Guerin Catholic wins HCBA
22nd Mock Trial Competition

By DENISE MOE
ReadTheReporter.com

The Hamilton County Bar Association (HCBA) has announced Guerin Catholic as the winner of the 22nd annual Mock Trial Competition for local high school students held over the last two months.

The program is coordinated by Attorney Stephenie Gookins, attorney at Terry & Gookins, LLC. This program gives high school students the opportunity to get firsthand experience in a courtroom learning how to present a case before a judge.

Students from Hamilton Southeastern, Fishers, Noblesville, Sheridan, Carmel and Guerin Catholic fielded teams for this competition. Teams are led by a teacher from each school and local attorneys who volunteer to serve as advisors to each team.

The fictitious case presented this year was Jordan Patel v.

Teams prepared questions and arguments for both the Plaintiff and Defense in the case and alternated their presentations during the five preliminary weeks of competition. The teams were seeded based on their win/loss records and competed in a single elimination tournament.

The competition was held at the Hamilton County Government and Judicial Center.

Judge Bardach
to retire in June

By FRED SWIFT | ReadTheReporter.com

Hamilton Superior Court 6 Judge Gail Bardach will retire from the bench in June. The Reporter learned last Friday of the pending retirement but was unable to reach the judge for comment on her plans.

Judge Bardach has served 15 years on the bench after having served about 12 years as judge of Carmel City Court. The judge and her husband, Lee, are both graduates of Indiana University and longtime Carmel residents.

The county court administration office confirmed the retirement plans but could not say if the departure date was June 1, June 30 or some date between. The vacancy will result in the appointing of a judge by Gov. Eric Holcomb. That appointee will fill the unexpired term running through Dec. 31, 2024.

Earlier in her career, Judge Bardach was an assistant U.S. Attorney for the Southern District of Indiana. On the bench she has been known for her tough stand especially on alcohol and drug cases. She started the County Drug Court designed to get users off drugs.

Hendrich, currently the district's safety director, will serve as assistant superintendent for human resources and safety. She will continue to lead the district's safety efforts and transportation department. Prior to joining Noblesville Schools in 2019, Hendrich served as assistant superintendent at Western School Corporation. She holds a doctorate in education from Ball State University.

Hortemiller Chief Financial Officer David Hortemiller will also see an expanded role as part of Mundy's departure. In addition to running the district's business office, he will now lead facility and grounds operations with responsibility for master facility planning and oversight.

"These new appointments capitalize on the talent of our highly skilled district team and will position Noblesville Schools for success heading into the future," said Superintendent Dr. Beth Niedermeyer. "This arrangement also creates staffing efficiencies, allowing the district to realize a cost savings."

makes it rain shamrocks

Reporter photos by JohnGeiger.com
Westfield put its own spin on Saint Patrick's Day this year by celebrating the return of the Shamrock Drop, presented by Westfield Welcome and Indiana Members Credit Union. Doubling as both a fun-raiser . . . and a fundraiser for Westfield Washington Parent University, shamrocks could be purchased for $5 each and stuffed into balloons. The balloons were then dropped from the Westfield High School Student Union area in hopes of falling into one of many "pots o' gold" prize baskets, which were filled with donations from Westfield businesses. Funds raised will be donated to Westfield Washington Parent University to provide additional educational opportunities for students and teachers. No Shamrocks cheerleaders were dropped in the making of this event!

Heights students build 11 Feeding Team pantries

The REPORTER
This school year, 60 local high school students are learning construction skills while giving back to the community at the same time.

Eric Fisher, Hamilton Heights Construction and Engineering Department Trades Teacher, thought it would be a great project to have his Construction Trades I class combine learning with serving the community. He reached out to Mark Hall, co-founder of FeedingTeam.org, and together they put a plan in place.

Fisher joked "we can only build so many deer blinds" while explaining his idea to build Feeding Team pantries as one of this year's projects to his students. "Let's build something this semester that helps save lives in our community, not take life."

After conversations, detailed plans for the pantries were in Mr. Fisher's hands. Next, using proceeds from last year's Feeding Team Festival at Federal Hill Commons, $7,000 worth of new construction materials were available to the students to build the pantries.

"In today's economic climate it's rare for students to have real lumber and materials to build with," Fishers said. "It is a special learning opportunity for my students."

Gaylor Electric transports the pantries to their shop and completes the process of painting and preparation. Then once they are finalized, Gaylor and volunteers deploy the pantries to their host locations. According to Fisher, five more will be ready for deployment right after spring break. With these 11, that will bring the number of Feeding Team pantries in service to 51.

These students join with the more than 70 volunteers serving Hamilton County every week providing thousands of no-questions-asked meals to hungry neighbors in Cicero, Arcadia, Noblesville, Fishers, Carmel, and Sheridan.

The Feeding Team (feedinteam.org) provides no-questions-asked, outdoor, 24/7/365, free, non-perishable food pantries with a focus on Hamilton County.

Carmel's three new paramedics ready to faithfully serve city

Congratulations to the Carmel Fire Department's (CFD) three newest paramedics, Garrett Locke, Jared Schultz, and Riley Cheatham. These three were the first to participate in an online hybrid class. With a majority of the classroom portion being online, extreme dedication was required to stay focused. Combined, they additionally put in over 1,300 clinical hours in emergency rooms working with doctors and nurses. Over the last year, they have taken countless exams and demonstrated their competency by passing the psychomotor and cognitive portions of the National Registry, and each has taken hundreds of ambulance calls with a CFD paramedic preceptor. The national pass rate of first-time test takers is 69 percent, but these guys all rocked it on the first attempt.

