A call went out to the local community, and the answer was incredible! CertaPro Painters of Indianapolis asked for help painting Ernie Taylor's sculptures at his home, 10985 E. State Road 32 – just west of the Hamilton-Boone County line – and the outpouring of support brought 200 people to Taylor's home last Friday morning. The youngest person in the photo above is 2 years old. Ernie, who is as hard to spot as a "Where's Waldo" picture in this crowd (hint: look for the cowboy hat), is 94. The before and after photos will astound you. Read more about the journey to this day in the column to the right and see more photos on Page A6 and online at ReadTheReporter.com.

Community makes this writer proud

Last Friday found me humbled, impressed, and – gasp! – more than moderately happy with our little corner of the world. A total of 200 people showed up during business hours on a weekday to help an old man most of them had never met.

That man is Ernie Taylor, 94, of Zionsville. He lives west on State Road 32 past the Indianapolis Executive Airport just across the county line.

Can you hear me now, Noblesville?

Wearing masks highlights undiagnosed hearing loss

By STU CLAMPITT

Across the nation and right here in Hamilton County, Beltone is seeing a rise in patients who did not know they were struggling with hearing loss.

Many new Noblesville Beltone patients had thought they did not read lips or have hearing issues pre-COVID, but mandated masks illustrated that they may in fact have mild or moderate hearing loss and simply did not realize it because they had been compensating unconsciously.

The Reporter recently spoke to Beltone Hearing Instrument Specialist Kara Horniacek about what she is seeing in patients in Noblesville and beyond.

"It's definitely something we are seeing a lot of," Horniacek said. "We are seeing a lot more people of a younger generation the company has been a major arts supporter throughout Indiana, most notably with the Jiffy Lube Mural Project.

Fishers Arts Council (FAC) is currently welcoming the public into its third annual Juried Exhibit of Hamilton County Artists, sponsored by Jiffy Lube of Indiana. This exhibit is free and open to the public at the Collaboration Hub Gallery, 11810 Technology Drive, Fishers.

"While this is a juried show and our judge decides the awards, the community gets a say as well," FAC Executive Director Les Reinhardt said.

The Carmel Clay Republican Club will hold an informal mixer gathering on Thursday, Sept. 15, open to all at the Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW), 12863 Old Meridian St., Carmel.

County and township candidates in the upcoming November election are invited to the free get-together from 6 to 9 p.m. No formal program is planned, according to club president Barry Simich.

Not only Republicans will be welcome, but anyone interested in the local political scene, Simich stressed. The VFW bar will be open for those wishing food or beverages.

Find fall spirit at Harvest of Hope Festival next month

The REPORTER

The fourth annual Harvest of Hope Festival hosted by Circle of Hope Wesleyan Church-Noblesville Campus, 396 Park St., will take place from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 8.

The festival will highlight more than 40 vendors – including artisans, crafters, boutiques, and direct sales – a barrel train, family fall portraits for $5, pumpkins, and local favorite Smokey Blue BBQ. The festival spans several acres with convenient parking onsite and is a rain or shine event. There are no admission fees, and many activities are free for families to enjoy.

The Harvest of Hope Festival is currently the largest event of the year that Circle of Hope puts on, and it takes almost a full year of planning to pull off. Local businesses within the community help support the members and leadership team in marketing and supplies leading up to and during the festival. Each year, the festival continues to expand in size and planned activities.

A barrel train is just one of the fun family-themed activities your kids can enjoy at the Harvest of Hope Festival hosted by Circle of Hope Wesleyan Church in Noblesville.

the two local fundraisers the church is focusing on for the year. This year, the fundraisers include projects to send all 10 children on a Summer Church camp trip in 2023, and replacing the carpeted flooring throughout the church.

During the summer of 2017 at the monthly Leadership Meeting, the leaders of the church realized the annual Trunk N' Treat hosted by the church needed replaced with something better equipped to engage all families interested in local fall fun.

"I still remember sitting at the meeting listening to all the ideas we were bouncing off each other, and it was finally my turn to pitch an idea," Clara Furst said. "Pastor Carol (lead Senior Pastor) turned to me and said, 'Well, Clara, let's hear it. What do you think we can do?' I took a big pause and said, 'We need to do the biggest festival with a dance floor that Noblesville has ever seen.' Let's just say that was the quietest I had heard the leadership team be in a while! We decided to forego the dance floor, but after some nudging, we – the leadership team – all came into agreement that the festival made the most sense and was an exciting new endeavor!"

Hamilton County Bicentennial seeking volunteer hosts for 2023 traveling exhibit

The REPORTER

The Hamilton County Bicentennial Commission, the governing body of the Bicentennial Celebration, is seeking exhibit hosts for its upcoming traveling exhibit in 2023. Becoming a host is free and allows local businesses and organizations to connect to Hamilton County's 200th anniversary.

Businesses, nonprofits, schools, libraries, retirement communities, and any organization with an indoor space capable of housing the exhibit for one week are eligible to host.

Funded by the Hamilton County Community Foundation, the traveling exhibit will include two 8-by-8-foot, one-sided, free-standing panels with educational and historical information about Hamilton County's history. A team of local historians will produce the exhibit content, and a local graphic designer will design it.

The exhibit will encompass all five themes of the 2023 Bicentennial: Art, Diversity/Inclusion, Education, Historic Preservation, and Parks/Environment. The historical content based on these themes will educate the public about history topics that even long-time citizens might not be aware of.

The exhibit will have an opening reception in February 2023 (date to be determined) and will run from March through the end of October. Each host will receive the exhibit for one week, Saturday to Saturday; pickup and drop-off are to be arranged with the host.

Potential hosts are encouraged to view and sign up online at bit.ly/3dAvf4i for an exhibition date. Exhibition dates are awarded on a first-come, first-served basis. The deadline for sign-up is Oct. 1.

The Bicentennial aims to create valuable, context-driven conversations about Hamilton County history through this exhibit. The support provided by the Hamilton County Community Foundation, as well as lead sponsor Duke Energy, allows the Bicentennial to bring this project to the public.

Westfield Library Foundation to hold book shelving ceremony

Winners of children's book writing contest to be recognized

The REPORTER

The Westfield Library Foundation will hold a book shelving ceremony at 11 a.m. on Saturday, Sept. 17 at the Westfield Washington Public Library, 333 W. Hoover St. The ceremony will celebrate three Westfield residents-turned-authors.

Downey

"Back in April we partnered with Community First Bank of Indiana to host a children's book writing contest in celebration of the library's 120th birthday," explained Foundation Executive Director Erin Downey. "Three winners were chosen, and their books have since been published. We're now inviting those authors back to the library to help us place their books on the shelves."

Anna Dilley, 12, won the Youth Category. Her book, Rocky Goes to the Library, is about a puppy learning to read. An avid reader herself, Dilley says she enjoys writing fiction and fantasy stories.

"I screamed and jumped up and down when I found out I won," Dilley said. "I can't believe I'm a published author and people will be able to check out my book." She put her $100 prize in her savings account.

Margo Greyvenstein, 16, won the Teen Category. Her book, An Adventure to Dream For, tells the tale of a young boy who loses himself in a library book during a storm.

"I was thrilled to win because it's the first time I've ever entered a writing contest," Greyvenstein said. She said she plans to put her $250 prize toward the purchase of a baby grand piano.

Amy Adams won the Adult Category. Her book, A Book for My Birthday, is written from the perspective of the library and all the books it has received as "gifts" throughout its lifetime. A former journalist, Adams has even ghost-written a number of books, but this is the first time she'll be credited as the author of a book.

"I've always dreamed of writing a children's book and I absolutely love history," Adams said. "So, when I read about this contest, I knew it was time to finally put pen to paper." Adams won a $250 prize.

Heights' own Doug Ozolins appointed to serve on ISBA legislative committee

The REPORTER

Doug Ozolins, Hamilton Heights school board member, has been appointed to the Legislative Committee of the Indiana School Boards Association (ISBA) to help direct the development of the Association's advocacy agenda for 2023.

"Serving on the Indiana School Board Association Legislative Committee (ISBA) has been a huge honor," Ozolins said as he readies for his fifth year on the committee. "As a member of the Heights community, it has been an added privilege to work on this committee during Indiana State Representative Tony Cook's time at the Statehouse. I am currently one of the longest serving members of the committee, which gives Heights a strong voice in the legislative process."

The committee members held a day-long meeting on July 15 at the ISBA main offices in Indianapolis to identify and discuss the annual Legislative Priorities and Foundational Statements.

Topics considered by the committee included student learning progress, school funding and inflation, school safety and security, teacher retention, school resource officer training, bus driver shortages, and student mental and behavioral health services.

Some of the topics that will be presented to Indiana state legislators from this year's activity are as follows:

State Budget & Tuition Support – Increase Teacher Pay & Retention

An annual increase in Tuition Support at a percentage matching or surpassing the rate of inflation. The Indiana General Assembly is asked to continue its recent significant effort (during the 2019-2021 and 2021-2023 biennia) to boost state tuition support to help fund increases in teacher compensation and classroom operational expenses.

Indiana Secured Schools Safety Grant – School Safety

ISBA supports a significant appropriation increase from $19 million to $30 million annually for this grant program. This increase will offset funding shortfalls of unfunded requests in the 2022 grant award cycle. Ensuring safe, secure, and supportive classroom learning environments have escalated in urgency and priority given the rash of tragic school shootings across the nation.

Stop Arm Violation Fine & Penalty Enforcement – Bus Safety

Enhanced efforts are needed to enforce school bus stop arm violation penalties and fines to better protect students in school bus zones. Legislation introduced in the 2021 and 2022 sessions proposed that a registered owner of a motor vehicle commits an infraction if the owner's vehicle is used to violate the school bus stop arm law. Passage of this legislation would lessen the burden of proof to identify the driver of the vehicle.

The final recommendations will be presented to the ISBA Delegate Assembly for formal approval at the annual ISBA-IAPSS Fall Conference, which is scheduled for Oct. 3 and 4 at the Indiana Convention Center.

ISBA's Legislative Committee is comprised of two school board members from each of ISBA's 10 geographic regions. "There will be much at stake for Hoosier children in the 2023 budget session," ISBA Executive Director Terry Spradlin said. "We all need to be ready to be strong champions for K-12 public education. The school board members on our Legislative Committee play a vital role in helping shape sound education policy. We thank them for bringing forward so many excellent ideas for change, and we appreciate their dedicated public service."

