Westfield students opening doors for those less fortunate

Students of the Kindness Club at Maple Glen Elementary School in Westfield recently held a food drive to help out with the Backpack Program that Open Doors helps facilitate. Each weekend, and over breaks, Open Doors sends some Westfield students home with backpacks full of food. During the last meeting of the Kindness Club, the students gathered and loaded the donated food into the truck and sent them on their way. In addition, the club did many other things around the school to promote kindness. Instructional Assistant Lee Ann Eck helped lead these students, teaching them the value of generosity and kindness. Noblesville's own Bill & Carrie Prater honored with 'Kirk Hardware Day'

Thursday was Kirk Hardware's last day in business on the Historic Courthouse Square in Noblesville. Owners Bill and Carrie Prater received a mayoral proclamation for their more than 20 years of friendly local service to the people of Noblesville and Hamilton County. Noblesville Mayor Chris Jensen proclaimed March 31, 2022 "Kirk Hardware Day" in the City of Noblesville. Bill worked at Kirk Hardware for over 36 years – still only a fraction of the time the hardware store was in operation. The Reporter wishes the Praters all the best in their retirement.

Do you have the biggest tree in Carmel?

City launches first contest in celebration of Arbor Day

The REPORTER

Carmel has been recognized as a Tree City USA for 27 years and a Tree City Growth Award winner for more than 20 for its dedication of preserving and increasing the number of trees in the community. This is due primarily to an aggressive street tree program that, last year, added 600 more trees to city streets and boulevards.

Now city officials are asking local residents to check the trees on their own property to see if they have the biggest tree in Carmel.

For the first time, the City's Urban Forestry Committee is celebrating Arbor Day with a Big Tree Contest. Entries will be accepted through April 30 from local residents to determine the biggest tree in 10 different species categories: Cottonwood, Elm, Hackberry, Honeylocust, Maple, Oak, Sweetgum, Sycamore, Tulip and Walnut/Hickory. Winners in each category will get a $50 gift card and an overall Big Tree winner will take home a custom basket of artisan wood gifts.

You can send your submissions to bigtree@carmel.in.gov. Please include contestant's name, property owner's name (if different), location of the tree, tree species and circumference. Winners will be chosen by the Urban Forestry Committee and will be showcased at the May 7 Carmel Farmers Market at a special booth where free tree seedlings will be given away along with information on how to care for your trees.

trees as properties are developed, many hundreds more are preserved because of the city's low urban density. The city builds boulevard-style medians on many of its major streets with trees in the middle and on the sides of the lanes to create a tree canopy. River Road, north of Main Street, is one example. Those trees were planted in the late 1990s and have for several

“One of These Nights” from hell

Recently, the Eagles performed in Indianapolis as part of their Hotel California tour. Hotel California is one of the greatest albums ever, though the title track, at six minutes and 31 seconds, always seemed overindulgent to me.

I prefer the humble three-minute songs that once graced radio's Top 40. Ray Charles' "Hit the Road Jack," clocking in just under two minutes, is the perfect pop song, proving less is way better.

Too bad the single, "Hotel California," hadn't been named "Motel California." Then maybe it would've only been half as long.

I did not see the Eagles in Indy (the set list looked phenomenal, by the way); however, I did see them during a 2013 Louisville show when co-founder Glenn Frey was still alive. At least I can make that claim. Unfortunately, the concert did not turn out to be a positive experience, as explained below.

My buddy Rick and I sat in balcony seating, Row S – the S, I guess, standing for stratosphere. We were seated so high in the sold-out KFC Yum! Center that I halfway expected our ushers to be Tibetan Sherpas.

Yes, I was a willing ticket-buying inhabitant of the proverbial nosebleed section, a mountain climber's equivalent of entering "into thin air," giving me a bird's-eye view of the Eagles, a band I have loved since the early 1970s.

I was there to experience "a peaceful, easy feeling" but instead became overwhelmed by "an anarchic anxious feeling" because of the Witchy Woman behind me just to my left.

