Heights elementary students are busy little bees when making art

The REPORTER

When Cheri Trachtman, Hamilton Heights Elementary School art teacher, and her students were asked to take a blank canvas and transform it into a work of art, they stepped up in a big way and created a colorful, meaningful painting. "The inspiration was a tessellating hexagon which represents a beehive," Trachtman said. "We are the busy bees working together to make something beautiful. Each hexagon is a different shade of orange. We mixed orange with white, gold, brown, black, and white. This signifies the different tints and shades of people that all blend beautifully to make our Husky family." Their artwork will be proudly displayed in the lobby of Hamilton Heights Administration building.

Remembering her Age of Embarrassment

Earlier this week, I spent a few days back home in southern Indiana for work. When down there, I try to arrange a meal with my daughter, Delaney, who is 23 now. She always takes me up on the offer, even though it requires her to drive an hour to meet up and another hour to return home. She never complains about the extra Corolla miles. She always seems to enjoy being in the company of her dad. For this, I'm grateful, especially knowing how, a dozen years ago, it was a different story.

Here's how it once was:

She used to sit on my lap at the movies, my daughter Delaney. Even when she became big enough to occupy the seat beside me without it folding up and devouring her, she often ended up in my lap to fall asleep. I cherished such Saturday matinee closeness, waking her only when the end credits rolled. Sadly, her dad dependency waned not too long after. Her friends began tagging along, ending the need for me to sit by her. Not that I complained since their seats of choice were in the front row, the worst angle for aged necks. Girls know this tactic well. It is part of their biological wiring as they enter into their hyper self-conscious states. I was sentenced to the back row, the movie house equivalent of Siberia, where I often fell asleep with other members of the Missing Parents Club.

I wasn't totally out of the picture then. Often, by mid-movie, Delaney would find her way through the dark and wake me up – not to sit on my lap but to send me to the lobby for more snacks. I was being used, but at least I was being useful. Delaney is 12 now, and I have been banned from entering the cinema, period. I drop her off in the parking lot, preferably on the outer fringes where no one can bear witness. I still provide money for the tickets and snacks, though this dutiful donation occurs within the car. Note to dads of soon-to-be-teen daughters: don't dare think you can get away with slipping her a wad of cash through a rolled down driver's side window while she stands alongside the car. God forbid one of her friends actually sees the flash of your money hand reaching out to her, thus spoiling the cloak of invisibility that has been cast upon you in instances of her social interaction. I assume she's now capable of going to the snack counter alone. I am now an official dweller in the Age of Embarrassment. It goes far beyond just our movie-going experiences. It is 24-7. No more photo sessions in front of the building on the first day of a new school year. No more hollering, "I love you, Delaney," when she exits from the back seat in the school's car line. No more splitting banana splits at DQ. No more curling on the couch watching Butch Cassidy and The Sundance Kid,

Carmel woman stabbed in head on Bloomington bus; suspect arrested

By DIVINE TRIPLETT
WISH-TV | wishtv.com

Carmel woman was sent to the hospital after being stabbed in the head by another woman while she was waiting on a Bloomington Transit bus, police say.

Bloomington police were called to the stabbing about 4:45 p.m. Wednesday on the bus when it stopped on West Fourth Street and the B-Line Trail. After the bus stopped, the woman told police she stood up to exit and, while she was waiting for the doors to open, 56-year-old Billie Davis came behind her and stabbed her in the head multiple times.

The Carmel woman, who was not identified by police, was taken to an area hospital for treatment. Investigators accessed video footage of Davis stabbing the woman. They say there were no interactions between the two of them before Davis decided to stab her.

Davis has been taken to the Monroe County Jail and has been charged with attempted murder.

Anyone with further information was asked to contact Detective Rob Shrake at 812-349-3352.

something we did a lot. I get misty-eyed when I hear "Raindrops Keep Fallin' on My Head."

No more piggyback rides in the city pool (I am banned from there, too).

