Blackhawk Pride means you should never stop cheering

This past weekend, Sheridan High School celebrated its 100th football homecoming. The Saturday morning parade through downtown Sheridan packed the streets, and among those honored were past cheerleaders: Roberta Huff, Martha Griffin, Arnola Pickett, and Lora Goff Pitts (not pictured). These four ladies were escorted in two fine American automobiles of yesteryear: a Chevrolet Impala and a Ford Falcon. ## The night when lightning struck

September has always been a special month for my husband and me.

My favorite September was in 2011. I was 23 years old working as a second-year teacher in the same school that I currently teach. I had a terrible day and was really burnt out and just wanted to go home. My friend and I went to my favorite Mexican restaurant after school and one margarita later, we ran into another friend who made me forget everything about my terrible, horrible, no good, very bad day. It was decided that we were going to go out that evening with a guy that my teaching partner was dating at a bar on the east side of Indianapolis. Spoiler alert: she ended up marrying and having two kids with the guy, but that's a few years down the road from this story.

Several hours later, we rolled up to a local east side dive bar. I was not an eastsider, so to me it was just a neighborhood dive bar that seemed to have a lot of regulars in an area I was not familiar with. My friend's boyfriend had mentioned that he had a friend who was single. After we arrived at the bar, he sent his friend a text message saying I was also there.

What do Cookie Monster and acrylic paint have to do with science class?

For some seventh graders at Noblesville West Middle School these subjects go hand-in-hand thanks to teacher Emily Crapnell's unique approach to science learning.

Crapnell is one of only 20 educators in the state chosen to participate in a prestigious new program through the Indiana Arts Commission and the Indiana Department of Education that brings art into traditional classrooms.

Sheridan teacher awarded global opportunity

By ZOSHA ROBERSON
For The Reporter

English teacher Abby Williams is known at Sheridan High School as a learner and innovator with an adventurous spirit. These qualities led her to apply for and be selected for an opportunity to travel to South America.

Williams was recently named as a 2024 NEA Foundation Global Learning Fellow. The title comes with a year of study focused on becoming a more globally-minded educator, along with a field experience in Costa Rica next summer. She was one of 48 educators from 36 states chosen.

NEA Foundation is a nonprofit organization that strives to improve public education by advocating for policy change and providing opportunities to teachers.

Sheridan High School teacher Abby Williams' sense of adventure and quest to learn helped her earn the NEA Foundation Global Learning Fellowship, which will allow her to travel to Costa Rica next summer. Here she is on a previous adventure to Malta.

Williams explained that she was drawn to apply for the fellowship because she wants to directly apply what she learns to the classroom. "I am honored and excited for this opportunity to enhance my global competency in an effort to help my students succeed," Williams said.

Williams will meet the cohort and begin the year of learning by attending the NEA Foundation Global Learning Fellowship Fall Conference on Oct. 14 and 15 in Washington, D.C. Then she will begin the program's online coursework, webinars, and various readings that will help her become more globally aware and bring that global perspective into her classroom. The culmination of the course will occur next summer when the cohort travels to Costa Rica for 10 days to learn about the country's public policies, education system, and history. While there she will also collaborate and learn with educators in the cohort from across the country.

Next school year, Williams will be able to bring her stories, experiences, and knowledge to her students. Superintendent Dave Mundy praised Williams' commitment to learning.

"We are grateful for Abby always stepping up to learn and continue to make herself and our district better," Mundy said. "She is an integral part of all our SCS successes. In addition to her outstanding teaching, this is another example of how she models lifelong learning for her students."

Being someone who drinks red wine, I was a bit surprised when I went to order a glass and they only had mini bottles in little four-packs – if that gives the reader any idea of the amount of wine sold at this establishment. The wine glass looked like it might have not been used once the entire calendar year. It was more of a darts and beer sort of place and not a wine bar with charcuterie offerings. I had on a casual black dress and a green cardigan sweater.

I don't remember seeing Tim walk into the bar, but I remember looking up and he was standing and talking to my friend's boyfriend. I remember making eye contact with him and wondering when we were going to be formally introduced because I wanted to talk to him. He had on a gray Colts quarter-zip sweatshirt and jeans with an IU baseball cap. I was immediately taken by him.