Earlier this month, the Westfield Fire Department (WFD) unveiled its newest fire engine. The truck has a 1,500 gallons per minute pump and holds 750 gallons of water. # Good news from Stony Creek Church of Christ

We are a church of Christ. Often, I am asked what denomination we are a part of, and my response is that we are not a part of any man-made denomination. We have no earthly headquarters, we have no earthly leader and we have no special set of rules that govern our work, worship and organization. On much of our advertising is the slogan, “First Century Christianity in the Twenty First Century.” That is our plea.

The church was established by Jesus Christ the Son of God, to fill a need, to do a work that no human institution could possibly perform. We regret the fact that many churches have smothered the real purpose of the church beneath civic, social, and domestic affairs.

Upon reading Matthew 16:18; Acts 20:28; Ephesians 3:10-11; 5:25; and 1 Timothy 3:15, we need to be impressed with the sacredness of the church. She can have no trivial purpose, nor is such assigned to her by the Word of God.

But some protest and say, “We live in the 21st century. The church must meet the needs of today!” Exactly so! We have many fine civic and social organizations which can meet the physical needs of our community, and we as individuals need to support and promote all wholesome efforts to better the whole of mankind in this life. But what this 21st century is woefully lacking is an emphasis upon the soul of man, and his eternal welfare. Yes, the church must meet the need of today – the very greatest need of all being the peculiar and distinctive benefit offered mankind by Christ – the salvation of their soul.

Our primary concern is with the spiritual needs of mankind – their need for God, for forgiveness of sins, for genuine God-satisfying worship, for the pureness of conscience that can come only from living, working and worshipping according to the directions of the Word of God.

As a people we know we are not perfect. We make no plea of greatness on our part but pledge ourselves to strive diligently to follow the rule of God, the divine message. We speak where the Bible speaks and are silent where the Bible is silent. Does this interest you?

To be a church of Christ we must abide in the teaching of Christ (John 8:31; 2 John 9).

To be a church belonging to Christ we must respect the authority of Christ (Matt. 28:18). This we seek to do. Does this interest you? Then visit with us and we will welcome your honest investigation of the Stony Creek Church of Christ.

Looking for Peace in the Midst of Turbulent Times?

Flying with eagles? Running and not getting tired? Sound good? To do these things I will need to change my glasses so I look at things the way God does. Rather than looking through glasses that are focused on the material, physical world, I need to look at the unseen spiritual world and things eternal. By so focusing my vision, I see that which is truly important and eternal.

Even youths shall faint and be weary, and young men shall fall exhausted; but they who wait for the LORD shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings like eagles; they shall run and not be weary; they shall walk and not faint. (Isaiah 40:29-31)*

Do you want to live a peaceful contented life flying with eagles, then turn your eyes and heart to Jesus? Open your heart and listen to Him. Embrace the truth He revealed. Turn your life to Jesus! # Sheridan’s quiet hometown hero

One of the unsung leaders of our community here in Sheridan, it seems to me, is the immediate past president of the Town Council, one Mr. David Kinkead.

I have known David for about 10 years now, ever since he was elected to the Town Council. He served as a council member his first year and became president of the council starting on his second year and he continued to serve as the president for eight years.

David has caused Sheridan to make noteworthy progress, and I recently asked him to recap the high spots of his tenure on the town council as president. One of the first things accomplished here in town was the completion of the flood drainage project across the east part of the community. For years, every time it rained hard there were major flooding issues throughout the southeast part of town. Partnering with the county, the town was able to solve that problem with a flood plain project completed over a three-year period. David has been proud of the partnership he has been able to forge with Commissioner Mark Heirbrandt and Hamilton County. This has resulted in the major flood abatement project mentioned above and several smaller projects here in Sheridan.

GUEST COLUMNIST

David has been able to work closely with INDOT, the county and use town resources to repair and resurface nearly three quarters of the streets within the of the town perimeters.

The crowning achievement of David’s tenure occurred a couple of years ago when the local water and wastewater utility was sold off to Indiana American Water Company. This sale saved the town millions of dollars in EPA fines as it faced the mandatory expense of upgrading an aging system; the sale money also endowed the town with funds for future infrastructure improvements.

David is a lifelong Sheridan resident. His family owned and operated the Pure Oil gas station on Main Street where David learned to service and repair all sorts of vehicles. After high school he attended Lincoln Tech and earned a degree as a diesel mechanic. He worked as a mechanic in his family’s business for years, and eventually worked for the state highway department as a mechanic before retiring a few years back.

Another big part of David’s life has been the Sheridan Fire Department. David has been a Sheridan volunteer fire fighter for years, rising through the ranks and holding most of the positions within the department. As a member of the fire department, David was involved with town administration, and a few years back he decided to take the plunge and enter politics by running for the Sheridan Town Council. He was elected to his first four-year term on the council in 2012.

David is one of the quieter characters in this community, and while the town’s progress under his leadership does not sound like much, what he has accomplished has made a substantial impact on the life quality of Sheridan.

Being a politician is a tough gig. They seem to get blamed for everything that goes wrong and it seems like they hardly ever get the credit they deserve.

We should be enormously proud of David Kinkead and thankful for his steadfast leadership and many accomplishments that have made Sheridan a better place to live and work.

