County officials debating $63M fairgrounds project

Every plot has a story

By DANIELLE ZULKOSKY
WISH-TV | wishtv.com

The Hamilton County Commissioners are proposing a fairgrounds improvement project costing upwards of $63 million.

The plan came because Phase 2 of Noblesville's Pleasant Street Expansion Project will demolish the O.V. Winks Building and other county municipal buildings.

"The proposed project to fully build it out was approximately $63 million," Commissioner Mark Heirbrandt said. "Obviously, that is a lot of money and we wouldn't be able to afford to do all of that at once."

This fairgrounds improvement plan is broken into three phases. The first is the most costly and includes infrastructure updates to improve storm-water drainage, demolition of buildings bordering Pleasant Street, and the start of improving various buildings.

"The fairgrounds are used by numerous county offices for training, such as the sheriff's office, emergency management, the health department," Heirbrandt said.

Looking west, this aerial rendering shows a plan proposal for what the 4-H Fairgrounds would look like following a $63 million improvement project. Pleasant Street is at right.

The first phase of the project will relocate the maintenance and storage barn, improve the Llama Barn, and build a new Bicentennial Pavilion. The plan also calls for expanding and improving the Exhibition Center and creating a new show arena.

Heirbrandt said the plan will "change some of the uses to make it more educational for people in our community as well as rental space and looking at a potential return on investments whether it's wedding or other family events."

The Hamilton County Council manages the county's finances. Councilor Ken Alexander says he is concerned about funding all three phases of the plan. Alexander says, as it currently stands, the first phase of the project would cost approximately $26.5 million. Phase 2 would come in at $15.5 million and, Phase 3, $22 million.

"We've dedicated $15 million and provided a financial plan to fill a gap," Alexander said. "If they're not going to choose that plan, it's incumbent upon the fairgrounds and that leadership to fill that gap."

Have you ever walked through a cemetery and thought about the stories that lie in the plots of the gravesites?

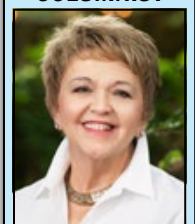

My childhood – and now growing older together friend – Cathy Swank Fuqua, gave me this idea for a column.

I celebrated my 67th birthday on September 3. Have I told you that I love birthdays? I celebrate all month long. Just ask my husband.

A few years after my dad passed, my mother told me she wanted to buy me a "special" birthday present. I was excited to hear what she had in mind. It was a cemetery plot at Crownland Cemetery. I could not quit laughing. Now that is SPECIAL!

She wanted to know where I would be when I died. I told her I'd be with her in heaven. She laughed and said, "Janet, I mean your earthly body." We both laughed. I now own my house, my mom's house and a cemetery plot. All are within six blocks of each other in old Noblesville. I'd say prime real estate. My parents paid $6,500 for their house in 1951. I paid $17,500 for my house in 1975. Mom paid $600 for my burial plot. It would be a safe bet to say they have all appreciated, even my cemetery plot.

Hamilton County welcomes new court magistrate Valorie Hahn

Valorie Hahn was recently sworn in as the newest court magistrate for Hamilton County. Magistrates work with the local circuit and superior courts to handle minor offenses or hold preliminary hearings for more serious crimes. Why did HP hold my customer's printer hostage?

Need tech advice? Look no further than Hamilton County's own Noble Geeks.

My name is Nik Roberts, and I am the owner of Noble Geeks located in Downtown Noblesville. I have over 15 years of experience in the tech field.

This week, I am going to share a recent experience with a customer's HP printer issue.

I got a call that a customer's printer would not work. All they ever did was replace the ink. Other than that, they had no idea about how to diagnose it.

When I arrived at the customer's house, the printer was confirmed to be not working. I begin to perform basic troubleshooting.

The computer says it's printing, and the printer is silent. I eventually perform a factory reset, and behold I now get an error! E9, which means the internal printer software was corrupt after a quick lookup.

HAMILTON COUNTY FAIRGROUNDS & EVENT CENTER MASTER PLAN - PHASE 1

Several new buildings would be built as part of the $63 million 4-H Fairgrounds Master Plan.

Alexander says the council asked the commissioners to come up with a plan to finance the rest of the project. He suggests using a bond anticipation note to fund moving the fairgrounds to a new location, then using the tax dollars from private development to finance it.

