Noblesville unveils newly ‘activated’ North Alley

The REPORTER

The City of Noblesville and Nickel Plate Arts on Friday held a ribbon cutting of the newly activated North Alley. The North Alley activation includes an archway entrance, colorful sun sail shades, tables and chairs, and Gobo theater lights, which project images onto the brick wall and new planter boxes.

“Our goal for downtown Noblesville is to create an improved space for citizens to enjoy while still preserving the historical downtown aspect,” said Mayor Chris Jensen. “We are pleased with how the North Alley activation turned out and we are eager to continue to utilize more alley spaces on the square. Be on the lookout for continued activation of our downtown alleys.”

Redevelopment of the city’s alleys is one of Jensen’s goals as mayor.

Jensen’s administration goals. The improvements also include a mural featuring the State of Indiana. Nickel Plate Arts and the city selected the artist Andrea Haydon and received a National Endowment for the Arts grant, which funded the mural.

“We are impressed with Andrea and her talent she showcased with this mural,” said Nickel Plate Arts Executive Director

Aili McGill. “As a Noblesville native herself, we are happy to feature a local artist. Andrea’s bright and energetic concept matched the idea that will continue to enhance the alley and attract more people to enjoy our downtown area.”

After the ribbon cutting ceremony, Nickel Plate Arts held its First Friday virtually from the group’s Facebook page.

Telling my story

Once upon a time ... She was born September 3, 1955. 65 years ago. She is me. She has a story.

It's been 14 years since I began sharing my story, in a newspaper, with my community.

At times, it's scary. At times, it's not so pretty. At times, it brings me to tears. And, yes, sometimes it's embarrassing but I share and laugh with you.

My first column was about how I got in the car business. I used the yellow brick road from The Wizard of Oz as an analogy. My car guy friend, Jay Snider, dared me to write it. He said I had a gift for telling a story. Believe me, he heard a lot of them as we worked some 50 hours a week together.

In that first column, I wrote that I had a heart for people, a brain to figure things out, but most of all I had courage to change careers at the age of 48. Not just change careers but jump into a business that I knew nothing about. Even stranger, having never worked with men. Sometimes I'm not sure if I was crazier than I was brave. I just know for 16 years it worked.

My second column, after the editor of the paper asked for more, was, "Oh the places you'll go." I wrote of my divorce after 25 years of marriage. I wrote about leaving the baggage behind, not holding on to anger

IU officials recommend closing all Greek houses

WISH-TV | wistv.com

Indiana University officials are recommending the closure of all Greek houses due to COVID-19.

Officials have said the positivity rate at some houses is above 50 percent. Stats for Greek houses can be found here.

The university has 40 Greek houses. The houses are not owned or operated by the university but by national organizations. The Evan Scholars house and Christian Fellowship house are not included in the recommendation.

IU cannot order the houses to close. “IU expects the national organizations and housing corporations to work directly with students to make decisions about their living environment and find alternate arrangements,” the university said in a tweet.

On Wednesday, News 8 reported that 30 Greek houses had been placed under quarantine. Officials said they are not aware of any students having to be hospitalized.

Heirbrandt says “keep it up” to county’s hardworking residents

Labor Day is a time to celebrate. A time to rest. A time to reflect. A time to share with your loved ones.

In junior high and high school, seven days a week, starting at 5 a.m., I ran a newspaper route. The life lessons I learned were invaluable. I learned the importance of commitment, dependability, people skills, and the value of a dollar. I’ve never stopped believing in those life lessons, or working hard. I’ve always been motivated by the positive outcomes that occur when you work hard.

Labor Day is special to me. Ever since I was a kid, our family has celebrated every Labor Day together. We grill, we laugh, and we celebrate. It’s the one day that I truly feel like I can completely relax, and just enjoy.

The definition of Labor Day is: To dedicate the day to the social and economic achievements of American workers. It constitutes a yearly national tribute to the contributions workers have made to the strength, prosperity, and well-being of our country (according to the U.S. Department of Labor).

To everyone who has been giving it their all, collaborating, having sleepless nights, and working for the betterment of your family and our country, cheers to you.

Keep it up.

This year has been a challenging one for sure, but one that we should take the time to reflect on ... and celebrate.

God bless America. And Happy Labor Day.

An opportunity to impact your community

When Scott Fadness was first elected Mayor of Fishers in 2014, he was preparing to take office in 2015. He was Town Manager and still involved in the day-to-day workings of Fishers while also mayor-elect.

