Blatchley Nature Study Club invites public on guided walks

The REPORTER

The Blatchley Nature Study Club, 125 Boulder Drive, Noblesville, invites nature lovers of all ages to join in a guided nature walk to view some of the most diverse varieties of wildflowers in Indiana. Jack-in-the-Pulpit, Dutchman’s Breeches, Blood Root and canopies of May Apples are a few of the varieties you will enjoy while walking the natural and rustic trails.

Two walks will take place: The early bloomers walk is set for Saturday, April 16, and the late bloomers walk for Saturday, April 30. An open house will be held from 1 to 5 p.m. both days.

The Blatchley Nature Study Club is celebrating its centennial this year, and club members are looking forward to what the next 100 years will bring. Read below to find out more . . .

- Monthly meetings: Club members learn about all aspects of nature through presentations by members or guests at the club’s monthly meetings. Meetings are typically the fourth Thursday of the month at the Blatchley clubhouse. Meetings can include club business as well as nature observations as shared by members and their guests.

- Field studies: Typically led by a club member, field studies provide an opportunity for hands-on study of a selected nature topic. The Blatchley Sanctuary is used as the field of study for these investigations.

- Field trips: During the year, club members organize trips to other locations locally or within a few hours’ drive. For example, members have experienced the flight of Whooping Cranes and observed herds of elk.

- Service: Club members have participated in the White River Cleanup, which is conducted annually in September. With the Blatchley Sanctuary located along the White River, this has become a natural extension of the club’s activities.

Formed in 1922, the Blatchley Nature Study Club has been sharing its private nature sanctuary with the public every spring for decades. Treat yourself to an hour in the woods on either April 16 or April 30 – or both. More information is available on Facebook and at blatchley22@gmail.com.

My daughter Delaney convinced me to try Wordle for the first time on Jan. 29. I figured out the word COULD in four tries, frustrated that it took so long to crack the code to such a boring verb, yet intrigued enough to hopefully solve a Wordle in only two turns eventually. To solve the puzzle in one turn seemed improbable.

(Editor’s note to Scott: You lost another reader. Pick up the pace, man!)

My dear and final reader, here’s where my story gets really exciting. On Feb. 4, only seven days into my Wordle addiction, I achieved the unthinkable: I solved the puzzle in one turn. I kid you not. A WORD-IN-ONE!

I still remember the glorious moment. I was on lunch break. I was in an A E mood, so I started with the first word that came to mind containing A and E.

I entered PLEAT, a word I can’t recall ever speaking prior.

The P square turned green. The L square turned green. The E square turned green. The A square turned green. The T square turned green. Five green squares on the first turn!

(Editor’s note to Scott: You lost your last reader!)

I couldn’t believe my good luck. A Google search revealed that to guess one of the 12,972 accepted five-letter words at random on the first try, your chances are less than a hundredth of a percent.

Less than a hundredth of a percent! I’m math impaired, but I’m certain it means the odds are very low, as low as, say, someone still reading today’s column.

I likely used PLEAT in conversation a hundred times over the following few days. My poor wife. I was so excited, yet there was also a sense of ominousness associated with overcoming such daunting odds. A comic strip came to mind from Cracked “mazagine” in the ‘70s, during which a cowboy named Sagebrush proclaims to have finally found “the meaning to life,” only to get struck immediately by lightning in the next panel. I worried. Will I get struck by lightning, too?

The recent obituary of a guy I knew (he was not struck by lightning) referenced his nine hole-in-ones (now he’s the one in a hole), making me think I should reference my “word-in-one” in my obituary (perhaps just before listing my survivors’ names).

On Feb. 5, still feeling lucky from the day before, I played Powerball for the first time in years.

Did I win, you ask?

That this column is about Wordle is answer enough.

