

Cicero summer refreshment

Monday afternoon in Cicero, these enterprising young entrepreneurs were tempting passersby with an old summer staple: the classic lemonade stand. And at 25 cents a glass, who could pass it up? Certainly not your Hometown Newspaper! These are truly prices from another time that prove not everything is subject to the supply chain fiascos and oil company profit margins. Thanks for keeping it affordable, kids . . . much like our subscriptions (hint-hint). (From left) Owen Flatley, Vander Gerlach, Keira Gerlach and Breah Flatley.

She dances with butterflies . . .

What is it about butterflies that captivate us? They are elegant and graceful, fragile, yet striking in their beauty.

There is an old saying that goes, “No garden truly blooms until butterflies have danced upon it.” A butterfly landing on your flowers and drinking sweet nectar or bathing in the sunlight provided in one’s garden is a rite of passage for a gardener. They are a reward for the fruits of labor; many believe they are a spiritual messenger sent to us by our loved ones. Whether you believe this or not, in order to have butterflies in our garden, we must provide a habitat for them.

One way to attract these creatures to your yard or balcony is planting a butterfly garden. In order to attract butterflies to your garden, one must provide food, water, shelter and protection. Butterflies are attracted to nectar from a variety of plants. They need a place to bask in the sunlight that offers protection from wind, storms, cold temperatures and predators. Butterflies like a well-developed garden with an assortment of plants offering various heights. A shallow dish of water in your garden is also essential for butterflies, such as a birdbath without a pedestal. Butterflies like to sunbathe, so a safe place for them such as a flat rock is ideal.

Aesthetics are secondary when it comes to developing a garden. Butterflies are vital pollinators in a garden, so selecting plants that will attract them and providing a sound habitat will promote them in your garden, as well as the health of your plants.

Many garden nurseries will also provide information on specific flowers that attract butterflies.

An essential part of every butterfly garden are host plants for caterpillars. Each species of butterfly has a specific host plant on which a butterfly will lay her eggs. For instance, according to Indianapublicmedia.org, “Black swallowtail larvae enjoy fennel, dill, parsley, carrot or rue as host plants.”

Another popular and beloved variety is the monarch butterfly. Monarchs will only lay eggs on the host plant milkweed. Once their eggs hatch, the larvae eat the leaves before making a chrysalis and transforming into an adult butterfly.

Being familiar with some of the over 150 varieties of butterflies in our state and the variety of host plants for the individual species will encourage them to grace our gardens.

One of the most notable, yet troubled, species in Indiana is the monarch.

The Indiana Wildlife Federation leads the statewide conservation efforts for the monarch butterfly. The Indiana Monarch Conservation plan was created and implemented to educate the public and raise awareness among Hoosiers. What can local gardeners do in Indiana to aid in the effort of monarch protection? Avoiding the use of harmful pesticides, planting native milkweed and spreading the words to others are indispensable components in the effort to save monarchs.

Brazilian writer Mario Quintana once said, “Don’t waste your time chasing butterflies. Mend your garden and the butterflies will come.” One does not need to create a brand-new landscape to attract butterflies. When butterflies are welcomed to your existing space filled with a variety of diverse plants and given the necessary habitat to thrive, they will come dancing.

Nature is speaking. Are you listening?

PREVAIL
Advocating for Victims of Crime & Abuse

I was born and raised right here in Noblesville. I grew up in a home without domestic violence or assault - it wasn’t something I saw, or even heard about. But when I was introduced to Prevail of Central Indiana, I was shocked by the number of individuals who are affected by domestic violence. In 2018 alone, Prevail helped more than 4,000 clients in Hamilton County (nearly 80 percent of clients are women and children). Domestic violence and abuse are hard topics to discuss, so you don’t often hear about them. But at Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville, we’re breaking the taboo and raising awareness for Prevail, an organization that helps families in Hamilton County.

ICEA received several letters of nomination for this year’s recipient, including multiple nomination letters from peers leading other chambers in the state.

“Jack is a man with significant impact who leads with integrity, appropriately challenges the process, is a true collaborator, and is results-focused,” Westfield Chamber CEO Steve Latour shared in a nomination letter. “I have seen Jack interact with colleagues, board members, citizens, and elected leaders engage in challenging conversations, coach, mentor, and lead.”

