PREVAIL
Advocating for Victims of Crime & Abuse

I was born and raised right here in Noblesville. I grew up in a home without domestic violence or assault - it wasn't something I saw, or even heard about. But when I was introduced to Prevail of Central Indiana, I was shocked by the number of individuals who are affected by domestic violence. In 2018 alone, Prevail helped more than 4,000 clients in Hamilton County (nearly 80 percent of clients are women and children). Domestic violence and abuse are hard topics to discuss, so you don't often hear about them. But at Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville, we're breaking the taboo and raising awareness for Prevail, an organization that helps families in Hamilton County.

County Plan Commission can provide guidance on flood zones

Submitted by Hamilton County Plan Commission

In 1913, 1958, 1964, 1999, 2003 and 2005, heavy rains caused the White River, creeks such as Big and Little Cicero Creek, Mud Creek, Stony Creek, and streams to overflow their banks. Some of the most notable floods were the result of heavy rains over several hours, ice and log jams. The largest flood of record in Hamilton County occurred in 1913.

Hamilton County is divided into nine different building and zoning jurisdictions. The Hamilton County Plan Commission covers parts of Adams, Noblesville, and Wayne townships, and all of White River Township.

The County Plan Commission offers assistance to current, new, and future property owners, insurance companies, banks, mortgage companies, etc., concerning a property's flood zone classification and whether it is in a floodway. Other information that can be given includes flood depths, areas of historical flooding, how to go about getting flood insurance, contour information, and wetland natural functions (when available) for our jurisdictional areas of Hamilton County only. Elevation Certificates that are provided to our office for our specific jurisdictional area are available upon request.

Our office maintains a comprehensive library of manuals and materials dealing with flood hazard matters, including reducing loss in high-risk flood hazard areas, flood proofing for both residential and non-residential structures, elevating residential structures, installing manufactured homes in flood hazard areas, as well as design guidelines for flood damage reduction, flood area maps, flood elevations, repairing your flooded home, etc.

We have also provided the Noblesville Library and the Sheridan Library with copies of the above listed information. The Noblesville Library is located at 1 Library Plaza on Cumberland Road, Noblesville (just west of Conner Street) and the Sheridan Library is located at 103 W. First St., Sheridan.

You may reach our office by coming to the Hamilton County Government and Judicial Center, 1 Hamilton County Square, Suite 306, Noblesville, or by calling (317) 776-8490.

Pay now or pay more later: ensuring Hamilton County families have Medicaid coverage for ABA therapy

By JENNA BURKHARD
Guest Columnist

In a few weeks, our state legislators will convene for the 2023 legislative session. One issue that will likely be top-of-mind is Indiana's high healthcare costs, which are creating a heavy burden on Hoosiers in Hamilton County who are already feeling the pain in their pocketbooks from high inflation.

The emphasis on high healthcare costs has spurred a flurry of proposals for lowering costs – including cutting the state's spending on essential programs like Medicare and Medicaid. Policymakers must consider these proposals carefully and focus on adopting precise cost-cutting strategies instead of across-the-board cuts which could have unintended consequences and raise our healthcare costs in the long run.

A prime example of shortsighted cuts would be lowering coverage for preventative care. Cutting back on these types of care would ultimately lead to worse health outcomes and a much higher price tag down the road.

As an ABA therapist, I work daily to support and advocate for individuals with intellectual disabilities and their families – including individuals with Autism Spectrum Disorder (ASD). One of the most scientifically validated therapies for individuals with autism is called Applied Behavior Analysis (ABA) therapy. ABA therapy is a prime example of a routine intervention that can far improve outcomes in the long run.

Importantly, ABA therapy is far more effective as an early intervention. Participating in ABA therapy at an early age has lifelong impacts on people with ASD and their families – allowing them to be more independent, make their own income, and have a more robust social life. Simply put, early investment in ABA therapy pays off in the long run.

