Volunteers needed to help stop invasive plants

The REPORTER

Even in nature, green is not always good.

Hamilton County landscapes are encountering growing threats from non-native plants. Invasive plants introduced in this region decades ago for landscaping and other purposes are now a serious concern for local parks, public green spaces, and residents' own backyards.

More and more, Hamilton County's beautiful native trees, plants and wildlife are losing the fight against these aggressive plants, vines, trees and insects that consume nutrients, disrupt the ecological balance and disfigure the outdoor world where county residents hike, bike, picnic, play and relax.

In an effort to restore this balance, the organizations of the Hamilton County Invasives Partnership (HIP) are inviting volunteers to help rescue public parks from invasive species by participating in Weed Wrangles. During the Weed Wrangles, teams of volunteers, supervised by knowledgeable guides, will locate and uproot unwelcome plants such as bush honeysuckle, garlic mustard, autumn olive, English ivy and winter creeper.

Hamilton Co. Invasives Partnership

Weed Wrangles will take place throughout the month of April – and the year – at selected areas within five public parks and trails across Hamilton County. April locations are Ritchey Woods and Cheeeny Creek in Fishers, Strawtown Koteewi Park east of Cicero, Midland Trace Trail in Westfield, and Dillon Park in Noblesville.

Those wishing to volunteer for Weed Wrangles should visit hcinvaives.

org, choose the location where they'd like to work, and pre-register.

You can also make a difference by joining the HIP Strike Team invasives management group or by removing any invasive plants that appear on your property; this prevents their inevitable spread to other yards and public spaces. Always try to landscape with native plants and avoid the purchase of potentially invasive species sold by some nurseries.

Information about Weed Wrangles and managing invasive species on your own property can be found on the Hamilton County Invasives Partnership website, hcinvasives.org.

Here are my thoughts ... They can invite me into their misery, but I don't have to accept the invitation.

I can smile and walk away from their cutting remarks and bitter actions and be the better person. (Also, the smarter one.)

If I sling dirt with a pig, we will both get dirty but only one of us will enjoy it. If I stir manure, the stink will follow me.

Some of the happiest people I know have survived the attack of the harshest criticism. They have learned that the words may hurt but they don't have to carry and show the scars caused by them.

Sadly, some people carry so much bitterness that they feel the need to heap it upon others. Verbal vomit is both nasty and evil.

Just because someone has the ability or power to make others feel "less than" does not mean that they should do it. Shame on those who do.

Character is shown in the simple words of appreciation. Lack of character is shown in the simple words of demeaning and criticism.

Actions speak volumes. Words show true colors.

Sometimes the greatest peace is found by just walking away from someone who creates havoc and discord in my day. Being nice to them is my greatest weapon.

Inner peace does not mean my circumstances are easy. It means I choose to not live under my circumstances but above them.

If someone constantly rains on my parade, I carry an umbrella of kindness. It doesn't always help them, but it does help me.

At the end of the day, I am thankful that I do not live in their circumstances. It can't be a happy place.

Inner peace and contentment are found, not in the best of circumstances, but in not allowing the circumstances of others to invade my life.

Enjoy your day my friends and carry a pretty umbrella. You may need it to protect yourself from the Brillo Pad People or clobber them with it. After all, isn't it said to "kill" them with kindness?

I was born and raised right here in Noblesville. I grew up in a home without domestic violence or assault - it wasn't something I saw, or even heard about. But when I was introduced to Prevail of Central Indiana, I was shocked by the number of individuals who are affected by domestic violence. In 2018 alone, Prevail helped more than 4,000 clients in Hamilton County (nearly 80 percent of clients are women and children). Domestic violence and abuse are hard topics to discuss, so you don't often hear about them. But at Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville, we're breaking the taboo and raising awareness for Prevail, an organization that helps families in Hamilton County.

Sheridan baseball season preview

The Sheridan Student Column is brought to readers by Sheridan High School's 10th grade English class, taught by Abby Williams.

The 2022 Sheridan baseball season is here!

Our baseball season is looking pretty solid. I predict that we will have a winning record and go far into sectionals. We have some pretty good players this year who will help contribute to our record. We have been preparing hard to win sectionals in the offseason. We are breaking this culture of being mediocre the past couple of years and trying to win something. We have been trying to change the culture of Sheridan baseball for years, but it takes time.