The fairgrounds are tax-exempt because they are county-owned, so by allowing them to be privately developed and taxed through tax-increment financing, also called a TIF bond, the county could use that money to build a fairground in a new location.

“My opinion was not to move the fairgrounds but to find a financial plan that got the fairgrounds built,” Alexander said. “We have a unique opportunity with it being on tax-free land to maybe turn it into a ‘TIF-able’ area.”

Heirbrandt says it is important the fairgrounds remain in a central part of the county.

“It was overwhelmingly supported to keep the fairgrounds in that location,” Heirbrandt said. “One of my jobs is to listen to the people, especially the people that utilize that facility.”

I was born and raised right here in Noblesville. I grew up in a home without domestic violence or assault - it wasn't something I saw, or even heard about. But when I was introduced to Prevail of Central Indiana, I was shocked by the number of individuals who are affected by domestic violence. In 2018 alone, Prevail helped more than 4,000 clients in Hamilton County (nearly 80 percent of clients are women and children). Domestic violence and abuse are hard topics to discuss, so you don't often hear about them. But at Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville, we're breaking the taboo and raising awareness for Prevail, an organization that helps families in Hamilton County.

Look closely at open enrollment choices

Once again, it's the season for football games and back-to-school activities. And if you work for a medium-size or large employer, it will soon be open enrollment season – the time of year when you can review your employee benefits and make changes as needed. What areas should you focus on?

Actually, it's a good idea to pay close attention to all your benefits. Some of the offerings may have changed from last year – and you might have experienced changes in your own life, too, which might lead you to look for something different from your existing benefits package.

You may want to start with your health insurance.

If you're satisfied with your coverage, and it's essentially the same as it's been, you may well want to stick with what you have. However, many employers are increasingly offering high-deductible health plans, which, as the name suggests, could entail more out-of-pocket costs for you. But high-deductible plans may also offer something of benefit: the ability to contribute to a health savings account (HSA). Your HSA contributions are made with pre-tax dollars, so they can reduce your taxable income for the year. Also, your earnings grow tax-free, and your withdrawals are tax-free, provided the money is used for qualified medical expenses. (Withdrawals taken before age 65 that aren't used for qualified medical expenses are taxable and subject to a 20 percent penalty; once you reach 65, the penalty no longer applies, although withdrawals are still taxable as income if not used for a qualified expense.) Your next benefit to consider is life insurance. Your employer may offer a group life insurance plan, but you'll want to evaluate whether it's sufficient for your needs, especially if you've experienced changes in your personal situation over the past year, such as getting married or adding a new child. There's no magic formula for how much life insurance you need – you'll need to consider a variety of factors, such as your income, family size, mortgage and so on – but it may be necessary to supplement your employer's coverage with a private policy. Your employer may also offer disability insurance as a benefit. Some employers' disability policies are fairly limited, covering only short periods of time, so you may want to consider a private policy. * * * Beyond the various insurance policies your employer may offer, you'll also want to closely look at your 401(k) or similar retirement plan. Typically, you can make changes to your 401(k) throughout the year, but it's important to make sure your investment selections and contribution amounts are still aligned with your risk tolerance and goals. Also, are you contributing enough to earn your employer's match if one is offered? And if you've already receiving the match, can you still afford to put in more to your plan if such a move makes sense for you? Your employee benefits package can be a valuable part of your overall financial strategy. So, as open enrollment season proceeds, take a close look at what you already have, what's being offered, and what changes you need to make. It will be time well spent.

PLOT

Now I'm thinking I need to pick out my headstone. I want my final decisions made now, so my family will not have to make any difficult decisions later. Honestly, I don't mind thinking about death, but don't worry, I plan to dance at my grandson, Thomas' wedding reception. He was born on August 16. That would make me in my early nineties then. I hope I can still dance.

Crownland. The plot where I will "live" (doesn't that sound better than "be buried"?) is in a row behind and two plots south of my parents. The lane to get there is lined with the plots of my friends and the parents of my friends. I like to say that my plot will be in the same "neighborhood" as my friends.

What will people remember about me? Did I love well? Did my words encourage? Did my testimony tell of my faith? Was I kind to those who hurt me? Did I love enough so that I will be missed by those I leave behind? Will people smile when they remember me? People grieve because the person is no longer in their life, and they miss the love that was there. The truth is that the love will always be there. It will just look different. The love will go on.

