Courthouse Square removed from Noblesville's city logo

Fishers residents first to see new design

The REPORTER
Noblesville Mayor Chris Jensen announced the selection of a new city logo at a Hamilton Southeastern School Board meeting on Tuesday. Jensen told the Fishers group they were the first to see the new design.

In August of last year, the City of Noblesville contracted with Indianapolis-based consulting firm Hiron's for $20,000 to design a new city logo and to refresh Noblesville's brand.

The new design replaces the current logo that features the historic courthouse that sits in the middle of Noblesville's historic downtown square.

In August, Jensen said, "The city is seeking to do a whole refresh of our brand to highlight both the history of Noblesville, as well as promote the progress made and growth to come."

Emily Gaylord, Communications Director for the City of Noblesville, said, "We just thought it was time for a new brand because the current one is a building that belongs to the county. We'd like something that shows a city with a rich history that is ripe for progress."

After receiving several design options from Hiron's, Noblesville offered area residents the opportunity to vote one of five options. The new logo was not among them.

Hamilton County gets $65.5 million in pandemic relief

By FRED SWIFT
ReadTheReporter.com

Hamilton County government will share 'big time' in the federal stimulus grants to local governments, getting $65,555,000. The money will arrive in two disbursements, the first half on May 10 this year, and the other half on May 10 next year.

The money is designed to recover lost revenue from the national pandemic, and allows it to be spent on any number of services that suffered such pandemic losses, says county grants administrator Todd Clevenger.

Actually, the county did not suffer the extreme losses that some localities experienced. County revenues through property taxes and local income taxes held up fairly well through the past year.

Cities and towns within the county will each receive their own grants based on criteria set by the federal legislation. In total, these amounts will likely exceed the $65 million the county receives.

The money is in addition to the $10 million the county is getting for rent assistance to individuals, a grant being administered by the Washington Township Trustee's office.

And, all individuals in the county are also due to receive $1,400, with lesser amounts to those whose annual earnings exceed $75,000.

Spending of the county's grant will be determined by county commissioners and subject to appropriation by the county council.

Updated comprehensive plan for county's rural areas up for approval

Public hearing on plan adoption set for 7 p.m. tonight

By CORRIE MEYER
For the Reporter

Editor's note: Corrie Meyer, AICP, PLA, is the President and CEO of Carmel-based Innovative Planning, LLC.

The Hamilton County Plan Commission embarked on a journey to update the Comprehensive Plan for the rural townships of Wayne, White River, the northeast corner of Noblesville, and Adams Township. These townships represent the jurisdiction area of the Hamilton County Plan Commission. Other townships like Jackson, Clay, and Washington are governed by other Plan Commissions.

Throughout 2020, the Plan Commission worked with a consultant team of Innovative Planning, Burke Engineering, and Peterson Architecture. Innovative Planning led the team and the Plan Commission through research, analysis, social media engagement, nine community meetings, six public presentations, and the culmination of new recommendations for the Plan Commission and townships to implement over the next 10 years.

provides a foundation for all land use, transportation, and environmental policies, projects, and activities. All governing bodies of the county will refer to this plan when working on future projects.

Indiana code IC 36-7-4-500 allows Plan Commissions to adopt a comprehensive plan that is a "promotion of public health, safety, morals, convenience, order, or the general welfare and for the sake of efficiency and economy in the process of development." By code, the plan must contain these three elements:

1. A statement of objectives for the future development of the jurisdiction.
 2. A statement of policy for the land use development of the jurisdiction.
 3. A statement of policy for the development of public ways, public places, public lands, public structures, and public utilities."
- Why plan at all? There are several reasons for good planning. Planning for the future provides a framework for county leaders to implement best land use, transportation, and environment practices. A good plan is holistic, which allows for future decision making to be informed and based on factual data.

