Music does wonders for the elderly

I'm a happy gal today. I got to see my mother last Tuesday during one of her facility's new "sunshine visits"! This took place outside in a tent with both of us wearing a mask and keeping six feet apart. But after waiting almost four months to see her, it was a wonderful occasion for us both.

However, I left with a heavy heart. I could see during our visit that this lockdown has taken a toll on Mom. I imagine millions of other elderly people are having the same experience. The light was definitely missing in her eyes.

Fortunately, her facility is offering these visits once a week and I've already booked the next one. If you've got a loved one in a similar facility/situation, I encourage you to visit in whatever way you can. It lifts an elderly person's spirits greatly.

But I want to do more for Mom next time than just sit and chat with her. I want to bring that light back into her eyes.

God planted a thought in my head later that evening. Mom LOVES music. My whole family - mother, father, brother and sister - and I adore(d) it. We all can play at least one instrument and we all enjoy singing.

Before the pandemic, Mom would never miss a music program in the activity room. She was a member of the Christmas choir as well. So, I thought I'd bring music back to her.

At first, I imagined we

Whale of a Sale children's consignment event returns to Westfield's Grand Park

By RANDALL NEWSOME
WISH-TV | wishstv.com

The Whale of a Sale children's consignment event has returned to Westfield's Grand Park Events Center after being postponed due to the COVID-19 crisis. The sale, originally set for March 17, is taking place now through July 12.

It's the largest sale of its kind in the state of Indiana featuring hot items for parents, including baby to teen size clothing, toys, strollers, furniture and more. Organizers say it's all available at a fraction of what it would cost in the retail stores.

"We tried to kind of take the whole March week and drop it into July to keep the schedule pretty similar, although there's a lot of things different of course, as you can imagine with the coronavirus requirements," co-founder Courtney O'Neil said.

"We are having shopping appointments required so we can control the numbers in the building. We'll only have about 100 to 125 shoppers an hour."

O'Neil says in the sale's 11th year, even though there are new safety rules due to the pandemic, it may actually be a smoother experience for shoppers.

"In this nice huge space, it's going to be really easy shopping," she said. "I think people are going to enjoy having it be a little quieter and they can run for what they want."

With 750 consignors bringing items to Grand Park, O'Neil has some advice for would-be shoppers at the first ever summertime

Whale of a Sale.

"Bring your list and know your kids' sizes," she said. "Run first to what's highest on your list and then make your way around the sale."

Shoppers can expect to find upscale items fit for the spring and summer from popular brands like Ralph Lauren and Gymboree.

Admission is free. Many items are half-price on Saturday afternoon and Sunday.

Sale Hours

- Friday, July 10 from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.
- Saturday, July 11 from 9 a.m. to noon and 3 p.m. to 6 p.m.
- Sunday, July 12 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

HSE reopening plans revealed, but subject to change

By LARRY LANNAN
LarryInFishers.com

Hamilton Southeastern (HSE) School Superintendent Allen Bourff spent most of Wednesday night's school board meeting explaining the 21-page document on how schools will be reopened, but emphasized that plans could change in the days ahead.

The document says, "All students and staff are expected to wear a face covering," but does not require the facial covering at all times. There will be some times during the school day when masks may not be required, such as lunch or when a student may be in distress.

Guests allowed in the school buildings will be limited, some will not be allowed, and some will, depending on their purpose for entering the school building.

Dr. Bourff said he will be discussing with teachers a possible plan to use a special schedule at the two local high schools, having students be in the building either two or three days during the school week, but expected to use virtual learning when not physically at school. Bourff added that meetings have been set with the local teachers association to talk about this idea, but nothing is final yet.

A school district survey revealed 10 percent of parents are asking for virtual learning only. School officials plan to survey the staff for how many teachers would want to teach virtually. Dr. Bourff says this virtual learning experience will be much different and more rigorous than the virtual learning used during the final weeks of the past school year.

Special provisions are being made for bus transportation, where face coverings will be expected. School officials anticipate more parents dropping their students off at the school buildings, and Dr. Bourff asked for patience by motorists as the demand for drop-offs is expected to increase, creating longer lines and wait times.

Food service will be available, with hand washing beforehand required (as it had been before COVID-19). Students will be wearing face coverings except while seated at the lunch table.

Dr. Bourff said all schools in Hamilton County, and some surrounding districts, have been consulting with each other and their respective public health departments in formulating reopening plans.

There are many more details in the 21-page reopening document, which you can access at this link. But be aware these provisions are subject to constant change.

The school board approved a resolution Wednesday allowing the administration to handle the constant changes, and will review all changes with the board at the next regular board meeting.