I saw a segment called "Embarrassing Parents" on NBC Today, which let me know that I am not alone. Don't take it personally, I was told. One father recounted how his daughter told him to "stop breathing so loud."

I try not to breathe around Delaney at all.

Recently, I drove her and a friend to a mall. Apparently, I walked behind them in the parking lot too closely because Delaney, looking back, hollered for the whole world to hear, "Stalker. Stalker," which caused me to stop in my tracks and worry that someone was dialing 9-1-1. Inside, I maintained the 125-foot rule, "stalking" them throughout the mall, peeking around corners, staking out each shop entered, using the Sunglass Hut mirror as a rearview mirror to chart their progress behind me while they perused one of those ghastly, dark, heavy-metal T-shirt stores, avoiding eye contact with the mall cops as they passed by for the hundredth time while deciding if I was the subject of the 9-1-1 call.

... well, you get the point...

It's a relief to know that The Age of Embarrassment and my role as The Invisible Dad are long behind us. Maybe we'll watch Butch Cassidy together again, for old times' sake. As far as my relationship with Delaney goes, nothing's worrying me. Cue up B.J. Thomas.

PREVAIL

Advocating for Victims of Crime & Abuse

I was born and raised right here in Noblesville. I grew up in a home without domestic violence or assault - it wasn't something I saw, or even heard about. But when I was introduced to Prevail of Central Indiana, I was shocked by the number of individuals who are affected by domestic violence. In 2018 alone, Prevail helped more than 4,000 clients in Hamilton County (nearly 80 percent of clients are women and children). Domestic violence and abuse are hard topics to discuss, so you don't often hear about them. But at Tom Wood Volkswagen in Noblesville, we're breaking the taboo and raising awareness for Prevail, an organization that helps families in Hamilton County.

What it's like to tear an ACL

The Sheridan Student Column is brought to readers by Sheridan High School's 10th grade English class, taught by Abby Williams.

As an athlete, I have always heard all these stories about people getting injured and being out for a year, but I never thought that it could happen to me.

I have never been someone who worries about getting hurt, so I just play the way I want to. This year, going into my sophomore sport seasons, I felt like I was ready for the seasons to start because of all the work I had put in during the summer. Four games into the soccer season, we had only lost one game and our next game was Western Boone. Before the Western Boone game, on Sept. 1, I never thought it would have been my last game of the season.

Ten minutes into the second half, I tore my ACL.

I was going for the ball and planted my left foot, then a girl hit me. My plant foot got stuck and my knee kept moving, and I fell to the ground screaming. As soon as I heard the pop, I knew ... I knew that I had torn my ACL. I had never felt that kind of pain before, the kind of pain that caused me to have to stay on the ground and not get back up. As soon as I was carried off the field, I was told there was a 90 percent chance that I had torn my ACL. The first question I asked was if that meant basketball season was a no too, which it obviously was.

CECILIA TIMME
Sheridan High School Student

I stayed and watched the rest of the game on the bench, still trying to take in everything that had just happened.

The next day I went to get an MRI, but I did not need an MRI to tell me that my ACL was torn. I got my results quickly after my MRI and was told I had not only torn my ACL, but both of my meniscuses in my left knee too.

I had a lot of questions about what everything meant, but my main question was how long I would be out. I went to the doctor a couple days later and was told I would have to be out nine months. This put me back at the end of the travel soccer season, when I decided I would just start training again with my high school teams in the summer. I scheduled surgery for two weeks later, Sept. 21.

The next couple of weeks were difficult; it took me a couple days to be able to walk again. I then started physical therapy to try to get my leg as strong as possible before surgery. A week before surgery, my knee felt almost back to normal. It was strange to think that I really did tear my ACL. As my surgery date approached, it was weird for me to think that I was getting my knee strong just for it to be messed up again.

The day of my surgery I was ready to get it over with. I was ready to start rehabbing and to get the entire process started. As soon as I woke up from surgery, I was in pain.

