TRUE

Mom told another story about not hurting feelings of others.

Part of the fun of going trick or treating is having people guess who you are. I learned the hard way never to guess a child with my first guess. I'd been asked to judge a rather large group of children and I was told the last three to be identified would be prizewinners.

Since only a few minutes were allowed for this,

I thought I should just as rapidly as possible. One girl was well-masked, but I knew as soon as I looked at her exceptionally beautiful eyes, it had to be Susie.

She looked so crestfallen that I never again identified anyone on the first guess.

Last year, three little neighbor kids rang the doorbell. I invited him in and began guessing. They could hardly suppress their giggles. I really didn't know the girl who had driven the car, but I thought there would be plenty of time later to decide who she was. The little ones and I were only on the second or third round of guesses when their driver said, "They are your neighbor children and I'm their cousin." Then she told their names. What a spoilsport!

The moral to that is: Don't let your cousin take you Halloweening.

TAXES

Beaver says the money raised would go toward homeowners in the form of a property tax credit in addition to the Homestead Exemption tax credit, which many people living in their own homes are eligible to request.

The credit would affect every homeowner differently, especially if their property tax is capped. However, renters would not be eligible for the tax credit.

"It is not a direct effect on them, because they are not paying property tax, and commercial buildings and rental properties don't get this (Homestead Exemption) benefit."

The Hamilton County

Council has already passed this measure, but for it to take effect, at least two councils of the county's four cities – Carmel, Fishers, Noblesville and Westfield – must sign off on the measure before Oct. 1.

If approved, the tax changes would start in January.

SHE SAID

(Left) Becca Goldsberry rehearses her talk for That's What She Said Indianapolis. (Right) Kelli Caughman rehearses as producers Katie Vigil and Janette Jurczyk and look on.

One of the first orders of business was to find a sponsor. CIBM Bank stepped up.

In addition, every production of That's What She Said partners with a charity. Proceeds from the Indianapolis event will benefit Kids' Voice of Indiana, which protects children and youth in the legal system and promotes family preservation.

"It's an amazing organization," Vigil said. "One of the things that really stuck out to me about this group is that they continue to work with the kids and provide resources even after they age out of the system."

The list of speakers for the event came together somewhat organically. Vigil met three of them through her involvement in the Junior League of Indianapolis.

In some cases, she needed to persuade the women that people would want to hear what they have to say, that they can positively impact not only those in the audience, but women throughout the community as well.

"A lot of times, as women, we are hesitant to share our stories," Vigil said. "But, everyone has a story. We have all overcome stuff to get to where we are today."

Speaker Cara Dalton works as director of marketing at event sponsor CIBM Bank. Dalton recommended her Fishers neighbor Kelli Caughman, co-founder of the Black Down Syndrome Association.

Vigil met Lisa Brandenburg, founder of Women Building Friendship in Westfield, at a volunteer event. Brandenburg then recommended Michelle Derleth of Noblesville.

Not only are the selected speakers from all over the region, from Zionsville to Greenwood, they also span several decades in age and represent a variety of lived experiences.

Myra Levine is an author and writing coach in Carmel. Jennifer Johnson is a musician and network marketer from Cicero. Brandi Bruemmer, Becca Goldsberry, and Heather Huguet round out the list.

She Said Project National Director Janette Jurczyk is directing the production at The Tarkington.

"There are theatrical components to the show," said Vigil. "It's entertainment, but it's also kind of like a high-energy Ted Talk."

The Booth Tarkington Theater is located at 3 Carter Green in Carmel. Tickets to That's What She Said Indianapolis can be purchased at this link.

Vigil said she hopes That's What She Said Indianapolis will become a once-a-year show that will continue to impact the community by empowering local women to tell their stories. In fact, she is already putting together a small team and planning for next year.

In addition to the one-night event, Vigil would also like to eventually bring That's What Teens Say workshops to the area. These three-day intensives for ages 13 to 18 help young women discover their unique voices.

Portland, Michael’s parents thought he should be a dentist.

“So I took pre-med at the University of Oregon,” he recalled. “I had appeared in a few shows in college and decided I wanted to move to New York City to be an actor. My parents were not amused.”

But he took the leap, dropped out of college, and enrolled in Phillip Burton’s (father of Richard Burton) American Musical and Dramatic Academy (now called AMDA) in New York City.