It was at that time he let me know of his plans to start a mental health initiative as his first major project as the new mayor. He wasted no time in moving that forward in 2015.

I had been in and out of journalism for years and had seen this before. A new mayor starts a project, cites accomplishments, then moves on to the next project.

Scott Fadness did not do that with mental health. In 2020, he continues to move forward on mental health with his staff and a group of community volunteers. Scott Fadness knew combating mental health issues would be a heavy lift and would take time. He is in his sixth year as mayor and continues that project.

When Scott Fadness began talking last year about an initiative on race relations in Fishers, his past record proved to me he was serious. When I was asked to participate as a member of the community, I accepted.

The mayor brought in Dustin Washington, an experienced consultant from out of state, to run a series of seminars for a group of local people called Interrupting Racism.

The mayor's next step now is to invite any member of the Fishers community to take this Interrupting Racism seminar at no cost to you. As someone that has experienced this training, I would highly recommend it to anyone.

There are only 500 openings in this first wave of training, so I would recommend you sign-up soon.

“In the national narrative we find ourselves, it is clear the country is struggling with issues of race and our community is not immune to these challenges,” said Mayor Fadness in a city news release announcing the program. “In Fishers, we have the opportunity to change the course of this conversation through hard work, honesty, and humility. Today is a small step in that direction.”

It should be noted Mayor Fadness has been working on this Interrupting Racism program for many months, well before George Floyd's death or the police shooting in Kenosha, Wis.

My Story

and hurt. Oh, the power and weight of a grudge.

Now, some 20 years after my divorce, I truly see that letting go of those things allowed me more happiness and freedom to love again.

Funny thing is that, if you all remember, I met my husband in the waiting room at Don Hinds Ford. He says he was waiting for his car to get fixed. I say he was waiting for me.

I have written about our Hallmark movie-worthy wedding. Long white wedding gown. Congregation of 300 of our closest family and friends singing "Great is Thy Faithfulness." And ... our reception in the show-room of Don Hinds Ford where we met and where Chuck proposed.

I've given advice that you might not have wanted or needed, but like a good mom, I gave it anyway.

I've written, from my heart, about my parents and my adoption. After the death of the first baby they were to adopt, the birth mother changing her mind with the second baby and then how they had a two-hour notice that I was on the way to their house.

The locale of my writing is at our kitchen table in our little house on the alley. Our 114-year-old house, where I have lived since 1975, is truly my haven, my place of refuge where I can truly say, "There's no place like home."

My community, oh, my sweet much-loved community, you are my people. As I sit at Noble Tea and Coffee, I often say to myself, it's a wonderful world in which I am blessed to live. Seldom do I not have a chance to chat with two or three or more people whom I have known more years than we all care to count. You are my people and I love you.

So, as I continue to tell my story I thank you for your friendship, your feedback and your cheering me on. I know there are more stories that will be written, more laughs to be shared and more tears to wipe off the keyboard.

Thank you for reading and being part of my story. I have the best characters and the best location in which to write.

I know at the end of my story (and my book) it will say ... and she lived happily ever after.

Colts limit home opener against Minnesota Vikings to 2,500 fans

WISH-TV | wishtv.com

The Indianapolis Colts will host up to 2,500 fans for the Sept. 20 home opener against the Minnesota Vikings at Lucas Oil Stadium.

The decision to host a maximum of 2,500 fans was made after discussions with the Marion County Public Health Department. The allowance also meets guidelines set forth by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) to limit the spread of COVID-19.

The stadium seats 67,000 fans during football games.

The number of tickets available for the Sept. 20 game will be limited. A process is also being set up in order to address fans who have already purchased single-game tickets for the home opener and fans who have purchased a four-game ticket pack that included the home opener, according to a press release sent to News 8.

"Our top priority always will be the health and safety of fans, players and staff, so we must take the necessary precautions to keep everyone safe, which includes a reduced stadium capacity on gameday," said Colts Chief Operating Officer Pete Ward in a news release

Friday. "We will continue to work with local health officials on steps that will allow our season to go on as safely as possible with fans in the stands. And we continue to appreciate the patience of all our fans as we navigate the fluid nature of this pandemic."

Specific health and safety procedures for 2020 home games will be released by the team this week.

Grammy-nominated bluegrass artist is keynote speaker at 11th annual Drug Abuse Symposium

The REPORTER

Indiana Attorney General Curtis Hill announced Friday that Jamie Johnson will be a keynote speaker at the 11th annual Drug Abuse Symposium, which takes place Oct. 22 in downtown Indianapolis.