About ISBA
The Indiana School Boards Association is proud to support excellence in local school board governance through policy resources, legal services, advocacy, and professional development and training. For more information, visit isba-ind.org.

Four Hamilton County food support programs receive $7,500 from Duke Energy Foundation for hunger relief

The REPORTER

The Duke Energy Foundation has awarded nearly $100,000 in grants to local food pantries and community organizations across Indiana to help put food on the table for Hoosier families in need. The grants will support the purchase of canned goods, fresh produce and essential supplies to address food insecurity across the company's Indiana service territory.

Locally, the following four Hamilton County organizations were awarded a total of $7,500 in grants:

- Fishers Youth Assistance Program (Hamilton County) – $2,000
- Hamilton Heights Youth Assistance Program (Hamilton County) – $1,500
- Open Doors of Westfield (Hamilton County) – $1,000
- Riverview Health's Indiana Mothers' Milk Bank (Hamilton County) – $3,000

"Food is the most basic of needs, and there are organizations throughout the state that provide a lifeline to Hoosiers who may not know where their next meal will come from," Duke Energy Indiana President Stan Pinegar said. "They fill a vital role in the communities we serve, and we're committed to supporting their work to help increase food access for those in need."

COMMUNITY

Ernie, who still won't let me call him Mr. Taylor, has lived at 10985 E. State Road 32, Zionsville, since 1962.

This is where I should say Ernie is a ... (insert one or two words to sum him up). But I can't do him the disservice of cramming his life into just a couple descriptive nouns.

Ernie is a veteran who served his country at the age of 17 when he went to fight in Italy during World War II.

Ernie is a man who says his simple, quiet life is a good one.

Ernie lived through the Great Depression in the early 20th century and counts every big thing he thinks about buying in cheeseburgers. In early July he told me, "Everybody tells me I need a new car, or I need a new truck. I think about how many cheeseburgers that would buy you. I'd rather have the cheeseburgers!"

Ernie has a dry sense of humor and a repertoire of jokes, many of which cannot be printed. OK, I can give you one of the clean ones. Friday morning, Ernie told a crowd of people he and his wife were married by a justice of the peace. "After that," he said, "there was no justice AND no peace."

Ernie is also an artist. His yard is filled with a lifetime of metal sculptures ranging in size from a few inches to T-Rex sized. And that art is part of why 200 people showed up at his house Friday morning.

On July 5 of this year, I stopped by his house to talk about his amazing art. You can read that story at tinyurl.com/ErnieNoSale if you missed it two months ago.

This is where the snowball effect begins.

After leaving his house, I went to lunch with Lisa Brandenburg, a New York City transplant into the Westfield community who started a social media group called Women Building Friendships In Westfield. It is a group that exists to do exactly what it says in the name.

I told Lisa about Ernie and how he simply doesn't have the energy to keep up with the maintenance on all his art.

Lisa went home and told her group about Ernie. She saw an immediate outpouring of offers to help.

One of those members was Rachel Johnson, the Chief Marketing Officer at CertaPro Painters of Indianapolis.

Rachel spoke to CertaPro President JJ Darr about Ernie, his art, and the need to help.

JJ jumped into action. He arranged for many of his own professional painters to take Ernie's art on as a community service project. He also reached out to friends at Sherwin Williams, and they offered to donate as much paint as needed.

Once the paint was ready, the call went out to the community and 100 families signed up to come paint.

I started this saying I was humbled, impressed, and happy with our corner of the world.

Humbled because all The Little Newspaper That Could did was write a short article about someone who needed a little help.

Impressed because 200 people showed up for a single purpose and no one cared about anything but getting the job done. There was no talk of politics, cultural differences, ego, or anything other than "Let's all help Ernie."

Happy with our corner of the world because this is the kind of organic community project growth that makes one think, "Today was a good day."

People walked away proud of the thing they did, smiling at having painted some repurposed metal in an old man's yard.

They will tell that story to their friends and neighbors and families. The story of Friday at Ernie's house will grow organically, and more people will stop by to see him, probably as unannounced as I was on July 5. And he will welcome them like old friends because that's why he and his late wife Dot did this in the first place: to make a place people could come explore and enjoy.

Now go on. Get out there. Enjoy it. You cannot see half of it from the road, so stop and spend some time wandering around.

Janus Developmental Services welcomes three Board members

The REPORTER

Janus has announced the addition of three new members to its Board of Directors. Thank you to everyone who has and is currently serving on the Board. These three newest members will bring their valuable backgrounds to the table.

Campbell

Dunn

Whitehead

Jamie Campbell
Campbell is a retired career deputy prosecutor, married to Joe Vaughn since December of 1986 and the mother of Ethan and Casey Vaughn.

Campbell and her family moved to Carmel from Miami, Fla., in 1995. Casey is 28 and lives in Philadelphia. Ethan is autistic, non-verbal and has always participated in Special Ed, including services and support. He has the "big waiver" and lives in a supported apartment with a roommate. When Ethan finished high school, his family looked at all options for him, with Janus being one. It was readily apparent that Janus was the place he loved and the place where he belonged.

Campbell says now that she is retired, she is honored to be able to try to give back some of what Janus has contributed to her family.

Jill Dunn
Metalsmithing is a second career for Jill Dunn and one that has been defined by her past experiences. She spent 42 years working with special needs children and adults who were intellectually delayed and seriously mentally ill at a not-for-profit where she served as the CEO. Her days were filled with problem solving where she relied on creative thinking in order to build and preserve the mission of the organization.

As her first career was winding down, Dunn found herself drawn to the arts. During undergraduate school, she studied studio art and psychology and then went on to graduate school in business and organizational management. She started her art studies in painting, but in later years enjoyed working with silver, brass and copper and shaping the metal into jewelry, adding stones, textures and patinas.

Dunn grew up in the Detroit, Mich. Area, and the influence of her heritage and culture exposed her to Holocaust survivors and WWII veterans. Many of the stories and challenges that were shared and experienced had a lifelong influence on the artist. Her work reflects textures of the visions of the past with the influence of the Expressionism and Impressionism periods of art.

Dunn's family also has a great impact on her as her four children and husband are great supporters and will occasionally provide valuable input. Daily influences of the news, her surroundings, the love of trees and plants and color all provide a palate of information.

Dunn is a graduate of Michigan State University with a BA and a MA. She is a member of the prestigious Indiana Artisan, and she is a two-time recipient of the Sagamore of the Wabash.

Dunn resides in Carmel with her husband and two energetic Wire Hair Fox Terriers.

Greg Whitehead
Whitehead is an Indiana native, born and raised in Elkhart. After college, he attended Ball State University in Muncie. He has lived the majority of his life in Westfield and is the Sales and Marketing Director for Young at Heart Pharmacy. He has been with Young at Heart Pharmacy for 11 years and in Long Term Care for over 20 years. Carmel Christkindlmarkt opens 2022 Christkind essay contest

The REPORTER

The 2022 Carmel Christkindlmarkt Christkind essay contest is officially open for the 2022 Market season.

This contest provides a unique opportunity for a female high school or college student to participate in the Carmel Christkindlmarkt as the iconic Christkind, and winners are also awarded scholarships.

This year's essay prompt invites applicants to explore the traditions of Christmas cuisine. The essay question and qualifications can be found at carmelchristkindlmarkt.com/christkind-contest. Applications are due by 11:55 p.m. on Oct. 11.

The Christkind is a well-known symbol of Christmas in German-speaking countries. As the tradition goes, the Christkind angel delivers Christmas presents and a Christmas tree to German children on Christmas Eve without being seen. At the Market, the Christkind greets guests, participates in photo opportunities with visitors, engages with the media and more.

The first-place winner gets to represent the Christkind on-site at the Market and receives a $1,000 scholarship. The second-place winner receives a $500 scholarship, and the third-place winner receives a $250 scholarship. Winners will be announced in October.

Visitors can meet the first-place winner starting on the Market's opening day, Nov. 19.

"The gallery has also gone live on Facebook, and everyone has really been blown away by the talent coming out of Hamilton County," Reinhardt said.

Guests can visit the gallery in person at 11810 Technology Drive from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, excluding holidays. You can also see the juried exhibit in the online gallery at FishersArtsCouncil.org/art-gallery-exhibit.

A juried exhibit is one in which artists pay a fee to enter, and a juror reviews their works digitally before deciding if they will be part of the exhibit. Once chosen, artists bring their art to the gallery where the juror reviews the art in person, and selects winners based on their skill and presentation.

The juror for 2022 is Terry Lacy, selected by FAC's Juried Exhibit Committee, chaired by Pat Grabill. Lacy received his BFA from the Herron School of Art and his MFA from Indiana University. After teaching graphic design at Purdue University, he and his wife Fran started Lacy Design in Carroll County. Lacy has exhibited widely and accepts commission work in handmade paper in addition to watercolor and oil.

This year was the largest turnout of artists and artwork submitted to the FAC exhibit. On the responsibility of jurying the show, Lacy said, "I found the 2022 Juried Exhibit of Hamilton County Artists show to be very diverse and of a high quality across the board. The range of subjects, the multiple painting techniques, and the surprising skill levels are very impressive. I liked several pieces very much and would readily hang several of them on my walls. It is reassuring to know so much good work is being produced in Hamilton County."

"We are honored to showcase the incredible talent of Hamilton County in our gallery - with Westfield, Carmel, Fishers, Noblesville, and even that little slice of Indianapolis inside the Hamilton County border represented - we hope to keep growing to include artists from all of our towns," Reinhardt. "This truly is a beautiful exhibit of Hamilton County Artists."

come through our doors. Masking during the pandemic made a lot of people realize not only how much they rely on lip reading as part of a coping mechanism, but the masks themselves also dampen the sound from a person's mouth. So it's really kind of twofold."

Now that we are getting back into life and the masks aren't as necessary and people are meeting in person more often than on the computer, some are noticing that there are challenges in a world where you don't have a volume control at your fingertips.

Horniacek said roughly 30 to 40 percent of people coming in are mentioning that they didn't know they had a hearing issue until either during the pandemic when the masks were on or now that they are meeting people in environments without volume control.