After each song, she released an obnoxious, blood-curdling sound as subtle as a pterodactyl's screech. It was an ear-splitting, borderline banshee scream, incomparable years completely shaded the roadway, cutting down on that heat island, which is better for the environment. Carmel employs three full-time staff members dedicated to urban forestry and contracts with several other companies to help with tree maintenance and planting. The city’s urban foresters review every new development’s landscaping plan to approve the type and number of non-invasive species of trees being proposed. Good examples of this are developments along U.S. 31 where the city required hundreds of trees to be planted in areas that used to be clear-cut farm fields. ONE OF THOSE NIGHTS in decibel level to any vocalization from the other 17,499 fans – individually or collectively. Just my luck, Ticketmaster assigned her a Row T ticket. I assumed her hellish high pitch would hoarsen by intermission. But it didn’t. Not after “Tequila Sunrise,” “The Best of My Love,” “Lyn’ Eyes,” nor “One of These Nights.”

Her shriek was like someone trying to sound out a bad row of tiles on a Scrabble rack, a consonant-less, vowel-only vocalization: “AAOOOOOIIIII-UUUUUUUUUUU.” This, dear reader, is the first sound you hear upon entering hell. I dreaded each song’s ending. I bent forward to place my head between my knees, as if in a tornado drill, while cupping my left ear with my left hand, toilet-plunger tight, in anticipation of her dreaded demonstration of song approval. By the final song of the first set, “Take It to the Limit,” I was taken to the limits of sanity. At intermission, she and her male companion descended the steep steps, holding onto the handrail for dear life and disappeared into the pot cloud drift below. The boyfriend was terribly out of shape, and to our dismay, he wore sweatpants, which meant exposing us to the disturbing image of the stretched waistband dropping to his knees while he descended the steps without bothering to hitch his pants to the proper socially acceptable level, giving us a full-moon view forever burned in our tortured memory banks – gravity at its cruelest. I felt ashamed to be human.

When the couple returned for the second set, I turned around and pleaded, “I will give you $20 if you don’t make that sound you’ve been making. I’m serious. You can clap, shout a bit, but for the love of God, just don’t do that sound you do.” She seemed surprised that a total stranger would publicly chastise her. The ensuing belligerent glint in her eye unnerved me, as if I might go home to find a pet rabbit boiling in a pot. I imagined the squeak of a hamster wheel spinning in her brain as she formulated her next course of action. Still, confronting her seemed to work, for she remained quiet following “Wasted Time.” Victorious, I relaxed while Joe Walsh sang “Pretty Maids All in a Row.” But when the song ended, it happened: “A A O O O O O I I I I - UUUUUUUUUUU.” Even Joe Walsh glanced up our way near the peak of Mount Yum, startled.

I turned and shouted, “I’m serious. Please stop. You are ruining the experience for us. I am half deaf, not because of the Eagles, but because of you!” She replied, “That’s like you asking everyone in here to be quiet.” “No, it’s not. I’m just asking you to shut up,” I said. “I paid $100 for this seat. I am here to have a $# good time. I am going to let everyone know I’m havin’ a $# good time,” she replied, elbowing her boyfriend. “Ain’t that right?” “That’s right,” he said. “But she keeps the rest of us from having a $# good time,” I shouted at him. “$#.” Timothy B. Schmit started singing “I Can’t Tell You Why,” shutting us all up until the tone-deaf twosome started singing along with unsurprisingly disastrous results, ruining the song – their duet being the second sound you hear upon entering hell. “Way to go. You just added fuel to the fire,” Rick said. He was right. She then let loose with the mother of all “AAOOOOOIIIII-UUUUUUUUUUU” sounds when the song ended. “Ya havin’ a $# good time?” sweatpants guy said. “I’m havin’ a $# good time.” “Good. You should be havin’ a $# good time.” “I’m havin’ a hundred dollars’ worth of a $# good time.” “Let everyone know you’re havin’ a $# good time.” “A A O O O O O I I I I - UUUUUUUUUUU.” Repeat performances of this dialogue, obviously dedicated to me, followed each song for the rest of the concert, from the 15th, “New Kid in Town,” to the 27th (and final encore), “Desperado.” I was having a $# bad time.

