Underhill over the moon to be County 4-H Queen

By RICHIE HALL

From a "really, really shy" third-grader to a 16-year-old Fair Queen: What a 4-H journey it has been for McKinley Underhill.

The incoming Noblesville High School junior entered Friday's Hamilton County 4-H Fair Queen Pageant as one of 19 competitors for the annual event, which took place at the Hamilton County 4-H Fairgrounds in Noblesville. But when the pageant was over, Underhill was the queen.

"Yeah, I'm as surprised as you are," a happy, laughing Underhill said as she was talking after the pageant. Underhill has blossomed from a shy girl to an outgoing young lady, and she wants the shy young girls that are watching her to know that if she can do it, they can too.

"When I was in third grade, I was really, really shy," said Underhill. "I would never have gotten up and done any of this. I would hide behind my parents and not go to meetings. So, I really want to show them that you can start out

Queen Pageant, so while she was "very surprised" about winning, she was also "really, really happy."

"It's so much fun," said Underhill. "All of the girls are so amazing that it's such a great experience and such a great environment. It was a lot of fun."

Underhill is the daughter of Sean and Amy Underhill and is a member of the Llama Trekkers. She has done 95 projects with 4-H and said the llama barn is her favorite thing about the Fair. But she has other favorites as well.

"My other favorite thing at the fair is Royal and Supreme Showmanship," said Underhill. "I think it's really cool to see the best show-ers out of each barn com-pete against each other."

Each of the contestants was asked a question during the first part of the pageant. Underhill was asked what life skills that she's learned from 4-H that will benefit her the most in the future.

Underhill answered that the life skills she's learned the most are time man-agement and being kind to everybody. Underhill said

Fishers plans to purchase portion of HSE Utilities

City anticipates no rate increase

The REPORTER
Hamilton Southeastern Utilities (HSE Utilities), an Indiana public utility corporation that provides waste-water collection service to portions of Fishers, filed a petition with the Indiana Utility Regulatory Commission (IURC) Friday requesting the IURC's approval to sell a portion of its sewer utility system to the City of Fishers. The City also filed a petition with the IURC Friday, seeking to intervene in the matter in support of HSE Utilities' request.

HSE Utilities has determined, subject to the approval of the IURC, to transfer substantially all of its assets for the Fishers Service Area to the City pursuant to an asset purchase agreement. Fishers has agreed to purchase the as-sets for $90 million, as may be adjusted in accordance with the agreement, which is less than the appraised value of the assets. The City anticipates issuing sewage revenue bonds to finance the acquisition and does not anticipate raising user rates to complete the financing.

"Through this acquisition, the City can make a strategic investment to provide its community with complete ownership over all sewer as-sets within Fishers," said Fishers Mayor Scott Fadness. "Due to strategic investments in our municipal utility and the expertise of our staff, the City is well prepared to consolidate the utilities and provide consistent service and support for all Fishers residents. To be able to finance this purchase without a single penny of increased rates while maintaining the level of service is a real win."

In addition to currently treating the effluent of over 25,000 HSE customers, the City provides collection and treatment service to approx-imately 6,500 municipal utility customers. The City

Arcadia has instant hit with new splash pad

On Thursday, the town of Arcadia welcomed hundreds of people anxious to enjoy the new splash pad in the heart of downtown at 126 W. Main St. American competitive Olympic diver Tyler Downs was on hand to cut the ribbon for Splash on Main as some of the park's sponsors looked on. As expected, Splash on Main was an instant hit with kids on a hot summer evening. First announced in 2020, the splash pad was paid for in part with donations from generous community members and sponsors, and a matching grant of $20,000 was provided by the Indiana Housing and Community Development Authority. Learning from our history: How leprosy on the Hawaiian Islands parallels to today's pandemic

"I have seen sights that cannot be told, and heard stories that cannot be repeated."
– Letters of Robert Louis Stevenson, June 1889

Today I am going to merge my knowl-edge/interest/love of history with my knowledge/interest/love of health and fitness to expound on a book I have recently read which I find both haunting and relevant during these turbu-lent times in our public health crisis. The title of the book is The Colony by John Tay-man. It is non-fiction (which is primarily my only reading interest) and recounts the harrowing story of the Hawaiian indig-enous peoples' experience of isolation, fear, and torment due to the scourge of leprosy.

How could something so seemingly re-moved from our pandemic experience be relevant to what we have experienced with the coronavirus? In a word, ignorance. I won't go into a great deal of detail regard-ing the treatment of the Hawaiian people who had the misfortune to be diagnosed with that dreaded disease of leprosy (in case you wish to read the book yourself) but will say that the loss of thousands of lives was needless and cruel. As noted above, author Robert Louis Stevenson spent 12 days not-ing the sad and traumatic experience of the afflicted Hawaiians.