PREVAIL
Advocating for Victims of Crime & Abuse

I was born and raised right here in Noblesville. I grew up in a home without domestic violence or assault - it wasn’t something I saw, or even heard about. But when I was introduced to Prevail of Central Indiana, I was shocked by the number of individuals who are affected by domestic violence. In 2018 alone, Prevail helped more than 4,000 clients in Hamilton County (nearly 80 percent of clients are women and children). Domestic violence and abuse are hard topics to discuss, so you don’t often hear about them. But at Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville, we’re breaking the taboo and raising awareness for Prevail, an organization that helps families in Hamilton County.

Good health habits will prolong your own personal ‘Route 66’ trip

“Get your kicks on Route 66” – Bobby Troup, 1946

(Readers – this is a reprint of an article I wrote a few years ago; it is an analogy of our “lifetime trip” and how that relates to any trip we might take. It is not a “real” trip except to compare to the roadmap of our lives.)

Those of us who are, well, let’s just say “of a certain age” will probably remember the TV show Route 66 from many years ago, starring Martin Milner and Glenn Corbett. I thought about checking to see if those gentlemen were still with us but decided against it! Anyway, as March is a birthday month for me, I began to contemplate the well-known historic route of which most Americans are aware and many have traveled.

Part of the reason that I thought of this had to do with the number referred to above (enough said about that) but also thinking of how our lives are very similar to that route. Each of us has a life route to take, a journey with a beginning, middle, and end. Sometimes we can travel the entire route; sometimes our trip is interrupted unfortunately, as we know.

Although there are interruptions of our trip that cannot be avoided – say, the fender bender or flat tire – much of it can be successful if we apply good maintenance, focus on the road ahead, and allow time to pull over at a rest stop now and then.

Of course, you know I am speaking of the importance of taking care of our bodies, providing nutrition that actually feeds our brain and keeps our heart, tissues, and bones healthy. Essential to our health is life-long learning and use of our intelligence and problem-solving abilities, and frequent and regular exercise to keep our bodies limber and strong. Unfortunately, just as can happen in a road trip, unexpected and often traumatizing events can occur as we travel on this long road. However, if we give ourselves all the resources available by eating the right foods and taking care of this body which takes us on our life trip, we have a much better expectation to arrive at the end of the trip we have mapped. AND to end that trip is a very positive way!

Photo provided

In reviewing the Route 66 map mile markers, we have several destinations along the way – kind of like our lives, right? We are born, learn to walk and ride a bike, decide that the opposite gender is not so “icky” after all, graduate from high school and college, get a job, maybe marry and have children – or not, maintain friendships and family relationships, volunteer, purchase homes (unless you live in NYC!) and along the way work on those health maintenance issues.

By comparison, on Route 66, we have Chicago, St. Louis, Oklahoma City, Amarillo, Albuquerque, Winslow, Kingman, and finally LA and Santa Monica. Those are the main “markers,” but of course there are other, smaller ones, along the way – just like life.

The mileage of Route 66 is 2,448. Without divulging my own mileage,

I will just share that I am somewhere between New Mexico and Arizona! I am enjoying the view, the landmarks, and the sometimes-challenging terrain along the way, but eventually anticipating arrival at my California destination with a beautiful view of the sun setting over the ocean – although not in a big hurry to get there.

I hope your own “Route 66” trip is enjoyable with only a few obstacles along the way. Be sure to keep your eyes on the road ahead and enjoy the trip – of a lifetime!

Looking for Peace in the Midst of Turbulent Times?

Flying with eagles? Running and not getting tired? Sound good? To do these things I will need to change my glasses so I look at things the way God does. Rather than looking through glasses that are focused on the material, physical world, I need to look at the unseen spiritual world and things eternal. By so focusing my vision, I see that which is truly important and eternal.

He gives power to the faint, and to him who has no might he increases strength. Even youths shall faint and be weary, and young men shall fall exhausted; but they who wait for the LORD shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings like eagles; they shall run and not be weary; they shall walk and not faint. (Isaiah 40:29-31)

Do you want to live a peaceful contented life flying with eagles, then turn your eyes and heart to Jesus? Open your heart and listen to Him. Embrace the truth He revealed. Turn your life to Jesus! The good folks at the Stony Creek Church of Christ would be delighted to study with you at a time of your convenience and a place of your convenience. Or, attend one of our services and begin your flight with eagles.

