Fishers Health Department preparing for increased demand with mass vaccination site

The REPORTER

The Fishers Health Department (FHD) administered its first COVID-19 vaccine Tuesday at its temporary vaccination site. The Indiana State Department of Health (ISDH) has delivered 400 doses of the Moderna vaccine to date.

In anticipation of increased supply and demand, FHD also announced Tuesday the acquisition of the former Marsh Supermarket store located at 116th Street and Brooks School Road for a mass vaccination site. The site is scheduled to be operational by the end of January and has the ability to vaccinate up to 1,000 individuals per day.

"We are thrilled to have COVID-19 vaccinations available to our residents beginning [Tuesday]," said Public Health Director Monica Heltz. "This vac-

The mass vaccination site is in the process of being rehabilitated by Fishers Department of Public Works and will feature fully operational registration, vaccination, and waiting areas. The 48,000 square-foot site will be able to process approximately 1,000 vaccinations a day, servicing Hoosiers across Central Indiana. Residents who qualify for vaccines under the Indiana Department of Health's current priority group, those 80 years and older, first responders, and healthcare workers, are eligible to register for a vaccine at any Indiana vaccination site at ourshot.in.gov.

FHD encourages residents to complete the Vaccine Interest Form to assist in notifications to those interested in receiving the COVID-19 vaccine. FHD

Stevens named Outstanding County Administrator by IACC

The REPORTER

The Indiana Association of County Commissioners (IACC) has selected Hamilton County Director of Administration Dan Stevens as its "2020 Outstanding Supportive County Administrator of the Year."

Stevens has been a servant in many capacities with Hamilton County, including Hamilton County Sheriff for eight years and Director of Administration for the Hamilton County Board of Commissioners for the past 14 years.

"As we all know, this year has been extraordinarily challenging," an IACC spokesperson said. "In the face of the pandemic, Stevens has been instrumental in helping Hamilton County Commissioners, elected officials, department heads and employees provide governmental services and support functions while keeping staff and the public safe."

Stevens has and continues to administer large scale capital projects on behalf of the county, such as the expansion of the Hamilton County Jail, the recently completed county solar project, and the site master planning of the corrections complex as well as the county administrative offices.

"It is difficult to put into words how valuable Dan's work and dedication has been to the citizens of Hamilton County," said Commissioner Steve Dillinger, a long-time friend of Stevens. "His service has been instrumental in guiding and managing the growth and success of the county and his attention to detail has gained the respect of all."

He has also been a member of the Noblesville Elks Club, Noblesville Moose, Hamilton County F.O.P. Lodge 103, Riverview Hospital Foundation Board, Chaucie's Place, and

Protecting our city's financial future

Noblesville has experienced significant growth over the past two decades and is well positioned to maintain its momentum going forward. However, facilitating this growth requires investment in upgraded infrastructure, additional housing options, and other capital improvement projects that will benefit the community.

The recent and continued growth of our city creates exciting new opportunities but also begs the important questions of how do we pay for such projects in a responsible way?

While there is no universal answer as funding varies project-by-project, a fiscally responsible and common way cities fund major projects is with municipal bonds. As a general rule, I approach municipal budgeting in the same way I partner with my wife to manage our household budget – not spending more than we earn, not mortgaging our future, maintaining savings for unexpected expenses, and being good stewards of funds that we're fortunate enough to earn or receive. We bring those same principles to the table when we work with city departments' budgets that are funded by taxpayers.

One significant differentiation, however, between government debt and consumer debt comes from the state's tax policy for local units of government. City revenues, comprised in significant part from property taxes, are generally much more stable than a single family's income, and as such are considered much more secure from a financing risk perspective, which allows cities to borrow with much lower interest rates.

