County's COVID-19 death rate likely higher than reported

By JEFF JELLISON
Reporter Publisher

Hamilton County health officials announced Monday that the county's COVID-19 death rate could be nearly three times more than reported.

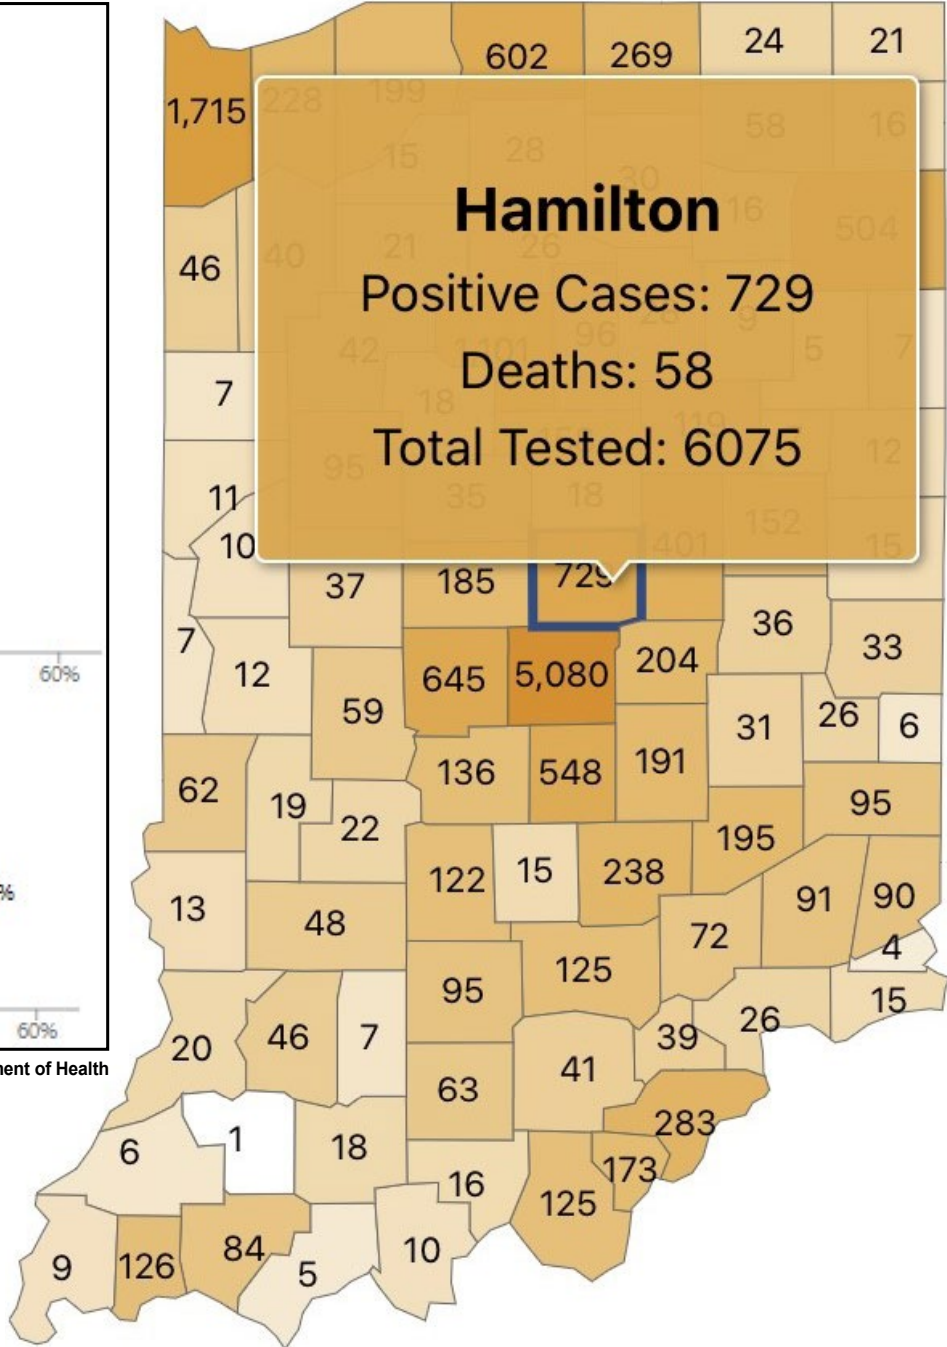

Chris Walker of the Hamilton County Health Department said in an interview with Hamilton County Communications Director Tammy Sander that probable COVID-19 deaths are not included in the confirmed deaths being reported. Probable COVID-19 deaths are physicians attributing COVID-19 to the cause of death, but not having an actual test done on the patient. According to Walker, doctors can look at X-rays and CT scans of the patient and determine without a test that most likely COVID-19 was a cause of death.

On Tuesday, the Indiana State Department of Health reported 58 confirmed COVID-19 deaths in the county. In addition, the state reported 91 total COVID-19 probable deaths, bringing the county's death count to a potential total of 149 people.

According to Walker, Indiana should be seeing the peak in COVID-19 this week. "Looking at the numbers quickly it looks like we might be hitting that."

Walker also said the county is now working with municipalities to find the right way to get people back to work and open up the local economy.

"Be patient and understand this is a process," Walker said. "The target is moving. We may open up business, we may open it up and find that we need to take a step back, reevaluate and reassess, and attack it again."

Fishers launches Start-Up and Recovery Loan Program

The REPORTER

The City of Fishers on Monday released the application for its small business Start-Up and Recovery Loan program. Loan applications will be accepted through 11:59 p.m. on Saturday, May 2.

"Small businesses are at the heart of what makes Fishers a vibrant city," said Fishers Economic Development Director Megan Baumgartner. "We are working alongside all businesses large and small to make sure they're opening safely when that time comes. This loan program is a step forward to help the businesses that will struggle with the operating costs associated with re-opening under the new normal."

The City will allocate up to $500,000 toward the loan program. Eligible small businesses are identified businesses that employ 25 or fewer full-time employees and indicate at least one of the following:

- Designated as non-essential under Governor Holcomb's stay-at-home Executive Order

- Unable to adapt their business model to sustain existing revenue during the COVID-19 pandemic
- Essential businesses that had to furlough or lay off 50 percent or more of their workforce as a result of COVID-19
- Must be able to demonstrate a direct correlation of their business disruption due to COVID-19

The Start-Up and Recovery Loan program applications will be accepted now through 11:59 p.m. on Saturday, May 2. The loan applications may not exceed $15,000. Loans will have a 1 percent interest rate over a three-year period. Businesses will receive a deferral of repayment for six-months following disbursement.

Three Carmel roundabout projects start this week

The REPORTER

Roundabout construction projects will temporarily close three Carmel intersections this week as spring roadwork begins to ramp up. With COVID-19 restrictions still in place, the City hopes to take advantage of fewer cars on the roads to get the work completed as quickly and safely as possible.

Main Street & Guilford Road

Work crews will return to this roundabout to complete paving at the intersection, which was substantially completed last fall. Work began this week and will last for about two weeks, weather permitting.

Carmel Drive & Pennsylvania Street

A new roundabout will be constructed to replace the current signalized intersection. Work began this week and will last approximately 60 days, weather permitting.

Range Line Road & Carmel Drive

The City will install raised pedestrian crosswalks at each crossing point to enhance safety for both pedestrians and motorists. Work will begin on or after Friday, May 1, and the closure will last about two weeks, followed by about three more weeks of additional work that will cause lane restrictions.

Index Rank is #2 in the state (#1 in public schools) and #375 in the nation. In fact, on a national level, our College Readiness Index (based on the number of seniors who take and pass at least one AP exam) ranks us in the top 2 percent of ALL schools nationwide. The College Curriculum Breadth Index (based on the number of seniors who took multiple AP exams) rank puts us in the top 2.5 percent in the nation.