Baseball is a game that is 90 percent mental. It will knock you down and have you thinking of a way to forget that error you just made and make the next play. Baseball has taught me that no one player can win a game. Each person needs a good team behind him for the team to win.

For the last couple of years, we have been knocked out of the playoffs in the first or second round. Our first game of the season was March 29, and we had been practicing since January to prepare for it. The team lost a lot of seniors last year who were really good. This year we gained a couple of good freshmen who are ready to step up and play to help us win games. Some players on the team need more time to develop and might need a couple of people to step up for them.

COLUMNIST

CAMDEN SPENCER
Sheridan High School Student

This baseball team is trying to do something that no team has done in a long time at Sheridan.

To win baseball games, we need to work as a team and pick each other up, not put each other down. In our games, we need to give each other confidence and not let our teammates get in their own heads. For Sheridan to win baseball games, we need everyone to feel good about what they are doing on the field. The team also needs to become aware that if we get overconfident, we tend to lose our focus on what needs to be done on the field. Doing this will help change the culture of Sheridan baseball. I think we could win a lot of baseball games if we keep our focus on what is important.

The second game of our season is at Clinton Prairie on April 12. This will be a challenge against a conference opponent. The team needs to prove that we can win in big games. I think if we can win those two games against Clinton Prairie, that will give us the confidence to win more tough games in the future. We have a 10-day break in between our games because we have spring break, and that might set us back a little bit.

I want this season to be an electric one and have us win a sectional championship in May. I think the team will have a lot of fun if we get our minds right and win games. If we change the culture of Sheridan baseball, we will have a good season.

Muldoon's on Main, a great choice for traditional pub fare

COLUMNISTS

JOHN & STACI GEIGER
Food & Dining Reviews for Everyone

This month we chose Muldoon's on Main in Carmel, a laid-back American pub with an Irish flair and a friendly atmosphere that offers both family and bar dining. Muldoon's has been crowned Best Neighborhood Bar by City Voter for five years running.

As we arrived in beautiful downtown Carmel, we found that Muldoon's was in the middle of all the current construction. So, it was a little difficult to get to. It was 6:30 in the evening when we arrived, and the restaurant couldn't have been more than 5 percent full.

Dark wood adorning the walls and a picturesque traditional wooden bar with an antique cash register and fireplace creates the perfect cozy pub ambiance. We chose a more secluded table in the corner with a view of the fireplace and a big-screen TV.

Theirs is an extensive and diverse menu, including Irish favorites such as "shepherd's pie, Irish beef and potato stew made with Guinness broth, and hand-breaded fish 'n' chips." And if you want American pub fare, this is also the place for you. In addition to a traditional Midwest breaded tenderloin, the big flattened-out kind that has won "Reader's Choice Award" and "Best Buy Award" by Indianapolis Monthly, they also offer BBQ Ribs and Steaks.

Additionally, they offer an extensive bar with draft and bottled beer, wine, and spirits. Staci enjoyed a Laroma Prosecco ($9.50), a nice lite bubbly with a refreshing and crisp finish.

We decided on two appetizers - Skewered Fried Cheeses ($14) and Cream Cheese Jalapeño Poppers ($11). Both were hot and fried to perfection using trans fat-free cooking oil.

The surprise of the night was the fried cheese skewers, which are "fresh-cut mozzarella cubes that were hand-battered and deep-fried, served with marinara and Dijon mayonnaise sauces for dipping." Staci thought they were amazing and were her favorite part of the meal. They were also delicious the next day as leftovers. We both highly recommend this appetizer.

After exploring their menu online, we were both excited to try the Crispy French Fries. Unfortunately, they were out of their signature fries due to St. Patrick's Day and only offered shoestring fries. Not as appetizing, so we didn't order them.

I wanted to try the Irish Stew and was able to order a small cup ($5) that consisted of sirloin steak, potatoes, onion, peas, and carrots slow cooked in a homemade beef and Guinness broth. It was just as delicious as it sounds - hot, stick-to-your-ribs, melt-in-your-mouth wholesome goodness.

We decided to share a grilled chicken BLT Salad ($14.60) - "just like your favorite sandwich but add grilled chicken, eggs, and their special dressing." The chicken was fresh, tender, and juicy and the bacon was crispy, all atop a huge bed of lettuce.

Staci chose the "Cottage Pie," ($15) Muldoon's version of a Shepherd's Pie, with "fresh seasoned ground beef, carrots, peas, and onions topped with mashed potatoes and melted cheese." She said it was delicious and great comfort food.