Carmel Police charge two people in criminal mischief investigation

The REPORTER

Since January, the City of Carmel and local businesses in and around the Midtown Carmel area have experienced a significant increase in vandalism and loitering in the public areas and parking garages.

The Carmel Police Department (CPD) has consistently taken multiple reports of this nature every week during this time frame, and it's estimated that approximately $14,000 worth of damage has occurred as a result of these incidents. In response to this issue, CPD increased patrols in this area and officers have been aggressively enforcing both ordinance and criminal violations.

In the early morning hours of Saturday, March 5, through the use of city surveillance cameras in the area, officers saw three individuals enter a public restroom in the area of Elm Street and Veterans Way. Officers responded to the area, made contact with the individuals and, upon investigation, discovered fresh damage inside the public restroom.

As a result of this investigation, officers generated a report and criminal charges were submitted to the Hamilton County Prosecutor's Office for consideration.

Then, on Thursday, David Alejandro Foddrill, 19, Indianapolis, and Isiah Dewey Jacob Curtis, 19, Indianapolis, were both charged with Criminal Mischief, a Class B Misdemeanor.

CPD continues to patrol these areas to help prevent damage to public spaces and ensure a pleasant experience for all who work and socialize in these areas.

If you have any information regarding this incident or other similar incidents that have occurred, please call the Carmel Police Department at (317) 571-2500 or Crime Stoppers of Central Indiana at (317) 262-8477 (TIPS).

Missing Carmel woman's family to canvass Georgia neighborhood

By DEMIE JOHNSON
WISH-TV | wish11.com

The family of a missing Carmel woman will canvass the area investigators say she was last seen.

Carmel police said they have confirmed that Ciera Breland's last known location was in Johns Creek, Ga., on Feb. 24.

They said there is no evidence Ciera ever made it back to Indiana, even though her husband, Xavier Breland Jr., said she did.

"According to Xavier, he said that she was in Indiana and was last seen in Indiana. However, as far as we can show right now, we can show that she was last in Johns Creek," Lt. Deb Kalish with the Johns Creek Police Department said.

Kalish said Ciera Breland's last known location was at 10545 Highgate Manor Court, the address for a house in Johns Creek.

The original report said she had been near 146th Street and Ditch Road in Carmel on Feb. 25.

Police have not found her or her body.

Kalish said on Friday her department as well as a victim's specialist from the FBI will meet with family and friends of Ciera Breland. She said the group will hand out flyers and talk to people in the area Ciera was last seen.

"We are asking for the public's assistance. If anyone saw anything to let us know, to let the Carmel police know," Kalish said. "She's got a 5-month-old baby, and I can't imagine as a mother leaving your baby and, you know, it's serious. We're all taking this very seriously and we wanna get Ciera home."

AG Rokita warns Hoosiers to be aware of cryptocurrency scams

The REPORTER

With the rise of cryptocurrency and other digital assets, Indiana Attorney General Todd Rokita wants Indiana consumers to be on the lookout for risky or predatory practices related to the often-misunderstood topic.

"New technologies spark the interest of many people, and Hoosiers are no exception," Rokita said. "Indiana consumers may be familiar with cryptocurrencies or may want to learn more about them. However, digital assets are increasingly being used by well-versed perpetrators looking to scam you out of hard-earned money."

Cryptocurrency is one form of digital asset and is created by companies or individuals, usually taking the form of a virtual coin or token. Digital assets are intangible and generally exist only electronically. Billions of dollars of value are currently invested in cryptocurrencies around the world, with thousands of cryptocurrencies available and more being created all the time.

Most consumers purchase cryptocurrency through an online exchange platform. These assets are stored in digital wallets, which could be online in an exchange, on your computer, or on an external hard drive. But because they are intangible, if something goes wrong with your platform, your hard drive, or your computer, it is likely that you will not be able to recover your funds.

