Noblesville summer charity event raises record $125,000

The REPORTER

On July 9, Noblesville Mayor Chris Jensen and his wife Julie played host to the mayor's annual charity event at Embassy Suites Hotel & Conference Center.

The Summer Soirée, welcoming nearly 300 guests, raised a record $125,000 for local organizations that give back to the community. This year's beneficiaries included ed Serve Noblesville, Family Promise of Hamilton County, Boys & Girls Club of Noblesville, Advancing Noblesville Chamber Foundation, Noblesville Firefighters Christmas Food & Toy Drive and the Noblesville Fraternal Order of Police Lodge #198 Shop with a Cop.

The date for next year's event has already been set for July 8 at Embassy Suites.

Busy past month for County Council

I trust everyone is having a joyous and productive summer. It was nice to see the July 4th gatherings, parades, and fireworks as we celebrated our nation's birthday. It was a special time.

For those that traveled like my family, we got the chance to see how other states have adapted in this post-pandemic world. Absence can make the heart grow fonder. Our separation only reinforced the truth that we live in an amazing county in a great state. Adult vaccine rates are above 75 percent here in Hamilton County, which is 25 percent more than Indiana overall. Businesses are open to full capacity. Mask mandates are gone with businesses making their own policies.

The County Council agenda for last week was rather involved. Much of the activity was follow-up from events and subcommittee meetings over the past month. There were the typical grant appropriations, funding for revisions to employee pay and the project appropriations. I'm going to take this time to talk about all three and want to end with a statement with regards to what others are stating in the paper about roles and responsibilities.

One item that was on the agenda is a reoccurring appropriation that we have every July. It involves a six-month additional appropriation for the state grant to support pretrial supervision. The question you might ask is why can't this be done during budget time? The fiscal calendar for the

Judge Brown issues order on GOAT's claim Carmel violated Open Door Law

The REPORTER

Hamilton County Superior Court 2 Judge Jon Brown has ruled the City of Carmel's Board of Zoning Appeals violated Indiana's Open Door policy when denying a variance for the GOAT restaurant and tavern to conduct business in a residential area.

GOAT owner Kevin Paul claimed the BZA's decision was not in compliance with Indiana statute that requires a publicly accessible meeting.

Indiana's Public Access Counselor Luke Britt agreed with Paul's claim. Britt confirmed the BZA's actions occurred outside of a public meeting.

Paul filed his initial opinion in May, asking the court to reverse the BZA's decision. Then, on July 2 following Britt's findings, Paul filed a renewed petition.

Judge Brown wrote in his order: "The Open Door Law (ODL) requires public agencies to conduct and take official action openly, unless otherwise expressly provided by Indiana law. Ind. Code § 5-14-1.5-1. The purpose of this statute is so the people may be fully informed. The law also requires all meetings of the governing bodies of public agencies to be open at all times to allow members of the public to observe and record the proceedings."

"The processes of approving or denying variance petitions, rezoning property, and changing ordinances, all require transparency by our elected officials. Additionally, the Carmel Board of Zoning Appeals, just like other public agencies, are subject to the provisions of Indiana's Open Door Law," concluded Judge Brown.

Judge Brown's order states:

1. The Carmel Board of Zoning Appeals denial of Petitioner's request for variance is VACATED.
2. The Petitioner's request to stay the denial of the Carmel Board of Zoning Appeals' decision is moot;
3. The Court remands the Petitioner's request for a variance to the Carmel Board of Zoning Appeals for a NEW HEARING that complies fully with Indiana's Open Door Law. As it will be a new hearing, Petitioner's request to supplement the existing record is moot; and
4. This Court IS NOT requiring the Carmel Board of Zoning Appeals to extend any additional rights to the Petitioners not consistent with zoning laws, ordinances, and regulations currently in existence at the location of 220 2nd Street SW, Carmel, IN 46032.

Forget lockdown, Westfield gets locked in

The REPORTER

The "new normal" of COVID-19 for the past year – lockdowns, quarantines, and Zoom calls – has had Hoosiers asking one question: Can I get out? Residents of Westfield will be asking this same question in a whole new light as The Escape Room USA Westfield opens its doors this fall at 16848 Southpark Drive.

