Rep. Spartz attends Ukraine defense lend-lease bill signing

The REPORTER

Rep. Victoria Spartz (R-Ind.-05) on Monday attended the signing of the Ukraine Democracy Defense Lend-Lease Act of 2022 (S.3522) at the White House. The bill passed the Senate unanimously on April 6 and the U.S. House of Representatives on April 28.

"This Lend-Lease Act is landmark legislation to help the people of Ukraine stop Putin's barbaric invasion and bring peace back to Europe," Rep. Spartz said. "It is also a great gesture to commemorate WWII Victory Day when so many people paid a very high price." The bill, as enacted, temporarily waives certain requirements related to the President's authority to lend or lease defense articles (weaponry) if such are intended for Ukraine's government, or the governments of other Eastern European countries, affected by Putin's invasion of Ukraine.

Key land acquisition by Hamilton Co. Parks means restoration, preservation, recreation

The REPORTER

In an effort to address the statistically alarming lack of dedicated public park space in Hamilton County, steps were successfully taken recently by the Hamilton County Parks and Recreation Department (HCPR) to acquire an ecologically significant parcel of property.

With unanimous approval provided by the department's park board, and supported by the Hamilton County Council and Commissioners, 107 acres of land in Hamilton County, located near the intersection of 216th Street and Hinkle Road, were purchased with the intent of adding the acreage to the county's park system. The acquired property, referred to as HC Farms, brings the total amount of land owned and maintained by the county park department to slightly more than 1,800 acres – which remains less than 23 percent of the space needed for parks in the county, as recommended by the Indiana Department of Natural Resources.¹

According to HCPR Superintendent of Natural Resources and Education Amanda Smith, the HC Farms property represents the most significant opportunity that the park department has encountered in 20 years.

"Aside from the large list of plant and animal species currently found in the area," Smith said, "this property's environmental characteristics would be most enjoyed by passive recreation users who would appreciate the plant and animal diversity, scenic views, and relatively rugged terrain."

As surrounding properties in both Noblesville and Westfield are being developed for commercial and residential use at such a rapid pace, county officials and park leadership felt it was imperative to secure the property, knowing it holds the potential to provide

Advocating for Victims of Crime & Abuse

I was born and raised right here in Noblesville. I grew up in a home without domestic violence or assault - it wasn't something I saw, or even heard about. But when I was introduced to Prevail of Central Indiana, I was shocked by the number of individuals who are affected by domestic violence. In 2018 alone, Prevail helped more than 4,000 clients in Hamilton County (nearly 80 percent of clients are women and children). Domestic violence and abuse are hard topics to discuss, so you don't often hear about them. But at Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville, we're breaking the taboo and raising awareness for Prevail, an organization that helps families in Hamilton County.

Fishers Arts Council presents The Art of Racing

The REPORTER

Fishers Arts Council (FAC) continues its 2022 Season of Art at City Hall featuring four artists with the exhibit, The Art of Racing.

The exhibit is open through June 29 to celebrate the heritage of racing in Indiana. Exhibit hours are 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. daily and 10 a.m. to noon on Saturdays during Fishers Summer Farmers' Market.

There will be a Second Friday Reception for the artists from 6 to 8 p.m. on Friday, May 13 at the Art Gallery at City Hall. The event is free and open to the public. Live music will be performed by Andy Schomburg of Noblesville and refreshments and snacks will be available. The Squirrel Stampede project will also be available for guests to add their mark on community art.

The artists exhibiting include Greg Clack, David O'Dell, Brenda Jalaie, and Mark Rouse. Each shares their own perspective of the art of racing from people in the stands, to the cars and racing environment.

GREG CLACK grew up in Indianapolis and took art classes throughout his school years. Following high school, he entered the United States Air Force where he was able to pursue some art projects.