"Often it's people who really had a hard time with conversations when masking was a mandatory thing," Horniacek said. "If you were really struggling in social situations with the masks and you found yourself avoiding them entirely because it was more difficult than it was beneficial for you. That's one hallmark of it. Also, the people who really utilized the volume control on their Zoom meetings and now that they don't have access to that anymore are struggling in in-person settings."

Horniacek said she is not surprised that people who come in with moderate hearing loss did not notice until the pandemic, but the number of people with mild hearing loss who had been unknowingly compensating through lip reading and using volume controls during remote work does surprise her.

"It has really taken the pandemic and the masking for them to take notice of it," Horniacek said.

Hearing evaluations are free. Call (317) 770-9999 or go to tinyurl.com/NoblesvilleBeltone. You can also stop by the office at 247 Sheridan Road, Noblesville.

"Since the hearing assessments are free, it doesn't hurt to just get it checked out if you have just an inkling of a concern about it," Horniacek said. "Knowledge is power."

Royals kick past Tigers

Southeastern earns Mudsock title after overtime faceoff

By RICHIE HALL

sports@readthereporter.com

FISHERS – In order to make the big kick to win the big game, Hamilton Southeastern’s Carter Gutt zoned out.

The Royals were hosting Fishers in one of the more exciting Mudsock football games in recent memory last Friday, even for a series that has a recent history. The game had gone to overtime, and the Tigers were leading 27-21.

On third down and 1, Southeastern’s Azariah Wallace ran the ball into the end zone, tying the game. That brought up Gutt, and he kicked the extra point to send the Royals to a 28-27 victory. Southeastern thus defended its Mudsock trophy on its home field in front of a screaming crowd of over 8,000 people.

The score was tied at 21-21 at the end of regulation, so both teams got four downs from the 10-yard line to try to score. The Tigers went first, and scored on third and 1 when Khobie Martin ran in for the touchdown. A two-point try didn’t go, and with that, Southeastern stepped up to the 10-yard line.

The Royals took care of business, with Wallace pushing in to score to tie the game.

“I just play for teammates and play for God,” said Wallace, who also said he had “no doubt” that his team would come back after Fishers went up 14-0 in the first half.

After that, it was Gutt’s turn to step up, and he did just that.

“As soon as we blocked that extra point, my brain just turned off,” said Gutt. When it was time to kick the game winner, he went out there and did what he’s done “a million times.”

“It took me a couple minutes to realize what happened,” said Gutt. But he will be thinking about it for quite a while. “It’s a moment I’m going to remember for the rest of my life,” he said.

Fishers was in control early, using an eight-minute drive to open the game, and get from one end of the field to the other. Carson Dunn’s 16-yard run got the Tigers to the one-yard line, and Lucas Minns punched the ball in on the next play. Fishers scored again early in the second quarter. Martin blasted out of the crowd and ran 62 yards into the end zone. After a Jon Tangara kick, the Tigers led 14-0.

The Royals stormed back to tie the game by halftime, with Ty Bradle making a pair of huge touchdown passes. He made a long throw to John McCoy, who got into the end zone for a 45-yard touchdown with 4:54 left in the half. Bradle did it again with 18.9 seconds left, finding Silas Newton on a 42-yard score. Gutt kicked both extra points.

Fishers took the lead again midway through the third period, when Dunn took off on another 11-yard run to score. The score would stay the same until the fourth quarter, when HSE’s Eli Brantman took over. Brantman made several huge runs in the second half, including a 47-yard touchdown rush to get the Royals within 21-20. Gutt’s kick tied the game, and it would stay tied until overtime.

“We talked a lot about just managing the waves of the emotions of the game,” said Southeastern coach Michael Kelly. The coach said that instead of getting overexcited, the team needed to take “a deep breath and just focus on doing your job.”

The Royals beat Fishers in overtime 28-27 to win the Mudsock game last Friday night. (Below) Southeastern sophomore Azariah Wallace scored a touchdown for the Royals during the overtime period.

“When we go out, that’s what we say,” said Kelly. “Do your job. For us, that’s what we coach every day in practice. And the conditioning part of it is a huge part of what we do all year long. Our strength program. Steve Krzyminski does a phenomenal job in the weight room, just keeping on the intensity overall, the course of the season. Lots of guys take it easy during the season, we’re going to bust our tails during the season.”

The Royals’ Bradle totaled 175 yards through the air, while Brantman led the Southeastern rushing with 132 yards.

As for Fishers, Martin led the rushing with 152 yards, while Minns was 8-of-17 passing for 90 yards.

“I thought both teams played hard and battled,” said Tigers coach Curt Funk. “The difference in the game was, they just made more plays than we did. But it wasn’t a lack of effort on our part. A game like this, someone’s going to come out on top.”

The Royals are still unbeaten for the season at 4-0, including a 2-0 record in the Hoosier Crossroads Conference. Southeastern travels to Westfield next Friday.

Fishers dropped its first game of the season, falling to 3-1, 1-1 in the conference. The Tigers host Brownsburg Friday.

Huskies hit hard, manhandle Northwestern in second half

The REPORTER

Hamilton Heights was already playing well in the first half of its game at Northwestern last Friday night, leading 27-14.

But the Huskies found another gear in the second half, and went into overdrive, dominating the half and eventually taking care of the Tigers 55-20. It was the first Hoosier Conference East Division game of the season for Heights.

The Huskies got the lone score of the first quarter, when Owen VanHaaren made a short run for a touchdown. Trey Ehman also scored on a short run to begin the second period, after which Northwestern got on the board with a 39-yard rushing touchdown.

Heights scored back-to-back touchdowns within a minute of each other during the middle of the quarter. Jaylyn Pugh brought in a 61-yard pass play touchdown from Bodie Derrer, then Ehman punched the ball in from the one-yard line seconds later.

That helped carry the Huskies through to a 27-14 lead at the half.

"We played solid football in the first half," said Kirschner. "We had to clean up some fundamentals at halftime. There were several fundamental things that we needed to address and improved on."

"We challenged them to execute with greater effort and execute with better fundamentals," said Kirschner.

The Huskies rose to the challenge. They blasted out of the gate in the third quarter on both offense and defense - "it was punt, punt, punt, touchdown, touch-

Carmel Greyhounds hold Red Devils' feet to the fire

The REPORTER

A fast start propelled Carmel to a big home win last Friday.

The Greyhounds cruised past Pike 34-14. Carmel scored three touchdowns in the first quarter and never looked back, and shut out the Red Devils in the first half to lead 24-0.

Winston Berglund got the first Greyhounds score, taking a punt return 87 yards for a touchdown. Reece Bellin got the next touchdown, on a 45-yard pass from Jack Kazmierczak.

Carmel was scoring in all different ways, and continued that variety late in the first quarter when Nicholas Beidl ran eight yards into the end zone. Ben Sponsler made all three extra-point kicks, and he got three more points when he opened the second quarter with a 23-yard field goal.

Sponsler kicked a 42-yard field goal during the early part of the third period. In the fourth quarter, Berglund picked off a Pike pass, and picked up another touchdown, making a 15-yard return into the end zone. Sponsler followed that with his fourth extra-point kick of the night.

Kazmierczak finished the game 12-of-15 for 127 yards, with Bellin making nine of those receptions.

Carmel is 2-2 and plays Friday at Lawrence North.

Guerin drops conference opener

By JAMES SEAY

For The Reporter

NOBLESVILLE - The Class 4A No. 8 Brebeuf Jesuit Braves beat the Guerin Catholic Golden Eagles 28-7 as both teams kicked off Circle City Conference play last Friday at the Eagles Nest.

Early in the game each team played inspired defense which led to consecutive punts. Guerin worked to establish a rhythm early by leaning on the legs of junior Cooper Navarro and the arm of junior Ryan Zimmerman. After an extended drive Guerin was forced to punt. The Braves responded quickly by taking the next play all the way to the house for an 85-yard run.

"When you are playing a good football team, you just can't get away with the mistakes we made" Coach Dilley said after the loss.

The following drive for the Golden Eagles ended in an interception for Zimmerman. Brebeuf junior Javawn Brooks completed the acrobatic one-hand grab to nab the turnover. Not to be outdone, junior Nathan Synder intercepted Brebeuf two plays later. Guerin cashed the turnover in for a score on a touchdown pass from Zimmerman to Navarro to tie the score at seven.

On the next possession, the Golden Eagles had an opportunity when they recovered a muffed kick off, but stalled and pushed a field goal attempt wide left. Brebeuf went on a long drive only to be picked off again by Synder in the end zone. It was the second big turnover from Synder which help the Golden Eagles keep things close.

Late in the second quarter, disaster struck when starting quarterback Zimmerman was injured on a sack by the Braves.

"We had some adverse circumstances happen during the game - we all had to pick it up during the game and we did not do that," Dilley said. The coach was still waiting to know the extent of the injury for the quarterback. Sophomore Malcolm Houze was thrust into the role and unfortunately threw two pick-six interceptions that all but sealed the game for Brebeuf.

"We will learn what we can from this film, flush it and be ready to compete next week," the coach said after the game.

Navarro finished the game with 76 yards rushing.

Westfield finds ways to best Millers in a thriller, keeps Midland Rail trophy

By CRAIG ADKINS
For The Reporter

NOBLESVILLE – In the 63rd meeting all-time between the Hamilton County rivals of Westfield and Noblesville, the fans got their money’s worth at Beaver Stadium, to say the least.

It was a game that had many ups and downs, but it was the visiting Shamrocks who came out victorious in a game that came down to the final minute before Westfield claimed a narrow 34-33 win last Friday.

“It’s not what we want, but in the end, I think good teams find ways to win close games,” said Westfield head coach Jake Gilbert on his team’s one-point win at Noblesville.

The Shamrock offense made it look easy on its first series, marching 80 yards in eight plays. The drive was capped off by Cole Ballard tossing a screen to sophomore running back Kendall Garnett on a wheel route to the right for 15 yards and an early 7-0 lead.

“We have a whole new cast of players and we had a rash of guys out this week, so we had a bunch of guys that had to step up,” stated Gilbert on the numerous players thrust into more playing time, including Garnett, senior running back Ryan Creagor and sophomore tight end Mikeah Webster.

Noblesville came right back with an 11 play, 70-yard drive that would tie it at 7-7 when Logan Shoffner reached paydirt from 16 yards out.

The ‘Rocks came right back next and took just six plays to go 90 yards and was aided by two big gains from Creagor. The senior had a big 22-yard carry and finished off the possession taking it 29 yards up the visiting sideline for a score that made it 14-7.