The escape room craze has swept the globe over the last five years and offers a unique form of entertainment. Visitors must find clues, solve puzzles, and escape from a themed room before the time is up. According to Trip Advisor, The Escape Room USA offers some of the best rated Escape Rooms in the nation with themes ranging from the ill-fated Titanic, Revolutionary War-era rooms, Jail Break, and an all-new 90-minute fantasy-themed adventure.

The Westfield venue will be the fourth location for The Escape Room USA. The local Indiana company began in downtown Indianapolis in 2015

Health Department holding town hall to discuss kids & COVID vaccines

The REPORTER

The Hamilton County Health Department will hold a town hall on Thursday, July 22 to help answer many of the common questions parents have about getting their kids vaccinated against COVID-19.

Dr. Christopher Belcher, a pediatric infectious disease specialist at Ascension Medical Group in Carmel, and Dr. Shobana Pandian, a pediatrician at Community Health in Fishers, will lead the discussion and be available to help answer questions.

"I'm a mother of four and completely understand the concerns and anxiety parents may feel surrounding the pandemic and the COVID vaccine," said Dr. Pandian. "But I had my kids vaccinated and feel strongly it's in our kids' best interests to do so."

and expanded to Fishers in 2016 and Columbus, Ohio, in 2018. The new location in Westfield is expected to open early fall 2021 and will have five Adventures. “We are excited to join the Westfield community,” said Don McPheron, COO and Chief Escapitect. “The goal of our team has always been to design unique, detailed, and immersive experiences, and we are all-in to do the same in Westfield.”

The new rooms in Westfield will include a Hoosier-themed sports room, as well as an all new fantasy themed adventure. In addition to offering a new entertainment venue for residents, corporate groups, and out-of-town visitors, The Escape Room USA Westfield will require a staff of 15 to 20 Adventure Guides and managers who will monitor Adventures and welcome guests. In addition to being a part of the vibrant Westfield community, The Escape Room USA Westfield is excited to be near Grand Park Sports Campus. “We can’t wait to open our doors and provide a fun, immersive, indoor adventure like no other for families and teams to experience while in Westfield,” said CEO Jennifer Harbron. The new Westfield location will offer snacks and drinks as well, while providing lounge space to gather with friends and teammates. While opening four locations within a company’s first six years is impressive under normal circumstances, this achievement is sweetened given the strain the COVID-19 pandemic has placed on small businesses everywhere. “The early months of closure were difficult, as every small business knows,” said Harbron. “We had to adapt on many levels to make our venue a safe place, and our team worked hard to make it through. We are thankful to be on this side of it. It is exciting to see families and friend able to gather together again.” As work begins with the goal of welcoming guests this fall, experience and quality are the primary focus of the company’s designers and builders. The goal is to create a welcoming, adventure space that entices the guest to return again and again. I was born and raised right here in Noblesville. I grew up in a home without domestic violence or assault – it wasn’t something I saw, or even heard about. But when I was introduced to Prevail of Central Indiana, I was shocked by the number of individuals who are affected by domestic violence. In 2018 alone, Prevail helped more than 4,000 clients in Hamilton County. (Nearly 80 percent of clients are women and children.) Domestic violence and abuse are hard topics to discuss, so you don’t often hear about them. But at Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville, we’re breaking the taboo and raising awareness for Prevail, an organization that helps families in Hamilton County.

COUNCIL MINUTES

State Supreme Court and Hamilton County are not aligned. This means that every year we appropriate the remaining half of the grant from the year before and wait for the next year to fulfill the balance of that grant. I'm sure for counties not in as strong a financial position as Hamilton County that this can be frustrating.

I reached out to Stephanie Ruggles, Director of Pretrial Services, before our council meeting and asked if this was ever going to change because the new agreement attached indicated an extra six months. I am happy to report that starting in 2022, the State Supreme Court will revert to the same fiscal calendar as our county. The lack of coordination is sad but inevitable without better collaboration with other government entities. More on that later.

The sheer amount of 144 amendments (payroll and employee classification changes) is frustrating for every county councilor. Most are reclassification of employees that changes budget projections, but there are others that are done to hire new people or create new positions.

This month, we had one that was directly tied to succession management. The Clerk's office sought to create a new Office Administrator role which will be funded primarily with a vacant position. This request is a welcome one as the Clerk recognizes that she has some senior people retiring in the next few years. This new administrator will work alongside the Chief Deputy until her retirement so the transition is seamless. This is great, but how does the county deal with succession management? I've asked this in previous articles, and it starts with thinking like a business and recognizing that leadership is about planning, not reacting.