How to buy corn

My father taught me that there are several ways to buy and sell corn: (1) The arm’s length transaction, where each person negotiates from their own interest; (2) reverse negotiation, where each person looks out for their own interests as well as the interests of the other party; or (3) the power method, where the parties don’t really negotiate and one person acts as the bully while the other party folds to every demand.

Ask Adler

The power method, the foulest of business transactions, elicits images of Ebenezer Scrooge or back-alley loan sharks. This scheme represents a zero-sum game because there are clear winners and losers. The party in power uses its leverage to manipulate and exploit the weaker party.

The arm’s length transaction represents nearly all our daily transactions and is generally thought to be a positive method of negotiation. This is the principle behind Adam Smith’s “invisible hand” doctrine whereby mutually beneficial exchanges arise out of individuals seeking their own self-interest. The arm’s length transaction is the free market system at its best.

Lastly, reverse negotiation. The concept of reverse negotiation may appear foreign to many of my readers, but it is actually a concept found in the Bible. Not only does reverse negotiation create mutually beneficial exchanges, but it also provides greater personal satisfaction and trust among the transacting parties. It is best explained by an illustration.

An Amish neighbor came to buy 10 bushels of corn from my father worth $2 a bushel. An arm’s length transaction would likely result in a $20 purchase. My father, however, took a different approach. He advised his neighbor that it was only 10 bushels of corn, and that the neighbor should just take it. Dad was glad to be helpful to a close neighbor. The Amish neighbor responded by saying, “No, you saved me a trip to the grain elevator and it’s worth $4 a bushel for my time and trouble. I would not think of paying you less than $40.” After several intermediary back-and-forths, they split the difference at $2 a bushel or $20.

Both left knowing that if they were in real need, the neighbor would help. However, since neither my father nor the neighbor were in such a situation, the market outcome was achieved but with a better feeling about the other person.

Of course, reverse negotiation only works when both parties are willing to participate. A variation of reverse negotiation is the widow and orphan track. Dad sent me to the agent to buy hogs when I was 14. I advised the factor was much more knowledgeable and he would take advantage of me. Dad replied that he negotiated by the widow and orphan rules, looking out for the weaker negotiator more than yourself and there were widows or orphans or unsophisticated opposing parties.

I have a few reverse negotiation friends. My partner, Seth, and real estate business friend, Jeff, negotiate in this manner. Jeff and I have so invested in reverse negotiation that we don’t even keep books on the amounts we may owe each other because he always thinks he owes me and I always think I owe him, which makes our person-to-person accounting seem irrelevant. We both have greatly benefited from reverse negotiation.

In my law practice, I have witnessed all three forms of negotiation. It boils down to God’s way of negotiating (reverse negotiation); man’s way of negotiating (arm’s length negotiation), and the gutter negotiation (power negotiation). May we all seek to care for one another and develop trusting relationships with our neighbors, both near and far.

Helping children with “adulthood”

I don’t often write about the other piece of “bread” in the sandwich generation – children. As a reminder, the definition of a sandwich generation member is someone who is taking care of their elderly parents and children at the same time.

I’m fortunate that my boys, Jonathon and Jacob, were pre-teens when I began to take care of my mother. I also had and continue to have the support of my husband John. So when I was driving frequently up to Mishawaka (near South Bend) years ago, John and the boys were generally okay without me.

Even back in those days,

COLUMNIST
AMY SHANKLAND

I worked with my sons to help them get on the road to adulthood. They actually began learning about how to manage their money in elementary school. They had envelopes for spending, saving, and donating to charity.

Of course, they both had chores to do around the house. And once they turned 16, my husband and I told them that allowance time was over and it was time to find a part-time job. When they got their first W-2s, I said we’d sit down and work on their taxes together.

We just did that very task recently when they were off for spring break from college.

Oh, how I envied the ease of it all. I remember those simple returns when I was in my early twenties!

Jacob lives in a house with some friends near Ball State, while Jonathon lives with his best friend in Castleton to be closer to IUPUI. While we contribute money to their accounts for rent and utilities each month, they continue to work to pay for some things as well. They pay all their own bills now.

I also recently sat down with Jacob to remind him about how to budget monthly expenses. He’s taking a course at Ball State to help with finances, while Jonathon did the same in high school.

This is certainly not exciting stuff, but I’m sharing this as a reminder of how important it is to get children on the road to “adulthood” even when they’re fairly young. It’s so easy as parents to want to do everything for our kids, but of course this sets them up for failure later in life. We have to gradually, little by little, let go of things and allow them to learn ... even when they screw up.

John and I hope that these lessons will help them avoid some of the costly financial issues he and I encountered years ago. While we certainly love our parents, none of them taught us about how to handle money. We had to learn things the hard way.

Let’s face it – money affects everything in life. It’s important to help our children be confident with it so they can wisely spend, save, and donate to charity.

One neighbor’s story of resilience

This month’s column is about a neighbor Lisa and I met while loading the pantry at the Hamilton County Fire Fighters Local 4416 on South 14th Street.

We have been doing food charity service work for over 16 years in inner-city Indianapolis with Shepherd Community Center before launching Feeding Team a few years ago. Over all the years and all the neighbors, we never encountered a story or situation quite like Pamela’s (not her real name).