I miss my mom and my dad, but wonderful reminders are left of their love for me ... one just is very special ... my cemetery plot. I still have to laugh. Yes, my stories have a plot, and ... my plot has a story. Stay tuned ... I have more memories to make and more stories to tell.

PRINTER

At this point, I called to get HP on the phone. I am expecting this thing to be a paperweight and I was ready to negotiate getting an exchange for a new device. HP answers, I explain everything I have done and what the error code is. HP's rep says "Hmmm, I think this might be an issue with the ink." I am personally shocked, but I go along with it as he transfers me to HP Instant Ink. New rep, problem explained again. This rep goes on to inform me that because the customer had a new credit card due to an expiration her HP Instant Ink subscription has been suspended. I was already thinking I was going to get a runaround. I say, "OK, we can fix that but let's get this printer fixed first. Why have ink for a printer that does not work?" I am then informed that because her subscription for ink had been suspended, she cannot use her printer in the meantime. HP essentially has taken this very kind customer's

Letter to the Editor

Briggs: epidemic of violence stems from failed leadership

Dear Editor:

Westfield Mayor Cook offered a statement and important question from his position as mayor after an incident from a Westfield resident who threatened two Westfield workers; one who was knocked down with a gun pointed at him that misfired twice – an act of God. Cook asked, “Are we ignoring mental health issues, or are the consequences of criminal actions no longer a sufficient deterrent?”

We do not know what was going on in the life of the perpetrator whose actions were shocking, and we may never know, but Mayor Cook asked for answers and quickly. I hope we get an answer. The police and media do not give American citizens enough information as to WHY some people resort to violence. If we had that information, there would be preemptive solutions in stopping a lot of crimes from happening.

After the COVID lockdowns and mandated isolation of citizens from families, friends, workers and classmates, mandated mask wearing and six-foot spacing, some people just exploded when we opened up society. One example is reckless driving, high speeds, and the running of stoplights. And another model is non-punishment of law breakers, thus no consequences of criminal actions.

The most evident examples of non-punishment of law breakers are the destruction of our cities in 2020 by Antifa and Black Lives Matter organizations. In Indianapolis, Prosecutor Mears supposedly arrested a few peaceful protesters, but we never were told who these destroyers are and if they paid any punitive price. He did arrest the older female driver who was attacked by the protesters who were damaging her car and she had to protect herself trying to get away and some protesters were hit by her as she sped away.

The most important ongoing situation of provocateurs who continued assaulting, lying, colluding, and disrupting the moral integrity of our country because President Trump won the 2016 election is the Pelosi gang and other Congressional and agent evildoers on Capitol Hill in Washington, D.C. A lot of them have been exposed, but none of them have been punished. They do what they want and get away with it.

Americans are an angry bunch who have been deceived by the lies of the COVID controls and the forcing of the vaccines (Fauci) and the D.C. elites who constantly make up lies about the American people – the true patriots who love our country and respect our flag.

Do you believe any of my examples may be why Americans are resorting to violence? If the powers that be are getting away with it, why cannot the average citizen also get away with breaking the law with no consequences?

Candidates with over 100 years in Carmel file for school board

Brown, Brake & Sharp teaming up to help Carmel Clay Schools

Submitted

Carmel residents with a combined 104 years living in Carmel – Jenny Brake, Dr. Adam Sharp, and Greg Brown – filed to run for Carmel Clay School Board this past month.

There are three school board districts represented on the ballot. Carmel voters will vote for a total of three candidates, one candidate from each district. This is a non-partisan position, so the candidate names will appear near the end of the ballot without a party designation.

Jenny Brake, running for District 1, a wife, mother, grandmother, and Carmel High School graduate, has lived in Carmel for 59 years and married her high-school sweetheart, Ron, also a Carmel graduate. Both of their children attended and graduated from Carmel schools. Her expertise is in business administration as well as

When asked why she is running, Brake said, “I’m ready to go to work to help my community and its school system to be the best that they can be for our families, our teachers, and our children, including my own grandson.”

Joined on the slate running for District 2 is Dr. Adam Sharp. He has spent over 17 years in the Carmel Community as an ER physician. He and his wife, Biana, have three daughters, one who graduated from Carmel High School, and the other two currently attending CCS schools. Having recently retired from clinical practice, he says he is excited to focus his time on helping to improve public education in Carmel.

“I believe that public schools should be focused first and foremost on preparing all of our children to participate in a job market that is increasingly more competitive and requires a deep understanding of technology,” Sharp said. “Not all children will choose to pursue education beyond high school, and I believe that it is our responsibility as a community to best prepare all of our kids for the challenges that they will encounter.”

