Time capsule from 1962 found in cornerstone of Noblesville church

Last Tuesday afternoon, a time capsule from 1962 was opened in the cornerstone of the First Church of God located off Field Drive across from Noblesville East Middle School. Community members, including members of the 1962 congregation, gathered to open the time capsule and revisit the history of the church and of Noblesville.

The church was disbanded 12 years ago, and the property was purchased five years ago, initially for storage, and the land will now be used to construct the new Noblesville High School tennis facility.

Noblesville Schools Director of Communications Marnie Cooke told The Reporter she had heard rumors of a time capsule being present in the cornerstone. When it was found and opened on Tuesday, rumor became fact.

Betty Clark, 84, who was a congregant at the church when the time capsule was sealed and was present when it was opened, spoke to The Reporter about seeing some history from her youth.

"I was there but I didn't remember what was inside,"

Betty Clark and her two sons are shown here with Noblesville Schools Associate Superintendent Dave Mundy as he presents Clark with a hand-drawn and framed picture of the church found inside the building.

Clark told The Reporter. "I was very young then."

The First Church of God time capsule contained 1963 editions of the Noblesville Ledger newspaper, a Bible, a photo of the congregation's earlier location on Cherry Street, 1962 church programs, and a typed history of the congregation.

"It brought back a lot of memories of when I started going to church," Clark said. "I went to church, first of all, down on Cherry and 12th streets when they were down

Heights, Sheridan youth assistance programs receive generous donation

The REPORTER

A group of businesses and individuals from Northern Hamilton County recently formed a charitable advocate group known as SHHAG, and the group has announced its first donation of $65,000 to the Sheridan and Hamilton Heights Youth Assistance Programs.

The funds will be divided equally between the schools that will support the invaluable work of these programs in each district.

Hamilton Heights and Sheridan Youth Assistance Programs provide services year-round. The program is now in its seventh year at Heights and sixth year at Sheridan. It is a tremendous lifeline to services for area families in need.

Youth Assistance Early Intervention Advocates Mary Ann Haymaker (Heights) and Lisa Samuels (Sheridan) are the "go to" individuals for connecting families to resources for food, clothing, financial assistance, mental health counseling, medication management, parenting support and a little bit of everything in between. They are supported by a vast network of compassionate partners, and often work in tandem with other in-school advocates serving schools in Hamilton County.

Hamilton County Youth Assistance Program serves children ages 3 to 17 1/2. The Early Intervention advocates coordinate services for the youth and families they serve. The program operates in all six public schools in Hamilton County and takes a holistic approach to coordinate the community's vast array of talents, services, and resources to help youth and empower parents and caregivers.

The Early Intervention Advocates in each community work under the appointment of County Circuit Court Judge Paul Felix and County Superior Court 1 Judge Michael Casati.

County budget hearings wrap up

In spite of state cuts, county to see no income tax increase

The REPORTER

Last Wednesday, the last day of budget hearings drew to a close with neither an increase in Local Income Tax (LIT) rates nor a reduction of the Rainy Day Fund to compensate for the shortfall of tax allocation from the state.

The Reporter spoke with Hamilton County Council Member At-Large Sue Maki, District 4 Member Ken Alexander, and District 2 County Council Member and Council President Amy Massillamany about the final day of hearings.

The day began with financial consultant Mike Reuter explaining that his investigation into the reduction in the state's allocation of LIT funds to Hamilton County is still ongoing, but that he had discovered some interesting facts.

Reuter told the council that among Marion County and the donut counties, Hamilton County has, in recent years, seen consistently the largest percentage of increase in LIT collections. This year, the county is seeing the largest decrease in collections of all those counties.

"I can't go into and no one seem to understand why we have this deep of a cut when Marion County barely has any," Alexander said. "The people who live in Hamilton County, for the most part, are a lot more affluent and they pay their taxes. The people who didn't pay much in taxes and took a really big hit were people in the hospitality industry. Quite frankly, the majority of them don't live in Hamilton County, they live in Marion County."

Reuter also spoke to the council about other times when the state was incorrect in its distribution and allocation and how Hamilton County had to argue to have that corrected.

According to Massillamany, if Reuter finds that the state is in error after his investigation is

Carmel Clay Schools start times change due to bus driver shortage

By JULIE DOW

Last Tuesday's Hamilton County Council budget meeting, one of the topics discussed was various departments' struggles to hire and maintain staff in the current economy. At the local level, Carmel Clay Schools (CCS) is facing the same issue with a shortage of bus drivers.

Also on Tuesday, CCS announced a change to school start times because of a bus driver shortage.

In an email to parents, Carmel Clay Schools Superintendent Michael Beresford says the district is down by 30 to 40 drivers.

That means current drivers will have to handle three to four routes each day, instead of the normal two.

Also, bus transportation will not be offered to kids who live within a one-mile radius around each school building.

According to an email sent to parents, students on special needs or early childhood buses will not be impacted.

