Westfield Playhouse reaches for the stars

Main Street Productions, in conjunction with Grand Universe, is currently staging Silent Sky, a play about science and love and women's struggles in the year 1900. The play runs through May 16 at Westfield Playhouse, 220 N Union St., Westfield.

Silent Sky gives audiences a chance to not only learn about the history of women in science, but also to get some hands-on experience with modern astronomy.

According to Director Max McCreary, "Silent Sky is the story of Henrietta Swan Leavitt and the Harvard observatory 'computers."

The term "computer" originally meant "one who computes," or a person performing mathematical calculations.

In his 1950 paper titled, "Computing Machinery and Intelligence," Alan Turing described the "human computer" as someone who is "supposed to be following fixed rules; he has no authority to deviate from them in any detail."

women from the late nineteenth century onwards, tedious calculations.

"They were effectively the first recognized female astronomers in the United States," McCreary said.

McCreary told The Reporter Silent Sky is at its core a love story.

"It is the love story of Henrietta's relationship with her work, with the night sky, with science, and also with her family and her romantic love interest, Peter Shaw," McCreary said. "It is a heartwarming play about what it means to be curious."

One of the foundational themes in the works of playwright Lauren Gunderson is an emphasis on the stories of women in STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering, and Math).

"This was the first one of her works that got big national recognition because of the story it was telling," McCreary said. "This is about a department of truly brilliant mathematicians without whom Harvard Observatory would never have been able to make the discoveries that it made. We use their data – their research – every single day now in contemporary astronomical sciences. But back in 1900 they were all relegated to a small office building just off the side of the observatory working for $0.25 an

Despite being in those circumstances, Henrietta Leavitt's work, her publication particularly the period luminosity relation – became the document that allowed us to measure the distance to stars. It is literally because of her work that we have a better understand of where Earth is in our galaxy and in relations to everything else that's in our night sky."

In addition to the play itself, Grand Universe will have telescopes available outside the playhouse for an introduction to both night and day astronomy.

For some reason this hit my heart, hard. Tears slipped down my cheeks. This made things even more real. Not sure why. Grief asks questions that cannot be answered.

I went into the grocery store and was on my way to the checkout and saw the row of Mother's Day cars. I quickly passed by that aisle. I swallowed hard.

People are so kind to ask me how I am doing. Honestly, I think I am doing well. I had my mother for over 65 years. We shared great memories. We loved each other well. Not everyone has that kind of love. I was blessed.

But I have my moments. I think I alwavs will.

They say that grief is love with no place

I am doing well, and then I see a video of my mom. She is singing or laughing or telling one of her stories. I am reminded of the love we shared and the tears fall, ever so gently, down my cheeks.

Interstates 70 and 74 would carry east-west traffic through Indiana, and Interstates 65 and 69 would run from north to south. Interstate 465 was proposed as a beltway around the city of Indianapolis. ### A plea to Indiana state legislators for collaboration, consensus on public health

Indiana legislators will soon reconvene and consider overriding Gov. Holcomb's veto of Senate Enrolled Act 5 (SEA 5), legislation crafted as a direct response to actions taken by local health departments during the COVID-19 pandemic. Given the level of controversy surrounding SEA 5, more and more Hoosiers are aware of the dangerous consequences if the bill were to become law.

We now write with a plea to legislators that they avoid a rush to override and consider improving public health in Indiana through collaboration, consensus and attention to detail. Our organizations represent more than 1,300 local health department employees and thousands of doctors, nurses and public health professionals and hospital leaders in Indiana.

Most, if not all, would happily participate. As Gov. Holcomb indicated, there are several important partners involved with public health in our state. From universities and non-profits to local mayors, councils and county commissioners, there is so much opportunity to find and implement improvements to our public health system.

This includes you as legislators, the governor, Indiana Department of Health and other state agencies. Working together, our state can become a national leader for public health. A thorough, thoughtful approach has led to significant success in other matters of statewide importance including economic development, infrastructure and tourism.

Our state's primary problems regarding public health extend well beyond decision-making authority.

At a foundational level, Indiana lacks the infrastructure necessary to properly carry out its public health functions. We rank 48th in state funding for public health, which leads to a lack of resources and trained staff. When you combine that with the poor health status of our population, which ranks 41st out of 50 states, we are bound to have more negative outcomes compared to others.

The immediate transfer of both oversight and appeals would do little to change these rankings. To the contrary, we are concerned local governments are unprepared to accept these responsibilities, creating an even more challenging environment to address public health in our communities.

While sometimes it may seem that public health is pitted against economic vitality, it really is not health versus economy, but rather the long-term protection of economic success through smart, evidence-based strategies designed to reduce disease transmission with short-term protection strategies.

We must continue to trust data and science. The negative impacts of COVID-19 could and would have been much worse had it not been for the difficult decisions made by public health officials to protect their communities.