Later that night when I got home from the hospital, I looked at my knee. My knee was swollen and covered with wraps and bandages. The day after my surgery, I went back to the doctor to get new bandages and then straight to physical therapy.

The first couple of days after my surgery it was difficult because I had to learn how to do everything over again. I had to sit on my couch for the first couple of days, elevating and icing my knee. I was supposed to do my exercises every hour, just so that I could be able to get my mobility back.

The first week after surgery was the hardest because I had to relearn how to use my knee again. For the two weeks after surgery, I would go to the doctor once a week. I go to physical therapy twice a week and each time I progress more.

One of the hardest parts for me has been watching sports. I am not a person that does well sitting on the bench, watching other people play. The very first soccer game I went to after getting hurt was easier than I expected. I think I was still in shock from everything that had happened. Watching the games through the rest of the season never got easier though, they just got harder. The closer games were the hardest, the games that I knew I could help my team out by winning. With basketball season just starting, I am having to learn how to adjust to not being able to play at all. In soccer I was able to play at least a couple games, but in basketball I do not get to play any.

I am learning a lot, though, because sitting on the bench has made me look at the games in a different way.

Going through an injury like this is very difficult, but my family and friends have made it way easier. As soon as it happened, I got a ton of calls and texts from everyone. All my friends and family came to sit with me after I had surgery, and they would take care of me. One of my favorite parts about living in a small town is the support everyone gets. So, when people heard I got injured, they brought things to help me in the rehab process. The support from all my friends and family have helped me a lot.

I am now three months out of surgery, and still go to physical therapy twice a week. I am able to speed walk on a treadmill and use the elliptical. I ride a stationary bike as a warmup now. I can do a lot more than in the beginning and can feel my leg getting stronger. I am looking forward to the summer where I will be able to practice again, but for now I am learning a new part of the game on the bench while I rehab back from my torn ACL.

State Road 37 & 141st Street

A pre-construction phase at SR 37 and 141st Street is currently in place. During this phase, 141st Street will be transitioned to a Right-In-Right-Out (RIRO) traffic configuration. This is not the permanent configuration. This will allow for traffic to flow more freely along SR 37 until the next phases of construction can be activated. This will eliminate all backups along SR 37 that have caused dangerous stops to the free flow traffic and backups on the 146th Street interchange. Again, this is not the permanent configuration for 141st Street.

The full timeline for the 141st Street interchange will be provided after project bids are accepted in the Fall of 2023. View detour routes here.

116th Street

Beginning the week of Jan. 16, there will be lane restrictions on eastbound 116th Street from Gray Eagle Drive to Ringer Road between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. to allow Comcast to perform aerial work.

University High School students introduce anti-racism course

By KATIERA WINFREY
WISH-TV | wishtv.com

University High School students are not shying away from tough topics.

Instead, they are addressing it head-on with a new anti-racism course.

Participants say ignoring issues surrounding racism only makes the problem bigger.

Every January, students here participate in what's called J-term, where they are immersed in specialized hands-on courses. Organizers say in many cases, it can be a tough topic to swallow, but it starts with taking smaller steps that eventually blossom into something much bigger.

At University High School, education doesn't operate in a one size fits all box. Instead, students are given quite a bit of agency over what and how they learn. It's part of a plan to prepare them for college and life.

"They've given me an opportunity as a student to say that I have ideas, and I matter," said student Samriddhi Patakar.

January term is a three-week period where students immerse themselves daily in specific areas. It may be long-standing course like the literature of the American landscape or learning the proper steps and notes in the theater and musical course. But for the first time, there's the anti-racism course.

"Taking the first steps to being anti-racist doesn't have to be scary," said the anti-racism course instructor,

Franklin Oliver. "And it doesn't have to be hard. And those baby steps almost always convince folks that they want to take bigger steps."

Pantakar is president of the Anti-racism book club. An idea that birthed the course. After speaking with other book club members, she introduced the idea of making it a J-term course.