Pam lives in Noblesville. She works locally in fast food and often works extra shifts to make overtime income. We met Pam on a Friday in the early afternoon as she was shopping for a meal she would have for dinner later that evening. We do not engage with neighbors at a pantry unless they want to talk, and that was clearly the case here as Pam explained her story. You see, she has just completed a transplant surgery where she was the recipient. Pam explained that because of her worsening health condition she was unable to work and as a result did not have food. Pam was embarrassed that she needed help but grateful to the community for providing it. The anonymity of getting food from one of the pantries made her comfortable in doing so.

What makes Pam’s story so unique was that she was on her way to her very first shift at the restaurant after her transplant. Pam was wearing the restaurant uniform as she stopped by to get food for after work. Pam explained that her surgery was about a week prior, and she couldn’t afford to wait and heal before going back to work. She had no choice but to risk it. The food in the pantry was a short-term stopgap to get her by until her paychecks started again.

Over the years, we have had the opportunity to serve countless neighbors in need. Pam stands out – she was determined to be self-sufficient. She knew her situation was very tough, unfair, and yet she met it head on with a determined focus and a smile. As is the case with a vast majority of neighbors who use the pantries, we have no idea how Pam’s story has progressed, and we are okay with that. It is none of our business. It is rewarding to be a small part of a neighbor’s life.

Your donations, along with funding from corporate partners, makes small miracles like Pam’s possible. Without the dedicated efforts of so many volunteers, donors, and friends of Feeding Team this would not be happening all over Hamilton County every week.

With over 27,000 food-challenged neighbors in Hamilton County, FeedingTeam.org provides outdoor 24/7/365 no-questions-asked free food pantries throughout Hamilton County.

Neighbors ask, “Why do this? What’s in it for you?” The answer is always the same: Serving people feeds my soul. It is a calling, not work.

When criticized or questioned, I encourage people to learn my story before assuming anything. There were many suppers when we as a young couple with young kids could only afford Dinty Moore beef stew and a potato for dinner. Surreal moment. This is why the pantries exist. As a typical young family, we could not always make ends meet.

Thank you for embracing the pantries. We love serving with so many neighbors across Hamilton County.

In future columns we will share more stories from neighbors about how your generosity served them in times of need. Be assured that the face of hunger in Hamilton County is not what you may think.

In practical terms, this straightforward way to help neighbors is having real impact on lives, families, and our communities. Thank you. A few meals can change the course of a person’s life. A can of green beans means so much more when you have nothing to feed your kids. Would you like to get involved? We are in the process of evaluating our next 10 pantry locations. # Confessions of a full-court mess

The Madness of March

March Madness is here, a time when people in these parts are bonkers for basketball. I could not care less – sacrilegious sentiment, I know, for someone living in Indiana 55 of his 57 years.

That I'm 5-foot-6 might explain this indifference. Sometimes I'm 5-foot-7. It just depends on who I'm trying to impress.

To make the game more inclusive for us short guys, during play, the basket should automatically raise higher and/or drop lower depending on the height of the approaching ball handler. You can't tell me such technology doesn't exist.

It's not that my life has been totally void of basketball. I was an avid IU Hoosier fan once, but lost the passion when Bobby Knight left. Watching IU without Knight was like trying to imagine Jaws without the shark. The game lost its teeth.

My first basketball goal was a First Communion gift, the wooden post nothing more than a trimmed telephone pole (the backboard was also wood), and perhaps because of the lingering cardboard aftertaste from the inaugural Host placed on my nervous tongue earlier that morning, my basketball goal, which brought to mind a wooden cross, was rich with religious symbolism as I airballed my first backyard shots. I often blamed my missed jump shots on sudden visions of Jesus hanging from the net, the orange rim a thorny crown.

In religion class, when forced by Sister Ernestine to read the Book of Mark, my brain couldn't help but twist Jesus' words: "If any of you wants to be my follower, you must turn from your selfish ways, take up your cross, and follow me . . . but first, how about some hoops?"

Supposedly, my dad was a standout middle-school player. His ambition was altered though when he broke a foot during scrimmage. Likely, he was relieved. Basketball was interfering with his true passion: Smoking cigarettes beneath the bleachers. Had the Indiana High School Athletic Association added a smoking team to its interscholastic competitions, I think Dad would've gone pro. Mom also smoked. Both parents were hellbent on stunting my growth, as if their dream was to have a son sit the bench.

I was guilty into trying out for the seventh-grade team at our Catholic school. Mom took me to buy sneakers and shorts – and horror of horrors, my first jockstrap – while I secretly prayed that the necessary sizes of each were sold out, thus disqualifying me from tryouts. The only jockstrap remaining was way too big, and I feared I would trip on the court.

Tryouts involved dribbling around demonic mazes of cafeteria chairs. When we actually attempted a real game, though, I froze in mid-dribble without those chairs being on the basketball court. The chairs had represented the perfect opponent for me, inanimate objects without arms and hands to steal the ball. Now, there were actual humans playing defense. Suddenly, basketball wasn't fun.

I made it to the final day of cuts. I likely would have been the squad had it not been for my buddy Greg. He was cut early but was still part of the team – as STUDENT MANAGER. Greg convinced me that the consolation prize of being STUDENT MANAGER was the way to go. You still took the bus rides and were in the team photo, but you didn't have to shower with the boys. "More importantly," he said, with an it's-good-to-be-king air about him and a devilish Wilt the Stilt glint in his eye, "Girls LOVE student managers."

I intentionally missed my layups, bobbled my dribbles, and subsequently, I was invited by the coach to be ASSISTANT STUDENT MANAGER UNDER GREG.