When we finally talked, he asked me what I was drinking so he could order me one. I think he must have gotten a kick out of this northside girl coming to a bar that he not only had been going to for many years, but also where he was at one point a bartender, so he knew that red wine was not exactly a weekly special at this place. We talked all night, and as I was about to leave, he asked if he could have my number.

The next weekend, he came to pick me up at my mom's house. Normally, I would have suggested that we meet at the place we were going just in case he was Jeffrey Dahmer, but I just knew that he wasn't. Plus I had people who had known him since he was a kid and could verify he had not murdered anyone. I still remember glancing over at him on the drive into Broad Ripple and noticing his lip was sweating. I thought it was so cute that he was actually nervous to be around me. I loved it when he smiled.

He picked me up and took me to Mama Corolla's, the best Italian restaurant in Indianapolis. I think after making the trek down to the east side, he knew he wanted to take me somewhere nicer than the place we met.

We had the loveliest dinner and talked all night. I think I just kind of knew that it was going to work out with him because when you know, you know.

We had about a 45-minute wait for our table, which I was excited about because it was just more time we could talk. He asked me what I wanted to drink, and I told him to order me a glass of house merlot. We took our wine out to the front courtyard area and sat in chairs for our table getting to know each other. We took up our table way too long and talked the entire night. On the stroll back to the car, he mentioned wanting to go out again. I was so excited because I figured he must've had as good of a time as I had if he was thinking about seeing me again. The night ended with a kiss and the rest is really history for the two of us.

The following September 16, he took me to various spots from our first year of dating and gave me a purple rose at each location. It ended on the canal in downtown Indianapolis where he proposed to me.

This September marks 12 years since we met.

I remember when I was little hearing my parents talk about a scene in The Godfather where it is described as a lightning strike when one meets their soulmate. When you know you've found yours, it's undeniable. I don't know when exactly the lightning struck. It could have been that night we met at the bar, the car ride to dinner, or maybe even when we were sitting out on the chairs talking before our first date, but it struck and I'm more in love with him every single day.

Cheerleaders of all ages took part in this year’s parade. From the looks of these photos, the entire town of Sheridan came out into the streets to join them!

The time-honored tradition of tug-of-war brought many students out to see who could work together best to tug their opponents into oblivion.

Dozens of students took part in the popular Powderpuff Football competition, which, of course, always requires a good amount of strategy to secure victory.

Last Saturday, Sheridan football fans packed the stands for the 100th Homecoming to support their Blackhawks, who went on to defeat Clinton Prairie 44-34.

Sheridan students chose Emma Alexander and Erich Retz as their new Queen & King for the 100th Homecoming. To enhance the halftime crowning ceremony, fireworks exploded in the skies.

IMPD mistake causes Noblesville police to pull over and handcuff wrong woman

By ADAM PINSKER
WISH-TV | wishtv.com

The Noblesville Police Department (NPD) says a mistake in a national crime data reporting system caused officers to pull over the wrong vehicle.

It happened Sept. 12 after Noblesville Police picked up a "be on lookout" (BOLO) for a stolen vehicle out of Indianapolis. Officers stopped a vehicle matching the description near Campus Parkway and Interstate 69.

A woman and her child were taken out of the car, and the woman was placed in handcuffs.

"During that conversation after we controlled the scene, stopped everything that was going on – it was during that discussion, we realized the information that was put into the computer must have been wrong because we had the rightful owner of that vehicle with us," NPD Lt. Bruce Barnes said.

When a police agency, in this case, the Indianapolis Metropolitan Police Department, reports a vehicle stolen, it's the reporting agency's responsibility to enter the information into the National Crime Information Center's database where police agencies across the country can see it.

However, the wrong information was put in the system.

"We discovered that the driver of the vehicle that we had stopped, her name was Amber, and her last name was the same last name of the person who had reported her vehicle stolen to IMPD," Barnes said. "The only difference is the Ambra with the same last name lived in Indianapolis."

NPD contacted the owner of the car before making the stop and the owner told them the vehicle had not been recovered.

Noblesville officers had no idea the car they were pulling over wasn't stolen until after they pulled the driver out. Barnes defends how his agency approached the situation.

"A stolen vehicle by its nature is a very high-risk stop for us," Barnes said. "Now you put into that scenario that there is a stolen gun."

News 8 contacted IMPD for comment on this story, but a spokesperson Friday told News 8 no one was available to speak on camera.

