Janowicz is replacing Lori Raffel, whom she met while working on CCP's production of Shipwrecked. Raffel, who has served on CCP's Board of Directors since 1999, stepped down as Artistic Director in November.

"Hannah taking over the artistic direction is a great start in a new direction," Raffel said. "I have enjoyed every minute of my experience with CCP, and I plan to continue directing for them. I am thrilled with Hannah accepting this position, and I know she will bring her considerable knowledge and creativity with her."

"The CCP community welcomed me so warmly as an actor," Janowicz said. "I'm eager to step into the role and begin preparing for a new season, as I know I have big shoes to fill. Community Theatre cultivates such a unique space for play, exploration and connection. As theatre artists, we never truly stop learning, be it through auditions, board meetings, rehearsals, or a seat in the audience. What a gift it is to learn while we play! I'm so fortunate to begin this journey with CCP. I believe we have new stories to tell, new faces to meet, and new opportunities to bring our audiences back for more."

In her role as Artistic Director, Janowicz is responsible for managing the main-stage artistic activity of the Carmel Community Players, reporting to the Board of Directors. In addition, she assumes responsibility for conceiving, developing, and implementing the artistic vision and the focus of the theater.

BLOOD DRIVE

While he held my knees, his usually gruff voice sounded unusually soft. "You'll be alright, Saalman," he said. He hollered over his shoulder, as if a real life and death drama had unfolded, "Get Saalman a cookie." Then, calm and concerned, he said, "Do you like chocolate chip, Saalman? What's your favorite cookie?"

Talk about surreal. I never dreamed I would be talking cookies with the wrestling coach. I was still confused as to why we were wrestling.

"You just gave blood, Saalman," he explained. "Oreo," I responded.

When I sat upright, the gym exploded with clapping students, as if I were a football player, who, after a few motionless minutes, miraculously rose from the turf following a nasty, whip-lashing hit. In my case, though, any compassion soon dissolved into comedy.

"Get Saalman a cookie," a wisecrack shouted from the top bleachers, mimicking the wrestling coach. His followers chanted the same. These hecklers were my closest pals. With friends like that, who needs enemies?

I didn't donate blood again until my mid-30s. I did not faint the second time, nor ever again. A full stomach beforehand helps ensure this.

I became very consistent in donating blood, up until COVID-19 struck. Only in the latter part of last year, after learning of a national blood shortage (a crisis due perhaps to back-pedaling, pandemic-driven pausers like me), did I recommit to this heroic practice when I returned to the bloodmobile and donated a pint during an event hosted by my employer, Kimball Electronics, in Indianapolis.

I know many people who donate blood, but I know far more people who don't. The latter is puzzling. Consider some facts from the American Red Cross:

- The need for blood is constant. Every two seconds someone in the U.S. needs blood.
- More than one million new people are diagnosed with cancer each year. Many of them will need blood, sometimes daily, during their chemotherapy treatment.
- A single car accident victim can require as many as 100 pints of blood.
- One in seven patients entering a hospital will need a blood transfusion.
- Every day, Red Cross blood donors are the lifeline for car accident victims, parents with complicated childbirths, individuals battling cancer and people with sickle cell disease.

So, why not donate?

Some people have a morbid fear of needles. Some people get freaked out imagining an entire pint of blood exiting their body. After all, a body houses only about 10 pints. But guess what? The body recreates the missing blood.

Many people just don't even think about donating.

There's a 1963 John Updike short story, called "Giving Blood," that addresses the worry of Richard Maple as he travels with his wife to Boston to donate blood, a first for him. "Sweetie," Richard blurted, "will they hurt me?" Adds Updike, "... he had, less through his own determination than through the diffidence of the solicitors, evaded pledging blood. It was one of those tests of courage so trivial that no one had ever thought to make him face up to it."

So, does it hurt?

For me, the worst part is the quick finger prick – a slight pain – that has to happen to test your hemoglobin.

For some, it's not the blood they don't want to donate, it's the time.

According to the Red Cross, "The actual blood donation typically takes less than 10-12 minutes. The entire process, from the time you arrive to the time you leave, takes about an hour and 15 min."

I donate the time and blood because I want to make a difference in someone's life, just as donors made a difference for my mother in 1963. The baby arrived 10 weeks premature, 2 pounds, 8 ounces, dying six hours later. For four days, my mother hemorrhaged. My father's co-workers rushed to the hospital to donate blood. Mom lived, giving birth to me the following year. I'm happy to be here. I have coworkers whose family members lives were saved due to blood donations, too.