That's why it is surprising that ABA may be singled out as a place to cut Medicaid coverage.

One of the main goals of ABA therapy is to limit the duration of service and prepare clients to leave the therapy setting and be able to translate their learned skills to the real world. That means most individuals with ASD receive this therapy for one or two years – and receive a lifetime of benefits, both for themselves and for their families who can now more reliably enter the workforce instead of 24/7 childcare at home.

Compare that to an entire adulthood of lost opportunities for individuals and their families if access to this care is stripped away. According to one study, services for adults with autism have a much higher cost than services for children, by a factor of three, costing as much as $196 billion a year, compared to $61 billion for children services.

Indiana has a reputation for providing superior autism services for those who need it while remaining fiscally responsible. That's why state legislators and other decision-makers in Indiana should reject any Medicaid cuts for preventative autism care.

Drastic cuts would immediately impact families in Hamilton County and across the state coping with autism who rely on this care and would particularly burden low-income families who often need care the most. Just as important, a reduction in coverage today would be fiscally shortsighted, ignoring the future costs that are inevitable when children who lost access to services are increasingly dependent on the state.

Hoosiers deserve quality and accessible autism services. Drastic reductions in Medicaid reimbursement for ABA therapy will cost taxpayers more while hurting families.

Sen. Todd Young's bipartisan Data Mapping to Save Moms' Lives Act signed into law

Submitted by Sen. Young's Press Office

U.S. Senators Todd Young (R-Ind.), Jacky Rosen (D-Nev.), and Deb Fischer (R-Neb.) applauded news that President Biden has signed their bipartisan Data Mapping to Save Moms' Lives Act into law.

The legislation would require the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) to identify areas where high rates of poor maternal health outcomes overlap with lack of access to broadband services in order to pinpoint where telehealth services can be most effective.

"Unfortunately, Indiana has one of the worst maternal mortality rates in the country," Sen. Young said. "I'm glad the President has now signed our Data Mapping to Save Moms' Lives Act into law to improve the lives of Hoosier mothers and families. This new law will identify where high maternal mortality rates coincide with lack of broadband services to help ensure these regions have access to the life-saving telehealth services that pregnant women need for better care."

Indiana education leaders want budget doubled for English language learners

By CAMILA FERNANDEZ
WISH-TV | wishtv.com

Education officials are pushing to get more money for students learning English.

The state says such students are struggling to catch up from falling behind in the pandemic. According to education officials, a lot of these English learning students have not been able to return to normal rates of learning before COVID-19 hit.

"We've had an influx in English language learners and the needs are great," said Mariama Shaheed, the founder and CEO of Global Prep Academy at Riverside 44.

The Indiana Department of Education (DoE) is asking for $100 million to provide more resources for English learners and their teachers in the next two-year budget. Right now, it has a budget of $55 million for the Non-English Speaking Program.

Indiana Secretary of Education Katie Jenner says about 36 percent of these students are not proficient in reading and writing.

"We should look at those schools that are at the rock bottom and figure out how do we infuse more resources for them to catch up and create more of an equitable way," State Senator Eddie Melton said.

According to the DoE, there are about 77,563 English-learning students across the state. In 2017, there were about 59,102 – that's an increase of more than 30 percent.

State officials say during COVID-19, English learners in fifth through eighth grades fell behind, especially in English language arts.

"We are in a crisis, and every time we talk about educational funding we nickel and dime – even though it's half of the state budget – to the point that some public officials probably say we need to push the envelope just a little," said State Senator Fady Qaddoura, "and the first thought that comes to their mind is reducing funding for education."

Shaheed spoke of the importance of support in the students' homes.

"When students were at home learning virtually, there's a level of support that's needed in the home, and when families don't speak English and they're not able to provide that level of support the gap is that much wider for students whose primary language was not English," Shaheed said.

Jenner says she is open to ideas to bring change.

