Unwrap six Christmas plays at Basile Westfield Playhouse

By STU CLAMPITT
news@readthereporter.com

Main Street Productions (MSP) is staging six one-act plays collectively entitled “Christmas at the Playhouse” at Basile Westfield Playhouse, 220 N. Union St., Westfield, for one weekend only, Dec. 9 to 11.

Three directors are in charge of two plays each. One of those directors, Kelly Keller, spoke to The Reporter about Tradition and Garland, Gynos and Gurneys, the two plays he is bringing to the stage.

“Tradition is about a couple who are in the process of wrapping Christmas presents,” Keller said. “While they are wrapping presents you get a sense of the challenges they are having around the holiday season. They talk about the things that we do that are traditions that we all do just because they are. It’s a cute little piece that talks about why we do the traditions that we do and what the cost is of doing them. It’s about the frustration and anxiety of the holidays.”

Keller told The Reporter he is enjoying his two plays because they will offer holiday entertainment without a heavy message.

“What I like about this Tradition is that everybody is going to be in the audience nodding their heads going, ‘Oh yeah! I’ve said that to my wife a hundred times and she’s responded just like that a hundred times,’” Keller said. “The same for the ladies. Everyone is going to know what’s going on here. The thing I love about my two plays is they are very cute. People are going to walk away smiling.”

Garland, Gynos and Gurneys is a story about man whose wife has recently left him. His son is quite angry and blames Santa for his mom leaving.

“The kid is very frustrated,” Keller said. “It’s Christmas Eve and the kid is waiting up so he can tell Santa what he thinks of him and give him the business. At the same time, the dad’s sister is there, and they both try to dress up as Santa with no good success.”

There is also a brief surprise appearance at the end of that show, which you will have to see for yourself.

Keller has been in the theater community for eight years and has worked with everyone in his two casts with only one exception: the young man who is frustrated with Santa.

Lights, patience & a bubble bath

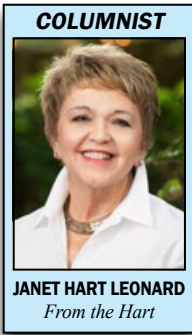

'Tis the season to be jolly . . . until the lights go out on my Christmas tree. Then, “Heigh-ho, Heigh-ho, it’s off to the store I go.”

And so, it was on Thanksgiving evening when Chuck and I were putting up our Christmas tree and he says, “Oh no, the middle lights are out.” I pinched my thumb and pointer finger to the top of my nose and said, “Seriously!”

It’s a holiday. Most stores are closed. I planned to get up Friday morning and get the tree and the house and the halls all decked out for the holidays. No fuss. (Yea, like that’s going to happen.) No issues. (Get ready to count them.)

Big Lots was open! I thought no shoppers would be there. I was wrong. People were meandering through the store and their carts were overflowing with fa-la-la-la and tidings of a lot of joy and stuff.

Thistle & Thyme

Santa Claus is coming to Thistle & Thyme Home Store, 29 S. Ninth St., Noblesville. Meet with Santa from 3 to 5 p.m. on Sunday, Dec. 11.

Santa is very excited to see you and he can't wait to read your letters to him. Please bring them along so he can save each one. If you are unable to attend, you can drop off your Letter to Santa at the store and we will forward it to the North Pole. The Hamilton County Reporter will publish Letters to Santa in the Wednesday, Dec. 14 edition.

Santa asked his friend Timothy J. Ingersoll, an animator at DreamWorks / Disney, to join him, and he agreed. Ingersoll is the only caricaturist and magician in America. At your visit, you will receive a piece of art of yourself to hang on your wall as a memory of your visit.

Tim Ingersoll helped animate The Little Mermaid, How to Train Your Dragon, Kung Fu Panda and over 20 famous animated movies. His website is magicandcaricatures.com.

Murder Mystery Ride will take you back in time

The REPORTER

Go back to the future on the Prom Night Murder Express '84 for dinner, live music, and a murder to solve. What a totally tubular time!