Noblesville Mayor Chris Jensen discusses eastward expansion into HSE school district

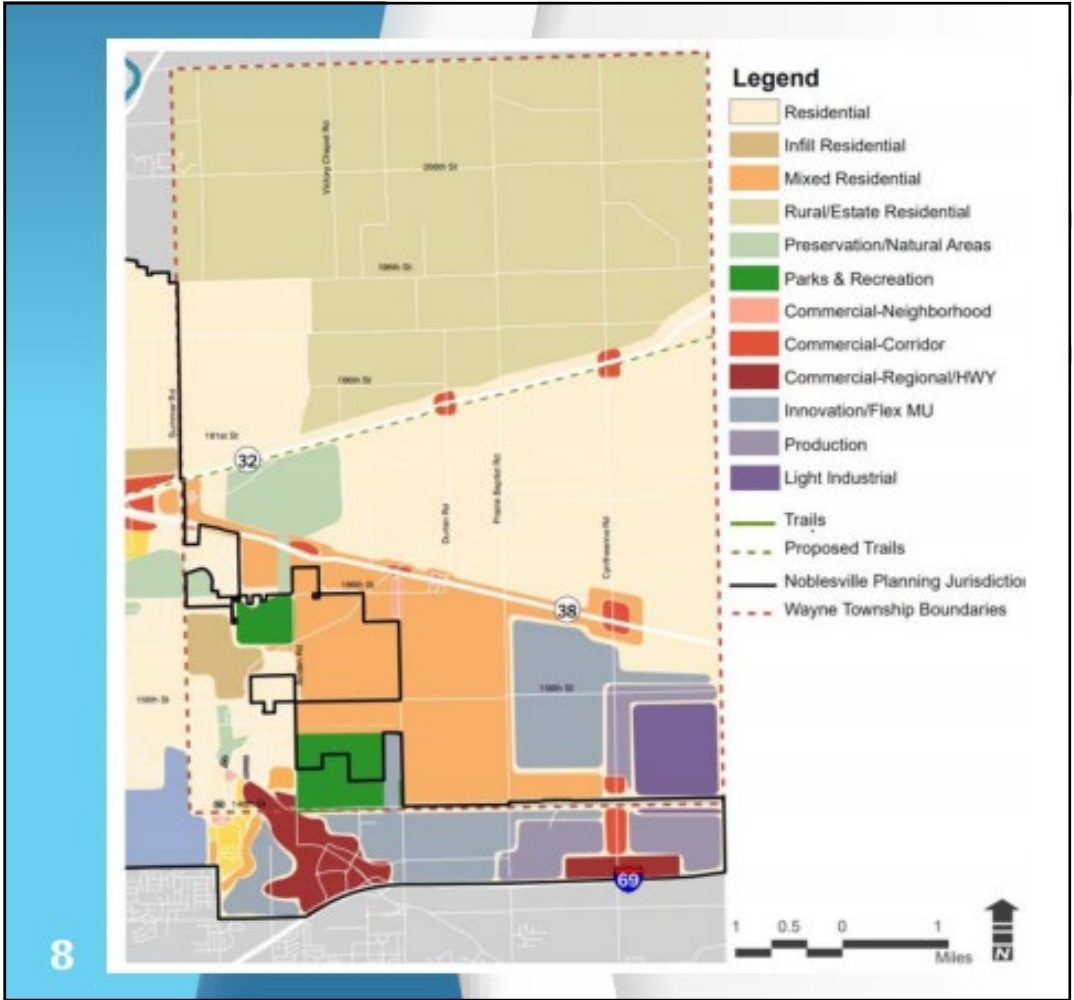

By LARRY LANNAN
LarryInFishers.com

The Hamilton Southeastern (HSE) School District has been known as mostly a Fishers school system. It takes in the entire city of Fishers, unincorporated areas of Fall Creek and Delaware townships, as well as all of Wayne Township.

The City of Noblesville projects that it will be expanding east into Wayne Township, meaning what had been a rural area will see population growth as development moves in that direction.

For that reason, Noblesville Mayor Chris Jensen and members of his staff addressed the HSE school board on his city's plans that will impact HSE Schools. Jensen projects that in the coming five to 10 years, the population of Noblesville will double in size, with most of that growth happening within the HSE school district.