Greg never mentioned the word ASSISTANT to me beforehand. In essence, I had sold my basketball soul to him. Even worse, it became very apparent early on that girls weren't fond of ASSISTANT student managers after all.

In high school, I played on an intramural team called Taylor's Pest Control, the only team to have a mascot. A friend wore a full-sized rat costume and lumbered up and down the court, looking like a crazed, mutant rodent. Sometimes, if someone needed a breather, he would sub. Unfortunately, the costume's humongous rat head was as inflexible as a deep sea diver's helmet, making it hard to see incoming passes. Our mascot should've been nicknamed "Turnover." Even an animatronic Chuck E. Cheese would've displayed better on-court dexterity.

When my own son turned eight, I succumbed to the Hoosier dad obligation of buying a basketball goal, one of those Walmart beauties with the water-filled base, wheels, and adjustable height feature. As he grew taller, so did the rim. That's how we Hoosiers measure the height of our children – the rest of the world resorts to pencil marks on doorframes. The goal hogged half the driveway.

Later, when it was no longer cool to play H-O-R-S-E with me, I willingly put my Hoosier identity on the chopping block: I sold the basketball goal to create extra parking space.

In a state where basketball is religion, the sport has never been a big part of my life. That's not to say I don't experience insatiable guilt over my act of Hoosier heresy, especially when I hear the neighbor boy down the street dribbling, each ball bounce sounding like the beat of a tell-tale heart.

Banish me, ye Hoosier brethren, if ye must.

Consider this my mea culpa. Email Scott at scottsaalman@gmail.com or follow him on Twitter @SaalmanScott.

The Sheridan Student Column is brought to readers by Sheridan High School's 10th grade English class, taught by Abby Williams.

March is here. That means spring is on its way, schools are going on spring break, but best of all, March Madness.

For those who don't know, March Madness is a giant college basketball tournament that takes place in cities all over the U.S.A. These cities include Dayton, Indianapolis, Buffalo, Portland, Fort Worth, Pittsburgh, Greenville, San Diego, Milwaukee, San Antonio, San Francisco, Chicago, and last but certainly not least, New Orleans. If you are going to any of these places for spring break it would be worth the time to go to a game.

Going into the tournament, the top favorites to win were Gonzaga, Baylor, Kansas, and Arizona. Although these teams are very good, they do have a lot of competition to beat 64 other teams in the tournament, but the seeding gives the better teams the advantage to make it further into the tournament.

The seeding works by putting the one seed, which is the best team, on the opposite side of the bracket as the two seed, or second-best team. The one seed gets the largest advantage by playing the 16 seed first, or the worst team. The two seed gets the second largest advantage and gets to play the 15 seed, or second-worst team. This trend continues for every seed in the tournament until the eight seed meets the nine seed in the middle of the tournament.

When we get to the

My invitation to the circus

"Not my circus, not my monkeys"

As I read the sign, I am quite glad I am not drinking anything as it would have probably spewed out of my mouth. Talk about a timely reminder. I was just asked to join a circus.

Actually, I am asked to give my opinion. I am not personally involved in the situation. I know only one side of the situation. You know the old saying, there are two sides to every story. Sometimes my opinion comes out of my mouth faster than I can process my thoughts. That is not a good thing.

When I get involved in a situation that does not affect me or my family or close friends, I am taking away time, energy and emotions that might be needed by my monkeys.

COLUMNIST
JANET HART LEONARD
From the Hart

In my older and maybe a bit wiser years, whenever a ringmaster tries to entice me into their circus, I remind myself of the possible cost. I look closely and prayerfully at the rings of the circus I have been invited to join.

My two cents' worth can be costly. I've had my advice used in an argument. "Well, Janet said . . ."

I then find myself defending what I said. I then realize I did not have the whole story. As my words have gone from ring to ring to ring, they sound nothing like what I said. Remember the not-so-fun children's game of telephone where you whisper into someone's ear and by the time the fourth or fifth person repeats it, it sounds nothing like what you said? Adults play that game as well.

I'm trying to be the nice lady and all of a sudden, I'm the evil one. I become the victim of an angry monkey that bites with its words.

So, here's the thing. We all have our own circus. We all have our own monkeys.

Every family (a.k.a. circus) has a bit of dysfunction in their functional family. Read that again. Social media glamorizes and photo-shops all relationships. It's so easy to fall into the ring of comparison and envy. Trust me when I say we all have out-of-control monkeys in our circus.

I try to stay in my own circus and love my own monkeys. A long time ago I gave up trying to control them. Sometimes, I'm just the little old lady hanging on the trapeze . . . just a swingin' and watching the chaos below.

It was a lot easier when my monkeys were little and there were only two of them to keep inside one ring. Lord have mercy, they are grown and have multiplied and added lots more monkeys to our circus. We have expanded beyond three rings.

Sometimes I feel like a mama herding her monkeys. I get one tucked back into my safety net and another one jumps out. There is always that one for which my worry bucket is filled to the rim. If they only knew.

I have learned to just swing on my trapeze and pray I don't fall off and they don't stray too far from me or the way they should be going.

Sometimes you just have to leave the circus of others alone and abstain from petting and getting involved with their monkeys. In other words, mind your own monkeys.

Reflections on family, world, local affairs

Spring in Indiana is always an interesting time. The weather fluctuates like a yo-yo, people are finalizing plans for Spring Break and basketball takes control of the office water cooler talk as the inevitable "bracket-busting" begins this year on St. Patrick's Day.

