Get your Girl Scout cookies on demand with Grubhub

And about the apology ...

By HANNA MORDOCH
WISH-TV | wistv.com

People in Central Indiana can now get Girl Scout cookies on demand. The organization is partnering with Grubhub and offering quick, contact-free delivery of Girl Scout cookies.

It's a great option since no in-person sales are happening due to the pandemic. Local Girl Scout troops will track and fulfill the orders, plus Grubhub has waived all the fees, so the proceeds will still benefit local Girl Scout troops.

"I love cookie-selling," said 16-year-old Gloria Sanchez. She has been earning Girl Scout patches and selling cookies in Carmel for half of her life.

"I have been part of my troop for eight years and I started the winter of first grade because I wanted to sell girl scout cookies," Sanchez said. She's extremely successful, selling a whopping 2,000 boxes last year.

"I have an Apple pencil and an iPad from selling girl scout cookies," she said.

These days she uses that iPad a lot. Her troop now meets online, plus she's helping mentor a Brownie group through Zoom.

"We are really pushing our digital platform called Digital Cookie," Sanchez said. "And, it is a place where girls can set up a website where it has our cookie goal. It has what our troop might be doing with the money, it has all of the cookies listed and a brief description of the cookies and it is very nice."

With no in-person sales this month, the Girl Scouts are getting creative. Sanchez even created a text-to-buy number for her sales. Anyone who texts "cookie" to 66866 is linked to her Digital Cookie website.

"Anyone who doesn't have a hookup for Girl Scout cookies can text this number and they can buy cookies from me," she said. "Having the cookie money funds what we do and what we use."

Grubhub said there is free delivery through Feb. 14 with a minimum of a $15 purchase. On Friday, the on demand cookies are only offered in Indianapolis, Carmel and Lafayette, but more locations will be added soon.

In February, the Girl Scouts hope to sell some cookies in person again. However, Sanchez thinks sales will soar online. Whatever the selling strategy, the cookies help fund the most important part of the Girl Scout mission.

"My main takeaway from Girl Scouts is the friendships and the skills that I have built," Sanchez said.

Are you sorry or are you apologizing?

I remember when my kids were little. Brandon and Emily were almost four years apart. They taught me what it was like to have a sibling as I was an only child.

Brandon: "Emily, I'm sorry."

Emily: "Brandon, I'm sorry."

I knew their "I'm sorry" came from their desire to get out of "time out" rather than from their heart of true repentance.

One of them was a bit more stubborn and stayed in "time out" longer.

Sometimes an "I'm sorry" comes from getting caught. You all know what I mean. Other times it is sincere.

Harsh words. Bad decisions. Betrayal. An omission. Lies. All offenses. Some little. Some not so little. Some not intentional. Some planned and directed to hurt your heart.

My thinking has always been that a sincere apology would include an admission of wrongdoing, remorse for doing it AND how a change would be made. Then ... following through on the change or changes.

Sincere repentance and then forgiveness can be work, on the part of both sides. It takes work to change and it takes work to

Monon Trail pedestrian crossing at U.S. 31, 161st draws ire of INDOT

One-of-a-kind historic covered bridge funded

By DAN KLEIN
WISH-TV | wistv.com

A controversial crossing on the Monon Trail has brought state transportation leaders to the point where if things don't get resolved to their satisfaction, they may close the interchange at U.S. 31 and 161st Street in Westfield. Pedestrians, city leaders and engineers seem to agree something has to change. The question is what's the best way to fix it?

Trying to cross 161st Street on the Monon Trail on foot or bike can feel like a game of chicken around rush hour.

Nail

Patton

"Pretty dangerous for everyone involved it seems," said Noah Borton, who lives nearby. He was walking his dogs Hazy and Jojo on Friday afternoon, one of their four daily strolls.

But he never crosses the road. "Never," he said with a laugh.

The current crossing configuration is just a flashing yellow light. As the nearby sign clearly states for pedestrians, cars are not supposed to stop. But as they frequently do, it's easy to see why the sign is there. Vehicles quickly line up, making rear-end collisions a real possibility.

"It's understandable that people are being courteous. What we see though is a major issue," said Westfield City Engineer John Nail.

Hamilton County is likely the only place in America where the number of covered wooden bridges is increasing. On Monday, county commissioners will accept $2.77 million in federal highway funds to largely pay for the restoration of the nation's last known post truss combination bridge.