While the Eagles had the potential to put on a dream show, the couple behind me turned it nightmarish. Even now I suffer from it. I still hear that banshee’s shriek followed by the bullying dialogue. I recall Joe Walsh singing “Life’s Been Good,” but that was the opposite of my own outlook on life at that point, and Glenn Frey’s “Take it Easy” was lost on me, for by then I was “Al-ready Gone.” Email Scott at scottsaalman@gmail.com or follow him on Twitter @SaalmanScott.

PREVAIL
Advocating for Victims of Crime & Abuse

I was born and raised right here in Noblesville. I grew up in a home without domestic violence or assault - it wasn't something I saw, or even heard about. But when I was introduced to Prevail of Central Indiana, I was shocked by the number of individuals who are affected by domestic violence. In 2018 alone, Prevail helped more than 4,000 clients in Hamilton County (nearly 80 percent of clients are women and children). Domestic violence and abuse are hard topics to discuss, so you don't often hear about them. But at Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville, we're breaking the taboo and raising awareness for Prevail, an organization that helps families in Hamilton County.

Westfield provides more information on Monday's closure along 191st Street

The REPORTER

On Friday, the city of Westfield released some updates and clarifications about the 191st Street closure set to begin Monday, April 4.

The closure effects 191st Street from Tomlinson Road to Chad Hittle Drive. That's between Grand Park and U.S. 31.

All businesses in that area will remain open during construction. It is a requirement to maintain access to all property owners during construction.

There will be digital signage on U.S. 31 advising

Grand Park traffic to use the State Road 32 exit. Please note: The Wheeler Road and Tournament Trail traffic signal will be activated in the next two weeks.

The roundabout at Tomlinson Road and 191st Street will remain open to traffic going all other directions. Only the east leg will be closed.

City officials understand the timing of this project is inconvenient with summer approaching, but the window of time to construct a road is limited in Indiana due to cold temperatures.

Sen. Young helps introduce bipartisan bill to fix shortage of mental health providers in schools

The REPORTER

Last week, U.S. Senators Todd Young (R-Ind.), Jeanne Shaheen (D-N.H.), Kevin Cramer (R-N.D.), and Gary Peters (D-Mich.) introduced the Mental Health Excellence in Schools Act to address the shortage of mental health providers in schools by authorizing the Department of Education to partner with higher education institutions to help cover students' costs at relevant graduate programs.

The bipartisan legislation would boost the pipeline of graduate students trained to become school psychologists, counselors, and social workers responding to the youth mental health crisis that has been worsened by the pandemic.

Access to critical mental health resources in schools is important for the safety, well-being, and academic performance of Hoosier students," Sen. Young said. "The Mental Health Excellence in Schools Act will help address the severe shortage of mental health professionals by partnering with graduate schools to increase education and participation in the school-based mental health workforce."

"Our students need more support than ever, but without enough school psychologists and other school-based mental health providers our schools aren't equipped to meet their growing needs," said Dr. Kathleen Minke, Executive Director of the National Association of School Psychologists. "We are thrilled to see the bipartisan Senate introduction of the Mental Health in Schools Excellence Program Act and thank Senator Shaheen, Young, Peters, and Cramer for their leadership on this critical issue."

Young

The National Association of School Psychologists (NASP) recommends a ratio of one school psychologist per 500 students. However, the national average ratio is estimated to be approximately one school psychologist per 1,211 students, with wide variation among states.

The Mental Health Excellence in Schools Act seeks to increase the recruitment and retention of mental health services providers in schools. The legislation creates a program for the U.S. Department of Education to partner with eligible graduate institutions to cover up to the full cost of school-based mental health graduate programs for students at eligible institutions.

Similar companion legislation was introduced in the U.S. House by Representatives Brian Fitzpatrick (R-Pa.) and Josh Gottheimer (D-N.J.).

Apparently, my opponent for Coroner does.

