A matter of trust

It’s been a rough year for our family, to put it mildly. In a little over four months, we discovered my mother’s cancer, both of my sons’ hearts have been broken, and I lost my biggest client. I know I’m not alone. We all have struggles in this life.

Recently, I also faced a huge decision about an avenue for publishing my next book. For two weeks, I did due diligence “to the max.” I read every article I could find about it. I talked to some women who had taken that path. And most of all, I prayed.

I don’t like to ask God for a sign. But as my decision deadline approached last week due to a contract, I realized I still didn’t know what to do. My head hurt from all of my research. For once, I didn’t want to think about my book anymore.

Finally I said, “Okay, I give up. You’ve gotta show me what to do here. I still have no clue.”

The next morning, I found the little heart pictured here right by my computer keyboard. It’s not unusual for it to be on my desk, as this gift has been on the corner of it for over a month now.

But I have no clue how it got moved. It was literally the first thing I saw when I began to work one morning last week.

It says, “Trust in the Lord with all your heart.”

While this didn’t give me the instant answer I was hoping for, it did calm me. I felt more relaxed about the decision than I had in days.

I actually had two options pending for my book. I was also waiting on an answer from yet another agent. (My spring and summer have been filled with rejections.) I reached out to the agent to let her know I had an offer from a publisher to see if she was any closer to making her decision.

Last Thursday morning, I opened my email to learn she could not accept my book. And with 100 percent clarity, I leaned back and said, “Okay. It’s done. I know what to do now.”

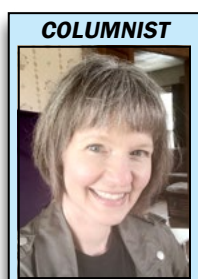

I looked over at my little pewter heart and felt a flood of relief pour through my entire body. And I smiled.

Yes, it’s already been a year of struggles. But I see the beauty in all of them. My mother’s not in any pain yet from the cancer and her medical professionals are all top-notch. My sons are healing and I know someone else will love them the way they should be loved down the road. We gained an amazing, sharp new client who is going to start in August – and more are on the way.

Helen Steiner Rice has a beautiful poem called “God Knows Best” that has sustained me since I was 13. I’ll leave you with my favorite stanza that sums up why we need to trust Him. It has been in my heart these past few days:

*God never hurts us needlessly;
And He never wastes our pain
For every loss He send us
Is followed by rich gain.*

I was born and raised right here in Noblesville. I grew up in a home without domestic violence or assault – it wasn’t something I saw, or even heard about. But when I was introduced to Prevail of Central Indiana, I was shocked by the number of individuals who are affected by domestic violence. In 2018 alone, Prevail helped more than 4,000 clients in Hamilton County. (Nearly 80 percent of clients are women and children.) Domestic violence and abuse are hard topics to discuss, so you don’t often hear about them. Purdue announces plans for normal operations

The REPORTER

Purdue University trustees on Wednesday approved a resolution to open Purdue's West Lafayette campus to normal operations for the 2021-22 academic year.

Trustees reviewed a status update from the Protect Purdue Implementation Team with recommendations for modifications to the current Protect Purdue plan, and further directed Purdue senior leaders and the Protect Purdue team to actively monitor COVID-19 developments and take action as necessary to maintain campus continuity.

Reinforcing the need for each individual to take personal responsibility to protect themselves, others and the community, trustees said the key to upholding the Protect Purdue Pledge going forward will be choosing to be vaccinated or taking part in regular surveillance testing.

Plans for fall 2021 will include:

- Return all campus spaces to full density.
- Return athletics and other venues to full occupancy levels.
- Welcome back alumni and visitors.
- Reinstate pre-pandemic attendance policies for academic courses.
- Reduce number of university-provided isolation/quarantine spaces.

In addition, Purdue intends to begin the fall semester with little to no use of face masks. A final decision on masking in classrooms and instructional spaces will be made closer to the start of the semester.

Key factors in that decision will include the percentage of the campus population that has been vaccinated, the number and severity of local and campus cases, and the latest scientific information relative to variants and the risk they pose, particularly to unique environments that are densely populated and involve many individuals congregating together indoors for prolonged periods of time.

‘Love to hate Carmel,’ just a humorous jab

Have you heard anyone say they love to hate Carmel? Maybe it's sarcasm with just a little touch of envy. As a nearly lifelong resident, I hear that comment every now and then.

The expression is not cool, but there are misguided reasons for it. And, there are some people who just like to poke fun, probably not real hatred. Most Carmel folks just laugh it off.

A sportswriter for the Indy Star used that "love to hate Carmel" phrase in a story this spring. Of course, that concerned high school basketball, but there are other reasons some people may voice that love-to-hate comment.

