GRAVY & GRACE

Conversations are filled with giggles and cackles of laughter. There isn't a contrary soul in the bunch. Uncles and aunts and brothers and sisters agree about politics and religion and sports. Oh, the sweet world of Hallmark!

Grace is given before the meal as if God is close by and listening to eloquent words which could be used in the benediction of a Sunday sermon.

Well, who doesn't love

a good Hallmark movie? But then, we turn off the TV and we are back to reality where goodwill may be hard to find ... but it is there. We just have to seek and find.

While our reality may not look like a Hallmark movie, it can be wonderful ... with grace and gravy. Lots of both, slathered generously.

While our hearts may be challenged to understand that not everyone can be there, grace allows us to be okay with that. Thou shalt not be upset about what you cannot control. Celebrate with those right in front of you. Thanksgiving is not a date on the calendar, but a state of mind celebrated anytime and anywhere you decide.

Family from afar can be included, even if it's coming from the phone and Face-time.

Grumpiness should not be allowed at the dinner table. Before he arrives, Uncle Fester may need a gentle reminder that neither politics nor religion will be served around the table or later in the family room. Kindly ask that he leave his opinions at home. Ask him with gentleness. A compliment or two might help him accept your suggestions. His feathers may be ruffled but one slightly miffed gander is better than a gaggle of aggravated geese and upset goslings, crying because they feel the tension.

Oh, Hallmark, we need your niceness and kindness and thoughtfulness and goodwill. And yes, we ever so, need your grace.

Speaking of grace, you know those stories that Grandma tells over and over? One day her voice won't be there and her chair will be empty. Engage with her as she tells them. You will cherish those memories. Better yet, video her as she tells her stories. Ask her questions. Both of you will be blessed. Someday, those memories will cause your eyes to leak as you try to remember the details. If only you had paid more attention ... if only ...

So, as you gather in the days ahead, please remember that a little grace and little gravy go a long way. May you be blessed with laughter and stories and enough goodwill to go around.

Happy Thanksgiving from my heart to yours!

Below are the specific roundabouts featured on this year's ornament.

Cyclo
Brad Howe

Cyclo was commission for the roundabout at Range Line Road and East Smoky Row to create an uplifting, playful artwork that brightens the mood of residents and motorists who pass by. Inspired by still photography of modern ballet dancers, Cyclo captures the visible physical energy of dancers, an energy that the artist feels can also be found in nature.

Homage to Hoagy
Arlon Bayliss

Homage to Hoagy, a unique, high-profile sculpture designed by Arlon Bayliss, celebrates Indiana native Hoagy Carmichael. Installed within the roundabout next to the Palladium, the 38-foot-tall scul-ture was commissioned in 2018 and installed in 2020 and features abstract stars, moons and musical notes that burst joyfully from at tilted gramophone. Complimenting the sculpture are two interactive kiosks with gramophone horns and crank handles that activate digital recordings of Carmichael's works.

Reckon
Brad Howe

Made of 100 percent brightly colored stainless steel, the concept for Reckon centers around the term itself; to reckon is to arrive at a deduction of conclusion, with a quality of intuitive thinking and approximate guessing. Reckon resides within the roundabout at Range Line Road and Elm Street which also marks the southern entrance to Carmel's Arts & Design District.

Grace, Love and Joy
Arlon Bayliss

This 42-foot-high illuminated steel sculpture features three pink roses with gold and silver stems wrapped in ribbon and is in the roundabout at Old Meridian Street and Pennsylvania Street. Artist Arlon Bayliss says that his "hope is that this sculpture not only beautifies the neighborhood but also lifts the hearts of folks who visit, live and work nearby with its everlasting message of grace, love and joy."

Beacon Bloom
Arlon Bayliss

At Carmel's southern border of 96th Street and Westfield Boulevard stands Beacon Bloom. Viewers approaching and passing the roundabout see three, steel flower-like structures with curvy stems. At night the structure displays a delicate, multi-colored play of lights. Says Bayliss, "the sculpture serves as a beacon, signaling the presence of the roundabout not with a warning, but with a welcoming expression of hope and growth."

Wire Deer Family
William Arnold

Hoosier artist William Arnold's passion for sculpting wildlife and desire to create pieces that add beauty to their surroundings, are apparent in his wire deer family in the roundabout at 96th Street and Ditch Road. His hope was to give viewers a brief respite from their drive and create a lasting landmark. Arnold's work can be found elsewhere in Indiana; his American Bison, a life-sized wire sculpture of a male bison, is located at the west entrance to the Indianapolis Zoo.