“[In] 1968, my first year in NYC, I lived in nine apartments and had about as many jobs,” Layton said. “I also ran out of money and had to drop out of school.”

The following year he happened to audition for an Equity children’s theatre production of The Prince and the Pauper. Because he had a friend who looked like him, they were both hired.

“They paid us all as stage managers so that we could help with scenery, costumes, etc. So all of a sudden I was an Equity stage manager. I did not understand how that would change my life!”

He learned through a friend of a dinner theatre in Chattanooga that was searching for a stage manager. “I took the job, and to help out I threw together some cardboard arches and red drapes for a comedy review.”

His work caught attention, so he started learning as much as he could.

“Things grew from there and I started working at theatres that starred actors from movies and TV,” he said. “Once that happened, my parents thought I was a star and forgave me for everything!”

Michael’s journey would eventually lead him to that fateful production of Fiddler on the Roof in San Antonio, and the offer from Doug Stark and Bob Zehr to return to Beef & Boards, this time the location in Indianapolis.

“I saw his very creative work in a small space in the original Beef & Boards in Simpsonville, Kentucky,” Stark recalled. “And his set-to-space relationship was always imaginative and artistic.”

Stark, whose favorite role on stage is that of Tevye in Fiddler on the Roof, also has a particular affection for Layton’s set for that show. “The set becomes more effective each time,” Stark said.

Reflecting on more than 40 years of sets, both Layton and Stark agree that the set for Mamma Mia! was one of the best.

“[It was] a great collaboration with director/choreographer Ron Morgan and my designer friend, Russell Metheny,” Layton said. “I’m not sure I have ever had more fun doing a show, not to mention it was the biggest hit in the history of the theatre.”

“He understands our limitations and he makes us look good,” Stark said, adding of the Fiddler on the Roof and Mamma Mia!, “those two sets – you walk in and you go, ‘hey, this is a Broadway set!’”

Layton also has a soft spot for his Les Misérables set, which allowed Beef & Boards to achieve such a big show in its intimate space. He reflects that it was “the best use of space and gorgeous overall – who knew?”

But he is quick to point out the set is only one part of a production’s effectiveness.

“Just because I am the set designer does not mean that I care only about the scenery,” Layton said. “It’s always about the whole show, and I have been known to shed many tears for many performances.”

Still, in his 53-year career, he has designed approximately 800 shows, 330 of which have been at Beef & Boards in Indianapolis. He is quick to thank those who helped him achieve “some beautiful things. I cannot overstate my appreciation for the technical directors and shop crews who have brought all of this to life.”

Looking back, his fondest memories are of “the people, of course.”

“Making shows together, whether you are painting scenery or working in the office,” Layton said. “Doug, Bob, and now the Stark family have been incredibly generous and supportive over all these years. I have worked with many people (backstage, onstage, upstairs, downstairs, everywhere) who are now lifelong friends. I am forever grateful.”

Beef & Boards Dinner Theatre, Indiana’s only year-round professional dinner theatre, is celebrating its 50th Anniversary of serving exceptional entertainment with dinner in 2023.

Cochard family revisits Blackhawk history

Photo provided by Sheridan Historical Society

It’s always a good time when old friends drop by the Sheridan Historical Museum. Recent visitors have included Sara (Linn) Cochard and her sons and daughter-in-law. They came to see Sara’s pictures when she was a basketball cheerleader for the Sheridan Blackhawks back in the late 1950s. If you have not seen the Museum’s tribute to Larry Hobbs and his remarkable basketball teams of the 1950s, you should come by and see it. The Museum is open on Tuesdays, Fridays, and Saturdays from 1 to 4 p.m. and is located at 315 S. Main St., Sheridan. (Above) The Cochards: Michael, Sara, and Gary and his wife Laurie. INNOVATION

Mayor Chris Jensen said. “Today’s groundbreaking is an early step in our efforts to create an anchor for innovation in our community, which will have an impact on Hoosier patients for generations.”

The Indiana Joint Replacement Institute is a statewide orthopedic enterprise founded and led by Dr. Michael Meneghini and continues an 18-year tradition of elite hip and knee replacement care for Hoosier patients across the State of Indiana. Currently, the practice has two locations in Indiana: Terre Haute (opened August 2022) and Fort Wayne (opened October 2022) and will be opening a third location in Naples, Fla., in October. The flagship facility will be in Noblesville when this project is completed in early 2025.