HSE is constructing a new school within the current boundaries of Noblesville at 156th Street and Boden Road,

Fadness testifies in support of bill meant to combat increased crime

The REPORTER

Fishers Mayor Scott Fadness testified on Tuesday at the Indiana Statehouse in support of legislation to combat the rise in violent crime in Central Indiana, which is at an all-time high.

House Bill 1558

would establish the Indiana Crime Guns Task Force, creating a regional partnership across eight Central Indiana counties to trace illegal guns through the Indianapolis Crime Gun Intelligence Center (CGIC). Since this partnership began in 2019, a total of 183 guns confiscated by Fishers Police have been processed and linked to 101 violent crimes in the region, including dozens of crimes committed across Central Indiana by the criminals who shot and killed Fishers K-9 Officer Harlej.

I was born and raised right here in Noblesville. I grew up in a home without domestic violence or assault – it wasn't something I saw, or even heard about. But when I was introduced to Prevail of Central Indiana, I was shocked by the number of individuals who are affected by domestic violence. In 2018 alone, Prevail helped more than 4,000 clients in Hamilton County. (Nearly 80 percent of clients are women and children.) Domestic violence and abuse are hard topics to discuss, so you don't often hear about them. Attorney General Rokita responds to Purdue Pharma bankruptcy plan

Indiana Attorney General Todd Rokita on Tuesday said that opioid manufacturer Purdue Pharma's bankruptcy plan represents an important step toward making sure Hoosiers impacted by the devastating opioid epidemic receive the resources necessary to recover from the ongoing crisis.

"Thousands of Hoosiers have lost their lives to opioid overdoses in the last several years, and I am encouraged that this plan will lead to much-needed and long-overdue aid for our citizens," Rokita said. "The opioid epidemic continues to plague our great state, and I will do all I can to see that this plan helps end our citizens' suffering."

On Tuesday, Purdue Pharma filed its bankruptcy plan for consideration before the United States Bankruptcy Court for the Southern District of New York. The $7 billion proposal is a combination of company assets and a guaranteed $4.275 billion from the Sackler family – a contribution almost 50 percent greater than what the family offered two years ago.

The terms also sever the Sacklers' control and ownership of Purdue Pharma, effectively removing them from any involvement in U.S. opioid sales. Furthermore, the plan states that Purdue Pharma's assets will be transferred to a new company, which will emerge from the bankruptcy with an independent board of directors and oversight by a court-appointed monitor.

While the proposed plan is an important first step, Attorney General Rokita promised to continue negotiating with Purdue Pharma, along with other states, to achieve the best possible solution for Hoosiers.

Rokita

"When I ran for attorney general, I pledged to relentlessly protect Hoosiers. I will uphold this commitment and work with Purdue Pharma until we reach a deal that will help all Hoosiers move forward from this crisis," Rokita said.

In February, Rokita announced that Indiana will receive more than $12.5 million as part of a multistate settlement with McKinsey & Company, one of the world's largest consulting firms. The firm contributed to the opioid epidemic by selling aggressive marketing schemes and consulting services to opioid manufacturers, including Purdue Pharma.

Indiana's $12,579,158 share of the McKinsey settlement will be used to fund prevention, education, and treatment efforts in local communities.