“Some of these guys are sophomores. Gabe Aramboles, Webster, Garnett, all sophomores,” said Gilbert on Westfield’s youth that mixes so well with the upper-classmen.

Two plays later, Blake Widget busted off a 70-yard run that knotted the game again, now at 14-14.

Westfield drove again and then Noblesville’s defense came up big with three negative plays in a row where Ballard lost a total of 25 yards. After the Millers had the Shamrocks pinned deep in punt formation, a penalty for roughing the punter turned into an automatic first down.

Garnett found the end zone again for a one-yard touchdown, jumping Westfield up 21-14.

“I’m proud of our staff. I feel like our staff had guys prepared to step up and execute and we did for sure on offense,” said Gilbert, praising his coaching staff for preparing all of his players to be ready and they were.

The Millers came back and took just five plays to tie it up again. Landon Hughes found a wide open Aidan Brewer over the middle and the sophomore wideout took it 45-yards for the score to make it 21-21.

The ‘Rocks stormed back down the field to regain the lead that they wouldn’t give back to the Millers.

Gabe Aramboles caught a 13-yard TD in the front left corner of the end zone, pushing it to 28-21.

Next, the Millers put together another great drive, going 11 plays and 70 yards. Gage Gulley dove across the goal line from one-yard away, cutting it to 28-27. Noblesville got gutsy and went for two and the run attempt failed.

“I had to try to gobble up every point we could. It didn’t work out and that’s on me,” said Noblesville head coach Dave Sharpe on the call to go for two in the middle of the third quarter.

The Westfield football team reacts after making a stop at the goal line when Noblesville tried for a two-point conversion at the end of the Shamrocks-Millers game last Friday at Beaver Stadium. Westfield won 34-33.

Westfield then lengthened the lead to seven when Cole Ballard found an opening and marched 18 yards for the score. Brody Boehm’s point after try hit the upright, leaving it at 34-27.

The senior signal caller has gotten more comfortable each game as the season progresses and his confidence is off the charts.

“We have a lot of bumps and bruises on the offense, but I don’t think it matters who’s out there, because everybody’s always going to give 100 percent. If everybody does the right thing, nobody’s going to be able to stop us,” said senior Westfield quarterback Cole Ballard.

“We’ve proven that and we’ve only stopped ourselves, so I think that’s a testament to the coaches for putting us in the right spot at the right time,” continued Ballard, giving credit to the coaching staff for preparing them for the situations they faced against Noblesville.

Another thing that didn’t help the Millers’ case was turning the ball over when freshman quarterback Landon Hughes fumbled at the 45, giving Westfield great field position.

Then, with a prime opportunity to close the door on Noblesville with a score, it was the Miller defense that came up big.

Westfield had a fourth down and goal at the one and Austin Hastings and Zach Lee stuffed the ‘Rocks for a turnover on downs. Noblesville had to start at its own one-yard line in pursuit of tying or going for the win. They went 19 plays for 99 yards. Hughes sold the play action fake and threw again to Brewer, who was all alone in the end zone for a 13-yard strike with 51.8 seconds left in the game.

Once again, the Millers opted to go for two. Gulley ran hard up the middle, following his offensive line, but was stopped just short of the goal line, bringing the score to 34-33 Westfield.

“I felt like we had a better chance to get three yards and win the game,” stated Sharpe on his reasoning for going for two that would have given Noblesville the lead and possibly the win.

The outside kick was high and bounced a couple times and was recovered by the Shamrocks. They took a knee to run out the clock and held on for the 34-33 road win, keeping the Midland Rail trophy for the fourth year in a row. This is also Westfield’s six consecutive win in the series over Noblesville.

When it came down to it, Jake Gilbert couldn’t say enough about his senior quarterback. They way that Ballard orchestrates the offense will only get better, as it has from game-to-game in this young season.

“His stability and consistency in the eye of new players in some of the injuries we’ve had, everyone is calm because they believe in him. Cole executed our plays like

Golf — Carmel girls “perfect example” of a team

Greyhounds wrap regular season with win at Courtney Cox Cole Invitational NOBLESVILLE – Winning has become a hard habit to break for the Carmel girls golf team – not that the Greyhounds want to.

Carmel finished up the regular season with yet another victory, this time at the Courtney Cox Cole Invitational, hosted by Noblesville last Saturday at Harbour Trees. The ‘Hounds totaled a 295, marking their fifth consecutive 18-hole tournament win.

Nine schools played at the invitational, the Millers’ annual tournament that has been re-named for the legendary Noblesville student-athlete, a state champion in golf and basketball. The Millers had two teams at the event, with their Black team placing second. Westfield was third, and had the individual medalist in Samantha Brown.

Carmel’s depth has been outstanding this season, and that got proven once again as the Greyhounds made their way to another tournament victory. Carmel’s low woman was its No. 5, Sophie Mock, who finished with an even par 71. Ava Nguyen was next in line with a 73, followed by Claire Swathwood with a 74.

“They’re the perfect example of a team,” said Greyhounds coach Kelly Kluesner. “One may not have their best round, but someone else steps up. I think we’ve had, I don’t even know how many different medalists or low scorers from different playing positions on our team. It’s pretty incredible. They’re just a wonderful group to coach and be with on a daily basis.”

Noblesville was led by Caroline Whallon, who scored a 72; she helped the Millers’ Black team to finish as a runner-up with a team score of 310. Josie Kelley added a 76.

Brown was the only player under par. She made her run with a solid front nine score of 33, and made birdies late in her round to stay in front.

“I think I managed my way around the course,” said Brown. “There were definitely some ups and downs, but overall, I think I played decent.”

Westfield finished with a team score of 316. Addi Kooi helped out with a 73.

Hamilton Southeastern placed fourth as a team with a 333. Ella Bui led the Royals with a 79. Guerin Catholic’s Izzy Pinon scored an 85 to lead the Golden Eagles, while Sarah Majeski was Fishers’ low woman with a 92.

Noblesville girls soccer stays unblemished, blanks Westfield on Senior Night

By CRAIG ADKINS
For The Reporter

Last Wednesday, it was Senior Night for the Noblesville girls soccer program. They celebrated and honored their 10 senior players prior to the conference match against Westfield.

The Millers were faced with a tough defense from the Shamrocks, but were able to space out their scoring and keep the visitors out of the back of the net in a 2-0 defeat.

It was also a welcome back to Westfield head coach, former Noblesville player Hannah (Mangus) Eggert, who played four years for the Millers and Mike Brady 2009-2012.

Eggert is transforming the culture of the Westfield soccer program into what she knows from playing at Noblesville. The Shamrocks are a program that's much-improved from what they have been in recent years and it's showing with goalkeeper Kate Pallante.

"She is incredibly talented, has come up big for us in a few games, made some great saves," said Eggert on her talented, aggressive backstop.

"As the season has gone on, she's gotten better and more comfortable and become more of a leader, as well. We couldn't ask for more from her," continued Eggert on her junior keeper and leader.

The Shamrocks played and stuck to an aggressive, bump-and-run defense and they didn't stop.

FISHERS – A soccer team will never say “no” to an early lead, but playing with that lead can also be a big test.

The Fishers boys soccer team passed that test last Tuesday night when it hosted Hamilton Southeastern in the Mudsock game. The Tigers scored during the 14th minute, then held on for the other 66 minutes to eventually claim a 1-0 victory, and thus retain the Mudsock trophy for another year. The game was played on the Fishers football field, in front of over 1,000 fans.

“I thought that was a really great game between two good high school teams battling the whole night,” said Fishers coach Phil Schmidt. “A lot of credit to the HSE boys, they played their hearts out. I thought it was really well-coached and really well-played.”

Kyle Clayton scored the Tigers’ goal, off an assist by Noah Reinhart. Both teams had their chances, with each one making several shots in the second half.

“Fishers is a good team,” said HSE coach Chris White. “I think this game came down to toughness and discipline and they were tougher and more disciplined than us tonight.”

FISHERS – When a soccer team’s biggest rival takes a one-goal lead in an important game, the easy thing to do would be to panic.

Hamilton Southeastern’s girls team doesn’t do things the easy way. Instead, the Royals stuck with their game plan, and it eventually worked. Southeastern trailed 1-0 to Fishers in the Mudsock game last Wednesday, but the Royals came back to score two quick goals and win the Mudsock trophy 2-1.

Neither team scored in the first half. The Tigers got on the board when Mallo-ry Slabaugh scored off an Elise May assist in the 49th minute. Southeastern had to wait a few minutes to try for an equalizer, but the Royals got it when Tatum Coleman made a corner kick and Taylor Cook volleyed it into the net.

Thus, the score was tied 1-1 with 23:43 left in the game. Less than four minutes later, Caroline Kelley put in the go-ahead goal, with Cole Lance making the assist. The 2-1 margin held for the remainder of the game, with Southeastern holding off a furious rush by Fishers in the last couple minutes to defend its Mud-sock trophy.

"I loved our girls' response in a tough situation of finding themselves down a goal," said HSE coach Greg Davidson. "And their response was pretty magical. Didn't lose track of our game, didn't try to do something different. Just kept believing in the things that we've been doing all year, and had the heart to come back and get the game-winners."

The win improved the Royals' record to 9-1. This was also a Hoosier Crossroads Conference game, and Southeastern is now 3-2 in conference play.

Meanwhile, the Tigers are 2-2-1 in the conference and 4-4-1 overall. Fishers coach Harold Spooner was happy with his team's effort after the game.

"They're one of the better teams in the country and their quality shows every time," said Spooner. "To have that 1-0 lead, I felt good, but I knew that they weren't going to stop coming and our girls knew that, too. At the end of the day, we're really proud. We didn't get the result we wanted, but we gave them everything that they could handle."

"We talk a lot about how we are talented and we just show up every game," Eggert said. "It doesn't matter if we're not the number one team in the state ... We just show up and put our best foot forward."

"Hannah's team, as I'd like to think we do, comes out and plays hard," Brady said. "The first time we played them, I really did say to an assistant that they're playing Miller soccer. They're aggressive, in a clean, competitive way."

Noblesville was able to get on the scoreboard midway through the first half. Sophomore Lily Ault found the back of the net from a pass by sophomore Meredith Tippner for a 1-0 lead.