One reason is the common belief that all Carmel residents are rich. Of course, there is a lot of wealth in the city to be sure.

COLUMNIST

FRED SWIFT

But, when I volunteer at a Carmel food pantry twice a month, believe me I see folks who are not rich. Some of the less-well-off are single parent family members, some are unemployed, others are elderly with little income.

These people live in modest apartments and older rental units mostly found off the beaten path.

The public improvements fostered by the city administration also bring some jokes and critical comments. Roundabouts, new public buildings, street sculptures, arches and extensive landscaping provide fodder for critics and jokesters. But, many other folks like the improved appearance that these amenities bring.

Growing up in Carmel, many years ago, folks outside the immediate area would ask me "just where is Carmel?" One tongue-in-cheek answer was "midway between Westfield and Nora."

That question isn't asked much anymore. Part of the reason is the sheer size of the community now, but part is due to the reputation the city has, like it or not, for sparing no expense to get a lot accomplished, doing it 'first class' and doing it quickly.

So, I think that for all the jabs (some good-natured and some not) about rich people, roundabouts and successful athletic programs, it's certainly not a bad place with mostly nice people and a lot of popular attractions. Carmel has probably been a model for other cities playing catch-up to a greater extent than we realize.

Coroner releases cause of death for woman found unresponsive on Holiday World roller coaster

WISH-TV | wishtv.com

SANTA CLAUS, Ind. – The cause of death has been released involving the Ohio woman who died on a roller coaster at Holiday World last month.

The coroner listed three causes of death for Dawn Jankovic, 47, including severe internal blood loss, the tearing of an artery and force from the roller coaster.

On June 4, Jankovic was found unconscious when The Voyage roller coaster completed a ride and returned to a station at Holiday World & Splashin' Safari. After Jankovic was found unconscious, she was treated by Holiday World emergency medical technicians before an ambulance transported her to Memorial Hospital in Jasper, where she died.

Holiday world officials issued a statement saying their hearts go to her family, adding that the ride was closed for inspection last month, but no problems were found with the ride.

The theme park is located in the Spencer County town of Santa Claus, about 35 miles east of Evansville. It opened for its 75th season on May 15.

TODAY'S BIBLE READING

But Christ has indeed been raised from the dead, the firstfruits of those who have fallen asleep. For since death came through a man, the resurrection of the dead comes also through a man. For as in Adam all die, so in Christ all will be made alive. But each in turn: Christ, the firstfruits; then, when he comes, those who belong to him.
1 Corinthians 15:20-23 (NIV)

Ruth Lavelle Jensen

January 8, 1943 – July 1, 2021

Ruth Lavelle Jensen, Carmel, received the sweetest welcome into Heaven from her Lord and Savior on July 1, 2021. Her loving family was by her side.

Ruth was born in Louisville, Ky., to John and Clara Essex (Hill). She was raised in Indianapolis. She met her beloved husband of 61 years, Ray Jensen, and they married in 1958. A year later they had their first child, Ray Jr. He was followed by Claire, Melody, and Heather. They moved to Carmel in 1972.

Ruth was a faithful woman who loved the Lord and her family. She was a dedicated wife and mother. Her family was her life and meant everything to her. She loved spending time with her family whether it was gardening, taking her children to their lessons, or simply having a conversation.

All her grandchildren and great-grandchildren loved and enjoyed "Shu Shu," as they affectionately called her. Ruth would spend hours playing with them and having fun.

Ruth enjoyed gardening, reading the Bible, listening to Christian radio and old hymns, decorating, cooking for her family, antiques, going to the Goodwill, and crafting.

She spoke eloquently about the Lord to her children and taught them of His loving nature, not only from Scripture, but by example. She had a servant's heart and dedicated her life to caring for her disabled son for 62 years, always by his side.

In addition to her parents, Ruth was predeceased by her husband, Ray Jensen Sr., and her grandson, Noah Willman.

She is survived by her son, Raymond Jensen Jr.; daughters, Claire Jensen, Melody Reiff (Aaron), and Heather Willman (Kyle); grandchildren, Chantel Mills (Jeff), Tiffany Borshoff, Emma Kraft, and Lily Willman; and great-grandchildren, Mackenzy Wagner, Nathan Mills, Silas Mills, and Hazel Mills.

Family and friends will gather at 10 a.m. on Friday, July 9, 2021 at First Baptist Church of Carmel, where the Funeral Service will begin at noon at the church.

The family requests in lieu of flowers, donations be made to her son, Raymond Jensen Jr., 850 Northwich Ave., Westfield, IN 46074, to help provide for his needs. Envelopes will be available at the service.