This mystery is sure to keep you guessing. Don't just veg out at home all weekend, be chill and ride the rails with, like, all the cool girls (and probably a few dweebs and wannabes).

Ride through the scenic countryside then enjoy live music in Atlanta with the Stompers. Yes – The Stompers! Like, that band is so gnarly, dude.

Pick up your 1984 prom souvenir glass and keep it full on the train and at dinner in Atlanta. Keep your eye open for those valley girls and posers, I heard they're planning something uncool to the max.

Prom guests will exit the train for a buffet-service three-course dinner and some 80's jams.

I kid you not, dinner will be righteous.

Guests will mingle and ask questions as they Remington Steele or Magnum P.I. their way through the clues. After dinner, guests will board the train and book it back towards Hobbs Station while they solve the mystery. What a wicked good time!

This exclusive four-hour event will include an hour train ride to Atlanta, a 1 ½-hour stop in Atlanta for dinner and music and an hour train ride back. Add in a little time to get on and off the train and you will have four hours of all that and a bag of chips! Plenty of time to scarf some grub, spin some tunes, and maybe even, like, totally solve a murder and stuff.

This show is recommended for ages 13 and up.

Guests are encouraged to dress in 80s duds. We both know you were a bad to the bone Betty back in the day. Break out those funky fresh threads chillin' in the back of your closet because this ride is going to be legit.

The Nickel Plate Express will hit 1.21 gigawatts at exactly 4 p.m. on Feb. 11 and 12, 2023.

PATIENCE

I got to the back wall and what to my wandering eyes would appear but shelves upon shelves of lights that sparkled and changed colors and were cool white and clear and LED (dislike!) and every conceivable way to light up a room and the lawn and the gables.

I just wanted a simple stand of 50 clear lights with green wiring. It was probably about the only thing they didn't have available. After standing there bewildered and confused for about 10 minutes, I grabbed a box of 200 clear lights that I hoped would work.

I had thoughts of a Christmas past where it took three trips to the store (the one I avoid at all costs) to finally give up and suffer with two different lights on the tree for the season. (That tree no longer exists.)

I approached the front of the store and saw that there was a mother and daughter unloading a semi (okay, actually a cart) full of evidence that they had been in the store for quite a while. There was one lone cashier who had just begun ringing up the cart full of, well ... let's just say, even the underside of the cart was overflowing with the necessities of a season that would be slathered with festive décor.

The mother turned around and saw me holding a small box of lights and a bottle of Dr. Teals Foaming Sleep Bath. (A long hot bath would be so needed after this adventure.) She apologized for how long it was going to take to ring up her and her daughter's purchases. They began bickering over who was paying for what.

It was then my heart remembered the shopping adventures I would take with my mother. I smiled and told the mother that I was fine waiting for them to finish. I had packed my patience with me, and it was doing its job quite well.

I started smiling as I listened to their banter. I found I was enjoying listening to them. They were quite entertaining. I got a full 10 minutes of free entertainment.

I smiled at the cashier as she thanked me for my patience. I told her it was the time of year that people need to bring their patience along with them while they shop ... or stay at home.

She laughed and agreed.

When I got home, I plugged in the lights and Hallelujah, Happy Day, they were a perfect match to the others on the tree. My adventure was a success and the few dollars I spent even included the entertainment of a mother-and-daughter act.

As I soaked in the bathtub surrounded by bubbles, I realized I can decide during the next few weeks if I want to engage in frustration and aggravation or in conversation and observation. The wait time is the same.

May you find delight and maybe a new friend while waiting in line over the holidays. And may all your lights flicker in matching glows as you sit with a cup of hot cocoa and realize just how blessed you are.

Appreciate the little things and your heart will be hugged. Thank the workers who show up. Bring along your patience. There is jolly to be found as well as a bit of merry! Tis the season ...

I was born and raised right here in Noblesville. I grew up in a home without domestic violence or assault - it wasn't something I saw, or even heard about. But when I was introduced to Prevail of Central Indiana, I was shocked by the number of individuals who are affected by domestic violence. In 2018 alone, Prevail helped more than 4,000 clients in Hamilton County (nearly 80 percent of clients are women and children). Domestic violence and abuse are hard topics to discuss, so you don't often hear about them. But at Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville, we're breaking the taboo and raising awareness for Prevail, an organization that helps families in Hamilton County.