The last major conversation regarded the funding of two highway projects. One was tied to an awarded federal grant to support pavement preservation and covers the resurfacing of 146th Street.

The second was more contentious. My career outside of the Council has provided me with experience regarding construction. I understand the grant process and the length of time it takes to get things approved and then constructed. The request was for $800,000 to fund engineering of a new intersection at 146th Street and Hazel Dell. This is being expedited because we understand that a federal infrastructure package is coming out to support major projects. Hamilton County wants to have a few projects queued up for when this is released.

This all makes perfect sense, but in absence of a project priority list, the Council is faced with making decisions with limited information. 146th Street had four intersections listed in the top 50 worst intersections in the entire metropolitan area, with the Hazel Dell intersection listed as the worst. The Council overwhelmingly supports the project, but we need to have a better plan in place to support projects going forward.

A former Councilor chastised our current Council at pursuing responsibilities outside of its purview. He stated that the Council "has always operated under the philosophy of not originating spending but acting on requests from the Commissioners and county departments." This same former councilor sought to grant $3.5 million to the Humane Society for their new building - which was in need. The idea that several councilors are seeking to lead, and influence, is somehow "new territory" is incorrect. This kind of status quo thinking gets us nowhere and this non-collaborative approach is why our Council and the Commissioners could not seem to work together in the recent past.

As an elected leader in Hamilton County, I stated early on that I ran to help change the status quo, not rewrite Indiana Code. With Councilor Steve Nation's support, I led the support for the creation of a collaborative career center, including the schools and workforce development leaders. I am supportive of the efforts of Councilor Fred Glynn to fund the design of a desperately-needed domestic violence shelter. I authored the initial drafts of the rules for managing our funding of non-profits that Councilor Sue Maki carried across the finish line for adoption by the Council. I also helped drive the funding of a county business audit to help create better efficiencies, provide for business plans, create KPIs and establish a better budgeting process with Councilors Fred Glynn and Amy Massillamany.

These are efforts to help us plan better, budget departments appropriately and create priorities to support major projects. This is how businesses' plan and strategize, and I believe these principles are essential to maintaining our presence as one of the best counties in the country to live and work and be a leader in how government works.

As this July 4th passes, I can assert that I am proud to be an American and I am proud to represent the citizens of Hamilton County, District 4. Thank you again to the Hamilton County Reporter. I hope you find these articles helpful and informative.

Shaffer illustrates Carmel's $1.3B debt-time continuum

Dear Editor:	By the end of the year, you'd spend about $31.5 million.
Carmel's civic debt bumped up another $31 million last week, suggesting this thought experiment.	To spend Carmel's total debt would take about 41 years, 172 days and 16 hours.
Size the $1,308,777,300 outstanding obligation this way:	Begin at midnight Dec. 31, 2020 and end a little after 4 p.m. on June 21, 2062.
If you spent $1 per second beginning Jan. 1, you'd spend $1 million in a bit more than 11 and a half days.	Get the picture. Bill Shaffer Carmel

TODAY’S BIBLE READING

But someone will ask, “How are the dead raised? With what kind of body will they come?” How foolish! What you sow does not come to life unless it dies. When you sow, you do not plant the body that will be, but just a seed, perhaps of wheat or of something else. But God gives it a body as he has determined, and to each kind of seed he gives its own body. Not all flesh is the same: People have one kind of flesh, animals have another, birds another and fish another. There are also heavenly bodies and there are earthly bodies; but the splendor of the heavenly bodies is one kind, and the splendor of the earthly bodies is another. The sun has one kind of splendor, the moon another and the stars another; and star differs from star in splendor.

So will it be with the resurrection of the dead. The body that is sown is perishable, it is raised imperishable; it is sown in dishonor, it is raised in glory; it is sown in weakness, it is raised in power; it is sown a natural body, it is raised a spiritual body.

1 Corinthians 15:35-44 (NIV)

Will Kelsey Murphy make the Top 10 on MasterChef?

The REPORTER

Tune into tonight at 8 p.m. on FOX to see if Kelsey Murphy, a physical therapist from Fishers, will make it to the Top 10 on the 11th season of MasterChef.

After winning the Monkfish challenge and surviving both the dessert challenge and meat challenge – where her dish was a top 3 favorite – tonight she faces a pasta challenge.