It's been quite a while since I've had a good steak, and the 10-ounce New York Strip ($22) was chargrilled medium-rare as I had asked. A nice light peppery taste but not overwhelming at all.

For a $1 extra, my baked potato was upgraded to "loaded." I was extremely satisfied.

For dessert, they offered cheesecake, a volcano cake, and a homemade banana cream pie. Now, Staci's favorite of these was the cheesecake; however, that night she decided to try the banana cream pie ($7) because it was homemade. Light and fluffy whipped cream topped the smooth and silky banana cream, and she said it was good.

Overall, we agree that it is a great choice for delicious traditional Irish and American pub food. Pleasant wait staff, relaxed environment, and delicious hot food make this restaurant worth finding.

To top it off, Muldoon's gives back to the community.

The owners of Muldoon's proudly started a non-profit organization called Wally's Smile. Wally's Smile provides comfort and a smile through the delivery of FREE care packages to cancer patients. Doggie care packages are also available for man's best friend battling cancer. To learn more, visit wallyssmile.org.

State Rep. Donna Schaibley (R-Carmel) testifies in support of legislation closing a legal loophole to ensure more rape victims receive justice. Now a law, consent will be defined in state statute so more rapists will be punished for their crimes.

Indiana steps up support for sexual assault survivors

As we recognize April as Sexual Assault Awareness Month, let's stand with survivors who deserve our support.

In my role as a policymaker and as vice chair of the House Committee on Courts and Criminal Code, I'm committed to strengthening protections for survivors of violent crime and ensuring justice is served.

Unfortunately, sexual assault is common, and it affects one in five Hoosier women. When these cases come before the courts, consent plays a major role in determining guilt or innocence. Until this year, Indiana law lacked a clear definition of consent, making it difficult for a judge or jury to assess individual rape cases, and leaving many victims without legal recourse. After working with advocates, survivors and legal experts, we created a broader definition of rape to include the attacker's disregard of a victim's attempt to physically, verbally or by other visible conduct refuse sexual activity.

Having this definition of consent in state law supports victims and hold criminals accountable. The new law also helps shift the focus from the actions of the victim to the intentions of the perpetrator.

This legislative session, we also worked to better protect violent crime victims after their attacker is released from prison.

In 2003, a Noblesville resident and student at Butler University was abducted and raped while walking her dog. When her rapist was released from prison, she filed for a protective order. In Indiana, these orders expire every two years, and the victim and offender must appear before a judge together before it can be renewed. That means every two years, she had to go back to court and be in the same room as her attacker, which only continued a cycle of harassment and emotional trauma. That's why we passed legislation to allow these victims to apply for an indefinite protective order if their attacker is listed as a lifetime sex or violent offender.

GUEST COLUMNIST

DONNA SCHABLEY

In Hamilton County, help is available for those who have experienced sexual abuse or assault. Prevail of Central Indiana is located in Noblesville and offers resources including advocacy, safety planning, crisis response and support groups. They also can help you learn more about protective orders and how to file one. Visit prevailinc.org, call the office at (317) 773-6942 or call their 24-hour crisis line at (317) 776-3472.

You can also call the National Sexual Assault Hotline at (800) 656-HOPE (4673) to be connected with an advocate who will speak with you confidentially. In addition, the Indiana Coalition to End Sexual Assault and Human Trafficking at icesaht.org can help guide survivors through the next steps, including referrals to local service providers who can offer ongoing assistance.

Survivors deserve support and opportunities to heal. This Sexual Assault Awareness Month, I hope you join me in the challenge to raise awareness about this issue and get familiar with helpful resources so you can offer help to someone who leans on you for support. As a state representative, I'll continue working on ways to support victims of violence and hold criminals accountable.

If you have an idea for a new law or need help connecting to state resources, please contact me at (317) 232-9753 or email me at H24@iga.in.gov.

Actors Theatre of Indiana welcomes Richard Glazier to ATI Live at Feinstein’s

The REPORTER

Actors Theatre of Indiana will welcome classically-trained, award-winning pianist Richard Glazier to the stage on May 5 as part of this year’s ATI Live at Feinstein’s season.

Richard Glazier – From Broadway to Hollywood will feature Glazier on piano performing songs from the Gershwin repertoire as well as tunes from the Great American Popular Songbook. All the while Glazier will capture the audience with tales of his childhood in Indianapolis.