Greater Greenwood Chamber President & CEO Christian Maslowski said, “OneZone was a new organization, formed from the merger of two large chambers, and Jack helped the organization through the most difficult merger work: establishing a new cultural norm, new performance standards, and dispelling sacred cows that no longer added value to the chamber or its membership. These hard lifts required confidence, courage, and the ability to bring people along, or move them off the bus. Jack’s drive for excellence and innovation was contagious and helped the organization win ICEA Chamber of the Year.”

Russell has served as the President at OneZone Chamber of Commerce, a 1,300-member organization, for the past two years.

Prior to serving as President, Jack was the Chief Operating Officer at OneZone for two years. In 2021, Jack was award the ACCE 40 under 40 honors and received his Certified Professional Certification through the Indiana Chamber Executive Association.

During his time at OneZone, the organization has created the first Supplier Diversity Program in Hamilton County, OVN or OneZone Women’s Network, the Small Business Hub, a Health & Wellness Committee focused on Mental Health, a PAC called the OneZone Business Action Committee, and has created strong advocacy efforts at the local, county, and state level.

Prior to his time at OneZone Chamber Jack served as President & CEO at the Westfield Chamber of Commerce where he grew the organization to over 400 members in those two years.

In addition to this top honor, the OneZone Chamber team brought home two Innovative Excellence Awards for their work with their Supplier Diversity Program and Small Business Roundtables as well as placing in the top three for this year’s Chamber of the Year recognition.

ICEA, the state’s leading organization for professional development of chamber staff leaders, began naming a Chamber Executive of the Year in 2002 to recognize the work Chamber CEOs do in their communities. The organization works with nearly 100 chambers of commerce throughout the state representing well over 45,000 businesses.

To be eligible for the award, a recipient must have worked in an executive role at a Chamber for at least three years. The selection committee also considers continued Chamber education/professional development, personal character, management excellence, leadership and community relationships. Washington must act now to contain inflation

There's always a lot of noise and drama in Washington. But people in Washington seldom talk about what's really hurting Americans. Right now, what's hurting Americans the most is inflation.

Inflation is like a hand around the necks of Hoosiers, making it impossible for many young people to save to buy a home or start a business, preventing families from saving for their children's college education, and bringing real hardship to many people, including retirees who depend on Social Security, some of whom can't afford to buy food or medicine at their local store. This is in addition to the thousands of Hoosiers who can hardly afford the gas they need to get to work and back.

Treasury Secretary Janet Yellen insisted last year that inflation would be "transitory", and President Biden said last summer that price hikes would be temporary.

Neither of these things were true.

Inflation is now the highest it's been since December of 1981, after four years of Jimmy Carter and before President Ronald Reagan's reforms took effect.

Inflation is a highly regressive tax, hitting low-income Americans the hardest.

We know what is causing inflation: the $1.9 trillion American Rescue Plan that flooded our existing money supply, the ongoing supply chain crisis, and burdensome regulations on business.

Members of Congress and the Biden administration must come together for the good of the nation to develop feasible energy policies, address supply chain dependence on China, eliminate burdensome regulations and tariffs, and assure a stable legal and tax environment essential for domestic investments.

Playing politics with people's lives should not be an option.

The Fishers Police Department has been receiving different reports of telephone scams in the last several weeks.

Residents have reported that the suspect calls the victim, accusing them of having an arrest warrant and demanding they send gift cards to clear their name, the department says.

The scammer instructs the victim to stay on the phone, not tell anyone about their conversation, and to purchase gift cards or Green Dot cards for a specific amount. Police say some Fishers residents have sent thousands of dollars to these scammers.

Fishers police have provided a list of tips for those who might get this kind of call:

- Immediately hang up the phone if you do not recognize or know the caller.
- Never give out personal information. If you feel the call might be legitimate, you can ask the person to mail you information.

- Never provide gift card numbers to anyone over the telephone.

- No legitimate company or organization requires payment via gift cards or Green Dot cards.

- No law enforcement agency threatens to arrest people over the phone.

- If something does not sound or feel right, hang up the phone.