Would you like to be an organ donor?

Dear Editor:

Do you have a heart on your driver's license?

Then you're among 4.3 million Hoosiers registered to be organ donors – 99 percent of you made your decision while conducting a transaction with the Indiana Bureau of Motor Vehicles (BMV).

September is National Bureau of Motor Vehicles Appreciation Month, when Donate Life Indiana celebrates its longstanding relationship with the Indiana BMV and everything

BMV employees do to save Hoosier lives by asking one simple question, "Would you like to be an organ donor?"

This question, asked of thousands of Hoosiers every day, adds up to nearly 1.5 million transactions each year. For eight straight years, Indiana's donor registry has grown and the Indiana BMV has helped drive that growth through its commitment to our mission. We are incredibly thankful for our longstanding relationship with the Indiana BMV. All Hoosiers should be, too.

More than 105,000 Americans are waiting for a lifesaving organ transplant, including more than 1,200 Hoosiers. Tragically, 17 people in the U.S. die each day waiting. More registered donors are needed to end the wait. If you're not registered to be an organ donor, please consider saying "yes" the next time you're doing business with the BMV.

Sen. Braun endorses Trump for president

Submitted

On Monday, U.S. Senator Mike Braun endorsed Donald J. Trump for President in 2024.

“As a Main Street Entrepreneur and political outsider, I’ve seen firsthand how the Washington swamp works against Hoosiers and works overtime to hamper our prosperity,” Braun said. “Donald Trump is a businessman and outsider. Together we took on the Washington swamp with a historic victory in the 2018 Indiana Senate race. We installed constitutional conservatives on the Supreme Court who have protected the unborn and our Second Amendment rights, and we disrupted the cozy, self-serving Washington elites who are bankrupting our country. Donald Trump is the candidate capable of returning us to the America First policies that delivered unmatched prosperity and security for the American people. I give Donald Trump my endorsement for President of the United States.”

Play explores one of the most dangerous minds in philosophy

By DANIEL SHOCK
A Seat on the Aisle

I have never taken a philosophy class. I am not an expert on Nietzsche. It must be said, I won’t become one before I have to finish this review.
What I know about Nietzsche has been absorbed from popular culture. My first memory of anything Nietzschean came while reading the back of the 2001: A Space Odyssey soundtrack album, where I saw a piece called “Also Sprach Zarathustra” by Richard Strauss. That title was a mystery to me for years until I read about the making of that movie and Nietzsche’s name was attached to it. Strauss was inspired by and titled it after one of Nietzsche’s books by the same name. Later, I heard the name associated with the “death” of God and Nazism. Later still, I came to hear how he was misunderstood.
None of this really inspired me to look deeper into the man and his ideas. I am therefore grateful that the same can’t be said of writer Marcia Eppich-Harris. She has turned her own spiritual crisis into a thoughtful and examination of this philosopher, his ideas and his life into a wonderful play that held my attention, surprised me, and made me curious to know more about the man.
Seeking Nietzsche is not told in a linear fashion. The story jumps back and forth in time; this is not a problem for our comprehension. As the playwright mentions in her program notes, the “chaotic chronology makes sense in Nietzschean terms.” She refers to Nietzsche’s idea of “eternal recurrence,” freeing her from the conventional limitations of drama. The play manages to successfully give us a look at Friedrich Nietzsche’s life, death, and relationships. Ms. Eppich-Harris also notes that some liberties with historical facts were taken to create a cohesive theatrical experience. The hope of the author is to give us a look at Nietzsche the human being.

The set, designed by Aric Harris, is well done and sets the scene of a prolific, artistic, and chaotic mind. The centerpiece table piled with papers and books. The backdrop of drawings and writings hung on wire like laundry drying in the breeze. The direction and blocking by director Evren Wilder Elliott effectively uses the space to convey different locations and settings with just the performances of the actors. It looks deceptively simple. Lighting design by Evalyn Peacey complements this, guiding us both geographically and psychologically. The technical aspects of the show really served the story well.