"While achieving state and national rankings is not our primary goal, it is a great opportunity for us to see that what we do at Westfield High School is indeed pre-

I was born and raised right here in Noblesville. I grew up in a home without domestic violence or assault – it wasn't something I saw, or even heard about. But when I was introduced to Prevail of Central Indiana, I was shocked by the number of individuals who are affected by domestic violence. In 2018 alone, Prevail helped more than 4,000 clients in Hamilton County. (Nearly 80 percent of clients are women and children.) Domestic violence and abuse are hard topics to discuss, so you don't often hear about them. But at Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville, we're breaking the taboo and raising awareness for Prevail, an organization that helps families in Hamilton County.

New Brave of Heart Fund to benefit families of U.S. healthcare workers

The REPORTER

The Cigna Foundation and New York Life Foundation have launched the Brave of Heart Fund to provide monetary grants to survivors of front-line U.S. healthcare workers who give their lives in the fight against COVID-19. Families of doctors, nurses, technicians, orderlies, cafeteria workers, custodians, volunteers and others working on the frontlines of healthcare during the COVID-19 pandemic are eligible to apply for support from the Brave of Heart Fund.

The Cigna Foundation and New York Life Foundation each are making initial contributions of $25 million to seed the Brave of Heart Fund. The New York Life Foundation will also match the first $25 million of additional individual donations received. The companies hope to raise more than $100 million to protect these families from financial hardship and provide behavioral and emotional support. The Fund will be administered by the non-profit E4E Relief.

"I would like to thank the Cigna Foundation and New York Life Foundation for launching the Brave of Heart Fund to benefit families of frontline U.S. healthcare workers, including those in Indiana who lost their lives due to the COVID-19 pandemic, and for providing their families with financial and emotional support," said Indiana Department of Insurance Commissioner Stephen W.

Robertson.

Both Cigna and New York Life serve Indiana consumers with insurance products regulated by the Indiana Department of Insurance.

Individuals and corporations can donate to the Brave of Heart Fund by visiting braveofheartfund.com. The Fund will be ready to accept applications for its first grants in May 2020.

Beth Henderson named to NRCC Young Guns program

Submitted

The National Republican Congressional Committee announced Monday that Beth Henderson, Republican candidate for Congress in Indiana's 5th District, has been named to the Young Guns Program. The program identifies strong Republican challengers and provides support and guidance for their campaigns.

"These candidates are instrumental in helping Republicans reclaim the House majority," said House Republican Leader Kevin McCarthy. "With their continued hard work and dedication, Republicans will be one step closer to sending the socialist Democrats packing in November."

"It's an honor to be named an NRCC Young Gun," said Henderson. "This announcement is another sign of our strong momentum in this race as we head into the homestretch. 5th District Republicans are responding to our message and know that my conservative values and experience as a nurse, business owner, and farmer is the right fit for our district."

The NRCC's Young Guns program requires can-

Letter to the Editor

The Church has left the building

Dear Editor:

If you think churches are buildings where people gather for Sunday worship as they have since before Indiana became a state in December 1816, you would be correct. However, you may also be susceptible to the danger of stereotyping and minimizing the place of the Christian church as an enduring institution of American Society.

The Church is far more than a gathering place represented by brick and mortar dotting the landscape in every county in Indiana. My experience is rooted in The United Methodist Church but is only representative of the many denominational expressions of the Christian church, along with a host of other religious bodies that deserve more than a drive-by superficial definition as places of worship.

As Bishop of The United Methodist Church of Indiana, I have traveled across the state visiting many of the 1,066 United Methodist Churches in Indiana. Because of the global coronavirus pandemic, worship services have been relegated to online platforms like Facebook Live, YouTube, and Zoom. For many of our smaller congregations, this was their first time offering their worship experience to a wider audience.