"But we thought it was time to take action. So, we decided that we wanted to create a class," Pantakar said.

There are about 350 students in the school and one out of every three ethnically identify as not white. The course is optional, but the instructor says a key part of focusing on systems that perpetuate negative outcomes for people based on race, religion, gender and more.

"The anti-racism course really speaks to our core value of diversity. Which was actually the first core value defined in our founding. It allows students to take topics like racism and the way it works in systems in society and engage with them in ways that are relevant to their lives," said Alicia LaMagdeleine, head of school.

Pantakar says this is a vital course and a message for anyone who may not see its value.

"I would say they have the privilege to think it's unnecessary that it's within their own privilege that they perpetuate the ignorance that they don't need it. But it is vitally important to society," she said.

40th annual Bop to the Top, benefiting Riley Children’s Foundation, returns this month

The REPORTER

The annual Bop to the Top Stair Climb is scheduled to start at 8:30 a.m. on Saturday, Jan. 21 at the One America Tower, 200 N. Illinois St., Indianapolis.

This event, now in its 40th year, is a third-party fundraiser for the Riley Children’s Foundation. Nearly $1 million has been raised so far for the Foundation.

Each year the event is represented by a former or current Riley patient. This year’s Riley Family is the Oppelts from Lafayette. Jayzen Oppelt and his mother, Candice, will be at Bop to the Top.

Jayzen’s story

Jayzen is a 12-year-old who loves playing basketball. This is a dream come true for Jayzen and his family. When he was a baby, he could not sit up and cried nonstop; there were concerns that he would never walk.

An MRI revealed that white matter in his brain was not fully developed. He’s undergone years of developmental, occupational, and physical therapy.

While he still faces many challenges, Candice says Jayzen is “now a high-ability student and has overcome so many challenges.” She credits the care he received at Riley Children’s Health, stating it has been instrumental. “Every doctor, every nurse, every Child Life Specialist... everyone that works there has always been absolutely amazing,” Candice said.

That care inspired Jayzen and his family to support Riley with donations and fundraisers over the years. Now, they look forward to sharing Jayzen’s story as a Riley Champion.

“He wants to help other kids ... through their rough times because he knows he’s struggled,” Candice said. “And that’s going to help him, too.”

Participants of Bop to the Top are invited to climb the 36 floors of the OneAmerica Tower. There are 780 steps in all. All ages and abilities are welcome. The climb can be made as an individual or as part of a team. There is also a Triple Step option that allows you to complete the climb three different times.

Riley Children’s Foundation is the fundraising arm of Riley Hospital for Children at Indiana University Health and the founding organization that opened Riley Hospital in 1924. Today Riley Hospital is recognized as one of the best children’s hospitals in the nation and is the only comprehensive children’s research hospital in the state of Indiana.

Tuxedo Brothers has been involved in Bop to the Top since the beginning. Tuxedo Brothers is an event management company owned and operated by brothers Don and Phil Carr. Since 1984, Tuxedo Brothers has managed more than 2,000 runs, walks and triathlons benefiting service and charitable organizations.

Don Carr, President of Tuxedo Brothers, along with his brother, says he is extremely pleased to be part of this legacy.

“I can’t tell you what it means to be a part of such a meaningful event,” Don Carr said. “To be able to help Riley Children’s Foundation work toward their mission is what it’s all about!”

A virtual option is once again being made available for participants this year. The in-person event will take place on Jan. 21, but virtual participation will take place Jan. 21 to 31.

Overall and Age-Group awards will be provided for those who want to get competitive in Bop to the Top, but it is not required. Those who simply want to take their time and climb the stairs are also encouraged to come out.

Signup now at getmeregistered.com/bop. If you would like to volunteer for the event, you can register here, as well.

Participants are encouraged to visit tuxbro.com for updates on this and all Tuxedo Brothers’ events, or email Jason Springer at Jason@TuxBro.com. You can also check out future events, including several 5Ks, half-marathons, full marathons, triathlons and more at the website.