On Feb. 21, our oldest son followed his dream of serving his country. I have and will always be a strong supporter of our military, but nothing prepares you for the moment your child leaves for boot camp. It is not like college and there will be no "parents" weekend. Our child will graduate in June, barring injury, and take the next step to fulfilling his promise to "... support and defend the Constitution of the United States against all enemies, foreign and domestic..." Hopefully basketball can take my mind off things because with everything happening in the Ukraine, having a young man in boot camp can be stressful.

At the March meeting of the Hamilton County Council, we had a light agenda, but it was dominated by two lengthy presentations at the beginning. These presentations were for the Enterprise Resource Planning (ERP) and an update on the Efficiency Study by KPMG. We moved that these items be referred to a future executive session for further review. As those evolve over the course of the year, I will share updates and pertinent information.

KEN ALEXANDER
Council Minutes

One item that came up during the President's comments was that one of our long-serving board appointees resigned due to personal reasons. His appointment was due to expire in August, but it highlighted an item that I was already working with staff to change. We have many committees and boards that we appoint members from our community to serve. Very few people express interest in serving and many more do not know that the opportunities even exist. I am looking to build another link on the County Council website that allows for people to explore the opportunities, connect with persons already serving and apply if they so wish.

The standard fare of committee reports, grant appropriations and vendor claims were addressed early in the agenda. Several items are still rolling in that were impacted by the change in county's labor and trades (LTC) pay scale. This will affect wage rates but also the benefits for individuals that fall within the general labor and trades categories. This change in the LTC scale was to help fill roles and compete against the private sector.

One additional appropriation that was large needs special notice. Hamilton County's Visitor and Convention Board (HVCB) had a bond that had roughly $1 million left. This bond is paid by revenues generated through tourism. While they could continue to follow that payment structure, our HCVCB leadership showcased their fiscal discipline through the pandemic and beat their revenue projections last year. These additional proceeds from 2021 combined with revenue from the first quarter of this year allowed us the opportunity to appropriate these dollars specifically to pay off the 2011 HCVCB bond. Kudos to the HCVCB leadership and board who willed this to happen. It is unthinkable that they could achieve this following a pandemic that crushed the hospitality industry, but such was the impact of Grand Park in Hamilton County. It is just another example of how Hamilton County can invest and maintain its AAA bond rating.

On the local political front, the business of campaigning is heating up with activities smashed together in the run-up to the primaries in May. The county continues to review several projects and analyze their funding needs. ARPA is still an active program as is the ERAP for rental assistance. It is anticipated that the federal government will send the county another ARPA grant with far fewer strings attached. Unlike many of our "blue" counties, we have been running a tight ship with our county's finances and we do not have the needs like others.

It is also worth noting that the county's efforts are not alone. Our citizens and local businesses appear to be returning to a normal not seen since 2019. Hard work is contagious and "a rising tide lifts all boats" so I am still positive about our economic future. While most of us are not fond of the federal government's gross incompetence as it relates to fiscal stewardship, it would be a disservice to our community to not look at opportunities to invest this money to the benefit of the county.

In case you didn't know, the county has its own YouTube channel where you can watch live and recorded county meetings, including our County Council. If items mentioned above are of interest, I'd suggest watching and reaching out as you feel is appropriate.

As always, I am thankful that the Hamilton County Reporter for publishing my Council updates and a special thanks to you, the readers, and residents of Hamilton County, for reading it and being engaged in the discussion. Our county is better because of you all. I welcome your questions at ken.alexander@hamilton-county.in.gov.

Ken Alexander is serving in his first term on the Hamilton County Council, representing District 4, which includes Adams and Washington townships, and part of Clay Township. He currently serves as the Vice President of the County Council.

He loved watching Rylee's Noblesville cheerleading games, competitions and orchestra performances. He loved watching Jessica graduate from nursing school. And he loved watching Clay build a successful business. He was a proud grandpa and loved seeing Jessica and Clay start families and raise their children.

Mike was an incredibly smart and talented guy and had an eclectic career that included working on oil rigs, framing houses, building mini barns, HVAC service management and information technology. He retired due to his illness from the job he loved as a Product Data Manager at Indianapolis-based Micromet Corporation.

Mike loved music his whole life from the time he was a little kid and was influenced by our grandfather Frank Parrish, who was a big band recording artist and musician in the 1930s and 1940s. He organized and played in garage/basement bands over the years beginning in grade school. He had a beautiful singing voice and played the guitar and drums. Mike also enjoyed watching live music and attending concerts with friends and family members.

Our family is so grateful that we had time together in hospice to grieve, say goodbye and celebrate Mike's life. We would like to thank the dedicated physicians who cared for him including Dr. David Josephson, Dr. Chandra Brahmachari, Dr. Michael Dugan, Dr. Ruemu Birhiray and the hospice team at Compassus St. Vincent. We would also like to thank the bone marrow donor for his generosity, as he gave Mike more than five additional years of life with his family.

Services will be held on Wednesday, March 23, 2022, at Randall & Roberts Funeral Center, 1685 Westfield Road, Noblesville. Calling will be from 10 a.m. to noon with a 12 p.m. funeral service. Burial to follow. Memorial contributions can be made in Mike's name to Noblesville High School Athletic Department: Cheer Team, 18111 Cumberland Road, Noblesville, IN 46060.