"So, I've always had an interest in creating art," Clack said. "Years ago, I went to the Artomobilia Car and Art Show. This renewed my interest as I was able to stroll into the open galleries and look at the artwork I liked. The added bonus being I was able to take workshops with the artists who painted the art I liked. This started me on a path of studying and observing and progressing to make better artwork."

DAVID O'DELL is a resident of Fishers; he is a printmaker specializing in serigraphy. He began screen printing at Serigraphics of Indianapolis designing and printing posters for rock and roll bands and other entertainers. He graduated from Ball State University in Art with a specialization in Advertising. He has a master's degree in Printmaking from Wayne State University. He was Art Director at St. Charles County Community College in Missouri and Senior Graphic Designer for Kmart Corporation.

His father, David O'Dell, was the official photographer at the Indianapolis 500 from 1951 to 1957. This instilled a family tradition; the younger David has attended 57 Indy 500s to date. His love of Indy cars has led to a series of limited-edition serigraphs of vintage Indy cars which he creates in a style he calls "Crop Pop."

His exploration of form has led to the creation of lenticular art in which the art changes depending on the viewer's perspective. Some of his artistic influences are Yaacov Agam, Leroy Neiman, Andy Warhol, Roy Lichtenstein, and Richard Estes.

He has won over 30 national and regional awards, including five national first-place Paragon awards for his designs.

Most of BRENDA JALAIÉ's work has always been photography oriented.

"I have a passion for processing and printing 'the old-fashioned way' using film and needing a dark room," Jalaie said. "I love working with large negatives and creating works that are contact printed, like Gum-Bichromates and Van Dykes. But in the real work of balancing a teaching career, mother and art, I find more and more I am just focused on capturing the scenes of a fleeting moment. Rarely cropped, rarely adjusted for color, just what I see through my camera when I see it."

After years of studying, teaching and creating mostly acrylic paintings, MARK ROUSE was diagnosed with diabetic retinopathy and "pronounced legally blind!"

"One of the things that I feared the most was that I would never paint again," Rouse said. However, with the help of a great doctor, his vision is back to normal.

Before his brush with blindness, Mark's art focused on creating something new, something that no one had seen before.

"Blindness caused a change of focus to painting the things that I might never see again," Rouse said. "My work since that time has been images from nature, my memories and images that proclaim my faith."

activity, which has the potential to be restored and preserved as critical wildlife and aquatic habitat.

"Hamilton County Parks, with invaluable support provided by Indiana DNR, feels blessed to be able to procure this ecological asset on behalf of our county and community," said Parks Director Chris Stice on the importance of the land acquisition. "The department's intent is to restore the land's wetlands and stream corridor and expand the existing prairie. Appropriate reforestation measures will also be taken. We are looking to strategically develop and maintain trails on the property, as well. By restoring the quality of the land's habitat, we are remaining true to our departmental mission of providing high quality passive parks and serving as responsible stewards of the land entrusted to us."

No specific timeline has been established for the park department's planned efforts at the HC Farms property, as studies and exploration of the land and its potential are currently being conducted. Public input will continually be sought during the master planning process.

Group of conservative Fishers grannies to protest Holcomb's veto of HB 1041

Submitted by Liberty Belles

Members of the Liberty Belles, a conservative women's group in Fishers, will hold a protest in front of the State Capitol at 11:30 a.m. on Tuesday, May 17 to object to Indiana Governor Eric Holcomb's veto of House Bill 1041, which would have prevented biological boys from competing in girls sports in Indiana schools.

The demonstration is being called the "Grannies against Boys in Girls' Sports" protest.

Liberty Belles Coordinator Lynne Goodin said, "With a Republican like Governor Holcomb in office, who needs Democrats?"

Both houses of the Indiana General Assembly passed the legislation to prevent biological boys from competing in girls sports in March 2022. The bill states "a male, based on a student's biological sex at birth in accordance with the student's genetics and reproductive biology, may not participate on an athletic team or sport designated under this section as being a female, women's or girls' athletic team or sport." The bill would also protect schools and athletic associations from liability for enforcing the legislation.

