C. 31-19-4-4, but does not exhaustively set forth the unnamed putative father's legal obligations under the Indiana adoption statutes. A person being served with this Notice should consult the Indiana adoption statutes.

IHSAA cancels spring sports season

The IHSAA announced the cancellation of the 2020 spring sports season last Thursday.

The announcement came shortly after Indiana Governor Eric Holcomb announced that all K-12 schools in the state would remain closed for the school year, instead using remote learning. The announcement came around 2:30 p.m., and the IHSAA released the following statement just before 4 p.m.

“The Indiana High School Athletic Association staunchly supports our Governor, our State Commissioner of Health and our State Superintendent of Public Instruction in their herculean efforts during the COVID-19 pandemic. We are extremely fortunate in Indiana to have these exemplary leaders providing guidance and care to all Hoosiers.

“With the announcement today of the closure of K-12 schools throughout Indiana for the remainder of the school year, the IHSAA announces the cancellation of all spring sports tournament series events for the 2019- 20 school year.

“It is imperative that our students, coaches, officials, administrators and parents be encouraged in every manner to adhere to the guidance provided by our leadership. The Association understands the extreme seriousness of this pandemic and joins in support of current measures being implemented as well as future considerations. In unwavering support yet with extreme sadness, we must cancel our spring sports programming. We join all Hoosiers in anticipation of a triumphant homecoming back to our schools in the fall of 2020 complete with a full complement of IHSAA sports.

“The Association continues to remind its member schools and the general public to follow the guidance of the governor and the Indiana State Department of Health via IN.gov/coronavirus.”

Schools were originally set to open up on May 4, and there was hope that an abbreviated spring sports season could still take place. The IHSAA’s announcement left student-athletes, coaches and administrators across the state sad and disappointed that no one, especially the seniors, would be able to play for their schools.

Westfield athletic director Andy Tebbe posted a message on the school’s athletic website expressing his thoughts about the cancellation and empathizing with those who are being affected “physically and emotionally” by the COVID-19 pandemic and the toll it is taking.

“Our spring sport student-athletes and coaches find themselves living in an empty promise,” said Tebbe. “The promise of competing for championships, the promise of showcasing their improved skills and abilities that were developed over the past year, and the promise of playing a sport they have loved their entire lives. I wish I had answers or the right words to help you navigate through this experience. And for our senior student-athletes, this broken promise is tenfold.”

The Noblesville softball Twitter account (@MillerSoftball) posted a tweet that celebrated the team’s two seniors, Chloe Tragesser and Rylie Moore. “Thank you for everything you have given to the program. The foundation you helped establish will be seen in many player’s future,” it said.

The Hamilton Southeastern baseball team was to enter the season as defending Class 4A state champions. A tweet from the team’s Twitter account (@HSERoyalsBase) thanked the senior players and their families, saying they have “left an incredible mark on our program and we thank you for it.”

High school sports, like most sports across the country, have been at a standstill since mid-March. The cascade began after an NBA player tested positive for COVID-19, setting off the wave of postponements and cancellations across professional, college and

JR Moffatt to receive IBCA Assistant Coach of the Year award

Hamilton Heights’ JR Moffatt is one of four Indiana high school assistant basketball coaches who will receive special awards from the Indiana Basketball Association in 2020.

Moffatt, a longtime assistant for the Huskies boys basketball team, and North Putnam girls basketball assistant Jim Brothers will receive awards as IBCA Assistant Coaches of the Year. Columbus North girls basketball assistant coach RaNae Isaak and Speedway boys basketball assistant Jim Merlie each will be recognized with a Point Guard College Transformational Coach Award as presented by the IBCA.

This is the third year that the IBCA is recognizing assistant coaches with an award. The awards are going to two coaches who have contributed in a significant way to their respective schools’ athletic programs for more than 30 years apiece.

These awards typically are presented during the IBCA’s annual clinic during April, but this year’s clinic has been postponed from the original April 24-25 dates. The coaches will receive the awards at a date to be determined.

Moffatt said that when he first got the email telling him he had won the award, he thought it was a joke.

“The guys around here joke about me being a forever freshman coach,” said Moffatt. “I didn’t realize that there was such a recognition. When it registered, my first thought was that there are so many more really, really good varsity and JV assistants that I was shocked that it would go to a freshman coach. I’ve joked that the only ones who care about freshman basketball are the players and the parents.