Robotics teams from Heights, Our Lady of Grace compete at state-level competition

The REPORTER

The largest robotics state championship in the country took place on Saturday, March 12 at Lucas Oil Stadium in Indianapolis, presented by TechPoint Foundation for Youth (TPF4Y), powered by Group 1001 and hosted by the City of Indianapolis. This is the fourth time the event has been held at the venue, bringing 274 Indiana elementary, middle, and high school teams together to compete amongst their peers. More than 7,500 people were in attendance for the event.

Locally, teams from Hamilton Heights and Our Lady of Grace in Noblesville competed. To see a full list of results, go to tinyurl.com/VEX-Robotics-2022-Results.

TPF4Y welcomed special guests Indianapolis Mayor Joe Hogsett and Indiana Secretary of Education Dr. Katie Jenner to help kickstart the event, both who gave inspirational and encouraging speeches during the opening ceremony. Additional special guests included IndyVRC founder and former Indianapolis Mayor Greg Ballard, who presented the Ballard Teamwork Challenge Awards, and representatives from TPF4Y's major sponsoring companies and organizations, Group 1001, Roche Diagnostics, Eli Lilly and Company Foundation, and the Herbert Simon Family Foundation.

Students exuded passion, focus, collaboration, and sportsmanship all while demonstrating the utmost respect for one another and for every volunteer that helped make the day happen.

"The students of these robotics teams will become next generation of STEM leaders in Indiana and beyond," said TPF4Y President and CEO George Giltner. "By providing a STEM pathway through competitive robotics from elementary all the way to high school, we are building the workforce pipeline of tomorrow."

Since 2016, the State Robotics Initiative grant program has helped launch over 2,100 Indiana robotics teams and impacted over 24,000 students. TPF4Y's 2022-23 grants are now open and the TPF4Y Robot Team plans to award eligible elementary, middle, and high schools beginning in April.

TPF4Y recognized seniors in robotics on a special Robotics Senior Wall of Fame. Two of those seniors were Caleb Hurley (left) and Jenn Houser (right). Both seniors are part of the Hamilton Heights High School Robotics Team "Acros" (Team 1075A). Hurley, who has been involved in robotics for five years, plans to study Agriculture Systems Management at Purdue University. Houser, with six years of robotics under her belt, plans to study Biochemistry and Kinesiology at Hanover College. Photos provided

Kate Clarke, Alyssa Crockett selected as 2022 Indiana Girls All-Stars

Carmel's Kate Clarke and Westfield's Alyssa Crockett are among the 13 players that have been selected to join IndyStar Indiana Miss Basketball Ayan-na Patterson of Homestead for the 2022 IndyStar Indiana Girls All-Stars, All-Stars game director Mike Broughton announced last Tuesday.

Those chosen to the team will play three games in June -- one exhibition game against the Indiana Junior All-Stars as well as home-and-home contests against the Kentucky All-Stars.

Patterson's selection as Miss Basketball was announced this past Friday. The other players completing the 2022 Indiana Girls All-Stars, listed alphabetically, are Jessica Carrothers of Crown Point, Hope Fox of East Central, Rayah Kincer of Franklin Central, Ally Madden of Blue River Valley, Kynidi Mason-Striverson of Silver Creek, Mila Reynolds of South Bend Washington, Olivia Smith of Fort Wayne South, Zoe Stewart of Terre Haute North, Lilly Stoddard of Crown Point, Ashlyn Traylor of Franklin and Tanyuel Welch of North Central.

Kincer is injured and is not expected to play in the games.

Rod Parker of Homestead has been named the head coach of the 2022 All-Stars. He will be assisted by Brittany Maners of Princeton and Kevin Moore of East Central. Parker is 379-128 in 21 seasons as coach at Homestead, including a Class 4A state championship in 2017 and a Class 4A runner-up finish in 2015. Maners has a 139-67 record in nine seasons as a varsity coach, four years at Evansville Central and the past five seasons at Princeton. Moore has a 221-88 mark in 13 seasons as coach at East Central.

The Junior-Senior exhibition game is set for June 8 at a site to be announced. The first game against Kentucky will be June 10 at the Owensboro Sportscenter in Owensboro, Ky. The final game against Kentucky will be June 11 at Southport Fieldhouse in Indianapolis. The games in Indianapolis are at Southport because Gainbridge Fieldhouse is unavailable because of a third phase of renovations will be occurring there during June.

All three dates will be doubleheaders with the IndyStar Indiana Boys All-Stars, whose roster will be announced next month. The rosters for the Indiana girls Junior All-Stars and the Indiana boys Junior All-Stars also will be announced later.

The Indiana Junior All-Stars will play two girl-boy doubleheaders this year, June 5 against the Kentucky Junior All-Stars at Bedford North Lawrence and June 8 against the Indiana seniors at a site to be announced.

Dogs. The series with Kentucky began in 1940, and the girls' portion of the All-Stars was added in 1976. The Junior All-Stars, boys and girls, were added in 1996. The All-Star senior girls have played Kentucky every year since 1976, except 2020 because of the COVID-19 pandemic. The All-Star senior boys have played Kentucky in all but three years since 1940: 1943 (World War II), 1944 (World War II) and 2020 (COVID-19 pandemic).

The Indiana Senior girls lead 51-39 in their series with Kentucky. The Indiana Senior girls lead 40-10 in games against the Indiana Junior girls. The Indiana Junior girls lead 9-1 in their series with Kentucky. The Indiana Senior boys lead 101-44 in their series with Kentucky. The Indiana Senior boys lead 40-10 in games against the Indiana Junior boys. The Indiana Junior boys lead 6-4 in their series with Kentucky.