A reasonable question that is often posed is why a local government unit that has cash reserves would use debt financing instead of paying cash up front for a project. For any major project, paying cash up front would first require the City to collect and hoard taxpayer money for years, stunting the growth and prosperity of our city by taxing citizens without reinvesting the money back into the community immediately. Instead, Noblesville and other cities can pledge portions of their property tax revenues to bonded projects that are paid off over time at extremely low interest rates. Additionally, many redevelopment

Noblesville community leaders will gather to discuss race on MLK, Jr. Day

Submitted by Noblesville Diversity Coalition

Pausing to remember and celebrate Martin Luther King Jr.'s life has become a collaborative community gathering led by Noblesville residents and leaders from the faith and broader community.

MLK Day became a nationally-recognized federal holiday in 2000. According to American historian and professor of humanities Michael Honey, "This was the first holiday around a national figure who was not president, and who is African American."

MLK was one of the most influential American civil rights leaders calling for the end of racial segregation and racial equity in the United States. Maybe most famous for his "I Have a Dream" speech, MLK dreamed of a day when his "four little children will one day live in a nation where they will not be judged by the color of their skin but the content of their character."

On Aug. 28, 1963, Martin Luther King Jr., delivered a speech to a massive group of civil rights marchers gathered around the Lincoln memorial in Washington, D.C. The March on Washington for Jobs and Freedom brought together the nation's most prominent civil rights leaders, along with tens of thousands of marchers, to press the United States government for equality. The culmination of this event was the influential and most memorable speech of Dr. King's career. Popularly known as the "I Have a Dream" speech, the words of Martin Luther King, Jr. influenced the federal government to take more direct actions to more fully realize racial equality.² – National Archives

After nearly 60 years, what would MLK say to our nation and Noblesville? What progress have we made? What are the greatest needs right now? What can we do individually and collectively?

From noon to 1:30 p.m. on Monday, Jan. 18, a panel discussion will be held collaboratively by local churches in cooperation with Bethel AME Church, Noblesville First United Methodist Church, White River Church, Our Lady and economic development projects involve debt repayment guarantees from private developers, meaning that the taxpayer risk is low or nonexistent while new housing, employment, and opportunities are being generated in our city. All local governments' outstanding bonds are audited regularly and reported to the State of Indiana and posted on the public Gateway for Government Units website to facilitate transparency and oversight.

While some may see debt as a bad thing, when used correctly it can be an effective tool to help fast-growing communities, like Noblesville, fund projects while still keeping overall tax rates low. Using bonds enables Noblesville to fully utilize our growing tax base to continue expanding our public infrastructure to keep up with our growing population, like the upcoming Olio Road improvements from 141st Street to 146th Street or the new Village at Federal Hill Commons, which will enhance our community long after the bonds are paid off.

It is important to emphasize that I do not act alone in making these funding decisions. The city has a comprehensive strategy that is supported by dedicated members of my staff and validated by professional financial advisors. These professionals conduct sophisticated project-specific and overarching analysis to guide us on our decisions and to implement and refine our debt and fund management strategy. That strategy ensures that fiscally responsible decisions are made with the interests of taxpayers as their focal point. Our project funding plans also are a collaborative effort with our Common Council and its finance, economic development, and roads committees. Noblesville is fortunate to have a council that gives fund usage proposals rigorous review and has a high level of financial sophistication and understanding.

The combination of a growing tax base, debt limits, expert advice, and comprehensive community investment strategies makes our use of municipal bonds a highly responsible way to fund major projects. Now is an even more ideal time for the strategic use of debt since interest rates are at historic lows, minimizing the cost of borrowing. This approach enables Noblesville to accelerate its investment in public infrastructure, economic development projects and quality of life for all residents.

New research highlights cybersecurity threats as workforces go remote

StatePoint

The business landscape changed significantly in 2020, and new research suggests that cyber criminals took note.

The latest threat intelligence from SonicWall Capture Labs, which reflects year-to-date findings through September 2020, shows that while overall malware volume declined for the third consecutive quarter, cybercriminals are increasingly using different means of attack.

"For most of us, 2020 has been the year where we've seen economies almost stop, morning commutes end and traditional offices disappear," says SonicWall president and CEO Bill Conner. "Unfortunately, the overnight emergence of virtual offices has given cybercriminals new attractive vectors to exploit."