Senior Ava Bramblett sealed the win that would help keep Westfield away. She took a pass from the right foot of fellow senior Meskerem James, lofting a low shot to the left side of the goal in the 63rd minute for a 2-0 score that would wind up as the final.

The season is just past the halfway point and the Millers have yet to yield a goal. This senior class will already go down as the most decorated in program history.

Through last Wednesday's game, this senior class is 58-1-5 with three Hoosier Crossroads Conference titles, three sectional titles, and two regional, two semi-state and two state championships.

"It's not just the wins. They get along with each other and lift up the younger players," Brady said. "There is no class system where the seniors are special. Tonight's the only night they are honored, and it's great that they are, but that's not what they're all about. They're still about the idea of team, that they've bought into and the culture in this program is strong. They're a special senior class and I don't say that every year."

I was born and raised right here in Noblesville. I grew up in a home without domestic violence or assault - it wasn't something I saw, or even heard about. But when I was introduced to Prevail of Central Indiana, I was shocked by the number of individuals who are affected by domestic violence. In 2018 alone, Prevail helped more than 4,000 clients in Hamilton County (nearly 80 percent of clients are women and children). Domestic violence and abuse are hard topics to discuss, so you don't often hear about them. But at Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville, we're breaking the taboo and raising awareness for Prevail, an organization that helps families in Hamilton County.

Robert (Bob) Earl Anderson
 July 2, 1929 – September 7, 2022

On September 7, 2022, Bob Anderson, 93, Noblesville, heard the words “well done, good and faithful servant.” Bob dedicated his life to serving and helping others whether through church, community, business, life insurance sales and by donating financially to many organizations. Bob did it all with a humble heart.

Bob was born on July 2, 1929, to Robert S. and Martha (Quinn) Anderson of Lafayette, Ind. Being raised on a dairy farm taught him the work ethic that continued throughout his life. As a youth, he was a 10-year member of 4-H, which impacted his life and continued with his children and grandchildren all being 10-year members.

After graduation from Klondike High School, then earning a B.S. from Purdue Agriculture in 1951 and as member of Alpha Gamma Rho Fraternity, Bob served in the Army at Fort Leonardwood, Mo.

Bob married his high school sweetheart, Maurine Kathryne Stump, on June 7, 1952. They met at a Sunday night church youth group and their Christian Faith was the foundation for their 66 years of marriage. His love and dedication to his three daughters was above and beyond in influencing their lives to continue the legacy of giving, strong work ethic and Christian values.

Bob’s passion for farming continued his entire life as he farmed 300 acres and had 50 head of Angus cattle on the farm in Noblesville; but this was just his part-time job. On February 1, 1957, Bob started with Equitable Life Assurance Society and finished an exceptional career 42 years later. Some of his many awards included: “Equitable Hall of Fame,” 1977 Hoosier Life Underwriter of the Year, over 30 years as a Life Member of the Million Dollar Round Table and National Quality Award, President of Indiana State Association of Life Underwriters and Indiana Leaders Club.

His leadership skills and influence were displayed in the community as well. He was a founding member of the Noblesville Kiwanis Sunrises Club in 1976 that has raised over $300,000 for local charities over the years. Twice he was Lt. Governor for the Indiana District and helped start the clubs at Sheridan and Fishers. Many Saturdays, Bob was serving pancakes to raise money for the Boys & Girls Club or local youth sports teams. His time and talents were donated to the First Christian Church as longtime Finance Chair, Elder and board member. He also mowed the lawn for 25 years. He was on the Riverview Hospital Memorial Foundation that raised money for many services and equipment at the hospital. On June 29, 2018, Bob and Maurine were presented the Community Service Award for their lifetime dedication and service to the Noblesville community. They donated a Pavilion at Forest Park for families to enjoy. The City of Noblesville proclaimed January 19, 2021, as “Bob Anderson Day.”

Bob Anderson loved God with a passion that enabled him to be a generous giver of his talents, time and monies. He had a passionate and fierce love for his family who will miss him yet take great comfort knowing they will see him again in Heaven. He left a legacy of giving here on earth that will continue to touch lives for many years.

He is survived by his three daughters, Sara Anderson of Modoc, Ind., Gretchen Anderson Perigo (Dann) of The Villages, Fla., and Charlotte Anderson Carr of Lady Lake, Fla.; his sister, Barbara Jean Macklin of Rocky Ford, Colo.; four grandchildren, Ben Davis, Luke Gunn, Kate Skelley and Levi Perigo; and four great-grandchildren, Jackson and Audrey Davis, and Cambyrn and Josie Perigo.

In addition to his parents, he was preceded in death by his wife, Maurine K. Anderson; and brother, Richard Anderson.

Services will be held on Tuesday, September 20, 2022, at Noblesville First Christian Church, 16377 Herriman Blvd., Noblesville. Visitation will be from 10 to 11 a.m. followed by the service. Burial will be at Tippecanoe Memory Gardens in West Lafayette, Ind.

Memorial contributions may be made to Kiwanis International, Kiwanis Children’s Fund, P.O. Box 6457 - Dept #286, Indianapolis, IN 46206 (kiwanis.org/childrensfund/give); or to Boys and Girls Club of Noblesville, 1700 Conner St., Noblesville, IN 46060.

Radford “Rad” Thomas Thoman

October 2, 1964 – September 4, 2022

Radford, Rad, Rad Daddy Thoman, 57, was welcomed into God’s loving arms on September 4, 2022. He was born on October 2, 1964, to the late Dr. Rex and Joyce Thoman. Rad grew up in a large loving family and enjoyed being surrounded by those that meant the most to him.

Rad had an enormous heart and would do anything for those he loved. He was a fun loving, free spirit who was always in for a good time. Rad was an entertainer in his own right, always making others laugh, whether with him or at him.

Rad had much success during his 27 years of employment at Atkins Elegant Desserts, where he met his wife Shelli, whom he married in 1995. They had two children together, Fallon and Conrad to whom Rad dedicated much time and love. In the past five years, Rad was building a new career as a Project Manager with Performance Services of Indiana. This was a challenge, but Rad was never afraid of a good challenge. Other than family, Rad enjoyed fishing, golfing and just being outdoors. He will be dearly missed by all who knew him!

Survivors include his wife, Shelli; daughter, Fallon; son, Conrad; siblings, Reg Thoman (Linda), Scott Thoman, Jenny Whaley (Rich), Tim Thoman (Cathy), and Steve Thoman (Michelle); sisters and brothers-in-law, Kathy Thoman, Kris and Jeff Facsko, and Brett Conrad; 17 nieces and nephews; seven great-nieces and great-nephews; and dear friends, Pat Atkins and Linda Kessler and family.

A Celebration of Life Mass will be held at 5 p.m. on Tuesday, September 13, 2022, in Our Lady of Mount Carmel Catholic Church, 14598 Oak Ridge Road, Carmel.

Rad requested his final resting place be in Canada where he shared many fond memories with his dad, siblings, nephews, and friends.

In lieu of flowers, consider donating to a GoFundMe page (tinyurl.com/eyvrxhk) that honors Rad’s loving and generous heart. The funds will be used by his family to perform random acts of kindness in his memory.

Ralph Cross

September 16, 1921 – August 18, 2022

Ralph Cross, eldest son of Bill and Bertha Cross, was born in Russelville, Ark., on September 16, 1921. He passed away peacefully in his eldest daughter’s home in Indianapolis on August 18, 2022.

Ralph was raised in Lonoke, Ark., and graduated from Lonoke High School in 1941. He took pride in having been the captain of the Lonoke High School football team, and in having won first place in the Arkansas State High School broad jump in 1941.

Ralph attended the University of Arkansas briefly before entering the United States Marine Corps on October 19, 1942. He served 40 months and was honorably discharged on February 15, 1946. His area of service was in the South Pacific: Guam and Okinawa, and occupation duty in Japan.

Ralph was discharged in the California Bay Area where he met his future wife, Amy (Vicki) Ida Erickson. Together they had three daughters, Mary Ann, Nancy Louise, and Elizabeth Jean.

Ralph worked for 38 years in the engineering department of Gerber Products Company. He was instrumental in the setup, maintenance and operation of the Rochester, N.Y., and Ft. Smith, Ark. plants.

Ralph is survived by his three daughters; sons-in-law, Doug Kline and Jon Jaffe; grandchildren, Jon, Sarah, Megan, Andrea, Erin, Alex, Nick, and Robert; and five great-grandchildren. They remember his life-long interest in hunting, fishing, camping and all outdoors, and appreciate his efforts to instill in them that same love of nature.

The family gathered in Indianapolis on September 4 to partake of a bottle of “Old Grand Dad” that Ralph had been saving for more than 40 years. After noting that a significant “angel’s share” had mysteriously disappeared from the bottle, a toast was made, and the whiskey was drunk. Still hot on the tongue, but with sweet caramel overtones, the liquor was declared to have held up well. Not unlike Ralph himself.

Per Ralph’s wishes, a portion of his ashes will be interred with his late wife Vicki in Fremont, Mich. The remainder will be scattered at his favorite fishing spot, Sydenham Lake in Ontario, Canada. See you at the lake, Grandpa!

Examining my adoption records

As my adoption and reunion story continues, I've changed some names, places, and dates.

It felt nearly impossible to get through the rest of my workday once I received those documents, and I couldn't wait to go home that evening and hop on our computer to do some searching on the Internet. It helped a little to be able to share the big news with Mary during yet another closed-door session. We squealed so loudly that a coworker of ours stopped us in the hallway.

"Hey, I heard you guys," she asked. "Is someone pregnant or something?" I hated to leave her in suspense, but we simply grinned, replied "no," and went on our way.

Thankfully our family didn't have any plans that evening, so the laptop was all mine after dinner. I first wanted to see if Linda or Jack, my biological parents, were one of the many faces I had seen in the college yearbooks. I discovered neither one of them was on my list, so unfortunately my trips to South Bend had been wasted. But none of that mattered now.

AMY SHANKLAND

I looked up Linda's name and potential graduation date at St. Mary's, and sure enough she was listed. She had majored in psychology. I was so pleased to see that she had graduated. I then entered Linda's full name along with Cleveland, Ohio, to see what results would come up. The first result was an obituary from the Waltham News Tribune in Waltham, Mass., of a man named Joseph Murphy.