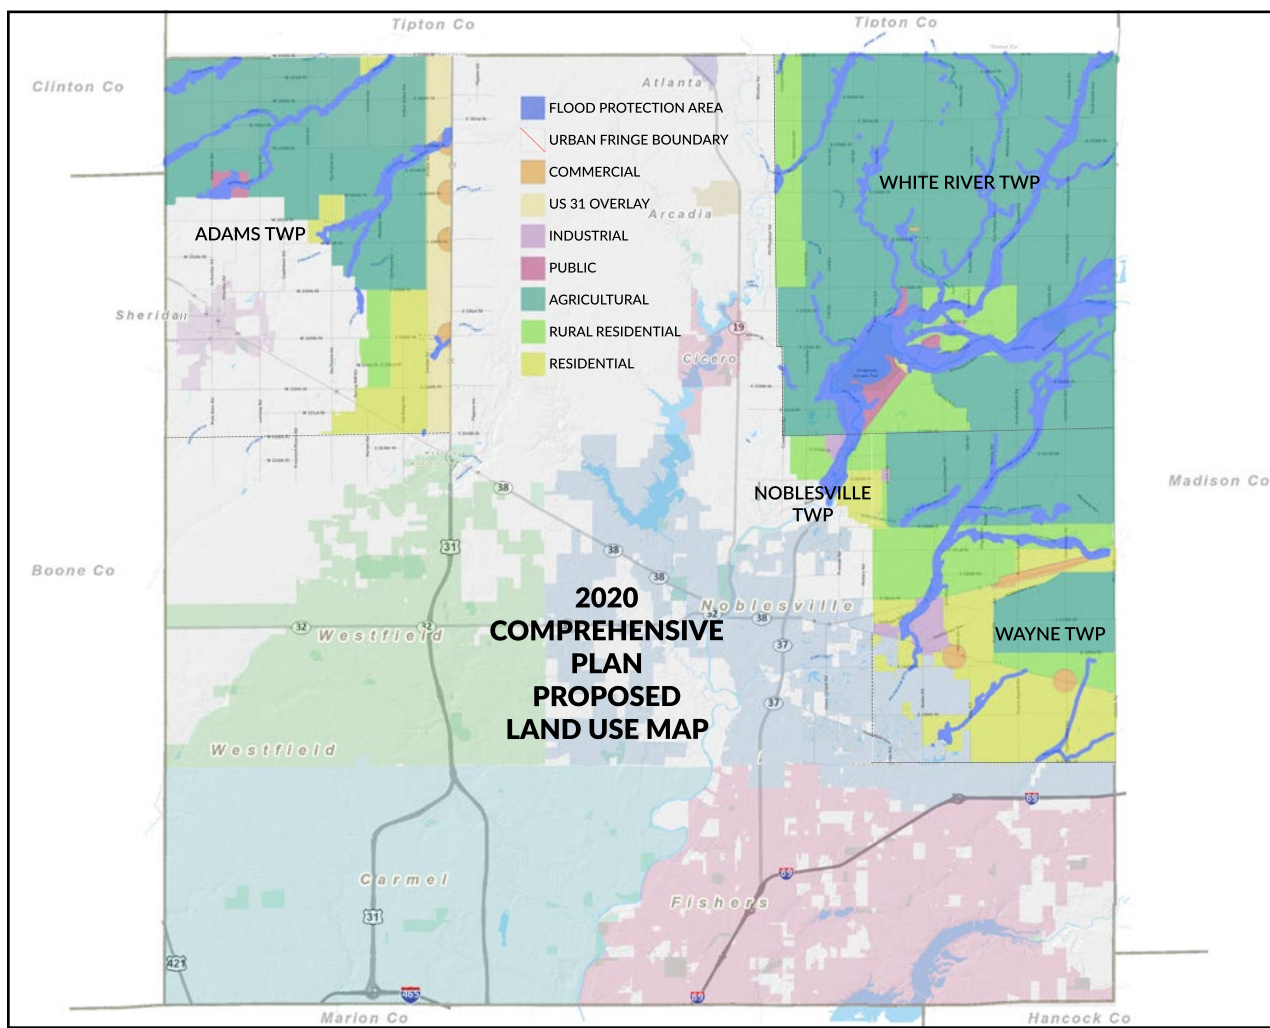

UPDATED COMPREHENSIVE PLAN

It gives guidance for landowners and developers regarding what county leaders and residents want to see, and how to grow, build, and invest in the county. It provides an avenue for county planners to listen to residents and community members. A county plan will influence neighboring jurisdictions. It is mandatory in order to have zoning laws. Finally, a good plan protects property values.

The last Hamilton County Comprehensive Plan was adopted in 2006; and prior to that, 1990. The mission of today's Comprehensive Plan is for residents and leaders of Hamilton County to shape a land use vision that strikes a healthy balance between environment, community, culture/values, and economy for the Hamilton County Plan Commission to implement over the coming decade. The goals of this planning effort were to develop a plan that is rooted in citizen input, create development strategies for the right development in the right place, and listen to leaders of Hamilton County and incorporate their vision in the plan.