Fishers, meet your neighbors

Muhammad Munir’s Ramadan traditions

By MELISSA ROGERS
City of Fishers

“This is Fishers” sat down with Fishers resident Muhammad Munir, M.D. who talked with us about Ramadan and how he and his family observe the month-long Muslim holiday. Learn more about the holiday and his family traditions below.

Can you tell us a little about yourself?

I am originally from Pakistan and a graduate of King Edward Medical University. After moving to the U.S. for further education and training, I did my residency in adult psychiatry at Wayne State University and then went to Brown University for their Child and Family Psychiatry Fellowship Program.

I currently practice at Harmony Medical Associates in Fishers and am privileged to work with my patients and their families. Our family moved to Fishers in 2006 and I am happily married to Amira Ali, M.D. We are blessed with three boys named Mustafaa, Tahaa, and Wali.

What can you tell us about Ramadan?

Ramadan is the ninth month of the Islamic calendar and observed by 1.8 billion Muslims worldwide. Ramadan is the month in which the Quran, the holy book, was revealed to the Prophet Muhammad (PBUH) through the angel Jibreel (Gabriel). This is month is when we fast from dawn to sunset. We abstain from any food and drink and intimacy during the state of fasting.

Ramadan is the time to reflect upon human needs, desires, and blessings. It is an opportunity for the spiritual growth and improving the relationship with Allah, our creator. Individuals in the community come together by sharing food, doing charity work, abstaining from evil, and treating all with utmost respect.

How do you and your family celebrate?

We start the day before sunrise with Sahoor, which is an early morning breakfast that’s usually healthy, followed by Fajar, our morning prayers. Then we start our day at school and work as usual and perform all our duties and obligations. At sunset, our family gathers for Iftar to break the fast with dates, water, and seasonal fruits.

After Maghrib, the sunset prayer, we have a quick meal and get caffeinated! We go to Masjid, the mosque, at Alhuda Foundation for the Isha, our nighttime prayers, which is followed by Tarawhee Prayers, which are special prayers for the month of Ramadan. The Imam leads the prayers, recites the Holy Quran, and every night it continues over the 30 nights of the Ramadan finishing with the recitation of the entire Holy Quran. That is the best part of Ramadan, as all the families stay together at the masjid late at night.

What is your favorite thing about the holiday?

The month of Ramadan is an excellent time to develop good habits and routines and get rid of bad ones. The celebration at the end of Ramadan is called Eid ul Fitar. The Eid prayers are huge gatherings usually performed in the open spaces like Conner Prairie. That day, we all get dressed up in traditional formal attire. After prayers there are sweets for the entire community, followed by feasts at residences where friends and families are invited.

What do you want the community to know about Ramadan?

In holy Quran, fasting is prescribed to all believers so they may acquire self-control and God consciousness. Therefore, the purpose is to improve health and become aware of the troubles of the poor, sick, and hungry. Those who are sick, elderly, pregnant, or nursing are exempt from fasting. Ramadan moves back approximately 10 days every year because it’s based on the lunar calendar.

How can people learn more?

Talking to your Muslim friends, colleagues, and neighbors is the best way to learn. We are delighted to invite our friends to Alhuda for interfaith activities and to attend the Friday prayer sermons.

What is your favorite part of living in Fishers?

Fishers has been our home for 16 years and we have enjoyed being part of this diverse growing community. We love our local parks, the Fishers Farmers’ Market, and local restaurants around the city. Fishers has grown from a small, comfy, family-oriented town to a welcoming city.

Melissa Rogers is an Indiana native who has lived in the Indianapolis area for several years. She is a senior at Indiana University-Purdue University Indianapolis majoring in journalism and public relations and is currently a public relations intern with the City of Fishers. In her spare time, she enjoys cooking, going to Indy Fuel and Pacers games, and hiking with her two-year-old German Shepard, Ari. Her favorite part about Fishers is how many great restaurants and shops there are to choose from.