I was born and raised right here in Noblesville. I grew up in a home without domestic violence or assault - it wasn't something I saw, or even heard about. But when I was introduced to Prevail of Central Indiana, I was shocked by the number of individuals who are affected by domestic violence. In 2018 alone, Prevail helped more than 4,000 clients in Hamilton County (nearly 80 percent of clients are women and children). Domestic violence and abuse are hard topics to discuss, so you don't often hear about them. But at Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville, we're breaking the taboo and raising awareness for Prevail, an organization that helps families in Hamilton County.

Rehearsals started on Sept. 20 and Elliott says the show is coming along very well.

“We have a super-talented cast,” Elliott said. “The biggest surprise is always the workload and what goes in to making a production like this successful. It takes a lot of people and a lot of people have done this previously. I feel like I have surrounded myself with a really strong team. A lot of my tech and crew have previously done productions at Ivy Tech, so they know the space.”

Moving into that space is one of the challenges this productions faces, but Elliott told The Reporter he expects it to go seamlessly.

“We have an interesting process in that our entire set was built at the Belfry and that building is currently for sale,” Elliott said. “Everything is there, and we move it into Ivy Tech on Saturday. So, we will take everything down and rebuild it at Ivy Tech.”

Elliott called his cast and crew, “some of the best talent we have ever had at the Belfry. This is on track to be the best-selling adult production we have ever had.”

“Welcome to Medicare” preventative visit explained

When you first sign up for Medicare Part B, you can get a “Welcome to Medicare” preventative visit free of charge courtesy of Medicare.

Many people assume that this is a complete physical. Yes, it would make sense for the government to pay to find problems in the early stages, but this is not a physical. This free doctor visit is for the first 12 months after you sign up for Medicare Part B. Be sure to tell your doctor when you make your appointment that you want this specific procedure.

If you mistakenly tell your doctor you want a physical or other tests and services, you will be subject to the Part B deductible and 20 percent co-pay. If Medicare doesn’t cover a routine physical, you may have to pay the full amount.

What is the point of

COLUMNIST

SYLVIA GORDON
Make Sense of Medicare

the “Welcome to Medicare” visit if it isn’t to give you an annual physical? It’s to educate you about the preventative services you can get under Medicare. Your doctor will review your medical and social history like your current conditions and diseases that run in your family. Your doctor will talk most of this visit – there is very little actual exam going on. Surely it will check my cholesterol? No. The basic exam is your height and weight, calculating your body mass index to gauge obesity risks, taking your blood pressure and performing a very simple vision test. That is it.

Your doctor will ask you if you have an advanced directive. Do you want to be resuscitated if your heart or breathing stops?

Your doctor may give you information about the free screenings Medicare offers for mammograms, prostate, colon, etc., but he won’t be doing any lab work at this visit.

If you have a private Medicare advantage plan, your plan may offer a comprehensive annual physical as part of its benefit package. Keep in mind that original Medicare does not cover an annual physical and you may have to pay a lot if you mistakenly book and appointment for this instead of the “Welcome to Medicare” visit. Every year thereafter, you are again eligible for a free annual wellness visit. This has most of the components of the Welcome Visit but also has a cognitive assessment to help detect dementia or Alzheimer’s early.

Sylvia Gordon is co-founder of The Medicare Family, headquartered in Noblesville, where she educates thousands on Medicare and Social Security in all 50 states. You can learn more at themedicarefamily.com.

Screening tests Medicare covers
Here is a partial list of the preventative screening that are covered under original Medicare without an extra cost to you:
Condition	Screening test	Frequency
abdominal aortic aneurysm	abdominal ultrasound	once
alcohol misuse	screening interview	once a year
breast cancer	mammogram	once a year (over 40 years old)
cardiovascular disease	blood test	once a year
cervical cancer	pap smear	once every 24 months (unless at higher risk)
colorectal cancer	colonoscopy	once every 24-120 months, depending on risk
colorectal cancer	flexible sigmoidoscopy	once every 48 months (over 50)
colorectal cancer	multi-target stool DNA test	once every 48 months
colorectal cancer	fecal occult blood test	once a year (over 50)
colorectal cancer	barium enema	once every 48 months (in place of colonoscopy or flexible sigmoidoscopy over 50)
depression	screening interview	once a year
diabetes	blood test	once a year (or twice for higher risk or prediabetes)
glaucoma	eye test	once a year

Can I Understand the Bible?

Why would God expect me to obey His will, if I could not understand it? In Ephesians 3:4, Paul assures us we can understand his insight into the will of God. If we search, we can understand the Bible (Proverbs 2:1-6). Read God’s Word. Meditate upon it. Carefully study it. Come to know and understand God’s Word.

You invited you and urge you to join us in study and worship as we read and study God’s Word.