Due to a shortage of bus drivers for Carmel Clay Schools, the school district has announced the creation of "No-Bus Zones" within roughly a one-mile radius of schools, with accommodations for those needing to cross busy streets or dangerous intersections.

Sheridan artist visits Rotarians

Submitted by Sheridan Rotary Club

The Sheridan Rotary Club welcomed an interesting guest at its last meeting: local Sheridan artist Melinda Spear-Huff.

Spear-Huff has a studio located on Sheridan's Main Street where she creates most of her paintings, but she is also willing to travel regionally as well as nationally to complete commissions. She does a variety of work, including portraits of people and animals, and she also creates murals of various sizes. In addition, she also offers classes in her studio to those who enjoy drawing and painting. The demand for her works and classes has been steady, so she is a rather busy person.

At her Rotary presentation, she brought a large portrait of Abraham Lincoln she is making for a client. She used the painting to show the Rotarians how she typically brings her works and how she adds the finishing touches to complete the final picture.

She also gave the club members a 10-minute drawing ing project in which they each created a Sheridan Blackhawk pencil rendering using a variety of shapes. While the final detail was missing, she demonstrated how she breaks her subject into a series of shapes on a sheet of paper and then goes back and fills in the shapes with finer and finer detail.

When asked, she said she tends to see the world around her in shapes rather than whole objects, a technique used by artists ranging from Michelangelo in Rome to Spear-Huff in Sheridan.

It was an entertaining evening for Sheridan Rotarians, and they all got to go home with an art project for the refrigerator door.

If you are interested in becoming a Rotarian or would like to come to a meeting, please contact any Sheridan Rotarian or call or email Steve Martin at (765) 513-7457 or shmartin1@comcast.net for further information.

Local DAR chapter to honor Revolutionary War soldier

The REPORTER

The National Society Daughters of the American Revolution – Horseshoe Prairie Chapter, Hamilton County invites the public to attend the Commemoration Ceremony of Davis Whelchel at 10:30 a.m. on Saturday, Aug. 14 at the Whelchel Cemetery, located east of 116th Street and Ohio Road.

Davis Whelchel was born in 1752 in Virginia and enlisted in the army in 1775. He served as a Major, Lieutenant, Private, Ranger and a Spy out of South Carolina. there. We sold that building and when they started building the new building on Field Drive, we had to do services in the old Noblesville Armory up there by the river on Logan Street."

Clark said the time capsule also brought back a lot of memories of people who had donated to have the building constructed. When talking about both the Field Drive and the Cherry Street locations for the church and the kind of people who attended, Clark spoke about one family who the government thought was donating a bit too much.

"There were people there who were mostly living paycheck to paycheck and had a lot of kids," Clark said. "I remember one family, the Bryants. She was a housekeeper at the hospital and he was a janitor at the armory. The IRS wanted to audit them because they claimed so much on their taxes as being given to the church, but to them it was just their tithe. It just shows you what kind of people there was that put a lot of time, money and heart into building the newer one up here on Field Drive."

Clark attended the opening of the time capsule with and her two sons and one of her two daughters.

She has another daughter who lives in Colorado and thus was unable to attend last Tuesday.

"On the dead end on 16th Street there used to be a two-story house," Clark said. "That was where the pastor lived. After he moved to a different home, that building was turned into a place for Sunday school classes and we had Bible school over there. The church grew quite a bit and overflowed really, which is why we had to use the house for those classes. All my kids were dedicated to God at that church. They were married in that church. That place was just us."

Hamilton County Trustee Association working to prevent evictions

By STU CLAMPITT
ReadTheReporter.com

The CDC eviction moratorium order has been extended through Oct. 3, but not for everyone. It applies only to individual counties experiencing substantial or high COVID-19 positivity rates.

That means the eviction moratorium can and start and stop repeatedly through Oct. 3.

Hamilton County rates are on the rise, and the county has recently been in the substantial category, though that is based on the state coronavirus map, which updates weekly. If you need help, the time to seek assistance is now, before eviction proceedings begin, and the Hamilton County Rental Assistance Program can help those struggling to pay rent, utilities, or both.

Hamilton County Trustee Association (HCTA) President Danielle Carey Tolan told The Reporter, “People who are not getting help may not even know what is out there for them. It is not just affecting renters; it is affecting landlords, which is a huge economic driver for our community.”

According to their website, HCTA is made up of all nine townships in Hamilton County. Their mission is to help families and strengthen the community.

The organization will soon be working with probate courts, judges and magistrates about evictions and how they can help through the Hamilton County Emergency Rental Assistance Program (HCERAP).

“If we aren’t all working together, they [the courts] are going to get overrun and people are going to get evicted,” Tolan said. “We have been lucky enough that here in Hamilton County we don’t have the tent cities or people living under bridges. Most of our homeless are living in their cars or are couch surfing, so we don’t see it like we would in downtown Indy or Chicago or Seattle. But if we don’t work together to help fix the problem and help these renters that really do need help, it’s going to become a big nightmare for everybody in Hamilton County and the state.”