Winning a football sectional in a small town like mine

By OWEN BELL

Sheridan High School Student

The Sheridan Student Column is brought to readers by Sheridan High School's 10th grade English class, taught by Abby Williams.

Growing up in Sheridan has always been about football: every Friday night I would go to the games to watch the Blackhawks. Watching them win their sectional in 2012, I had thought that would be cool to do someday.

Watching the games on Friday nights was not the best part of growing up around Sheridan football. The best part was waking up on Saturday mornings and getting to go play on the high school field where the high schoolers got to play the night before. The only problem was that it was never under the lights like the high school games were. After the games, my buddies and I would talk about how one day we get to play under the lights on Friday nights.

Little did we think we would be in a position to win the first sectional since the one we had watched in 2012.

The Sheridan football team won the Class 1A Sectional 45 against Hagerstown 75-36 this year. This was their first sectional championship since 2012. The game took place Nov. 4 at Hagerstown. Despite Hagerstown being over an hour away, many of the Sheridan fans made the drive to support the Blackhawks. Some would say Sheridan had more fans than Hagerstown did. I think this very well could be true.

Sheridan, being a small town, may seem as if there wouldn't be many people at football games, especially with a drive over an hour; however, the small town brings people together this way. It makes you feel the whole town has your back and is cheering for you. Walking out of the locker room at Hagerstown and seeing the number of fans that made the trip to watch the Blackhawks compete for their first sectional championship since 2012 really made us want it more.

When the game kicked off, quickly Sheridan knew the task would not be easy. Hagerstown scored on its opening drive. It wasn't but a play later when senior Peyton Cross brought the first Sheridan offensive snap to the endzone. From there, the first half would be back and forth, but Sheridan went into halftime with a 31-30 lead, despite not playing to the standard they had been since the Week 1 loss to Western Boone.

During halftime, adjustments were made, and the team came out with a whole new mindset. This showed as the Blackhawks scored quickly. By the end of the game, the Blackhawks had completely turned the game around and defeated Hagerstown 75-36 for their first sectional championship in 10 years.

After the game, parents, fans, and cheerleaders quickly made their way to the field to celebrate the sectional win.

After the Blackhawks were done getting pictures and talking with friends and family, they got on the bus for the ride home. Many would think the bus ride would be full of music, conversations, or other activities, but in this case, it was not. It was a quiet ride home until we reached State Road 38 and Lamong. Here the football team received a police escort back to the school. Arriving back to Sheridan at 11:20 p.m., you wouldn't think a lot of people would be out, but there were quite a few people lining the streets of Sheridan.

Once the Blackhawks arrived at the school there were more fans there to congratulate them. This again is a way the town came together to support the football team. Winning a sectional championship and having the whole town to cheer you on is a feeling that one is lucky to ever experience in a lifetime.

An En Pointe Christmas returns for a sixth performance which this year will take place on Dec. 16 and 17 at the Noblesville High School Auditorium.

Spark the spirit of the season with An En Pointe Christmas

The REPORTER
Spark the spirit of the season with a Hamilton County holiday tradition – An En Pointe Christmas, Dec. 16 and 17, presented by En Pointe Indiana Ballet. Celebrating its fifth anniversary, its back bigger than ever with more dancers, more numbers, and even more holiday spirit, plus the trademark En Pointe surprises and fresh elements that audiences have come to expect from the premier classical ballet school. With tickets starting at just $10, it's a festive, family-friendly, and affordable way to introduce even the smallest member of the family to the magic of the performing arts during the holiday season.

The dazzling full-fledged holiday performance, with over 100 dancers and 25 dance numbers, has become a holiday tradition for many central Indiana families. With its mix of classical and contemporary ballet, jazz, tap, hip hop, modern and a nine-minute finale with a playful rendition of "The Twelve Days of Christmas," the performance will have audience members full of cheer.