Attorney General Todd Rokita sues Google again over alleged unlawful monopolistic practices

The REPORTER

Indiana Attorney General Todd Rokita has filed a multistate lawsuit against Google over monopolistic practices used by the digital giant to thwart competition and maintain unfair control over markets for Android app distribution and Android in-app payment processing.

An investigation joined by 37 state attorneys general revealed that Google is abusing its market control in the digital economy through Google Play, an app store that comes pre-installed on nearly every Android device. Through contractual restraints, technical barriers and deception, Google inhibits competition by obstructing reasonable alternative means of downloading apps.

Google then requires in-app purchases to be made using its own payment processing services, for which it charges inflated fees – to the tune of 30 percent – that it could not sustain but for the fact that it has foreclosed competition from alternative app distribution and payment methods.

"This is yet another example of a Big Tech company harming Hoosiers through unfair practices," Rokita said. "All businesses certainly have the right to seek strategic advantages and maximize their own profits, but in pursuing these goals they must also comply with antitrust laws and consumer protection statutes. Competition is an important part of our economy that protects consumers."

The complaint alleges that Google has unlawfully restrained trade and maintained monopolies in the markets for Android app distribution and payment processing services for Android in-app digital purchases.

Google's alleged unlawful conduct artificially limited the availability of feasible alternatives that might otherwise place competitive pressure on Google to offer lower fees, enhance quality or innovate new features – and consumers are ultimately harmed by these tactics.

Indiana is joined in this lawsuit by the attorneys general of Alaska, Arkansas, Arizona, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, District of Columbia, Florida, Idaho, Iowa, Kentucky, Maryland, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, North Carolina, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Oregon, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Tennessee, Utah, Vermont, Virginia, Washington and West Virginia.

Citing federal and state antitrust and consumer protection statutes, the lawsuit seeks broad injunctive relief sufficient to forbid the repetition of Google's unlawful practices and to restore competition. The lawsuit also aims to obtain redress for consumers.

Rokita

Rokita launched an investigation into the censorship practices of Amazon, Apple, Facebook, Google and Twitter. That investigation is still ongoing.

Rokita also represents Indiana in two other multistate antitrust lawsuits against Google and another multistate antitrust lawsuit against Facebook.

In October, Indiana joined the U.S. Department of Justice and 10 other state attorneys general in a lawsuit against Google claiming that the company unlawfully maintains monopolies in markets for general search services and search advertising.

This lawsuit is just the latest action that Rokita has taken to stop Big Tech companies' heavy-handed and abusive conduct against Hoosiers.

In December, Indiana joined the Texas Attorney General's Office and eight other state attorneys general asserting that Google has committed antitrust violations through its display advertising practices.

Also in December, Indiana joined 47 state and territorial attorneys general in a lawsuit claiming that Facebook unlawfully acquired Instagram and WhatsApp and that it unlawfully maintained its monopoly power in the market for personal social networking services.

Henderson triumphs at IWGA Match Play

Westfield's Cailyn Henderson won the Indiana Women's Golf Association Match Play Championship, which finished up Thursday at Purgatory Golf Club in Noblesville. Henderson waited out weather delays to beat Plainfield's Kayla Benge 3 and 1.

If a golfer is competing in a match play tournament, she usually has to beat two things: Her opponent and the course.

Sometimes the weather steps in and gives golfers a third obstacle to overcome. Westfield's Cailyn Henderson encountered that Thursday when she played Plainfield's Kayla Benge in the final of the Indiana Women's Golf Association Match Play Championship, which wrapped up that day at Purgatory Golf Club in Noblesville.

Despite delays due to thunderstorms on Thursday morning, Henderson persevered to win the final. She finished strong with back-to-back birdies for a 3 and 1 victory over Benge. Henderson thus won her first-ever IWGA Match Play Championship, as well as her first overall IWGA tournament victory.

Henderson qualified for match play by finishing in the top 16 of the stroke play event that started the tournament, then won four matches to claim the trophy.

"The first couple days were great weather-wise, and then this last day, it was definitely tough out there," said Henderson. "We waited for probably two and a half hours in the clubhouse, maybe a little bit less. Kayla and I really had to persevere through that and get through some bad weather."

The final was scheduled to start a few minutes before 8 a.m., but didn't get done until well after 2 p.m. due to the weather delays. Once Henderson was in a winning position, she quickly closed the final over Benge, who she called "a great competitor."

Henderson was 1 up after 15 holes. She birdied to win the 16th hole to go 2 up, giving her a "dormie," which means her lead was equal to the number of holes left to play. Henderson then clinched the win by chipping in a birdie on No. 17.

"The last two birdies felt very good," said Henderson.

This was the second significant tournament win for Henderson over the past two months. In May, she won individual medalist honors at the NCAA Division II regional, which took place at Prairie View Golf Club in Carmel May 3 to 5.