HCERAP has already helped a lot of people.

“We have amazing success stories of people getting out of situations they could never imagine getting out of,” Tolan said. “Some were truly affected by COVID. One was hospitalized, lost her voice box and now has some mental problems because of all the medications, and we helped her. She’s able to stay on her feet, but she got so far behind because of not being able to work for eight months. There are amazing stories out there.”

This program is not just for people who are either diagnosed currently or have been in the past.

“As long as you can show that COVID affected you financially in one way or another ... You lost your job. You were furloughed. You had to take care of your kids because of schools closing or their kids got contact-traced with COVID in the classroom or they got trace contacted at work. If you can show anyone in your household was financially affected by COVID and are under 80 percent of the Hamilton County area medium income, you can apply.”

HCERAP opened the program March 15. The Hamilton County Commissioners applied for the program through the U.S. Treasury and it is administered by HCTA.

“It makes sense for the HCTA to do it because this is what we do day in and day out,” Tolan said. “This is our bailiwick. We saw the need immediately. We have had over 1,300 applicants to date since March 15. We have awarded over $3.1 million of the $10 million available.”

In 2018, there were 26,000 renters in Hamilton County. While that number has certainly increased, 2018 is the last set of official numbers HCTA had to work with in structuring this program.

“Based on the 2018 numbers we knew we would be able to help approximately 3,000 renters,” Tolan said. “Out of that, 14 percent of those renters are house-burdened. They can barely pay their rent and utilities – their basic needs. Fourteen percent of the renters in Hamilton County are living paycheck to paycheck.”

HCTA has over a dozen partners throughout the county including nonprofits, complete, the council will take action to have that corrected.

“At this point we are still in the preliminary stage of understanding how we ended up in this state,” Massillamany said. “It is obviously not just us. There were others. But there were also other counties that saw an increase.”

The rest of the meeting focused on both calling back department heads to discuss changes the council would make to the requests from Tuesday, and also on dealing with the requests from local nonprofits.

This year there was a revised application process for nonprofits to ask for county funding, and that has shifted the focus to services that Alexander said provide a tangible return on investment.

“There are several healthcare organizations that come to us every year,” Alexander told The Reporter. “Trinity Free Clinic, Hope Clinic and Heart and Soul. They are what I call gap medical facilities. They help provide free healthcare to either underinsured or uninsured people.”

And then there are some organizations that do not fit in either category.

“Indiana Center for Prevention of Youth Abuse and Suicide, formerly known as Chaucie’s Place, is a unique one because that is a contract for services,” Alexander said. “They do the interviews with children of abuse at a contracted value of $200 up to a threshold. We set that threshold and that’s what they stop billing us at.”

In light of the expected LIT shortfall from the state, one of the nonprofit areas that was cut was the arts.

“We just funded what we felt we needed to fund based on the services those specific nonprofits being to our county,” Maki told The Reporter. “There were quite a few that were arts-based that we did not fund because that is not what the council believes is what we should be doing with our taxpayers’ dollars regarding nonprofits.”

Massillamany was very specific that the choice to fund the arts less than in previous years was based on providing more essential assistance, and not because the arts are less valuable to the community.

“It is not that we don’t want to support any type of nonprofit – let me be very clear on that,” Massilla-many said. “What we had determined is primarily in the arts space we felt those nonprofits would be better served utilizing someone like Hamilton County Tourism.”

Maki echoed the desire to help nonprofits, but also pointed to LIT constraints as being part of the decision.

“We have some great nonprofit organizations,” Maki said. “We wish we could have funded all, but because of the cutback in the amount from the state regarding our share of the LIT, we could not entertain that.”

Several people have told The Reporter that this year’s budget hearings were very nonconfrontational, smooth and productive.

“As a whole there was a lot of legwork done ahead of time, which I think is always very valuable for all members of the council,” Massillamany said. “I think that made it very productive. Looking at the council as a whole I think we all bring very unique qualifications that have made this year. If you think about where we have been in the last 18 months with COVID, everybody has honed in on their specialty or their niche and it’s worked. I think we saw that with the budget hearings. I think we have gotten to a place where everybody provides value and I’m just glad to be a part of it.”

The final county budget will be adopted in a public hearing, with public comments available this fall.

Wednesday’s hearings are available for streaming at youtu.be/-uITpwnJ5M.

Happy 40th, Emily! Putting a stop to those UTIs

Oh, my dear daughter Emily, how can you be turning 40 this week when my mind still thinks I am 40? I don't listen to what my body thinks. My body thinks I am 65.

This week, we celebrate from a distance, yet my heart is so near to yours.

Your gift is on its way, but being the daughter of your grandmother, who never stopped giving me advice until she passed, I will do the same.

So here goes ...

Five minutes on the phone with your mother will make her day. Never think "it's just five minutes."