The small cast consists of four actors, Lukas Schooler, Amalia Howard, Trick Blanchfield, and James Mannan. As Friedrich Nietzsche, Schooler is excellent as he portrays an intelligent and passionate thinker and artist. Howard makes a wonderful villain as Elisabeth Forestre-Nietzsche, Friedrich’s sister. Friedrich’s friend, Lou Salomé, is brought to life with charm and humor by Blanchfield. And finally, Mannan is given three characters to play. He plays composer Richard Wagner, who was friend to Friedrich Nietzsche for a time, he plays Friedrich’s doctor, and finally he plays Adolf Hitler. All the actors are well-cast and bring the mind of Friedrich Nietzsche to life.
I love plays and movies that have ideas or something to say. This is such a play. I was never bored in all its 90 minutes. I will say that sometimes I found my mind wandering briefly as I considered ideas that were coming at me. But that is not a criticism, it is a joy to be engaged intellectually in a performance. If you have a curious mind and like to consider what it means to be human in this world, you will find much to appreciate. As for myself, I know I will spend the next few weeks reading about Nietzsche, his life, and his ideas.

Please be advised that this play contains depiction of mental health problems, antisemitism, and anti-Christianity.
Seeking Nietzsche, produced by the Southbank Theatre Company, is currently running at The Shelton Auditorium, located at 1000 W. 42nd St., Indianapolis. Click here for tickets. The upcoming performances are scheduled as follows:
• Thursday, Sept. 21 at 7:30 p.m.
• Friday, Sept. 22 at 7:30 p.m.

Carmel invites you to join in celebrating city’s roundabouts

The REPORTER
The City of Carmel is once again joining the annual celebration of National Roundabouts Week, September 18 to 22, in conjunction with the Federal Highway Administration. This week is set aside each year to help promote safety through the use of roundabouts and to educate the public on their many benefits.
“Roundabouts in Carmel have saved dozens of lives by reducing the fatality rate to one-sixth that of the US average,” Mayor Jim Brainard said. “Roundabouts have also saved our taxpayers tremendous amounts of money because roundabouts move 50 percent more cars per hour, reducing the need to add additional lanes, at the cost of millions, to get more cars through the green cycle of a traffic signal. Roundabouts are also better for the environment and residents with lung diseases because cars are not sitting and idling at stoplights spewing fumes and wasting fuel.”

Carmel currently has 148 roundabouts with more planned in the coming years. The city of about 103,000 residents – and another 55,000 daily commuters coming here – is down to just eight remaining traffic lights.

This year, the tradition continued by kicking off Roundabouts Week with Bike Carmel’s annual Roundabout Bike Ride sponsored by IU Health North. The ride took place last Saturday with 25-mile and 50-mile routes.
The fun continued this evening at 7 p.m. with more trivia and free giveaways at the Gazebo Concert on the lawn of City Hall.
On Friday, show your Carmel pride by wearing your roundabout shirt.

AG Rokita responds to complaint against him filed by Indiana Supreme Court Disciplinary Commission

Submitted

Editor's note: On Monday, the Indiana Supreme Court Disciplinary Commission filed a complaint against Indiana Attorney General Todd Rokita, claiming three counts of professional misconduct regarding his handling of the case of Dr. Caitlin Bernard – the doctor who performed an abortion last year for the 10-year-old rape victim from Ohio. The case drew national attention after Dr. Bernard shared the story with The Indianapolis Star. The complaint seeks disciplinary action against Rokita as well as an order forcing him to pay the costs of the investigation. A hearing date on the complaint has not been set.

Rokita's statement now follows.

"Hoosiers, in the largest number on record, elected me Attorney General because they knew they were getting a passionate fighter who – like them – is beating back the culture of death, grievance and transanity being pushed by radicals in workplaces, schools, media and government.

"This work certainly includes vindicating vulnerable children (our most precious gift) for having their privacy rights unlawfully violated – without consent – by healthcare providers to further their political agenda and their 'bottom line.' I won't stop in this and my other work.

"These same radicals have fostered an environment that 'cancels' non-compliant citizens through intimidation as well as tactics that can weaponize our respected institutions. So, I have already filed a response to the complaint made today that stemmed from grievances that mainly referenced media reports. It is public record, and I am attaching it here, with some highlights below. My response includes information unreported by the media ... Beyond that, I remain responsible for everything my office and I do and say. And like everything, I see this situation as an opportunity to learn and improve for the next time.

"I am seeking re-election, and in the meantime, I will keep working for the people of Indiana, like protecting our 2nd Amendment, publishing the Parents' Bill of Rights, enforcing the rule of law, handling more than 1,000 appeals cases filed by criminals each year and securing nearly $1 billion for Hoosier taxpayers.