“I do feel humbled and honored, though. Hamilton County is a great area for younger level basketball. I feel it’s really important to coach skill development and good habits at a young age. I always tell our guys that it’s vital to create good habits because when you are under stress and pressure it’s human nature to gravitate to your habits. We hammer that pretty hard in everything we do in every practice.

“I have been the beneficiary of being given a great deal of freedom to invest a part of my life in this. My wife Leigh Ann is a great support, I’m fortunate that she caught on to this basketball thing since she hails from the football state of Oklahoma. My son Zac (24) played for me and daughter Shanna (18) was our game announcer this past season.”

BEYOND WINS AND LOSSES

Moffatt has been the freshman team coach and a boys basketball program assistant at Hamilton Heights High School for 31 seasons, long teaching the fundamentals of sports and life to help young student-athletes excel on the court, in the classroom and in the world.

“The impact that coach Moffatt has on his players extends way beyond the wins and losses on the court,” said Edgewood boys basketball coach Matt Wadsworth, who submitted the nomination for Moffatt for this award. “Anyone who plays for coach Moffatt has a friend and mentor for life. Coach Moffatt is now at a stage in his career where he is coaching former players’ sons. It would be very difficult to find a player who didn’t enjoy playing for Coach Moffatt. He has used coaching as a way to instill the values needed to help boys grow into young men.

“Although he has the experience and ability to advance past the freshman level as a coach, he never has had a strong desire to move up. One reason for this is the importance he puts on the teaching of fundamentals. He feels it is important that one of the program’s best coaches is at the freshman level in order to help develop skills. . . . He has always had the ability to challenge and push his players to improve. This is possible be each player knows how much he cares for them.”

Moffatt has worked with three varsity coaches during his time with the Huskies – Kirby Overman for two seasons, Bill Bowen for 16 seasons and Chad Ballenger for 13 seasons. Officially, he has been the freshman team coach while helping with the varsity and JV teams for all these years. Unofficially, he has been a mentor to the coaches, too.

“The ones really that share this and are maybe even more responsible for it are Bill Bowen who I really cut my teeth under for 16 years,” said Moffatt. “Chad Ballenger who trusted me enough to allow me to continue when he came 13 years ago. Also, I’ve had three tremendous assistants over all these years in Eric King, Brian Kuhn and Bret Deckard. Those guys have been great friends and great help. They serve a vital role in helping me stay grounded when I expect things to be perfect and in ‘patching our players back up’ after I ‘tell them they weren’t perfect.’ I’m pretty old school in my approach with one twist, I coach ‘em hard but I try to love ‘em even harder. I try to get them to believe and trust themselves to do some things that maybe they’ve never believed that they could do. Helping players to realize that they have intrinsic value and helping them to understand how they fit and to cherish their role, no matter what that role is. I’ve gotten to work with good friends like Matt Wadsworth (former HH JV coach and current Head coach at Edgewood HS) who was a part of me receiving this award.”

DRIVEWAY CONVERSATIONS

“J.R.’s relationship with the coaches at Hamilton Heights is also important,” Wadsworth said. “J.R. was Bill Bowen’s next-door neighbor when Bill was the head coach. After a difficult loss or a bad day at practice, many conversations and words of encouragement were shared in Bill’s driveway.”

Hamilton Heights athletic director Kurt Ogden also is aware of Moffatt’s impact, noting that he also has served the community as a pastor at Arcadia Christian Church since 1987.

“Nobody knows the culture of our school and community better,” Ogden told the Hamilton County Reporter in 2017.

“That is my full time calling,” said Moffatt. “The guys here at ACC felt early that it was important that I involve myself in the community, I played in college and love

Claire Graves helps make impact for Iowa women's soccer team

By RICHIE HALL

It can be a satisfying feeling for a senior athlete when she knows that she helped to get it moving in the right direction.

Claire Graves knows that feeling. The Noblesville graduate just completed her women’s soccer career at the University of Iowa, and she and her senior classmates definitely made an impact. The Hawkeyes had a spectacular season in 2019, finishing 15-5-1, qualifying for the NCAA Tournament and at one point earning a national ranking (21st) during the regular season.

“I am so proud of our growth and leadership, and I think it shines through the wins we were able to rack up,” said Graves.