The REPORTER

Congresswoman Victoria Spartz (R-Ind.) on Friday announced the 2022 Congressional Art Competition. Started in 1982 by the U.S. House of Representatives, this annual competition highlights high school students' artistic works from across the country.

“Art is an important aspect of a well-rounded education for our youths,” Rep. Spartz said. “I encourage interested high school students from Indiana’s Fifth Congressional District to participate in the Congressional Art Competition.”
The first-place winner’s submission will be displayed in the Cannon House Office Building tunnel, in the U.S. Capitol, along with other winners nationwide for one year. In addition, a local reception to display the winning artwork will be held by Congresswoman Spartz.

Pancreatic Cancer Action Network ‘PurpleStride’ walk returns April 30 in-person to White River State Park

The REPORTER

The Indianapolis affiliate of the Pancreatic Cancer Action Network (PanCAN) is inviting the community to come together to fuel progress for patients by participating in PanCAN PurpleStride, the ultimate event to end pancreatic cancer.

PanCAN PurpleStride is a national movement that funds life-changing programs and services for pancreatic cancer patients and their families. After two years of virtual fundraising events due to the ongoing pandemic, PurpleStride Indianapolis 2022 will be back in person at White River State Park on Saturday, April 30.

Pancreatic cancer is the world’s deadliest cancer with a five-year survival rate of just 11 percent. It is also the third-leading cause of cancer-related death in America. In 2022, more than 62,000 people will be diagnosed with pancreatic cancer in the U.S., and nearly 50,000 will die from the disease – including approximately 1,070 Hoosiers.

For the first time ever, Indianapolis’s PurpleStride walk is coordinated with nearly 60 other communities across the nation for one nationally synchronized PanCAN PurpleStride event with beloved actor, writer and producer, Mindy Kaling, serving as the official ambassador for the nationwide campaign. City-by-city, thousands of supporters will walk the nation in solidarity to raise national awareness and much-needed funds for pancreatic cancer.

PurpleStride Indianapolis’s goal is to raise $185,000. Nationally, PanCAN is aiming to raise $16.5 million. Funds raised through PanCAN PurpleStride provide pancreatic cancer patients with free, personalized information, services and resources that make a real difference in their lives.

“By taking action locally, we have the opportunity to make a difference in the lives of pancreatic cancer patients nationwide,” said Jenny Bivans, chair of PanCAN’s Indianapolis affiliate. “We are committed to continuing to raise vital funds and awareness to support the pancreatic cancer community and we’re looking forward to being back together in person this year to do so!”

While pancreatic cancer has received more attention recently due to many prominent individuals who have passed in recent years, including JEOPARDY! host Alex Trebek, actor Willie Garson, Supreme Court Justice Ruth Bader Ginsburg and U.S. Representative John Lewis, an increase in public awareness and research funding remains critical.

Indianapolis’s PurpleStride event is generously supported by national sponsors, Ipsen and AbbVie, local premier sponsor Charles Schwab, gold sponsor Chateau Kitchens & Home Remodeling, silver sponsors Century 21 Scheetz, Westfield Steel, Inc., and Erie Insurance, and bronze sponsor Hallmark Home Mortgage.

For more information on the Pancreatic Cancer Action Network and its urgent mission to save lives, visit pancan.org or follow PanCAN on Twitter, Instagram and Facebook.

TODAY'S BIBLE READING

For this reason I remind you to fan into flame the gift of God, which is in you through the laying on of my hands. For the Spirit God gave us does not make us timid, but gives us power, love and self-discipline. So do not be ashamed of the testimony about our Lord or of me his prisoner. Rather, join with me in suffering for the gospel, by the power of God. He has saved us and called us to a holy life—not because of anything we have done but because of his own purpose and grace. This grace was given us in Christ Jesus before the beginning of time, but it has now been revealed through the appearing of our Savior, Christ Jesus, who has destroyed death and has brought life and immortality to light through the gospel. And of this gospel I was appointed a herald and an apostle and a teacher.

Share thoughts on fisheries with DNR on angler survey

The REPORTER

Anglers can share their opinions on Indiana

DNR's fisheries management using a survey that will be emailed the week of April 11.