Johnson is a three-time Grammy Award nominee and co-founder of bluegrass band The Grascals. Born and raised in Milan, Ind., he has made more than 150 appearances at the famous Grand Ole Opry in Nashville, Tenn.

Johnson has been open about his struggles with depression and alcohol, and though he is now sober, he continues to overcome his addiction one day at a time. At the symposium, Johnson will tell stories and sing songs of his experiences and his new perspective on life.

In addition to Johnson, Hill said, symposium attendees will hear from law enforcement, treatment providers, faith leaders, government officials and others. Their presentations will cover marijuana legalization, the methamphetamine crisis, how law enforcement officers handle suspected drug overdoses and more than a dozen additional topics.

All of the symposium's scheduled speakers share a common goal: Limiting the negative consequences of drugs in the United States.

"Our country is enduring a combination of public health crises like we have never seen before," Hill said. "While the COVID-19 pandemic has understandably been at the front of our minds in 2020, we cannot forget that drug abuse also continues to devastate our nation. Our need to educate people about these dire matters has never been greater."

On the morning of the

symposium, attendees may choose which breakout sessions they would like to attend. Different sessions will offer attendees different professional credits, so keep an eye out for which sessions you will need to attend.

This year, due to the COVID-19 pandemic, attendees have the option to take part in the symposium virtually. Appropriate cleaning and social-distancing measures are being followed for in-person attendees.

Tickets to virtually attend the symposium cost $100, and tickets to appear in person cost $150. The prices of both tickets will increase by $50 after Sept. 11.

Students and government employees may also purchase tickets at a discounted rate. If you are a student or government employee, please email oag-education@atg.in.gov for access to these discounts.

To adhere to social distancing guidelines, there will be a limited number of in-person tickets for sale. Those who wish to attend in person are encouraged to buy those tickets as soon as possible.

Whose poem inspired Johnny Gruelle to create “Raggedy Ann”?

The REPORTER

1880 – Famous orator and social reformer Frederick Douglass was in Madison campaigning for presidential candidate James A. Garfield. Douglass, a former slave, spoke to a large crowd at the corner of Broadway and Main. He continued his talk at the Jefferson County Courthouse. The local newspaper called it a "powerful speech." On the same tour, Douglass spoke in several Indiana cities, including Noblesville, Muncie, Winchester, Columbus, Evansville and Fountain City.

1887 – Called the "Laborer's Holiday," one of the first Labor Day celebrations was held in Indianapolis. Thousands turned out for a parade which began at the corner of Delaware and Market Streets. The long procession moved through the downtown section and ended at the exposition grounds north of the city. There a large picnic was enjoyed, along with foot races, baseball, and a greased-pig race. Many labor unions were represented in the crowd, including stone cutters, tailors, bakers, furniture makers, typographers, plumbers and car makers.

1915 – Indianapolis artist Johnny Gruelle received a patent for the design of a doll named "Raggedy Ann." He had grown up in the Lockerbie Street neighborhood of James Whitcomb

Riley, and legend has it that the character was inspired by Riley's poem "The Raggedy Man." Raggedy Ann and her brother Raggedy Andy, featured in a series of books, have become icons in American popular culture.

1951 – The Hadacol Goodwill Caravan arrived in Indianapolis for a performance at the Midget Speedway Stadium on 16th Street. The program offered a wide variety of talent and big-name stars, including Hank Williams, Carmen Miranda, Tony Martin, Dick Haymes, Minnie Pearl, Eddie "Rochester" Anderson, and Jack Dempsey. The show was free to those who brought a boxtop from Hadacol, a liquid vitamin supplement advertised on radio.

1976 – Rosalynn Carter was in the state on a campaign tour for her husband, Jimmy Carter, who was running for President. She made stops in Lafayette, Fort Wayne, Evansville and Indianapolis, where she walked around the Circle and spoke with former Governor Matthew Welsh.

2001 – Terrorists attacked the Twin Towers in New York City. Within 24 hours, Task Force One from Indianapolis was assisting at Ground Zero. The team, made up of firefighters, dog handlers, and paramedics from Marion County, worked 12-hour shifts around the clock for 10 days.

Racial justice is happening at Prevail

Take a mental road trip with me, readers. I want you to imagine what places like Prevail are working toward and why we do what we do. Our destination is a future without violence, a future without preventable, power-based trauma. What does that future look like to you? Who is there, and who helped us get there? If we are doing anti-violence work toward this future, then what are we for?