Meanwhile, Graves accumulated an impressive set of individual numbers. She set a new record for career wins (38) and moved into second-place all time for career shutouts (24.5) and fourth all-time for career saves (236).

“I’m proud of a lot that I’ve accomplished during my four years at Iowa, but I think I’m most proud of achieving the record for winningest goalkeeper in school history,” said Graves. “When I got to Iowa, the team was going through a rebuild period and we weren’t ‘supposed’ to be good for a few years. But the class of players I entered the program with completely turned things around. My record for wins directly represents what my class was able to do on the field together.”

Graves had to make an immediate impact for Iowa, as she started in every game during her freshman and sophomore seasons. She did well as a freshman, getting four shutouts while posting an 8-11 record and finished fifth in the Big Ten Conference that season with 73 saves.

In her sophomore season, Graves improved her goal against average (GAA) from 1.59 to 1.21, finishing the season 9-8-2. She again finished fifth in the Big Ten in the saves category with 75.

Graves believes that her personal legacy is related to the goalkeepers and the goalkeeper culture on the team.

“I was super lucky to have had a great group of goalkeepers to train with every day,” she said. “We loved showing up and having fun with one another, but that wasn’t something that existed when I got to Iowa.

“When I showed up to school, I was a freshman starter who didn’t know which way was up and didn’t really have any sort of camaraderie. But by the end of my career, every field player wished they were part of our training group because of how hard we worked and how much we supported one another. Those girls are some of my best friends, which isn’t always the case for goalkeepers. It’s something I hope continues because it’s a huge part of what made me the player I was.”

Graves made another big jump during her junior season, where she posted a 7-3-2 record and dropped her GAA to 0.86. That year, she was named the first ever Big Ten Goalkeeper of the Week, receiving the award on Aug. 21, 2018. Graves earned that award after getting two shutouts to open the season.

Graves started all but one game during her senior season, finishing with a 14-5-1 record. She earned another Big Ten Goalkeeper of the Week award on Sept. 10 and was an Honorable Mention for the Top Drawer Soccer National Team of the Week during that same period; she picked up two more shutouts, including a big one over North Carolina State, whom Iowa beat 1-0. NC State was ranked No. 14 in the nation at the time.

That win was part of a long win streak, one that culminated in a big win for Iowa on Sept. 20 at Indiana University.

“As much as this may not be a popular memory among the Indiana readers, beating IU at IU my senior year was a game that stands out,” said Graves. “I made two crucial saves to keep the shutout for my team, allowing us to win our ninth game in a row to start the season.”

The Hawkeyes won that game 2-0 over the Hoosiers to win their Big Ten opener. Iowa would go on to finish 7-3-1 in the conference.

“I was particularly proud of the saves, but what I enjoyed most was stepping off the field and seeing all of my friends and family from home,” said Graves. “I’ve been extremely lucky to have had my parents at nearly all of my games throughout my career, but for my high school friends to be there in support was really special for me. (Also, I grew up a Boiler, so it was fun to beat the Hoosiers.)”

While Graves was putting together a solid list of accomplishments on the field, her resumé off the field is just as impressive. She has made the Dean’s List every semester at Iowa. Graves also was named to the President’s List both semesters of her junior year, in addition to the first semester of her senior year. Graves also received Academic All-Big Ten and Big Ten Distinguished Scholar honors as well, and was named to the First Team United Soccer Coaches Scholar All-North Central Region in her senior year.

This past fall, Graves was named Iowa’s recipient for the Big Ten Sportsmanship Award.

“It was a really amazing honor that I feel lucky to have received,” said Graves. “I appreciate the coaches and staff in the Big Ten who felt I represented the Iowa Hawkeyes in a manner worth recognizing.

“I love competition and fighting to be the best in the moment, but at the end of the day this experience is so unique that myself and the other women playing soccer in the Big Ten get to have. We are all a family and treating one another as such has become really important to me.”

As for the future, Graves is applying to medical schools. When asked if she has picked one yet, Graves noted that seems to be the question she gets most these days.

“Conversations with family and friends went from where I would play soccer to where I’m going to medical school in the blink of an eye,” said Graves. “However, I have not yet made a decision. I’ve been fortunate to have been accepted into a handful of schools, so I’m sorting through those options still. Most likely, I will end up in New York or Cincinnati! As for specialty, I’m keeping my options open, but Cardiology is what I’m leaning toward.”