This project was completed in an unprecedented time, during the COVID-19 pandemic. Innovative Planning and its team broke the project into three phases: Analysis/discovery, public engagement, and exploration. A detailed examination of existing plans, maps, and other resources were completed.

This information was used in conversations with stakeholders. Public engagement consisted of nine public meetings – three in each township, mailed and online surveys (with over 600 responses), and public presentations at Steering Committee, County Commissioners, County Council, and Plan Commission meetings. The team incorporated public ideas into concrete concepts for land use or other planning jurisdiction issues like land use, transportation, and flood resiliency.

Map provided

This new comprehensive plan proposal is an update to the current plan, which was adopted in 2006.

Finally, the exploration phase consisted of in-depth research of planning trends, best practices for rurality, and reviews of peer county policies and discussions with elected/appointed officials.

Throughout the public engagement period, a vision for the townships of Adams, White River, Wayne, and northeast Noblesville emerged. The recommendations of the new Comprehensive Plan needed to (1) endorse the agrarian culture and quality of life, (2) balance current land uses and growth in a sustainable manner, (3) protect floodplains and natural resources, (4) strategically encourage economic development in business and agriculture, and (5) manage population growth by increasing clusters of population density.

The Comprehensive Plan recommendations are just that – recommendations. They are strategic initiatives that, if acted on, would accomplish the Plan Commission's vision statements. These recommendations are not code and they are not policies that have already been adopted. They are strategic inspirations that work towards the project's mission.

The recommendations are intended to be implemented over the next 10 years through Plan Commission zoning ordinances, future/adopted county-wide policy statements, and by influencing other governing bodies in Hamilton County, the region, and state. The 2020 Comprehensive Plan recommendations are categorized under Quality of Life, Land Use, Economic Development, Stormwater and Flooding, and Transportation.

The proposed plan is currently open for a Public Hearing at the Hamilton County Plan Commission. The next meeting is 7 p.m. this evening, Wednesday, March 17, at the Hamilton County Government and Judicial Center.

When the Plan Commission closes the Public Hearing, they will send it to the Hamilton County Commissioners for adoption. After the County Commissioners adopt the plan, it will be ready for implementation. The Plan Commission will "work" the recommendations over the next 10 years, until it is time for another update.

Learn how to spot, fix water leaks

The REPORTER

More than two in three Americans have experienced a leak at their home, according to a recent survey conducted by global research agency Opinion on behalf of American Water in an effort to better understand Americans' awareness of household leaks.

The results coincide with the annual recognition of Fix a Leak Week (March 15-21, 2021), a national campaign led by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) each year that helps raise awareness about leaks and other water issues that contribute to home water waste.

This year's Fix a Leak Week coincides with the one-year mark of COVID-19, when most people began spending more time indoors and water usage increased for many. In fact, since the start of the public health emergency, about a quarter of Americans say they have been using more water, meaning it's more important than ever to be aware of common issues and know how to spot them.

"By conducting our survey, we were able to take a comprehensive snapshot of where we stand when it comes to water leaks and water conservation during this unprecedented time," said Indiana American Water President Matt Prine. "As part of our mission of helping to better serve our customers, we are using this year's Fix a Leak Week to help people understand where and how to spot common problematic leaks to help improve home safety and support water efficiency and conservation."

Some key findings from the survey:

- More than half of Americans have experienced leaks in their bathroom (52 percent) and kitchen (50 percent). Below are some ways to keep track of some of those common leaks and avoid plumbing system clogs:

- Test your toilet. Place a drop of food coloring in the toilet tank. If any color shows up in the bowl after 10 minutes, you have a leak. (Flush immediately afterwards to avoid staining the tank.)

- Watch what you put down the drain. There are many things we put down the drain that don't belong there. Check out the list of what should never go down your drain for items that may be hurting your pipes.

- Up to 77 percent of Americans reported seeing signs of a potential water leak. Checking up on this can be as easy as doing the following:

- Examine faucet gaskets and pipe fittings. Look for water on the outside of the pipe to identify any leaks.