At Prevail, we know that power and control are the catalysts of violence. When control is unjust, it's called oppression. In our work, we have a long legacy and well-documented history with oppression as a root cause of violence and the systems that allow it to continue.

More recently, our organization has not only been asking What are we for? but also asking some accountability questions, because we know we have a role to play in working toward this future. Questions like: Is Prevail a system that allows this to continue? If not, how are we serving the most marginalized and most vulnerable people in our community? How can we continue to create safe, healing, and supportive spaces for all?

We need Prevail to be accessible to all survivors. All survivors.

Whether you're 6 or 60, our role is to stop ageism from limiting your access to services. If you are multilingual or speak ASL, our role is to provide language advocacy to make our services accessible. We serve all genders and all sexual orientations, because we know that violence impacts these communities without discrimination. Our services are free and confidential, because poverty and privacy can be barriers.

In order to continue the work we have been doing, we are actively working on what our role is in the anti-racism and racial justice space in our community. Understanding and unpacking racism is important for us to do, because on this road to anti-violence we will cross many intersections with overlapping needs to meet.

When you hear "intersectionality" it may be helpful to think about a literal intersection. Let's say we have a "survivor road" that offers a lane for the elderly community; we have another "road" that supports low-income persons. Intersectionality means that we acknowledge both of those barriers and see the survivor as a whole person, including their racial identity. It means that we see how the history of those identities can impact their belief systems and needs.

Intersectionality means that we know that identity does not fit in tidy checkboxes in the same way that we know that violence doesn't either. Violence is not only physical, but can also be sexual, financial, psychological and spiritual. Identities and the ways in which others violate those identities through oppression is complex and layered. It requires bold reflection and courageous willingness to change.

Intersectionality is about how these social categories (such as race, class, gender, age, etc.) overlap with each other and can compound the barriers to healing.

We don't have the answers and we haven't figured out all the ways to respond to these intersections, but we are committed to working on it. Through racial justice initiatives, we are committed to better responding to our Black, Indigenous, and people of color (BIPOC) clients in the same ways we have been able to show up for other intersections. When we know better, we do better.

Racial justice is the proactive reinforcement of policies, practices, attitudes and actions that produce equitable power, access, opportunities, impacts, and outcomes for all. (Source: RET) This has always been our journey, and this is still our lane. Prevail plans to keep showing up and invites you to continue on this road with us.

Let us begin by not engaging in minimizing the experiences of survivors of color. Let us start by being for the acknowledgement, validation, and support of them, as folks strive to make sense of their experiences. Let us be safe places and safe people in the lives of those who are trying to move forward from their trauma and trying to join us in creating an anti-violence future. Let Prevail offer to you this: Racial trauma matters. Historical trauma is real. You matter, and you belong here too.

"All forms of violence and oppression are connected, and you cannot fight against one form of injustice and not fight against others. The calls for accountability must be heard from all corners of society, including from within the anti-violence movement. We cannot end violence without addressing the power disparities caused by racism and discrimination." – Indiana Coalition Against Domestic Violence

She was known to have an outgoing, friendly personality and loved meeting and visiting with people. She was also known to be a snazzy dresser.

Doris had a dog named Oliver that she named after her husband, who was also her best friend. She would walk Oliver two or three times a day, even in the rain or snow.

TODAY'S BIBLE READING

And they brought the young man alive, and were not a little comforted. And we went before to ship, and sailed unto Assos, there intending to take in Paul: for so had he appointed, minding himself to go afoot. And when he met with us at Assos, we took him in, and came to Mitylene. And we sailed thence, and came the next day over against Chios; and the next day we arrived at Samos, and tarried at Trogyllium; and the next day we came to Miletus. For Paul had determined to sail by Ephesus, because he would not spend the time in Asia: for he hasted, if it were possible for him, to be at Jerusalem the day of Pentecost.

Millers win all-county game with Fishers

The Noblesville girls soccer team won an all-county and Hoosier Crossroads Conference game at Fishers on Saturday.

Playing on Reynolds Tigers Stadium, the Class 3A No. 1 Millers beat 3A No. 17 Fishers 1-0. Noblesville scored its goal in the 14th minute; Grace Taskey played the ball to Elana Chatterton, who put it in the net.

“It was a good ball by Mak to the back post, and I was able to find it and then Elana had a really good run to the back post,” said Taskey.