We miss being together in worship. We are not designed for confinement. We are hungry for community as expressed in coming together for singing, preaching, talking and human touch. I hope we go back to gathering for worship, but I pray we are never the same. Maybe some of those drive-in services with cars in parking lots should be maintained, along with online offering for more to find community where radical hospitality and meaningful worship are not reserved for insiders but all people.

What I have witnessed and celebrated is how many of our churches are also childcare sites, with church-operated daycares or afterschool programs. Hundreds of churches are feeding places for people to get much-needed groceries or a hot meal. Clothing pantries, free or reduced-price thrift shops, or in some counties the Church has one of the few available meeting places for community meetings.

Who is responding to the opioid crisis and providing a meeting place for Narcotics Anonymous or Alcoholics Anonymous? Twenty-six chapters of “A Better Life, Brianna’s Hope” (a response to the opioid crisis) meet in many of the United Methodist Churches across this state. Our pastors serve as chaplains for local fire departments, police departments and crisis counselors. Dozens of churches have formal and informal relationships with local school districts and schools that are often only hundreds of feet or less from the church buildings. Churches major in prayers for the teachers of our communities but also first responders, healthcare workers, researchers, bus drivers, store clerks, restaurant owners and workers who are representative of many of those who make up the Church.

As I write this article, persons who will never be known are making protective masks to provide for those who need them, writing notes of support and encouragement to children and adults. The Church is alive and well as long as we are able to continue to be part of the social and spiritual safety net in Indiana.

The history of America includes the Church as a planter of institutions of higher education, establishment of community hospitals to meet healthcare needs of the underserved. The establishment of children’s homes for orphaned children, promoting foster care and adoption out of a belief that every child deserves a safe and secure place to live and flourish.

From the cradle to the grave, churches with the clergy and laity who are part of these communities care for, abide with, and bless our families in ways that bring sanctity and sanity to our lives in times of jubilation and crisis. Two weeks ago, I prayed with and for a pastor who lamented because he could not be present with a senior member who died of COVID-19. Lord, have mercy as we remain resilient in sharing grace and compassion in this season.

Yes, the churches are challenged because we are employers, and we depend on faithful giving from members, some whose income has been interrupted. Yet we press on because we have a charge to keep and a God to glorify. We press on without excuses because we remain the Church whether gathered or scattered. Sundays, and every other day, the Church is at its best when we leave the building to bring the incarnational love of Jesus to a hurting and hungry world.

Be encouraged,

Bishop Julius C. Trimble

Immediately after high school, she completed her coursework at Katherine Gibbs Secretarial School in Providence. During this time, a young sailor, Merle 'Bill' Lewis, stationed at Newport Naval Base, caught her eye while attending church one Sunday. Their romance blossomed into marriage vows on July 19, 1952.

Alice and Bill enjoyed regular camping excursions throughout the Midwest and beyond.

With the boys in school, Alice returned to the workforce as Administrative Assistant for RISE Special Services for 20+ years, making many lifelong friends in the process. She especially bonded with the special needs children being served there.

Bill passed away December 23, 1999. Alice then relocated to Noblesville to be nearer to her sons. Her faith life bloomed as a member of Harbour Shores Church. The great-grandchildren remember her as 'Grammie' in this house.

Alice's love of the Lord, generous and thoughtful gift giving, charity and grace will be missed by family and friends alike.

The family request in lieu of flowers, donations be made to Missions at Harbour Shores Church at hsc.churchcenter.com/giving.

A video tribute to Alice may be seen any time at youtu.be/RN7trJcdxY.

There will be a public 'virtual' calling for Alice at 11 a.m. on Friday, May 1. Please visit randallroberts.com/obituary/Alice-Lewis for additional information on this special service.

A private service for the family will be held at the graveside later on Friday.

TODAY'S BIBLE READING

While Peter yet spake these words, the Holy Ghost fell on all them which heard the word. And they of the circumcision which believed were astonished, as many as came with Peter; because that on the Gentiles also was poured out the gift of the Holy Ghost. For they heard them speak with tongues, and magnify God. Then answered Peter, Can any man forbid water; that these should not be baptized, which have received the Holy Ghost as well as we? And he commanded them to be baptized in the name of the Lord. Then prayed they him to tarry certain days.