"We're a humble crew," Jenner said. "If there are things that are missing we're always willing to attack that based on ideas that come from local communities."

DoE officials say they also want to rename the Non-English Speaking Program to Indiana English Support Program.

Tips for smooth holiday gift returns & exchanges

The REPORTER

Holiday returns aren't easy, and that doesn't mean the part where you explain to your mother why you returned the sweater she gave you.

Stores are not legally required to accept exchanges or give refunds unless the merchandise was defective or misrepresented. While most retailers do offer refund and exchange programs, policies vary greatly from one store to another. Be sure to double-check policies this holiday season, even if you are familiar with the brand, as stores can change their policies whenever they want.

The following tips should help to make your holiday returns run more smoothly.

Get to know store policies

Before you make a purchase, find out if the store has a return policy and, if so, how it works. Understand that many retailers change their policies for the holiday season. If the store does allow returns or exchanges, find out if you will need to pay a restocking fee. Ask the seller if they offer cash refunds, exchanges, or only store credit. Store policies are usually posted at the checkout counter or printed on the back of receipts.

Understand online store return policies

If you are shopping online, search for the seller's return policy and read it through before clicking "buy." Find out if they accept returns or exchanges, and who pays the shipping when an item is returned. In some cases, you can save on shipping fees by returning an online purchase to the local brick-and-mortar store.

Get the details on a product's warranty

Most electronics and home appliances come with warranties that are to be fulfilled by the manufacturer, not the retailer. Find out how returns and repairs are handled if an item stops working or needs replacement parts. Will the retailer ship the item to the manufacturer for you? Or will you need to deal with the manufacturer directly? Knowing the answers will leave you well-prepared for any future issues.

Keep your receipt & packaging

Most stores will only accept returns and exchanges if you can present the item with its receipt and original packaging. Always include a gift receipt with items you give and hold on to any gift receipts you receive.

Bring your ID

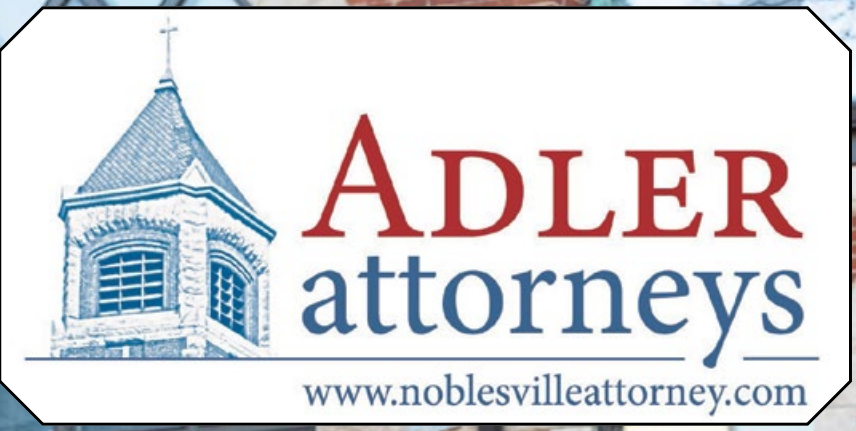

To avoid holiday return scams, many stores ask to see your ID when you return an item. Sometimes retailers require you to bring your ID and the original form of payment. If this is the policy of the store where your gift is from, you may need the assistance of the gift giver in order to be reimbursed.

Make returns in a timely fashion

Almost all return policies are valid during a specific time period. Some stores modify their return period during the holidays, so don't risk missing your chance to make your return. Take the item back to the store without delay.

TODAY'S BIBLE READING

John,
To the seven churches in the province of Asia:
Grace and peace to you from him who is, and who was, and who is to come, and from the seven spirits before his throne, and from Jesus Christ, who is the faithful witness, the firstborn from the dead, and the ruler of the kings of the earth.
To him who loves us and has freed us from our sins by his blood, and has made us to be a kingdom and priests to serve his God and Father—to him be glory and power for ever and ever! Amen.
“Look, he is coming with the clouds,” and “every eye will see him, even those who pierced him”; and all peoples on earth “will mourn because of him.” So shall it be! Amen.
“I am the Alpha and the Omega,” says the Lord God, “who is, and who was, and who is to come, the Almighty.”