In his March 21, 2022, veto letter, Holcomb said, 1) the bill is "unclear about how consistency and fairness will be maintained," 2) "of the several states that have passed similar legislation, lawsuits have been filed or threatened to be filed," 3) "not a single case of a male seeking to participate on a female team has completed the process established [by the current policy]."

Later in May, the General Assembly is holding a special session to tie up loose legislative ends and to address the veto to House Bill 1041. "House Republicans will vote to override this veto when lawmakers meet again on May 24," House Speaker Todd Huston (R-Fishers) said. Other state legislatures have overridden vetoes to similar bills, including Utah in March.

The Liberty Belles say they do not see any confusion in the bill, and that even though a male has not sought to compete on a female team, it might happen tomorrow. The Belles say they are not concerned about other states, their laws or lawsuits filed against other states' laws. However, they do say they are anxious about their granddaughters and all other girls in Indiana facing unfair competition in sports against biological males. If the bill is signed into law and consistency and fairness become a concern, the Belles say that's what the courts are for.

The Liberty Belles organized in late 2021. Their mission is "to promote and preserve the conservative principles upon which our country was founded. The group is pro-life, pro-family, and pro-America." It consists of women who live in a 55-and-over neighborhood in Fishers. Currently there are 35 members who meet monthly and call themselves a political action committee without money.

Early in 2022, several members say they learned of pornographic books being placed in the pre-teen section of the Hamilton East Public Library. After voicing their concerns at two library board meetings, the books were moved to the adult section of the library.

At their March 2022 meeting, they invited Republican candidates on the May 3 Indiana primary ballot to speak. They are now campaigning for the truly conservative candidates.

Heights senior earns Franklin College's Presidential Scholarship

The REPORTER

Franklin College held its time-honored Ben Franklin Scholars Program of Excellence earlier this year, welcoming students from Indiana and numerous states to campus to compete for the college's top scholarships.

The awards available included two full-tuition Ben Franklin scholarships and 14 Presidential Scholarships, worth $10,000 per academic year. The competition drew 87 high-achieving and academically resilient participants. Those competing for the awards were required to have been previously admitted into the college and to have a 3.7 grade-point average or higher on a 4.0 scale at the time of admission.

Isabella Neiling, a senior at Hamilton Heights High School in Arcadia, received a Presidential Scholarship.

Throughout the day, each student participated in an interview with a Franklin College faculty or staff member, wrote a short-answer essay, and worked collaboratively with their peers to accomplish a group challenge initiative, with the goal to resolve a dire problem or need in their respective communities. Each participant was scored based on these elements and the winners were determined based on the overall scores.

"The student scholars demonstrated the highest level of academic prowess," said Franklin College Vice President of Strategic Enrollment Management and Marketing Thanda Maceo. "They are representative of the academic quality of our overall student body and reflective of the rich learning environment offered at Franklin College."

For more information on the Ben Franklin Scholars Program of Excellence, or other questions regarding admission into Franklin College, please visit FranklinCollege.edu/admissions, or call (888) 853-6471 or locally at (317) 738-8075.

We Are Different!

We are different from much of the world and that doesn't bother us. We don't want to blend into the national religious or moral scene. We want to stand out and stand up.

Therefore, come out from among them and be separate, says the Lord; do not touch any unclean thing, and I will welcome you (2 Cor. 6:17).

So that you may be blameless and pure, children of God who are faultless in a crooked and perverted generation, among whom you shine like stars in the world (Phil. 2:15).

Several years ago, I saw a cartoon in which the preacher was speaking on being the light of the world. Above his head was a thought bubble that said, "but in the case of these people I am speaking dim bulbs." We are not the source of light, but moons that reflect the light of our Lord. To be lights in this perverse generation we must be different. Speak differently. Think differently. Live differently. Our standard is not his world. We do not live to please this world. At the Stony Creek Church of Christ, we are different and make no apologies for it. Why do we chose to be different? Come and see for yourself.