Acts 10:44-48 (KJV)

James Edward Baker

December 13, 1929 – April 12, 2020

James (Jim) Edward Baker, 90, Carmel, ended his life's journey on Easter Sunday, April 12, 2020. He was born December 13, 1929 in Chicago, the youngest of six children, all of whom preceded him in death.

Jim served in the United States Marine Corps and was a Korean War veteran. He was a grocery store owner and, in later years, an organ transplant courier for a medical clinic. Jim was an avid Chicago Bears fan even after his move to Indiana. He enjoyed working on jigsaw puzzles, a hobby that he and his wife shared in their retirement. Computer crossword games were part of his daily routine, and he loved to read, often times a new book every week.

He was preceded in death by Alice, his wife of 56 years, their son James, and their daughter, Debra. He is survived by his daughter, Karen (Charlie); his granddaughter, Kelly (Scott); his great-granddaughter, Makenzie; his great-grandson, Casen; a grandson, Sean (Tanique); and extended family members.

With respect to health concerns in our current world, no services are planned at this time.

NOBLESVILLE, CARMEL, WESTFIELD, SHERIDAN, HAMILTON HEIGHTS, FISHERS, UNIVERSITY, GUERIN CATHOLIC, HAMILTON SOUTHEASTERN

History of the Hamilton County Basketball Tournament, Part 1 . . .

Cicero hosted inaugural tourney, with Arcadia the first champ, in 1917

By CHUCK GODBY

The Indiana High School Athletic Association crowned its first boys' basketball state champion in 1911, creating a statewide tournament that would become renowned throughout the country. Six years after that inaugural tournament, representatives of eight of the 10 Hamilton County schools in existence at that time decided they wanted to crown a county champion, so the local county tournament was born.

The first eight county participants were Arcadia, Atlanta, Boxley, Carmel, Cicero, Sheridan, Walnut Grove and Westfield. Initially, Noblesville and Fishers declined to participate.

Cicero agreed to host the initial tournament and the winning school, it was announced, would receive a silver loving cup, presented by the Star Theatre of Cicero.

In an era when a jump ball followed each basket made, Cicero exploded for a 46-18 win over Sheridan in the very first Hamilton County Tourney game. Boxley followed with a 38-24 win over Walnut Grove, Carmel beat Westfield, 36-10, and Arcadia edged Atlanta, 21-15, to complete the first round.

Cicero topped Boxley, 21-15, in the first semifinal round game, and Arcadia needed overtime to get past Carmel, 28-24. Arcadia took home the loving cup, beating the host school in the inaugural championship clash, 30-21, played on Saturday, Feb. 17, 1917.

It was reported that 900 tickets were sold and gate receipts totaled $550. It was also noted by The Noblesville Daily Ledger that an all-tournament team was selected by an unnamed individual who watched all seven games. The five were Carey of Carmel, Eilard of Arcadia, Harworth of Cicero, Glunt of Boxley, and McGuire of Westfield. Sorry, but no first names were published.

The county tourney added two more

Castor Hall in downtown Noblesville was the site of the Hamilton County Basketball Tournament in 1918 and 1919. The first tournament took place in 1917 in Cicero, with Arcadia beating the host 30-21.

Carmel's Bridget Dunn commits to Kent State

Carmel's Bridget Dunn has committed to play basketball at Kent State University.

The news was announced Tuesday evening on the Carmel Women's Basketball Twitter account, congratulating her on commitment to the Golden Flashes. Kent State is a Division I school that competes in the Mid-American Conference. The Golden Flashes were having a good season; they were 19-11 and won their first game in the MAC Tournament before it was canceled due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

Dunn had a solid junior season as well. She averaged 12.4 points, 9.8 rebounds and 1.8 blocks per game for the Greyhounds. Dunn was named as an Indiana Junior All-Star at the end of the season.