Finally, Greg Brown is running for District 3. he and his wife, Kelly, moved to Carmel 28 years ago because of the then-excellent school system. Their son graduated from CCS and now works and lives in Carmel with his wife and young daughter. He has managed multi-million-dollar IT projects and has served in multiple leadership positions including as Scoutmaster in a Carmel Boy Scout troop.

Brown said he is running for school board after reviewing the CCS proficiency scores, which are below 70 percent as reported by the school’s administration.

“Carmel Clay Schools have been the premier district in Indiana for many years,” Brown said. “Some districts across our nation have shifted their focus from academic excellence to other programs, including Carmel. Families that have the resources are seeking alternative schools for their children. I want to ensure our schools offer the best core education for all our children, especially those who require additional attention to ensure they achieve their full potential. I want our young granddaughter to have the same great experience as our son!”

This trio of candidates came together around a common vision of restoring academic excellence in Carmel Clay Schools. Their focus will be on the policies necessary to achieve this critical academic goal.

Attorney General Rokita secures $15M settlement with Frontier Communications

The REPORTER

Indiana Attorney General Todd Rokita announced Friday a $15 million settlement with Frontier Communications that will ensure that Hoosiers receive the services for which they have paid. The settlement especially benefits residents living in rural communities.

Rokita

"Hoosiers shouldn't be forced to pay for high-speed internet in exchange for slow service," Rokita said. "Particularly with many individuals working remotely from their homes, consistent and reliable telecommunications are vital to Indiana's economy."

In May 2021, Rokita sued Frontier Communications alleging they violated the Indiana Deceptive Consumer Sales Act. The Federal Trade Commission and several other states also sued the company. Specifically, the lawsuit argued the company misrepresented internet speeds and reliability to consumers.

Although the court declined to hear Indiana's claims, Rokita pushed ahead with his work on behalf of Hoosiers – pressing Frontier to address his concerns about their services.

"Many Hoosiers living in rural areas have no other options but to access internet services through Frontier," Rokita said. "In the 21st century, residents of our rural communities should expect the same quality of service and same availability of technology as their peers in larger cities and towns."

As a result of Rokita's persistence, Frontier Communications entered into an Assurance of Voluntary Compliance agreeing to pay $15 million over a period of four years to improve internet infrastructure in Indiana.

The agreement also requires Frontier to review service speeds and provide options to consumers to reduce service plans (and costs) if their current plans promise higher speeds than those provided.

Frontier also must change their advertising efforts to accurately represent to Indiana consumers both the availability and reliability of their internet service.

Frontier will be given a period to correct various discrepancies between the advertised internet speed and the actual internet speeds provided to Hoosiers. Following this period, Frontier must credit billing charges to consumers who do not receive at least 90 percent of the maximum advertised speed (unless the consumer has been informed of such and elects not to subscribe to the lower speed tier). Frontier also must credit billing charges to customers if it fails to provide consumers at least 100 percent of the speed they were promised.

In addition, Frontier must provide training programs for their consumer service representatives, field technicians and sales agents that accurately and comprehensively cover the requirements of the agreement, the effect on the consumer's internet service, the rights of consumers to discontinue, etc. For four years following the agreement, Frontier must provide the Office of the Attorney General a semi-annual report detailing compliance with the agreement.

Hoosiers are encouraged to contact the Attorney General's office about any business practices they believe are unfair, abusive or deceptive. Consumers may file complaints by visiting indianaconsumer.com or calling 1-800-382-5516.

He worked for more than 40 years in metallurgical processes and project engineering in the U.S. and internationally.

Allen loved crossword puzzles, new library books, and travel. He was smart, curious, opinionated, and stubborn. He had a sly sense of humor and a bark of a laugh. He was a good provider. He loved baseball, especially Gil Hodges and the Dodgers of his childhood; the New York Giants; and the Nittany Lions. He was, in his own estimation, the handsomest of his brothers. We thank him for everything, and we will miss him.

In accordance with Allen's wishes, cremation has taken place. Friends are invited to attend a celebration of life from 3 to 6 p.m. on Sunday, September 11 at the Bridgewater Club, 3535 E. 161st St., Carmel.

In lieu of flowers, contributions may be made to local Meals on Wheels, where Allen volunteered wherever he lived.