U.S. Navy Reservist from Noblesville talks deployment on Mother’s Day

By JONATHAN WORD

Editor’s note: Click here to read the full story. An abridged version follows.

CAMP LEMONNIER, Djibouti – Being in the U.S. Navy can be challenging. Spending time away from family during deployments while adhering to a rigorous work schedule and training plan takes discipline from even the most stalwart Sailor.

However, there is an occupation that some believe is one of the toughest in the world, and that is being a mother. Being both a mother and a Sailor takes a level of sacrifice, courage and commitment not found in just anyone. Every year, many people honor their mothers on Mother’s Day. The holiday can be a little different for mothers deployed thousands of miles away from their families.

The times that a military parent is away from their child can be difficult, but they are not away all the time. A military family can have many unique and positive experiences together.

Traveling to new places and living in new homes every few years can be an exciting adventure for a military family, but some parents might feel that is not the best option for their children. There is an alternative. A Sailor can continue to serve their country and still come home to their family nearly every day as a member of the U.S. Navy Reserve.

U.S. Navy Reservists do go on deployments. Every Reservist is required to be mission-ready physically and administratively. However, a Reservist does have the ability to spend much more time at home than their active-duty counterparts. If someone is already a mom or dad, choosing to serve in the Reserves may be an excellent opportunity.

“I chose the Reserve because I had a five-year-old at the time,” said Master-at-Arms 1st Class Kelly Gaines, a U.S. Navy Reserve Sailor from Noblesville attached to Naval Security Forces Crane, Indiana, and currently deployed to CLDJ where she is assigned to the N34 security department. “I am a mom. I love being a mom, but I also love being in the military. I thought as a Reservist I would have to leave my son behind a lot less, or move him around, but I still wanted to be in the military. I love it.”

Parents play a significant role in many people’s lives. Many Sailors will spend Mother’s Day away from their moms, and many Sailors are moms who may spend this and several more Mother’s Days away from their children. If a Sailor’s mother is an important relationship in their life, they will hopefully be able to reach out and say ‘thanks.’

“My mother is super proud of me,” said Gaines, who has served in the Reserves for 12 years and been a mother for 17 years. “She brags and tells everyone how happy she is and proud that I am in the military. I’m proud of the mother I am. She is such a great mother, I feel that helps me be a great mother.”

Adopting a growth mindset, building for the future of travel

Education, experience and change are the keys to growth

GUEST COLUMNIST

We've navigated the twists and turns of life while in the midst of a rollercoaster of confusion, anxiety, anger and fear, all generated by the ongoing state of the world. In an effort to cope during these times, you may have picked up new hobbies, discovered your love for a number of reality TV series, moved across the country, made the decision to go back to school or even become one of many professionals taking part in the Great Resignation.

There is no question that this current time in our history is marked with an increasing want and need for personal and professional growth. Many chapters of my life have been marked by a similar desire; this has motivated me to adopt a mindset focused on differentiating myself from others in a positive way through a continuous pursuit of knowledge. I have learned many lessons — recognizing that growth is rarely a happenstance, broadening my capabilities through further education and finding my way into the travel insurance industry.

I pursued my first MBA two years after completing my undergraduate degree, and this decision came from a place of limited work experience. My motivation for this choice was rooted in a very academic foundation, where I anticipated that guiding principles would greatly assist in the application of my skills within the real world. Through gaining work experience and pursuing my second MBA later in life, I was able to recognize how education is truly complementary to application as work experiences taught me how, when and where my academic background could make all the difference.

Gaining actual work experience, especially within the travel industry, shifted my perspective and motivated me to use a more holistic approach to everything I do, and this type of approach is needed more than ever before. When I began my career, taking on a role in marketing meant that you only had a role in marketing. Now, a marketing role really can function as an umbrella title, housing responsibilities in corporate culture, operations, technology, marketing and even all the way into sales.