Putting yourself in "time out" is important, even more so, when you are 40. Take a bubble bath by candlelight while binge watching Netflix. Tell Drew, Aiden and Leah you will treat them to pizza ... at the pizza place. They can bring you back leftovers. Tell them not to rush.

When a "mean mom" invades your offspring's territory, never be afraid to stand your ground to protect your children. You can be kind even while speaking your mind. Your mother has watched the karma ghost come back to haunt a few mean moms. It may take years but it will come back to them.

Your kids will remember the times you were silly. Do more of the silly. Those memories will always make them smile.

Make sure you are in the Kodak moments with them. You know ... pictures. I learned the hard way that you need to be in the pictures, not just the one taking them.

Enjoy your sisterhood community. Find those girlfriends that you can be "real" with. Every girlfriend has a little bit of the Velveteen Rabbit in her. Lean in, listen to their stories and learn how to love them well. Your girlfriends need you and they need your wise voice. In return, I pray they love you well.

Take Drew on dates. Dates without kids. Listen to his heart. Tell him the thoughts from your heart. Never forget the love you found all those years ago. Love will look different over the years. Make sure your love is treated with the same care as you promised at that altar some 12 years ago. I pray Drew loves you well.

Just know, life happens. It can be cruel. You will get through the muck and yuck. You will heal from the hurts and the bruises. At 40, you have had a few. You will have more.

The losses and goodbyes will be the most difficult things you will endure. Value the time you have with those you love. The older you get, the more you will value that time.

Your children will grow up. They will leave the nest. Who knows, they may move back to Indiana. As long as they are happy, allow them to fly. You can give them directions (you are your mother's daughter after all) but their GPS may take them places you never expected. Trust them. They are being raised by wise parents (and grandparents).

Don't allow your 9-to-5 job to become 24/7. Allow time for pauses. Don't sleep with your job. It can be an evil bedfellow.

Hold tight to the legacy of your grandmother's faith. Trust God to hold your pen as He writes your story. Faith is not about going to church and obeying all the commandments. It's about having a personal relationship with God. It's knowing He will always be with you, no matter the circumstances.

Take a deep breath whenever you become stressed. Hold for five seconds. Slowly breathe out through your mouth for 10 seconds. Repeat this several times. Trust me, it will help with stress. I know this well.

Laugh, my dear daughter, laugh! Picture your mom dancing in a TikTok video. OK, maybe not.

Never think that you are too old to do something. Well, you are too old to skydive. Don't even think about it.

I love you, Emily. I am blessed to call you my daughter.

Just enjoy life, my dear Emily. 40 is a such a sweet number but I can assure you ... so is 65.

Just when I thought I had encountered everything perimenopause could throw at me, it decided to surprise me once again this year. As I've mentioned before, many of us in the sandwich generation are middle-aged women, which means we're either approaching menopause or actually in it.

I've also stated that there is a tremendous lack of information when it comes to this stage of life. One thing no one warned me about was more frequent urinary tract infections (UTIs.) As menopause approaches, women are more prone to getting them thanks to lower estrogen levels.

If you've never had one, consider yourself lucky. I had them frequently in my 20s but they thankfully stopped – until 18 months ago. Since then I've had three, with the latest sending me into the ER at midnight last week.

UTIs come on suddenly and are incredibly painful. You not only feel like you have to go to the bathroom constantly, but it burns when you do so. I hadn't felt pain like I did last week since I gave birth to my sons.

As you can imagine, they can constantly disrupt your life. I'm fortunate to work from home, so I was able to do some things on my laptop while recovering on our couch the next day. I could not have gone into a regular office. In addition to the pain and urgency, UTIs can cause fatigue, loss of appetite, confusion in elderly individuals, and more.

If they're not treated quickly, they can escalate into worse problems like kidney damage and sepsis.

I've been doing all the right things to prevent them for years and even added more to my arsenal lately by incorporating probiotics to my diet. I drink plenty of water. I consider myself the poster child for UTI prevention, yet I still battled another one.

I'm seeing my primary care physician in September, the wonderful Dr. H., and intend to discuss this situation with her. If you suffer from UTIs, I would encourage you to speak to a medical professional.

In the meantime, I decided to do some research to see what supplements might help. I came across Uqora and was impressed by what I saw. Their CEO founded the company after battling eight UTIs in 2014. That told me volumes.

I'm trying their Target product, which is a reasonably-priced drink you consume every three days to help keep your bladder healthy. While I haven't received it yet, I'm optimistic that it will help me thwart yet another evil perimenopause symptom.

Ladies, we have to keep talking about this and spreading good information. It's important to be proactive with our health. If we're not healthy, it's difficult to take care of our own family and elderly relatives. I'll continue to do all I can to be in tip-top shape. I'll keep you all posted on my UTI prevention discoveries.

Feeding Team food pantries depend on neighbors like you

Our neighbors in Hamilton County are amazing. Hundreds of people each month play a part in providing meals to food challenged neighbors. Simple acts of generosity multiplied hundreds of times help provide thousands of no questions asked meals that are available 24/7.