Joseph Raymond Murphy Jr., 51, of Waltham, beloved husband of Linda (Fitzgerald) Murphy, entered eternal rest Friday, June 30, 2006 at Massachusetts General Hospital.

I wondered why Google had pulled up this obituary then got my answer as I continued reading. The list of survivors included his father-in-law, Tim F. Fitzgerald of Cleveland, Ohio. It also included a daughter, Sabrina Cathleen Murphy of Boston. My head began to spin and I wanted to jump up and down. But I had decided to hide what I was doing from my sons and stayed quiet. I didn't want them to feel pressure to keep a secret from their grandmother.

A possible half-sister? Wow! Suddenly I wanted to see what those ladies looked like. I hopped on Facebook, typed in their names and cities, and hoped to see one or both of them. Unfortunately, I didn't find them. I pressed on.

Now that I had names, dates, and cities, the Internet yielded a variety of information. I found data from Joseph and Linda's marriage records and saw they had been married in September 1981. I found Linda's age and current address, her father's obituary from 2007, and even information from her voting records. It looked like her mother and father had divorced and her father had remarried and moved to Florida. I discovered the names of her paternal grandparents and their dates of birth, death, and marriage.

Finding all of this was thrilling, but it also felt a little scary, at least for my birth mother. What if I were some psycho trying to look her up? All the stuff on the Internet had made my search fairly easy, although if I hadn't had the non-identifying information from years ago that would not have been the case.

Lawyerspeak & contronyms

Lease is a confusing contronym. It's a word that can have opposite meanings.

When one person leases an apartment, he is the landlord while another person who leases an apartment is the tenant. While the tenant may pay rent to lease the apartment from the landlord many Hoosiers say the landlord rented the apartment to the tenant or the tenant rented the apartment from the landlord. In legal speak, a lease is the agreement between landlord and tenant and rent is the amount tenant pays for the privilege.

A court may sanction a plaintiff's request to bulldoze a house or may sanction the plaintiff for bulldozing the house.

A bill can be a $10 written note used for payment or an invoice for payment.

An attorney can consult with the client by offering advice or a client can consult with an attorney by requesting advice.

The court can continue your case by delaying it or continue the order by extending it.

The lawyer can enjoin the court to grant his request to enjoin the defendant from taking the action they want to do.

Lawyers can offer a variety of injunction types in an attempt to maintain a variety of injunction.

The prisoner bound for jail (moving) is often bound (restrained) with handcuffs.

When a husband leaves (goes) and goes away, he often leaves most of his clothes to (stay) where they are.

The court maintains supervising oversight (reviews everything) of personal representatives to prevent their oversight (failure to review) of needed actions.

Probationers often step behind a screen to him and their urine screening procedure which is used to reveal drug use.

Sometimes lawyers will throw out an idea for consideration only to have it thrown out by the court without any consideration at all.

The snack bar in the courthouse basement may garnish the salad by adding to it while the court upstairs takes away by garnishing wages.

Equity courts use many common customs to create a custom result.

The guardian must make an annual report every year about the annual flowers growing in the garden.

During back up argument to the court I had one occasion where the court asked my client to back him up because of his smell.

One prosecuting lawyer gave the reporting police officer a citation for the number of citations he had given to speeders.

More serious offenders are terminated when they are executed but the jailer begins when he starts to execute the process.

The original brief, being unchanged, had no original ideas.

The common people of Indiana, the Public, do not always understand the language of the government, found in public institutions.

Even a qualified lawyer sometimes has qualified success.

You can use this article to clear your thinking, or you can clear it entirely.

A contronym's meaning is usually obvious from the context. But if communication is not clear, the meaning can be lost. Even a space or comma can be significant in communication. The contract called for the sale to be "with outbuildings" which were worth $1 million but it had been intended to read "without buildings." A $1 million space! And a pretty penny.

Don't buy "pretty" Medicare plans

People see TV and print ads touting "FREE Groceries" or "UP TO $100 Back" in your Social Security check each month.

These types of benefits are considered "extra benefits" apart from the core benefits of a Medicare Advantage health plan. It's akin to buying a car based solely on its color. No one gets excited about strong core benefits – unless you are already undergoing treatment. We all hope to never need a low co-pay on an inpatient stay for a joint replacement. But it's easy to get excited about grocery money.

It's unwise to make you plan decisions solely on the extras.

If you are very healthy and only see a doctor one to three times a year, these extras in private Medicare Advantage plans can be very enticing. For the healthy, these extras can add up to a lot of extra money each quarter. For the healthy, who are not worried about higher costs sprinkled throughout the plans, choosing the richest extra benefits available may be a smart option. But a surprise illness can be around the next corner. If you are suddenly using your core benefits seeing doctors, specialists, having inpatient and outpatient surgeries, etc. you may end up paying more for a plan with a lot of extras.

Private Medicare Advantage plan benefits change annually. The overall out of pocket costs tend to edge up with inflation, but they can be buried in the plan and hard to find. People don't enjoy digging into the new benefits released each year.

Many people are content to bury their heads in the sand.

While every company is required to send members an Annual Notice Of Change (ANOC) booklet, many people are overwhelmed and ignore it. That's OK as long as you work with an agent who can translate it for you. If you prefer to call the insurance company, it too will explain this year vs next year's benefits. You only have a few months to make the decision whether to stay with your current plan or move to a new plan.

The extra benefits are real – and attractive. Some plans in the nation pay for cell phone plans, utilities, rent, groceries, pest control, massage, pet food and more. Sometimes there is a slight bait-and-switch at hand. Famously, one company last year offered the richest dental benefits in the nation. People didn't realize that very few dentists were in that network. This is a critical piece of the puzzle.

You search for the best benefits and then have to cross reference it against the doctors and hospitals you want to see and visit. Before you choose a plan based on great dental, vision or hearing aids, look at that insurance company's network of specialists. You may have to drive a long way to access an in-network specialist.

Millions of Americans will be shopping their Medicare Advantage benefits from Oct. 15 to Dec. 7. With a media blitz by dozens of insurance companies, you will see many of these extra benefits advertised. But before you are swayed by an extra benefit, make sure that you are not sacrificing strong core benefits.

Children's development is as unique as they are

The Sheridan Student Column is brought to readers by Sheridan High School's 10th grade English class, taught by Abby Williams.

Have you ever had a child? Many people have experienced the joys and sorrows, pride and despair, laughs and tears that come with raising children.

Everyone loves to coo over newborn infants, dote on young children, and fuss over graduating teens. However, in order for kids to progress through these stages of life, their minds must first learn to grow.

According to firstthingsfirst.org, 90 percent of a child's brain develops within the first five years of life. This is one of the most crucial stages of development, so parents should be well-educated on how to best assist their young kids' expanding minds.

LIBERTY COYLE-PADDACK
Sheridan High School Student

One of the most effective ways to enhance any child's brain development is to read to them. Yes, it sounds strange, but studies have shown that routinely reading to children under the age of five helps their skull bones fuse together more healthily.

Obviously, if a child isn't read to very often, that doesn't mean they will have unhealthy skull fusions; reading just improves the process. If parents read to their children at least two hours every week, they will help improve their young kids' head development. Plus, this is a great way for babies to learn pictures and sounds.

Another terrific method of training up the next generation is to look and listen.

Kids, especially teenagers, have a special way of expressing themselves.

There is no rhyme or reason to how it's done; every person is unique in their self-expression. Parents must learn their children's ways of communication so they can pick up on the subtle clues their kids give.

For example, some of us deal with stressful situations by becoming defensive and irritable, ignoring everything around us and throwing ourselves into what makes us happy: art, reading, gaming, etc. Others can only process something by talking through it. So, they will want to sit down and have a meaningful conversation, slowly working through whatever it is that has them stressed.

However it is that a child handles things, their parents can help them through difficult phases of life by noticing and obeying those hints their kids leave scattered around. By doing so, parents show that they understand their children and care that they are struggling in life, but are willing to let them deal with it in their own way.

A final way to steer kids in the right direction is to show them that there is someone who cares about them individually.

This culture has taught us that we need to all look the same, act the same, be the same. However, this is an unhealthy mindset. Instead of trying to fit in with everyone else and be "normal," kids should be taught to be themselves and redefine "normal." To put it in Dr. Seuss's words, "Why fit in when you were born to stand out!"

Children should not feel afraid to reveal the quirky, unusual, different parts of their personality; rather, we should be encouraging them to embrace themselves and be confident in who they are. Only then can they truly become who they are and be ready to take on the world.

In these three ways the adults in every kid's life can begin to guide them through the bumpy, imperfect pathway of life and give them the tools they need to succeed in the world.

Are HSE Schools in a period of academic decline?

The other day I was chatting with a friend of mine, and we were discussing the recent ILEARN scores. My friend has a daughter who graduated two years ago from Fishers High School and two younger children in elementary and middle school.

She made the comment that she can tell based on her children's homework assignments, textbooks, and class projects that HSE Schools are not as academically rigorous as when her older daughter attended. She believes a decrease in academic focus is responsible for HSE's lower standardized test scores. She is concerned that her younger children will not have the same level of college preparedness when they graduate. She wants to see HSE Schools return to a focus on academics rather than social issues.

In order to answer the question, "Are HSE Schools in a period of academic decline?" we can look at the data. The Indiana Department of Education has an excellent data center on its website with spreadsheets going back to the Spring of 2009 for ISTEP scores. We can look at that data from 2009 to 2022, and by using Group Cohort Analysis, we can see how HSE Schools performed in rankings relative to the top performing school districts in the State of Indiana.

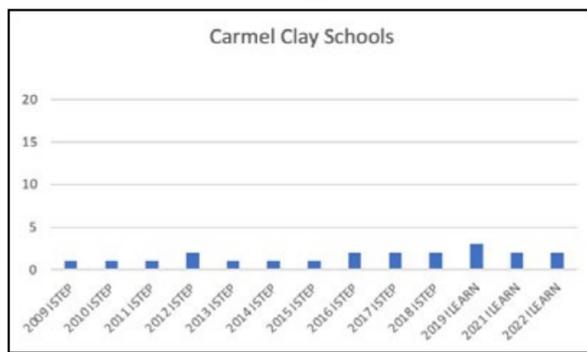

HSE currently uses Group Cohort Analysis as a tool to determine benchmarks for metrics and objectives. The group cohort they have chosen is based on enrollment. Since, for this purpose, we are determining whether HSE is in a period of academic decline, choice of cohort group was based on whether a school district historically scores among the highest on standardized testing assessments. The cohort group includes 23 of the top performing school districts: Carmel Clay, Zionsville, Brownsburg, West Lafayette, Barr-Seeve, SE Dubois, North Spencer, Hamilton Southeastern, Plainfield, Penn-Harris-Madison, Crown Point, NW Hendricks, Munster, Center Grove, East Porter, Noblesville, Westfield, Warrick, Union, Valparaiso, North Posey, Southern Hancock, and Wa-Nec.