Although the "body count" of those who died of that disease (also known as Hansen's disease) did not approach the 600,000 of those who have succumbed to Covid-19 in this country to date, the number was a significant percentage of the small populations of the Islands. There were questions, re-criminations, misinformation, and denial – sound familiar? The history of what took place in Hawaii covers a time frame from 1860 to (astonishingly) 1967. Hopefully that amount of time will not be recorded history for us as we continue to battle this pandemic!

HISTORY

Although, of course, the terrible disease of leprosy is far different from the Covid-19 pandemic, there are also similarities. One of those is that the U.S. government was hesitant and resistant to acknowledge the need for immediate action. Had the USA and Hawaiian leaders made the proper decisions regarding the need to identify, explain, and care for their populations, both the Hawaiian suffering and death toll and the current pandemic suffering and death toll could have had better outcomes.

My point of this topic and comparison is that we need to learn from history; from the experiences of those who suffered from lack of knowledge, science, and compassion. Unlike the Hawaiians who were struck with leprosy and were forced to live out their lives in isolation, deprivation and with little medical care, we have medical research and science along with dedicated medical personnel to care for us. We need to allow them to lead; we need to listen to doctors and scientists with years of experience and knowledge and not rely on misinformation and fear of that science. In my opinion, we also need to continue to recognize and appreciate their dedication and support in finding cures, vaccines, and treatments for those suffering.

Viruses and illnesses have been a part of our world for millennia; so how do we cope? The best way is to take care of ourselves and listen to those who have vast experience and knowledge in public health and science.

Additionally, with the consent of your medical provider, it is important to build up your own health. You can do this by exercise, not smoking, little or no alcohol consumption, no junk food and excessive sweets – and if your physician agrees, build up your immune system through your diet and supplements which strengthen the immune system. By combining the preventive steps outlined above and building up a strong immune system and listening to the experts who are there to help us and guide us through pandemics and epidemics, we can and will fare better than the Hawaiians chronicled in The Colony. Stay well.

Body cameras being deployed to ISP troopers

The REPORTER

The Indiana State Police (ISP) is well underway with the process of issuing body-worn and in-car cameras to its troopers across the entire state, a process which started in early June and is expected to take until late August to complete.

In August of 2020, Governor Eric Holcomb mandated the ISP would adopt and implement a body-worn camera system by the Spring of 2021. Since the Governor's announcement, extensive research and testing has been conducted to ensure the system implemented would best meet the needs of the ISP.

In all, nearly 800 body-worn camera systems, which will also include and work in tandem with in-car cameras, will be put into the field for uniform troopers and sergeants assigned to patrol duties, Capitol police officers and specific Special Operations units.

By the end of Thursday, more than 230 body-worn and in-car camera systems were deployed into the field.

"This process was focused on selecting the very best product and system for not only the Department but for Troopers in the field that work in both urban and rural areas", said ISP Superintendent Doug Carter.

The system utilizes a router which is installed in the vehicle which allows for more accessibility and connectivity in areas of the state where cell phone coverage is not always optimal.

The cost associated with this project is approximately $15 million over five years.

Hamilton County Surveyor's Office gets $3,000 environmental grant

The REPORTER

Indiana American Water announced Friday that it is awarding a total of $12,000 to four organizations across the state as part of its 2021 Environmental Grant Program. Winners include the Hamilton County Surveyor's Office, the City of Kokomo, the Clark County Soil and Water Conservation District, and Indiana Humanities.

Established in 2005, the company's Environmental Grant Program offers funds for innovative, community-based environmental projects that improve, restore or protect the watersheds, surface water and/or ground water supplies in communities served by Indiana American Water.

"More organizations than ever before responded to our call for entries this year as part of our Environmental Grant Program," said Indiana American Water President Matt Prine. "We appreciate the dedication and focus these organizations all have to protecting and enhancing our local waterways. Our water resources are an important part of our daily lives and the quality of life in each of the communities we serve, and we're pleased to help each of these organizations make a difference through their efforts and these projects."

Each of the organizations selected will receive $3,000 for their environmental projects. The 2021 Indiana American Water Environmental Grant Program winners are:

William Krause Drain
Native Vegetation Buffer

The Hamilton County Surveyor's Office is partnering with the Town of Sheridan to establish a buffer of native vegetation and pollinator habitat along the west and north sides of the open ditch portion of the William Krause Regulated Drain.

The project will replace areas currently planted with turf grass, reducing maintenance costs, mitigating the need for commercial herbicides, and enhancing water quality. The project will further enhance the significant investment already made by the Town of Sheridan to mitigate chronic flooding issues.