You are welcome to contact your local law enforcement agency; however, most of these telephone scams originate from overseas and are very difficult if not impossible to trace.

Letter to the Editor

Summer heat, fireworks are not friendly to pets

Dear Editor:

While we encourage people to walk their dogs often (for the dogs' health as well as the owner!) there are some serious repercussions to dogs' paws in the summer heat.

Did you know, according to the American Medical Association, that when the outside temperature is 86 degrees, the asphalt temperature is 135 degrees? One suggestion is to place your own hand on the pavement for at least 10 seconds. How does that feel?

Pavement, asphalt and artificial grass can become searingly hot and cause blisters and burns to pets' paws. Please reconsider taking your dogs to outdoor events where their paws could become burned and, frankly, the weather is usually just too hot for their comfort. (Remember that dogs do not perspire as we do.)

As we approach the July Fourth holiday, another reminder is that many dogs are terrified of loud noises and become very stressed. Please do not take your dogs to Fourth activities! Additionally, a hot car is never acceptable for any living being, human or animal.

Let's enjoy summer and let our wonderful pets do the same.

TODAY'S BIBLE READING

By faith Abel brought God a better offering than Cain did. By faith he was commended as righteous, when God spoke well of his offerings. And by faith Abel still speaks, even though he is dead.

Rex Alan Isenhour

September 13, 1946 – June 22, 2022

Rex Alan Isenhour, 75, Sheridan, passed away on June 22, 2022, at Ascension St. Vincent Hospital in Indianapolis. Born on September 13, 1946, in Lebanon, Ind., he was the son of the late Charles Edwin "Ed" and Olive Bell (Swigart) Isenhour.

Rex was a 1964 graduate of Sheridan High School, where he was awarded the Industrial Arts Student of the Year. Shortly following graduation, he was recruited by Boyer Electric, training and mentoring with them from 1964 to 1973. It was at this time that Rex decided to venture out on his own, opening Sheridan Heating & Insulation and serving the residents of the Sheridan area until his (so called) retirement. Rex was a serial entrepreneur, trying his hand at many successful ventures throughout the years, including ownership of the Sheridan Liquor Store.

Never one to sit still for too long, Rex always made sure he took time to enjoy the fruits of his labor. He loved being outdoors, and no matter what the season, he always found something fun to do. He enjoyed snow skiing and boating, but golf was always his sport of choice. He was a member of Wild Creek Golf Course, as well as the Ellington at Wachesaw East. His favorite activity, however, was getting into mischief with his grandsons, for whom Grandpa was always a willing partner-in-crime.

Rex was just one of the boys and will be truly missed by everyone who was fortunate enough to have known him, and lucky enough to call him a friend.

Rex is survived by his wife, Patricia A. (Paddack) Isenhour. Rex and Patty were married on July 3, 1965. Also surviving is his daughter, Mindy M. Isenhour-Schieman (Jason) of Sheridan; grandchildren, Dylan Schieman and Troy Schieman, both of Denver; brother, Rodney L. "Rod" Isenhour (Karen) of Sheridan; sister, Ruth Ann Isenhour-Durbin of Sheridan; nephew, Greg Durbin; and nieces, Julie Durbin (Barb) and Rhonda Isenhour.

He was preceded in death by his parents; brother, Charles Ronald "Ron" Isenhour; sister-in-law, Linda Isenhour; and nephew, Michael Isenhour.

A Celebration of Rex's Life will be held at 7 p.m. on Thursday, June 30, 2022, at Kercheval Funeral Home, 306 E. 10th St., Sheridan, with Visitation from 3 p.m. until the time of Service.

Rex made the choice to become an organ and tissue donor. In lieu of flowers, his family is requesting that donations and memorial contributions be made to the Indiana Donor Network Foundation.

James “Bud” Arthur

September 17, 1928 – June 25, 2022

James “Bud” Arthur, 93, Westfield, and formerly of Sheridan and Lebanon, passed away on Saturday afternoon, June 25, 2022, at Compassus Hospice of Indianapolis. Born on September 17, 1928, in Hamilton County, he was the son of the late Arley Ross and Ruby (Fesmire) Arthur.