This column intends to inform, encourage, and tell stories of our neighbors who give to and shop from the pantries.

Yellow, honor system "Take What You Need, Give What You Can" food pantries are new to this area, which prompts lots of questions. How does this work? Where did the idea come from? Why do you do it? How can we get involved?

Food charities have been a personal cause since Lisa and I struggled with food insecurity in the 80s. It became our primary business charity in the mid-90s.

GUEST COLUMNIST

Using data from the American Community Survey, we created a county map highlighting areas with income levels slightly above what qualified for public assistance. The data also revealed 27,000 food insecure neighbors in Hamilton County before COVID hit. Recent estimates exceed 50,000 today.

Armed with data, we started knocking on doors asking to place a pantry near challenged population areas. Once locations were secured, several organizations stepped in to help build, paint, and deliver the pantries. Each week volunteers maintain the pantries, pick up food, sort and then stock non-perishable food items. Their service makes thousands of meals available in pantries county wide. It is a simple model powered by a vision to serve neighbors, a business, several donors, and lots of volunteers. Take what you need, simply meaning NO NEIGHBOR need go hungry because food is available. Give what you can, simply meaning when you are able, please help a neighbor by contributing into any of the pantries.

The model was adapted from the small outdoor book libraries that became popular over the last decade. The Feeding Team honor system is fueled with funding from businesses and individuals. It is capped with donations from neighbors who want to help struggling families.

We will never know the stories of most of our neighbors who struggle with food insecurity. We believe it's not our business unless a neighbor shares their story. In future columns, we will share stories from neighbors about how your generosity served them in times of need. Be assured that the face of hunger in Hamilton County is not what you may think.

In practical terms, this simple way to help neighbors is having real impact on lives, families, and our communities. Thank you. A few meals can change the course of a person's life. A can of green beans means so much more when you have nothing to feed your kids. Want to get involved? Visit feedingteam.org.

So many positive things in Carmel

Decades ago, Carmel was a bedroom community.

It was a very nice city with top-notch schools but it was a place where people lived but not necessarily where they worked or went out for entertainment. Many Carmel residents made the long commute to downtown Indianapolis every day to work and ventured into Marion County often for dinner or a show.

Carmel has grown as a city. We now have more than 100 corporate headquarters within our city limits, offering residents many options for a short work commute. In the last 25 years, our population has increased from 25,000 to more than 100,000. We've gone from about 40 acres of park land back then to more than 800 acres today, including amazing recent expansions to the Monon Trail.

Entertainment options have exploded with a flourishing downtown. We have world class cultural and entertainment venues like The Palladium, the acoustically-perfect 1,600-seat concert hall which will host giant names like John Legend and Ben Folds this fall. Residents can take a short drive, walk or bike ride to Midtown Plaza to enjoy a meal at Sun King and watch free movies and sporting events on the large outdoor TV screen in the public plaza. You can even enjoy a romantic staycation at the Hotel Carmichael, a Marriott Autograph Collection hotel that overlooks the Monon.

While Carmel has become internationally known for commitment to innovative city design, we still offer the same amenities that make us feel like a small town.

I cherish the times I watch my two-year-old daughter skip through the splash pads at Central Park or dig through the sand at Founders Park.

I love seeing residents gather for the annual Fourth of July parade, one of the best and most attended in the state. Crowds show up for our wonderful fireworks display and CarmelFest event every Independence Day and it just feels like true Americana.

I love seeing longtime residents filling up their plastic water jugs at Flowing

As we continue to grow as a city – which is a good thing – we can't lose our small town charm.

To me, Carmel offers the best of both worlds: the amenities, entertainment and business of a big city while still offering the community spirit of a small town. It's why my family chooses to call it home.

City Councilor Adam Aasen (R-SE District) represents southeast Carmel, which is east of Keystone Parkway and north of 96th Street. The district borders the north along Main Street from Keystone to Gray Road and along 126th Street from Gray to the eastern city limits.

Obituary

Mrs. Carolyn (Joyce) Allen Chance
December 9, 1937 – August 6, 2021

Mrs. Carolyn (Joyce) Allen Chance, 83, Westfield, went to be with Christ her Savior in Heaven, August 6, 2021 at her earthly, deeply loved home of Magnolia Springs Senior Living at Bridgewater. A joyful, devoted and loving daughter, sister, wife, mother and grandmother, Carolyn was born on December 9, 1937 to David Beecher Allen and Dorothy (Trees) Allen in Frankfort, Ind.

She attended Little Jeff School in Clinton County, Ind., and graduated in 1956 with a class of nine! She went on to attend Purdue University majoring in home economics and earning her Bachelor of Science degree in 1960. It was during her time at Purdue where she met her husband, Dr. Ronald Eugene Chance. They were happily married for 53 years. Following college, Carolyn was a Home Economics teacher in Kokomo, Ind. Ron and Carolyn raised two children and were very involved in their lives between supporting them in sporting events and 4-H projects. In the later years of her life, Carolyn enjoyed attending her granddaughter's sporting and flag events and her and Ron's annual trips to Bonita Springs, Fla.