"We will continue defending Indiana's laws and ensure that licensed medical professionals and other healthcare providers are held accountable when they violate their patients' privacy and fail to obtain consent."

Highlights from AG Rokita's response to the disciplinary commission

1. No confidentiality should be required where Dr. Bernard:

a) violated her duties of confidentiality by disclosing her patient's condition and treatment to the press at a political function, and

b) further breached her duty of confidentiality by publicly discussing patient information, including in an MSNBC interview on July 6, 2023.

2. Public statements and letters about seeking certain versions of Termination of Pregnancy Reports (TPRs) did not concern anything confidential under the statute referenced in the Commission's Complaint because the version of TPRs sought:

- were not confidential,
- should have been made public already by agencies under the control of another elected official, and
- were not yet part of a licensing investigation.

3. Attorney General Rokita's statements about "fight[ing] this to the end" and not "letting it go," referred to getting to the bottom of a high-profile situation known world-wide, which was quickly evolving – literally by the hour at the time – and where many members of the public already condemned any review of the matter. Attorney

General Rokita's statements reflect his commitment to fulfill official duties regardless of political sensitivity and to keep the public informed. The comments were consistent with his duties as an elected official, who answers to the public. He kept that promise.

4. Dr. Bernard's violations of the child's privacy also triggered a non-confidential HIPAA investigation. The Attorney General's statements (outlined in the Commission's Complaint) addressed this non-confidential HIPAA investigation;

5. The confidentiality statute referenced in the Commission's Complaint only prohibits discussion of "complaints and information pertaining to the complaints," which Attorney General Rokita did not discuss;

6. The Attorney General, as an elected official who answers to the public, has a duty to keep the public informed of the Office's actions and decisions. It is unclear if the confidentiality statute referenced in the Commission's Complaint applies to the elected Attorney General himself, since that statute is specifically limited in scope to employees of the Attorney General's Office, who are not elected to their positions.

7. The Attorney General has a legal duty to keep the public informed about non-confidential matters.

8. The Attorney General ultimately answers to the public, which is fundamental to democracy.

9. The Attorney General is not responsible for the interest generated in the Bernard matter and any judicial burden that ensued. Dr. Bernard's public disclosure of her patient's private medical information at a political function was the primary cause of the public interest. Public interest in administrative and judicial processes is not prejudicial to the administration of justice. In fact, transparency of the judicial process is one of the hallmarks of the Rule of Law, as shown by the recent Appeals on Wheels in the Fieldhouse – a few blocks from the offices of the Disciplinary Commission and Supreme Court.

10. Attorney General Rokita at all times has cooperated with the Indiana Disciplinary Commission and continues to seek the proper administration of justice ...

11. The abortion doctor described in the Commission's complaint was found by the Indiana Medical Licensing Board to have unlawfully violated her patient's privacy by making widely published statements about her patient's private medical information at a political function. She was also fined the maximum amount by that board.

Hoosiers urged to help #STOPTrackTragedies during Rail Safety Week

The REPORTER

Every year, 2,100 North Americans are killed or seriously injured when they engage in unsafe behavior around tracks and trains. Indiana Operation Lifesaver is joining Operation Lifesaver Inc. (OLI), Operation Lifesaver Canada and the Mexican Association of Railroads (AMF) Sept. 18 to 24 to observe Rail Safety Week in North America and urging the public to help #STOPTrackTragedies. Governor Eric Holcomb signed a proclamation declaring the observance of Rail Safety Week in Indiana as well. “Across the United States and throughout Indiana, Operation Lifesaver will share rail safety messages each day during Rail Safety Week underscoring our core mission – to save lives,” OLI Executive Director Jessica Feder said. “We are grateful to our safety partners at INDOT, railroads, and in the first responder community as well as the many other organizations who share the rail safety message this week, but more importantly each and every day.” Feder continued, “Rail Safety Week activities in Indiana will emphasize community education events along enforcement blitzes, and social media to share our lifesaving messages. We are kicking off the week today with state and local Rail Safety Week proclamations. Through rail safety education during Rail Safety Week and every day, we are showing Indiana residents how to make safe choices around trains and tracks.” In Indiana each year, we average approximately 120 railroad crossing collisions with multiple injuries and deaths. Rail related trespasser injuries and fatalities are also on the rise throughout the state. Operation Lifesaver works to prevent these needless incidents from happening. About Indiana Operation Lifesaver Indiana Operation Lifesaver is a nonprofit public safety education and awareness organization dedicated to reducing collisions, fatalities and injuries at highway-rail crossings and preventing trespassing on or near railroad tracks. A network of trained volunteers give free presentations on rail safety and a public awareness campaign, “See Tracks? Think Train!” provides tips and statistics to encourage safe behavior near the tracks.