When did the state legislature try to redefine the value of pi?

The REPORTER

1876 – The Oliver Company in South Bend opened a new factory which employed 400 workers. The company became famous for its “chilled” plow, which retained its sharp edge and required less cleaning in the field.

1897 – A bill was introduced in the Indiana House which would allow the state to use a new formula for squaring a circle. It also set a new value for pi. The bill passed the House but failed in the Senate when a Purdue professor explained the mathematical errors in the proposal.

1920 – Governor James

P. Goodrich called a special session of the Indiana Legislature to ratify the Women’s Suffrage Amendment of the United States Constitution. Indiana was the 26th state to approve the amendment, which went into effect nationwide on Aug. 18, 1920. In signing the legislation, Governor Goodrich called it

“an act of tardy justice.”

1921 – Listed in newspapers were titles of top-selling records from Richmond’s Gennett Studios. Included were “Carry Me Back to Old Virginia,” “The William Tell Overture,” “Margie,” “Broadway Rose Medley,” “Feather Your Nest,” and “The Bullfighter’s March.”

1937 – Dick Durock was born in South Bend. At over 6 1/2 feet tall, he became a popular stuntman and actor in many movies and TV shows, including Swamp Thing, Incredible Hulk, Magnum PI, Dynasty, and The Rockford Files.

1989 – Dan Quayle took the oath of office to become the 44th Vice President of the United States, serving under President George H. W. Bush. He was the fifth Hoosier to serve as Vice President. He had spent eight years in the United States Senate and four years in the U.S. House of Representatives.

TODAY’S BIBLE READING

“To the angel of the church in Philadelphia write: These are the words of him who is holy and true, who holds the key of David. What he opens no one can shut, and what he shuts no one can open. I know your deeds. See, I have placed before you an open door that no one can shut. I know that you have little strength, yet you have kept my word and have not denied my name. I will make those who are of the synagogue of Satan, who claim to be Jews though they are not, but are liars—I will make them come and fall down at your feet and acknowledge that I have loved you. Since you have kept my command to endure patiently, I will also keep you from the hour of trial that is going to come on the whole world to test the inhabitants of the earth.”

Royals/Rocks doubleheaders bring good crowds for ‘Hoops for Hope’

By RICHIE HALL
sports@readthereporter.com

FISHERS – The Hamilton Southeastern and Westfield basketball teams got together for a Hoosier Crossroads Conference girls-boys doubleheader Friday at the Royals’ gym.

The two games ended in a split decision. The girls went first, and Southeastern used a tough defense and a great performance from Riley Makalusky to beat the Shamrocks 54-35. In the boys game, the Royals got off to a hot start, but Westfield got going from outside in the second quarter, and that would lead the ‘Rocks to a 55-43 victory.

It was a special, well-attended night for both games, and also served as Southeastern’s Hoops for Hope game benefitting The V Foundation, which was started by ESPN and college coach Jim Valvano to provide funding for cutting-edge cancer research.

Girls game

The first half of the girls game was a low-scoring affair, with the Royals leading 9-4 at the end of the first quarter and 19-10 at half-time. Riley Makalusky had nine points at the break, and she was just getting started.

Southeastern made an 11-3 run in the third quarter that took up five minutes of game time. Makalusky scored seven of those points, including a three-point play with 3:42 left in the quarter. After that, Makalusky scored off a steal by Olivia Brown, and HSE was up 30-13.

Westfield cut the lead to 30-20 with its own 7-0 run. Aubrey Crockett nailed a 3-pointer, then Lindsey Van Dyke scored on back-to-back layins. Makalusky and Maren Dee traded 3s, which kept the Royals ahead 33-23.

Kayla Stidham finished the third quarter with a free throw, which turned out to be the start of an 8-0 Royals run. This one was capped by a layin by Maya Makalusky. After that, Southeastern kept its lead between 15 and 22 points for the remainder of the game.