"Act I is full of elegance and the greatest classics from Bach, Handel and Tchaikovsky, and Act II charms with traditional Christmas favorites set to Louis Armstrong, Elvis Presley, Bing Crosby and more," said Co-Artistic Director Robert Moore. "My wife and I have given the last 30 years of our life to this art form, and we can't wait to share the wonder and magic of this year's An En Pointe Christmas with you."

Dancers began rehearsing in September with 10 to 15 hours per week in rehearsals in addition to regular classes. The performance features dancers at all levels, from 3 to 22 years old, as well as pre-professional students who train six days a week. Additionally, En Pointe has brought in several elite guest instructors, choreographers, and world-famous artists during the 2021-2022 session to help students refine their technique.

"One of the most loved parts of the performance is our nine-minute finale," Moore said. "It includes every single person in the cast and is spectacular to see. Definitely a grand finale to an amazing evening."

An En Pointe Christmas premieres at 7 p.m. on Friday, Dec. 16 at the Noblesville High School Auditorium, with a second matinee performance at 2 p.m. on Saturday, Dec. 17. Tickets are available at enpointe.yapsody.com.

Do not interrogate our kids

During the Nov. 15 Noblesville Schools Board of Trustees meeting, there was a first reading introduced to policy 5540 titled “THE SCHOOLS AND GOVERNMENTAL AGENCIES” which relates to how Department of Child Safety (DCS) can interact with students. There are several notable proposed changes that require scrutiny.

For example, in the second paragraph, the sentence has been changed from “when an agency such as DCS requests permission to question a student ...” to “when an agency such as DCS requests permission to interrogate a student ...”

In the third paragraph the principal or designee

COLUMNIST

shall be present throughout the proceedings, unless ordered not to be present by a court of law. However, in the proposed policy a phrase has been added to allow the removal of the principal or designee by a representative of the agency (DCS) or a court of law.

There is a positive addition in the sixth paragraph to state that “the interrogation should be conducted in cooperation with and in the presence of a school official” rather than the previous statement which stated that a school representative may be present during the interview when appropriate. However, the message is inconsistent since in one sentence it has the word interview, and the next sentence refers to interrogation.

The seventh paragraph is concerning because it describes a situation where a student could be interrogated by a law enforcement officer even when immediate notification of the parents is not possible. The policy goes further to state that if immediate notification is not possible the principal or designee has a 12-hour window in which to notify the parents.

To be clear, if this policy is approved it will apply to all students at all Noblesville schools regardless of age of the student or the mental or psychological capacity of the student. There is no distinction written in this policy that differentiates how DCS or a law enforcement officer can proceed with their interrogation if a student is of elementary school age, middle school age, or high school age.

While I can agree that we need a policy to spell out how the interaction between schools and governmental agencies should be handled, I believe that this policy as it is currently written requires clarification and additional details.

The next meeting of the school board will be at 7 p.m. on Tuesday, Dec. 20 in the Board Room at the Noblesville Schools Educational Services Center, 18025 River Road, Noblesville. This will be the second reading of the policy. If there are no changes, the policy will be voted on and approved that same evening.

This policy can be seen by going to the Nov. 15, 2022, meeting agenda under the detailed agenda section, section 8. Click this link to see the agenda.

Latinas Welding Guild: paving a path for women

Submitted by United Way of Central Indiana

Inside the shop, sparks flew.

Women aimed welding guns at hunks of metal, their guns sizzling and popping. Helmets shielded their eyes.

One evening in April, an instructor timed the women as they practiced for their upcoming welding certification test. Now at the end of their coursework, the dozen women would soon be joining 87 others who have completed training at the Latinas Welding Guild – nearly 100 welders in all.

Consuelo Lockhart founded the nonprofit in 2017 to create a safe space for women to learn to weld and break into the male-dominated industry. Less than 6 percent of welders in the U.S. are women, according to 2019 data from the U.S. Department of Labor.

Consuelo Lockhart founded the Latinas Welding Guild in 2017 to create a safe space for women to learn to weld and break into the male-dominated industry.