The Indiana portion of the All-Star Games is organized and produced by the Indiana Basketball Coaches Association. The Indianapolis Star, with its IndyStar brand, is a title sponsor.

Miss Basketball is selected through a balloting process of coaches and media overseen by game organizers from the IBCA. The remainder of the team is finalized by Broughton after observing numerous games and events throughout the season, conferring with coaches, school officials and media across the state. Broughton also reviews votes submitted by coaches and media who each could recommend up to 10 players.

Miss Basketball traditional wears the No. 1 jersey; Carrothers was runner-up in the Miss Basketball balloting and is wearing No. 2. All other jersey numbers randomly assigned.

Several Hamilton County track and field teams were in action last Saturday at indoor meets, as they were trying to get in position to qualify for this weekend's Hoosier State Relays at Indiana University.

Hamilton Southeastern hosted the Blue and White Relays at Anderson University; Guerin Catholic, Westfield, the Noblesville boys team and Hamilton Heights throwers were also in attendance. The Royals boys got two victories at the meet. Will Gerig finished first in the 60 hurdles, clocking in at 9.12 seconds. Manraj Grewal was the high jump winner, with a best leap of 6 feet, 4 inches.

Noblesville and Guerin Catholic both had runner-up relay finishes; the Millers in the 4x200 and the Golden Eagles in the 4x800. Noblesville's Will Johnston also tied for second in the pole vault. Westfield placed third in the 4x400 relay.

In the girls meet, Southeastern won four events. The Royals got three relay wins, in the 4x200, 4x400 and 4x800, and Ally Elsbury took home a victory in the 60 hurdles.

the Owensboro Sportscenter in Owensboro, Ky. The Indiana senior All-Stars will play Kentucky's seniors again on June 11 in Southport Fieldhouse in Indianapolis. The senior game in Indianapolis again is set for Southport in 2022 because Gainbridge Fieldhouse will be undergoing a third phase of renovations and not be available in June.

The 2022 Girls Junior All-Star team was selected through a process that allows all IBCA-member head coaches to nominate players through the IBCA all-state process. The IBCA 20-member Indiana Basketball Coaches Association all-state committee reviewed and voted on players for the 2022 IBCA/Franciscan Health girls All-State teams that were released on March 1.

The 20 all-state committee members also provided input to a seven-person IBCA sub-committee appointed by IBCA executive director Steve Witty and chaired by Brandon Bradley of Kankakee Valley. Bradley, Broughton, All-Star junior coordinator Beth DeVinney plus coaches Katie Collignon of Marquette Catholic, Kaley May of Daniville, Gretchen Miles of Washington and all-state committee chairman Doug Springer of Northridge finalized the selections for the 2022 girls Junior All-Stars.

The Indiana Junior All-Star program was founded in 1996 by former Indiana All-Star games director Patrick Aikman. In most years, 18 players have been chosen to the Junior All-Stars. In five years (2005, 2006, 2007, 2018 and 2019), 24 players were chosen to the Junior All-Stars. In 2021, just 12 players were chosen to the Junior All-Stars.

In games from 1996 through 2021 (with no games in 2020 because of COVID-19), the Indiana Senior girls lead the Indiana Junior girls 40-10 and the Indiana Senior boys lead the Indiana Junior boys 40-10. In five years of games against the Kentucky Juniors, the Indiana Junior girls lead 9-1 and the Indiana Junior boys lead 6-4. Games against the Kentucky Juniors previously have been played in 2012, 2013, 2014, 2018 and 2019.

City Releases Combined Sewer Overflow (CSO) Information
NoThe City of Noblesville is a Combined Sewer Community, which means that some of the sewers in the older part of the City transport both storm and sanitary wastewater to the treatment plant. During rain events, the capacity of the lines transporting this liquid to the treatment plant may be exceeded. Overflow points exist to allow the system to relieve the excess flow to a receiving stream. This discharge into a receiving stream is a combination of the storm and sanitary flow.
The Utility has placed signs at each of the eight (8) outfall structures where the combined waste flow is discharged to a receiving stream. It is important that when you see water coming out of these structures, you stay out of the water. There is a risk of becoming sick if you come into contact with this water.
The probability of the combined sewer system having an overflow from one of our eight (8) outfall structures is high during a 0.25 inch rainfall within a 15 minute period. It is advisable that you do not wade in the streams during these times. If you have any questions or would like to be notified about CSO events, please contact Noblesville Utilities at cso_notification@noblesville.in.us or at (317) 776-6353 ext. 3106.

HAMILTON COUNTY REPORTER
Hamilton County's Hometown Newspaper

Royals girls edge out Millers, 11-10

Noblesville fell to South Bend St. Joseph 16-6 last Saturday.

I was born and raised right here in Noblesville. I grew up in a home without domestic violence or assault - it wasn't something I saw, or even heard about. But when I was introduced to Prevail of Central Indiana, I was shocked by the number of individuals who are affected by domestic violence. In 2018 alone, Prevail helped more than 4,000 clients in Hamilton County (nearly 80 percent of clients are women and children). Domestic violence and abuse are hard topics to discuss, so you don't often hear about them. But at Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville, we're breaking the taboo and raising awareness for Prevail, an organization that helps families in Hamilton County.