After graduating from Sheridan High School with the Class of 1947, Bud hired on with Delco Remy for a short period of time before the joining the United States Army and proudly serving his country during the Korean War. Upon his return from Korea, he went to work as a lineman with Indiana Bell and remained with the company until his retirement in 1991.

Bud was a member of the Sheridan First United Methodist Church, a 62-year member of the Sheridan Masonic Lodge #309, a 32nd Degree Mason with the Grand Lodge of Indiana, as well as a member of the Scottish Rite Valley of Indianapolis and Murat Temple Shrine.

Bud may have been a lineman by trade, but he was a farmer at heart. He loved raising sheep and was very well known for his shearing prowess. He also raised chickens, as well as quail and pheasants, which he always released when the time came. Bud enjoyed gardening very much, and he even took up beekeeping to help his garden flourish.

When he had the time, Bud enjoyed traveling, with Branson being one of his favorite destinations. No matter the length of the trip, there was always time to visit a casino. Bud also made sure his schedule was never so busy that he couldn't get in some occasional fishing.

Family was always first and foremost in Bud's mind and heart. He loved sharing the fruits of his labor with those he loved, especially around the holiday season – giving notes such as “your gift this year consists of one dressed hen” to family members at Christmas. Another tradition that Bud held dear was hosting the Arthur family bonfire and cookout every fall. And through his collection of writings, poems, and pictures, Bud was able to share his wisdom, compassion, and strong faith with those he loved most in this world.

Bud is survived by his brother, Carl Arthur (Lillian) of Costa Rica; and 18 nieces and nephews, along with their spouses and children.

He was preceded in death by his parents; brother, Paul Arthur; five sisters (and brothers-in-law), Patty Elger and husband Phil Burton, Joan A. Softball success is in Carmel grad's blood

Former Greyhound champ Kelsi Clark now a winning coach & mother

By RICHIE HALL

sports@readthereporter.com

Kelsi Clark has pretty much done it all when it comes to playing softball.

She was a member of Carmel High School's state championship team back in 2011, when she was Kelsi Jones. Clark then went on to play collegiately at the University of Louisville, and even won a professional championship as part of the Chicago Bandits in 2015.

Now, Kelsi is known as Coach Clark, supervising the Harrison Raiders. This is her third year of coaching at William Henry Harrison High School in West Lafayette and it's been the most successful yet, as Harrison made its way to the Class 4A state championship game, which the Raiders played on June 11 at Purdue University.

Taking a team to state as a young coach is impressive in itself, but it was even more remarkable because Clark also became a mother right at the beginning of the season. Her son Cooper was born on March 19.

"Towards the end of my pregnancy, we knew we were going to be cutting it close to the beginning of the season," said Clark. But the timing of Cooper's birth worked out perfectly, as it took place during Harrison's Spring Break.

Clark was able to get back to coaching not long after the birth.

"The coaching part seemed easy," said Clark. "They gave me so much grace and they were patient and understanding, and as a first-time mom, I had no idea what to expect. To even think that I could have a baby and coach their first game 13 days later was probably crazy on my part. But I couldn't imagine taking the season off. I didn't want to do that to the girls. I took maternity leave from my real job, but I wasn't taking maternity leave from coaching."

Fortunately, Clark had a very supportive network of family, players, team parents, and an accommodating administration with her at all times.

"I don't know how many moms offered to hold him or walk him around in the stroller," said Clark. "I never felt a lack of love and support in our little Harrison softball community."

And Cooper found himself with a new extended family as well. Clark said the Harrison players called him "their little mascot." He was in the dugout during practice. While it was definitely a crazy season, Clark said she couldn't imagine going through the season without her newborn.

"All my girls love him, and I can't wait for him to grow up in that team atmosphere and just year in and year out have a bunch of big sisters to love on him," said Clark. "I'm just really proud to have been able to do that."

Harrison softball coach Kelsi Clark will never forget the Raiders' 2022 season. Clark became a mother right at the beginning of the season, then coached Harrison to a 28-2 record, including a trip to the Class 4A state championship game.