Jack Hansen transfers to Marian Jack Hansen, a standout for Guerin Catholic, has transferred to Marian University, the school announced on Monday.

Hansen, who graduated from GC in 2018, had played one season for IUPUI, during his freshman year, 2018-19. He will have three years of eligibility, according to a news release from Marian.

At IUPUI, Hansen played in 31 of the Jaguars' 33 games that season and received the IUPUI Athletics Department's Determination Award at the team's end of the year awards banquet. Hansen averaged 2.9 points per game, including a 15-point performance in the Jaguars' game with Detroit Mercy. He was also named to the school's Academic Advisor's List in both of his semesters at IUPUI.

Pacers' Turner says he understands NBA virus precautions because his dad had COVID-19

By OLIVIA RAY
WISH-TV

On Monday, the NBA announced that basketball could be back as early as May 8. But the Indiana Pacers say an immediate playoff scenario isn't likely for the NBA.

"I think from a player perspective, you need a bare minimum of three weeks to get ready for a game. But the intensity of a playoff game, you'll definitely need more time," said Pacers center Myles Turner.

When the doors are finally unlocked at the St. Vincent Center, Myles Turner will return to work cautiously, because during the NBA's hiatus, he watched his father battle COVID-19. Turner knows firsthand that the coronavirus knows no boundaries.

Turner explained, "My dad actually contracted the virus. He caught it early enough and was able to get rapid treatment and get in and out, but his recovery process took a while. He was on oxygen for a while, but he's better now."

He added, "But just from a personal standpoint, I've seen how it can affect a family because this virus isn't going anywhere."

Turner says he would rather be safe than sorry when it comes to the NBA restart.

"The way that this has affected me and Indiana Pacers star Myles Turner will return to work cautiously, as he watched his father battle COVID-19. affected my family from a personal standpoint, I see why there might be continued precautions not to play this year, and I hope that's not the case," said Turner.

He also says he understands all of the options the league is weighing right now.

"I think it goes without saying it's going to be an adjustment for all of us, to have to play in front of no fans, which is probably going to be necessary," Turner added, "It's not something that we're going to be looking forward to, but we're all looking forward to going out there and playing, so whatever it takes to get out there and play."

schools a year later when Fishers and Noblesville decided to join the fray, but defending champ Arcadia was absent. The games were moved to Castor Hall, located in Downtown Noblesville, which could accommodate more fans than Cicero.

Fans were treated to two sessions of basketball on the first day and the admission price was 50 cents for both sessions. The opener was a nail biter with Boxley edging Atlanta, 14-13. The second game never happened.

Noblesville was declared the winner over Carmel by forfeit after the Carmel team failed to show. Carmel, it seems, was not able to field a complete squad after two players were suspended for tobacco use.

Westfield and Boxley would steamroll through the field and wind up in the championship game, where Westfield topped Boxley, 24-18.

The 1919 tourney remained in Noblesville's Castor Hall, and for the second year in a row, Arcadia was absent. Host Noblesville powered through the field, beating Fishers, Walnut Grove and Cicero before topping Atlanta, 25-13, in the championship.

In case you are wondering, Castor Hall still stands today, located inside the Castor Block building at the northwestern corner of Tenth and Logan streets. According to Hamilton County Historian David Heighway, the basketball court was likely located on the second floor of building, which today would be directly above the popular restaurant Grindstone Public House. If you are as big a fan of Mr. Heighway's historical work as I am, you probably figure, like I do, that he's right.

A footnote to that 1919 season: The county schools would later participate at Anderson in one of the 13 sectionals played around the state, and all the schools would be eliminated there, although no one took a tougher beating than Boxley, which was stung by the host school, 94-3. The center jump ball-after-a-basket era would not end until the mid-1930's. Ouch!

Next, Arcadia makes its triumphant return to the tourney and more details are available on how the tourney created so much excitement throughout all Hamilton County.