Known as the Bell Ford Bridge, it stood for 135 years over the East Fork of White River in Jackson County. When it virtually collapsed about 10 years ago, Jackson County officials said they could not afford to restore it.

Hamilton County Commissioner Mark Heibrandt worked with Jackson County Commissioners to take the bridge with the understanding it would be reconstructed over Fall Creek at Geist Park.

The bridge was disassembled and brought here. It has been in storage for several years awaiting funding under a federal alternative transportation program which grants 80 percent of such costs for trails and bridges.

Actual reconstruction will start late next year, according to County Highway Director Brad Davis, whose department will be the lead agency on the project. The bridge will be a link in the county trail system for pedestrians and bikers, but will not carry motor vehicles.

Hamilton County once had at least six covered bridges. After the loss of Eller Bridge in 1957, Potters Bridge was the only wooden span until Conner Prairie salvaged a covered bridge and placed it on its property several years ago.

Now, the third such historic bridge will be located here. The scenic bridges were numerous throughout the nation in the 19th century, but began disappearing with the advent of steel and concrete bridges in the early 20th century.

Fishers Arts Council presents The Art of Bridging the Gap at the city hall art gallery

The REPORTER

The Fishers Arts Council is offering a three-month exhibit by noted artist Rebecca Robinson entitled, The Art of Bridging the Gap, in The Alcove on the second floor of The Art Gallery at Fishers City Hall.

As long as I can remember art has moved me," Robinson said. "Expressing myself with my artwork allows me to convey a thought, an emotion, a personal experience or an important message. As an artist, it is my duty to push the envelope and create artwork that sparks a dialog and remains timeless."

Robinson studied fashion design in Atlanta, Ga., and continued her education at North Carolina Central University where she majored in Art/Visual Communications and graduated with high honors. In 2019, she began the initial steps of forming her non-profit organization called "ONE ARRT," which will become the first Black-owned art supply brand that specifically supports all artists, art organizations, art education, museums/galleries and communities in need who would prosper with proper funding and resources.

Her exhibit of 11 paintings includes the media of stained glass, acrylic on canvas and concrete, tar and white latex. The exhibit will run through March.

The Art Gallery at City Hall, 1 Municipal Drive, Fishers, is open from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday, excluding holidays and Saturdays during the Fishers Summer Farmers Market.

Many CEF scholarships are funded by the generosity of individual or family donors, often in honor or memory of a loved one who was connected to Carmel Clay Schools. These legacies are a tribute to either the life they lived, the service they provided, or the impact they made on those around them. Additional scholarships are provided by clubs and organizations related to Carmel Clay Schools.

The deadline to submit applications is Friday, March 19. For more information visit ccs.k12.in.us/foundation/scholarships or contact Jennifer Penix, Executive Director, at jpenix1@ccs.k12.in.us or call (317) 844-9961 ext. 2680.

About the Carmel Education Foundation trust ... again. If the hurt/betrayal happens again, well, I know a good therapist.

Apology

I've been given a few apologies and yes, I've given a few.

Apologies never erase what happened but they help the relationship to heal. Sometimes the relationship is broken but you can be amicable ... apart.

Sometimes damage is done by someone with whom you don't have a "relationship" but must interact with them. That takes on a whole different perspective of forgiveness.

Why must life be so difficult? Why do some people have to be so difficult? Why can't we all play fair and be nice? If only we could all live by that oh-so Golden Rule. And just so you know, it is not a verse in the Bible.

The REPORTER

Inside INdiana Business has reported that Westfield-based ag technology firm Taranis has announced Bar Veinstein will serve as its chief executive officer.

The company, which last month announced plans for its new global headquarters in Hamilton County, says Veinstein most recently served as president of Ex Libris, a software-as-a-service company headquartered in Chicago.

According to Inside INdiana Business, Veinstein succeeds co-founder and current CEO Ofir Schlamm, who will continue with the company as president and member of the board of directors.

"I am thrilled to welcome Bar to the Taranis team as we continue to focus on scaling the company and driving our innovative agenda into new markets," Schlamm said in a news release. "Bar's track record will enable us to keep building off our strong foundation to empower growth and address the agronomic challenges our customers face as we usher in this exciting new chapter."

Prior to joining Ex Libris in 2010, Veinstein held senior product management and marketing leadership roles at New Jersey-based NICE Americas, a subsidiary of Israel-based NICE Systems.

Taranis has developed technology that uses drones to capture high-resolution photos of fields, which its artificial intelligence platform can use to find challenges to crops, such as disease or insects.