“Today is an exciting day for Indiana Joint Replacement Institute,” said Dr. Michael Meneghini, CEO of Indiana Joint Replacement Institute. “Our vision to bring innovative hip and knee care across the State of Indiana is being fully recognized with the development of our flagship facility and the partnerships with the City of Noblesville and Skillman Corporation. Our flagship facility located within the City of Noblesville’s Innovation Mile has been designed to promote innovation and advance hip and knee replacement care through research, education, and advocacy. By providing an elite experience with superior outcomes, we help patients return to their highest level of function, quality of life, and happiness.”

The Noblesville facility will include an ambulatory surgery center with four operating rooms, a hip and knee orthopedic clinic with 20 exam rooms, physical therapy, X-ray, a research gait lab, and an education and research conference center.

As previously announced in July, Innovation Mile also will be home to the Noblesville Event Center, a 3,400-seat arena that will be the future site of the Indiana Pacers G League franchise.

Noblesville zoning board postpones vote on proposed Beaver Materials mining project

By DANIELLE ZULKOSKY
WISH-TV | wishtv.com

The Noblesville Board of Zoning Appeals voted to postpone the vote to create a zoning variance and allow Beaver Materials to mine in what is otherwise a residential area.

The board heard about two hours of presentation and public comment about the proposal to create a zoning variance to mine sand, gravel, and minerals north of 161st Street along Cherry Tree Road.

Lauren Wahl, a Noblesville Zoning Appeals Board member appointed by Mayor Chris Jensen, requested a continuance of the discussion.

“There are some of those questions we have to ask in regards to the health of the adjacent properties and all of that,” Wahl said.

Beaver Materials is a central Indiana-based sand, gravel, and aggregate company. The company maintains that mining operations have to happen on sites where materials are naturally found, and these materials are needed for construction.

The request was met with a lot of resistance, with the opposition wanting Beaver Materials to look for other sites away from residential areas.

The only person to speak in favor of the mining efforts was a representative from the Indiana Mineral Aggregates Association. All others at the meeting were against the zoning variance, including various subject matter experts.

“There’s always going to be aggregates,” said one man who said he worked in construction his entire life. “There’s 200 or so mines in Indiana. If Beaver doesn’t have the material, Beaver can go down the street.”

Neighbors against the project say they are concerned about noise, their health, and their property values. Most homes in the area range from more than $200,000 to well over half a million dollars.

“I’ve never stood this close to someone who has taken liberties under the guise of a very good speech,” said one emotional speaker. “This company plans on harvesting materials from a property they don’t own for the sake of their trust funds for their children.”

The issue will be discussed at the zoning board’s next meeting on Oct. 2. All written public comments are due by Sept. 22.

Indy-based HATCH donates 36 coolers to food pantries in need during Hunger Action Month

Coolers will enhance cold storage accessibility & combat 500-million-pound protein gap nationwide

The REPORTER

In recognition of Hunger Action Month, HATCH, an Indianapolis-based national nonprofit dedicated to creating nutrition through access to animal protein, in partnership with the American Egg Board, is donating 36 cold storage coolers to food pantries in need of improved storage capabilities in 16 states across the nation.

Many food pantries struggle with acquiring adequate cold storage for produce and protein that requires consistent refrigeration to stay fresh. Many of the most nutritious and essential food items for families in need, including eggs, meat, and fresh produce, aren’t available due to the lack of infrastructure required to store these items. These cooler donations from HATCH will ensure expanded, consistent, safe availability of these important animal protein products, for neighbors in need.

Each double-door cooler holds up to 2,000 pounds of fresh produce and protein. Selected food pantries serve anywhere between 300 to 16,000 individuals on a monthly basis.

“Today, there is a 500-million-pound protein gap for neighbors utilizing food pantries in America,” HATCH Executive Director Danny Leckie. “Protein is essential to sustaining a healthy and holistic diet, and food insecure families disproportionately lack reliable access to high-quality protein sources like eggs. This project allows food pantries to increase protein access and address the current gap in protein need vs. accessibility.”

HATCH will deliver coolers to selected food pantries in September to celebrate Feeding America’s annual Hunger Action Month. With more than 150 applicants to this program, it’s clear there is a significant need for cold storage across the nation.