What do businesses need to know? Consider these key findings from SonicWall:

Malware Volume Dipping

Global malware volume is steadily declining. In a year-over-year comparison through the third quarter, SonicWall researchers recorded a 39 percent drop worldwide. However, this doesn't mean it's going away. Conner warns this could represent a cyclical downturn that could shift course in short order. What's more, malware authors and cybercriminals are still busy working to launch more sophisticated, targeted and diversified attacks.

Ransomware Erupts

Ransomware attacks are making daily headlines as they wreak havoc on enterprises, municipalities, healthcare organizations and educational institutions. SonicWall researchers tracked a staggering 139 percent year-over-year increase in the U.S.

A relatively young ransomware family, Ryuk in particular gained popularity in 2020. Whereas there were just 5,123 recorded Ryuk attacks reported through the third quarter of 2019, there were 67.3 million through the third quarter of 2020. This represents one-third of all 2020 ransomware attacks.

"The increase of remote and mobile workforces appears to have increased the prevalence of Ryuk, resulting in financial losses and impacts on healthcare services," says SonicWall vice president, Platform Architecture, Dmitriy Ayrapetov. "Ryuk is especially dangerous because it's targeted, manual and often leveraged via a multi-stage attack preceded by Emotet and Trick-Bot malware. Therefore, if an organization has Ryuk, it's a pretty good indication that it's infested with several types of malware."

IoT Threats Grow

COVID-19 led to an unexpected flood of devices on networks, resulting in an increase of potential threats to companies fighting to remain operational. SonicWall Capture Labs found a 30 percent increase in IoT malware attacks worldwide.

Most IoT devices, like voice-activated smart devices and door chimes, were not designed to prioritize security, making them susceptible to attack and supplying perpetrators with numerous entry points.

"Employees once relied upon the safety that office networks provided, but the growth of remote and mobile workforces has extended distributed networks that serve both the house and home office," says Conner. "Consumers need to consider whether devices like AC controls and baby monitors are safely deployed. For optimum protection, professionals using home offices, especially those in the C-suite, should consider segmenting home networks."

SonicWall threat intelligence data also concluded that cryptojacking, intrusion attempts and IoT malware remain sources of opportunity for cybercriminals.

TODAY'S BIBLE READING

In the same way, count yourselves dead to sin but alive to God in Christ Jesus. Therefore do not let sin reign in your mortal body so that you obey its evil desires. Do not offer any part of yourself to sin as an instrument of wickedness, but rather offer yourselves to God as those who have been brought from death to life; and offer every part of yourself to him as an instrument of righteousness. For sin shall no longer be your master, because you are not under the law, but under grace.

Tigers beat Millers in all-county game

By RICHIE HALL

Fishers got off to a fast start in an all-county and Hoosier Crossroads Conference game at The Mill on Tuesday, and went on to beat host Noblesville 52-41.

The Tigers scored the first 11 points of the game, with Jeffrey Simmons contributing eight of those points. Lucas Prewitt also made a 3-point basket.

A 3 from E.J. Smith got the Millers on the board and Luke Almodovar added a layin. But Fishers embarked on another run after that, scoring 12 points in a stretch that continued into the second quarter and gave the Tigers a 23-5 lead. Prewitt began the run with another 3, and Charlie Smith scored six points. Fishers would go to lead 25-10 at halftime.

“We’re missing two starters, so we needed to get off to a good start and build some momentum and show these guys who are starting for the first time that they can play out here,” said Tigers coach Garrett Winegar. The coach said his team was “locked in” defensively and he was proud of his players for that.

The second half was played more evenly, but Fishers was able to hold a comfortable lead throughout. Charlie Smith added five more points in the third quarter, while Sean Millsaps also scored five, including a three-point play. Noah Harris had a solid third period for Noblesville, with six points.

The Tigers pushed their lead up to 20 points on three occasions during the fourth quarter. Myles Stringer made a layin to get Fishers ahead 46-26. Fishers was aware of the comeback that the Millers made against Pike last week.