Memories and condolences may be shared at randallroberts.com.

TODAY'S BIBLE READING

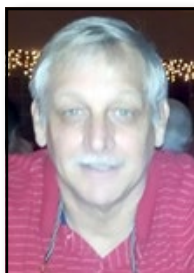

Since you call on a Father who judges each person's work impartially, live out your time as foreigners here in reverent fear. For you know that it was not with perishable things such as silver or gold that you were redeemed from the empty way of life handed down to you from your ancestors, but with the precious blood of Christ, a lamb without blemish or defect. He was chosen before the creation of the world, but was revealed in these last times for your sake. Through him you believe in God, who raised him from the dead and glorified him, and so your faith and hope are in God.

County cross country teams travel around state to compete Saturday

The REPORTER

The rainy weather on Saturday caused some problems in the cross country world, although some of the meets involving Hamilton County teams were able to run to completion.

Noblesville's girls team traveled to the Columbus North for what was to be a showdown between the Millers and the Bull Dogs, two teams considered to be among the best in the state. But the meet was abandoned after rain forced the competition to be halted.

Meanwhile, one big meet at a big venue was able to finish: The Hometown Savings Bank State Preview Meet at the LaVern Gibson Championship Course in Terre Haute. Fishers' boys team and both Guerin Catholic squads were at that meet, and each team had a good result.

The Tigers boys placed third as a team, scoring 69 points. Zionsville won the meet with 45 points, and Valparaiso edged out Fishers for runner-up with 68 points. The Tigers were led by sophomore Sam Quagliaroli, who placed fourth in a time of 16 minutes, 6.8 seconds.

Guerin Catholic totaled 243 points, good for sixth place. Jack Weber led the Golden Eagles by placing 12th.

In the girls varsity race, Guerin Catholic finished fifth with a team score of 140 points. The Golden Eagles had the individual winner, with Bridget Gallagher cruising to victory in 19:30.1.

Shaquille Leonard feeling the best he has in four years

By ANGELA MORYAN
WISH-TV | wishtv.com

Colts linebacker Shaquille Leonard, returned to practice for the first time Wednesday after three and a half months of being sidelined post-back surgery.

Thursday, the three-time Pro Bowler spoke to the media for the first time since being taken off the physically unable to perform list. There's still no timetable on when he could return to game action, but progress is being made.

"Each day is better and better. I'm happy with the process, happy with the progress and happy with how it's feeling right now," Leonard said.

Leonard has been dealing with pain all on his left side since he initially rolled his ankle week four against the Houston Texans of the 2018 season. Since then, he said he's had no reprieve – until now.

"It's been a minute since I've felt the way I'm feeling now," Leonard said. "It's a good feeling, but it's still a process. I'm not saying I'm all 100 percent ready to go right now. I'm still trying to figure all that stuff out, but I am feeling better. So, that's the main thing."

"You can feel his energy," head coach Frank Reich said about Leonard's return to practice. "This guy has been the ultimate pro. I've really been, not surprised but just thankful for his approach from Day One. He's never taken his foot off the gas, so that when we got to this point it gives us the best chance possible to get him back in as soon as we can."

Leonard has counted the days until he could get back out on the field. The waiting hasn't been easy.

"It was just frustrating. I was eager to get back out there and play," Leonard said. "Just seeing your guys go out there and perform every day and just wanted to be a part of it. Football is my happy place, football is my safe haven, football is something that I love to do. I love to compete. Just being down for three and a half months, it sucks, but it made me look at football in a different point of view. I was able to read offensive formations, talk to the linebackers, tell them what I see, pick up tendencies. See a lot of things that I wouldn't have been able to see if I was practicing. It was kind of different seeing it from a different angle."

The Colts open the season on the road in Houston September 11, hoping to break an 8-year streak of losing week one. Whether Leonard will be back in time for the opener is still to be determined.

The second half started the same as the first for Southeastern, by scoring two quick goals. Kelley put in HSE's third goal of the game, with Tatum Coleman assisting, then Blair Satterfield scored the fourth goal, with Hoener making the assist. After Mater Dei scored, Allysa Damson made a free kick for the Royals' fifth goal. Hoener was named Player of the Game for Southeastern for her three assists.

The Royals were to play Evansville Reitz on Saturday afternoon, but that game was canceled due to weather. Southeastern is 8-1 and hosts Fishers Wednesday in the Mudsock game.