Looking at school corporation data from the IDOE website, rankings can be made within this Cohort Group. A score of 1 to 23 was assigned to each school district based on its performance each year as defined by the combined Math/ELA proficiency percentages on the standardized test given in grades three to eight.

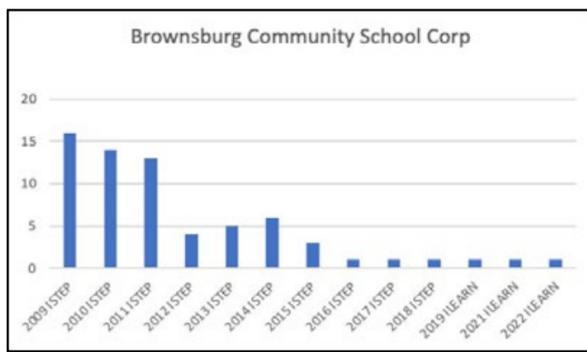

Shown above are charts for four of the 23 schools in the group cohort: Carmel Clay

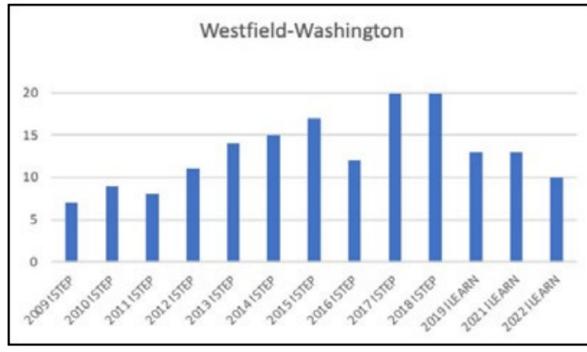

KELLIE KELLY

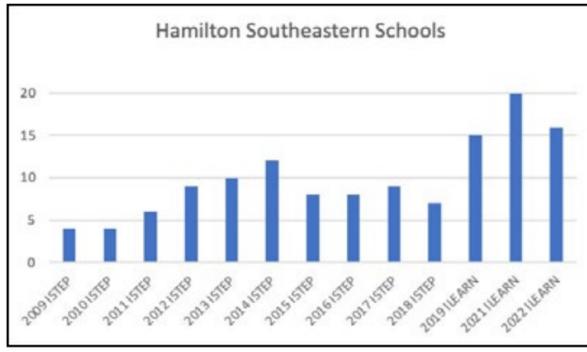

Starting with Carmel Clay Schools, we see a whole row of short little bars. This means Carmel Clay Schools has consistently ranked in the top five school districts from 2009 to 2022. This is indeed an impressive academic accomplishment.

Next, let's look at Brownsburg Community Schools. You can see from the chart that Brownsburg's rankings from 2009 to 2011 placed Brownsburg in the middle of our Cohort Group. But, Brownsburg's bars get shorter. And for the last six years they have been the leader. They are currently the best performing public school district in Indiana on the ILEARN assessment.

This chart shows us patterns of both academic incline and decline. Westfield Washington starts out strong in 2009. Then gradually, academic performance starts to decrease as shown by the bars in the chart getting taller. But the good news for Westfield is that the rankings for 2019 to 2022 show much improvement.

Hamilton Southeastern's chart is concerning. We start out so strong in 2009 and 2010, ranking number four! Then begins a period of academic decline from 2011 to 2014. Our rankings improve from 2015 to 2018. But there is a huge decline in ranking in 2019, followed by another decline in 2021. We once ranked number four; now we rank 16.

Graphics provided by Kellie Kelly

Schools, Brownsburg Community Schools, Westfield-Washington Schools, and Hamilton Southeastern Schools. Keep in mind the charts show the ranking number, so it's like golf. ... lower is better! We want to see short bar graphs, and we want to look for patterns of increase/decrease.

In summary, using Group Cohort Analysis for the top 23 performing school districts in Indiana shows that Hamilton Southeastern Schools is in a period of academic decline. Even though our 2022 ranking did improve, we still have a long way to go to return to the levels of academic success our students once achieved.

It's up to the stakeholders in our community to decide who to elect for the school board in November. If you are also concerned about HSE's academic decline, then please vote for school board members who want to make student learning and student outcomes priority number one for HSE Schools.

If you wish to learn more and to meet the candidates for school board who want to focus HSE Schools on academic excellence, please attend the Town Hall Meeting on Monday, Sept. 12 at the Fall Creek Township building from 7 to 9 p.m. You can register for this event at fishersone.org.

Just another Janet adventure

"Remember the Titanic" was my first thought. My second thought was, "This might not end well."

I had just set sail in my daughter's pool on the only available pool-worthy craft on which to float. It was a large inner tube. I never thought about inner tubes coming in different sizes. I just knew I wanted to float, and this was my only choice.

I was all by myself. Emily was tucked upstairs in her loft home office. Aiden and Leah were in school. Drew was in Nashville, Tenn., on a business trip. Having flown home the day before, Chuck was on the golf course in Indiana. I just wanted to float and think about the next chapter of the fiction book I'm writing. I ponder well while floating.

I sat down inside the float. The water depth from where I was setting sail was a mere six inches. I was docked in the area where you can sit in a chair and read with your feet in the water. I quickly realized my short legs barely extended beyond the plastic tube. I was in more of a V position with my feet several inches out of the water, pointed to the sky. I had seen pictures of my friends floating down White River, all the while their legs hanging, gracefully, over the inner tube with their feet in the water, steering them in the way they wanted to go. The only thing in the water was my hind end (as my mother always called it) and it wasn't steering anything.

As I pushed off the side of the pool, I had an immediate tinge of fear. I shrugged it off ... but only for a few moments. The fear returned as I thought of everything that could go wrong. I floated for a bit, edging closer to the deep end. My hands clung to the handles of the float. They couldn't reach into the water either. As I edged towards the six-foot-deep area I realized I was uncomfortable and decided to "adjust" my position. My hands held onto the float for dear life as I attempted to wiggle my legs over the float a bit more, hopefully creating a more comfortable ride.

I could not get a good grip with my legs, so I shot my left leg into the air, literally ... grasping for leverage in the air. I continued to attempt to shift my position as my leg flailed toward the sky. I was starting to sweat. I started imagining all kinds of things including the worst.

What if I slid into a position where I could not get out of this inner tube? What if I hit my head and slid under the tube and drowned? Okay, so I am being dramatic, but when you are stuck at sea or in a pool and cannot get out, your mind goes to all kinds of scenarios as you attempt to figure out how to steer an inner tube to safety without using your feet as rudders.

My feet could not reach the water unless I arched my back, thus pushing my stomach towards the sky. I looked more like a floundering humpback whale than a short, vintage grandma, floating merrily in the pool. My toes and feet paddled with all their might. I still could not control the direction of the tube, except I knew I was going backward, towards the shallow end.

It took a while, but I was finally in the area where my hind end was dragging the six-inch shallow area. I had survived my 30-minute tour. I wrangled the inner tube over my legs and head and tossed it, with every bit of energy I had left, into the corner of the lanai.

I could almost hear Celine Dion singing, "You're here, there's nothing to fear ... my heart will go on."

Please don't tell Emily or Drew what happened, as they may not allow me in their pool unsupervised.

Actually, I have never watched Titanic. I don't think I ever will. I just know the quote in the movie that says, "Promise me you'll survive. That you won't give up, no matter what happens."

I could not have said it better to myself.

Be Well

Stay flexible! It's critical for safe, healthy workout routine

"The stiffest tree is most easily cracked, while bamboo or willow survives by bending with the wind." — Bruce Lee Although Bruce Lee succumbed at the early age of 32 (widely speculated that it was due to a reaction to prescription medication) he was internationally acclaimed as the premier martial arts professional of his time, and still today. Lee was adamant about the necessity of muscular strength, muscular endurance, cardiovascular endurance, and flexibility — with "flexibility" being my topic today.

For many people, the past couple of years has caused us to be less physically active and thus more prone to injury when we are able to get back out there and resume our usual activity, making increased flexibility even more important.

As a long-time fitness instructor certified in Yoga, Balance, and Full-Body Flexibility by the American Fitness Professionals Association, I firmly believe in this fundamental discipline for a healthy body. Stretching is critical to any sort of fitness regimen, and essential to our body's wellbeing. Many people are eager to get going on a fitness routine and would rather skip the important step of stretching, thinking it to be unnecessary.

Additionally, there is often confusion on which kind of stretching is best — static, dynamic, passive, active — all important elements of a good stretching routine. Stretching is not for "sissies" — a good, basic routine will provide an important component to a well-rounded workout program which also incorporates aerobic and strengthening activities. I like to think of stretching as something I have in common with Olympic athletes because they ALL have stretching routines!

The practice of Yoga asanas, or poses, is very good for integrating the body parts most essential to stretching on a regular basis. Some people do not wish to participate in a Yoga class due to its Hindu roots and philosophy. However, a good stretching class can accommodate those poses in a more generic way. I teach a "FlexAbility" class which incorporates my knowledge and experience in Yoga in a more physical way for those who wish to approach stretching in that manner.

From athletes to grandparents, all need to stay as flexible as possible to avoid injury and maintain mobility. Stretching reduces the tension in your muscles, increases your strength, lubricates your joints, refreshes your body, relaxes your mind, improves posture, and helps your digestive system. For those who spend much of their time at a desk or in front of a computer, stretching is essential to their wellbeing and in carrying out daily activities.

Extreme stretching and incorporating bouncing as you stretch is unnecessary and can lead to injury. A commonsense approach will yield the results you are looking for, keeping you limber, energetic, and strong.

Check out local classes at a fitness facility, library, or community center soon, as hopefully our post-pandemic world can get back to business soon! Books and DVDs are available (again, check with your local library) to get you started and can give you valuable information on anatomy which also may be helpful to you.