Staying safe when driving near farm equipment this harvest

The REPORTER

Harvest season is officially underway for Indiana’s 94,000 farmers, which means more slow-moving farm equipment will be on Indiana’s rural roads and highways. To keep Hoosiers safe this year, state agencies are asking motorists to be alert and patient as they share the road with farm equipment this fall. “At least once each fall as I am traveling through rural Indiana, I find myself behind or crossing paths with large agricultural equipment,” said Lt. Gov. Suzanne Crouch, Indiana’s Secretary of Agriculture and Rural Development. “It is important to remain alert this fall and keep an eye out for these slow-moving farm vehicles, and if the opportunity allows, to safely navigate around them.” In 2020, three vehicles were involved in crashes with farm equipment in Indiana which resulted in two deaths, according to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration. “The fall harvest season is certainly an exciting and busy time for farmers and motorists,” said Don Lamb, director of the Indiana State Department of Agriculture. “By working together to practice alert driving, we can all make it home safely to our families each night.” Farm equipment during harvest season could include tractors, combines, grain carts, grain wagons and large trucks hauling agricultural products. These vehicles are wide, sometimes taking up most of the road, and often travel at speeds no greater than 25 mph. The following list includes several safety tips for motorists approaching large farm equipment:

- Farmers will pull over when they are able to let motorists pass, but it may take time for them to get to a safe place to do so.
- Be alert. Farm equipment is wide, sometimes taking up most of the road.
- Be careful when passing. Do not pass in a designated “No Passing Zone” or within 100 feet of any intersection, railroad grade crossing, bridge, elevation structure or tunnel.
- Do not try to pass a slow-moving vehicle on the left without ensuring that the vehicle is not planning a left turn. It may appear that the driver is pulling over for you to pass when it is actually preparing to turn. You will drive right into its path, endangering yourself and the farmer.

- Avoid tailgating, as some farm equipment might have to make sudden stops along the road.
- Allow plenty of time to get to a destination, be aware of alternate routes and avoid distractions.

“When you see farmers out working and moving from field to field, please be patient as they work to harvest their crops which are needed to help feed our communities and the world,” said Doug Carter, Indiana State Police Superintendent. “Let’s all work together to help ensure everyone’s safety on our roadways.”

Garry Dale Streeval June 14, 1948 – September 15, 2023

“According to the grace of God which is given unto me, as a wise masterbuilder, I have laid the foundation, and another buildeth thereon. But let every man take heed how he buildeth thereupon.” 1 Corinthians 3:10

75 years ago on June 14, 1948, a priceless treasure named Garry Dale Streeval was revealed in the small town of Franklin, Ind.

He was one of seven children in eight years born to Helen Streeval. His surviving siblings are Allen Streeval, Tim (Cheryl) Streeval, Joe (Cheryl) Streeval, Mary Kay (Myron) Rawlings, and Rebecca Hargreaves. He was preceded in death by his brother, Michael Streeval, and beloved mother, Helen Allman Streeval.

The special qualities of leadership and the imprint of the Hand of God were vividly apparent to all who encountered him. Upon meeting the emerging prodigy, one of his forthcoming mentors, the late Elder Robert Cavaness, remarked, “Keep your eye on Garry Streeval. He’s going to go far.” Indeed, the places he would go! However, he would not go alone, as he found the love of his life, the gorgeous and elegant Karen Davis, and married her on March 24, 1969.

Reverend and Mrs. Streeval, along with their beautiful three-year-old daughter, Beth, moved to Noblesville and founded Calvary Apostolic Church in the summer of 1975. His steady leadership and faithful service has blossomed into a flourishing congregation with its debt-free, multi-million-dollar campus located at 16400 Cumberland Road. While serving as pastor and traveling extensively across the United States as a highly sought after conference speaker, Reverend Streeval also managed the local Indiana Gas branch in Noblesville and concluded his career as a top echelon executive with the company.