Hoosiers should be aware that the value of cryptocurrency is extremely volatile.

The Securities Division of the Indiana Secretary of State has played an active role in investigating fraud cases related to cryptocurrency and protecting Indiana investors.

"Many of the new cryptocurrency markets operate in uncharted territory when it comes to regulation," said Indiana Secretary of State Holli Sullivan. "Scammers have moved in quickly to take advantage of people's interest to invest. I encourage all Hoosiers to thoroughly vet any offerings related to cryptocurrency before placing their money in potentially volatile markets."

Scammers are using a variety of methods to exploit the novelty of cryptocurrencies as more consumers are using this asset. Here are a few warning signs for scams related to cryptocurrencies:

- If you receive a tweet, text, email, or message through a social media platform telling you to pay via cryptocurrency, it is a scam.
- Scammers ask people to pay with cryptocurrency by impersonating an entity you may frequently engage with. You might be contacted by someone pretending to be a government worker, law enforcement agency, or local utility. Then the scammer directs you to go to a store with a cryptocurrency ATM to pay what they claim you owe by scanning a QR code that sends your money to the scammer. The government, law enforcement, and utility companies will not require you to pay by cryptocurrency. Don't do it.
- Be on the lookout for "guaranteed" investment returns. Promises of high rates of return can be a sign of fraud. This is also true for "easy business opportunity" advertisements you may see. Due to the volatility of the value of cryptocurrencies, there is no guarantee you will make a profit.
- Don't be fooled by celebrity endorsements. Do your own research, and don't make any quick decisions based only on endorsements (that can be easily faked).
- Be aware of attempts to blackmail using email. Scammers send emails that say they have embarrassing photos, videos, or personal information and threaten to make it public if you don't pay in cryptocurrency. Don't do it. This should be reported to criminal enforcement authorities.
- Cryptocurrency payments are typically not reversible. This is why scammers like them.
- Cryptocurrency scams may also involve unauthorized investor advisors. Issues with possible investment advisors acting without registration should be reported to Indiana Secretary of State Holli Sullivan at securities@sos.in.gov or (317) 232-6681.

Report these scams by filing a complaint at indianaconsumer.com or call Attorney General Todd Rokita's office at 1-800-382-5516.

Letter to the Editor

Noblesville reader: Let's not go down this 'Hall'

Dear Editor:
As soon as Mark Hall lost his most recent primary election (for Noblesville Common Council in 2019), he started campaigning for the 2022 Hamilton County Council race.

His latest venture, an admirable project called FeedingTeam, began in 2020 by installing mini food pantries all over Hamilton County. As soon as I saw the yellow and black FeedingTeam design, I asked friends, "How much do you want to bet his yard signs will be yellow and black in 2022?" Surely, I'm being cynical? Read on.

Believe it or not, Hall is running (again) against Steve Schwartz in the Hamilton County District 1 councilor race. Hamilton County residents don't have to dig deep into the past (it was 2018) to remember the scandal of Hall's wife Lisa getting caught on camera removing a Schwartz sign from a Noblesville resident's yard. No criminal charges were filed in the case. Schwartz subsequently sent the photo out as a holiday card to friends and family. Classy.

Guess what? Hall's new, theft-proof campaign signs are yellow and black, and in the same font as FeedingTeam. You can find a link to his campaign site on the FeedingTeam website.

While the FeedingTeam project undoubtedly serves a great purpose, I absolutely question Hall's timing and branding in connection to launching the effort. I have spent only a few minutes on a handful of occasions in conversations with Mark Hall, but he is inauthentic at best.

If you aren't sold on my un-dorsement of Mark Hall yet, let's remember his grandstanding toward the Hamilton East Public Library Board of Trustees at its July 25, 2021 meeting. He very publicly called out the library for including books that acknowledged and celebrated LGBTQ people.

Where does the library get its funding? From the county, of course. Who controls the purse strings of the library system? The county councilors.