Michelin Star chef Nancy Silverton will test the home cooks on tonight’s episode of MasterChef with a fresh pasta challenge. The cooks must prove they can master this Italian staple and impress with a pasta dish of their own in the all-new “Legends: Nancy Silverton - Pasta Challenge” episode tonight at 8 p.m. on FOX.

Last month, the Reporter spoke with Murphy about the act of balancing a career, her family, and a trip to Los Angeles, where MasterChef was filmed.

“Everything was filmed out in L.A.,” Murphy told The Reporter. “Total filming time ended up being about six weeks total including all the final auditions and completion of filming.

We had to take a seven-month break because of COVID.”

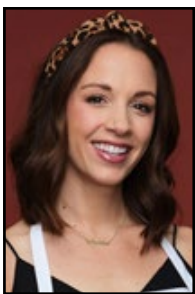

Given two trips to California for a total of six weeks of filming, the logistics for a career physical therapist with young children was a challenge she did not face alone.

“Credit all goes to my husband, Brandon, for handling the kids,” Murphy said. “At the time of filming we only had the two, so there was no infant involved. He ran the household and my in-laws thankfully helped out picking up kids from daycare and stuff like that.”

Kelsey and Brandon Murphy now have three children: a 4 ½-year-old girl, a 2 ½-year-old boy and a 4-month-old boy.

Murphy laughed a bit when telling the Reporter, “I am still in debt indefinitely. If he ever wants something he is still like, ‘Remember: you left.’”

Murphy says she has always been a fan of the show who loves cooking and is a foodie at heart who Italian family on my mom’s side and Polish on my dad’s side,” Murphy said. “Every day was spent in the kitchen doing home cooking. But I feel like my skill set came from watching food TV. Once I got to college, I started watching Food Network all the time. I’d watch it when I was in my room. I’d watch it when I was working out. I started to pay attention and take all the knowledge in and started to apply it to my cooking.”

Having faced the challenges of isolation and pressure and anxiety in pursuit of taking her love of food to a whole new level, Murphy told The Reporter she wants to tell women who struggle to balance busy lives that there is a message for them in her journey.

“This whole experience is my ode to moms,” Murphy said. “For anyone who has never had a formal cooking lesson, aside from one date night with her husband at a sushi making class. “My love and passion for food came from growing up with is working and taking care of kids, we get super busy and lost doing the day-to-day stuff of taking care of our kids all the time, trying to work, or being a stay-at-home mom. It is important to take a step back and remind yourself that you are an individual also. You need to take time to explore your own passions and find yourself.”

She said facing the fear of the unknown has brought her some unexpected rewards. “I was so scared to go out to California and do this,” Murphy explained. “Even two days before I was like, ‘I can’t do this. This is silly. No way.’ And within days of being our there I was like, ‘Oh my gosh! I feel like myself 10 years ago. This is me as an individual. This is what I should be doing.’ It has really allowed me to come back home and be a better wife, a better mother, a better worker. It renewed my spirit in everything. If you don’t try you will never know what you have to offer.”

Be sure to catch tonight’s pasta challenge episode of MasterChef at 8 p.m. on FOX.

Lou Malnati’s engages Indy PR firm to help expand its business locally

The REPORTER

Lou Malnati’s Pizzeria, an icon of Chicago-style pizza, is expanding in the Indianapolis metro area and has engaged McFarland PR & Public Affairs, Inc. as its agency of record locally.

“Indianapolis is the perfect fit for the Lou Malnati’s brand, which is based on family, fun, fellowship and community,” said owner Marc Malnati. “Those are attributes my parents, Lou and Jean Malnati, believed in deeply and Indianapolis is teeming with that character. We’re excited to be here and we love the Hoosier hospitality. We’re tasking McFarland with connecting us deeply with the communities we serve, and helping us transform their dining experience into a collective passion for our pizza and a life-long affection for the Lou Malnati’s brand.”

Considered the oldest family name in Chicago pizza, Lou Malnati’s was founded 50 years ago in the northern suburb of Lincolnwood. Today Lou Malnati’s has restaurants throughout the Chicagoland area, Phoenix Valley area, Milwaukee metro area and now the Indianapolis metro area.