“Egg farmers care deeply about their communities, and annually they donate tens of millions of eggs to local food banks across the country,” American Egg Board President and CEO Emily Metz. “Unfortunately, many food pantries lack sufficient resources to store all of those valuable eggs. Shoring up refrigeration capacity with HATCH is an important step toward making sure people in need have access to the high-quality protein and essential nutrients of eggs and other vitally important foods.”

For a list of food pantries receiving a cooler, please visit hatchforhunger.com/blog. To learn more about this program or to reach out for sponsorship opportunities, please visit hatchforhunger.com.

About HATCH for Hunger

Launched in 2015, HATCH delivers nearly 1.2 million dozen eggs each month throughout the country. It is the goal of HATCH to sustainably deliver 300 million protein-rich meals to hunger relief organizations by 2027, creating generational change in local communities.

Noblesville blesses Indiana’s 105th Baby Box

The REPORTER

Noblesville Fire Station 74 blessed its own Baby Box on Tuesday, highlighting the anonymous surrender option that is now available 24/7. The fire station is located at 20777 Hague Road, and the Baby Box is featured on the south side of the building.

This marks the 105th Baby Box in Indiana and 162nd in the nation. Fourteen babies have been lovingly surrendered via Baby Box this year.

Safe Haven Baby Boxes fills the void in the Safe Haven movement as the only organization in the nation dedicated to providing an anonymous surrender option for mothers in crisis. The organization was founded in 2016 by Monica Kelsey, who learned in adulthood she was abandoned as an infant. Now her life’s mission is to end infant abandonment and advocate for the Safe Haven Law.

In addition to educating citizens on the Safe Haven Law, Safe Haven Baby Boxes provides free confidential counseling via the hotline 1-866-99BABY1.

“This area of Indiana has seen several surrenders, and we are pleased to offer another location to protect vulnerable women and their children,” Kelsey said. “We are seeing our program successfully offer a safe option for women who are unseen and underserved.”

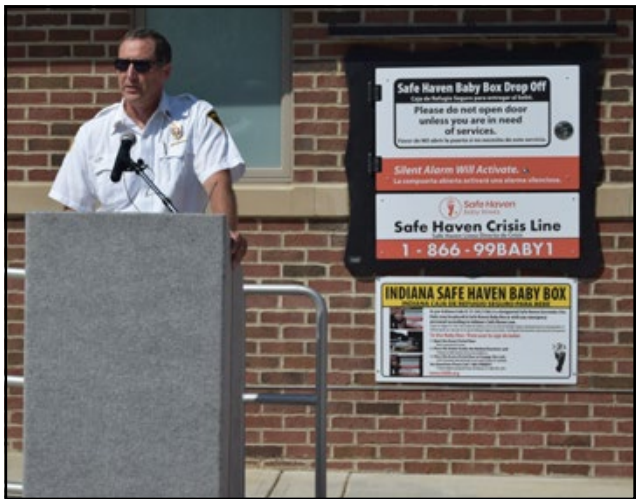

A Baby Box allows for the legal, safe, and anonymous surrender of an infant provided under the Safe Haven Law. It features three silent alarms alerting first responders to the presence of a surrendered infant. The baby will be attended to within five minutes and taken to the hospital for medical evaluation. Adoption occurs within 30 to 45 days by families who are signed up for foster care with the intention to adopt.

“The Noblesville Fire Department is honored to provide a safe, anonymous, life-saving option for mothers and parents that are unsure of where to turn or what to do,” Fire Chief Matt Mitchell said. “The Safe Haven Baby Box exists to help people who have no recourse but to surrender their infant in a way that ensures the child’s safety.”

“This serves not just Noblesville, but any mother that may be in crisis in Hamilton County and beyond,” Noblesville Mayor Chris Jensen said “I’m happy we have it. I hope it’s not used, but if it is this will give someone a second chance at life.”

Since 2017, 35 infants have been placed in a Baby Box. Nationwide, over 130 surrenders have resulted from calling the National Safe Haven Baby Box hotline. Safe Haven Baby Boxes are currently available in Indiana, Ohio, Arkansas, Florida, Kentucky, New Mexico, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Oklahoma, Missouri and Mississippi. What did former U.S. surgeon general & WISH medical expert say about regular testing for COVID?

By GREGG MONTGOMERY
WISH-TV | wishstv.com

Jill Biden has tested positive for COVID and has mild symptoms, the White House and the first lady's office announced this week.