Carmel's Meet Me on Main returns with both virtual special, 'live' events

The REPORTER

Meet Me on Main is back this weekend, both virtually and in person. After featuring a virtual experience only for the past few months, the popular monthly event returns to Main Street and the Arts & Design District from 5 to 9 p.m. on Saturday with open shops, restaurants and art galleries to experience. The festivities include live music, a new "Art in the Garden" program, a live demonstration by Jan McCune (at Indiana Artisan), crafts for kids and more.

The City of Carmel continues to encourage everyone to wear a mask or face covering whenever they enter a store or come in close contact with others. This does not apply to restaurants. Many retail stores have taken the Carmel Cares Pledge and will have a supply of free masks and hand sanitizer, in addition to taking other measures for your safety. Click here to see a full list of stores.

If you're still not ready to venture out, you can watch Meet Me on Main "live" online. Watch the webcast from District at 5 p.m. for a 45-minute show on the Carmel Arts & Design District's Facebook page as viewers will get to know The Olive Mill, No Label at the Table, and Art on Main Gallery.

MUSIC

could sing together, but that's a big no-no right now due to the droplets that can be spread even while wearing masks (darn it, COVID). Then I remembered my son's portable keyboard.

I love playing the piano, but like many busy working adults, I haven't had the time to play it often. My husband John has encouraged me to get back to it for years. Now I need to MAKE time for it!

I'll be digging out my old jazz books this weekend and doing some practicing. I'm also going to work with Jacob to see when he can come perform for his grandma, since two of us are allowed and he is an even better pianist than me.

Numerous studies have shown the benefits of music for the elderly. It often helps Alzheimer's patients on many levels. While Mom thankfully doesn't suffer from the disease, she has her own struggles, especially now. I know music will be the key to unlock the spark within her.

My heart is lighter now thanks to my new plan! I hope you can take music to those you love right now and see how it lifts them up. I'll keep you all posted on our results.

Her show will include her works from other lovely areas from her travels to Arizona and California. (111 W. Main St., #140)

• CCA Gallery: July's featured artists include Deb Achgill (fused glass artist) and Brenda Smith (painter). Deb loves to work with dichroic and iridescent glass, which gives her pieces a magical appearance when viewed from different angles. Her glass pieces can be functional as well as decorative. Brenda Smith describes her art this way: "The vast array of rich and vibrant colors that are found in simple wild flowers, distant hills and sunsets bring me a joy I want to share. I love painting with oils, because they are deep, forgiving and not to be hurried ... a little like me." (111 W. Main St., #135)

• Holder Mattress: Annual Tent Sale. Save up to $900 on a mattress set. Call the showroom to make your private appointment, (317

848-2939. (200 S. Rangeline Road, #119)

• Indiana Artisan: Jewelry artist Jan McCune will demonstrate chase repousse, an ancient hammering technique used to add dimension to flat metal. Watch as Jan works both sides of metal to create stunning cuffs, earrings and pendants. Carmel photographer Ken Rabbers will offer insights into his creative process, which includes shooting fast cars, glorious landscapes and calming nature scenes. Meet him and see his featured work in our north gallery. (22 N. Rangeline Road)

• Carmel Arts Council Children's Art Gallery: New to Meet Me on Main is the Carmel Arts Council (CAC) "Art in the Garden" program designed to demonstrate art first hand to visitors to The District. The CAC's selected artist will create art in the Children's Art Gallery garden and will provide a "to go" craft for children. CAC's first featured artist will be Carmel-based Scott Osborne, a talented and multi-faceted artist. Scott plans to bring his potter's wheel and demonstrate how to make clay pots. (40 W. Main St.)

• All Things Carmel: Local photographer Steve Witta has produced a new line of "neural artwork" that involves extracting an artistic style from a source image and applying it to the content of a target photograph. The results are one-of-a-kind, artistic pictures that are printed with a glossy finish. His images will be displayed and available for purchase at the All Things Carmel store. Visit with Steve from 6 to 8 p.m. at the store. (110 W. Main St., #110)

PREVAIL

Advocating for Victims of Crime and Abuse

www.prevailinc.com

I was born and raised right here in Noblesville. I grew up in a home without domestic violence or assault – it wasn't something I saw, or even heard about. But when I was introduced to Prevail of Central Indiana, I was shocked by the number of individuals who are affected by domestic violence. In 2018 alone, Prevail helped more than 4,000 clients in Hamilton County. (Nearly 80 percent of clients are women and children.) Domestic violence and abuse are hard topics to discuss, so you don't often hear about them. But at Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville, we're breaking the taboo and raising awareness for Prevail, an organization that helps families in Hamilton County.