Upon graduation from Broad Ripple High School in 1952, Dolores worked for Indiana Bell Telephone Company and then transferred to Southern Bell after she married J. Charles Kassebaum in 1954. They lived in Jacksonville, Fla., until Charles finished his service with the Navy, and returned to live on the northside of Indianapolis. In 1974, she and Charles moved their family to the country between Fishers and Noblesville. Dolores enjoyed sewing, gardening, baking, and cooking. Her positions as a baker, then cafeteria manager at John Strange Elementary in Washington Township for over 16 years was a perfect job for her. After retirement in 1991, she helped Charles on the family farm, spent lots of time with her grandchildren, and loved hanging out with high school friends. She and Charles celebrated 61 years of marriage before his death in 2016. She was a long-time member of Fishers United Methodist Church. Dolores is survived by her three daughters, Evelyn (Paul) Grissom of New Palestine, Mary (Mark) Rogers of London, Ohio, and Jeanette Kassebaum (Mark Stall) of McCordsville; four grandchildren and five great-grandchildren; her brother, Paul (Nancy) Higgins; and sister, Marcia (Michael) Durham; and many nieces and nephews. Her mother, Catherine Darner Higgins, and a sister preceded her in death. Memorial contributions may be made to Riley Children's Foundation, P.O. Box 3356, Indianapolis, IN 46206. Visitation will be held from 10 a.m. to noon on Wednesday, Jan. 4, 2023, at Flanner Buchanan-Oaklawn Memorial Gardens (Good Shepherd Chapel), 9700 Allisonville Road, Indianapolis. Funeral services will be held there at noon. Online condolences may be shared at flannerbuchanan.com.

Millers fight hard, but fall short to Lawrence Central at Holiday Tourney NOBLESVILLE – The Noblesville boys basketball team finished as runner-up at its own Holiday Tournament on Wednesday.

The Millers made their way to the championship game, where they took on Lawrence Central. Whoever won the game would become the first two-time champion of the tournament. In the end, that honor went to the Bears, as they beat Noblesville 48-45 in a hard-fought, occasionally crazy title game at The Mill.

“LC’s playing very good basketball,” said Noblesville coach Scott McClelland. “I think they’ve really improved since the beginning of the season.”

The Millers led for most of the first half, save for the opening seconds. Lawrence Central scored the first basket of the game before layins by Aiden Brewer and Aaron Fine put Noblesville up 4-2.

Joshua Mickens tied the game with a pair of free throws, but Luke Almodovar was good on a three-point play, and the Millers were up 7-4. Noblesville steadily stretched its lead for the next several minutes, eventually leading 24-14 with two minutes left in the second quarter.

Fine was playing well during that stretch, pouring in 10 points, a total that included two 3-pointers in the second quarter. Cooper Bean helped out with an and-1 near the middle part of the period. The Bears made a comeback during the final two minutes of the half, but Noblesville still led 25-20 at halftime.

The Millers got back up 29-20 at the start of the third quarter, as Hunter Walston hit a pair of free throws and Almodovar made a dunk. But LC took control after that, outscoring Noblesville 13-2 over the remaining six minutes of the quarter to lead 33-31. DaJohn Craig, who would be named the Tournament MVP after the game, scored seven points in the third.

“We got out-toughed a little bit in the third quarter, so that was disappointing,” said McClelland.

The Bears stayed in front for the entire fourth quarter. A layin by Craig put them up 40-33, after which the Millers scored five quick points with a Fine layin and an Almodovar 3. Lawrence Central put up six fast points – three layins – to go up 46-38, then Bryson Luter’s layin gave the Bears their biggest lead at 48-38 with about a minute to go.