“I thought our defensive effort was really good tonight,” said Royals coach Brian Satterfield. “They did some nice things there, especially in the second half, but I thought for the most part we stayed connected. We were working together, trying to take away some of their opportunities. But the main thing was, we were able to get stops.”

Riley Makalusky finished with 27 points, easily leading all scorers. Brown had her usual outstanding game, with eight points, seven rebounds, six steals and four assists. Maine Hooks had two blocked shots.

Van Dyke led Westfield with eight points. Crockett collected six rebounds, followed by five for Kiki Loveless, and Ellie Kelleher handed out four assists.

“They really pressured us on the perimeter, put us on our heels a little bit there in the first half,” said Shamrocks coach Kelsey Key. I also think that we gave up some easy things in transition that helped them get going, too. That’s a really good team with a lot of really high-level basketball players. So ultimately, you can’t give up easy baskets and then you can’t allow pressure to put you on your heels.”

Boys game

Southeastern’s boys came out fast, scoring the first six points of the game. Michael Griffith made a dunk for the opening basket, then Reph Stevenson added the next four points with a layin and two free throws. Trey Buchanan got Westfield on the board with a 3, but Braeden Totten’s layin put the Royals up 8-3.

The Shamrocks took over after that, using a 17-2 run that stretched well into the second quarter and put them up 20-10. The first part of the run was six unanswered points, which got Westfield up 9-8 at the end of the first period. Charles Farrell drained a 3 during that stretch.

Myles Holman made two free throws to begin the second quarter, putting HSE up 10-9. But Westfield threw in three consecutive triples, one each from Caleb Wise, Seth LaRavia and Will Harvey, and the Shamrocks were up 18-10. A layin by Alex Romack finished the run.

“We made a lot of shots in the first half,” said ‘Rocks coach Shane Sumpter. The coach said that once his team was able to get the lead, “we were just able to hold on to that,” he said.

Westfield was soon up 29-14, and that would be the halftime score. The Royals went on a 7-0 run to begin the third quarter, cutting the lead to 29-21. Donovan Hamilton helped out with a 3.

Buchanan made a 3 to end the run, then Farrell’s layin made the score 34-21. Another LaRavia triple finished the third quarter and gave Westfield a 39-27 advantage going into the fourth quarter. The Shamrocks’ lead never dropped below 10 points during the fourth period, but the Royals kept battling until the end. Hamilton scored 10 points during that quarter.

“We had to change some things up in the second half,” said HSE coach John Ashworth. “Definitely proud of our kids to keep fighting and clawing, keep chipping away.”

“It’s tough to win on the road in this conference,” said Sumpter. “This is a great, great test for us.”

Romack finished the game with 18 points, followed by 13 for Buchanan and 11 for LaRavia; both Buchanan and LaRavia had three 3-pointers. Romack led the rebounds with seven, followed by five for Buchanan. Romack dished out four assists and LaRavia made two blocks.

The Bulldogs pulled ahead 42-40 in the third quarter, but Fishers' defense stepped up in the fourth, holding Brownsburg to seven points. Hailey Smith nailed two triples in the quarter, with Olivia Smith also draining a 3 to help the Tigers get the win.

Hailey Smith finished with 16 points, including three 3-pointers, while Triplett had 11 points.

In the boys game, Fishers fell to the Bulldogs 57-51. The score was tied at 17-17 after one quarter; Taden Metzger, Aidan Zimmer and Keenan Garner all hit 3s for the Tigers. But Brownsburg outscored Fishers 15-5 in the second quarter to take a 32-22 halftime lead.

The Tigers blasted back in the third period, pouring in 21 points to go up 43-42. Metzger nailed two more 3s and added a free throw for seven points, with JonAnthony Hall also scoring seven points, including a triple. Brownsburg came back in the fourth, holding Fishers to eight points.

Hall led the Tigers with 14 points, with Metzger scoring 13, including four 3s.