Glazier was only nine years old when he saw the film Girl Crazy with the score by George and Ira Gershwin. He was so excited by the music that he decided to write a fan letter to famed lyricist Ira Gershwin. Ira answered, and the two began a three-year correspondence that culminated ed in Gershwin’s invitation for his young friend to visit him in his home in Beverly Hills. Glazier and his parents made the trip in 1975.

Not only did Glazier meet this legend, but he was invited to play a Gershwin tune on the piano that once belonged to Ira’s brother, legendary composer George Gershwin.

Glazier grew up in Indianapolis and began studying piano when he was six. He went on to earn his Bachelor and Master’s degrees in Piano Performance from the Indiana University School of Music, then a Doctorate of Musical Arts from the Cleveland Institute of Music.

Glazier has starred in and produced three award-winning TV shows for PBS and Turner Classic Movies. You can check out more information about Glazier on his new website, richardglazier.com.

Glazier’s passion for The Great American Songbook and more contemporary standards has led him to create his own show celebrating both eras. With incredible piano arrangements, vintage images and rare film clips, he tells the history behind the songs while sharing fascinating stories about the composers, the shows, the films, and the stars – not to mention some funny anecdotes.

AG Rokita warning Hoosiers of government imposter scams

The REPORTER

Indiana Attorney General Todd Rokita is warning Hoosiers to be alert to government imposter scams, which continue to be reported in communities across Indiana.

“Fraudsters are posing as government officials in order to induce fear in unsuspecting victims,” Rokita said. “My administration has revolutionized our investigation process to bring these con artists to justice. At the same time, we want to help Hoosiers exercise due diligence to avoid falling prey to these schemes in the first place.”

The scammers’ goal is to steal personal information and money. Awareness of their tactics is a key to protecting such assets. A recently reported complaint alleges a mail solicitation requested homeowners send money to receive a copy of their deed. The solicitation includes publicly available information about the owned property.

A government imposter scam frequently starts with an unsolicited text, call, mailing or fax from someone purporting to be from a government agency. Scammers often rely on publicly available information and provide what initially appear to be official documents or employee ID numbers to project an image of credibility.

Rokita

Whether it’s through the regular mail, email or omnipresent smart phones, scammers have ready access to the tools they need to try to separate Hoosiers from their hard-earned money.

Pay close attention to any material you receive purported to be from government agencies. Does the seal or name seem suspicious in any way? Does the mailing address appear legitimate – or is it a P.O. Box or an address for a third-party mailing company? What product or service exactly is being provided? Is there a disclaimer?

Rokita offers the following tips to avoid scams:

- Be wary and closely examine a solicitation that seems to be coming from a government entity but is soliciting a product or service to obtain government records.
- Be leery of callers who

Meddling matchmaker brings lighthearted laughter to stage at Beef & Boards

The REPORTER

The award-winning musical Hello, Dolly! has returned to the Beef & Boards Dinner Theatre, starring Suzanne Stark as Dolly Levi. The classic story of a vivacious, meddling matchmaker is now on stage through May 15.

The Reporter was invited to attend Media Night on Saturday, April 2.

Hello, Dolly! is the exciting tale following Dolly Levi's matchmaking career during the turn of the century. When hired by Horace Vandergelder, a wealthy and cantankerous business owner, Dolly decides Horace is her perfect match. Horace has his sights set on a pretty young widow, but Dolly is determined to get her man and comically interferes to make him realize that she is the woman he has been longing to marry.

Hello, Dolly! includes a score by award-winning composer Jerry Herman, featuring "It Takes A Woman," "Before the Parade Passes By," "Put On Your Sunday Clothes," "So Long Dearie," "Ribbons Down My Back," "It Only Takes A Moment," and of course, "Hello, Dolly!"

The original Broadway production won 10 Tony Awards, including Best Musical.

Suzanne Stark brilliantly plays the role of the sassy, spunky Dolly Levi while Ty Stover perfectly portrays the character of the crabby Horace Vandergelder.

Hello, Dolly! is on stage for 46 performances through May 15 at Beef & Boards Dinner Theatre. Tickets range from $51 to $76 and include the Beef & Boards dinner buffet and select beverages. Plenty of free parking is available.

For tickets, visit beef-andboards.com or call the box office at (317) 872-9664.

For more information, including complete performance schedule, visit beef-andboards.com.