When I fret over the time it takes and the fear of the pinprick, I simply ask myself, "How can I not donate blood?"

Consider the Red Cross statistics and ask yourself, "How can I not donate blood?"

Updike was right. If no one makes you face up to doing it, why do it?

It's a little test of courage that makes big impact.

I'm asking you to face up to it.

Remember, there are free cookies and other snacks in it for you, something I deprive myself of at home. That's another reason I do it.

I was born and raised right here in Noblesville. I grew up in a home without domestic violence or assault - it wasn't something I saw, or even heard about. But when I was introduced to Prevail of Central Indiana, I was shocked by the number of individuals who are affected by domestic violence. In 2018 alone, Prevail helped more than 4,000 clients in Hamilton County (nearly 80 percent of clients are women and children). Domestic violence and abuse are hard topics to discuss, so you don't often hear about them. But at Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville, we're breaking the taboo and raising awareness for Prevail, an organization that helps families in Hamilton County.

Letter to the Editor

Shaffer compares Carmel & Fishers

Dear Editor:

Now that Carmel and Fishers have virtually identical populations, it's fair to critically compare simple facts. Carmel has spent about a half-billion dollars on roundabouts, presumably to make driving safer. Fishers hasn't spent the money but, in the last three years, had virtually the same safety record as Carmel, according to police reports from both cities.

Last year there were 2,009 traffic accidents in Fishers and 2,065 in Carmel. In COVID year 2020, Fishers experienced 1,640 accidents to Carmel's 1,607.

In 2019, Fishers recorded 2,097 accidents and Carmel, 2,064.

So much for roundie spending.

Carmel's total outstanding debt now is 53 percent higher than Fishers, and its 2023 debt service (principal and interest) payments will be just 11 percent higher as Fishers taxpayers pay off debt faster than Carmel's.

All of this explains why Fishers' per-capita debt is $8,989, and Carmel's is $18,633, according to data both cities provided the Indiana Department of Local Government Finance. Much of Carmel's debt is redevelopment debt, but the basic principal borrowed by the two cities shows Carmel's to be three times that of Fishers.

You get the picture. Two cities. One spending like there's no tomorrow and the other, acting less irresponsibly.

State Road 37 & 141st Street

On Monday, Jan. 9, there will be rolling lane restrictions in place on SR 37 between 116th Street and Greenfield Avenue from 9 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. as the Fishers Department of Public Works installs business access signage prior to the Right-In-Right-

Out (RIRO) traffic configuration at 141st Street.

A pre-construction phase at SR 37 and 141st Street is anticipated to begin on Wednesday, Jan. 11, weather permitting. During this phase, 141st Street will be transitioned to a Right-In-Right-Out (RIRO) traffic configuration. This is not the permanent configuration. This will allow for traffic to flow more freely along SR 37 until the next phases of construction can be activated. This will eliminate all backups along SR 37 that have caused dangerous stops to the free flow traffic and backups on the 146th Street interchange. Again, this is not the permanent configuration for 141st Street.

The full timeline for the 141st Street interchange will be provided after project bids are accepted in the Fall of 2023. View detour routes here.

Two Noblesville nursing students among inductees at IU Kokomo

The REPORTER

Twenty-five students began the journey toward becoming health care professionals at the Indiana University Kokomo School of Nursing and Allied Health Professions (SNAHP) traditional induction ceremony on Wednesday.

Locally, Karedis Araujo and Shaelyn Morefield, both of Noblesville, were among the inductees.

Susan Plough, lecturer of nursing, welcomed the incoming nursing students, encouraging them to lean on one another and their faculty and staff through the challenging process of nursing school – noting that the challenge is worth the reward.

“The journey may be difficult at times, but you will reap the reward of utmost satisfaction when you hold your nursing diploma for the first time, and nothing will ever compare to the fulfillment that improving and saving the lives of others will bring,” Plough said. “We welcome you into the profession called nursing, and we look forward to helping you as you begin your journey to being a superhero.”

Dean Susan Hendricks

spoke of the role of the nurse, emphasizing commitment to patient care, providing care based on scientific evidence, serving as teachers and coaches, working as part of a health care team, and advocating for patients. She encouraged them to learn not just to pass a class, but to apply their knowledge to patients, build a strong foundation of knowledge, and to take care of themselves and their classmates during the journey.