“The industry itself is still kind of backwards. There is a lot of harassment and racism that happens within the workforce,” said Lockhart, the guild’s executive director. “Our goal is to improve that and make a positive impact on the industry itself, while also being able to give women the opportunity to start a career for themselves.”

Latinas Welding Guild received $143,000 from United Way’s Social Innovation Fund in November 2021, one of 14 organizations awarded grants.

The funding has allowed the guild to pilot an equitable employment program, Lockhart said. She’s building a team of advisors who will help identify healthy and respectful workplaces. The goal is to create a pipeline, training and certifying women in welding and then placing them in work environments that have human resources departments and harassment policies in place.

Latinas Welding Guild will continue to support women after they've started working, and if an issue arises, work with the welder and the employer to ensure the problem is resolved, Lockhart said.

"Latinas Welding Guild shows us that investing in innovation in our communities has the ability to create meaningful work for women across varying backgrounds and disrupt inequities of the past," said Jonathan Jones, United Way's senior director of social innovation. "As we continue to invest in innovative approaches, we create new possibilities for the future while broadening horizons of our neighbors." Inside the guild's Indianapolis shop, flags representing some of the women's countries hang from the ceiling: Colombia, El Salvador, Mexico, Peru.

Lockhart was born in Guatemala and raised in Michigan. She fell in love with welding while first learning the process for a project in art school.

Today, her nonprofit offers 10-week courses that cover welding basics and prepare participants for cer-tification testing. The guild has placed about a dozen women into jobs, including fabrication work and at structural steel facilities.

A functional artist, Lockhart has also mentored women on how to build proposals, select materials, measure, cut, fit, weld, finish and install: "They've been able to see the entire process."

The guild aims to help low- to moderate-income women, with scholarships available.

Graciela Suarez discovered the Latinas Welding Guild by chance three years ago when she met Lockhart at a library event. She began as a student, and now she's a Spanish-language welding instructor and teacher's assistant there.

Suarez said careers in welding and mechanics are viewed unequally — more for men than for women. In addition to teaching the welders the technical aspects of the work, Suarez teaches them they have a community of other women working in the field.

"... Above all they learn to have self-confidence ... to know that they can achieve and do this job," Suarez said in Spanish, with Lockhart translating.

BBB warns consumers to watch out for social media Advent calendar scams

The REPORTER

Advent calendars have become a fixture of the holiday season. Once a religious tradition for children, these calendars are now big business. They are targeted at all ages and contain anything from luxury beauty products to Lego sets to a variety of wines. With so many options, some costing hundreds of dollars.

Before purchasing an advent calendar, BBB warns of scams that began popping up last year.

How the scam works
As you scroll through your social media feed, you come across a themed advent calendar that looks fun and unique. Judging by the comments on the post, many people have already purchased the item and love it. The post links you to a website where you can make your purchase. Everything looks normal and the price is reasonable, so you place an order. Your credit card is charged, but as the days turn into weeks, you start wondering if you'll ever receive the calendar.

In most cases, your calendar never arrives because it never existed. One consumer told BBB Scam Tracker: "I saw an ad on Facebook for a Healing Crystal Advent Calendar. I read the reviews below the ad and a lot of people were excited. The website looked professional, ordering was noneventful, and I received a confirmation email and tracking information." Unfortunately, the calendar never arrived. "So, I began some investigative work. What I found demonstrated to me that this was a fraudulent company. There were several Facebook posts and comments from people stating they were scammed."

If you're among the "lucky" few who do receive a product from a scam site, it could be a far cry from what you saw online. Another consumer had this experience: "I ordered two alcohol advent calendars (bourbon and whiskey) for $49.99 each. Each calendar was to contain 24 wax-sealed drams. They actually contained four empty plastic bottles and some small charms." Victims who reached out to customer service to resolve the issue report receiving no answer.

How to avoid social media ad scams

• Research before you buy. It can be tempting to buy something on social media on a whim, especially if it isn't too expensive, but resist the urge. Do a search for the business before you click "buy" to make sure they have a legitimate website and contact information. Even if the website has professional looking photos and good customer reviews, it could still be a fake. Check BBB Scam Tracker to see if others have been scammed by similar companies.