– Mike Bragg, GM of Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville

To help Hamilton County families affected by domestic violence and sexual abuse, you can donate the following items:

- Art supplies (for children to journal and express their emotions)
- Bottled water (8 oz. bottles, preferably)
- Individually packaged snacks
- Gas cards (many women have no access to funds after fleeing their abuser)

Drop off items at Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville, 14701 Tom Wood Way.

What's new for 2020?

The Atlas Cross Sport.

All Atlas Cross Sport models come with a touchscreen infotainment display with both Apple CarPlay and Android Auto integration. Navigation is optional, as is a reconfigurable digital gauge display and SiriusXM satellite radio. The Volkswagen Car-Net connectivity app allows for remote starting and analytics while a 4G LTE Wi-Fi hotspot allows occupants to remain connected to the internet with their smart devices while on the go.

- Standard autonomous emergency braking with forward-collision warning
- Standard blind-spot monitoring with rear cross-traffic alert
- Available adaptive cruise control with semi-autonomous driving mode

Fun to drive. Easy to cover.

Bike the West Loop in Carmel this coming week

The REPORTER

Bike Carmel: Slow Roll Ride, Conquer the CAB (Carmel Access Bikeway) presented by IU Health North Hospital is looking a little different.

In 2020, riders were set to Conquer the CAB routes in Carmel by riding them together. But, due to the COVID-19 pandemic, the ride has been changed to make it a self-guided event that can be done with family members and friends while observing safe physical distancing.

There are five CAB routes of varying distances. In May, riders started with the shortest route, the City Center Loop at 6.8 miles. In June, riders conquered the White River Loop at 7.2 miles.

This month, riders will step up the distance a bit and conquer the West Loop. There is a small portion of the West Loop at the corner of Shelborne Road and Eagle Creek Avenue in Westfield that does not have signage. At this intersection, remember to take a left turn (southwest).

Beginning Saturday, July 11 through Sunday, July 19, you can explore the West Loop (9.7 miles) and take a photo at any of the various routing signs and post it to the Facebook event.

One rider selected from the pictures posted will be awarded a $50 gift card to a local Carmel business. Click here to find links to each of the five CAB routes along with printable maps and queue sheets.

The City of Carmel, Bike Carmel and IU Health North Hospital are looking forward to another exciting year of bicycling in the community. More information can be found on the Bike Carmel Facebook page or by emailing bike-carmel@carmel.in.gov. Remember to keep safe physical distancing in mind, wear a mask when appropriate and keep the rubber side down.

What to know about Marion County's face mask mandate

By HANNA MORDOH
WISH-TV | wishtv.com

The Marion County mask mandate went into effect Thursday. Face coverings will be required in all indoor places other than people's homes in Indianapolis and outdoors when people can't practice social distancing.

There are some exemptions. The order does not apply to the following people:

- 2-years-old and younger
- If you have a medical, physical or health-related reason
- Are in a healthcare facility where wearing a face covering could prevent you from receiving proper care
- Are homeless or incarcerated
- If you have a job where wearing a mask presents a safety risk
- While you are eating in a restaurant or bar
- Or when you are engaged in outdoor or indoor exercise

People should have their masks ready as they head out the door Thursday morning.

Doctors at IU Health Methodist Hospital said science backs this push for everyone to be masked.

"COVID, number one, is probably most spread by some aerosolized mechanism," said emergency medicine and critical care Dr. Timothy Ellender. "More so than even surface contact, and it appears that basic masking, does reduce that spread."

Doctors at IU Health Methodist Hospital said that they are confident in the latest research saying masks help stop the spread of COVID-19. They said the coronavirus is most often spread by droplets and aerosols which are virus-filled spit or microscopic particles that are spread from an infected person's mouth when they cough, sneeze or just talk.

The problem is people don't have to show symptoms to spread the virus. Doctors say there is progress in other countries where masking mandates are in place.

While there were mixed mask messages back in March and April from the CDC, they are clear now that everyone should wear masks to protect others.

"I think we can, as a medical community, tell you wholeheartedly that the science is there now," Dr. Ellender said. "The science behind masking is real, it is corroborated and supported, so wear your mask. Help your neighbor, wear your mask. Help us get rid of this disease, let us get back to normal life."

While these masks are sometimes a pain and they are hot, doctors say they are safe and people should be able to breathe safely while wearing them.

AG Curtis Hill applauds federal appeals court ruling on Indiana's smokable hemp law

The REPORTER

Indiana Attorney General Curtis Hill on Thursday praised a federal appeals court's decision to vacate an injunction that had invalidated Indiana's criminalization of smokable hemp.