Hello, Dolly! is sponsored in part by the National Bank of Indianapolis.

Final Vintage Indiana Wine Fest set for Downtown Indy on June 4

The REPORTER

One of the Midwest's largest and most popular wine events takes its final bow at Downtown Indianapolis' Military Park on Saturday, June 4.

The 22nd Vintage Indiana Wine Festival is Indiana's biggest celebration of wines produced in the Hoosier state, says Katie Benner, Vintage Indiana event organizer. "Unfortunately, elimination of state funding for the Indiana Wine Grape Council will result in 2022 being the festival's last year."

"We are proceeding with planning for this final Vintage celebration, determined to make it extra special for the thousands of fans who look forward to coming to Military Park and sampling our fabulous Indiana wines each and every spring," Benner said. "There will be a full complement of wineries, food vendors, Indiana artisans, a trio of educational seminars and all-day musical entertainment."

General admission tickets are $50 per person, with designated driver tickets priced at $15 each. Details about a $100 "Very Sweet Ticket" will be announced on May 1. The popular Vintage/JW Marriott hotel package, consisting of a standard room and two general admission tickets, is available again. For complete ticket information and to purchase, go to vintage-indiana.com/tickets.

All tickets for the 2022 wine fest are pre-sale only, with no on-site ticket sales. The festival is an exclusive 21-and-over event – everyone will be asked to present ID for entry into Military Park.

Gates open at 10:30 a.m. for the food truck experience and Indiana artisans; wine vendors open at 11 a.m. All sales inside the park will be by credit or debit card only (no cash).

Additional information about Vintage Indiana – including participating wineries, food vendors, Hoosier artisans, entertainment, and volunteer opportunities – can be found at vintage-indiana.com.

"We look forward to welcoming all of our fans on June 4 and making this a never to be forgotten send-off for Vintage Indiana!" Benner said.

TODAY'S BIBLE READING

In a large house there are articles not only of gold and silver; but also of wood and clay; some are for special purposes and some for common use. Those who cleanse themselves from the latter will be instruments for special purposes, made holy, useful to the Master and prepared to do any good work.

Who was Schuyler Colfax?

The REPORTER

This week in Indiana's history ...

1822 – Responding to an epidemic of malaria spreading through the state, Indiana Governor Jonathan Jennings proclaimed Friday, April 13, 1822, to be a "day of humiliation, fasting, and prayer" in hopes that the disease would abate. Jennings signed the proclamation at the Statehouse in Corydon.

1865 – On the evening of April 14, Indiana Congressman Schuyler Colfax walked Abraham Lincoln to the door of the White House. The President and Mrs. Lincoln were leaving to see a play at Ford's Theater. Colfax and Lincoln had been discussing Colfax's upcoming trip to the West. Lincoln wanted to encourage returning soldiers to move west to help mine gold and silver needed to pay off the national debt, which had ballooned to $2.6 billion during the Civil War. Later that evening, Lincoln was assassinated at the theater.

1921 – The state highway department agreed not to carry out plans to remove a row of maple trees that bordered Brookville Pike through the Hancock County town of Tailholt. Residents had appealed to the Statehouse to save trees which had been "a comfort to thousands of motor tourists and people of the town." Tailholt, the subject of a popular poem by James Whitcomb Riley, has had several other names over the years, including Finly, Reedville Station, Carrollton, and Kinder. It is currently listed as Carrollton on the state highway map.

1932 – The Crowd Roars opened at the Apollo Theater in Indianapolis. The movie promised "to tell a behind-the-scenes story of rivalry and romance among dare-devils of the racetrack." The film, which includes many scenes of the Speedway, stars James Cagney and Joan Blondell. Several actual drivers of the era have cameos, including Billy Arnold and Lou Schneider, the winners of the 1930 and 1931 Indianapolis 500 Mile races.

1958 – A nine-member commission approved the construction of a new $20 million state office building. The 13-story structure would be built just west of the Statehouse. It would house 50 governmental departments currently scattered in 22 locations. Funds were provided for the demolition of buildings currently on the site and the rerouting of railroad tracks.

1982 – Twelve men were killed and at least 17 injured in the collapse of a highway ramp under construction in East Chicago, Indiana. Three sections totaling over 400 feet of the Riley Road-Cline Avenue interchange ramp fell onto workers below. The project was part of a $261 million contract to elevate highway and bridges. The death toll eventually climbed to 14.