Last month, the company said it is investing more than $10 million to lease and equip a 6,000 square-foot facility in Westfield to serve as its headquarters and create up to 60 jobs.

It was in the 17th century that British theologians and preachers began using that term.

"Do unto others as you would have them do unto you."

However, five centuries before Christ, another well-known wise man said ...

"Do not impose on others what you do not wish for yourself."

— Confucius

So, this week you get my thoughts and a history lesson.

And by the way, I did receive a letter of sincere apology this week. The people who sent it do not read my column. Perhaps they had a few sleepless nights over the last few weeks. I'm sleeping well too. It is so good to forgive ... and get a good night's sleep.

For years, the solution targeted by city leaders has been a pedestrian tunnel under the road, similar to one in Carmel on 116th Street. There's even an ongoing contract with an outside engineering firm to design it. Their design is expected in October.

"We feel the tunnel was a better solution for this long-term crossing for pedestrians and the city of Westfield in general," Nail said.

Some construction work on a tunnel is already complete. Already underneath the road, there's a concrete cap, so if a tunnel is ever built, 161st Street does not have to be shut down. It has the support of police and fire departments as well as outside engineers.

The tunnel comes with an estimated

$5 million tag.

At December's Westfield City Council meeting, council members voted 5-2 to try a different solution: A High-Intensity Activated crosswalk, nicknamed a HAWK. The beacon is identical to the one on Hazel Dell Parkway just south of State Road 32 in Noblesville. It allows walkers to push a button to turn the crosswalk red and require cars to stop.

Councilman Troy Patton was one of the yes votes.

"The intersection is a problem," he said. Patton said he believes other long-term solutions are possible and less expensive, including moving the crossing to the west, perhaps even lowering the roadway and giving foot traffic a bridge. He said he doesn't like the idea of using eminent domain from nearby property owners to make a tunnel possible.

"I'm not against the tunnel," he said. "I am against hard-earned dollars when they paid for property."

"We want the best solution for the city of Westfield and for the residents," Nail said. "We just disagree on how to get there."

Complicating matters, Indiana Department of Transportation has sent a memo telling the city if a $123,000 HAWK signal is installed on 161st Street – the light has the ability for people to hit the button again after 15 seconds – they would consider closing the U.S. 31 interchange nearby over worries traffic would be backed up to the highway.

Patton is confident things can get worked out.

"I don't think that's going to be an issue," he said.

Borton, the nearby resident, said he's remaining optimistic but is looking forward to the day when he feels safer crossing with Hazy and Jojo. "The sooner the better, definitely," he said.

The memo from INDOT said if the reactivation time is lengthened on the HAWK signal – that's basically the time in between when one person can hit the button and then another person can – that will be acceptable.

City leaders said they will be discussing all this with INDOT as well as the council in the next few weeks.

My crazy, busy, sophomore life – working to have it all!

Editor's Note: The Sheridan Student Column is brought to readers by Sheridan High School's 10th grade English class, taught by Abby Williams.

When I started high school, many people told me to have fun during my freshman and sophomore years because my junior year would be the hardest and demand much more of my time. Now, though, I think my sophomore year may be. I have definitely been much busier this year with academics, activities, and athletics!

"When I grow up," I want to be a pharmacist at a hospital. So, I'm preparing for college. Most students don't start until their junior years, but I had the opportunity to start AP courses my sophomore year, and I did.

Along with just two other sophomores at Sheridan, I'm taking both AP Environmental Science and AP World History this year. My AP teachers act like college professors: They teach from bell to bell and leave daily reading assignments, note taking, homework, and projects for us to complete on our own. My other classes – Accelerated English, Algebra II, Chemistry, Spanish III, and Band – take time outside of school, but thankfully not every night. Band takes extra time, of course, for practices and performances. Throughout the year, I play oboe, and during football and basketball seasons, I also play bass drum in pep band.

I like to spend time making my community better. At school I am a member of the following school groups: Sheridan High School Student Council; SADD (Students Against Destructive Decisions); and Sunshine Society, a student group that gives back to our school and teachers. I'm also in my 11th year of being a Girl Scout. Last year, my troop tore out and replaced dead and old landscaping around the Sheridan Community Center Building and Park. I'm also a student athlete at Sheridan and a dancer at Ballerinas Academy of Dance in Noblesville.