In a ruling issued this week, the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit said the injunction was too broad and remanded the case back to the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Indiana for further proceedings.

"We are pleased that the appeals court upheld Indiana's criminal prohibition on the manufacture and possession of smokable hemp," Hill said. "The court has rightly recognized Indiana's authority to enforce this law."

The Indiana General Assembly in 2019 passed Senate Enrolled Act 516, which legalized the commercial production of hemp in Indiana and set up a regulatory framework for the state's hemp industry. The law also criminalized the possession, delivery and manufacture of smokable hemp. It said that any "person who knowingly or intentionally manufactures, finances the manufacture of, delivers, finances the delivery of, or possesses smokable hemp ... commits a Class A misdemeanor."

The General Assembly amended this provision this year to clarify that it does "not apply to the shipment of smokable hemp from a the state days before Senate Enrolled Act 516 was to go into effect, arguing that the law's prohibition on the possession and delivery of smokable hemp was preempted by the 2018 Farm Bill, which legalized hemp at the federal level and says states must allow all forms of industrial hemp to be transported through their jurisdictions.

The district court sided with the plaintiffs and issued the injunction.

In its ruling, however, the federal appeals court said the 2018 Farm Bill licensed producer in another state in continuous transit through Indiana to a licensed handler in any state."

A group of Indiana-based hemp sellers and wholesalers sued to the extent that it prohibits the interstate transportation of hemp. The appeals court ruled that the district court was therefore wrong to invalidate portions of Indiana's law that criminalize more than just interstate transportation.

"(The district court) did so without any explanation of why that breadth was necessary," the ruling reads. The appeals court also noted that while the 2018 Farm Bill legalizes industrial hemp on the federal level, it expressly permits states to adopt rules regarding industrial hemp production that are more stringent than the federal rules.

"We see nothing in the 2018 Farm Law that supports the inference that Congress was demanding that states legalize industrial hemp," the court concluded.

Two county athletes make Division I baseball commits

The REPORTER

Two Hamilton County baseball players announced their commitments to Division I schools last week.

Oliverio commits to Indiana State

Fishers junior-to-be Dominic Oliverio committed to play baseball at Indiana State University last week.

Oliverio is a two-sport athlete for the Tigers, as he also a running back on the school's football team. He is the son of Kevin and Natalie Oliverio, and has two sisters, Taylor and Piper. Dominic plays summer baseball for the Evoshield Midwest Canes. His baseball mentor is Matt Bair, the head coach of Anderson University; Bair coached Oliverio for many years when he was younger.

Oliverio said he is "very excited and beyond blessed to get the opportunity" to play Division I baseball at Indiana State.

"This was one of my goals since I was very little," said Oliverio. "I wouldn't have gotten to this point without some phenomenal coaches along the way, teammates to push me and a family that made a lot of sacrifices taking me all over the country to chase my dream. I can't wait to get to work!"

Oliverio picked Indiana State for a number of reasons, including the programs in what he wants to study; he plans to major in education and wants to work with special needs children. Oliverio also cited the coaching staff and facilities, and the fact that the Sycamores play a competitive Division I schedule.

Oliverio also wanted to stay close to home, as he is close with his family. Oliverio had several Division I offers, but felt that ISU was the best fit for him. Now, he can also focus on his next two years at Fishers.

"I'm looking forward to continue to play ball with the guys I've known since I was little," said Oliverio. "The goal is to compete every day and to win conference and state championships in football and baseball over the next couple years. The situation with the virus has helped me realize that time is flying by and I must make the most out of my opportunities in the classroom and on the field(s)."

"Dom is a special baseball talent," said Fishers coach Matthew Cherry. "We are very excited for him on his commitment to Indiana State. Dom is a top tier hitter, who is versatile on defense being able to play anywhere on the diamond."

Cherry noted that as a freshman, Oliverio competed against top varsity pitchers that were two or three years older than him.

"He has gap-to-gap power and does a great job of making adjustments within each at bat," said Cherry. "I was excited to see his growth as a player this past spring before we were shut down due to the Pandemic. I know he has had a great summer thus far and believe his growth over the next two years will continue to prepare him for a very strong college career."

Markle commits to Butler University

Quentin Markle, a senior-to-be at Westfield and member of Indiana Bulls Baseball, has verbally committed to continuing his athletic and academic careers at Butler University upon graduation next spring.

"Every interaction I've had with Butler during this process has been awesome," Markle said. "I have played with or against several of the guys on the team. My family loves Butler and has basketball season tickets, too, so they're excited I won't be too far."