MAGICAL RUN

Having Cooper as their mascot made the Raiders' season all the more special. Harrison cruised to a 28-2 season in 2022 on its way to the 4A title game. The Raiders beat Avon 7-4 in their season-opener, then fell to Cathedral 5-2 in their second game. Harrison would not lose again until the state championship, racking up 27 consecutive victories.

"It was really exciting, just because we made it further than I think even maybe some of our players expected coming into this season," said Clark. "Obviously, we had a magical run there where we won 27 games in a row."

The coach said during the season, the Raiders were on cloud nine and didn't look at their success as a big, long win streak, but instead just took everything one game at a time and one week at a time. When the post-season started, Clark told her players to throw records out the window, "because anybody can beat anybody."

"We can't let up at any point," said Clark. "They really embraced it."

Harrison won the McCutcheon sectional, claiming its fourth straight title by beating Kokomo 5-1 in the semi-finals and Logansport 8-0 in the championship. That sent the Raiders down to Noblesville for the regional game, where Harrison beat the Millers 5-2 to win its first regional since 2013. Clark said her team "just found ways to win."

"It was a lot of fun watching it all happen, said Clark. "You can get caught up in the day-to-day coaching and not taking it all in. Going into the state championship game, I really wanted to take it in for myself. As a player, I have the memories from our state championship run and I really wanted to have those memories as a coach as well."

Clark was a senior when Carmel won its 4A state title in 2011, back when the game was at Ben Davis. The Greyhounds beat Avon 1-0 in eight innings. Clark said she used her playing experience "a lot as a coach," noting that for many of her players, the state championship game that Harrison played in is the biggest game they'll ever play in. She said that "quieting the outside noise and soaking in the experience" was something that she preached to her girls leading up to the big game.

"It's been 11 years and I have memories of that game and what came after, but I really wish I would've soaked in that week a little more, because it went so fast," said Clark. "Our fans, our community, our parents really made it special for the girls. They did something special for them every day. That helped them to soak it all in and really make memories that last a lifetime."

Harrison played Roncalli in the 4A state championship game. The Royals were going for a second consecutive state title and an unbeaten season, and they got it, overwhelming the Raiders 16-0.

Roncalli pitcher Keagan Rothrock has been getting most of the attention for the Royals and continued to prove why she is bound for the University of Florida, striking out 15 while giving up just two hits in the championship game.

"Keagan is tremendous pitcher," said Clark. "Having played with some of the best pitchers in the world, it takes a lot to really impress me when it comes to pitching, especially from a high school junior. She spun the ball really well. She didn't have to overpower us. She did enough to move the ball through the zone, we didn't really have a shot."

But it was Roncalli's offense that got everyone's attention, as the Royals set new state championship records in the three main offensive categories. Roncalli's 16 runs were a record, and all 16 were RBIs, another record. The Royals got a record 18 hits as well.

"They came out and hit the ball better than any team I saw this season," said Clark. "When they were hitting the ball, they definitely weren't missing. Every ball was hit hard. And that's a statement to them as a hitting team."

Even with the defeat to Roncalli, it was still an amazing year for Harrison. Clark was named as the coach of the Raiders for the 2020 season, but that year was canceled due to COVID. So, over the past two seasons, Clark has a 49-10 record as the Raiders' coach.

Clark wants to continue to develop high standards for the Harrison team. The Raiders have won 20 sectional titles overall, but only seven regional titles.

"To be able to move on to regionals and to be able to compete in regionals are totally different things," said Clark. "We've won our sectional four consecutive seasons, four sectional championships, but not much to show for it. I was really just laying the groundwork for the kind of program that I wanted to have, and that was one that expected championships."

Clark said she doesn't think a program can be successful if it is setting the bar at a sectional championship being enough. "We do things a little bit differently," she said, and that seems to be carrying over to her players.

"For the first time, they were going through practice with a championship mentality," said Clark. "We weren't accepting mediocrity. We were doing things the right way."

That includes everything Clark has learned throughout her career—as a high school, college and pro player. "It would be silly to not use that experience," she said.

And that experience is making things fun and exciting for Harrison, both for players and some veteran coaches alike, including one of Clark's volunteer assistant coaches, 78-year-old Frank Knox — "this season was the best time of his life," said Clark.