“That was a point we made at halftime,” said Winegar. “We had a 15-point lead at half and we said ‘Hey, we just watched the film. They’re not going to quit. They were in the same situation versus Pike, they came back and beat them, so we got to go out here like it’s 0-0 and we got to try to stretch this lead a little bit.’”

Charlie Smith finished the game with 18 points, five rebounds, four steals and four assists. Simmons had 14 points, while Prewitt scored eight points and collected five rebounds. Millsaps added seven points while Stringer had five.

E.J. Smith led Noblesville with 16 points, with Harris adding 12 points and four rebounds. Almodovar scored eight points and Josh Durham had five.

“This is a good group, they’re talented. We’ll hopefully have some better shooting nights than we did tonight. But we’ll get back to work Wednesday and start getting ready for Zionsville on Wednesday at practice.”

The Tigers are 6-4 and next play at Columbus North on Saturday. Noblesville is 5-4 and hosts Zionsville on Friday in an HCC girls-boys doubleheader.

Huskies romp past Western

The Hamilton Heights girls basketball team kept its record perfect on Tuesday, beating Western 61-35 on the road in a Hoosier Conference East Division game.

The Class 3A No. 10 Huskies led 15-10 after the first quarter. Jillian Osswald had seven of those points, including a 3-pointer. Heights then extended its lead to 37-23 at halftime; Camryn Runner threw in three 3-pointers on her way to 11 points during that period. The Huskies went up 48-32 after three quarters.

MyKayla Moran led Heights with 19 points, including eight in the fourth quarter. Osswald finished with 18 points, while Runner scored 16 points, hitting four 3s. Sydney Runyan and Hadleigh Cherry both added three points, while Ella Hickok scored two.

“Great win on the road,” said Huskies coach Keegan Cherry.” MyKayla and Jilian showed their leadership tonight versus a team that was really physical. And I think maybe we learned our lesson versus Westfield in terms of attacking the basket versus heavy pressure in late-game situations. Western continued to be really aggressive defensively late and our girls did a better job of attacking to score versus being tentative and trying to just hang on.”

Heights is 3-0 in the East Division and 13-0 overall. The Huskies finish division play Saturday at Tipton.

‘Rocks pull away from Avon

Westfield began what it hopes will be a new win streak on Tuesday, as the Shamrocks sailed past Avon 66-48 in a Hoosier Crossroads Conference game at The Rock.

Westfield led the Orioles 20-17 in a high-scoring first quarter, then pulled away in the middle periods. The ‘Rocks outscored Avon 17-7 in the second quarter to take a 37-24 halftime lead, then ran through the third period to go up 53-30 by the end of the quarter.

Alyssa Crocket scored 18 points for Westfield, with Jessica Castor and Olivia Robey both adding 10 points. Gigi Eldredge scored eight points and also collected 12 rebounds. Ellie Kelleher and Hailey Remaks both contributed six points, Emmrey Collinsworth and Mikayla Rudolph each scored three and Alli McEvoy had two points. Crockett had six rebounds and Remaks pulled five.

The Shamrocks are 4-1 in the conference and 14-4 overall. Westfield plays another HCC game Friday at Hamilton Southeastern.

‘Hawks stay perfect in HHC

Sheridan used a dominant second quarter to roll past Clinton Central 59-38 Tuesday in a Hoosier Heartland Conference game at Larry Hobbs Gym.

It was a close first quarter, with the Blackhawks leading 15-14. But Sheridan took over in the second period, outscoring the Bulldogs 21-4 to take a 36-18 lead at halftime. The ‘Hawks continued the pace in the third quarter, pouring in another 17 points for a 53-24 lead.

Lillie Dickerson had an outstanding game, scoring 23 points. Riley Reed added 11 points, followed by Taylor Bates with eight, Chaney Smith with six and Sierra Duke with five.

Sheridan is 3-0 in conference play and 7-1 overall. The Blackhawks host Speedway on Thursday.