The DNR will email the survey to everyone who has a current email address within its electronic licensing system. Anglers can ensure their email on file is correct, update their address, or enter a new one at IN.gov/access.

Survey questions cover broad topics on angler participation, fishing locations, fish stocking, access to fishing spots, and legal fishing equipment. Information gathered will provide valuable feedback to help the DNR develop programs to better serve Indiana's anglers.

The link each angler is emailed will be unique to that angler. Because it will allow only one survey completion, it should not be shared with other anglers.

For questions about the survey, please contact AnglerSurvey@dnr.IN.gov.

More information about the project is at wildlife.IN.gov/fishing/licensed-angler-survey.

Guerin Catholic improved its record to 2-0 Friday with a big 8-4 win over Class 2A No. 2 Monroe Central at Grand Park.

The Golden Eagles were the first team to score, with two runs in the bottom of the third inning. Will Fremion's center field base hit scored AJ Nunley and Ryan Zimmerman.

The Golden Bears scored all four of their runs in the top of the fourth inning. Guerin Catholic got one run back in the bottom of the fourth when Sam Tabor scored. The Golden Eagles moved ahead in the fifth inning with three runs. Adam Novelen led off with a single, advanced to second on a groundout, then went to third on Tabor's base hit. Bryson Dorsey then stepped up and knocked in a triple to score both Novelen and Tabor. Dorsey later scored on a sacrifice fly by Ryan Zimmerman.