Noblesville finished the game on a wild 7-0 run. Fine and Bean made layins, then Walston scored off a quick steal, followed by a free throw. The Millers got the ball back with seconds left, but were unable to get a shot off before the buzzer.

McClelland said that missed layups were becoming a concern for the team – “several guys admitted to that in the locker room,” he said. Free throws also became an issue, as the Millers were 10-of-17 from the line.

“The missed layups and the missed free throws, it just gets magnified in a game like this,” said McClelland. “Then you got to take care of the ball. They sped us up, we didn’t run a lot of offense. They pressed us, and then went back to man. And instead of just having a little bit of poise and trying to run some offense, we were so quick to just put the ball on the floor.”

Fine finished the game with 17 points, while Almodovar added 10 points. Almodovar was named to the All-Tournament team after the championship game.

While the Millers (7-2) were disappointed, McClelland said that the game was “a loss in December in the whole scheme of things. I think you have to keep that in perspective,” he said.

Noblesville will get a chance to rebound from the loss on Tuesday, when the Millers play at Pike.

“So, let’s see how we respond to this kind of team,” said McClelland. “We’ve played nine games, and in those nine games, I think we’ve played so many different styles and found ways to win in so many different types of games.” The coach said those are things that will be “growing and learning experiences down the road.”

In their semi-final game, Noblesville used a big third quarter to beat Crown Point 61-44. The Bulldogs led the Millers 14-13 after the first quarter, then Noblesville edged ahead in the second period to take a 24-23 lead by halftime.

The Millers blasted through the third period, outscoring Crown Point 26-10. Almodovar threw in three 3s for nine points, and Fine scored nine points in that quarter as well. That gave Noblesville a 50-33 lead, and the Millers kept their advantage around that margin in the fourth period.

Almodovar finished the game with 21 points and five triples. Fine scored 17 points and Walston added 10 points.

Greyhounds have no trouble sweeping double dual meet

The REPORTER

The Carmel swim teams hosted Zionsville and Homestead Wednesday in a double dual meet.

Both Greyhounds teams easily defeated each of their opponents. On the girls side, Carmel took care of Zionsville 136-34 and Homestead 125-45, with victories in 10 of the 11 events.

Alex Shackell was a double winner for the Greyhound girls, taking the 50 and 100 freestyles. In both races, Shackell led a 1-2-3 sweep of the event. Carmel also swept the top four in the 200 free (with Lynsey Bowen winning) and the individual medley (which Molly Sweeney won). Also placing first in individual events were Lexie Ward (500 free), Berit Berglund (backstroke) and Lucy Enoch (breaststroke); the Hounds also won all three relays.

Carmel's boys beat Zionsville 101-69 and Homestead 120-50, with seven event victories. Aaron Shackell was first in the 200 free and breaststroke. Sean Sullivan won the 50 free and Brandon Malicki took the breaststroke, and the Greyhounds were also winners in the medley and 200 free relays.

Carmel coach Chris Plumb said his swimmers are coming off what he called "really good meets" at the junior nationals and nationals events, including setting some national records in age group competition.

"So, we felt good about our team coming out of that and now we're in some heavy training," said Plumb. "Kids are seeing that, but that always helps you come February and March."

Plumb said that in the regular-season meets, "instead of training in practice, it's an opportunity to make training in a meet." The coach said that instead of doing similar race performances in practice, the swimmers get on the blocks and "get more of the feel for what actually the meet is."

The Hounds have two more regular-season meets left, as they host Fishers on Tuesday and Pike on Thursday, Jan. 12. All the while, Carmel will be training for the post-season, which begins with the girls sectionals on Feb. 2 and the boys sectionals on Feb. 16. The girls have won 36 consecutive state championships, while the boys have won eight state titles in a row.