The diagnosis came just a few days after her visit with high school students in Westfield.

Dr. Jerome Adams, the WISH-TV medical expert and a former U.S. surgeon general, talked Tuesday on News 8 about her diagnosis and COVID testing.

Jill Biden's diagnosis came amid renewed attention to COVID-19 as the world approached the fourth virus season since the coronavirus arrived on the scene. The positive result also came as Americans are seeing a new surge in COVID cases. Although President Joe Biden is regularly tested for COVID, it was not immediately known Sunday if Jill Biden also has a regular COVID-testing cadence. The president did not test positive for COVID.

"We know that many people out there ... don't have the ability to do surveillance testing, meaning just testing to know whether or not you have it if you don't have symptoms," Adams said. "Was she really sick, if that prompted the test, or was this just a routine test that the White House does when the first lady travels?"

"It matters in terms of the message it sends to the public about whether or not we should be testing, and it also matters in terms of how sick she actually is."

Adams notes it's possible that Jill Biden contracted COVID during her visit Wednesday to the Indianapolis area.

The licensed anesthesiologist also says he's been commenting about the coronavirus on X, formerly known as Twitter, to give people more information for their own precautions.

"If you're high-risk, you need to be aware," Adams said. "If you get symptoms, you need to seek out a test because seeking out that test can allow you to get treatments such as Paxlovid. It also means that when that new booster is available, if you haven't been recently infected, then you need to make sure you talk to your doctor and get your questions answered and get that new booster if your doctor recommends it because you don't want to be in a situation where you are one of the 15,000 people who last week ended up in the hospital because of COVID."

Adams added, "I want everyone to have the tools to be able to protect themselves."

News 8 asked if people should expect COVID numbers to keep growing or has the summer peak been reached.

"So I went to the Indiana State Department of Health website a few minutes before I got online with you, and what's interesting is they haven't updated their numbers since August, almost two weeks ago. It's hard to tell where we are, but I can tell you based on the numbers that are on that website from two weeks ago, we were still experiencing exponential increases."

Numbers on the state health department's website are promoted as being updated by 5 p.m. each Wednesday.

"From what I'm seeing in the hospital, in the community, there's no reason to believe that we've hit our peak yet," Adams said. "I expect a few more weeks of continued uptick in cases before we level off and then eventually start to come back down, which means if you haven't gotten it yet, you're still at risk. You still want to take sensible precautions, particularly if you're vulnerable or someone around you is vulnerable."

Carmel Clay Public Library to celebrate solar panel system

The REPORTER

The Carmel Clay Public Library will hold a ribbon cutting for its Main Library solar panel array at 10 a.m. on Saturday, Sept. 30.

Located on the Main Library's roof, the 245.6 kW (kilowatt) array consists of 552 445-watt PV (photo-voltaic) panels that capture energy from the sun and convert it into electricity. The system is anticipated to produce 325,000 kWh annually, supplying approximately 20 to 30 percent of the building's energy needs.

According to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, the amount of energy produced by the library's solar array will offset the equivalent annual energy consumption of nearly 45 homes. Library users will be able to view the current output of the system on a special monitor inside the Main Library and on the library's website, CarmelClayLibrary.org.

The solar panel array was installed as part of the library's expansion and renovation of its Main Library facility. The system was designed by Carmel-based Telamon Energy and constructed and installed by Solential Energy, also a local company.

"A goal of the library's renovation project was to be environmentally responsible and reduce the building's energy use," Library

Director Bob Swanay said. "We're also excited to give library users of all ages a chance to learn about solar energy."

The ribbon-cutting event will take place at ground level at the Main Library's south entrance. Other activities to celebrate the one-year anniversary of the library expansion will take place at the library throughout the day, including face painting, karaoke, and crafts.

TODAY'S BIBLE READING

God also said to Abraham, "As for Sarai your wife, you are no longer to call her Sarai; her name will be Sarah. I will bless her and will surely give you a son by her. I will bless her so that she will be the mother of nations; kings of peoples will come from her."

Abraham fell facedown; he laughed and said to himself, "Will a son be born to a man a hundred years old? Will Sarah bear a child at the age of ninety?" And Abraham said to God, "If only Ishmael might live under your blessing!"