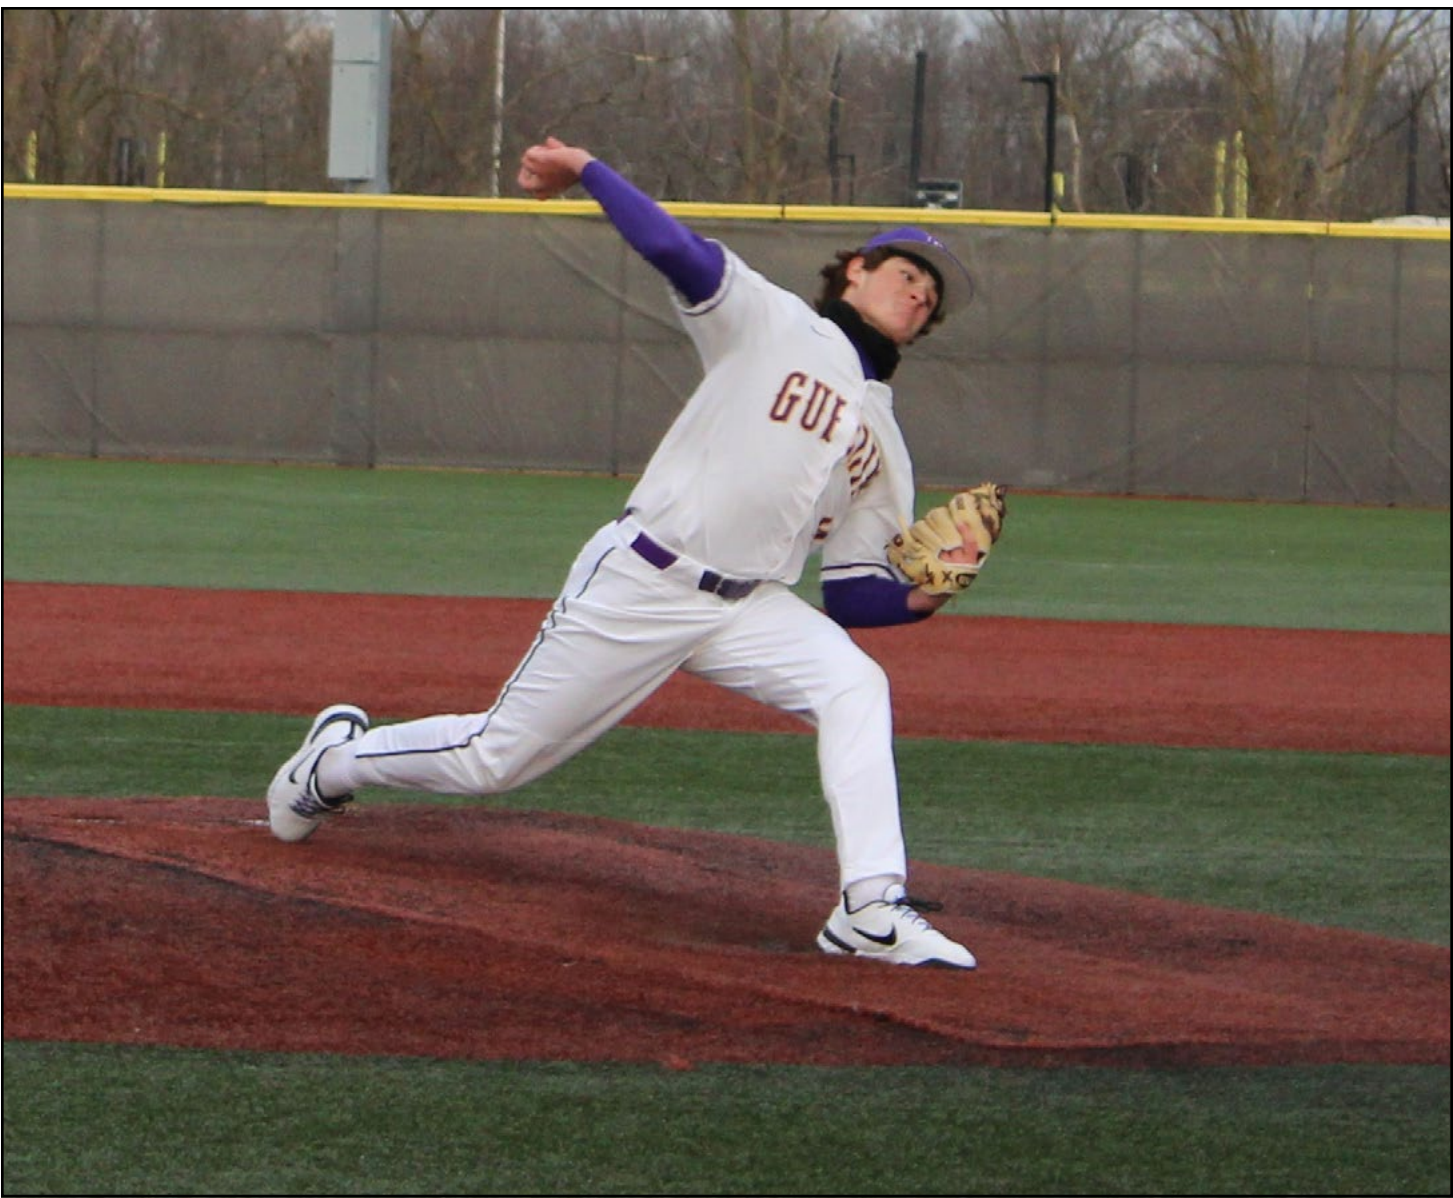

With that, Guerin Catholic led 6-4. The Golden Eagles added two more runs in the sixth inning. Anthony Ferrucci hit a double, then was sent home by Novelen's inside-the-park home run.

Fishers opened up its season Friday with two wins at the Warrior Classic in Tennessee.

Fishers got on the board in the second inning: Joe Hietpas got on base with a double, Carson Dunn was hit by a pitch, then Joey Brenzewski reached on error to load the bases. All three scored when Jack Brown reached on error.

The Tigers added a run in the fifth inning when Zach Cox singled in Jackson Preston. In the sixth inning, Fishers hit three straight singles, then Gavin Clayton smacked a double to score Brown and Dominic Oliverio.

Brown, Oliverio and Hietpas all had two hits. Tate Warner got the win, throwing nine strikeouts in six and two thirds innings. Kyle Manship got the final out with a strikeout, giving him a save.