Leading with a holistic approach

Imagine that a company is at the top of its game in terms of its visual marketing content; however, it is executing business poorly when it comes to very foundational operations, such as customer experience. When negative feedback comes around, it is not just associated with the struggling department but rather hinders the growth of the entire company. That is why a holistic approach is so essential within today's world. It all comes back to how today's leaders are making their decisions and enacting change, aka using a growth mindset, relying on those learned skills of design and critical thinking as well as problem solving.

From my own experience, an excellent example of a holistic approach can be seen when looking at how I tackled the issue of marketing investments and travel seasonality. For this industry, it is typically assumed that Q2 and Q3 are the best quarters in terms of sales; therefore, impacting when and how we invest our money.

However, people are traveling all the time, even more so since their previous plans were derailed due to the pandemic. In this case, by adopting a holistic approach and looking at the bigger picture, I ask the question "Is the industry forcing seasonality by how we calibrate our marketing spend?" as well as "What would happen when seasonality is no longer the driving factor in determining spend?"

By broadening the way in which I assessed this concept, it enabled me to shatter this outdated belief and instead rely on a more calculated approach based on experience and observations.

The future of growth within travel

As I look ahead to the future of travel and the travel insurance industry, there are a number of changes in the works. Like many other types of insurance, travel is heavily pivoting toward a direct-to-consumer model by relying on technology. Millennials and younger generations are driving this as they want an experience where the results are immediate, meaning they have their insurance set up within a few clicks and are able to digitally interact in a similar fashion.

Specifically, through my role as Chief Growth Officer for Seven Corners, I am optimistic toward a greater increase in travel insurance knowledge among the general public. Prior to the pandemic, very few people were aware of the need for travel medical insurance; however, it has always been rather essential particularly when traveling out of the country where your standard health insurance likely will not cover injury or illness. The pandemic truly spotlighted the importance of this type of insurance to consumers that would have otherwise overlooked it. For Seven Corners as well as other travel insurance companies, the future of travel is really focused on educating the public on how they can get back out there and do it safely.

As for the next generation of talent, young professionals will be entering into an industry that is much livelier and more advanced — one that is constantly adapting and changing as each new generation of travelers helps to shape trends and top destinations vary every few years. For those individuals, a growth mindset will be key to their success. These are three tips that young professionals should follow as they pursue a career in the travel industry.

• Look for career opportunities in consulting: The beauty of consulting or rotational programs is that you are exposed to numerous industries or multiple facets of a company. You will be much better equipped to make crucial strategic decisions as this exposure gives you the ability to visualize how prospective changes will likely impact each sector of the company.

• Develop a strong understanding of analytics and digital marketing: A large portion of the work we do in this industry relates to the use of data and analytics. Additionally, digital marketing is a newer area that is constantly evolving. By developing familiarity with these topics, you will be better equipped than many of your peers.

• Don't overlook accounting and finance classes: This is one aspect of my education that I overlooked while working through my undergraduate degree. A background in finance and accounting is highly valued. By having the ability to understand how the financial sector of your organization functions, you are better positioned to come up with effective growth strategies.

As the next generation of professionals looks to join this industry, we know that future success will be hinged on our ability to educate and connect with the public. This will always begin with educating ourselves, looking inward at the industry to identify and address those vulnerabilities that block greater adoption. Whether it be tackling outdated beliefs, navigating a pandemic/world crisis or interpreting and catering to generational differences, travel professionals must rely on a growth mindset as it is a pillar to strategic development and effective communication.

Greg Jung is the Chief Growth Officer of Seven Corners Travel Insurance, based in Carmel.