Chatterton said getting the ball in was about “just making the runs, find the ball” and “always following shots.”

The win improved Noblesville’s HCC record to 2-0, and its overall mark to 3-0.

“Fishers is well-coached, well-organized, and they’ll be a tough out at sectional, if we were to see them,” said Millers coach Mike Brady. “So we’re going to have to be much better if we play them again. A conference win is good for us, but now we just got to build on it, get ready for Westfield on Wednesday.”

The Tigers are 1-1 and play at Hamilton Southeastern on Wednesday in the Mudsock game.

Carmel, the No. 2-ranked team in 3A, picked up two wins over other ranked opponents on Saturday.

The Greyhounds first defeated 3A No. 4 Evansville Memorial 2-0. Emily Roper scored both of Carmel’s goals, with Emma Domke making the assist on the second goal. Goalkeeper Erin Baker had four saves.

The ‘Hounds took care of 3A No. 14 Penn 4-0 in their second game. Seven different players had either a goal or an assist for Carmel. Luci Bair, Lauren Bailey, Saliyah Brady and Ava Cabellon all scored one goal, while Bailey, Susie Soderstrom, Roper and Claire Swigert each made one assist. Baker had two saves.

Carmel is 8-0 for the season and hosts Lawrence North Tuesday in a Metropolitan Conference game.

Hamilton Southeastern, ranked No. 3 in 3A, also got two victories on Saturday.

First, the Royals beat last year’s 2A state champion and No. 3-ranked Evansville Mater Dei 2-0. Ella Chester scored Southeastern’s first goal, with Daniella

Rios-Rojas providing the assist. Izzie Wallace added a goal in the second half, with Olivia Smith assisting. Goalkeeper Abby Jenkins and the team defense recorded the shutout.

In their second game, the Royals swept past 3A No. 8 Evansville Reitz 6-0. Wallace scored two goals in the first six minutes of the game, assisted by Maddie Bellaver and Ella Wolf. Bellaver then scored, with Smith making the assist, to put HSE up 3-0 at halftime.

Caroline Kelly added a goal to begin the second half. Lauren Clark scored off an assist by Sam Borgert, and Ella Chester made a penalty kick.

“Hats off the backline allowing zero shots on goal for the game,” said Southeastern coach Greg Davidson.

The Royals are 5-1-1 and host Fishers Wednesday in the Mudsock game.

Hamilton Heights, the No. 10 team in 2A, played a strong game to beat Danville 6-0 at the Warriors’ field.

Cassidy Felger got the Huskies on the board with a goal in the first minute. Cacy Weaver, Felger and Kyndall Ferguson all added a goal in the first half. Ferguson and Jayla Logan then scored one goal each in the second half.

Paige Doucette had six saves as goalkeeper.

“After a slow beginning to the second half which allowed Danville some offensive opportunities, the Huskies tightened up the defense and didn’t allow a shot for the last 25 minutes of the game,” said

The Huskies are 6-0-2 and play Thursday at Kokomo.

Fishers' Olivia Norris earned All-American honors after her performance at the NSAF xAthleticNET Virtual Nationals tournament. Norris placed eighth in the javelin in that meet with a personal-best throw of 134 feet, 7 inches. It's the fifth time in her career that Norris has been named as an All-American.

Elite javelin thrower from Fishers...

Olivia Norris competes in three meets, earns All-American honors

Olivia Norris, a Fishers High School student and elite javelin athlete, competed in three meets this season, two National Virtual meets and one traditional meet.

First, Norris competed in the NSAF xAthleticNET Virtual Nationals. She threw 134 feet, 7 inches, a 14-foot personal record from last year. Norris placed eighth overall and had the No. 1 ranking for 10th-grade athletes. She also received All-American honors for the fifth time in her career.

Norris then finished third in the NSAF xAthleticNET Summer Throws Festival, another national meet. Norris threw 131-2 in the 9th-12th grade division.

The "virtual meet" concept was created due to the COVID-19 pandemic and allowed athletes to compete against one another without being in large groups, and to practice social distancing. Athletes had their videos recorded from start to end with recording times and distances. Those videos would then be submitted to the event committee for validation.

Norris also competed in a traditional meet, the Speed Capital Midwest Invitational, which took place over the summer at Decatur Central High School. This meet featured athletes from several states. Norris finished first with a throw of 132 feet.

Norris received an invitation to the American Festival in Pennsylvania, an Elite javelin competition for 2021, where she will compete against the best in the country from high school to pro.