Speaking of purse strings, Hall's own company, TalentLogistix, has contributed $22,279.04 (to date) to his current county council campaign. These donations are all considered in-kind contributions.

As book-banning and stifling public school curricula legislation has popped up around the state and country (look no further than failed HB 1134, co-authored by District 29 State Representative Chuck Goodrich – who has already contributed to Hall's campaign), we need to be wary of candidates who seek power at whatever cost, and who aim to limit free and humane speech in our public schools and libraries.

Primary voting will take place on Tuesday, May 3. While this is not an endorsement of Steve Schwartz, it's certainly an "anyone-but-Hall" endorsement. Noblesville and Hamilton County deserve much better.

Letter to the Editor

Westfield reader: Investigations into Clerk Treasurer's Office were necessary

Dear Editor:
I have lived in Westfield for over 30 years. My wife and I are invested in Westfield.

The past two years have been rough. The change in the makeup of the City Council has caused mistrust, rude public decorum, lawsuits, threats, and political backstabbing. Several members of the new Westfield City Council have an axe to grind with the mayor. It is hard to remember when the City Council and the Mayor's office worked together, but they did. The real reason it doesn't work now is simple: mistrust.

Many thought that Cindy Gossard was not handling the office of Clerk Treasurer with honesty. Her tactics to hide reports, delay reporting, change payroll procedures, directing Sheriff's deputies to confiscate city employee phones, and hiring software experts to break into the city's office and extract computer hardware were shady at best. The investigations into the Clerk Treasurer office were necessary to protect Westfield from potential criminal fraud.

What the investigation found was not fraud but ongoing incompetent behavior by the Clerk Treasurer's office. The City of Westfield had outgrown the abilities of this office and they struggled. We need to become a second-class city.

Mayor Cook was justified, in my opinion, to call for an audit for Grand Park, his administration, the Clerk Treasurer's office, and more. It was expensive, but it was necessary to move forward. My question is: What if there was criminal fraud discovered? How much would that cost Westfield both financially and in reputation?

TODAY'S BIBLE READING

Therefore I want the men everywhere to pray, lifting up holy hands without anger or disputing. I also want the women to dress modestly, with decency and propriety, adorning themselves, not with elaborate hairstyles or gold or pearls or expensive clothes, but with good deeds, appropriate for women who profess to worship God.
1 Timothy 2:8-10 (NIV)

Softball schedules

Games start week of March 21

The sounds of softball are only nine days away in Indiana and Hamilton County.

Teams have already been practicing, and can begin playing games on Monday, March 21 per IHSAA rules. Four Hamilton County squads will start their seasons on that day, and that schedule includes three home games.

Hamilton Heights will host Bishop Chatard on March 21, while Westfield welcomes Monrovia. Sheridan, a sectional champion last season, will play Lebanon in a game at Grand Park. The fourth team, Fishers, is the only one going out of town, as the Tigers travel to Kokomo.

On Tuesday, March 22, three more teams begin their seasons. Two of them will play each other, as Carmel travels to Hamilton Southeastern. Noblesville, which won a regional title last year, also begins its campaign on that day with a trip to Western Boone.

Guerin Catholic, the 2021 Class 3A state runner-up, will open its season March 30 by hosting Lafayette Jefferson. University will start on April 12 when it hosts Living Water Marlins at RoundTripper Academy, the Trailblazers' home field for the year.

As far as the post-season goes, the county's Class 4A schools will play Sectional 8 at Fishers this year. The Tigers will host Carmel, Noblesville, Southeastern, Westfield and Zionsville.

Guerin Catholic and Heights will play at Class 3A Sectional 24, which takes place at Delta this season. Jay County, New Castle and Yorktown are also assigned to this sectional.

In Class 1A sectionals, Sheridan travels back to Rossville to compete in Sectional 54, along with Carroll, Clinton Central, Frontier, South Newton and Tri-County. University heads south to Sectional 58 at Bethesda Christian, along with Indiana School for the Deaf, Irvington Prep, Providence Cristo Rey, Riverside, Tindley and Traders Point Christian.