As with any change in your physical routine it is always good to begin with a check-up and "all clear" from your physician. Stay flexible!

Classic rock group Courtesy Flush discusses "Motel Indiana" & 50th anniversary tour

Guitar Face Magazine was granted an exclusive interview with Indiana-based 1970s classic rockers Courtesy Flush, who will embark on their 50th Anniversary "Expiration Date" Tour this fall. We sat down with cofounders Tweed and Twill Seger to discuss a half-century of touring and recording, their notorious infighting, and what fans can expect. This is part one of a two-part interview.

SCOTT SAALMAN
Scaramouch

GF: Today, you rehearsed your 1976 hit single, "Motel Indiana," 12 times.

Tweed (Vocals): We had to. Twill kept mucking it up on that freakish octuple neck guitar.

Twill (Guitar): You try playing eight guitar parts simultaneously. That's 48 strings to finger! My Fender Signature Series Eight Neck sound is what made "Motel Indiana" an FM rock staple! I didn't muck anything. Tweed is the mucker. He kept singing hotel instead of motel —

Tweed: Excuse me! I wrote "Motel Indiana" 46 years ago! I'm pretty sure I didn't muck the lyrics. I'll sing it right now ...

Greetings from the Motel Indiana
Cornfield maze in back (cornfield maze in back)
And a go-kart track
Vacancy at the Motel Indiana

You might hit a deer (you might hit a deer)
Lose dignity here
Twill: You still mucked it earlier, Tweed.

GF: How did the eight-neck guitar come about?

Twill: I got the idea from Cheap Trick when we opened for them. I love Rick Nielsen. Ricky and I were always trying to outdo each other during that tour. He started playing a double neck, so I upped the ante with a triple neck. Ricky bought a quint neck, which got him tons of attention. I had no choice but to break out the eight neck. He told me, "I surrender, man. That's too much guitar neck for me." Not long after, Cheap Trick had a hit with "Surrender." Even today, Ricky bows when he sees me and says, "I'm not worthy, man." Jimmy Page once told me, "Man, you look like an octopus playing that thing." Jimmy Page, man! Forty-eight strings! If any song deserves 48-string sound, it's "Motel Indiana." I am the Octopus. Dig it!

GF: Excessiveness aside, I guess the eight neck actually does complement "Motel Indiana's" socio-political themes of Hoosier hedonism, greed, and excess!

Tweed: Actually, it's the opposite of excess. An eight neck is cheaper than hiring seven other guitarists to play one song.

GF: Regarding "Motel Indiana," can you elaborate on the famous 1978 "Hotel California" court case in which you accused the Eagles of plagiarism?

Tweed: Simple ... Don Henley stole our song. Read the affidavit.

Twill: The whole feud started at a truck stop.

Tweed: Twill and I were sharing the same urinal.

GF: Nothing awkward there.

Twill: Wait ... what? It was the '70s, man. Besides, we're brothers.

Tweed: Dad made us pee together in the pot to lessen the water bill. We're military brats. The major was a stickler for synchronized peeing.

Tweed: I couldn't pee at all.

Twill: Tweed has a shy bladder.

Tweed: I actually haven't peed since 1969.

Twill: TMI, man. What Tweed just said is off the record.

GF: Duly noted.

Tweed: To mentally block out others in public restrooms, I think up new lyrics.

Twill: He first sang "Motel Indiana's" chorus aloud in that truck stop restroom. The acoustics were amazing.

Tweed: Greetings from the Hotel Indiana —

Twill: See, you just said hotel not motel.

Tweed: Hey, who wrote a hit record while pretending to pee?

Twill: Next thing we knew, a lanky guy with a white man's Afro busted out of a stall. He didn't even flush.

Tweed: He rushed out like a man in a hurry to ... oh ... say ... find a notebook to write a song he just overheard and steal it.

Twill: We looked at each other and said, "Wasn't that Don Henley?"

Tweed: "Motel Indiana" was released before "Hotel California." I mean, hello?

Twill: "Motel Indiana" topped Casey Kasem's American Top 40 list at #40.

GF: Twill, #40 is actually the bottom, not the top. #1 is the top.

Twill: Wait ... what?

GF: A week later, "Hotel California" bumped your song from the Top 40 and ultimately reached #1 on the Billboard Hot 100.

Twill: Yea, but "Hotel California" wasn't good enough to hit Billboard's #100 spot like "Motel Indiana" did.

Tweed: Touché!

GF: Will "Motel Indiana" be on the upcoming setlist?

Tweed: If Twill stops mucking it up —

Twill: You're the mucker, Mr. Mucky Muck.

Tweed: We need to sell tickets. Definitely tell your readers we will play "Motel Indiana."

Twill: Hell, tell them we'll actually open the show with it.

GF: Wait ... what? You are opening with your only hit? Don't you worry your audience will leave after that?

Tweed: Hmmm. Tell them it will also be our encore. That'll keep butts in seats.

GF: That's crazy! "Motel Indiana" twice in one show?

Twill: Why not? When we released our Courtesy Flush Greatest Hits album, "Motel Indiana" occupied all 10 tracks. Same with our Best of Courtesy Flush Greatest Hits compilation. Dare I mention the box set?

GF: Did any of those compilations move enough units to achieve Platinum status?

Tweed: Pewter.

Twill: Tell readers we will also play "Motel Indiana" just before intermission. A "Motel Indiana" triple shot! How's that for a Guitar Face exclusive?

Golden sunbeams of hope

"Come with me into the field of sunflowers; they are far more wonderful than any words about them."

American poet, Mary Oliver, so eloquently describes the golden sunbeams that extend toward the sky, leaving the shadows behind them. Sunflowers are utterly striking both en masse and on their own. Many only think of the brilliant, well-known golden faces of sunflowers, but with a wide range of varieties, they come in many other colors besides yellow. Sunflowers not only add beauty to our gardens, but pollinators also love them, making the joyful flower a wonderful addition to backyard habitats looking to promote pollination.

Sunflowers are heliotropic, meaning their flowers follow the daily movement of the sun. Sunflowers provide a long bloom time throughout the summer and are tolerant of heat and resistant to many pests, making them a practical and gorgeous addition to any garden.

These majestic flowers are fast growing, typically reaching maturity in 80 to 95 days. Sunflowers are annuals; they do not come back the following season. However, their seeds may be harvested from the spent blooms and replanted for years to come or enjoyed as a delicious snack by both you and birds.

Many start sunflowers from seed, but you can also purchase starter plants. They do best when planted after the last frost of the season. Some varieties can grow 14 to 16 feet tall, so it is best to plant them in the back of a garden. Given their tall stature, they can provide shade in a garden, so be mindful of what you plant around the sunflowers in your garden, particularly the plants surrounding them that require full sun as their tall stalks may shade other plants in your garden.

If you are looking for a local spot in Hamilton County offering sunflower sights, check out Stuckey Farm's Sunflower Festival Sept. 9 to 11 where you can walk through acres of sunflowers and get the perfect fall family photo! You can also stop by your local Hamilton County Farmer's Market and pick up a stalk or bouquet to enjoy inside your home. Make sure to harvest the seeds!

Sunflowers are often the subject for paintings and photography. Vincent Van Gogh painted a series of well-known sunflower paintings, and when asked about their significance, he stated that sunflowers "communicated gratitude." The notion of nature lending itself for us to show our gratitude is something that strikes me.

Sunflowers also happen to be the national flower for Ukraine, which during a time when a country who so desperately yearns for peace, this is so meaningful. I find such symbolism that the proud sunflower, which stands tall among others and is a source of brightness in our gardens, can represent a country who needs hope amid such devastation and destruction.

I, too, am very grateful for sunflowers. I am thankful for their optimistic symbolism, their ability to stand tall and keep shadows to their back, but mostly I am grateful for the beacon of light that they add to a garden. The next time you see a sunflower, be grateful and keep those in the Ukraine in your heart.

Nature is speaking through these sun blossoms in our garden. It is giving us a reason to have hope and be grateful. Are you listening?

Indulging in some 'Nunsense' at Actors Theatre of Indiana

Actors Theatre of Indiana (ATI) has opened its 2022-23 season with Dan Goggin's Nunsense. This show opened off-Broadway in 1985, having 3,672 performances during its 10-year run. Ultimately, the original show sprouted six sequels and is a perennial favorite for theatre companies around the world.

Karen Sheridan directs the ATI effort, with musical direction by Jay Schwandt and choreography by Anne Beck. The very talented cast features Suzanne Stark as Reverend Mother Sister Mary Regina, Illeana Kirven as Sister Mary Hubert, Katelyn Lauria as Sister Robert Ann, Stephanie Wahl as Sister Mary Amnesia, and Rachel Weinfeld as novice Sister Mary Leo.

The entire show is ripe with a crazy array of jokes, bits, dances and songs — made all the more unlikely fun as they are presented by a corps of habit-wearing nuns with big personalities. And "fun," I believe, is the theme of the show.

The action, set in the Mount St. Helen school gymnasium, is carried along by a rather complicated plot premise as the sisters are presenting a fundraising variety show so that they may have the money to bury four recently departed sisters — the aftermath of a batch of tainted vichyssoise prepared by the convent cook Sister Julia which felled 52 convent members, 48 of which have already been interred. Each of the performers has a featured turn in the spotlight along with tightly harmonized ensemble renditions. Highlights include Ms. Starks' truly brilliant scene as the Reverend Mother discovers the power of an inhaled intoxicant, Ms. Wahl's Sister Amnesia and her puppet (Sister Mary Annette), Ms. Weinfeld's ballet-dancing Sister Leo, Ms. Lauria's break-out "I Just Want to be a Star" as Sister Robert Anne, and Ms. Kirven's rousing "Holier Than Thou" by Sister Hubert.

Director Sheridan has instilled the fast-moving pace necessary here, while Choreographer Beck keeps the movements simple and sharp. The music provided by the band of three "priests" with piano, bass and drums, although at times a bit loud for the singers to be understood, was notably proficient.

Bottom line: The opening night audience had a lot to laugh about as the five cast members did a fabulous job with this zany material. The standing ovation they received was well deserved! Make a big effort to see this one!

Nunsense continues at ATI's Studio Theatre in the Center for the Performing Arts in Carmel through Sept. 25. You can get information about the schedule and tickets by calling (317) 843-3800 or by logging on at atistage.org.