Yet, despite these facts of Carolyn's life, her greatest attribute was her indescribable, genuine faith in Jesus Christ. If you knew Carolyn personally you would know she left no doubt of where her hope was found. She never hesitated to share the Gospel with anyone she came in contact with. Impacting the faith of so many, Carolyn never ceased in prayer writing daily on note cards for family, friends and strangers. If there is one thing Carolyn would want those she has left on this earth to know, it would be these two equations:

Jesus Christ + Nothing = EVERYTHING
3 Nails + 1 Cross = 4GIVEN

Carolyn is survived by her sister, Helen (Louise) Allen Fisher; her husband, James F. Fisher; son, David Maurice Chance, his wife, Jill (Spidel) Chance, and their daughters, Nicole (Chance) Hall, her husband, Jonathan, and Jenna Chance; and her daughter, Christine (Chance) Heald, her husband, Brett Heald, and their daughter, Andrea Heald.

In addition to her parents, she was preceded in death in 2015 by her husband, Ronald Eugene Chance, Ph.D.

Visitation will be from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m., with services at 2 p.m., on Thursday, August 12, 2021 at Randall & Roberts Funeral Center, 1685 Westfield Road, Noblesville. Burial will follow at Summit Lawn Cemetery in Westfield Please join us in Carolyn's celebration of a new life in Heaven! In lieu of flowers, memorial contributions may be made to Harvest Church, 14550 River Road, Carmel, IN 46033.

Condolences: randallroberts.com

Bitcoin: Investing or speculating?

Many people have decided that bitcoin is the next big thing – and they are backing up their enthusiasm with dollars. Should you, too, consider putting money into bitcoin or other cryptocurrencies?

First of all, keep in mind an essential piece of financial advice: Don't invest in something you don't understand. And bitcoin is not easily understandable. There's no physical bitcoin, nor is it backed by a bank or government. It's a digital currency, used for transactions on a decentralized network of computers. The market's demand for bitcoin largely determines its price, though other factors are also involved.

And this price can vary widely. Since bitcoin was introduced in 2009, it has gone through periods of enormous gains and precipitous declines. Its short history has reminded market watchers of the bursting of the "dot-com" bubble in 2000 and the housing market bubble in 2007. These results have raised the following question about purchasing bitcoin: Is it investing or speculating?

There's a big difference between the two. Speculators engage in risky transactions with the hope of profiting from short-term price fluctuations in various financial vehicles. Investors, on the other hand, stick with these practices:

- They follow a long-term strategy. Real investors follow a long-term strategy based on their goals, risk tolerance and time horizon. Generally speaking, long-term investors don't do a lot of buying and selling, saving on fees and potential taxes. But this "buy and hold" approach doesn't mean investors put their portfolios on autopilot. Instead, they review their portfolios at least once a year to make sure their investment mix is still appropriate for their needs.
- They focus on quality. Long-term investors stay away from the flashier – and riskier – financial instruments. Instead, these investors seek quality. When they're considering stocks, for example, they look for companies with solid fundamentals, including strong management teams, competitive products and services and business plans that bode well for the future. When they buy bonds, they seek those with high credit ratings issued by the independent rating agencies. Focusing on quality doesn't yield quick results, but it can instill confidence in one's investment choices.

• They diversify their holdings. If a downturn in the financial markets affects one type of asset particularly hard, and your portfolio contains a high concentration of that asset, your financial strategy could be jeopardized. Long-term investors reduce this risk by owning a variety of investments. While diversification can't guarantee profits or protect against all losses, it can help reduce the impact of market volatility on your portfolio.

And here's one more difference between investors and speculators: track record. Investors put their money into companies that provide tangible goods and services, and these companies have historically grown

Consequently, investors can assume a certain degree of predictability, though, of course, stock prices will always fluctuate in the short term and there are no guarantees against loss of principal. Cryptocurrencies, on the other hand, are relatively new, largely unpredictable and will likely face increased regulation in the future, with the ultimate risk being an outright ban by some governments.

The Lease will be for a maximum term of 22 years with a maximum annual lease rental of $2,000,000. However, as existing obligations mature, the anticipated increase to the Debt Service Fund tax rate is expected to be $0.00.
The maximum annual debt service for the Project for any year in which the Bonds are outstanding is $2,000,000. Ryan Christopher Smith

February 4, 1999 – July 26, 2021

Ryan Christopher Smith, 22, Noblesville, passed away on July 26, 2021. He was born February 4, 1999 to Patricia (Hayes) Smith and Christopher Smith.

He is survived by his mother, Patricia (Hayes) Smith; his father, Christopher L. Smith; sisters, Samantha Smith and Kaitlin Smith; grandmother, Jaqueline Hayes; and grandfather, Robert Smith.