TODAY'S BIBLE READING

We must pay the most careful attention, therefore, to what we have heard, so that we do not drift away. For since the message spoken through angels was binding, and every violation and disobedience received its just punishment, how shall we escape if we ignore so great a salvation? This salvation, which was first announced by the Lord, was confirmed to us by those who heard him. God also testified to it by signs, wonders and various miracles, and by gifts of the Holy Spirit distributed according to his will.

Track and field

Super-close relay finish gives Royals girls county meet championship

By RICHIE HALL
WESTFIELD - There seems to be something about the 4x400 relay and the Hamilton Southeastern girls track and field team that brings the excitement, and the winning of close finishes.

Four years ago the Royals claimed a state title in the 4x400, winning the race in .04 seconds - an "exclamation point," said coach Julie Alano, on winning a team state championship.

Now, let's head back to the present day, or Tuesday, when Southeastern was competing in the 2022 Hamilton County girls track and field meet at Westfield's Riverview Health Stadium. The Royals were battling Noblesville for third place in the 4x400, and managed to nose out the Millers by .02 seconds.

With that finish, Southeastern clinched the county championship, getting the points it needed to win the trophy. The Royals finished with 137 points, followed by runner-up Carmel's 136 and Noblesville's third-place 135. The difference between first and third was those .02 seconds.

"Yeah, every point mattered," said Alano. The coach said her team was "just really focused on trying some things to make sure we had our sectional lineup determined," as that lineup is due today. So, the county meet was more about tweaking things for the upcoming sectional, which Southeastern hosts next Tuesday. The sectional will consist of all the county teams, plus Lebanon and Western Boone.

"It was just really good for us to pull it out when I didn't even really expect us to," said Alano. "But I think it's good for us to see where other teams fall and how next week will play out. We really value this competition for next week. If we can win, that's great, but we're not always that concerned about winning."

The Royals did their share of winning in the individual events, taking four of them. Ally Elsbury had two victories, claiming the 100 hurdles in 14.72 seconds and the long jump in 18 feet, 4.25 inches, both of which are new county meet records.

Elia Blackmore was first in the 300 hurdles, clocking in at 45.68 seconds; Alano said that time was .01 seconds off the record Carmel's

The Hamilton Southeastern girls track team won a very close Hamilton County meet Tuesday at Westfield's Riverview Health Stadium. By finishing third in the 4x400 relay by .02 seconds, the Royals won by one point.

Mary Steffel set in the year 2000. Rosiebella Fiabema was the shot put winner, with a best throw of 42 feet, 0.5 inches.

That put Fiabema back above the 42-foot mark, as she threw 42 feet, 11.5 inches at the Royal Relays early in the season, "so it was really relieving to do it again," she said. Fiabema also placed third in the discus and was happy with her results.

"I worked really hard this week and I'm super excited for next week's sectionals," said Fiabema.

Carmel jumped into contention for the team championship with consistent results all the way around, including four event wins. The Greyhounds started the meet with a win in the 4x800 relay, and finished the meet by running away with the 4x400 relay. Carmel then picked up a pair of 1-2 finishes on the track in between. In the 400 dash, Olivia Cebalo won that race with Cambell Wamsley second, then later in the 3200 run, Alivia Romaniuk cruised to a victory with Olivia Mundt the runner-up.

Noblesville joined the battle by also taking four individual events. The Millers got a 1-2 high jump finish from champion Malina Miller and runner-up Rylee Hassan, while Laina Lillge triumphed in the pole vault. Hannah Alexander won the discus and took second in the shot put. Paige Hazel-rigg was the 1600 run winner.

Fishers finished fourth as a team with 86.5 points. The Tigers won two events: Ella Scally was first in the 200 dash, and was also part of the Tigers' winning 4x100 relay. Scally won the high point scoring award at the conclusion of the meet. Scally also placed second in the long jump and third in the 100 dash.

"This is actually my first meet doing all my normal events," said Scally, who had foot surgery in December. Scally said the meet got her prepared for next week's sectional.