- Check outside. Examine the exterior of your home if you think you have a leak. If hoses are left on even a little, they can drip, resulting in significant waste over time. Irrigation systems can leak underground, causing mushy sod and other above-ground indications of issues.

- Nearly a quarter of Americans report using more water since the beginning of the pandemic. Here's what you can do if you're worried about your water usage:

- Keep track of water usage, especially during cold winter months. If, during January or February, a family of four uses more than 12,000 gallons per month, there are likely serious leaks in your plumbing system or fixtures.

- The most common way Americans waste water is by leaving the faucet on when brushing their teeth, doing so an average of eight times each month.

Although the average water user doesn't do it as often, the most wasteful activity is using a hose to wash your car, which will use up to 75 gallons of water every five minutes the hose is running.

Indiana American Water is committed to fixing leaks by replacing or upgrading water infrastructure in order to provide clean, safe, reliable water to customers. Indiana American Water annually invests, on average, more than $100 million to replace aging infrastructure and upgrade its treatment and distribution system facilities. Over the next 10 years, American Water will invest $22 to $25 billion in its infrastructure to replace and upgrade pipes, pumps, treatment, and storage.

TODAY'S BIBLE READING

I myself am convinced, my brothers and sisters, that you yourselves are full of goodness, filled with knowledge and competent to instruct one another. Yet I have written you quite boldly on some points to remind you of them again, because of the grace God gave me to be a minister of Christ Jesus to the Gentiles. He gave me the priestly duty of proclaiming the gospel of God, so that the Gentiles might become an offering acceptable to God, sanctified by the Holy Spirit.
Romans 15:14-16 (NIV)

Fishers' Burton, Carmel's Dunn named Indiana Girls All-Stars

Fishers' Katie Burton (above) and Carmel's Bridget Dunn (right) were among the 14 players selected to be on the 2021 IndyStar Indiana Girls All-Stars. Burton, a 5-9 guard, averaged 21.9 points per game this past season and has committed to St. John's University. Dunn, a 6-3 forward, averaged 12.7 points and signed with Kent State University.

Fishers' Katie Burton and Carmel's Bridget Dunn are among the 14 players that have been selected for the 2021 IndyStar Indiana Girls All-Stars, All-Stars game director Mike Broughton announced Monday.

Those chosen to the team will play three games in June -- one exhibition game against the Indiana Junior All-Stars as well as home-and-home contests against the Kentucky All-Stars.

Buckley

The other 2021 Indiana Girls All-Stars, listed alphabetically, are: Ally Becki of Brownsburg, Madelyn Bischoff of Roncalli, Courtney Blakely of Hammond Noll, Kaitlyn Costner of Penn, Sydney Jaynes of Trinity Lutheran, Chloe McKnight of Bedford North Lawrence, Meg Newman of North Central, Vanessa Shafford of Linton-Stockton, Brynn Shoup-Hill of Goshen, Jayla Smith of Lawrence North, Trinity Thompson of Michigan City and Ariana Wiggins of Heritage Christian. Dunn is injured and is not expected to play in the games.

The coaches for the 2021 All-Stars will be the same staff that was to guide the All-Stars a year ago, as the 2020 All-Star events were canceled because of the COVID-19 pandemic. The head coach will be Jeff Allen of Bedford North Lawrence. He will be assisted by Donna Buckley of Noblesville and Doug Springer of Northridge.

The 2021 IndyStar Indiana Miss Basketball will be announced from within the group of All-Stars listed later this month. A group of Miss Basketball finalists is expected to be released later this week in

The Indianapolis Star. Later in the month, the 2021 Miss Basketball winner also will be announced in The Star.

The Junior-Senior exhibition game is set for June 9 at a site to be announced. The first game against Kentucky will be June 11 at the Owensboro SportsCenter in Owensboro, Ky. The final game against Kentucky will be June 12 at Southport Fieldhouse in Indianapolis. The games in Indianapolis are at Southport because Bankers Life Fieldhouse is unavailable this summer because of another phase of renovations that will be occurring there.

All three dates will be doubleheaders with the IndyStar Indiana Boys All-Stars.