He wore many hats in life as a successful leader – perhaps, most importantly, as the leader of his home. He once earned the Father of the Year award due to a biography article submitted by his daughter, Julie, as she aptly described how her dad “could do anything!”

His lovingly entitled “downline” includes his faithful wife Karen; three daughters, Beth and husband, Pastor Rusty Adkins of Molino, Fla., Julie and husband, Pastor Jon Hair of Moss Bluff, La., and Carissa and husband, Pastor Bryan Tanton, who are shepherding his founding work of Calvary Apostolic Church in Noblesville. Papa Streeval leaves nine grandchildren to cherish his memory: Brianna (Manny) Simone, Braedyn (Hannah) Adkins, Brienn Adkins, Julianna Hair, Bryanne (Clark) Copeland, Jace Hair, Britlyn Tanton, Breleigh Tanton, Brocktyn Adkins; and his first great-grandchild, Riley Adkins.

Friends and guests of the late Bishop Garry Streeval are invited to his viewing from 12:30 to 5:30 p.m. on Thursday, September 21 at Calvary Apostolic Church, 16400 Cumberland Road, Noblesville. A celebratory homegoing service will follow at 6:30 p.m. at White River Christian Church, 1685 N. 10th St., Noblesville. Committal service and burial will be held at noon on Friday, September 22 in the Crownland Cemetery, 1776 Monument St., Noblesville.

Memorial donations can be made to Calvary Apostolic Church of Noblesville.

TODAY'S BIBLE READING

SODOM AND GOMORRAH DESTROYED

The two angels arrived at Sodom in the evening, and Lot was sitting in the gateway of the city. When he saw them, he got up to meet them and bowed down with his face to the ground. "My lords," he said, "please turn aside to your servant's house. You can wash your feet and spend the night and then go on your way early in the morning."

"No," they answered, "we will spend the night in the square."

But he insisted so strongly that they did go with him and entered his house. He prepared a meal for them, baking bread without yeast, and they ate. Before they had gone to bed, all the men from every part of the city of Sodom—both young and old—surrounded the house. They called to Lot, "Where are the men who came to you tonight? Bring them out to us so that we can have sex with them."

Millers & ‘Hounds defend sectional titles

Hamilton Heights sends team to regional for first time ever

By RICHIE HALL
sports@readthereporter.com

There’s always something happening that will make the girls golf sectionals a grand occasion.

Noblesville and Carmel both defended sectional titles on Monday at their respective courses. The Greyhounds put together one of the lowest sectional scores in history, while Westfield’s Samantha Brown made it a three-peat for medalist honors.

But of the teams that celebrated accomplishments on Monday, no team was cheering louder than Hamilton Heights. For the first time in school history, the Huskies advanced a full team to the regional after placing third at the Noblesville sectional at Harbour Trees.

The Millers won their own sectional with a 319, with Hamilton Southeastern placing second with a 347. Heights finished third with a 402; the top three teams advance from the sectional to the regional. The Huskies have had individual golfers move on to regional over the past several years, including Syndi Zebrauskas, Ashlyn Tharp, and 2016 state qualifier Caitie Gehlhausen.

But this year, all five Heights players will compete at the regional as a team. Huskies coach Bryan Jones was telling people he had “no words” after his team advanced, but fortunately he was able to find some when he spoke to the Reporter.

“The biggest thing that I told them is just not to quit,” said Jones. He noted that when Heights had played at Harbour Trees at the beginning of the season for the county meet, the team carded a 459. That’s an improvement of 57 strokes over the season.

“Golf is the most frustrating sport ever, but it’s an amazing sport because you get rewarding moments like this,” said Jones.

Even more remarkable is that the Huskies’ two seniors, Camryn Runner and Hadleigh Cherry, had just started playing golf this summer.

“And then I have three freshmen that just keep working and keep grinding and keep getting better,” said Jones. “And they’re all competitors.”

Presley Cherry led Heights with a 90, while Taylor Morrison scored a 92.

“I’m just so proud of them,” said Jones of his team. “They never gave up. That was the thing I said to them. It’s like, ‘If you give up, you can’t win.’ They just kept grinding.”