He was preceded in death by his grandfather, Robert E. Hayes; and grandmother, Margaret Smith.

A gentle giant is how others described him. He was loud yet had a shyness too him, very energetic with brilliant ideas, the perfect combination for a joker. Like hiding behind the Christmas tree to convince his mother the lights were connected to a Clapper. Just another way he would always brighten up someone's day. Followed along with his most famous phrase, "Hey, can I have five bucks?" The energy he gave off was always one you found comfort in no matter what was going on in your day. We give thanks every day that we had the privilege and honor to be a part of Ryan's life. He will always be a part of us all.

A very charitable man always giving to others. He continuously donated to multiple organizations to help firefighters and Police to bring out the best in society.

Services were held on Monday, August 9, 2021 at Randall & Roberts Fishers Mortuary, 12010 Allisonville Road, Fishers. Visitation was held prior to the time of service. The burial was private. Condolences: randallroberts.com

Thomas Edward "Ed" Christman

July 12, 1928 – August 1, 2021

Thomas Edward "Ed" Christman, 93, Noblesville, passed away in his home peacefully on Sunday, August 1, 2021. He was born on July 12, 1928, in Fortville, Ind., to Wanda Christman.

Ed moved to Noblesville in his early childhood and held many memories in the area living with his mother, father, and brother Pete. He graduated from Noblesville High School in 1946 and began his hobby of flying in 1947. After becoming a licensed Private Pilot, Ed achieved his dream of owning his own airplane and took great joy in flying around the country. Ed enlisted in the Army in 1951 and proudly served as a First Lieutenant in Artillery.

Ed attended Purdue University to study Animal Science. Working first with United Feeds then Moorman's, Ed was known throughout Hamilton and contiguous counties for his expertise in livestock nutrition for over 35 years. He also raised 300 feeder pigs and Angus cattle at his farm outside of Cicero. He later worked at Kitterman Machine Co. as a Tool & Die Maker.

On July 18, 1978, Ed married Jane Waterman and took on the responsibility of raising four more children. The two built strong relationships by hosting most family holidays and Wednesday night suppers. Passionate for adventure, they traveled the country on their motorcycle and collected many amazing stories and photos. They visited all 48 continental states, filling a goal they had set. They filled their time at home with weekly breakfasts with friends, riding his motorcycle, and getting donuts from Fortville (always picking up enough to share). Their journey together was a multitude of experiences, enabling Ed to have endless stories to share and inspire friends and family to explore what the world has to offer.

Having lived a long and fulfilling life, Ed had developed many hobbies, including riding his motorcycle with Goldwing Chapter P, bowling (Indiana State Seniors Singles Champion!), golfing with his buddies, flying both life-size and model airplanes, and coaching little league baseball. Later in life, Ed spent much of this time building and flying model airplanes, reading many books, watching his grandchildren play ball, learning to play the organ, and visiting the Atlanta Music Hall. He was passionate about sharing his hobbies with everyone and has many accounts of letting others fly his plane, bringing his grandchildren along on motorcycle trips, and spending hours sharing his adventures with anyone who would listen.

Ed was an avid learner with an extensive appetite for wisdom gained through the voyage of life. He was the epitome of perseverance and strength, and with great tenacity for achievement – Ed was a man who kept coming back. His devotion to family, friends, and life inspired those around him. He will be greatly missed.

He is survived by his loving wife of 43 years, Jane Christman; children, Dave and Nick (Leann) Christman, Kim (Steve) Scully, David (Melanie) Bailey, and Brian Bailey; 11 grandchildren; several nieces and nephews; three dogs; and an extensive extended family. He is predeceased by his parents, Clifford and Wanda Stevenson; brother, Marlin "Pete" (Sylvia) Christman; daughters, Linda Christman and Kaye Bailey; and grandson, Daniel.

Ed donated his body to science for the advancement of medicine and will not be having a traditional service. A celebration of life will be hosted for close family and friends and will be announced at a later date.

Ed's family is incredibly grateful for all the support, prayers, and thoughtful gifts prior to and following Ed's death.

Damond Avery Coates

July 26, 1972 – July 26, 2021

Damond Avery Coates, youngest child of the late Charles and Rosia (Baynes) Coates, was born on July 26, 1972, in Baltimore, Md. His angels took him home on July 26, 2021.

Damond was known by many different names throughout his lifetime. Big Avery, Avery, Fats, Baltimore, Boss Man are just a few. No matter which name you knew him by, to know him was to love him.

Damond lost his mother at an early age and was surrounded by angels ever since. Whether in human or spiritual form, his angels helped guide him through a difficult childhood. He felt their presence his entire life. Relationships with his godmother, Tobie, and his lifelong best friend Ty Howard's mother, Theresa, gave him strength, love, and support. His many aunts, uncles and cousins were a blessed foundation in his life.

On September 2, 1993, Damond met the girl of his dreams, Alisa Lynn Rose Coates, his daughter. His world was changed forever, and he worked very hard to be the best dad he could be.