The Fishers girls are 4-1 in the conference and 16-2 overall, and play at Carmel on Tuesday. The Tigers boys are 1-2 in HCC play and 7-8 overall, and return to the Tiger Den next Friday to host Avon in another conference game.

Blazer boys earn their spot in PAAC championship game

The REPORTER

The University boys clinched a spot in the Pioneer Academic Athletic Conference championship game with a 67-52 win at Muncie Burris Friday night.

Sabien Cain had 26 points to lead the Trailblazers to their 10th win in 11 games and a perfect 3-0 in PAAC North play. Andre Ozlowski had 17 points and a team-high five rebounds. Kahmi Bracey was also in double figures with 13 points and had six steals.

The Blazers took two seconds to take the lead as Ozlowski controlled the opening tip to Cain who scored on a layin. University never trailed in the game and eventually stretched their lead to 18-8 when Ozlowski scored with two seconds left in the opening period. Cain had seven first quarter points with Bracey and Ozlowski tallying four each.

University led by as many as 17 in the second quarter before the Owls' Carter Fisher rebounded a missed University foul shot and made a 70-foot shot at the halftime buzzer to cut University's lead to 35-21. Ozlowski had seven points in the second quarter.

Two baskets each from Bracey and Ozlowski early in the third quarter gave University its largest lead of the night at 43-23. The Owls never got closer than 11 points the rest of the way.

Coach Brandon Laffterman was complimentary of his team. "I'm really happy with how we played today. I thought our first half defense was solid. Khani Bracey played well on and off the ball and got us some points tonight. It is great to get another conference win and set us for another shot at a conference title."

The win was University's 29th consecutive PAAC North win. University will host the PAAC South championship on Feb. 11. The Blazers are the five-time defending PAAC champions.

The Trailblazers are back in action tonight as they play their third road game of the week when they travel to Cardinal Ritter to take on the 7-4 Raiders.

Millers sweep Zionsville in girls-boys doubleheaders

By CRAIG ADKINS
For The Reporter

NOBLESVILLE – For a later season matchup in the Hoosier Crossroads Conference, the first game of the girls-boys doubleheader on Friday pitted second-ranked Zionsville visiting No. 3 Noblesville. The fans got their money’s worth and more, to say the least.

The matchup of two top five teams in the best conference in the state lived up to its billing. After a tight first half made for a second half that would do anything but mirror that. Down two at halftime, the Millers found their stroke to hand Zionsville its first loss of the season, 73-64.

Noblesville found itself down twice early on, but was able to make a first run. Reagan Wilson scored the next seven to help get the Millers up 13-9 after one.

The Eagles climbed their way back into it, taking the lead three different times in the middle of the second. Their biggest lead was eight at 23-15, but that just fueled the Millers to close the gap.

Sisters Ava and Kaitlyn Shoemaker each knocked down a triple and Meredith Tippner a layup that tied it 23-23. A pair of Emma Haan free throws helped Zionsville cling to a 25-23 halftime lead.

The Millers went on a 10-2 run to start the third. It was obvious that there was a switch that was flipped in the halftime locker room.

“Definitely defensively. That our thing, our identity,” said Noblesville junior guard Reagan Wilson on what got the Millers going in the second half to take over the game.

“Teams hate playing our 1-3-1, because it’s so deadly. We knew if we capitalized on defense and those steals, that’s what got our run going again,” continued Wilson on the Miller defense that led to their offensive successes.

Wilson grabbed her second steal of the quarter and found Brooklyn Ely on the other end for a three in the left corner, pushing the lead to 33-27. That forced Zionsville to burn a timeout with 4:40 left in the third.

“We got the ball inside. That’s something that we wanted to do and cleaned up some stuff,” said Noblesville head coach Donna Buckley on the Millers’ burst of energy to start the second half.

“We always talk about, can you play with us for 32 minutes? We felt like they (Zionsville) were a little bit tired, which led to some foul trouble for them,” stated Buckley on her team’s mentality that keeps their motor running.