Lou Malnati’s currently has two carry-out locations in the metro area, with one on Spring Mill Road in Carmel, and the other on West 86th Street in Indianapolis. The Chicago icon also plans to bring its signature full-service restaurant and bar to Ferguson Street in Broad Ripple in the fall, featuring its legendary deep dish pizzas made with very precisely selected and top-quality ingredients.

HSE graduate, Miami star headed to L.A. . .

Sam Bachman selected by Angels in first round of MLB Draft

By RICHIE HALL

During a Zoom press conference after Sam Bachman was drafted by the Los Angeles Angels, a reporter asked the Hamilton Southeastern graduate and Miami University (Ohio) junior how much of a roller-coaster ride it was to get to where he was now.

"It's definitely an emotional roller-coaster ride, I think that's pretty well-put," said Bachman. "You got to really handle the hills and the valleys. Going through it, I think baseball can be a pretty emotional game, so I think the mental toughness aspect is huge, and Miami preaches a lot of this stuff and so it's really easy to roll with the punches and keep grinding and keep going."

Bachman's ride is taking him to Southern California, as he was selected by the Angels in the first round of the Major League Baseball Draft Sunday night. Bachman, who graduated from Southeastern in 2018, was selected ninth by the Angels, easily the highest draft choice ever for the Royals, and the first-ever Miami player to get taken in the first round.

Bachman was there celebrating with his parents, Kevin and Suzanne Bachman, and around 120 to 130 people who were cheering as the official announcement was made.

"It's a tough one, it hits you pretty hard," said Bachman. "Didn't think I was going to cry or show much emotion, but after hugging some of the folks that really sacrificed a lot, it gets pretty emotional pretty quick."

Bachman got his start at Southeastern, where he was a two-year letter winner for the Royals. He had 21 career appearances and totaled 100 strikeouts.

Ken Seitz, the longtime baseball coach for Southeastern, told The Reporter that Bachman "was a high school player with a strong desire to detail and with the attitude of wanting to be the best pitcher possible."

Bachman battled arm issues during his junior year, but Seitz said he "still showed up to work each day." As for his senior season, Bachman "started slow, but finished strong," said Seitz.

"His last game at the sectional on a very hot day he fought off heat exhaustion and dehydration late in the game," said Seitz. During the last couple of innings, Bachman talked his coaches into Bachman compiled a 4-4 record during his junior year at Miami, with a 1.81 earned-run average and 93 strikeouts.

Carmel's Sommer, Fishers' Albright and Richardson also drafted

The selection of Hamilton Southeastern graduate Sam Bachman in the first round of the Major League Baseball Draft was just the beginning of an incredible night for Hamilton County in baseball.

Three more county players were selected in the draft, which continued into Monday and Tuesday. Fishers' Luke Albright, a Wright State pitcher, was drafted in the sixth round by the Arizona Diamondbacks.

Carmel's Tommy Sommer, an Indiana University pitcher, was taken in the 10th round by the Chicago White Sox. His senior teammate, outfielder Grant Richardson, a Fishers graduate, was selected in the 17th round by the New York Yankees.

Be sure to read the Reporter over the next couple of days for more about the county's MLB draftees.

Featuring five Hamilton County players . . .

IGB third-grade team wins AAU World Championships in Cincinnati

By RICHIE HALL
The future is bright for Hamilton County girls basketball, based on the success that local organization Indiana Girls Basketball's third-grade team had a recent tournament.

Actually, it might be more accurate to say that the future is now.

IGB's third-grade team, IGB 2030 Shade, won the AAU World Championships, which took place in late June in Cincinnati. The tournament began June 25 with pool play, where the IGB team – competing in the 2nd/3rd Grade Girls' Division 1 category – went undefeated in four games. The team then went 3-0 in bracket play, culminating with a championship win on June 28.

The IGB team was coached by Matt Shade, also the Director of Operations at the organization. He noted that his team beat the state champions from five different states: Kentucky, Tennessee, Georgia, Ohio and Oklahoma. In the final game, IGB beat what Shade called a “really good” team called FOE, an All-Star squad featuring players from West Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee.

Of the 10 players on the team, five of them are from Hamilton County. Four reside in Fishers: Brooklyn Bizila, Kirby Hanke, McKenzie Mezera and Zoey Brinley. A fifth county player, Bryce Webster, lives in Sheridan.