• Don't fall for deals that are too good to be true. If an ad promises an intricate advent calendar containing valuable gifts for an extremely low price, it probably is too good to be true.

• Search for consumer complaints. Do an online search of the product and business names along with the words "complaints," "scams," or "reviews" and see what you come up with. If you find reports of others who were scammed or didn't receive what they were promised, steer clear.

Can I Understand the Bible?

Why would God expect me to obey His will, if I could not understand it? In Ephesians 3:4, Paul assures us we can understand his insight into the will of God. If we search, we can understand the Bible (Proverbs 2:1-6). Read God's Word. Meditate upon it. Carefully study it. Come to know and understand God's Word.

We invite you and urge you to join us in study and worship as we read and study God's Word.

Hot-shooting Millers waste no time taking down Olympians to open season

By RICHIE HALL
sports@readthereporter.com

NOBLESVILLE – Going into the new season, Noblesville boys basketball coach Scott McClelland emphasized that his team needed to be “a lot tougher defensively” in order to have a good campaign this year.

The Millers got off to a good start when it came to that goal. Noblesville opened its season Saturday afternoon with a convincing 72-43 win over Columbus East at The Mill. The Millers got great production on offense, led by veterans Luke Almodovar and Aaron Fine, played solid defense throughout the game, and saw some good things from its younger players.

“I thought today at times we showed some flashes,” said McClelland, who began his second year as the Noblesville coach with this game. “We still got a long way to go with our defense. It’s a good first win. It’s a good first game.”

The Olympians only led once during the game, after they scored the first basket. Almodovar, a senior with a handful of college offers, hit a 3-pointer to put the Millers in the lead. They never looked back.

Columbus East stayed in the game for the first half of the first period, as it was still within 9-8 with under four minutes left. But Noblesville skipped off on a 14-0 run that took up the rest of the first quarter. The period ended with the Millers up 21-8; Almodovar started the run with a triple, then Fine, a junior, drained back-to-back 3s, followed by another basket for a personal 8-0 run.

Junior Will Smits opened the second quarter with a layin, and Noblesville led 23-8. The Olympians played a little more even with the Millers in that period, but baskets from Almodovar and Fine to finish the quarter gave Noblesville a 34-19 lead at halftime.

Those baskets turned out to be the start of another long run, a 21-0 stretch that took up the majority of the third quarter. Fine and Almodovar both scored five points, while senior Cooper Bean nailed a 3. Junior Hunter Walston added two free throws with 3:26 left in the quarter to give Noblesville a 51-19 advantage.

“We didn’t run a lot of offense today, and some of that had to do with the fact that we were just able to get out early and get some transition baskets,” said McClelland.

Almodovar had one more run, a personal 6-0 stretch to get the Millers ahead 62-27 late in the third quarter. Columbus East’s Ben Sylva hit a 3 for the last score of the period, which ended with Noblesville up 62-30. The Millers cruised through the fourth quarter, leading 71-31 with 3:10 left. Columbus East finished the game on a 12-1 run, but that was during the last two minutes of the game.

Almodovar led the way with 28 points, followed by Fine with 21 points. Both players made three 3-pointers. Freshman Justin Curry played well in his first-ever high school game, hitting

Trailblazers show Shortridge how to start season off right

The REPORTER

The University boys turned up the defensive intensity in the second half and pulled away for a 58-38 win at Indianapolis Shortridge.

Sabien Cain had 19 points and Andre Ozlowski added 17 points in the Trailblazers’ season opener.

University trailed 24-20 with 3:25 left in the second quarter before scoring the last nine points of the half to take a 29-24 advantage. The Trailblazers held the Blue Devils to just 14 points in the second half, forcing numerous turnovers and steals.

Cain started the half-ending run by splitting a pair of free throws. Bryce Gray scored to cut the Shortridge lead to 24-23 before a pair of Cain foul shots put the Blazers up for good at 25-24. Cain scored again with 50 seconds off an Ozlo-