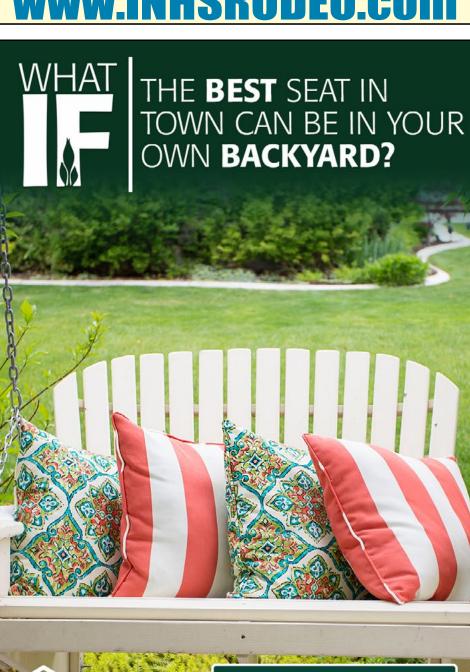

Please, legislators, consider a different path that will best serve and protect the health of all Hoosiers. Jeremy P. Adler, M.D.

TODAY'S BIBLE READING

Nevertheless, each person should live as a believer in whatever situation the Lord has assigned to them, just as God has called them. This is the rule I lay down in all the churches. Was a man already circumcised when he was called? He should not become uncircumcised. Was a man uncircumcised when he was called? He should not be circumcised. Circumcision is nothing and uncircumcision is nothing. Keeping God's commands is what counts. Each person should remain in the situation they were in when God called them.

Golden Eagles win loaded State Preview

Carmel's Shoji Fujita makes big eagle to clinch medalist honors

With 18 of the top 20-ranked teams in the state participating, Saturday's State Preview boys golf tournament at Prairie View Golf Club was one of the more highly anticipated events of the season.

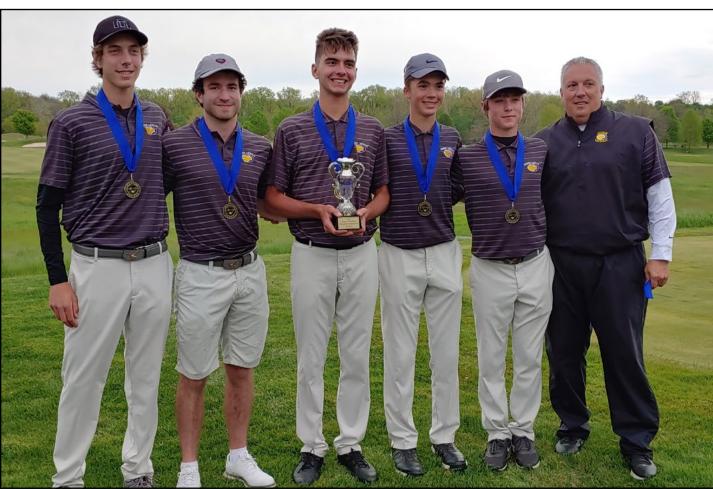

Guerin Catholic came into the State Preview ranked No. 1 in the state, and the Golden Eagles left as No. 1, winning the tournament. Guerin carded a team score of 292. Fifth-ranked Carmel was the runner-up with a total of 298, and also had the meet medalist: Shoji Fujita's outstanding play on the back nine sent him to the individual championship with a score of 69, three under par.

The Golden Eagles' team score placed them four over par as a team. Connor McNeely led the way with a two-under par 70, while Andrew White, Jacob Modleski and Leo Wessel all had 74s. McNeely and Modleski both made an eagle, while McNeely, White and Ben Burgan (79) all drained two birdies. Wessel had one birdie.

"They showed up, all of them played extremely well," said Guerin Catholic assistant coach Joel Rust. "The course was in great condition."

Fujita also made an eagle, and it will likely be remembered as one of the best eagles ever made at Prairie View. He achieved it on the par-4 17th hole, and it looked precarious at first.

"I pulled my tee shot to the left, ended up in the fairway bunker," said Fujita. "It was sitting down, wasn't a great lie, I had 175 (yards) out. I pull out a seven iron and I just tried to chop down at it to get the ball out. It ended up pretty close to the hole, and then I look down and then I hear my brother and one of my team-

Trailblazers score sweep of Bedford NL

The University baseball team had a tremendous Saturday, scoring a doubleheader sweep of Bedford North Lawrence on the road.

In the first game, the Class 2A No. 6 Trailblazers shut out the Stars 4-0. Bedford is receiving votes in the 4A poll, but University did not allow any runs and held BNL to only three hits.

The 'Blazers scored a run in the top of the first inning, with Adam Oxley batting in Tyler Galyean. Oxley stepped up again in the third inning, knocking a two-run home run that also scored Luke Hellman. In the sixth inning, Jake Hooker got on base with a double and Matt Moore singled him home.

Oxley was 2-for-3 at the plate, while Weber Morse hit a double. Grayson Knight pitched four and two-thirds innings for the win, with Galyean relieving him and getting the save.

University won the second game 10-5. The Stars scored two runs in the bottom of the second, but the 'Blazers came back and tied the game in the top of the third when Oxley hit a double to score Grady Hay and Galyean.

Bedford led off the third inning with a home run to go up 3-2. The Trailblazers took over after that with three runs in the bottom of the third. Knight batted in Hooker, Moore got home on Hay's RBI fielder's choice, then Seth Hogg scored on Galyean's RBI fielder's choice.

University held the lead from that point forward. In the fifth inning, Hooker scored on a wild pitch and Galyean batted in Moore. The Trailblazers completed the scoring with three runs in the sixth: Moore doubled home Oxley and Price, then later scored on a wild pitch.

Hellman and Moore both were 3-for-4 at the plate. Hay got the win, pitching four innings of relief.

The Trailblazers are 15-6 and play Tuesday at 2A No. 3 Lafayette Central Catholic.