The other five players on the team are all from Central Indiana. They are Adalyn Nicley from the Western Boone school district, Kendall Doss (Avon), Molly Popp (Indianapolis), Quinn Sowder (Brownsburg) and Sydney Newkirk (Plainfield).

While they are only third graders, the IGB team players are already veterans. Some of the players participated in Lil Ballers, a program geared for girls from pre-kindergarten to second grade that started in 2019. Team members also participate in IGB's training program called The Circle.

“It's a scalable training program for girls that want to play high-quality basketball,” said Shade. The program takes place all around Central Indiana, in Carmel, Fishers, Noblesville and Plainfield, and Shade said it is looking to grow into the northern and southern parts of the state.

All that work has paid off for the third-grade team, in fact, Shade said it's “probably the difference-maker” when it comes to its success. He said the players are “highly skilled for third grade and that only comes through repetition and quality work.”

“The girls have bought into the system,” said Shade. “It's fun to watch it on the court at such a young age.”

Shade is also quick to give credit to others as well. That includes assistant coaches Alissa Hanke and Will Webster. He also gave praise to Natalie Morse, IGB's Director of Training and College Recruitment.

Morse played at Hanover College, graduating in 2013. In a short period of time, she has developed an impressive resumé, including assistant coach stops at Noblesville High School and Butler University; she was also Director of Operations at Butler for two years before moving into coaching.

“She came to IGB and she's taken on the role as the lead trainer at The Circle,” said Shade. “She's the difference maker for the organization. She just has a passion and a drive to train these girls at an incredible level.”

The team had another assistant coach, one whose name might be familiar: Ashlynn Shade, Matt's daughter and a star basketball player for Noblesville. Matt Shade said that the girls' favorite coach “is definitely Ashlynn.”

“When Ashlynn isn't training or playing, she's generally at practice or the games,” said Matt Shade. “It's neat to see it through Ashlynn's eyes, remember the days when she played at that age.”

Matt Shade said that Ashlynn enjoys coaching, and that she can emphasize with the third-grade girls.

“I'm a pretty hard coach,” said Matt Shade. “It's nice for them to hear that voice. The nicer version of it. The girls just really look up to her. She basically balances me out as a coaching staff.”

After the World Championships were finished, the IGB team members got away from the gym for a while. Shade said the coaches like the girls to take a break from basketball “for four to six weeks,” then resume training in The Circle in August before playing games in the winter.

When they do, the girls will be refreshed and ready to go, although motivation doesn't seem to be a problem.

“These girls all have that fire in their eyes and they want to play basketball,” said Shade.

sending him back on to the mound.

“He finished the game and pitched great,” said Seitz. “That showed me the character and toughness that make him Sam Bachman.”

Once on the Miami campus, the 6-1, 235-pound Bachman made an immediate impact for the RedHawks. He had 14 starts in 15 overall appearances, going 7-1 with a 3.93 earned-run average. Bachman struck out 75 batters, while allowing opponents to bat only .229 against him. He was named the Mid-American Conference Freshman Pitcher of the Year, First-Team All-MAC and Freshman All-American.

During his sophomore season, Bachman had four starts. He totaled 31 strikeouts, including 12 in a game against Purdue Fort Wayne. In his junior season, Bachman started 12 times and compiled a 4-4 record with a 1.81 ERA. He struck out 93 batters, holding them to a .147 average. A story on the Miami website pointed out that his fastball “routinely surpassed 100 mph.”

Seitz noted that Major League Baseball is “a tough business,” but also pointed out that Bachman seems to have all the tools to go pretty far.

“He has the big body, strength, and that 100 mph fastball,” said Seitz. “No doubt Sam will do what is asked of him and will be very coachable. Hopefully the Angels will find a good fit for Sam.”

Seitz said that a lot of making it in professional baseball “is being in the right place at the right time - being the right fit for what the organization needs from upcoming players.”

That could spell good fortune for both Bachman and the Angels. In an article on the MLB website, Angels beat reporter Rhett Bollinger said that the team has “an organizational need for pitching,” and Bachman will help to fill it. Bollinger said that Bachman “is considered close to reaching the Majors and could make his debut as a reliever,” but the team is looking at him as a starter in the long term.

Also in the article, Angels scouting director Matt Swanson told Bollinger that it's important to get Bachman signed and into the team's system quickly.

“He's going to have the opportunity to move at his own pace and hopefully impact the Major League roster soon rather than later,” said Swanson.