Henderson, playing for the University of Indianapolis, finished with a three-day score of 219, three over par. She also helped the Greyhounds to a team championship that qualified them for the national tournaments, where they reached the final eight.

"I loved winning that one, because it was at Prairie View, a course that I'm really familiar with," said Henderson. "So that one was a lot of fun to win, and I just want to keep it rolling. That's my goal this summer, just to keep all the winning rolling."

Henderson will play next at the US Women's Amateur Qualifier on July 14 at Westfield Country Club in Westfield Center, Ohio. She hopes to have success in that one in order to play in the U.S. Women's Amateur, which is set for Aug. 2-8 at Westchester Country Club in Rye, N.Y.

CESARE ADVANCES TO BOYS STATE JUNIOR SEMIS

Westfield's Alec Cesare made his way into the semi-finals of the Indiana Golf Association's Boys State Junior Championship, which is taking place at Purdue University's Ackerman-Allen Course.

Cesare, a junior-to-be for the Shamrocks, beat two Bloomfield golfers to advance. First, he got past Jason Bannister 2 and 1 in a Round of 16 match. Cesare then won an even-closer quarter-final match over Happy Gilmore, clinching the victory in 19 holes.

Cesare was one of four Hamilton County golfers that reached the Round of 16. His soon-to-be Westfield teammate, incoming freshman Will Harvey, won his Round of 16 match over Sellersburg's Carter Smith 1 up before falling in the quarter-finals to McCordsville's Sam McWilliams, also 1 up. Cesare and McWilliams will face off in today's semi-finals.

The other semi-final pairing is yet to be determined. Fishers' Cole Starnes advanced to the quarters by beating Valparaiso's Aidan Gutierrez 5 and 4, but he was unable to complete his quarter-final match with Peru's Kash Bellar. That match will be finished today. Bellar beat Carmel's Patrick Michael in the Round of 16 by the score of 3 and 2. The winner of the Starnes-Bellar match will play Fort Wayne's Alex Holder in the semis.

Enchanted Forest Swim Meet

begins today at Forest Park

A summer tradition returns to Noblesville's Forest Park today.

The Enchanted Forest Swim Meet begins this morning. The annual meet, hosted by the Noblesville Swim Club, has been taking place at the Forest Park Aquatic Center for many years, but was interrupted last summer by the COVID-19 pandemic.

In addition to Noblesville Swim Club, several other Hamilton County swim clubs are scheduled to compete at the Enchanted Forest meet. Southeastern Swim Club, the Fishers Area Swimming Tigers, Westfield Aquatics, and Power Aquatics (Hamilton Heights and Tipton areas) all have swimmers in the lineup. Clubs from across Indiana are also set to swim, including teams from Avon, Fort Wayne, Franklin and Howard County. The Heartland Hurricanes from Effingham, Ill., will also be in the Forest Park pool.

Swimming will take place in three separate sessions on Friday, Saturday and Sunday. The meet begins at 9 a.m. this morning with preliminaries in the 200 butterfly, 100 breaststroke, 200 individual medley and 100 freestyle in the 13-14 and Open divisions.

Friday's afternoon session will feature prelims in the 11-12 100 butterfly, 50 breaststroke, 200 IM and 50 free, along with timed finals in the 10 and under 100 butterfly, 50 breaststroke and 50 free. The afternoon session begins at 2 p.m. The evening session starts at 7 p.m. and will have finals in the aforementioned events.

Danyette Smith is inaugural Anthem Assists Award winner

Indianapolis resident Danyette Smith will be awarded the first Anthem Assists Award on Friday evening at Indiana Farmers Coliseum when the Indiana Fever take on the New York Liberty at 7 p.m. ET, the team announced on Thursday.

"Danyette is a strong female leader that we are delighted to highlight as our first Anthem Assists Award recipient," Fever President Dr. Allison Barber said. "We are grateful to help share her story and we look forward to showcasing everyday Hoosiers doing good every day."

In 2014, Smith founded Silent No More, Inc., a nonprofit organization aimed to help women and children find emergency shelter placement after residing in unsafe home environments due to abuse. Silent No More, Inc. also offers education, prevention, and awareness on domestic violence to the community and also offers an accessible hotline for victims and survivors to contact by phone, email or online.

Smith was also recognized in 2016 with the Advocacy Award from the Domestic Violence Network (DVN) and Julian Center of Indianapolis.

"Being the first winner of the Anthem Assists Award is emotional for me because I am only being who I needed when I was fleeing domestic violence," Smith said. "I want to thank so many people for standing behind Silent No More, Inc. and I want to encourage people to volunteer or attend events in the community to learn more about us."

For more information about Silent No More, Inc., visit www.silentnomoreinc.org or call 317-728-6733.