“In a short time, at the close of this chapter in your life, you will be a nurse, and it will be worth it,” Hendricks said.

Chancellor Mark Canada also congratulated the inductees, and members of the Indiana Nurse Honor Guard welcomed them to the profession.

The new students, selected through a rigorous acceptance process, wore the red scrubs that marked them as IU nursing students for the first time as they each crossed the stage to receive a certificate of accomplishment. The incoming class also recited the Nursing Pledge, which is a promise to uphold the ethics of the nursing profession.

1895 – Indiana attorney Helen Gougar was admitted to the Tippecanoe County Bar. On the same day, she argued before the Tippecanoe County Superior Court that the Indiana Constitution did not specifically prohibit women from voting. The Court ruled against her, and she later appealed to the Indiana Supreme Court.

1927 – George Taliaferro was born in Tennessee, but his family moved to Gary, Ind., where he graduated from Gary Roosevelt High School. He became a star football player and attended

John DeLucia running for Fishers City Council

Submitted

John P. DeLucia has announced his candidacy for the Fishers City Council District 3 seat.

DeLucia is a longtime resident of Fishers, raising his children, and now grandchildren while contributing to the community along the way. The primary for this city council seat will be held in May 2023, with the general election falling in early November.

"I have long recognized Fishers as a great place to live and work," DeLucia said. "I chose to settle here with my family and I want to bring that experience to the city council, as well as a vision for the future to encourage others to join our community. I try to serve others in all that I do, and that is just the type of attitude I will carry with me to the Fishers City Council."

DeLucia has previously served on the Hamilton Southeastern School Board for eight years, as well as being voted the OneZone Chamber of Commerce Most Valuable Volunteer for 2017.

He has raised his children in the community of Fishers, buying his first home here in 1993. He has been extremely involved in his community as a whole, acting as a coach to hundreds of local children in baseball, softball, soccer, and basketball over the years. He has also been a role model for high schoolers in the community, with his work in the Youth Mentoring Initiative, as well as the HSE High School Finance Academy.

He has spent his life working mostly in the business and financial sectors and has served as the Chief Lending Officer at Citizens State Bank since 2013.

When asked why he wants to run, DeLucia said, "For me it's all about finding a new way to support my community. I previously served on the school board, and now my goal is to help grow Fishers, while fostering our important existing relationships with our small and medium sized businesses."

DeLucia has served the community and country through his service in the Navy, work on the school board, charitable organization involvement, and local mentoring work. He graduated from Indiana University with his bachelor's degree, and with honors from the Defense Language Institute while in the Navy.

Submitted

Darren Peterson, Mike Davis, and Todd Thurston have all filed for election to the Noblesville Common Council.

Peterson currently serves At Large. "We have a lot of momentum in Noblesville, and I'm looking forward to the continued investment in our community, while maintaining and preserving our authentic Downtown," he said.

Davis, who currently represents District 1, said, "I am looking forward to continuing my service on the Noblesville City Council because I truly love Noblesville. I've been ingrained in Noblesville for my entire life. I want to continue giving back and building on the accomplishments of the last few years. Every day I count my blessings, and I'm thankful to live in one of America's greatest cities."

Thurston is seeking the District 2 seat. "I love Noblesville," he said. "This is an incredible opportunity to truly listen to the people of Noblesville and ensure that their feedback and needs are reflected in the decisions being made by the city council."

Carmel mayoral candidate Sue Finkam announces campaign team

Submitted

Sue Finkam, business executive and candidate for Carmel Mayor, announced on Friday the hiring of key positions on her campaign.

"I'm really proud of this diverse and experienced team we've begun assembling," Finkam said. "They are agile, smart and scrappy and know what it takes to win, emblematic of the spirit I'd bring to city hall."

Ascent Strategic partner and Carmel resident Kory Wood will serve as senior advisor.

Ascent Strategic has more than 80 years of experience in running campaigns for every level of office. Ascent Strategic clients have included candidates for President, U.S. Senate, Congress, statewide office, and mayor.

Current and former clients include the Republican National Committee, the Indiana Republican Party, Independent Women's Voice, State Treasurer Daniel Elliott, State Auditor Tera Klutz, Carmel Mayor Jim Brainard, and Congresswoman Kat Cammack of Florida.