Norris holds a 3.9 grade-point average and plans to attend college to become an obstetrician.

HSE tennis wins Carroll Invitational

The Hamilton Southeastern boys tennis team won the Fort Wayne Carroll Invitational Championship on Saturday.

The Royals beat Canterbury 4-1 in their first-round matchup, then edged out Homestead 3-2 in the semi-finals. In the championship, Southeastern defeated Cathedral 4-1.

"Overall, I thought we played really well today at all spots," said HSE coach Kirk Webber. "We had a combined record of 11-4."

Webber also noted that the Royals' junior varsity players went undefeated in their exhibition matches.

"Our goal was to come home with the hardware, and that's exactly what we did," said Webber. "We defeated three really good opponents today, and the boys should be proud of the way they played against some strong competition."

No. 3 singles Andrew Orme went unbeaten for Southeastern, winning his first two matches 6-0, 6-0, then taking care of his opponent from Cathedral 6-2, 6-1. The No. 2 doubles team of Evan Wang and Abhi Chaddha was also a perfect 3-0. Wang and Chaddha won their first two matches 6-3, 6-2, then beat the Irish in a third-set super tiebreak, 10-5, after splitting the first two sets 6-1, 4-6.

No. 2 singles Rohan Golla and the No. 1 doubles team of Andrew Spurrison and Paul Schneider both were 2-1 for the tournament, while No. 1 singles Aiden De Witt went 1-1. Golla's wins came over Canterbury 6-1, 6-1 and 6-4, 6-4 over Homestead, and Spurrison and Schneider defeated Canterbury 6-4, 6-4 and Cathedral 6-1, 6-2. De Witt beat his Cathedral opponent 6-0, 6-4.

Southeastern is 7-3 for the season and plays Fishers on Tuesday in the Mudsock dual meet.

Marion County’s health leader warns of risk of canceling high school football season

By DEMIE JOHNSON
WISH-TV

In the Marion County Health Department’s most recent COVID-19 update, Dr. Virginia Caine said if county schools don’t follow county rules, it could cost them the season.

Caine, the department’s leader, said it’s important schools practice the same safety precautions at away games as they do at home games.

News 8 stopped by Franklin Central High School’s home game Friday night against Brownsburg. Parents said they’re behavior doesn’t change from game to game.

Parent Nikki Mucci said, “Everybody’s been following the rules. I mean everybody that I have seen. Even the kids here at Franklin Central, they’re on top of it. I feel like they’re more mature than I’ve ever seen in my life.”

She believes canceling the season would be a terrible idea.

“We’ve already gotten a lot of things taken away from our kids,” Mucci said.

Parent Alicia Khemir agrees. She thinks cancelling the season would be a letdown for students.

“I think this is the most active I have ever seen my daughter so, if they canceled it, I would be really sad,” Khemir said.

Caine said the Marion County Public Health Department has good relationships with surrounding county’s health departments, so if people are breaking rules, it wouldn’t be hard for her to find out.

Caine didn’t go into detail about the number of violations from football games reported so far or what it would take to cancel the season.

Kelsey Mitchell scores 16 points...

Fever fall to Connecticut, finish regular season Tuesday

The Connecticut Sun moved one game closer to clinching a playoff bid on Saturday in a 96-77 win against the Indiana Fever.

Kelsey Mitchell led Indiana with a team-high 16 points to go along with five assists and two rebounds. Saturday was the 11th game this season Mitchell led the Fever in the scoring column.

Rookie of the Year hopeful, Julie Allemand, continued to display her versatility ending the night was seven points, six rebounds and a game-high eight assists. Saturday was the fourth game during her rookie campaign with at least eight assists in a game. Allemand is still on pace to become the only rookie in WNBA history to average at least 8.0 points, 5.0 assists and 4.0 rebounds per game in her first season.

Teaira McCowan came off the bench again to lead all reserves with 15 points, seven rebounds and a career-high three assists. It was McCowan’s 13th game this season scoring at least 10 points.

Tiffany Mitchell also came off the bench to add 12 points, three rebounds and three assists.

Connecticut never trailed on Saturday and finished with a season-low six turnovers. Sun forward DeWanna Bonner led all scorers with 26 points.

The Fever face the Las Vegas Aces for the final 10 p.m. tip of the regular season on Tuesday. Tuesday’s game will not be streamed on FeverBasketball.com, the Indiana Fever’s Facebook page or via the Fever app. Fans can watch on ESPN 2.