In the final second of the third, Ava Shoemaker nailed one of her three from outside-the-arc, pushing the lead to 44-30 with eight minutes to go.

“You’ve got Ava hitting some threes. Shoe (Kaitlyn) hit a big three and then obviously Reagan was shooting it from everywhere. I’m not sure she wasn’t upstairs when she hit a couple of them. She was everywhere,” said Buckley on the Millers’ three-point shooting, which wound up 48 percent for the game.

Noblesville jumped to its biggest lead of 16 at 53-37 on consecutive baskets by Dani Mendez and Tippner.

The remainder of the game seemed to run through Wilson. It didn’t matter if she was scoring, stealing the ball or dishing out an assist, the junior guard made sure the Millers were securing this conference win.

“When we’re doing that, you can’t stop us. We get on a little run like that and our defense led to some things,” continued Buckley on defense setting up the Millers’ offensive opportunities.

Zionsville made another run to start the fourth, going on an 11-0 run to cut it to 53-46. Wilson scored five in a row to lengthen it back to 10 at 58-48.

From there, it was fending off any sort of last-ditch effort by Zionsville.

Despite scoring 32 points, Eagle all-state candidate Laila Hull found herself in foul trouble and eventually fouled out with 2:55 left in the game.

From that point, Noblesville would outlast Zionsville, thanks in big part to Wilson scoring eight of the final 10 points for the Millers on their way to a 73-64 win over the Eagles.

“Tippner was just awesome on the top of that 1-3-1 and really taking them out of what they were trying to do,” said Buckley on the results of Noblesville’s defense.

ended its 18-game winning streak and is now (18-1, 4-1 HCC). The Eagles’ next game will be at home on Jan. 20 against HCC co-leader Hamilton Southeastern (17-2, 4-1).

The Millers were led by a career-high 37 points from Reagan Wilson. She was 12-for-18 shooting, including an astounding 7-of-11 from three-point range. Wilson also had five assists, five steals and sank six of her seven free throws.

“She’s that kid, she’s so good. She was just in a zone tonight,” said Buckley on Wilson and how her play affects the Millers’ play.

Meredith Tippner muscled her way to 15 points on five field goals and five free throws. Ava Shoemaker was clutch with 11 points, making three of her five from outside. Her senior sister Kaitlyn matched Wilson with five assists and five steals to her credit.

Noblesville (17-3, 4-2) travels to Benet Academy in Lisle, Ill. on Monday and then finishes up HCC play on Jan. 21 against Franklin Central.

Boys win close game
Noblesville’s boys team also got an exciting victory in the second game of the doubleheader, edging out Zionsville 37-35.

The game was tied at 35-35 late in the fourth quarter, and the Millers took a timeout with 16.5 seconds left. Aaron Fine received the inbound pass in the backcourt, then drove in and made the game-winning basket with 4.3 seconds on the clock.

The Eagles had time to make one more play, but Noblesville’s defense stepped up, and a shot at the buzzer didn’t go. Millers coach Scott McClelland called it a “knock-down, drag-out game between two teams who really didn’t want to lose a conference game.”

The first quarter belonged to Luke Almodovar, as he scored all 13 of Noblesville’s points, including two 3-pointers. Meanwhile, Zionsville’s Logan Imes scored all seven of his team’s first-quarter points.

The Millers stayed ahead at halftime, 22-18, with four players scoring. Cooper Bean helped out with a 3-pointer. Zionsville held Noblesville to only four points in the third period, but the Millers kept ahead of the Eagles, 26-25 going into the fourth. Justin Curry made a key 3 during the fourth quarter.

Almodovar finished the game with 17 points.

“The good thing is, we found a way to win,” said McClelland. The coach said his team has played “a handful of games in a variety of different ways, so I think that’s a sign you’re growing. Those types of games put you in a position to only make you better for March.”

Noblesville improved to 2-1 in conference play and 9-3 overall. The Millers go on the road tonight, playing at Connersville.