Chris Elmore has been tapped to serve as Campaign Manager.

Elmore has experience in a variety of roles throughout Carmel and the State of Indiana. Being involved in political campaigns since his freshman year of high school, he has worked for the Hamilton County Republican Party as executive director, the Senate Majority Campaign Committee as a field director, and worked for Carmel Mayor Jim Brainard's 2019 re-election campaign.

In addition to these grassroots roles, Elmore has served as the chairman for the Indiana High School Republicans, which developed chapters throughout the state to mobilize youth activism in local politics and has served as the chairman for the Hamilton County Young Republicans.

Rachel Birenbaum

has been hired as Finance Director.

Birenbaum has a wide breadth of experience in politics, working in the offices of the Indiana State Senate, the offices of Senator Todd Young in Washington, D.C., and as a district aide for the U.S. House of Representatives.

In addition, she has worked as a legal assistant with Ice Miller, an administrative coordinator with a local financial firm, and, most recently, as a finance assistant with Daniels Spaulding Consulting LLC.

Tamm files to run for Westfield City Council

On Thursday, Patrick Tamm filed to run for Westfield City Council representing District 4. "I have a track record of bringing solutions to the table," Tamm said. "I'm passionate about how local government makes a direct impact on the community we live in ... and I'm ready to lead with a collaborative and strategic approach."

Dan Canan announces run for Fishers City Council

Submitted

Dan Canan has announced his candidacy in the upcoming municipal election for the open seat on the Fishers City Council, North-east District.

Though this is the first time Canan has run for elected office in Fishers, he says he is no stranger to the responsibilities. After running his business in Muncie for 15 years, in 1995 Canan and his wife believed that a different type of leadership for the community was needed, so they decided he should run for mayor. He was elected and followed this with two more elections, serving a total of 12 years.

Canan said it was never his goal to become a career politician, so he made the decision to move back to the private sector. This led him in 2010 to a career in Fishers as CEO of the Fishers Chamber and EVP of OneZone Chamber.

As President of the Fishers Chamber, Canan said he knew it was important to be involved in the community. In addition to numerous boards and commissions that he has volunteered on, he currently serves on the Fishers Redevelopment Commission, and a member of the Launch Fishers/Indiana IoT Lab Board of Directors.

Several of the issues important to Canan include:

- Supporting Fishers' public safety forces is a number one priority. With adequate funding and progressive leadership, the city's police, fire and emergency medical personnel will be able to deliver the first-class services residents have received and expect in the future.

- Planned infrastructure, roads, utilities, recreational areas, and smart land planning supporting current residents and future residents of Fishers.

- Strong support of Economic Development because these companies provide new employment opportunities for residents and help lower taxes encouraging addition growth.

The city of Fishers has experienced astounding growth in population and economic development over the past several years. If elected as a member of the City Council, Canan says he will use his experience in the private and public sectors to make decisions ensuring Fishers residents can continue to maintain the high standard of living to which they are accustomed.

Jarred William Freeman
March 23, 1999 – January 2, 2023

Jarred William Freeman was born in Indiana on March 23, 1999.

He was a loving, quick-into-everything infant. He was a mathematically gifted, spontaneous, impulsive child who never made the same mistake twice. He was an overly anxious, frustrated teen/young adult fighting to find purpose and fulfillment. He wrestled with identity and purpose all the time, yet always wanted to comply, be included, make a difference, be remembered, and bring laughter to others. He was a unique, one-of-a-kind breed.

Over the last several days, we've received numerous texts from friends with one common theme – Jarred had the biggest f...ing heart and would do anything for anyone!

Jarred was a daredevil, a water boy, and extremely compassionate. He loved music, played piano, drums, guitar, he'd beat on anything, and loved jamming to Justin Bieber songs on the radio with his favorite boss! He always wanted to be surrounded by friends or with family.

As Jarred moved through each era of his life, he explored a large variety of fashion trends (Scooby-Doo, soccer, skateboard, Husker, tough guy, model, party animal, wear all my jewelry at once, Champion, to name a few). He met many of you along the way.

The last six months was the intentional era. He went off to California to get help, came home with a deeper love for family, a drive to better himself, and a desire to draw really close to family and a few friends. He took classes and got certified nationally as a Peer Recovery Specialist and began work in a Treatment Center. In his words, he wanted to do it so he could help others not have to suffer like he has. He intentionally spent time with family, drawing closer to us, sharing more of himself, his desires, his dreams, his anxiety, and his pains. He bonded with Erica, Quentin, and Rex in ways he never had before.