The Millers never give up when it comes to golf, and they got rewarded with their 19th sectional title in program history. It was also the first time Noblesville had won back-to-back trophies since 2011 and 2012.

“It was a tough day,” said Millers coach Justin Werkley. “The golf course played really hard. It was just a grind-it-out type of day. I don’t think they were thrilled with how they played overall, but at the end of the day they played pretty well considering the conditions. And obviously, the goal is to get to the regional, so we’re excited to play on Saturday.”

Playoff win

A Noblesville golfer also won medalist honors for the second consecutive year. Senior Jordan Adam scored a 75, placing her in a tie with Hamilton Southeastern’s Ella Bui. Adam won a playoff on the first hole to claim first place, following in the footsteps of now-graduated Caroline Whallon, last year’s medalist.

The playoff took place on the 18th hole, a lovely but intimidating Par 3 where golfers must hit their tee shots over a large water hazard right on to the green – there’s not much fairway separating the water from the green.

But Adam has played that hole several times before, and she said her key to success was “going back to my target and picking my spot and then just believing in myself and going for it.”

Adam made three birdies in her Monday round, with Josie Kelley and Olivia Fowler both making one. Fowler tied for third individually with a 79, while Olivia Anderson was fifth with an 82. Kelley tied for sixth with an 83.

Southeastern scored a 347 to advance to the regional. Bui also scored 75, while Janelle Garcia tied for sixth by scoring an 83. Both made one birdie, with Sophie Roberts also draining one birdie.

“It was tough out there today,” said Royals coach Steve Guenin. “Tough course, it was long, the roughs were tough. It was a tough test for sure.”

But Southeastern advanced, and will join Noblesville and Heights at Edgewood on Saturday, the site of the Lapel regional.

“We did advance, so we’re excited about getting ready to go again next week,” said Guenin.

Fishers placed fourth at the sectional with a 409. Sophia Rush led the Tigers with a 99.

Other Noblesville scores: Olivia Fowler 41-38=79, Olivia Anderson 42-40=82, Josie Kelley 44-39=83, Karis Shields 46-47=93.

Over at Pebble Brook, the site of the Guerin Catholic sectional, the history made there was about numbers – low numbers.

Carmel won its second championship in a row, and 14th in program history, by carding a 286. Not only is that the Greyhounds’ same score from last year, it also is one of the lowest sectional scores in IHSAA history. The 286 ranks tied for fourth on the all-time list; in addition to the two Greyhounds efforts, Westfield totaled a 286 at South Grove in 2019.

Carmel’s first three golfers all placed in the top five individually. Claire Swathwood scored a two under par 68 for runner-up honors, making her one of only 39 golfers to card a 68 in a sectional. Michaela Headlee finished with a one under 69 to take third.

“Both of them are just being great senior leaders for this team,” said Greyhounds coach Kelly Kluesner. “They’re fun to watch. And then you’ve "To be fair, it was one of our better performances of the year," said Trailblazers coach Alex Baumgart. University graduated several seniors from last season.

"At the end of the day, it was a good showing on our part, we just need to be a little more clinical in our fin-

Mock's 72 placed her fifth. Swathwood totaled five birdies, in her round, while Kamryn Williams made three birdies on her way to a 77. Headlee drained two birdies and Mock had one.

"It means a lot, especially because this is our last year together," said Williams, another senior leader for Carmel. "And we've already accomplished so much together as a team."

"It was a good day for everyone," said Kluesner. "This is just a step in the process for us and it was good to see everybody having fun out there and just playing the course."

Westfield scored an impressive 291 and had the meet medalist for the third consecutive year. Samantha Brown totaled a three under par 67, becoming the 21st player to achieve a 67 or better in a sectional.

"I think I played well on the back," said Brown. "I held it together. The front was a little bit shaky, but we got through it, I would say."

Brown scored a 30 on the back nine, where she made four or five birdies. At one point, she made three birdies in a row.

Addi Kooi also had a tremendous back nine, finishing with a 32 on her way to a fourth-place score of 70. Kooi made three birdies in her round, all on the back nine. Kelsey Haverluck and Sam Lemieux both made two birdies, while Sami Havanan had one.

Guerin Catholic carded its best score of the season with a 317 to finish third and join the top two schools in advancing to Saturday's Lafayette Jefferson regional at Battle Ground.