When I tell people about my typical day, they say what I do is crazy, but it energizes me. A typical week for me is five days of school, a six-hour day of dance on Saturdays, and a day of rest on Sundays. Monday through Friday I spend seven hours a day in school. After school, each day is different. In the fall, I am part of the Sheridan Varsity Soccer team. During the season, practice is two hours a day, and there are usually two games a week, which take three to four hours each.

When soccer doesn't conflict with my dance schedule, I go to as many of my classes that I can. I'm grateful that the owner of my studio, Miss Becky, has allowed me to do this! In the winter, three days a week, I go to the weight room for an hour each day. Then, after the weight room, it's time for me to get ready for dance classes. I dance after school four days of the week, for a total of 10 hours, not including driving time to get to the studio. With driving time it takes a total of 16 hours. Once I get home from dance, I have homework to complete, and it normally takes two to three hours every day. At the end of the day, I shower, go to bed, and then, get up the next day and do it all again.

In the spring, I want to be part of the Sheridan Varsity Golf Team, although it may be quite difficult. I have to devote my time to dance, because my studio has its year-end recital at the beginning of June. Unfortunately, golf practice and meets may conflict with my dance classes. If I can only practice sometimes with the team, I will, because I won't stop dancing. Dance is my passion!

I barely have any free time, but I love what I do. I hope to accomplish many things, and I would rather be busy than bored. I think I even work well under stress. I am very grateful for what I am able to do with my time thanks to my family, friends, teachers, coaches, and instructors. I couldn't do it all without them!

Ivy Tech's Central Indiana Chancellor Dr. Kathleen Lee to retire this summer

The REPORTER

Ivy Tech Community College Central Indiana Chancellor Dr. Kathleen Lee has announced she will retire on July 16, 2021. Lee has been with the College since 1985 and has served in this role since 2012. The College has launched a national search process to fill the position.

Lee joined the College in 1985 as the director of clinical education for its Respiratory Care program, followed by becoming its program chair from 1991 to 2001. From there, Lee served as the Dean for Health Sciences and Public Services from 2001 to 2005, then Vice Chancellor of Academic Affairs in 2005. In 2010, she became the interim chancellor for several months before officially becoming chancellor in 2012.

"I have been incredibly blessed to have almost my entire career at a community college like Ivy Tech," Lee said. "I feel fortunate to work with the most dedicated professionals anywhere, serving the communities we care about."

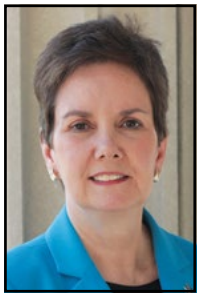

Ivy Tech Central Indiana is the College's largest service area with nine locations, serving Marion, Hamilton, Hancock, Putnam, Shelby, Johnson, Morgan, Hendricks and Boone counties.

During her time as chancellor, Lee has been instrumental in developing the College's downtown Indianapolis campus. In February 2011, the campus opened the Julia M. Carson Learning Resource Center to house the campus library, tutoring services, a community room and a 500-space parking garage.

The following year, Ivy Tech Indianapolis held the grand opening of its Illinois Fall Creek Center, which was the former site of the original St. Vincent Hospital. Today, this building houses 211,650 square feet of classrooms, science labs, computer labs, study rooms, community rooms, Honors College, Barnes and Noble bookstore and Fall Creek Café.

Growth on the campus continued, and in 2014,

Lee

library School.

Most recently, Lee has played a role in growing the College's Automotive Technology Program, which broke ground on a new facility in July 2020 in Indianapolis' International Marketplace District. This new Automotive Technology Center is scheduled to open for the Fall 2021 semester.

Outside of the downtown campus, Lee has championed growth throughout the entire Central Indiana service area.

In 2010, Lee and a team created a partnership with the Town of Avon to consolidate three of its west locations into one. Over its decade-long tenure in Hendricks County, more than 16,700 students have taken courses at Ivy Tech Avon, and the College has awarded nearly 3,000 credentials.

The Hendricks County community has continued to flourish, ranking among the state's fastest-growing counties, thus creating a need to expand educational offerings. In August 2020, Lee's team announced Ivy Tech Avon would move to the new MADE@Plainfield learning facility in Plainfield, which will open in the Fall of 2021. At MADE, Ivy Tech will offer various classes, including math, science, business, information technology and health sciences.

In another growing area, Lee worked with Ivy Tech Noblesville Vice Chancellor Dan Clark and a team to expand Ivy Tech's presence in Hamilton County.