Westfield scored 52.5 points to finish fifth as a team. The Shamrocks had an event champion in Princess Campbell, who won the 100 dash in 12.48 seconds.

"I think I ran great," said Campbell. "Facing great competition." Campbell also said that the race makes her "a lot more confident" in her 100 abilities.

Guerin Catholic's Bridget Gallagher delivered a win for the Golden Eagles in the 800 run; the team finished with 26 points. Kelsey Smith placed third in the high jump to lead Hamilton Heights, while Abby Hanon took fourth for University in the shot put.

Team scores: Hamilton Southeastern 137, Carmel 136, Noblesville 135, Fishers 86.5, Westfield 52.5, Guerin Catholic 26, Hamilton Heights 22, University 5.

Fishers stages late comeback for walk-off win over Yorktown

On Monday night, the Fishers Tigers went out of the Hoosier Crossroads Conference to play the Yorktown Tigers and got a test that they were hoping to get at this point in the season, just two weeks from sectional play.

It took a five-run bottom of the seventh for the host Tigers to overcome the visiting Yorktown Tigers, 7-6.

The Yorktown Tigers got on the board in the first. Cole Temple walked to get started and then Jacob Pruitt reached on a fielder's choice, moving Temple to second. Hayden Carrow lined out to right for the second out. Temple was then able to head home on a wild pitch for 1-0. Garrett Thurman lined a single to left that scored Pruitt and put Fishers in an early 2-0 deficit.

Fishers got their offense going in the third when JP Preston hit a pop fly to left and that allowed Carson Dunn to score on the play to cut the visiting Tigers' lead to 2-1.

The host Tigers would even the score in the fifth. Dom Oliverio walked and then stole second and then advanced to third on a JP Preston ground out. Oliverio would head for home to tie it up 2-2 when Curtis Kearschner doubled to left with two outs.

Jackson Furnish walked to start the sixth for Yorktown. Carrow would reach base on a walk and that would get courtesy runner Peyton Fields to second. Thurman walked to load the bases. Jacob Grim walked, scoring Fields to allow Yorktown to regain the edge, 3-2.

Brayden Foltz would also walk and Carrow scored for 4-2.

Cole Temple pushed the visiting Tigers' lead to 5-2 with a leadoff home run to left. They would push it to 6-2 when Thurman doubled to left to plate Pruitt.

Fishers was in quite the hole heading into its last at-bat, down by four.

Preston singled up the middle into center. Joe Hietpas would reach on an error by Temple at shortstop that gave the Tigers two aboard.

Kearschner next lined a two-run single to left, scoring both Preston and Hietpas, cutting it to 6-4.

Jack Brown was hit by a pitch, advancing Kearschner to second. Jack Backofen laid down a sacrifice bunt and reached safely on an error by Carrow at first to load the bases.

Joey Brenzewski would tie the game 6-6 when he lined a grounder to right, scoring both Kearschner and Brown.

Carson Dunn would become the hero. Dunn hit a walk-off single that scored Backofen for a wild five-run home half of the seventh, giving Fishers a 7-6 win over Yorktown.

Yorktown drops to 13-7 on the season and showed it could be a real threat in the Class 3A state tournament.

Kearschner led with two hits, a double and three RBI's, while Brenzewski drove in two. Cody Jones earned the win with five innings pitched with eight strikeouts.

Fishers improved its record to 8-3 against non-conference opponents.

Hamilton Heights has been putting together some solid baseball in the past few weeks and it's starting to show that the Huskies are getting into state tournament form at the right time.

After splitting the first two games of this Hoosier Conference series on April 26 and 27, the Huskies went on the road and grabbed a 4-2 win at Northwestern to take the series two games to one.

Dean Mason led off the game with a walk. Two batters later, Sam Allen tripled to center that would score Kaleb Murry for an early Heights 1-0 lead. They would add another in the first on a double to center to send Allen home to put the Tigers on their heels, 2-0.