Markle, a 5-foot-9, 170-pound, right-handed outfielder, offers a strong bat and arm with speed on the field, and adds a positive energy as a teammate off of it.

"Quentin checks all the boxes that a coach is looking for: coachability, great body language, he enjoys the game and is a tremendous teammate," Troy Drosche, Markle's

Indiana Bulls 17U White team coach said. "He's going to have a bright future in baseball and life because of his strong desire to improve every day. Quentin's a competitor who will add versatility to any roster and do whatever is asked of him in the best interest of the team."

Markle has been a member of the Bulls, Indiana's premier amateur baseball program, for two years. He credits the organization's high-level coaching, strong competition and exposure through top tournaments and events in helping him reach his dream of playing college baseball.

"The Bulls have made an impact and my coaches have done so much to help in my development," Markle said. "Playing for the Bulls has been everything I'd hoped for. The players are serious enough to where it's really enjoyable, competitive and a great place to develop. Having the support of the Bulls family has been huge."

Although this year's high school season was cancelled due to the COVID-19 pandemic, Westfield High School head baseball coach Ryan Bunnell is looking forward to having Markle back as one of his team leaders in 2021.

"Quentin is a coachable hard worker who's always been driven to improve all areas of his game," Bunnell said. "He brings energy to the diamond every day and has an infectious personality that makes a great impact on the clubhouse. I know he's only going to keep getting better."

Positive COVID-19 test ends Fishers HS football practice, at least this week

By LARRY LANNAN
LarryInFishers.com

The Fishers High School football team has ended practice for this week after a report Wednesday that a member of the team tested positive for COVID-19.

"To further protect everyone, summer practices have been cancelled for the remainder of the week," said Hamilton Southeastern Spokesperson Emily Abbotts, in an email response to LarryInFishers when asked about reports of a player testing positive.

The Tigers had been following IHSA guidelines, practicing in small groups. The players who worked out in a shared training group with the infected individual will be receiving more guidance from the athletic department in conjunction with the Fishers Health Department on next steps.

"Again, more steps may be taken to further protect/test the rest of the team members," Abbotts said.

"The Fishers Health Department will be advising us and our coaches."

The Tigers are scheduled to open the regular season with a home game Aug. 23 against North Central.

Grand Park College League brings baseball players to Westfield

By OLIVIA RAY
WISH-TV | wishtv.com

If you spend the afternoon at Grand Park, it seems normalcy has been restored to baseball, but the summer ball system is far from it. Grand Park College League is one of many that have popped up around the U.S.

"We were all going crazy watching our 26-field complex sit empty for a couple of months," said Luke Dietz.

Dietz is the director of operations for BullPen Tournaments at Grand Park, and he recently added the title of College Summer League Commissioner.

He said, "It was the combination of a lot of heads. We were talking with groups like Louisville, Cincinnati, Butler, Purdue, IU, saying, 'Hey, we have a chance to play, and we're going to be guaranteed to play.'"

With a new league comes a whole new set of challenges, and unique opportunities.

"We took anyone and everyone ... We've got D1 guys, D2, D3 guys, JuCo, NAIA. So, it's turned into a really good league and honestly probably the most competitive league being played right now," Dietz said.

The College Summer League features 12 teams that are loaded with top Division I prospects from the Midwest. There are over 120 Division I players flocking to Westfield; 270 guys total in the league.

"There are some really good guys out here. It's not like it's just 80 mph fast balls. There are guys with 96 or 97," said Ben Nisle, a junior playing baseball at Purdue. "You're definitely facing good schools, IU, Louisville, Butler, Purdue. It's what you'll see on a Friday night sometimes."

But for now, this summer, the college guys take the field on Monday and Tuesday. It's the perfect fit, because early in the week, the park normally sits empty.

But it comes at a price, literally.

Dietz

"We're not taking entry fees, we're not selling tickets, no sponsors," Dietz added. "So, this was an opportunity for them to pay for the league."

The solution he's speaking of is summer jobs. Why not let some guys pay off their debts by working for Grand Park?

Dietz said, "It works out for them and then we're trying to make sure we break even."

Nearly 50 college players jumped at the opportunity. On their days off, Wednesday through Sunday, they keep stats, work on the fields, and manage the tournaments in Westfield.

Patrick Mastrian, former Bishop Chatard pitching standout and current Michigan baseball commit, is one of them.

"It's weird working and not playing weekends, but watching these kids play because that used to be me, but once you get used to it, it's all good. It's just watching baseball for money basically," Mastrian said.