City of Kokomo

Cloverleaf Trail Native Species Planting

The City of Kokomo is partnering with the Greater Kokomo Economic Development Association and the Howard County

Soil and Water Conservation District to transform a section of abandoned railway between Dixon Road and Markland Avenue into a new community trail.

The project area, which currently includes non-native and invasive species, will be replanted with a mixture of pollinator-friendly native wildflowers, grasses, and trees. The plantings will create valuable habitat and food resources for birds, bees, butterflies, and other important pollinator species, enhance recreational opportunities for residents, and curtail illegal dumping and the detrimental impacts on water quality in Wildcat Creek.

Clark County Soil & Water Conservation District

Gallery Pear Removal & Invasives Education Project

The Clark County Soil and Water Conservation District is partnering with the City of Charlestown and the Clark County Harmful Invasives Removal Project (CCHIRP) group to replace Gallery Pear trees located in the median of Charlestown's main thoroughfare with native trees and plants.

The trees were planted many years ago, and have matured to the point that they are exhibiting the weak wood and branch structure characteristic of the species. The new native plants will reduce stormwater runoff, the need for fertilizers, pesticides, and mowing. The project will also include a campaign to educate residents on the benefits of planting native species.

Indiana Humanities

Museum on Main Street
WaterWays Exhibit

Indiana Humanities is touring the Smithsonian Institution's Museum on Main Street traveling WaterWays exhibition to six sites in Indiana to provide a museum experience to small communities. The exhibition explores how water is an essential component of life on our planet and will include localized components.

The goal of the exhibition is to encourage residents to consider the role that water plays in their lives and how they can have an impact on protecting our water resources. The exhibit will make stops in North Webster, Rolling Prairie, New Harmony, West Terre Haute, Madison, Centerville. Additional information is available online at the Indiana Humanities website.

Indiana State Police warn of scam callers posing as police

By JACEY CRAWFORD
WISH-TV | wishtv.com

The Indiana State Police (ISP) regularly receives reports of scam phone calls, but they're not usually scams that involve impersonating police officers.

ISP said it has received numerous reports of a scammer posing as a state trooper calling individuals and claiming that they have fallen victim to identity theft. The caller then asks for their social security number.

Authorities say the scammer uses a Caller ID showing "Indiana State Police," and a number that is used by the Putnamville

State Police Post.

Police would never request social security numbers or personal information over the phone, ISP reiterated, and the Putnamville Post offered a reminder that scam callers are persuasive and often play on emotions and fears to obtain personal information.

The easiest way to stay protected from scam callers is to either ignore unsolicited calls or hang up when something seems off.

Anyone who feels that they have been a victim of a phone scam is asked to immediately report the incident to local law enforcement and alert their bank so any payment can be stopped.

Volunteer to report turkey hens, young to Indiana DNR

The REPORTER

Volunteers can help DNR learn more about Indiana's wild turkey populations by reporting turkey broods now through Aug. 31. The report form has been improved and updated to be more convenient for volunteers.

Each summer, wildlife biologists and volunteers from across Indiana conduct brood surveys, counting the number of turkey hens with or without broods to estimate how many young turkeys live through the summer. Summer brood survival is one of the primary factors influencing wild turkey population trends in various regions of the state and informs wild turkey management.

This year DNR aims to collect 3,000 reports across the state with a goal of at least 25 reports per county.

Individuals will have an easier time submitting sightings using the new form, which requires no password and can be found at bit.ly/3z2Vx5h. That link also includes instructions for the survey and an illustrative guide on how to report wild turkey broods and hens, as well as the results of the previous summers' brood surveys.

TODAY'S BIBLE READING

Then the end will come, when he hands over the kingdom to God the Father after he has destroyed all dominion, authority and power. For he must reign until he has put all his enemies under his feet. The last enemy to be destroyed is death. For he "has put everything under his feet." Now when it says that "everything" has been put under him, it is clear that this does not include God himself, who put everything under Christ. When he has done this, then the Son himself will be made subject to him who put everything under him, so that God may be all in all.

HSE's Starnes wins Boys State Junior Championship

Cole Starnes had a busy day at Purdue University on Friday, but it would be well worth it.

The incoming Hamilton Southeastern junior won three matches to claim the Indiana Golf Association's Boys State Junior Championship, which took place on the Purdue Ackerman-Allen course. Starnes began his march to the title by completing his quarter-final match, where he defeated recent IHSAA individual state champion, Peru's Kash Bellar, in 20 holes.

In the semi-finals, Starnes cruised past Fort Wayne's Alex Holder 4 and 3. Meanwhile, McCordsville's Sam McWilliams beat Westfield's Alec Cesare 2 up in the other semi-final. That set up the championship, and Starnes beat McWilliams 1 up for the trophy.