The Indiana Junior All-Stars will play just one game this year -- June 9 against the seniors. There are no Junior All-Star games against Kentucky this year.

The Indiana All-Stars program was founded in 1939 when the Indiana Boys All-Stars played the state champion Frankfort Hot Dogs. The series with Kentucky began in 1940, and the girls portion of the All-Stars was added in 1976. The Junior All-Stars, boys and girls, were added in 1996. The All-Star senior girls have played Kentucky every year since 1976, except 2020 (COVID-19 pandemic). The All-Star senior boys have played Kentucky in all but three years since 1940 -- 1943 (World War II), 1944 (World War II) and 2020 (COVID-19 pandemic).

The Indiana portion of the All-Star Games is organized and produced by the Indiana Basketball Coaches Association. The Indianapolis Star, with its IndyStar brand, is a title sponsor.

Miss Basketball is selected through a balloting process of coaches and media overseen by game organizers from the IBCA. The remainder of the team is finalized by Broughton after observing numerous games and events throughout the season, conferring with coaches, school officials and media across the state. Broughton also reviews votes submitted by coaches and media who each could recommend up to 10 players.

WHMB-TV to show Seymour semi-state basketball games

WHMB-TV 40 will televise the boys basketball games at the Seymour semi-state on Saturday.

The first game, a Class 3A contest between Guerin Catholic and Silver Creek, will be shown at 5 p.m. The second game, a 4A showdown between Lawrence North and Bloomington South, will air at 9 p.m. Dave Nicholson and Howard Kellman will call both games.

Guerin Catholic will be attempting to win its first semi-state since 2015. The 4A game will feature the two winningest coaches in Indiana: Bloomington South's JR Holmes has 861 wins and LN's Jack Keefer has 847 wins.

Siefert sets new 100 hurdles school record . . .

Millers girls track opens season with win

By RICHIE HALL
NOBLESVILLE - If the first meet of the season is any indication, this year's Noblesville girls track and field team could be a very good one.

The Millers opened their season Tuesday by hosting Warren Central at Beaver Materials Field. Despite the chilly, cloudy weather, Noblesville shined in its 91-41 dual meet victory, winning 11 of the 16 events.

"I thought we performed really well," said first-year Millers coach Jim Pierce.

The highlight of the meet came from junior Kiana Siefert, as she set a new school record in the 100 hurdles. Siefert's new-record time is 15.37 seconds, and was one of three events that she was victorious in Tuesday night. Siefert also won the 300 hurdles (a 1-2-3 sweep for Noblesville) and the long jump.

The Millers' freshmen also came out and had great performances in their first-ever meet. Hannah Alexander, the No. 1-ranked freshman in the country in the shot put, easily won that event with a throw of 36 feet, 8 inches, and also took the discus with a toss of 111-5.

Nadia Perez sailed to victory in the 3200 run, finishing in a time of 11:54 and leading a 1-2-3 sweep. Pierce was happy to see her finish under 12 minutes.

"There was a lot of cool stuff all over the place," said Pierce. "It's just a great group of kids to work with."

The seniors had their moment as well. Delaney Boles won the 400 dash, while Abigail Line was first in the 800. Parker Davis led a 1-2-3 sweep in the pole vault.

Sophomore Paige Hazelrigg won the 1600 run, another Noblesville 1-2-3 sweep. Hazelrigg joined freshman Megan Meinerding, Boles and Line for a victory in the 4x800 run.

Pierce was pleased with his team's balance across the board.

"We've got good kids that came in from sprints and some people we recruited out of the building, just added in," said Pierce.

A nice addition is that of Millers soccer stars, seniors Jenna and Elana Chatterton, both of whom are out for track and field for the first time and performed well in their first meet. Pierce noted there were other soccer players joining the track team as well.

Noblesville will be off until after Spring Break, when it travels to Harrison for a meet on April 15.

Team score: Noblesville 91, Warren Central 41.
4x800 relay: 1. Noblesville (Megan Meinderding, Paige Hazelrigg, Delaney Boles, Abigail Line) 10:31.44.
