Letter to the Editor -

Noblesville reader questions necessity of Senate Bill 167

I would like to address Indiana Senate Bill 167, which seeks to give parents more of a say in what/how their children are taught at school.

Indiana already has a host of good ways parents can impact what their children are taught. Parents already have the option to homeschool or pick a private school that aligns with their personal beliefs and preferences - even at government expense. Parents are able to run for school board or attend their meetings to make their voices heard.

What we need is a school system where people who meet the arduous educational and certification system already in place in Indiana are listened to. We need schools that can prepare our students to compete in a

Compromise needed to restore state's executive, legislative balance

Every Indiana governor desires as much leverage as possible to deal with daily issues that come with running state government, while the Indiana Gen-Assembly (IGA) serves as a "part-time" participant in members of the House of state government.

Describing members of the Indiana Senate and House of Representatives as "part time" is a misnomer. They live in their districts. They go to the grocery, they attend church and they are accessible to the tens of thousands of constituents they swore to listen to and protect year round. They were elected to be the voice of their community and justifiably want to be heard by other members of the legislature and the Governor. The executive branch runs state government and the legislathe IGA – are the "boots on the ground" listening to 6.6 in tandem.

The relationship between Gov. Eric Holcomb and the IGA has been severely tested since the global COVID-19 pandemic hit Indiana in March 2020. At that time, Gov. Eric Holcomb signed the first of numerous execas law and are not debated or voted on by members of the legislature, which is unlike every other law on the books in the state. This has left the 150 IGA members that they could not have any legal input on.

As a result of the flurry of Holcomb ecutive orders, Rep. Matt Lehman (R-Berne), among other Representatives, authored House Bill 1123. This measure turned the 2021 session of the Indiana General Assembly into an invisible slugfest. HB 1123 proposed to allow the General Assembly to convene in an emergency session when a state of emergency has been declared by the Governor. The legislature passed HB 1123, the Governor in turn vetoed the measure, and the General Assembly then overrode the veto. Now both the administrative and legislative branches of the Indiana government will tive – the 150 members of rely on the judicial branch to decide for them.

Since the 2021 session million Hoosiers. They work ended in April, the Governor has continued to sign emergency executive orders. He and the IGA have also opposed each other in Marion County Superior Court. Now the Governor has appealed to the Indiana Supreme Court. The Supreme Court must now decide that utive orders to combat the HB 1123 is unconstitutional pandemic. These orders act or allow the lower court's decision to stand.

This tug of war between the members of the same Indiana Republican Party has been difficult to watch. I believe that two specific piecfacing tough questions and es of legislation would go a responses from their constit- long way toward strengthen-uents on a matter ing the office of the governor and the legislature as well, allowing our elected officials to feel like they have equal weight in decision making.

The first bill should be ex- an amendment to the Indiana constitution establishing a two-thirds majority to override a governor's veto. The office of the governor is constitutionally weak and needs to be strengthened. The constitution currently allows a veto override by a simple majority of members of the House and Senate. By requiring a more outspoken response from the legislature, executive decisions will have more staying power.

> The second bill would cap gubernatorial executive orders at three 30-day periods. Should the emergency at the end of the 90th day persist, the language from HB 1123 kicks in and the legislature is called into emergency session. This gives the legislature the opportunity to bring their insights from across the state back to the Statehouse and decide as a group what is the best path forward in times of crisis.

> By doing this, we allow the governor to make snap decisions when necessary and also are able to incorporate voices from communities across the state when there is time to do so. I believe this compromise will be in the best interest of Hoosiers and leave us better prepared for whatever may lie ahead.

TODAY'S BIBLE VERSE

The Son is the image of the invisible God, the firstborn over all creation. For in him all things were created: things in heaven and on earth, visible and invisible, whether thrones or powers or rulers or authorities; all things have been created through him and for him. He is before all things, and in him all things hold together. And he is the head of the body, the church; he is the beginning and the firstborn from among the dead, so that in everything he might have the supremacy. For God was pleased to have all his fullness dwell in him, and through him to reconcile to himself all things, whether things on earth or things in heaven, by making peace through his blood, shed on the cross.

Once you were alienated from God and were enemies in your minds because of your evil behavior. But now he has reconciled you by Christ's physical body through death to present you holy in his sight, without blemish and free from accusation—if you continue in your faith, established and firm, and do not move from the hope held out in the gospel. This is the gospel that you heard and that has been proclaimed to every creature under heaven, and of which I, Paul, have become a servant.

Westfield wins Senior Night dual with GC

By RICHIE HALL

WESTFIELD - The Westfield swim team hosted Guerin Catholic Thursday for their Senior Night meet at the beautiful new Westfield Aquatic Center.

The Shamrocks won both sides of the meet, as the girls team was victorious 150-33 and the boys team was a 98-72 winner. Both schools had winners in each division, and it was a chance for Westfield to celebrate its seniors, as the Shamrocks did traditional Senior Night activities and honored Jack Kelleher, a Westfield swimmer who passed away from cancer four years ago; Shamrocks coach Darrick Thomas said it was a "celebration of his life and everything that that family has meant to our community and to our team."

Westfield's girls team won 11 of the 12 events, with eight different Shamrocks winning eight individual events. Ellie Ketcham was a double winner in the 100 freestyle and backstroke. Other Westfield winners were Annie Spaletto in the 200 free, Alexa Boillat in the individual medley, Ava Friedman in the 50 free, Ellie Lee in diving Macy Hoaglan in the breaststroke, and all three Bridget Keller picked up the Golden Eagles' lone victory, winning the 500 free.

In the boys meet, Westfield won six of the 11 events (diving was not contested). Aaron Hand placed first in the 100 free, Aiden Yonkus paced the 500 free, Luca Barbosa was first in the backstroke and Ben Ice won the breaststroke. The Shamrocks also were first in the medley and 200 free relay.

Guerin Catholic's Quinn Sweeney was a double winner in the 200 free and butterfly. Drew Wilhite won the IM, while Grant Bricking led a 1-2-3 sweep in the 50 free. The Golden Eagles finished the meet with a win in the 400 free relay.

Thomas said it was "nice to be here," considering the uncertain circumstances surrounding athletics right now. He was happy the Shamrocks were able to have the meet so the team could properly recognize their seniors. Thomas praised Guerin Catholic as well.

"I appreciate their sportsmanship in all