Damond was larger than life. His laugh was contagious, and he had the most beautiful smile. He truly never knew a stranger, and his personality filled any room he was in. As a truck driver for more than 20 years, he traveled near and far and found ways to enjoy every place where he was. Damond was a human GPS and was always just a phone call away. He was the best person to talk to – whether it be funny stories, sports, or life advice. He was a kind soul despite his strong exterior. Damond, or pops, loved his family more than anything – even Chinese food and crabs. He would do anything for his children and grandchildren including his fur babies. Damond is going to be missed by every person who has ever known him. But like a true leo, his legacy will forever reign on.

Damond leaves to cherish his memory his daughter, Alisa Coates; granddaughter, Aniyah Richardson; fiancée, Elizabeth Paquette; and their combined families, Cierra (Zach) Stewart, Lucas (Amber) Spink, Jacob Spink, Donna (Eric) Langlois, and Jessica (Jose) Alfaro; grandchildren, Landin, Bentley, Isabella, Olivia, Afton, Kylie, and Kaysen; brother, Michael Coates; sister, Terese Thompson; life-long best friend, Ty Howard; and best friend, Wayne Bell.

A Family Celebration of Life gathering will take place at a later date. Bussell Family Funerals is privileged to assist the family with arrangements.

Girls golf season begins

Westfield's busy week finishes with victory at State Preview tournament

By RICHIE HALL

CARMEL - Last week has been a busy, yet productive one for the Westfield girls golf team.

The Shamrocks concluded a stretch of five tournaments in six days last Saturday by winning the State Preview meet at Prairie View Golf Club in Carmel. Westfield finished first with a team score of 301.

"It was a battle out there, honestly," said Shamrocks coach Trevor Neu. "We had a stretch of really good holes and got off to a decent start."

The tournament featured a shotgun start, with different players beginning on each of the 18 holes. Neu said that his team started on some of tougher holes, "so that maybe was in our favor," he said. "We got through some of those early."

Neu said the 'Rocks "had a couple hiccups" on hole No. 9, "but the girls that struggled responded well after that and went on a nice streak."

"They really battled back after some tough holes," said Neu. "But that's this course. You got to take the good with the bad. When you have a double (bogey) in there, you know you got to battle and work your way back and just try to stay consistent. The girls did that all day long."

Westfield's Sam Brown was the only player to finish under par for the tournament, carding a two under par 70 to claim medalist honors. Brown made four birdies in her round.

"I think that I played decent," said Brown. "I think I definitely left some shots out there, but it was enough to bring it home."

Brown's performance at Prairie View continued a remarkable run: During the Shamrocks' busy stretch, Brown has finished under par four times in five tournaments, and was even par at the fifth tournament.

"It's been super busy, but it's been fun to come out and play," said Brown.

Sophie McGinnis scored a 75 for Westfield, making three birdies and placing ninth individually. Allie Hildebrand scored a 77 and Brette Hanavan added a 79; both made two birdies. Allie McKeown rounded out the Shamrocks' scoring with an 85.

To recap, the 'Rocks won four of the five tournaments they played during the week, and were the runners-up in the fifth tournament. With school starting next week, the tournament pace will slow down this week, but Westfield couldn't have asked for a better start.

Neu said Brown had "a fantastic first week" and the other players had "great, great weeks."

"It's just a lot for us to build off of and just hopefully stay the course and maybe clean up a few things here and there," said Neu. "But super pleased with this week."

GREYHOUNDS PLACE SECOND

Carmel was the team runner-up with a score of 308. Ava Hedrick and Claire Swathwood both carded 74s, which made them part of a five-way tie for fourth place.

Swathwood collected four birdies in her round, with Hedrick making three. Swathwood went from six over on her first six holes to five under over the next 11, including a 31 on the back nine.

"It takes another level of determination to flip a round around like Claire did today," said Greyhounds coach Kelly Kluesner.

Michael Headlee finished with a 78, while Ava Nguyen scored 82. Both had one birdie. Kamryn Williams carded an 87.

"The girls played really well on such a tough course," said Kluesner. The coach said that Prairie View lived up to its expectations at the tournament, playing hard and fast with "swirling winds and tucked pins."

"It was a true challenge and the girls handled it perfect. We are so happy with our score today," said Kluesner.

Center Grove and Homestead tied for third with identical scores of 316. Hamilton Southeastern, finished in fifth place with a 324. Yanah Ralston led the

I was born and raised right here in Noblesville. I grew up in a home without domestic violence or assault – it wasn't something I saw, or even heard about. But when I was introduced to Prevail of Central Indiana, I was shocked by the number of individuals who are affected by domestic violence. In 2018 alone, Prevail helped more than 4,000 clients in Hamilton County. (Nearly 80 percent of clients are women and children.) Domestic violence and abuse are hard topics to discuss, so you don't often hear about them. But at Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville, we're breaking the taboo and raising awareness for Prevail, an organization that helps families in Hamilton County.