Yet, the one consistency in his life was his love of family and foundation of faith. His first tattoo was "Family", his second a cross. He put the Chinese symbol "faith" on his side, and a music symbol behind his ear before adding flowers and a Koi fish to his arms.

It all ended on the morning of December 24, 30 minutes before a car ride to Michigan to celebrate Christmas. He fought for nine days before he was carried home to heaven. Yet, sign after sign in the hospital let us know he was surrounded by angels and comforted before beautifully being carried across the finish line on January 2, 2023, at 11:11 a.m. There is no doubt he is with God! After 23.5 years, we proudly watched him march into heaven as our little drummer boy.

He will not be forgotten.

At his core, Jarred always gave to those around him with everything he could. To continue his giving spirit, family asks that, in lieu of flowers, you donate to Bearbones Movement, a non-profit close to Jarred's heart, that fosters love, safety, and growth for young adults and exposes them to Christian community. "To the angel of the church in Pergamum write: These are the words of him who has the sharp, double-edged sword. I know where you live—where Satan has his throne. Yet you remain true to my name. You did not renounce your faith in me, not even in the days of Antipas, my faithful witness, who was put to death in your city—where Satan lives."

University girls get road victory over Harrison

The REPORTER

The University girls overcame a sluggish start Friday night to pick up a 60-54 road win over Harrison.

Senior Payton Seay had an outstanding game, scoring a game-high 28 points that included a perfect 13 of 13 at the foul line. The 5-5 senior pulled down nine rebounds and had five steals.

University struggled against Harrison's size in the first quarter. The Raiders, who lead the North Central Conference with a 5-0 record, start three players 5-11 or taller. Harrison built a 17-11 advantage after the first quarter with 6-1 Campbell Moore and 6-0 Riley Whitlock each tallying six points in the quarter.

The Trailblazers held Harrison scoreless for the first six minutes of the second quarter, scoring 12 unanswered points to take a 23-17 lead. Taylor Seay had a pair of traditional three-point plays in the quarter, including one with 5:05 left to give University their first lead at 19-17. It was a lead University would not relinquish. After Harrison scored its first points of the second quarter on an offensive rebound with 1:58 left, Payton Seay made a pair of foul shots and Jordan Patterson scored for a 27-19 lead. Harrison added the last four points of the half and University took a 27-23 halftime lead.

University started hot in the third quarter with Payton Seay making a three pointer and Kelsey DuBois scoring off a pass from Patterson. Harrison got as close as two points late in the period before a DuBois rebound basket at the third quarter horn gave University a 39-34 lead.

Patterson scored University's first four points on the fourth quarter on a reverse layup and a floater in the lane before stealing the ball and passing ahead to Payton Seay for a layin that gave University its largest lead of the game at 45-36.

Harrison got as close as four points on a few occasions before Taylor Seay's third traditional three-point play of the night gave Uni-

Tough second half pushes Northwestern by Hamilton Heights

The REPORTER

Hamilton Heights headed to Kokomo on Friday night for a Hoosier Conference East Division matchup against Northwestern.

Both teams have had a lengthy layoff since their last game action. Heights hasn't played since splitting both games they played in a holiday tournament at Franklin County on Dec. 22 and the Tigers have been off since they lost at Maconaquah on Dec. 16.

Being off five more days seemed to have Northwestern just that much hungrier, as the Tigers defended their home court against the Huskies, 57-43.

The Huskies jumped out to a 12-11 lead after one. It stayed close throughout the first half, but the Tigers were able to grab a one-point lead at halftime, 22-21.

Northwestern busted open the scoring in the third with a 19-10 quarter that gave the Tigers a 41-31 double-digit lead.

Heights put forth a surge in the fourth, but couldn't push off the Tigers' 16-12 hold en route to a 57-43 home win over the Huskies.

Maddox Bohland led Heights with a team-high 19 points and made five steals. Sam Dawson followed with nine points on three from outside-the-arc. John Irion had eight and Tillman Etchison chipped in with seven.

Hamilton Heights (3-8, 1-2 Hoosier East) has now lost three of its last four. The Huskies will be off until Jan. 13 when they take a road trip to Lapel.