Homestead's Ayanna Patterson voted Indiana Miss Basketball for 2022

Ayanna Patterson has earned the top individual award in Indiana high school girls basketball.

Patterson, a 6-3 forward from Homestead High School, has been named IndyStar Indiana Miss Basketball for 2022 in online voting of media and girls' varsity coaches conducted by the Indiana Basketball Coaches Association and All-Star game director Mike Broughton, it was announced Friday (March 11).

The Miss Basketball result means Patterson will wear the No. 1 jersey for the Indiana All-Stars in their annual series with Kentucky. The Miss Basketball award goes to the top girls' basketball senior in the state. The Miss Basketball and Mr. Basketball awards are part of the IndyStar Indiana All-Star program that dates to 1939. The Miss Basketball award, along with the girls All-Stars, was added to the All-Star program in 1976.

The remainder of the 2022 Girls All-Star team will be announced later. The 2022 Mr. Basketball and the 2022 Boys All-Star team also will be announced later. And the 2022 Junior All-Star teams, girls and boys, will be announced later.

Patterson earned the girls' top honor after being named on 115 ballots submitted to Broughton in balloting that ran from Feb. 14 through March 1. Jessica Carrothers of Crown Point was runner-up with 42 votes. Mila Reynolds of South Bend Washington placed third with 15 votes, and Alyssa Crockett of Westfield was fourth with 10 votes. In total, 16 players received at least one Miss Basketball vote.

A University of Connecticut recruit, Patterson averaged 25.8 points, 11.8 rebounds,

2.5 assists and 2.0 blocks as a senior while leading Homestead to a 23-2 season that included a sectional championship. She converted 60.5 percent on field goals (260 of 432) and 70.6 percent on free throws (96 of 136) as the Spartans captured their fourth consecutive sectional during Patterson's time in the program.

For her career, Patterson totaled 1,912 points, 1,005 rebounds, 149 assists and 187 blocked shots in 105 games while Homestead amassed an aggregate record of 94-14 over her four seasons (25-4, 26-2, 20-6 and 23-2). She holds school records for points in a game (43 as a junior against Fort Wayne South), single-season rebounds (286 as a junior), single-season blocks (60 as a junior), career rebounds and career blocks. Her scoring total stands second on the school list, behind only the 2,586 points tallied by Karissa McLaughlin, a 2017 graduate who was that year's Miss Basketball.

Patterson is the third Homestead player to wear the All-Stars' coveted No. 1 jersey. She joins McLaughlin and the Spartans' Caleb Swanigan, who was voted Mr. Basketball in 2015. Patterson also becomes her school's 10th All-Star selection, joining five previous girls (McLaughlin; Candi Crawford, 1997; Sydney Buck, 2014; Madisen Parker, 2017; and Sydney Graber, 2020) and four previous boys (Swanigan; Tracy Foster, 1982; Grant Leiendecker, 2006; and Luke Goode, 2021).

While in high school, Patterson also has been a three-time invitee to USA Basketball National Team Trials (U16, U17 and U19) and played on the USA Basketball 3x3 team that was the 2021 FIBA U18 World Cup Champion. She also has been recognized as a four-time first-team all-Summit Athletic Conference honoree, a three-time IBCA Underclass Supreme 15 selection, a 2022 IBCA Senior Supreme 15 choice, a 2022 first-team Naismith All-American and a 2022 McDonald's All-American.

Mr. Basketball and Miss Basketball traditionally wear No. 1 jerseys for the respective Indiana Boys All-Stars and Indiana Girls All-Stars in the annual series with Kentucky. The All-Stars will face the Indiana Junior All-Stars in an exhibition doubleheader on June 8 at a site to be announced. The All-Stars follow with their home-and-home doubleheaders with Kentucky -- June 10 at the Owensboro SportsCenter in Owensboro, Ky., and June 11 at Southport Fieldhouse in Indianapolis.