Royals keep Mudsock trophy, Millers & Rocks play to 1-1 tie

The REPORTER

The Hamilton Southeastern girls soccer team kept the Mudsock trophy on Wednesday, beating Fishers 3-0 in the annual game, which took place this year at the Tigers' football field.

The Class 3A No. 1 Royals led 1-0 at halftime. Sloane May scored the goal about 10 minutes into the game, with Blair Satterfield making the assist. May assisted Anna Tittle, who scored Southeastern's second goal, then May put in the third goal to finish the scoring. Alyssa Damson made the assist.

"The first few minutes, we did not play well, and Fishers came down, got a shot off, got a corner kick, that my goalie had to actually make the save," said Royals coach Greg Davidson. That goalkeeper was Hailey Wade.

"After that, we settled in," said Davidson. The coach said he thought that "Fishers and HSE had a really good first half. The second half, HSE took over, which was good for us, especially how well Fishers had played in the first half."

The game was also a Hoosier Crossroads Conference contest, and the Royals are 5-0 in the league. Southeastern is 10-0-1 overall and hosts two games on Saturday, against Crown Point at 11:30 a.m. and Fort Wayne Carroll at 4:30 p.m.

The Tigers are 0-3-1 in conference and 1-6-1 overall and hosts Franklin Central Saturday morning in another HCC game.

Noblesville and Westfield played to a 1-1 HCC tie on Wednesday in a game at the Shamrocks' field that featured two top 10 3A teams.

After a scoreless first half, the No. 4-ranked Millers broke through less than two minutes into the second half when Meredith Tippner kicked in a goal.

"I think we're in this middle phase where we're starting to figure out the importance of possession and how we can build from the back to our front and start to see those through balls. And I think at the beginning of the season, we're still trying to figure out our identity, but we're starting to get closer and closer, and now it's to the point where we're playing pretty well, but we got to finish the game at 80 minutes."

No. 7-ranked Westfield had several big shots that just missed, but put in the equalizer with 7:17 to go. Reese Sargent scored off an assist by Kate Malin. It was the first goal that the 'Rocks had scored on Noblesville in several years.

"It's amazing and it's so refreshing," said Sargent. "We've worked hard all season, and it's just so exciting to see it come together."

"I thought we did well," said Westfield coach Hannah Eggert. "We went down early in the second half, and I felt like the rest of the half, we really went back at them and I think we had the better chances. The crossbar saved a few, but I think the second half, we definitely came back out and worked really hard to get back in the game."

The result was the first time the Shamrocks had tied Noblesville since 2018, when the teams played to a scoreless tie. That year was Eggert's first as the Westfield coach; she is a Noblesville graduate and played soccer for the Millers.

"Hannah's doing wonderful things with this program, the culture of Westfield," said Millers coach Mike Brady, Eggert's former coach.

"We've really worked hard in building up a positive culture," said Eggert. "The girls seem like they're having a lot of fun. We've really worked with our forwards on that interchangeable movement, and we've seen that in these games. We've scored a lot of goals this season and our backline has done well. And Kate Pallante has done well with keeping the ball out of the back of the net, too, so we're starting to see a lot of success."

Westfield is 2-0-2 in conference play and 5-0-2 overall. The Shamrocks play at North Central on Thursday.

Meanwhile, Noblesville is 1-1-2 in HCC play and 5-1-2 overall.

"I feel like every day we're taking that step forward," said Brady. His team plays Saturday at Harrison.

"We know we didn't play our best and we're just going to have to keep working hard in practice, and the results will come," said Brady.

Sheridan's girls team cruised to a 7-0 win over Tri-Central Wednesday in a Hoosier Heartland Conference game.

Mac Smith got the Blackhawks on the board four minutes into the game, scoring off an assist by Cecilia Timme. Sheridan continued to roll from there, leading 4-0 at halftime. Freshman Brielle Garner wound up with two goals, while Smith, Ji Warren and Norah Stites all scored one. Sadie Timme, Isabel Nunez, Cecilia Timme and Warren all had one assist.

Sheridan is 2-0 in conference play and 4-2-1 overall. The 'Hawks play another conference game tonight at Delphi.

In Tuesday night boys games, Fishers won the Mudsock trophy by beating Hamilton Southeastern 2-1. The game was called at halftime due to lightning.

Kyle Clayton scored the Tigers' first goal, but the Royals' Cruz Jafri tied it up with a penalty kick. Fishers got the lead back a minute later when Ethan Laboy scored, with Reid Spittler making the assist.