Carmel road construction updates

The REPORTER

As the year draws to an end, the City of Carmel continues to work with contractors to establish alternative plans to allow for traffic to flow through existing incomplete projects. As these projects continue to be impacted by regional cement supply challenges, the completions dates will move in to 2023.

Your patience is greatly appreciated while crews work to improve the city's roadway network.

Smoky Row reconstruction

To date, most utilities have been relocated and a new underground drainage system has been placed in its location. The Monon Greenway bridge over Little Cool Creek as well as the Smoky Row crossing have been removed. The stabilization of the new roadway subgrade is complete and asphalt placement is scheduled. The new Smoky Row bridge over Little Cool Creek is currently under construction with new bridge beam placement set for this week. The road is anticipated to open in December, but a closure will be scheduled in the spring to build the roundabout to the west end of the project limits. The primary objective is to get the roadway reconstructed and the Smoky Row bridge open to traffic. The closure on the Monon Greenway (north of Smoky Row) will be in place until spring.

U.S. Senate recognizes November as Stomach Cancer Awareness Month

The REPORTER

The U.S. Senate on Thursday passed a bipartisan resolution authored by U.S. Senator Todd Young (R-Ind.) marking November 2022 as Stomach Cancer Awareness Month.

The resolution was first introduced in 2018 in memory of Indianapolis Star reporter and columnist Matthew Tully, who lost his battle with stomach cancer that year. The resolution was cosponsored by Senators Mike Braun (R-Ind.), Ben Cardin (D-Md.), and Raphael Warnock (D-Ga.), and passed the Senate unanimously.

"Stomach cancer continues to leave a lasting and tragic impact on Hoosiers and their families," Sen. Young said. "For the last five years, we have introduced our annual resolution to bring continued awareness to this heartbreaking disease that has affected too many Americans. The more we can spread the word that early detection is key, the more lives that will be saved."

Stomach cancer is the fifth most common type of cancer worldwide and one of the most difficult to detect in its early stages. The resolution expresses support for more education of patients and health care providers and more research into early diagnosis, screening, and treatment.

"This year more than 26,000 Americans were diagnosed with stomach cancer," Sen. Braun said. "We must continue to raise awareness and support those affected by this deadly disease by designating November as Stomach Cancer Awareness Month. I'm proud to have been an original cosponsor of this legislation each year that I've been in the Senate."

Andrea Eidelman, Chief Executive Officer of Debbie's Dream Foundation: Curing Stomach Cancer said, "The symptoms associated with stomach cancer are easily mistaken for other gastrointestinal problems, frequently leading to a late diagnosis. At that late stage, there are few effective treatment options. The need for research to develop new treatments is imperative to give those diagnosed with stomach cancer a fighting chance at long-term survival. Debbie's Dream Foundation applauds Senators Young, Cardin, and Braun for their leadership in raising awareness about this deadly cancer during Stomach Cancer Awareness Month."

TODAY'S BIBLE READING

We love because he first loved us. Whoever claims to love God yet hates a brother or sister is a liar. For whoever does not love their brother and sister, whom they have seen, cannot love God, whom they have not seen. And he has given us this command: Anyone who loves God must also love their brother and sister.

When was Thanksgiving first proclaimed in Indiana?

The REPORTER

1832 – A group of nine men met at the home of Pastor James Thomson in Crawfordsville to form the Wabash Teachers Seminary and Manual Labor College. Since 1851, the school has been known as Wabash College. The first professor was Caleb Mills, who arrived in 1833.

1858 – Attorney, businessman, and former state senator Calvin Fletcher reported that the Thanksgiving holiday was taking on many traditions and becoming more widespread through the state. It was first observed in 1837 when Governor Noah Noble proclaimed the day of gratitude. Fletcher er wrote that, as the holiday took hold, "All the stores were shut and Indianapolis was in great harmony."

1891 – Governor Alvin Hovey died in office. He had served as a U. S. Congressman and Indiana Supreme Court Justice. Lt. Gov. Ira Joy Chase served the 14 months remaining in Hovey's term.

1915 – The Liberty Bell, on a tour of the nation, passed through Indianapolis. Downtown streets were crowded with patriotic citizens waving flags and singing "America."

1916 – Celebrated actor John Barrymore was on stage at the English Opera House in Indianapolis, starring in the John Galsworthy play Justice. There were four performances over a three-day period. Nearly everyone in the cast had accompanied Barrymore in the original New York production.

1963 – Governor Matthew E. Welsh proclaimed a 30-day mourning period in Indiana following the assassination of President John F. Kennedy in Dallas. On Nov. 25, the governor and his wife Mary attended the President's funeral in Washington, D.C. On the same day, Lieutenant Governor Richard Ristine placed a wreath on the steps of the Indiana World War Memorial while 3,500 soldiers stood at attention.