In 2014, Ivy Tech Noblesville became the College's 32nd location in the former Noblesville East Middle School. Today, Hamilton County is the state's fourth-largest and fastest-growing county, with enrollment steadily rising. To meet the community's needs, Ivy Tech and Hamilton County came together in September 2020 to announce plans to expand Ivy Tech Hamilton County Campus at Noblesville into the College's 19th full-service campus. This transition will be effective on July 1, 2021.

Two years later, Lee was a part of an initiative in partnership with the City of Shelbyville and Shelby County to launch the Advantage Shelby Program. This first-of-its-kind promise program encourages workforce readiness and college attainment for Shelby County high school graduates.

In the classroom, Lee's leadership has helped encourage the advancement of one of the most effective nursing programs in the state of Indiana. In April 2019, its Lawrence location held a ribbon-cutting ceremony and open house for a new simulation lab to provide students a safe and realistic environment to practice clinical skills.

Additionally, Lee has worked on several transfer program opportunities, with one of the most successful being the Ivy Tech IUPUI Passport Program.

Locally, Lee collaborated with community organizations and government leaders to make college more accessible to all Hoosiers. In May 2018, Ivy Tech and IUPUI signed agreements with the City of Indianapolis and EmployIndy to launch Indy Achieves to close the county's skills gap. Through this initiative, the City strives to increase the percentage of residents with a postsecondary credential from 42 percent to 65 percent by 2027. To date, more than 950 students have been awarded an Indy Achieves completion grant for Ivy Tech.

One year later, Lee, IUPUI Chancellor Nasser Paydar and the Mexican Consulate in Indianapolis signed a memorandum of understanding for the Station for Educational Orientation to expand the Mexican community's opportunities.

Before Ivy Tech, Lee began her career in respiratory care as a critical care therapist at Riley Hospital for Children in Indianapolis. She also held positions as an educational coordinator as well as a staff therapist for St. Francis Hospital in Beech Grove.

Lee earned her Bachelor of Science in Biology and Secondary Education from Muskingum University in New Concord, Ohio and then her Associate of Science in Respiratory Therapy from the Indiana University School of Medicine. She later went on to earn her Master of Science in Adult Education from Indiana University and her Doctorate in Education from Ball State University.

TODAY'S BIBLE READING

You, however, are not in the realm of the flesh but are in the realm of the Spirit, if indeed the Spirit of God lives in you. And if anyone does not have the Spirit of Christ, they do not belong to Christ. But if Christ is in you, then even though your body is subject to death because of sin, the Spirit gives life because of righteousness. And if the Spirit of him who raised Jesus from the dead is living in you, he who raised Christ from the dead will also give life to your mortal bodies because of his Spirit who lives in you. Therefore, brothers and sisters, we have an obligation—but it is not to the flesh, to live according to it. For if you live according to the flesh, you will die; but if by the Spirit you put to death the misdeeds of the body, you will live. For those who are led by the Spirit of God are the children of God. The Spirit you received does not make you slaves, so that you live in fear again; rather, the Spirit you received brought about your adoption to sonship. And by him we cry, "Abba, Father." The Spirit himself testifies with our spirit that we are God's children. Now if we are children, then we are heirs—heirs of God and co-heirs with Christ, if indeed we share in his sufferings in order that we may also share in his glory.

Millers cruise past Logansport, 57-34

Noblesville extended its win streak to three games on Saturday, taking care of Logansport 57-34 at The Mill.

The Millers got off to a fantastic start, leading the Berries 14-2 after the first quarter. Noblesville kept that margin throughout the second period, taking a 24-11 lead into halftime. Logansport made a comeback in the third to cut the Millers' lead to 32-27, but Noblesville blasted through the fourth quarter, pouring in 25 points.

"I think our guys handled our offensive process the right way," said Millers coach John Peckinpough. "We were patient, we got lane touches and good shots once we got it into the paint. We got to the free-throw line quite a bit in the fourth as well."

Peckinpough said his team played "pretty well defensively all night, especially there in the first half and the fourth quarter."

"It's a good thing to see that we're starting to play our best basketball at this point in the season," said Peckinpough.

Luke Almodovar scored 17 points for Noblesville and made five steals. E.J. Smith and Josh Durham both added 10 points and Noah Harris had nine. Preston Roberts led the Millers rebounding with five.

Noblesville is 8-5 and plays Friday at Hamilton Southeastern in a Hoosier Crossroads Conference game.