Claire Graves was part of a senior class that made a big impact for the University of Iowa women's soccer season this year. Graves graduated with the most career wins, helping the Hawkeyes to a 15-5-1 record and an appearance in the NCAA Tournament.

the game. Heights needed someone, I was available, my first game was at Sheridan, and well, I just finished my 31st season. It's pretty crazy really, seems like it's gone really fast."

For Wadsworth, a North Daviess graduate who previously has coached at Riverton Parke (2007-08), North Posey (2008-12) and Whiteland (2012-19), Moffatt's support has been personal.

"J.R. has served as a mentor and friend to my wife and me," Wadsworth said. "He has been there to support and encourage me throughout my life and each step of my coaching career. One of the most difficult times of my life was when my wife had a miscarriage. The emotional support provided by J.R. was critical for helping my wife and me get through this time. In addition, he has traveled across the state to watch my teams play. Many times, he has shown up to offer encouragement when we were struggling."

Moffatt has helped students and adults in times of need.

"Whenever a player loses a parent, J.R. is there to help counsel the player through the difficult time," Wadsworth said. "Unfortunately, there have been times that it has been the other way around. When a former team manager passed away in a tragic accident, J.R. was there to help the parents overcome the grief they were experiencing. ... I do not think that words can fully describe the impact that he has had on players, coaches and parents at Hamilton Heights."

Moffatt is a 1983 graduate of Columbus East High School, where he played basketball for coach Roger Reed and baseball for coach Lou Giovanini. His Olympian baseball teams finished 30-4 and 28-5 in his junior and senior seasons. Moffatt went on to Cincinnati Christian University, where he earned a bachelor's degree in Christian ministries and also played basketball and baseball. His CCU basketball squads, under coach Tony Wallingford, captured National Christian College Athletic Association national championships in 1985, 1986 and 1987.

"I am humbled, honored and a little bit embarrassed because there are so many really good coaches out there," said Moffatt. "I'm thankful for the HH administration who allows me to invest in this way. I'm thankful that God has granted me the health to continue. I'm so, so thankful for so many players who are still my friends today, guys who have families that I see in church every Sunday and guys who I see at games when they come back into town to visit family for the holidays."

In addition to coaching basketball, Moffatt has coached baseball at Hamilton Heights. He was the Huskies' varsity baseball coach in 2018 and 2019 after serving the two previous years as an assistant coach in that program.

The IHSAA was in the middle of the boys basketball tournament at the time, but it was suspended just before the March 14 regionals. After that, several schools closed and switched to remote learning, prompting the cancellation of the tournament. The last high school sporting event of the year, therefore, was the gymnastics state finals, which was conducted March 14 in an empty Worthen Arena at Ball State University.

Last Tuesday, Indiana University announced it had canceled all on-campus events through July 31. That included the IHSAA state track and field and state Unified track championships, which have been taking place at IU since 2004.

LACROSSE SEASON CANCELED

Also last Thursday, the Indiana High School Lacrosse Association and the Indiana Girls Lacrosse Association announced that seasons in the sport of lacrosse were also canceled. Lacrosse operates separately from the IHSAA.

The two organizations issued a joint statement that was posted on Twitter Thursday afternoon. "We hoped this day would never come, but like so many other professional and collegiate sports, we must do what is in the best interest of our players, coaches, and fans' safety during this unprecedented pandemic," the statement said.

PREVAIL

Advocating for Victims of Crime and Abuse

www.prevailinc.com

I was born and raised right here in Noblesville. I grew up in a home without domestic violence or assault – it wasn't something I saw, or even heard about. But when I was introduced to Prevail of Central Indiana, I was shocked by the number of individuals who are affected by domestic violence. In 2018 alone, Prevail helped more than 4,000 clients in Hamilton County. (Nearly 80 percent of clients are women and children.) Domestic violence and abuse are hard topics to discuss, so you don't often hear about them. But at Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville, we're breaking the taboo and raising awareness for Prevail, an organization that helps families in Hamilton County.

– Mike Bragg, GM of Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville

To help Hamilton County families affected by domestic violence and sexual abuse, you can donate the following items:

- Art supplies (for children to journal and express their emotions)
- Bottled water (8 oz. bottles, preferably)
- Individually packaged snacks
- Gas cards (many women have no access to funds after fleeing their abuser)

Drop off items at Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville, 14701 Tom Wood Way.