The Tigers are 4-2-2 and play tonight at Pendleton Heights, while the Royals are 4-3-2 and also play tonight at Guerin Catholic.

Meanwhile, Noblesville beat Westfield 2-0 in the Millers' annual Megan S. Ott Pink Out game. Blake Horn sent a cross to Vinny Howard, who kicked a half volley into the net for the first goal.

Noblesville led 1-0 at halftime. In the second half, Brady Frayer took the ball to the endline on the left flank, the kicked a cross across the box. The ball was deflected to Sam Holland, and he kicked it in.

The Millers are 5-0-5 and host Southport tonight. The Shamrocks are 3-4 and are off until next Tuesday when they host Hamilton Southeastern.

For The Reporter

Carmel convincingly climbed back into the 6A top 10 as No. 10 following a 39-0 shutout of Detroit's Martin Luther King, one of the top teams in Michigan. Defense seems to be back at the forefront for the 'Hounds and it'll have to be even better on Friday at Trinity. The Shamrocks lead the overall series 4-3. This will be a 7:30 kickoff for those Carmel fans making the trip south.

Scoring 132 points in their first three games for a 44 per game average,

The Tigers host their biggest game of the young season, welcoming their neighbors in the school district, the Hamilton Southeastern Royals. The battle for the Mudsock is one of the best rivalry games around and this year will be even better with both coming in undefeated. HSE leads the series that dates back to 2006 by a 15-11 tally.

The Golden Eagles (3-0) keep holding tight to the 3A No. 2 ranking heading into Week 4. Out-scoring McCutcheon, Lafayette Central Catholic and Heritage Christian by an 86-20, Guerin cruised through the first three games of its non-conference portion of their schedule.

The Golden Eagles get their first Circle City Conference test this Friday at Brebeuf Jesuit (2-1). Last week, the Golden Eagles put up another solid defen-

Hamilton Heights

The Huskies (3-0) are off to their best start since 2016. One thing that helps Heights is that they've had the privilege of playing on their home turf for the first three games to open up the season. Taking advantage of being at home, Hamilton Heights has had a handle on Lapel, North Montgomery and Lafayette Central Catholic 69-26, including last week's shutout over 1A perennial power Central Catholic, 15-0.

Heights has finally been recognized for its undefeated start. The Huskies came into Week 4 ranked No. 12 in Class 3A AP poll. They'll have their first road game of the season on Friday, opening up Hoosier Conference East Division play at Northwestern (1-2). The Tigers won a shootout last week at Benton Central (50-48) after losing their first two to Twin Lakes and Eastern (Greentown).

The 6A No. 4 Royals (3-0, 1-0 HCC) have scored 105 points to start off the season with three consecutive wins. HSE cruised comfortably to a 42-23 win to start its HCC slate last Friday.

Southeastern takes the shortest road trip in the state to face Fishers for the battle for the Mudsock. The Royals have won five in a row in the series, including capturing the last three Mudsock matchups. HSE also holds the edge 15-11 since the two split and started competing against each other during the 2006-07 school year.

The Millers (2-1, 0-1 HCC) hope to get its offensive groove back this week, but it won't be easy at all. After combining for 90 points in the first two games, Noblesville takes a short bus ride west on State Road 32 to face another explosive offense in the Westfield Shamrocks for the Midland Trace Trophy. The Millers have lost seven in a row to Westfield.

The Blackhawks (2-1, 1-0 HC) will look for their third win in a row on Friday when they host the Clinton Central Bulldogs (0-2, 0-1 HC). Sheridan has scored 79 to their three opponents' 47 total, but more importantly, holding Tri-Central scoreless in Sharpsville last week 28-0.

Sheridan stays at 1A No. 8 in both polls this week. The Blackhawks have won 10 in a row in the series with

The 'Rocks (3-0, 1-0 HCC) have held steady at 6A No. 7 the past two weeks, winning two by one-point. Westfield outlasted Lawrence Central 59-58 in overtime two weeks and survived a road scare last week at Zionsville, winning 28-27.

Westfield hosts the potent offense of Noblesville that will be a big test for both defenses. It will look to continue the current seven-game win streak in the series and hope for a fifth in a row as the two duke it out in the Midland Trace Trophy game. The two have no problem scoring, but it will be a matter of which defense can stop the opposing offense.