Northwestern struck right back in the home half of the first. Cole Van Natter led off by lining a single to center and he would soon steal second. Cole Wise grounded out to short and that allowed Van Natter to go home, cutting it to 2-1.

The Tigers tied the game up in the bottom of the third. Wise singled to score Kai Jackson for a 2-2 game.

Hamilton Heights came right back in the top of the fourth to regain the lead that they would not give back.

Alex Eubanks lined a single to center. Cooper Vondersaar bunted for the first out to get Eubanks to second. Landon Hurley came through with a run-scoring, hard-hit grounder to short. Wise committed an error that allowed Eubanks to score for 3-2.

The Huskies would put the icing on the series with Sam Allen producing again, this time on an infield single to score Kaleb Murray for the final score of 4-2.

Alex Rickey started on the mound for Heights and gave up three hits through three innings, striking out a pair. Harrison Hochstedler earned the win in his four innings, whiffing eight Tigers and walking none.

Northwestern (11-5, 5-4 HC) had won four of five before dropping the series finale versus Heights. The Tigers head to Taylor (7-10-1) on Thursday for their next game.

Hamilton Heights (10-4, 5-3 HC) has now won eight of its last nine and is peaking at the right time with the state tournament near. The Huskies host Anderson (12-8) today.

On a turf field like Kokomo's Municipal Stadium, where the ball is usually bouncing all over, creating opportunities for multiple runs from either team, that wouldn't be the case on Tuesday night.

The host Wildkats were able to tame the Noblesville Millers, who had won three in a row and seven of their last nine prior to dropping Tuesday night's non-conference tilt, 1-0.

Freshman Ethan Dorsey got the starting nod for Noblesville. He would go five strong innings, allowing four hits, striking out three and walking just one.

On this night, it would be a complete game shutout for Ashton Sexton that gave the home team the win. Sexton went the distance for seven frames, only giving up four hits, fanning five with one walk.

Dameion Deis led off the bottom of the third, singling to left. John Curl would repeat a single to left that would score Deis for the lone run of the game for Kokomo.

Luke Wilson accounted for half of Noblesville's hits, going 2-for-3. Nolan Decker and Bryce Riggs each added a single.

Kokomo (10-11) won its third game in a row and hosts Marion (0-13) today.

Noblesville drops to 11-9 and will get back to Hoosier Crossroads Conference action on Thursday when they host Brownsburg (12-4, 6-2 HCC). This will be the first of the two game series, which proves to be pivotal for second place in the conference standings.

Fever net first win of season

Kelsey Mitchell's 35th career game finishing with at least 20 points was enough for the Indiana Fever to secure its first win of the 2022 campaign, 82-76, against the Minnesota Lynx at Gainbridge Fieldhouse on Tuesday. Despite being held scoreless in the first quarter, Mitchell responded with a 13-point second quarter of her own to ignite Indiana to a franchise record for the most points in a second quarter with 36 to take the lead into the locker room.

The fifth-year guard ended the game with 26 points on 9-of-16 shooting, including a 4-of-7 clip from beyond the arc. Mitchell also became the fourth player in franchise history to surpass at least 1,900 points while with the franchise.

In her third game with Indiana, former Minnesota Lynx guard Crystal Dangerfield led the Fever bench with 10 points and a team-high six assists in her first game against her former team.

Alanna Smith was inserted into the starting lineup for the first time in her career and finished with nine points, five rebounds and two steals. NaLyssa Smith and Victoria Vivians each also nine points to keep Minnesota winless to begin the new season.

Per Across The Timeline, Queen Egbo came off the bench while working her way back from a left ankle injury to become the sixth rookie in WNBA history to finish a game with at least eight rebounds, five steals and three blocked shots.

Destanni Henderson added eight points and dished out five assists. After Henderson's first three games in the WNBA, she has compiled 13 assists, while only committing four turnovers.
